The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published by S. John's Guild, under the direction of the Rector.

As the Guild desires this paper to be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at fifty cents, to be paid in advance, to Mr. Chas. L. S. Tingley, 305 Walnut St., Room C.

Advertising rates, 50 cents per inch for each insertion. Special rates to yearly advertisers.

GREETING!

With the first month of a new year, the ASCENSION NEWS makes its first appearance and joins the great company of periodicals, which are issued daily, weekly, monthly from the press. In these days when the pen has become so much mightier than the sword, and in which the functions of the pulpit even have been largely superseded by the press, it is wise for the Church to make use of this new instrumentality to reach more persons than she can now reach from the pulpit, and more regularly, for you can always read at home, if you cannot always go to church, and more effectively, for you can understand the sense better of what you read than what you hear, and in order that she may speak on a greater variety and different character of subjects than she can speak of from the pulpit. For these reasons, there are a large number of parish papers now being published throughout our Church, and have been found most useful in disseminating information, keeping the people acquainted with what is going on in our parishes, and inciting them to do their duty.

We have long felt that such a paper would be of great benefit in our parish, but in the multiplicity of duties falling upon the Rector, he was not able to look after it, and there did not seem to be any one else to do the work. Now, however, the new warden of S. John's Guild, our assistant minister, the Rev. W. B. Thorn, has kindly consented to assume its editorship, and the Guild enters upon the enterprise with the full hope and confidence that it will be of great service to the parish.

We have taken the name of THE ASCENSION NEWS, because the purpose of the paper will be primarily to keep the parishioners and friends of the parish informed of all that is going on in it. A great many persons do not take part in church work, or assist it, simply because they do not know what is going on or what is needed, and it is difficult to acquaint them. Notices from the pulpit are not always correctly understood, and many do not stop to look at the notice board in the vestibule of the church, nor is it possible to explain things fully in either of these ways. But a paper issued monthly and placed in the hands of each one attending the Church, and which the parishioners can show to their friends too, will be just the medium for disseminating information that we need. Our first aim therefore, will be to supply all the news we can about the Church and its work, and its wants, and about everything that is going on in connection with it. We shall also use our columns for the purpose of explaining anything about the Church or its services, which seems to require explanation and for giving instructions in regard to Church doctrines or practices.

Such being our plan and aim, we ask the patronage of every person connected with, or interested in the Ascension Parish. We hope to secure a sufficient number of subscribers to pay the cost of printing, so that the paper can be gratuitously distributed, thus extending its influence as far as possible. We feel that the Church of the Ascension stands now in a position in which if its buildings can be completed, its debt removed, and a partial endowment at least be provided,—for we believe that all churches, especially free churches, should have some endowment,—a work can be accomplished scarcely second, in its extent and usefulness, to that of any other church in this city. To getting our Church thus equipped and helping her to do this work, we propose to devote our energies, and every one who subscribes to, or even reads our paper, will be helping us.

PARISH NOTES.

A LITTLE GIRL belonging to S. Peter's parish, but much interested in this Church, which she thinks is, "the prettiest in the city," had a sale this autumn, in her aunt's parlor, of things made entirely by herself, and a few friends, and realized the sum of $34.07, which she has given towards the building fund, because she says she "wants to see the boards at the end of the church knocked down" and the chancel built. If all our own people took the same interest, might it not soon be done?

CARVING THE CAPITALS.—In the last month we have had four of the capitals of the columns in the Church carved, which has added very much to the beauty of its interior. We need only $25 more to secure the carving of the two remaining ones. Would any one like to give it? If it is not done now, it will cost more than double that sum to do it in the future.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—The glass for the remaining aisle window, and also for the light over the small door, has been ordered from England. This leaves only the clerestory windows to be filled with handsome glass. Designs for these can be seen in the vestry room. They consist of single figures of saints. They will cost about $50 each.

A BIER.—Our Church is now pretty well provided with necessary articles of furniture for the present. But we still need a bier. We have nothing on which to place the body when it is brought to the Church for the performance of the last solemn rites.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS.—Some of our young men have made this year, a temporary wooden screen covered with greens, placed in front of the choir. It forms a very pretty feature in our decorations. Perhaps some day, when the chancel is built, we may have a permanent handsome metalic screen. It could be made very beautiful, and is useful in making a separation between the chancel and the body of the Church, and protecting the former from danger of desecration in a church which is left always open. I. is very effective also in elevating the Cross so prominently before the people's eyes, and teaching them that they cannot approach the Altar of God without being willing to pass under it. From this purpose it is called "rood screen," rood meaning in old English the rod or cross on which Our Lord was hung.

THE TEN CENT COLLECTION PLAN.—What is known as the A. B. C. collection scheme was started in the parish some weeks ago, for the purpose of raising money for the payment of the mortgage on the property, and for building the chancel. Some money has been received from it, but not very much as yet. Many do not seem to understand it, and others find difficulty in getting those who will undertake to ask others to take the papers. In this case it will be better not to regard the bundles of papers, but break them and endeavor to give out as many F. papers as possible. Each person who takes an F. paper simply promises to give ten cents himself and to ask ten people for ten cents, or if he gives or collects in any way $1.10, it will be the same thing. If all the F. papers could be worked off in this way, the whole scheme would be accomplished, for all the other papers are only worth 10 cents each, and could easily be disposed of. Let every one who has the papers try to give out all the F.'s he can.

ORDERS FOR EMBROIDERY.—The embroidery class of the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild will be glad to take orders for stoles, altar cloths, vestments or any kind of church needlework. They have one or two stoles now on hand for sale. Perhaps there are those in the parish who would like to buy such things as presents to clergymen or churches, or they may mention it to their friends who might be wanting them.

The class would be glad to embroider for the Church one or two handsome banners which we need, if some one would donate the material. Perhaps some have handsome pieces of silk that would answer.

HAND IN YOUR NAMES.—It would be a great satisfaction to the Rector if the persons attending the Church regularly, but who are not known to any of the clergy, would give in their names and addresses. A clergyman is naturally anxious to know personally those who attend his church, and it will be an advantage to the persons themselves to be so known. It is impossible to have the same feeling for interest in a church you merely attend, as you would in one to which you regularly belong. Give your name to the Rector if he does not know you.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the interior of the Church can be had in the vestry. They are 25 cents each.

CHRISTMAS.—We had a beautiful day for our Christmas Festival this year. The Church looked very well as dressed by the members of S. John's Guild. And we had good congregations, good music, and good offertories.

There were 66 communicants at 7.30 A. M., 19 at 8.30 A. M., and 76 at 11 A. M., making in all 161. Last year there were only 109 communicants at Christmas. This year the offerings were $635.78 last year $432.39 This shows decided progress.

Still the clergy looked in vain for many faces of parishioners who ought to have presented themselves at the altar on Christmas day, which did not appear. All ought to remember that whether they communicate at other times or not, communion at the great Festivals is obligatory.

CHOIR IMPROVEMENT FUND.—Some weeks ago there was started among the members of the choir, a fund known as the "Choir Improvement Fund." Its object was to fit up the choir room with some degree of convenience and comfort; and afterward purchase new Hymnals and other music, as needed.

In order to start the fund in a methodical way, cards were printed, each containing ten dots, one dot to be punctured for every cent received. About two hundred cards were distributed; nearly all have been returned, and in consequence nearly twenty dollars have been raised for the fund.

This method, however, does not reach a large number of persons who may desire to contribute to this fund but who have no opportunity presented to them. In order, therefore, that every one may contribute to the Choir Fund, it is asked that every one in the congregation will determine to give a certain fixed amount every week, whether it be one cent or ten cents, and place it in the proper box in the vestibule. The main point is to make the contribution regularly, no matter how small it may be.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.--Some weeks ago there was formed in this parish a chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew. Its object cannot be better told than in the first article of the Constitution:

"The sole object of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew is the spread of Christ's kingdom among young men, and, to this end, every man desiring to become a member thereof must pledge himself to obey the rules of the Brotherhood so long as he shall be a member. These rules are two: The Rule of Prayer, and the Rule of Service. The Rule of Prayer is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's kingdom among young men, and for God's blessing upon the labors of the Brotherhood. The Rule of Service is to make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one young man within hearing of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, as set forth in the services of the Church and in Young Men's Bible Classes."

All the young men of the parish are most earnestly asked to join this Brotherhood, and thus help on the work in God's Kingdom on earth. The meetings are announced on the first page.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

On Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 21 and 22, there was held in the Parish Building a Kaffee Klatsche and Sale. The room was tastefully decorated, and the bright costumes of the young lady aids added much to the attractiveness of the scene. Supper was served and each guest was presented with a cup and saucer as a souvenir of the occasion. An entertainment was also given on Monday evening, and was well received. Altogether the Klatsche was a grand success, $180.02 being realized and given towards the payment of the church debt, in addition to purchasing a quantity of china and kitchen utensels, to be kept permanently for use on such occasions, and building a closet to contain them.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, S. John's Guild gave its first public entertainment. The programme was lengthy, and consisted of vocal and instrumental solos and duets, recitations, and feats of legerdemain, and concluding with the enjoyable operetta, "The Seven Old Ladies of Lavender Town."

The success of the entertainment was due in great measure to the untiring efforts of Mr. Wm. McAuley, to the talent he secured, and to the ladies of S. Mary's Guild who so kindly volunteered their services.

On Monday evening, Dec. 26, S. John's Guild sat down to its annual supper. Delegations were present from S. Mark's Church, and from S. John's and S. Barnabas' Churches, Camden. Making in all, with the members of our own Guild, 56 young men and boys. An impromptu programme proved very successful; addresses were made by the Rector and by members of the visiting guilds; and the pleasant evening closed with a merry game in which all participated.

Tuesday evening, Dec. 27, was the monthly recreation night of S. Mary's Guild. The members of the guild and as many as would pay a small admission fee, were entertained by Mr. B. F. Duane, with his "Ninety Minutes in Kweer Kompany."

The audience was thoroughly appreciative. It was however small, and this was regretted by the guild, not only on account of the enjoyment missed by those who were absent, but also because they had hoped, after paying expenses, to have left a sum that would form the nucleus of a coal fund for the poor. This object was stated on the tickets.

On Holy Innocent's evening, the Sunday School met in the Parish Building, and with their banners marched into the Church, singing a glad Christmas hymn. After a short service, carols by both the main school and the infant classes, and a ringing Christmas address by the Rector, they returned to the Parish Building for their treat. Here they found a tree prettily trimmed and lighted by many tapers. Mr. McAuley read "T'was the Night before Christmas," and a member of the infant school recited a short poem. Then came a sad piece of news, announced by telegraph to the Rector, Kriss Kringle was on his way but had broken down. However shortly after another telegram stated that he had mended his sleigh and would be present. This was hailed with cheers, which were renewed when Kriss himself walked in and bowed to the merry audience. He brought with him a large bundle of toys for the little ones. Then each scholar received a box of mixtures, a piece of cake and an orange. And the happy evening was brought to a close by the school singing another carol.

An unusually large number of parents and other members of the congregation were present and seemed to enjoy themselves as much as the little ones.

The music was good, and Mr. Remont is to be congratulated on his success in training the school.

Sunday School Honor Roll.

Under this head, we shall publish each month, the names of such Sunday School scholars as deserve special mention and commendation for their regular attendance upon the sessions of the School and Litany Service, their good deportment and uniform attention to their lessons. Such a roll, we think will serve a twofold purpose ; it will act as an additional incentive to the children to do their duty, and it will incite parents to pay some little regard to the religious training of their children.

Letters of Transfer.

It seems strange that persons removing to or from a parish should neglect to bring or take letters of transfer. In ordinary business transactions, letters of recommendation are highly valued, and so it should be with regard to letters of transfer. Moreover, the law of the Church is plain: "A communicant removing from one parish to another shall procure from the Rector (if any) of the parish of his last residence, or, if there be no Rector, from one of the Wardens, a certificate stating that he or she is a communicant in good standing ; and the Rector of the parish or congregation to which he or she removes shall not be required to receive him or her as a communicant until such letter be produced."—TITLE II, CANON 12, § 1.

To-Day.

This is John Ruskin's motto, and a grand one it is. If you have a plan, carry it out to-day ; if you have been meaning to do a certain kind act, to write a gentle letter, to make a call that will carry comfort, do it to-day. How often the day drifts by while we go about our every day duties in a half lethargy of benumbed will power. Up, then to-day, and accomplish something!

Down goes the temptation, the pampered pet sin, conquered to-day, just as it was beginning to draw its sluggish coils about us. The windows of our higher nature fly open, and in pours the sweet pure air, straight from the skies. Let the past be past ; yesterday is dead. It is bright, living, glorious to-day.

A Chapter for Men.

Most men prefer that their wives and daughters should be members of the communion of the Church. Unless they happen to be so pious that their piety interferes with my lord's pleasure, he rather thinks it a right and proper thing for women. But, as we read God's Word, man was made in the image of God, and women is the glory of man. God expects more from man than He does from woman. He should be to her an example of goodness and purity and piety that she could look up to, and in so doing be aided to the eternal kingdom. Here is an able-bodied man that can work six days in the week, but is too weak to walk to church on Sundays. The woman who is termed "the weaker vessel," can stand up and say her creed, and kneel down and say her prayers, but he, the lord of creation, the image of God, can do nothing of the kind. This specimen of God's image had better do a little thinking for himself. He will not be here many years longer ; will have to go forth some of these days, and there will be no wife to wait on him or help him ; he will go forth a stranger, into a strange country, and at the appointed time he will have to stand up; can no longer loll and vote Christ's service a bore ; will have to stand up before the Christ he was ashamed of, and account to Him for the way he lived; for what he did, and for what he did not. Certain, is it? As certain as the sunrise. O man, made in the image of God, redeemed by the precious blood of Christ, bestir yourself and act as one who must soon give an account to the Righteous Judge.

A Street Incident.

A reporter called to a little bootblack near the City Hall to give him a shine the other day. The little fellow came rather slowly for one of that lively guild and planted his box down under the reporter's foot. Before he could get his brushes out another larger boy ran up and calmly pushing the little one aside said "Here, you go sit down, Jimmy." The reporter at once became indignant at what he took to be a piece of outrageous bullying, and sharply told the newcomer to clear out. "Oh, dat's all right, boss," was the reply, "I'm only goin' to do it fur him. You see he's been sick in the hospital for mor'n a month, and can't do much work yet, so us boys all turn in and give him a lift when we can, savy?" "Is that so, Jimmy?" asked the reporter, turning to the smaller boy. "Yes, sir," wearily replied the boy, and as he looked up the palid, pinched face could be discerned even through the grime that covered it. "He does it fur me, if you'll let him." "Certainly, go ahead," and as the bootblack plied the brush, the reporter plied him with questions. "You say all the boys help him in this way?" "Yes, sir. When they ain't got no job themselves, and Jimmy gets one, they turns in and helps him, 'cause he ain't very strong yet, ye see." "What percentage do you charge him on a job?" "Hey?" queried the youngster. "I don't know what you mean." "I mean, what part of the money do you give Jimmy, and how much do you keep out of it?" "You bet yer life I don't keep none, I ain't no such sneak as that." So you give it all to him, do you?" "Yes, I do. All the boys give up what they gets on his job. I'd like to catch any feller sneaking it on a sick boy, I would." The shine being completed, the reporter handed the urchin a quarter saying, "I guess you're a pretty good fellow, so you keep ten cents and give the rest to Jimmy there." "Can't do it, sir; it's his customer. Here, Jim!" He t rew him the coin, and was off like a shot after a customer for himself, a veritable rough diamond. In this big city there are many such lads, with warm and generous hearts under their ragged coats.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

List of Subscribers.

Each month we propose publishing the names of new subscribers. If your name appears in the list, and you have not paid the subscription price, please look upon it as a notification that your subscription is due.

THE following rubric from the order of the Visitation of the Sick, appears to have been forgotten by the majority of people: "When any person is sick, notice shall be given thereof to the Minister of the Parish."

THE chiefest Saints before God are the least in their own judgments; and the more glorious they are, so much the humbler within themselves.—S. Thomas A. Kempis.

"THE ANGELS," says one of the Fathers of the church, "always carry their heaven about with them wheresoever they are sent, because they never depart from God or cease to behold Him, ever dwelling in the bosom of His immensity, living and moving in Him, and exercising their ministry in the sanctuary of His divinity."—Bp. Huntington.

LENT.

We have already entered into the shadow of Lent, which begins with Septuagesima Sunday,—so called because it is about the seventieth day before Easter,—and in a few days the Holy season itself will have begun. In thinking of Lent, it is important that we should remember that its observance is something which the Church requires from every one. It is not only for the specially pious, for those who are professedly religious. The Church knows no such distinctions. She expects all her children to be pious. Her observances are for all. Yet a great many people think that Lent, for instance, is something which only concerns those who are very good, and have plenty of leisure for extra church-going, and enjoy it. But on the contrary, if it is intended for any class especially, it is for those who have been careless and forgetful, for the sinful. It is the Church's time for revival. What the other denominations do spasmodically as occasion arises, the Church does systematically. Every year she appoints this season of prayer and penitence, not only for the purpose of cultivating more the spiritual life of those who are trying to do their duty, but for the arousing of the impenitent and negligent, and trying to awaken all men to a sense of their duties and responsibilities, and furnishing them with the aids which they need to discharge them.

So the call of Lent comes to all. In the very midst of the gayest season of the year it commands all to stop and think of higher, more solemn things. And it imposes upon all a discipline, which they need to give and strengthen the power of self-control. There is nothing so essential for the perfection of one's character as self-mastery, and that power, like all others, can only be gained by exercise. That is the purpose of fasting. If men have to abstain from that which is in itself lawful, as a means of discipline, they will gain the strength to resist the temptation to do what is wrong when it comes to them. So the Church calls upon all her members during the forty days of Lent to give themselves to special prayer and fasting. If the God-man Himself needed such a discipline, must not each human soul? If He fasted forty days and forty nights before He was tempted of the devil, do not we need the same preparation to fit us to resist the assaults of evil that continually come to us. If all kept Lent devoutly there would be less evil living, and more good done in the world.

As to the special way in which each one should keep Lent, our Church does not lay down the stringent, invariable rules for all that other branches of the Church do. She rather leaves each to lay down rules for themselves. What would be fasting for one would not be for another. Let each one lay down a rule for himself in regard to meat and drink, and abstinence from recreations and indulgences which may be perfectly lawful ordinarily, but which abstaining from for a time will cultivate the power and habit of self-control at all times, and in regard to all things. Let each also use the special opportunities for prayer and devotion which Lent gives for real seeking for greater grace from God, for the real growth and development of his spiritual life.

The clergy of the parish fervently pray that this coming Lent will be a real season of spiritual revival, that the Holy Spirit may be poured out in full measure upon each member of the congregation enabling them to overcome their sins and weaknesses and live a more truly religious life. And they trust that the special services and opportunities for spiritual cultivation which will be given, will be used by all, and not merely formally, but with the earnest desire and effort to be really benefitted. As thorough plowing and sowing produce a rich harvest, so a well kept Lent will bring forth fruit in one's after life.

CONFIRMATION.

The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 13th, to administer Confirmation in this Church, and the Rector trusts that all in the parish who are of sufficient age and have not yet been Confirmed will give him their names to be presented to the Bishop at that time.

Confirmation is obligatory upon all. When children are baptised the Sponsors are told that they "are to see that these children be brought to the Bishop to be Confirmed by him, so soon as they can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments;" that is of course, intelligently, so that they can understand them, "and are sufficiently instructed in the other parts of the Church Catechism set forth for that purpose." It is the duty of Godparents therefore to see that children are Confirmed, and they are to be Confirmed as soon as they are old enough to understand, and are sufficiently instructed in, the principles of the Christian religion. And the purpose of it is, "that they may with their own mouth and consent" assume the obligations of religion, and may receive the invocation of the Spirit of God upon them that they may have the grace to fulfil those obligations. And those obligations are binding on them whether they will or no. It is not a voluntary thing whether a man will lead a religious life or not. God requires it of us, and if any man refuses to fulfil the duties of religion he is only adding sin to sin. A great many people look upon Confirmation and other religious acts as if they were entirely voluntary things. But they are duties. And it is wrong to neglect a duty. And every obligation we assume in Confirmation is binding upon us, whether we are Confirmed or not. The difference between one who is Confirmed and one who is not is, that the one acknowledges his sense of his obligation and seeks God's help to enable him to fulfil it, and the other neither acknowledges it nor tries to do it. No one therefore need shrink from Confirmation from fear of assuming responsibility, for he is bound to live a Christian life if he knows what a Christian's duty is, and he is assuming a greater responsibility by not being Confirmed in refusing to perform a duty and in neglecting the aid he needs.

The Church does not specify the age at which one should be Confirmed because it will vary with individuals, some reach "years of discretion" sooner than others. But the intention of the Church is that every one should be Confirmed at that period of life when he is beginning to act for himself and direct his own life. When we are children we do what is right because our parents and teachers tell us, but when we get old enough to understand what is right and wrong for ourselves, and become our own masters, then we should undertake to do what is right of ourselves, and then it is that we need especially to seek the strengthening influences of the Spirit of God to enable us to do what we cannot do in our own strength. And many a man succumbs finally to the temptations of evil simply because he has not bound himself by this promise and sought for this grace. While on the other hand a man's Confirmation has often been the means of guarding and restraining him from evil, and assisting him to be good, when otherwise he would inevitably have fallen.

If one has had the misfortune, through his own fault or the fault of others, of not having been Confirmed when he was growing up, he should remedy that misfortune at the first opportunity he has, no matter at what time of life he may be. And in this country where so many come into the Church from the different Denominations who do not practice Confirmation, we have at every Confirmation persons of all ages presented. Let no one put it off. If it is right to be done, it should be done at once. Every year it is postponed a duty is neglected and privileges are being lost. None should wait as some do for a religious "experience." The Church teaches that religion is a matter of soberness and determination. If one knows what is right, and is determined, seeking God's help, to do it, then he is fit to be Confirmed, and he does wrong if he is not.

The clergy therefore earnestly call upon all the adult members of the parish who have not yet been Confirmed to fulfil their duty and avail themselves of the privilege offered them at this time.

Special instructions preparatory to Confirmation will be given by the Rector every Monday at 4 P. M., in the Guild room, from February 20th to April 9th, and by the Rev. Mr. Thorn every Thursday evening, at 8 P. M., from February 23d to April 12th. If there are any who cannot attend one or other of these classes, the Rector will be glad to meet them privately at such times as may be convenient for them. But he particularly requests all intending to be Confirmed to give him their names at once, and to be particular in attending regularly the instructions arranged.

Any persons, whether they intend to be Confirmed or not, or who may already have been Confirmed, are welcome to attend the instructions if they desire to do so.

PARISH NOTES.

During the last month a lady belonging to the parish has presented three-and-a-half yards of beautiful, hand-made lace for the front of the altar. Gifts of this kind, which involve personal labor are doubly valuable.

Bible Classes.— There is nothing so important as that Christian people should be thoroughly instructed in, and be familiar with the use of, the Bible. We have in this parish abundant opportunities for its study. The Rector lectures each Wednesday on one of the books of the Bible, teating of its date, authorship, and general character and contents. The Rev. Mr. Du Bois has a Bible Class for men and women every Saturday evening in the Guild room, and every Sunday at 2.30 P. M. for men. In addition to which there is a a young men's Bible Class, and a female Bible Class, Sunday afternoon in connection with the Sunday School. We trust that all who possibly can do so, will avail themselves of one or other of these means for Bible study.

Missionary Collections. — In churches which are supported by pew rents there are also collections, quarterly, monthly or weekly for Missionary or charitable purposes. But in churches which are free and in which the ordinary Sunday collections are for the support of the Church, there ought to be some opportunity given for contributions for these objects. If what one gives through the offertory for the support of the Church corresponds to what is paid as pew rent in another church, he should make his benevolent contributions in addition. In order to provide for this, the Rector has determined, with the approval of the financial committee of the Vestry, to have envelopes prepared with a benevolent object printed upon them, and have them distributed to the members of the congregation on the morning of one Sunday in each alternate month during the winter, with the request that a contribution will be put in them and placed in the offertory in addition to the giver's ordinary offering for the support of the Church. Envelopes for the General Missions of the Church were so distributed on the fourth Sunday in January, and similar ones for Diocesan Missions will be given out some Sunday in March. These are objects to which every parish should contribute, and it is trusted each member of the congregation will give to them.

Mission Churches.— The Rector has constant applications from the clergy of Mission and Country Churches for aid in furnishing their churches with vestments, altar linen, &c. These things are necessary to the reverent Celebration of Divine Worship, and yet in poor parishes it is very difficult to supply them. We have lately instituted a committee of the Altar Chapter of our Women's Guild for the purpose of furnishing such things for poor churches. The members of this committee will gladly make up the things needed, if the material can be supplied. But this requires money.

During the last month the Rector has received a letter from a clergyman in New Jersey asking if he can give him some coverings or hangings for his altar, lectern, &c., as they have none of any description. Also a clergyman in Oregon asks for vestments for himself. If any one in the congregation would give the material for these things the Altar Committee will make them up. The clergyman in Oregon asks also if there is not some one in our congregation who would supply his church with "Altar ornaments."

Collection Cards.—Quite a number of persons, members of the congregation, children of the Sunday School, and others who took the $5.00 Collection Cards for the Building Fund, have never returned them. Those having them are requested to return them with the amount collected, no matter whether it is the full amount of the card or not. They must remember that any money collected by them belongs to the Church, and should be used for no other purpose whatsoever.

Sermons on Church Unity.—The Rector proposes to preach a course of sermons on Sunday evenings, beginning with Sexagesima Sunday, Feb. 5, in the interest of Church Unity, taking up each of the principal Denominations, giving an account of their rise and history and peculiar tenets, and considering them in relation to the question of Church Union.

The money necessary having been contributed, the two remaining capitals of the columns in the Church have been carved during the past week. Thus gradually is our Church being completed, and little by little we hope to get the funds to erect the chancel and tower and carry out the full scheme of ornamentation proposed.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the interior of the Church can be had in the vestry. They are 25 cents each.

MISSIONARY BOX.—A full account of the Missionary box, sent by the members of the Women's Guild to a clergyman in Virginia, and his acknowledgment of its receipt, will appear in our next issue.

FROM Septuagesima to Easter we are passing through the great penitential season of the Church year. The festive decorations we have had during the Christmas and Epiphany tides have been removed. The color of the vestments and hangings of the Church is violet. The music assumes a penitential tone, the joyful hymns "Te Deum" and "Gloria in excelsis" are not sung, but in place of the one we have the Benedicite, and in place of the other we sing "Jesus Lover of My Soul." And everything is done to try to make each Christian realize his sinfulness, and impress upon him the necessity of true repentence and amendment of life. Thus by the arrangement of her services throughout the year, the Church teaches us the great truths we should learn, and the duties we should perform.

ENTERTAINMENT.

"The Bohemians," of West Philadelphia, who so kindly, about eighteen months ago, gave an entertainment for the benefit of this parish by which nearly two hundred dollars was cleared, will give another theatrical entertainment at 8 P. M., Wednesday, February 8, at the new "Drawing Room," Fortieth and Locust streets.

The price of admission will be fifty cents, and tickets may be procured from Mrs. C. B. Nancrede, 2109 Pine street, Mr. Ed. A. Carpenter, 228 S. 21st street, Mrs. Haverstick, 318 S. Broad street, W. H. Cope, Esq., 4009 Chestnut street, and at the Parish Building, on Broad, below South street, from the sexton.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the building fund and current expenses of this parish.

The evening will begin with "The Loan of a Lover," in which Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Janvier, specially excel—followed by "Place aux Dames" or, "the Ladies speak at last," an amusing burlesque of some of Shakespeare's heroines who are taking tea with Lady Macbeth. Both plays will be short, enabling those coming from a distance to reach home at a reasonable hour. From this side of the river, the Drawing Room can be reached by taking the green cars of the Walnut Street line to 40th and Chestnut Streets, while in returning, the Lombard Street cars pass its doors.

It is hoped that the members of this parish will show their appreciation of the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Janvier, who are taking much trouble in the rehearsing of these plays by distributing and selling tickets so that the entertainment may be a success.

THE CHOIR.

The Choir now numbers twenty-six, as follows:—Sopranos, 14; Altos, 3; Tenors, 4; Basses, 5.

The Altar Chapter of the Guild is making a number of new Cassocks for members of the Choir.

The Choir is in need of two or three more boys, also additional basses and tenors, men with good voices and knowing how to read music, application may be made to the Choirmaster on Monday and Thursday evenings after 7.30 o'clock, or on Friday evenings after 7.45.

As stated last month, a Choir Fund has been established, with a view to fitting up the Choir room; and purchasing new Hymnals and other music. All of the members and friends of the Church are asked to make weekly contributions to this Fund. One of the contribution boxes in the vestibule has been devoted to this purpose and will be properly labelled. Every issue of THE ASCENSION NEWS will contain the amount of the contributions for the preceding month.

During Lent a portion of the Choir will be present daily at Evening Prayer.

To the Parishioners of the Church of the Ascension.

The undersigned committee was appointed by the Vestry to communicate with you as occasion might require, in regard to the financial needs of the parish. You have just the same interest with them in its welfare, and you, with them, must provide the means to carry on its work. It is therefore proper that you should be fully aware of what is needed to this end, that you should be fully advised not only of the money receipts, but also of the expenditures.

You are aware that for more than two years prior to September 1st last, your Rector had not received any salary, having most generously relinquished it with a view of aiding the parish in securing its new site and buildings. You, as well as ourselves, have greatfully appreciated this act of self-sacrifice on his part, but we have all felt keenly that too much of the financial burden was falling upon him. Responding to this feeling, the Vestry unanimously decided that this condition of things must cease, and that from September 1st last, a salary must be assured to the Rector. They were able to pay this salary for the months of September and October, but there is now due him three months' salary, and there is not a cent to meet it. On the contrary, we are in debt on account of current expenses to the amount of $150.

It may be well to state in this connection, that the entire salary of the Assistant Minister is provided for by the liberality of two gentlemen of the congregation.

Another source of great complaint in the parish was the very unsatisfactory character of the music. The Vestry decided that the demand for a more beautiful and attractive rendering of the music of the Church must be met, and therefore doubled the previous appropriation for the choir. The result is that everyone has been gratified by the marked improvement, but the money has not been forthcoming to meet the increased expenditure.

The action of the Vestry on these two points, means briefly that we require for the current year, an addition of $2,000 to the previous income of the Church. This can only be obtained by every individual member of the parish increasing their weekly offerings. The question we bring to each one of you is—will you do your share towards raising the additional sum required? You want to do justice to your Rector, you want good music—will you help to accomplish both ends?

It is the duty of every member of the parish to decide conscientiously how much they ought to give, and having decided that point, to give it in the offertory every Sunday regularly and systematically. Don't wait till you find yourself in church, the offertory about to be made, and then put your hand in your pocket, and give the smallest amount you find there. Decide what it is your duty to give, and bring that amount every Sunday, and if you should be absent, remember that the next Sunday demands not only its offering, but also that for the Sunday which was missed. This is a most important point. Resolve firmly that your proportion of the offering on God's Altar shall never be missing simply because you have been absent.

Again, as to increasing your offerings. Can you not do this without doing injustice to yourself? If you have put in one cent can you not increase this to five or ten cents? Do you know what such an increase means? It may be but a trifle, but it means that you are increasing your proportion five or ten fold. Let every man, woman, and child seek to make some increase in their weekly offering, and assuredly you will find yourself no poorer at the end of the year.

Finally, as to present needs on this last day of January. We want $150 to meet a present deficiency; $250 to pay the salary of the Rector for the last three months; $135 to pay choir and sexton for the month; $40 to pay assessment for Convention Fund, and $20 to pay water rent for the present year. This total amount, $595, we must have at once: Will you give it?

The Churchman's Catechism.

Q. What is the meaning of the word "Church?"

A. It is ordinarly taken for the house of God, or place of divine worship.

Q. Is it anywhere so taken in the Scripture?

A. In 1 Cor. xx: 22, it is used for the house or place of worship, in which Christians assembled together.

Q. What doth it signify farther?

A. If signifies the settlement of the Christian religion in any city or country; which is what we understand by "the Church of Ephesus," "the Church of Antioch," "the Church of England," &c.

Q. But does it not signify more than that?

A. It signifies the whole Christian society, or Catholic church, of which Jesus Christ is the Head; and of which every national church, properly so called, is a member.

Q. Why is the Church called "holy?"

A. For several reasons. First, to distinguish it as a society different from the world, which is "wicked," and "out" of which they are "called" who are brought into the church.

Q. On what other account is the Church "holy?"

A. From its relation to God; to whom whatever belongs, whether it be a place, a person, or a thing, it must be holy from that relation.

Q. What farther reason is there?

A. Because the church, from its relation to God, is a cause of holiness in man. Its principal use is to sancitify those who are in it, and who are called "saints," that is, holy persons. (I Cor. 1: 2.)

THE PASSION TIDE.

The Lenten season culminates in the solemnities of the Passion tide, which comprises its last two weeks. Some persons speak of the last week in Lent as Passion week, but this is incorrect; it should be spoken of as Holy week. The second Sunday before Easter was always called in the old liturgies Passion Sunday, and the Passiontide then began. The reason is that the earlier part of Lent is devoted to the confession of sin, the effort to excite true penitence and devotion and the performance of good works. But on the fifth Sunday in Lent the eyes of the sinner are lifted to Christ as the all sufficient High Priest and sacrifice for sins. This appears especially in the Epistle for that day. And from then on to Easter our thoughts are directed to Christ in all the details of His suffering and death for us. Then we begin to sing the Passion Hymns. And to mark the solemnity of the time we remove all the extra ornaments from the Church. We cover with purple cloth our richly colored reredos behind the Altar, and drape the Altar cross, Processional cross and the candlesticks with crape. And during the last three days of the Holy week we omit, in accordance with ancient usage which required all glorias to be omitted then, the Gloria Patri after all the Canticles and Psalms, excepting after the whole portion of the Psalms, where our rubrics direct it "shall be said."

On Palm Sunday there will be a procession of the choir and clergy round the Church, carrying palm branches. There will also be palms on the retable behind the Altar. During Holy week there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion each morning at 7.30 A. M. Morning Prayer and a second celebration at 10 A. M., excepting on Good Friday. Evening Prayer each afternoon at 5 P. M., and a sermon on the Passion will be preached each evening at 8 P. M. On Good Friday there will be Morning Prayer and Litany at 11 A. M., followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. Thus we try to enforce the great truths our Church seeks to teach us by the services of this sacred season. And these services form the most solemn and effective that we have in all the year. This is the way in which in previous years we have kept this Holy tide, and we are sure that those who have gone through them before have found them most impressive and profitable. They have been always well attended, and we trust that larger numbers still will take part in them this year. One week in all the year is not much to give up entirely to religious observances. And if any one believes that the Son of God suffered and died upon the Cross for him, surely it is but fitting that he should devoutly keep the anniversary of His sufferings and death. And if he does, the remembrance of those solemn hours, and the lessons that they teach, cannot fail to affect his after life, to reveal to him the meaning of all suffering, and give him grace to bear the sufferings, and the kind of death, that in the Providence of God will come to him.

The clergy of the parish affectionately call upon all the parishioners to attend as many as they can of the services of the Holy week.

PARISH NOTES.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—The glass for two more memorial windows has just arrived from England and been put in position. One is for the last aisle window on the Broad street side of the Church. The subject is Christ stilling the tempest. It is in memory of Miss Anne Hewitt, who died very suddenly last May. She had been attending the services of the Church for some years. The other is the light over the door adjoining this window. It represents Christ blessing little children. It is in memory of Miss Anna Wetherill Earle. She was not a member of our parish, but was much beloved by one of our members, who was connected with her, and has placed this in her memory.

This completes the series of windows illustrating our Lord's life, so far as the Church is built. The story begins with the two windows on the west side of the Church, representing the Annunciation and the Nativity; next come the first two windows on the east side, representing Christ's obedience to the Law in His Circumcision and Presentation in the Temple; the next two representing Him as the Teacher, appearing among the Doctors in the Temple at twelve years of age, and preaching the sermon on the Mount; in the next two He appears as the great Physician, in healing the impotent man at the pool of Bethesda, and in raising from the dead the son of the widow of Nain. The last one illustrates His power over nature, in stilling the tempest; and the light over the door, showing Christ's love for, and benediction of, little children, is especially appropriate here, as the font will probably stand permanently in the neighborhood of this door, and our Lord's action on this occasion affords one of the grounds for the administration of infant baptism.

When the chancel is built, the windows in it will carry on the history of Christ's life through its later scenes, as His Crucifixion, Resurrection, Ascension, etc.

We are glad to add that the order for the first of the handsome clerestory windows has been received and sent to England.

LITANY BOOK.—A very handsome book bound in red turkey morocco, with a metal cross inlaid on the cover, has been presented to the Church during the last week as a thank offering for a recovery from sickness.

SUNDAY NIGHT SERVICES.—An effort has been made during the past month to increase the attendance at the Sunday night service. The subjects of the sermons preached have been published in the daily papers, and a special sign and invitation to the services placed on the outside of the building during Sunday. Cards of invitation have also been distributed before service on the street, by members of the S. Andrew's Brotherhood. The result has been most gratifying, the attendance having been more than doubled, it being larger now in the evening than in the morning. It is hoped that by this means the influence and teaching of the Church will not only be largely extended but that the permanent congregation will be materially increased. The position of the Church is so central and prominent that there is no reason why it should not be filled at every service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFERINGS—During Lent the offerings of the Sunday School will be devoted as in previous years to domestic missions, as we try to teach the children the same principle that we teach the congregation, that we ought to do something for others as well as for ourselves. As their offerings during the rest of the year are used for themselves in providing their Sunday School papers, books for their library, etc., so during Lent they give their offerings away, to assist in maintaining churches in the newer or poorer portions of our country where the Church is yet too weak to sustain itself.

THE EASTER OFFERINGS.—The congregation is reminded as in previous years of the necessity of making a large Easter offering towards the support of the Church. The ordinary Sunday offerings are by no means sufficient for this purpose, and during the summer months they are of course very much smaller than in the winter. The only way by which the average for the year can be maintained is by each member of the congregation making a special and large offering at Christmas and Easter. Persons should remember too, that although they may resolve to put a certain amount in the offertory every Sunday, they are often kept away from church by sickness, bad weather and other causes, and unless they make special offerings of this kind their intention will not be carried out. What each one gives in the course of the year should be equal to what he would give as the rent for a pew or sitting in the Church if the pews were rented, and he were able to rent one. And those who have the means should remember, that there are many attending the Church who would not be able even to pay for a sitting, and their offerings should be large enough to pay for such, as well as for themselves.

As the congregation saw from the appeal issued by the Committee of the Vestry in the last number of THE NEWS, the expenses of the Church have been largely increased during the past year, and it is essential that there should be a specially large Easter offering to meet all the engagements of the Church up to the first of May, the end of our financial year, and to have a sufficient sum left over to carry on the Church during the summer months, when our receipts are so decreased by the absence of so many members of the congregation from the city. If each one will be conscientious in doing his full share in giving according to his ability, the amount needed can be realized.

ANALYSIS OF THE OFFERTORY.—On the fourth Sunday in January envelopes marked for General Missions were distributed to the members of the congregation, with the request that they would put in them a contribution for that purpose in addition to their ordinary offerings for the support of the Church. Only 23 of these were returned on the plates, containing offerings amounting only to $14.76, and some of these we are afraid were made in place of the usual offering for the Church. It is true many of the female members of the congregation contribute to Missions through the ladies representing the parish on the different branches of the Women's Auxiliary, some $60 having been given alone for the materials in our Missionary box. But outside of them, all that the rest of the congregation thought necessary to give, in the course of a year, to the great cause of extending Christ's Kingdom throughout the world was $14.76.

So with our Christmas offering, it amounted to $635.78. But of this sum $400 was contributed by four individuals, leaving only $235.78 for all the rest of the congregation. Now ought not each member of the congregation to ask himself whether he is doing his share in these different offerings. And if all were as liberal as some are, would not far more be received.

On the second Sunday in March envelopes for Diocesan Missions will be given out, and this Church has been assessed $50 as the share it should give towards carrying on the Missionary work of the Church in our own diocese. It is hoped this amount will be contributed. An average of twenty-five cents additional from each contributor at a single Sunday morning's service would give the amount needed.

So we trust our Easter offering will be a large one, a large sum being still needed, as was seen by the appeal of the Vestry in our last issue, to meet our current expenses for the present year. And each member of the congregation should do his full share and not leave the burden of supporting the Church to fall on a few, or have the Church unable to meet its very modest obligations. We are sure no one would like to see the choir cut down, or the Rector go without his salary, or the Church left unheated. Yet all these things require money, and each one should contribute his full share towards these necessary expenses.

PEW RENTS.—Though the seats in the Church are all free, the Charter of our Church requires that the Vestry should be elected by those who "shall appear by the Vestry books to have paid two successive years for a pew or sitting in the Church." To meet this requirement the Vestry have fixed the nominal sum of $1 as the rent for an unassigned sitting in the Church; and all the members of the congregation should pay this sum to the Accounting Warden before March 21st of each year, and have themselves registered on the Vestry books.

RETIREMENT OF A VESTRYMAN.—Mr. John D. Henderson who has been a member of our Vestry for two years past, has requested that his name be not proposed at the next Vestry election, as he has removed to New York City, and finds it impossible to attend to Church duties here.

It is with great regret that we part with Mr. Henderson, as he was deeply interested in the parish, most regular in his attendance, liberal in his contributions and active in the work of the parish, especially in connection with S. John's Guild, of which he was one of the first Wardens. But it is pleasant to know that in being compelled to leave us he does not forget us, for he writes to the Rector that "in withdrawing from the Vestry, believe me, my heart and my prayers will not be a bit the less with you personally and with your work." We trust some equally good man will be elected in his place on the Vestry.

LOST PARISHIONERS.—Persons leaving the parish or removing their residences would confer a great favor on the Rector if they would always notify him, as he often spends a great deal of time in trying to trace those who have moved. Recently he spent a whole afternoon in trying, unsuccessfully, to find a parishioner whom he was told was living in the neighborhood of Thirty-third and Wallace streets. He has now on his list of communicants the names of the following persons whose present addresses he cannot obtain. He would be glad if any persons could inform him of their whereabouts:

Mr. Louis McNeely, Mrs. Elizabeth Downing, Miss Anna M. Fosque.

LOST ARTICLES.—The following articles have been recently picked up in the Church. They can be had in the Vestry by proving ownership: A breast-pin, two pocket-books.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—We need a large number of additional subscriptions to continue the publication of this paper. It is hoped each member of the congregation will subscribe to it.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 13th for his regular yearly visitation to this Parish. Special instructions preparatory to confirmation will be given by the Rector every Monday at 4 P. M., in the Guild room, and by the Rev. Mr. Thorn every Thursday evening at 8 P. M.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—As announced in our first issue, under the above heading, we shall publish the names of such Sunday-school scholars as deserve special mention and commendation for their regular attendance upon the sessions of the School and Litany service, their good deportment and uniform attention to their lessons.

This month we take pleasure in presenting the following list:

Charlotte Milliken, May Smith,
Jeannette Milliken, Katie Hiller,
Sadie Milliken, Anna Lescure,
Lillie Ruleff, Alice Ruleff,
Mary Milliken, Blanche Remont, Bessie Millken.

LECTURE. — On Tuesday evening, March 20th, Major J. Edward Carpenter our Rector's Warden, will lecture before S. John's Guild on "Reminiscences of the War." All members of the congregation are most cordially invited to be present. No admission fee will be charged.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the interior of the Church can be had in the vestry; they are 25 cents each.

THE CHOIR.

The members of the choir are very desirous of making the Easter service the best that the parish has ever had, and are working hard for that purpose. If there are any bass or tenor readers and singers who are willing to help make the services worthy the Dear Master, they can speak to the Rector or to the Choir-master af er any service, and may feel sure of meeting with a hearty welcome.

The choir-fund, which was started for the purpose of putting up in the choir-room closets for the ve tments and music, and for furnishing the choir with other necessary conveniences, has now nearly reached the sum of $20.00. The frame-work of the closets has been put up and made ready for the doors. Thirty-two of these doors are needed and those who desire to contribute to this purpose, should put their offerings in an envelope marked "closet fund," and drop it in the choir box.

One dollar and seventy one cents have been received from the choir box during February. The givers will please accept our hearty thanks.

The tune Penitence, sung last Sunday to hymn 443, was much admired.

The members of the congregation who know any really good hymn tunes that are not used by the choir, will confer a favor by making a list of them and putting it in the choir box.

The choir library has been increased during February by the addition of Henry Smart's Service in F, and Cruikshank's Service in E flats.

It is to be hoped that the congregation will remember the frequent requests of the Rector and join freely and heartily in the singing of the hymns, as they are intended not only for those who praise God in the chancel, but also and primarily for those who worship Him in the church.

The programme of music for the Easter services will comprise the Te Deum, Nicene Creed, Sanctus, Gloria in Excelsis from Smart's service in F; the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis from Tours' service in F; and the following hymns:

99. Tune, Morgan.
106. Tune, Wirtemberg.
100. Tune, Salsburgh.
Rec. 103. Tune, Victory.

MISSIONARY BOX.

Shortly before Christmas the members of the Missionary Chapter of our Women's Guild made up and sent to a missionary clergyman in Virginia, a box containing the following articles: new goods — 91 pieces underclothing, 3 pairs shoes, 1 clerical suit, 1 overcoat, 1 dress, 3 shirts and 4 collars, 9 handkerchiefs, 4 towels, 2 comfortables, 2 pounds soap, lot of groceries, canned goods, etc., 2 boxes candies; second-hand goods — lot books, toys, case of writing paper, clothing.

The total value of the box is $167.00.

The following reply was received from the missionary's wife:

CABIN POINT, VA.,
Jan. 2nd, 1888.

My dear Mrs. Cope:

Your kind letter received some days since and would have been replied to sooner but I've been waiting for the arrival of box; which came on Saturday, 31st. 'Tis needless for me to undertake to tell you of the perfect delight with which each article was unpacked and tried on. The boys were charmed with everything for them, but more especially the overcoats. My husband's delight at finding the lovely suit for himself would have done your heart good to witness. The dresses are beautiful and the little desk a treasure, just the thing I needed—as every thing else seemed to be. The groceries were an unexpected treat. In fact the whole was to us a wonder. Some of the second-hand clothes sent I find I can utilize in making over for the boys—the rest I'll gladly distribute to such of our parish poor as need them.

Now we desire that you give our sincers thanks to each individual contributor to the box; and say to them had they been present to witness the pleasure of our family circle, they must have felt amply compensated.

May God bless you all in your Christian work, and in our devotions we will not forget to beg for spiritual blessings for those who have so sweetly and kindly and substantially ministered to our temporal wants. Believe me ever Yours sincerely.

A happy New Year to you all.

The missionary also writes:

"I want to thank the ladies of the missionary society through you for my portion of that magnificent Christmas treat they sent us. The suit of clothes are so nice and fit me quite well. I shall never wear them that I will not think and pray for you all."

THE MEMBERS of the Altar Chapter of our Women's Guild have also sent to the church in New Jersey, whose application was referred to in the last number of the NEWS, a set of violet cloth hangings embroidered, for pulpit and reading desk, and the following letter of acknowledgement has been received:

HIGHSTOWN, N. J.,
Feb. 11th, 1888.

My dear Brother:

Allow me to convey through you the warmest thanks of our people, as well as my own, to the ladies of the Guild of the Church of the Ascension for their kindness in sending us the two beautiful specimens (of their zeal as well as) of their "raiment of needle-work," for clothing the bare places in this House of our Lord.

And to you, my Brother, I am profoundly grateful, and remain

Very sincerely yours,
HENRY L. PHILLIPS.

The Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge.

EASTER.

Just what is the derivation of the word Easter is unknown. Most probably it is from the Anglo-Saxon goddess "Eostre," the Goddess of the East, in whose honor special sacrifices were offered in the Spring of the year. But though the name may have a heathen origin, yet is the Holy Day itself most Christian. Upon the event which it commemorates rests our faith. For, as an Apostle clearly puts it, "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that He raised up Christ."

There can be no reasonable doubt in ragard to the truth of the doctrine which this blessed day sets forth. It is a plain fact of history, just as capable of being proved as any other event of the past, of course men may profess themselves unable to receive it; but then, we must remember, they may reject or call in question any historical event. A Jewish rabbi recently denied that our Blessed Lord was put to death by his people. Archbishop Whately proved that Napoleon Bonaparte was a myth; as did also an ingenious French ecclesiastic, who showed how he was merely an impersonation of the sun. But looking at the matter calmly and dispassionately, and weighing all the testimony offered in its behalf and against it, men cannot but conclude that Christ did rise from the dead.

The Church therefore has from the very beginning observed Easter Day, regarding it as the queen or highest of festivals, and celebrating it with the greatest solemnity. The question that was discussed was not with regard to its observance, but as to the day on which it should be kept. The majority of the Eastern churches, pleading the practice of the Apostles, observed it on the same day as the Jews' Passover, the fourteenth day of the first moon in the new year, whatever day of the week that happened to be. The Western churches generally deferred it to the first Sunday after the first full moon. For this they pleaded the authority of S. Peter and S. Paul. The controversy was settled by the Council of Nice in 325 A. D., which decreed that all churches should keep the feast on the same day, i. e. the first Sunday after the full moon, which happens upon, or next after the vernal equinox, the twenty-first day of March.

The early Christians did not express their joy on this great festival merely by singing glad hymns of praise to their Risen Lord, but performed acts of mercy and love; attempting by their actions to show their appreciation of His great work of mercy and love in opening to mankind the gates of everlasting life. Christian Emperors, too, as symbolic of the Lord's loosing men out of prison, at this time liberated all who were confined for minor offenses.

Ought we not, at this blessed season, so far as it is in our power, imitate these early professors of our religion? Works of mercy and love we can perform if only we have the will. Christ's little ones surround us, why not try to make them happy now? And why not try to imitate the ruler's work? We are surrounded by men in bondage to Satan, bound by the strong chains of evil habits, why not by showing to them the power of His resurrection, lay before them the means of regaining the true liberty of the sons of God?

Again, in the early Church, this was one of the seasons appointed for the administration of Holy Baptism. Now we know that in that blessed Sacrament we are buried with Christ and raised again to newness of life. If then we be risen with Christ, we ought to seek the things which are above. And although this thought ought always to be before us yet especially ought we to have it in mind at this season; and not only bear it in mind, but put it into practice so that we may appear with our Blessed Lord at the eternal Easter-tide.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

This is the fourth issue of this paper, and we think we have now established our claim of being of use to the parish, in being a medium for keeping all acquainted with what is going on in the parish; and of our wants and plans. We are sure no one connected with the congregation would like to see THE NEWS discontinued. But if we are to continue we must have a sufficient number of subscribers to pay for the printing of the paper. We do not propose to make money, neither editor nor contributors expect any remuneration, all we want is to pay expenses. In order to do this however we need nearly one hundred subscribers more than we have yet received. We are sure there are that number of persons in the parish who have read and been interested in the numbers we have issued, and who could pay the small subscription we ask. Will they not do so at once, and thus secure the certain, regular issue of THE NEWS monthly. Subscriptions may be tendered at any time either to one of the clergy or to Mr. C. L. S. Tingley, treasurer.

NOT long ago a teacher asked a class of small boys in Sunday School what was their idea of heaven. It was curious to note how their replies were influenced by their own circumstances in this life. A ragged little urchin, who had been born and brought up in a squalid street, said it was all "grass and green trees." One from a better quarter said it was like a big, broad road, with tall houses on each side. A sweet-voiced choir-boy was of the opinion that people would sing a good deal in heaven. The last member of the class, a quiet, thoughtful boy, though one of the smallest in the class, answered just as the bell was ringing for the close of school hours: "A place where—where—you're never sorry."

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—In the first issue of this paper we called attention to the fact that we had no bier belonging to the Church for use at funerals. In consequence of this a member of the parish has himself made us a very handsome, strong oak bier, which was sent to the Church during Holy week, and thus provides what we needed.

A lady of the congregation has painted a beautiful silk banner, the subject being Angels Heads, after Sir Joshua Reynolds. It was made up by the Embroidery Chapter of the Women's Guild, one of the members of which presented a handsome gilt cross bar and rings, from which to suspend it, and it was carried in procession for the first time on Easter day. This added a new and effective feature to our Easter Festivities.

We have also received from a gentleman, who is not a churchman, two large Prayer Books for the clergy stalls, bounded in red turkey Morocco, to match the Litany book which was presented to us a month ago.

Our hearty thanks are due to the donors of these articles.

EASTER COMMUNION.—The number of Communicants on Easter Day was the largest we have ever had in the parish, there were at 7.30 a. m., 104; 8.30 a. m., 31; 11 a. m., 70. Total, 205. Last Easter there were 170.

EASTER OFFERING.—The offerings on Easter Day amounted to $638.66. This will enable us, with what will probably be collected during April, to meet all the current expenses of the Church up to May 1st, but the next payment of interest on our mortgage is still unprovided for, and as it is due early in June there will be but little time to collect it. So the Sunday offerings should be unusually liberal.

AT THE ELECTION held on Easter Monday the following gentlemen were unanimously elected to serve as Vestrymen for the ensuing year:

Roger Keys, M. D.,
Charles B. Nancrede, M. D.,
Samuel Wetherill,
J. Edward Carpenter,
Thomas Sinnickson,
George H. Haverstick,
Francis S. Keese,
William H. Cope,
Thomas Robb,
Thomas R. Neilson, M. D.,
Salmon A. Buell,
Chas. E. Bonnet.

At a meeting of the Vestry held on Thursday evening, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter was reappointed Rector's Warden, and Geo. H. Haverstick elected Acounting Warden. Messrs. Samuel Wetherill, J. Edward Carpenter, and Dr. Roger Keys were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

COAL ORDERS.—We have been much pleased by securing through some members of the congregation several orders for coal which have been given to the poor. This has been a very severe winter, and it has been especially hard on the poor owing to the unusally high price of coal, so that these orders were peculiarly acceptable. We should be glad to secure a regular number of them for use every winter.

GIFT TO ST. SAUVEUR.—The members of our Embroidery Class of the Women's Guild, have worked for the new French Church of St. Sauveur a beautiful white silk superfontal for the altar, the word Alleluia, being embroidered in the centre with fleur de lis on either side, also a pulpit fall with the sacred monogram and a fall for prayer desk with embroidered border. The material was presented by two members of the congregation. We congratulate the French congregation on getting possession of their new building and we are glad our parish was able to make this donation towards its furnishing.

The following letter of thanks has been received:

L'EGLISE DU ST.-SAUVEUR,
22d Street and De Lancey Place,
PHILADELPHIA, April 2d, 1888.

Rev. G. Wolsey Hodge:

Please accept for yourself and for the ladies of "The Ascension" my hearty thanks for the magnificent frontal and hangings, made for and offered to a sister church.

It is a most pleasant remembrance and renewal of the family relation the two churches now come to age entertained at the time of their infancy.

Coming through you, dear Mr. Hodge, this gift is the more valued by

Your grateful and devoted
C. MIEL.

SERMONS ON CHURCH UNITY.—The course of seven Sermons delivered by the Rector on Sunday evenings in the interest of Church Unity terminated on Palm Sunday. They evidently excited interest, as the Church was filled on each occasion when they were delivered. We trust they will not be without some result in conveying a more intelligent apprehension of the issues involved, in removing prejudices and contributing in some measure towards healing those sad divisions among Christians which do more than anything else to weaken the power and retard the progress of our religion,

In this connection we may mention that the Bishop of the Diocese has lately authorized in the public worship of the Church the two following collects at the discretion of the Clergy, especially in view of the conference of all the Bishops of the Anglican Communion which is to be held at Lambeth, England, this coming summer.

O GOD, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, our only Saviour, the Prince of Peace; give us grace seriously to lay to heart the great dangers we are in by our unhappy divisions. Take away all hatred and prejudice, and whatsoever else may hinder us from godly Union and Concord, that as there is but one Body, and one Spirit, and one hope of our calling, one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God and one Father of us all; so we may henceforth be all of one heart and of one soul, united in one holy bond of Truth and Peace, of Faith and Charity, and may with one mind and one mouth glorify Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. AMEN.

GREAT and ETERAL GOD, Who didst form man without sin, and didst by the quickening advent of Thine Only-Begotten Son, our LORD and GOD and SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST, destroy death, which had entered by envy of Satan into the world; and didst fill the earth with heavenly peace; THOU whom the Choir of Angels celebrate, saying, GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST AND PEACE UPON EARTH, GOOD-WILL TO MEN: fill, O Lord, according to Thy good pleasure, our hearts with Thy peace; and cleanse us from all guilt, hatred, deceit, and ill; and all mortal recollection of injuries. Make us worthy, O LORD, of Thy gifts of grace; enable us to promote and forward the Unity of Thy Church according to Thy Divine Wisdom; grant to all Thy faithful people the inward Unity and outward Communion desired by Thy blessed SON, in such manner and at such time as Thou shall see fit; that in all things we may be conformed unto Thy Holy Will; through JESUS CHRIST our LORD. AMEN.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—We are pleased to note the large increase in the honor roll. Still there is room for improvement. Every scholar should try to have his or her name on the list. This month the following are reported as deserving special mention and commendation:

Charlotte Milliken, Katie Storey,
Jeanette Haslett, Mamie Harrison,
Sadie Milliken, Katie Hiller,
Lillie Ruleff, Maggie South,
Ida Harrison, Bessie Milliken,
Lottie Bryson, Lillie Fisher,
Anna Lescure, Alice Ruleff,
Emma Ruleff, Blanche Remont,
Gertie McKinley, Fannie Jackson.
Stanley Norris,

Several errors and omissions were made in our list of last month, and so we reprint it as corrected:

Charlotte Milliken, Mamie Harrison,
Jeanette Haslett, May Smith,
Sadie Milliken, Katie Hiller,
Lillie Ruleff, Anna Lescure,
Hattie Barton, Alice Ruleff,
Bessie Milliken, Blanche Remont.

LECTURES.— On Tuesday evening, March 20th, much to their regret, Major J. Edward Carpenter was unable through sickness, to lecture before the members of S. John's Guild. However he kindly secured an acceptable substitute in Col. W. Brooke Rawle, who gave a very interesting and instructive account of the Battle of Gettysburg.

On Tuesday, April 17th, Dr. Charles B. Nancrede will deliver before the Guild a lecture on "Respiration." All members of the congregation are invited to be present. No admission charge will be made.

ENTERTAINMENT.—On Tuesday evening, April 27th, there will be given in the Parish Building, an Old Folks' Concert, under the auspices of S. Mary's Guild. Some ladies and gentlemen of the parish have consented to take part, and they will be assisted by others from outside.

The price of the tickets is to be 25 cents, and as the proceeds will be devoted to paying the balance due on the piano, it is hoped the concert will be well attended.

NO ONE SHOULD FAIL to notice the special offer mentioned in our advertising columns. For only $1.50 may be obtained both The Living Church —a sixteen page weekly well worth having—and the Rev. A. W. Little's "Reasons for being a Churchman," a book which every churchman should read. Any one can get it by sending $1.50 and the name and address of a new subscriber, either your own or that of a friend. Don't lose this chance! The book contains a fine picture of Archbishop Parker's consecration after that by W. A. Dyce, R. A.

Memorials.

The growing custom of connecting the memory of the faithful departed with the constant worship of Almighty God, by placing in our churches memorial altars, fonts, lecterns and windows, or in building porches and towers, or with the ministries of love to man in the form of cottages for orphans, beds in the hospitals for the sick, or the endowments for the support of clergymen, teachers or nurses, cannot, I think, be too much commended. How much better to spend money wisely, in such modes, than to lavish it on meaningless marbles or brasses in cemeteries, which are almost sure, in time, to be neglected or abused, and often to become grotesque and ridiculous!—BISHOP BROWN, Convention Address, 1885.

The following Easter Carol was composed by one of the members of our congregation.

An Easter Song.

Nature awake! Thy slumbers break,
Let all thy inmost pulses thrill,
Through Winter's breath, like chill of death,
Shrouds ev'ry hidden glory still.

Thy risen Lord sends forth His word,
His mandate swiftly flies;
In robes of light and beauty bright,
He calls thee to arise.

O call to thee, o'er land and sea
Thy little minstrels dear!
From ev'ry throat let music float
In cadence sweet and clear.

Call lily bells in shady dells
To burst their cerements gray;
Tell roses sweet, their Lord to greet
In tints of beauty gay.

Let wild woods drear, in bloom appear,
Clothe each bare branch with light,
Let ev'ry spray with blossoms gay
Welcome thy summons bright.

O'er every cross that marks our loss,
Let Easter sunlight gleam,
And o'er each hour of death's dark power
Let hope eternal beam.

Let Nature's joy without alloy
Dawn on each saddened day,
As from the gloom of every tomb,
Christ rolls the stone away.

THE CHOIR.

IT IS VERY gratifying to note the marked improvement in the singing of the congregation. Let the good work go on and let everyone who can sing, join in the responses, the Psalter, the Kyrie and the Canticles, until it can be said of the Ascension congregaton that it is a congregation that makes the services so hearty and attractive as to crowd the church with worshippers.

COMMENDATION. — The following choristers are entitled by their regular attendance and general good behavior during the past month to special commendation:

Walter Lynch, Chas. Goldburn,
Lawrence Gaff, L. Anderson.

THE EASTER DAY service at the 7.30 celebration was without doubt the best that the parish has ever had. The men of the Choir sang the Kyrie, Sanctus, Hymn 207, and the Nunc Dimittis, and received the Communion together. Smart's service at the 11 o'clock celebration gave general satisfaction, and at the evening service Tours Magnificant and Nunc Dimittis were sung.

THERE HAS been a marked improvement in the Choir in the past four months, and in the attendance this change for the better has been very great. Indeed, it is a very rare thing for any of the eleven men of the Choir to be absent, and it is doubtful if even the great choirs of the city, upon which are expended thousands of dollars annually, can show as good a record in this respect.

THE LADIES of the Altar Society have promised that the Choir shall have new cassocks instead of the torn and dilapidated vestments now in use, and it is to be hoped that they are very nearly ready as the Choir is really in sore need of them. Indeed, some of the members are reduced to such straits that they will soon have to remain out of the Choir until the new robes are ready.

WANTED FOR THE CHOIR—Bass and tenor readers and singers who are willing to volunteer their services and help make the worship worthy of the parish, the Church, and the good God to whom we owe so much gratitude for the many blessings we enjoy. The members of the Choir are making rapid strides toward making the Ascension Choir the leading choir of the city, and are determined with God's blessing to make all proper efforts to accomplish that end.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the interior of the Church can be had in the vestry; they are 25 cents each.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL.

It has been the custom of Christian churches from the earliest times to celebrate the anniversary of the day on which they were consecrated as a Dedication Festival, and the Consecration of a Church usually took place on the day of the Saint, or the feast commemorating the mystery, after which the church was named.

As our Church is called the Church of the Ascension, the day on which its consecration should take place would be the Festival of the Ascension. And though unhappily, as we are not yet out of debt and we cannot formally dedicate to the Lord that which we do not fully own, our new Church has not yet been consecrated, still we naturally observe its name day as if it had been consecrated.

The special object of such a festival is to thank God for the gift of the Church, that He put it into the hearts of those who had the means to erect this House to the glory of His name and for the benefit of men, and to intercede with Him on its behalf, that He may grant it prosperity and peace. And it is also for the purpose of exciting and keeping alive the interest and affection which each member of the parish should have for his spiritual home.

So, as in former years, we shall keep Ascension Day, May 10th, as our special parish festival, and several new features will be added this year to its celebration. The services on the day itself will consist of Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7½ and 11 A. M. And the clergy trust that every member of the parish will be present at one or other of these Celebrations and make the special object of their intercessions at that time, the good of their parish. We believe that God hears prayers, and we are sure that there is no prayer that He hears and answers so readily as that on behalf of a spiritual agency such as a Church. So we ought to use the power that we have of calling down His blessing upon the Church to which we belong. And no time is so fitting, or effective, for prayer as during the Celebration of the Blessed Sacrament. In addition to these services there will be Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and shortened Evening Prayer and an Anniversary Sermon by the Rector at 8 P. M. The 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. services will be choral, and the choir is preparing some special music for the occasion. In his sermon in the evening the Rector will give the statistics of the work done in the parish for the past year, and speak of its progress, and present condition. We hope all will try to be at this service, that they may interest themselves in, and become familiar with the work and the wants of their parish.

Beside the usual daily services in the Church on Friday and Saturday, there will be on Friday at 8 P. M. in the School building, a Parish Tea, such as we had December a year ago, when we first entered the Church. Such occasions are very pleasant and profitable, affording an opportunity for talking over the affairs of the parish, and for its various members to become acquainted with each other. Addresses will be delivered by two or three clergymen and laymen. Tickets of admission will be issued to all members of the congregation, twenty-five cents each being asked from those who are able to pay, to defray expenses of the entertainment.

On Saturday at 8 P. M. will be the Anniversary of the Guilds of the Parish. The members of S. John's and S. Mary's Guilds and of S. Andrew's Brotherhood will assemble in the parish building and enter and leave the church in procession wearing their badges and carrying their banners. It is hoped there will be a full attendance of all the members. The front seats in the middle aisle will be reserved for them. The sermon on the occasion will be preached by the Rev. H. F. Nichols, the new Rector of S. James Church, in this city.

Thus we hope to make our parish Festival a bright time in the year and productive of good, both spiritually and temporally to the Church.

THE Rev. H. O. DuBOIS.

The connection of the Rev. H. O. DuBois as an Assistant Minister of this parish terminated at Easter, he having resigned the position, intending permanently to remove from the city. Mr. DuBois has been connected with the parish since 1883, though always away during the summer months. During this time he has most faithfully discharged all the duties which he undertook, and he has done all which his health and strength would permit. The parish is under special obligations to him because, at a time when it was impossible for it to employ an Assistant Minister at an adequate salary, he was willing to serve it for a very small compensation, and for the last six months has given his services entirely gratitutiously. He has thus enabled the Church to do a work for the past five years which could not otherwise have been accomplished We are sure the congregation appreciates what he has done, and that they have admired his reverence and devotion when officiating, and the uniform urbanity and courtesy of his manners. And those to whom he has especially ministered, know how kind and sympathetic he has been to them when they were in want or trouble. They feel that they have lost a good friend.

PARISH NOTES.

CONFIRMATION.—Our annual confirmation took place on the evening of April 13th. The Church was filled with perhaps the largest week night congregation we have ever had. A very nice class of twenty-four was presented. Of course there were others who ought to have been confirmed, but still that was a good class considering the size of the congregation. One feature about it was particularly gratifying, and that was the proportion of males, there being eleven males and thirteen females. Last year there were but four males to fifteen females. May we not hope that this is a beginning of men, in this parish at least, taking the stand they ought to in regard to religion Its duties are just as binding upon them as they are upon women. Nay, they have it in their power to do more for the cause for religion than women can. And there is to us nothing sadder than the neglect of religion by men and their indifference as to whether their sons are brought up religiously or not. The lives of most men are determined by their education. So there is nothing more essential than that men should be taught from their youth to perform their religious duties. It is a fatal mistake to let a young man grow up unconfirmed in the hope that he may seek it later for himself, ten chances to one he never will. It is the duty of parents and sponsors "to bring" their sons or god-sons to the Bishop to be confirmed by him so soon as they are old enough to understand what are the obligations of religion.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild have made and presented another beautifully embroidered white silk stole to the parish.

A photograph of our late assistant minister the Rev. H. O. DuBois, and a handsome wooden frame for the same, have been presented to the Church and hung in the Vestry room. A wooden bar with brass tips for a banner was also given by the same person.

A number of flowers were sent to the Church for our Easter decoration. The sills of all the memorial windows in the Church were filled with flowers by the relatives or friends of those to whom they were erected. A member of the choir also supplied the palms which were carried by the choir on Palm Sunday.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MUSIC. — The Remont brothers have taken charge of the music in the Sunday School, one playing the cornet and the other leading the music. This will make a great difference in the attractiveness of the Sunday afternoon service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY. — We have been able to add this month by purchase fifty volumes of the Bishop Doane series to our Sunday School Library. This addition of perfectly new books will be most acceptable, as the books we have had were very old and dilapidated.

Any members of the congregation having, from time to time, children's books of any kind which they do not want, we shall be glad if they would add them to our library. We are also glad to receive books or magazines of general literature for our parish library.

WORK FOR CRIPPLE HOME.—During Lent, the members of S. Mary's Guild met at the Church one evening in each week, to work for the Home for colored cripple children in West Philadelphia. The Ladies' Aid Chapter of the Women's Guild also gave their work during Lent to the same object. The result was that seventy-one garments were made and sent to the Home, together with thirty-four Easter eggs, groceries, pound and a half of candy, and three bottles of extract of beef.

LECTURE. — On Tuesday evening, April 10th, Dr. C. B. Nancrede lectured before S. John's Guild on Respiration. His remarks were plain and practical and were listened to with pleasure and profit by all present. It is a matter of regret that more of the members of the congregation were not in the audience.

ENTERTAINMENT. — On Monday evening, April 23d, S. Mary's Guild held an entertainment in the Parish Building. All who took part wore appropriate costumes. Musical selections of "ye olden time" were well rendered by a chorus under the skillful leadership of Mr. Baker. The Remont Bros. entertained the audience with pleasing and varied instrumental music. Refreshments were served by the young ladies. The concert was pronounced a success and numerous requests have been made for its repetition. The proceeds which we hope will be large, are to go towards paying the balance due on the piano.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—We are pleased to note that the Honor Roll does not grow smaller; still we regret that it is not larger and that the boys classes are not represented. The names for this month are:

Charlotte Milliken, Bessie Milliken,
Jeannette Haslett, Alice Ruleff,
Sadie Milliken, Emma Ruleff,
Lillie Ruleff, Blanche Remont,
Lizzie Monteith, Mamie Coleman,
Alice Murray, Emma Scharr,
Kate Story, Fannie Jackson,
Minnie Bell, Maud Peterson,
Mamie Harrison, Grace Peterson.
Mary Milliken,

By an oversight the name of Mary Milliken was omitted from the corrected list for February.

PHOTOGRAPHS of the interior of the Church can be had in the vestry; they are 25 cents each.

Circular.

The following circular has been sent by direction of the Vestry to each member of the congregation:

The undersigned have been appointed by the Vestry of the Church of the Ascension, a Committee to formulate and adopt a system of pledges whereby each member of the congregation may have envelopes sent to him or her —to be used weekly to deposit a regular stipulated sum for the current expenses of the Church.

In adopting this plan, it is proper that the members of the parish should thoroughly understand it, and the reasons which have moved the Vestry to adopt it.

It is, of course, of the very first importance that the Church should live within its means. But it will be seen that it is impossible at the beginning of the year (when most of the appropriations of funds must be made—such as salaries of the Rector, Choir, Sexton, etc.) under the present system, to know what funds the Vestry will have at its command for the coming twelve months, and this uncertainty the Vestry has felt to be a great disadvantage; so great, indeed, as to interfere with a proper, business-like conduct of the financial affairs of the parish.

By the introduction of the proposed envelope system a certain fixed sum may be depended upon, and this will form a basis upon which the income of the parish may fairly be estimated.

The Vestry hope also that the system will materially add to the income of the Church, because of the opportunity thus presented to members of the parish to make their contributions regularly.

If prevented by sickness or other cause from attending service, the contribution will not fail, but TWO envelopes will be deposited in the Alms-plate on the succeeding Sunday.

In the management of the finances of a Free Church which is not endowed, it is proper that the members of the parish should be kept well instructed as to its needs—that they may be able to exert themselves when the exigencies of the case demand increased effort.

While the Vestry congratulate the members of the parish upon the increase in the size of the congregation, and upon the fact that the close of the present fiscal year (May 1st, 1888) will find the church free from debt (excepting the mortgage on the church property), notwithstanding the increase expenditures for salary to the Rector and for the improvement of the Choir, ventured upon by the Vestry last September, they are bound to remind them that Five Hundred Dollars were received by the church for the use of the pavement on Broad Street during the Constitutional Centennial celebration last year, an extraordinary occasion which cannot be repeated, and that the increased expenditures were for the last HALF of the year only, so that we shall be obliged to make every exertion for the coming year, if we are to close it free from debt for our current expenses.

The Vestry, relying upon the conscientious liberality of the members of the parish, has continued the appropriations for the coming year upon about the same scale as those of the past six months—a little more.

The Committee enclose with this a card with blank spaces, which they request you to fill up with the amount which you are willing to contribute weekly, and under cover of the accompanying envelope, drop it in the Alms-plate or one of the Alms-chests in the vestibule, or send it to the Accounting Warden as addressed; a sufficient number of envelopes for use during the next three months will then be sent you, marked with a number, which will be the number opposite your name on the Warden's book; so that you may be credited with the amount of each contribution received. One envelope to be dropped in the Alms-plate each Sunday, containing the weekly contribution pledged by you.

The Committee invite your careful attention to this effort on the part of the Vestry to improve the financial condition of the parish, and they beg of you a response, no matter what may be the amount which you expect to contribute weekly.

Anyone finding himself or herself able and desiring to give more than the stipulated contribution, can, of course, place the additional sum upon the Alms-plate, not forgetting, however, to place the envelope with the regular weekly contribution also on the plate, so that he may be credited with it in the Warden's book.

Buried Talents.

(BY A MEMBER OF THE PARISH.)

I saw one bearing on his back,
A battered spade, a weighty pack;
Anon, he dug the ground:
What he upturned along his road,
He thrust within his bursting load,
Gloating o'er all he found.

To all abodes of men he went,
On his mysterious toil intent,
Though oft he sought in vain:
For not in every likeliest spot—
Yet oft where he expected not,
Would he his treasures gain.

"What doest thou, mysterious man?"
Perplexed and curious I began,
"Thy mission and thy name?
And what the buried wealth you win,
By homes of peace, and dens of sin,
And halls of fairest fame?"

"I was before thy race, or thee;
"My name is Legion," answered he,
"One of the hostile horde.
Men's buried talents are our spoil;
And glittering heaps reward our toil,
In lurid regions stored."

Then I considered in my mind,
Th' entrusted gifts to us assigned
To employ from hour to hour,
If we their proper use deny,
The Tempter's angels lay them by,
As trophies of their power.

The Churchman's Catechism.

Q. What are the different states of those who are in the world, and those who are in the Church?

A. The world "lieth in wickedness;" and they who are in the world only, will be "condemned with the world;" but they who are in the church, are called to a state of salvation. (Acts III: 47.)

Q. Has a man's situation any effect upon his character?

A. Certainly; if it be not his own fault; for as the world corrupts men, the church sanctifies them.

Q. How can you prove that?

A. Our Saviour said, the temple sanctified the gold which was brought into it. Therefore if the souls of men are as precious as gold and the Christian church as worthy as the Jewish temple, men must in a sense become holy by being made members of it.

Q. Is there not another reason why the church is called "holy?"

A. Because it is a body, of which the Holy Spirit of God is the animating principle, or life and soul. (I Cor. xii: 13.)

Q. Why is the church called "Catholic?"

A. Catholic means universal; and the church was so called, because though it was spread over all nations, it was everywhere the same; and so, in the whole, one church, one Body of Christ. It is also called Catholic, as distinguished from the Jewish church, which was particular or peculiar, being confined to our nation or people; whereas the Christian church takes in all the nations of the world.

Q. How do the two societies of the church and the world appear when they are compared together?

A. There is the like difference between them as the waters of the flood and the ark of Noah; the city of Sodom devoted to destruction, and Zoar the city of refuge; Egypt the house of slavery, and Canaan the land of liberty.

Q. What reason have we to think that our own church is a part of the Catholic church of Christ?

A. Because we find in it the ordinances, the doctrines, and the authority of the Catholic church

Q. How does it preserve the authority of the Catholic Church?

A. Because it derives its authority by succession from the Apostles.

Q. Why is succession necessary to a true church?

A. Because none can make a church but JESUS CHRIST Himself, from whom we derive it; and without the rule of succession, any company of people, even of women, might make a church. But the church being the "Church of God," and not a human society, men can no more make God's Church than they can make God's world.

Q. How does it appear that our church preserves the same ordinances?

A. We find in it the same means of grace to fit men for salvation as were in the church of the Apostles.

Q. Which are they?

A. Baptism with water; confirmation; absolution or forgiveness of sins; benediction which signifies consecration or authoritative Blessing; the Lord's Supper; ordination, &c.

(Concluded.)

Liberal Givers.

A gentleman in Rhode Island has just given $100,000 towards our Domestic Missionary Episcopate, and another person in Missouri has given $37,500 towards the endowment of a Cathedral Church for the diocese. A gentleman in Chicago has given three houses in that city valued at $20,000 towards the endowment of a Cathedral there. Thus it is that men of wealth are beginning to use their possessions for the glory of God. Who can estimate the amount of good that will be accomplished by these endowments. Of all ways of doing good none is permanent, for it does not depend on the continuance of a single life, or the permanency of a building, but continues on its work from generation to generation. The enormous power of our Mother Church of England to-day is due to the benefactions of her pious sons centuries ago. So may God inspire many such men to put our church in the position in which it can do the same work for this new nation.

What the Prayer Book Saves us from.

Here is an extempore prayer uttered by the Rev. Mr. Allison when praying before the Minnesota Legislature:—"And now, dear Lord, bless the reporters, whose nimble pens catch every word almost before it is uttered. Like thyself they are omnipotent. If we take the wings of the morning and fly to the utmost parts of the earth they are there. They meet us in Africa, they waylay us in the solitary canyons of Colorado, and when at length we find the latitude of the magnetic pole, behold they are there. May their light and goodness be equal to their power, and in the general assembly of Heaven let no reporter be excluded."

THE SUMMER RECESS.

With this issue we enter upon that season of the year in which church work is to a great an extent stopped, and in fact in which many people neglect even the performance of their religious duties. There are some persons who would seem to regard the Fourth Commandment as if it read "Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day, excepting in warm weather." But we have never been able to find this exception in any of the forms in which it is given in the Bible. And it is certainly a universal precept of the Christian religion, that every Sunday in the year is to be observed as a holy day. That of course does not mean that every portion of the day is to be given up to religious exercises, for the day has another purpose too, it is for rest. But in order that it may be kept as a holy day it must be hallowed by at least one distinctive act of public worship. So every Christian who does not perform one such act on each Sunday in the year, unless he is absolutely hindered by sickness or some other unavoidable cause, is committing a sin by the neglect of a positive duty. A duty whose purpose is very evident, because it is not only something which he owes to God, but is necessary as well for the maintenance and developement of his own religious character.

If a man neglects the stated public worship of God he cannot be as good as he ought to be, and there is every likelihood of his becoming bad. And a man cannot even perform that duty during one portion of the year and neglect it through another portion, without his religious character suffering, from the extent to which he neglects it. So persons going out of town in the summer, should always arrange if possible to be where they can have religious privileges. In English newspapers containing advertisements of summer resorts, it is very common to see such notices as the following: "Church with choral service within five minute's walk, &c." And our people ought to be just as particular, and not settle down, for three or four months perhaps, in a place where there is no church at all, or one whose services are very distasteful to them.

So the portion of our congregation that remains at home should be careful not to neglect their duties here. The services in the church are arranged so that persons can attend them in the coolest hours of the day. It is not hot at the early celebration of the Holy Communion every Sunday and Holy Day at 7½ A. M.; and those who attend that service can feel that they have done their duty, and they can, with a clear conscience, take all the rest of the day for rest or relaxation.

The clergy specially urge those who, feeling that Sunday is their only holiday, take it for going to the country or the park, to come to that service before they go.

So too our twilight service on Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, which consists only of shortened Evening Prayer and a brief address, is cool, because the sun has gone down at that hour, and yet it is not dark enough to require the church to be fully lighted up, which adds so much to its heat. This service will begin the second Sunday in June, and continue till September.

As in previous years the daily service 5 P. M. and the Wednesday evening service will be discontinued, from June to October, but prayers will be said every morning at 10 A. M., and service every Holy day at 7½ and 10 A. M.

So many of the congregation going away during the summer, of course the same amount of church work as we do in the winter cannot be carried on, but there are always the poor and the sick remainingin town to be visited. And those going away, if they want some work to take with them, can obtain from the heads of the various Chapters of the Women's Guild some piece of sewing or embroidery they could do.

Let all who can, take the needed rest and relaxation that summer brings, employing it to gain the health and strength to serve God more zealously another year; but let no one forget the church or their duties in it, just because it is the summer.

PARISH NOTES.

Ascension Day, 1888. We kept our Dedication Festival this year with greater interest than ever before. The attendance at all the services was better and the new features of the Parish Tea and the Guild service both proved successful. The former was largely attended and every one present seemed to enjoy their evening, the price charged for the tickets was intended to cover the cost of the entertainment, but so many donations of eatables and even money were made, that some $40 was cleared for the benefit of the Church. The ladies who worked hard in preparing the entertainment, decorating the room, serving the supper, and we may add, in putting things to rights afterwards, deserve our warm appreciation and hearty thanks.

THE night of the Guild service proved stormy and disagreeable, still the Guilds turned out in good force. We wish we could have said as much for the congregation. It was small. Those who stayed away missed a beautiful service and a good sermon from the rector of S. James Church. The choir did their part well at all these services. We have seldom heard them sing better than on Ascension day.

CONVOCATION. — The South-west Convocation, to which this parish belongs, has adopted a rule to hold quarterly meetings in the different churches within its bounds in alphabetical order. And as the Church of the Ascension stands first in the list, the next meeting will be held here, on Sunday evening, June 3d. The Preacher will be the Rev. A. B. Conger, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The first of our clere story windows has arrived from England and been put in position. It represents the apostle S. Peter. Eventually it is hoped to fill the whole of one side of the Church with the figures of the twelve apostles, and the other side with figures of saints beginning with S. John Baptist and ending with the Doctors of the Church. When these windows are thus filled it will not only greatly enrich the interior of the Church, but take away from the glare which at certain times is very disagreeable.

The members of the embroidery class of the Altar Chapter finished for use on Whitsun-day a set of five red silk mats for our silver Alms-plates. The rector has been the recipient of a handsome new cassock. A water cooler was presented for use in the vestry, which will be very acceptable now the warm weather is coming on. The four hundred tickets and two signs for the Dedication Festival were the gifts of a lady. The flowers on Ascension day were supplied by the members of the young ladies' Bible Class. Flowers for the Hewitt window and for the Altar were supplied by members of that family on Ascension day and Whitsun day.

PROGRESS.—The truest guage of the progress of a parish is the communicant list. The following is that of our parish for the past eight years of the present rectorship. The year previous 35 were reported, in 1881, 140; 1882, 190; 1883, 206; 1884, 220; 1885, 240; 1886, 257, 1887, 282; 1888, 306.

CONCERT.—The old folks' concert of S. Mary's Guild which was such a success when given in the Parish Building last month was repeated on May 29th in S. George's Hall for the benefit of the Church. In spite of a stormy evening a good audience was present.

CRIPPLE HOME. — The following acknowledgement of the box sent to the Cripple Home by the children of the Industrial School has been received:

The House of S. Michael and All Angels,
Cor. 43d & Wallace Sts., West Phila.
May 15th, 1888.

To the Rector of the Church of the Ascension:
Rev. Sir—

A few days ago I received from the Church of the Ascension a box, containing clothing, groceries and a little box of money, to which a ticket was attached, saying that the money and the groceries were sent by the children of the Industrial School of the Church of the Ascension. Will you kindly convey my thanks to those who sent us the box, and say how much we appreciated their gifts, and I would also like to thank the dear children who have not been unmindful of our poor little cripples. I will send you some copies of the May issue of our little home paper in the course of a few days for distribution among the children. The paper is printed by a boy who has lost both his feet. He is now able to walk, having been supplied with artificial limbs.

Yours truly,
SISTER SARAH.

CHANGES IN THE SERVICES.—Beginning with the second Sunday in June and continuing until the first Sunday in September the hour of evening service on Sundays will be at 7 P. M. and the services will consist of shortened evening prayer and a brief address. The other Sunday services will be unchanged. The daily evening prayer and the Wednesday evening service will be discontinued during the four summer months. But the daily morning prayer at 10 A. M. will this year be continued without intermission. Service on all Holy Days at 7.30 and 10 A. M.

HOW TO FILL THE CHURCH.—Let the members of the parish make it their business to single out strangers and find the places in the prayer book and hymnal for them, and thus by showing in every way possible a sincere courtesy, make them feel that we are in earnest in our religion and endeavor to endear the Church to them and cause them to attend the services regularly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—This month we have but few names for the Honor Roll. We hope, however, that this does not arise from any lack of interest in the Sunday School, on the part of the scholars, but is due merely to the season of the year. When the cool weather returns, we trust that many names which have not appeared, and especially from the boys' classes, will be found here. Meanwhile we cannot praise too highly those who, despite the warm weather and the many other things which at this time cause scholars to absent themselves from the school, have this last month been found faithful in all things. They are:

Charlotte Milliken, Alice Ruleff,
Jeannette Haslett, Emma Ruleff,
Sadie Milliken, Blanche Remont.
Lillie Ruleff, Kate Story,
Katie Hiller, Clinton Stark,

The following lines were suggested by the confirmation, held in the parish, April 13th, 1888.

Consecrated Talents.

"There is a lad here which hath five barley loaves and two small fishes, but what are they among so many?"

He who controls the orbs of light
And holds unnumbered worlds in sway,
Who marshals all the hosts of night,
And lights the golden beams of day;

To whom all nature homage yields
Throughout her realms of boundless space;
At whose command her treasures beam,
Her mines of wealth and gems of grace;

He holds her endless stores in hand,
Yet when the multitudes have need,
He summons from the chosen band,
A little lad this crowd to feed.

"There is a lad," O listen boys!
And ponder well the solemn truth,
Though Lord of Heaven He employs
In His grand work, your strength, your growth.

Your talents all, He summons now,
He claims the service of your life;
By virtue of that solemn vow
You stand enlisted for the strife.

His strife with sin, that deadly strife!
To hold before a sneering world
The banner of a noble life,
In all its lines of light unfurled.

To Christ's allegiance, firm and sure,
Bearing the message of his love,
'Till life's grand warfare, loyal, pure,
Has won the victor's crown above.

The victor's crown! O, joy of joys!
The thrilling words! the glad "Well done."
When the approval of that voice
Proclaims the strife forever won.

Make Your Wills.

Every person who has any property, much or little, ought to make a will, and a will should be made while one is strong and well in mind and body, and not left till sickness or old age comes on, or death approaches, One is not in a fit state then to make a will even if there is an opportunity, and no one knows how soon or suddenly sickness or death, may come. And in making a will, unless you have very near relatives entirely dependent upon you, you ought always to leave some portion at least of your property to religious purposes, in order to carry on the charities you have been doing in life, for you do not know that those to whom your property will go, will use it for those purposes. And, in every case, whether you have near relatives or not, you should appoint a residuary legatee, in case your relatives do not survive, or live to come of age, or leave direct heirs. Often persons have left property to those who have only lived a short time and left no heirs, and the property has then passed into remote and uncongenial hands. And what better residuary legatee could one have than the church, either your parish church, or the Diocese to which you belong. If you have not enough then to leave a legacy to the church, at least leave your property to it after those whom you feel have the first claim on you.

Trustees of the Diocese.

If any are disposed to leave money in their wills to our parish, of course what we want most now is to have our debt paid off and our buildings completed. But after that if any would like to give something towards a permanent endowment, which every church ought to have, we would advise them to leave such money, not to the church itself, but to the Diocesan Trustees in trust to pay the income over to the Vestry. This is safer than to allow those enjoying the income to have control of the principal. The Diocesan Trustees is a body which will be always permanent and composed of the best men the Diocese possesses. Its legal title is "The Trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Pennsylvania." It will receive deeds of property or money for any Diocesan purpose, or to be used for the general good of the Diocese at its discretion.

The Mozart Choral Society.

A Choral Society, in connection with the parish, was organized on Monday evening, May 7th, with twenty-two members, and elected the Rector President and Mr. F. R. Remont, Musical Director. It has since grown to over forty members, and as this goes to press, the society will probably reach fifty.

A Constitution and By-Laws were adopted at the second meeting, which was held on the 14th inst., and the name of the "Mozart Choral Society" was chosen.

The rehearsals will be held every Monday evening, at eight o'clock, in the large room of the parish building. The Society hopes to be of use, not only to those who join it, but to the parish in some practical way in the near future.

As one of the objects of the Society is to interest young people in the practice of good music, it is hoped that the members of the congregation will try and interest those of their acquaintances who may be readers and singers, to join it.

The only expense to active members is a charge of 5 cents per week. Contributing members will be received, who are to pay $2 per annum, and in return they will receive as many tickets for reserved seats at the concerts to be given by the Society, as the Board of Managers may decide.

Those wishing to join the Society can obtain blanks of application from the Secretary any Monday evening.

REPORT.

The following is the report of the Parish for the year ending May 1st, as made to the Bishop:

Baptisms — Adults 5, Infants 23, Total 28; Confirmed 24; Marriages 3; Burials 20; Families connected with the parish 225.

Other Parish Agencies.—Mother's Meeting, members 23; Industrial School, teachers 10, scholars 100; Men's Guild, Women's Guild, Young Men's Guild, Young Women's Guild, Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood.

Money Receipts from all sources.—Pew rents $49.00; offertory $4759.69; subscriptions: for church debt $357.70: for building fund $1059.84; legacy $100.00; interest $17.97; other sources $733.17; total $7077.37.

Money Expenditures and Appropriations.—Current expenses, (including salaries of ministers, for music, fuel and lighting, care of church building and grounds, and ordinary repairs of same) $3249.31; interest on mortgage $1500.00; improvements $1363.03; Episcopal and convention funds $40.00; support of schools $96.64; for the poor $130.04; Episcopal Hospital $55.13; Missions, Foreign $36.88; Domestic $87.61; Colored people $28.75; Indians $49.00; Diocesan $36.32; Free Church Association $18.60; Tract Society $5.00; Theological Education $50.00; total $6746.31.

Financial Condition. — Estimated value of property $60,000.00; encumbrance, mortgage $25,000.00, other indebtedness none.

The Envelope System.

The circular issued by the Vestry the beginning of last month inaugurating what is known as the Envelope system for the support of the church, has been responded to very promptly by the congregation.

The number of pledges received up to this date is 84. They vary in amount, from 5 cents to $5 a Sunday, and amount in all to $33.10 a Sunday, or $1721.20 a year.

The amount received through the envelopes during May was $112.60, and outside the envelopes $223.69, making $346.29 in all, the largest amount which has ever been received in any one month for current expenses since the free will system was adopted, excepting those months in which the Christmas and Easter collections have come. How far the adoption of this system will affect the Christmas and Easter collections remains to be seen. But even if it does diminish them, it will secure what is most desirable, the distribution of our income through the year, and there can be but little doubt that it will largely increase the total amount.

It is hoped that every one attending the church will make one of these pledges for whatever amount he feels that he can give. The children of the family as well as the adults, should each make their pledges, in order that they may be trained up in the duty of systematic giving for the support of religion. And it is particularly requested that persons who have made pledges, going away for the summer, will place in the offertory before they go, the number of envelopes for the Sundays they expect to be away, as this will give us, what we have never had before, the means to meet our expenses during the summer months.

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published by S. John's Guild, under the direction of the Rector.

As the Guild desires this paper to be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, (if sent by mail 60 cents) to be paid in advance, to Mr. Chas. L. S. Tingley, 305 Walnut Street.

Advertising rates, 50 cents per inch for each insertion. Special rates to yearly advertisers.

THE AUTUMN.

We have now entered on the Autumn months. The Summer, during which owing to our climate and the large exodus which takes place then from the city, there is necessarily so great a suspension of church work, is over. Yet those months will be largely taken up with reorganizing and getting things into working order for our short Winter. The stopping during the Summer makes it hard to get things working again in the Autumn. There are always removals, some change their residences, and can no longer occupy the positions they did. So there are teachers wanted in the Sunday School, and places on committees, &c., in our Guilds, are vacant.

The Rector therefore would be glad if any in the congregation who are willing to engage in church work this Winter would signify their willingness to do so to him at once, that he may assign them positions.

Our parish has now got a firm foot-hold in its new position, and we ought to make good progress during the coming Winter. The congregations have been during the Summer larger than last year, and the offerings far in advance. But we want during the coming season to see every seat filled at the principal services. And if we can secure that, then we can get the means to pay off our debt and complete our building.

Let each member of the congregation feel that the success of the parish depends upon his individual faithfulness and efforts. If each will do his or her share, that success will be assured.

We have a grand field for work, let us go in and possess it, and build up what will be in every respect a model parish Church.

OUR PAPER.

The publication of THE NEWS was omitted in July and August, both because there was a dearth of news during those months of recess, and also because we have not yet a large enough number of subscribers to pay for its issue throughout the year. Our subscriptions and advertisements have paid for its issue up to the present number, but to continue it through the rest of the year we need some $50.

Will not each member of the congregation become a subscriber, and will they not also try and secure us more advertisements? We want the whole of the last page entirely filled with them.

ASSISTANT MINISTER.

It is with great regret that we announce to the congregation, that owing to domestic circumstances, the Rev. Mr. Thorn has resigned his position as Assistant Minister in our parish, and accepted a place in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. Mr. Thorn has filled the position of Assistant since the middle of last November very acceptably, and we are sure there will be general regret at his leaving. It is pleasant to know that this regret is mutual, as he assured the Rector before leaving that he was sorry to do so, having enjoyed his position here more than any church work he had yet been engaged in. Our best wishes follow him in his new sphere of labor.

His place has not yet been filled. The Rector has been in correspondence with a number of clergymen and advertised in one of the church newspapers, but has not yet been able to secure anyone. He has heard of several whom he thinks would be suitable in every way, but they are not willing to come for the salary he can offer. He asks the prayers of the congregation that a faithful co-laborer may be sent to him.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The fingers of our ladies, members of our Guild, and friends of the parish, have not been idle during the summer months. Since the last number of the NEWS one lady has presented to the church a very beautiful fair linen cloth for the altar, in the centre is a very elaborately embroidered cross, and all along the front and ends most beautiful drawn work, very deep. It is altogether the most beautiful thing of the kind we have ever seen. We shall keep it for use on festivals. Another lady has made and embroidered two linen maniples, a fair linen chalice veil, and a linen baptismal napkin, the latter having an em broidered cross on one end, and a cherub's head in chain stitch on the other.

There has also been presented to the Rector a set, consisting of a fair linen cloth, corporal, burse, chalice veil, pall and white silk chalice veil, all made and embroidered as a memorial of a young man whom the Rector attended in his last illness, and who was buried from the church some months ago.

The Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild have made and embroidered a new set of green markers.

One of our Vestrymen has had made and placed in the pews of the church racks to hold the books, 68 in all. They are made of the same wood as the pews and are of a very pretty design. They will be a great convenience in saving the prayer books and hymnals from being pushed off unto the floor as they were so apt to be when left on the seat. Everyone using a book should be careful to put it back into the rack again from which it was taken.

At the beginning of the hot weather some one sent an anonimous gift of two dozen fans for the use of the choir. They have been much appreciated and the hearty thanks of the choir are due the unknown donor.

Our Missionary Committee report having made a surplice and black stole. fair linen cloth, corporal, pall, maniple, white silk burse, and two book markers all of which were sent to a Mission Church in South Carolina. We hope this committee will be enlarged and that many ladies in the congregation will occupy their leisure time in making sets of altar linen and clerical and choir vestments for poor churches which cannot supply themselves.

THE CHOIR.—Our choir has been much reduced in size during the summer, many of the men and boys being off on a holiday, and our choir-master, Mr. Brock, has had a three months leave of absence. Nevertheless the music has kept up remarkably well, Mr. Wilson has most acceptably supplied Mr. Brock's place, and those members of the choir who have remained in town have been very faithful in their attendance, and the effect of the past year's training has been very visible.

A lady of the congregation has presented each of the Choir boys who have been regular in his attendance during the Summer months, with a ticket to the Zoo, together with money for his car fare and lunch.

THE ENVELOPE SYSTEM.—We have been much pleased with the success of the envelope system introduced last May. It has given us a revenue which enabled us to meet promptly the interest on our mortgage due in June, and has very nearly met all our expenses up to the present date. This is the first time since the free-will offerings were adopted in 1880 that this has been done. Formerly the Rector never received any salary between Easter and Christmas, and the Warden often had to advance the money to meet the current expenses. But now every officer of the corporation has been paid and every obligation met, and the Warden is only about $150 behind. The effect of the use of the envelopes can be seen by the following comparison. Amount received for current expenses of the church from May 1st to September 1st, 1887, was $540.20. The amount received during the same period this year was $1027.08. This shows that the use of the envelopes secures regular, systematic giving and has largely increased our income. It is hoped that each attendant of the church will use them. Take one of the blanks from the rack in the vestibule, or ask the Sexton for one, and fill it up with the amount you are willing to give, and place it on the plate at the Offertory, or drop it in the Alms Chest, and the Warden will send you enough envelopes to last you for the next quarter.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Sunday afternoon September 2d, the Sunday School will recommence its sessions. We hope to see all the teachers who are in town, and every child in their places. The scholars who want to see their names in the Honor roll must remember that that depends on the regularity of their attendance, and the correctness of their behavior.

The Young Men's Bible Class which formerly met on Sunday afternoon will meet hereafter on Sunday mornings at at 10 A. M.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION. — On Wednesday, June 27th, our Sunday School had its first annual excursion. Early in the morning the scholars, teachers and their friends met in the parish building, and from there were conveyed in wagons to Ormiston. Here the time was happily spent in all manner of merry-making. The day was all that could be desired, and no accident marred its pleasure. In the afternoon all present were given a treat of ice cream and cake. Early in the evening the wagons rolled homeward bearing a happy, tired band of excursionists, all ready to confess that the first pic-nic was a great success, and to thank the many kind friends through whose liberality they were enabled to enjoy themselves.

BIBLE CLASS PICNIC.—On Saturday, July 21st, the Young Men's Bible Class had its annual picnic. This also was at Ormiston. The weather was delightful. Quite a number from the congregation were present, and all were more than pleased with their holiday. In the afternoon a game of base ball was played between S. John's Guild nine and a nine from the Reformed congregation at Seventh and Brown streets. This resulted in a victory for S. John's nine by a score of 6 to 1.

S. John's Guild also played against a nine from S. Clement's Church, Saturday, August 18th, and beat them by a score of 28 to 9.

ADDRESS CARDS.—Persons attending the church who are not known to the Rector are particularly requested to fill up one of the cards which they will find in the racks in the vestibule, with their names and residences and drop it in the Alms Chest. The Rector would like to make the personal acquaintance of every person attending the church, even though their attendance is only temporary. A number have given in their names in this way, but the Rector sees the faces of many in the congregation whom he does not know and he cannot make their acquaintance unless they make themselves known.

THE CHURCH DEBT.—The Rector recently found in one of the alms boxes a check for $50, towards the Church Debt. This was from a friend of, and an occasional attendant at, the Church. Will not others remember us in the same way, and thus to relieve us of this incubus, and place the Church in a position beyond the possibility of danger, and enable it to use all its income for its current expenses, providing proper salaries for its clergy, &c.

FLOWERS.—One of the members of the congregation who is living in the country during the summer, has been raising flowers expressly to supply our Altar, and every Sunday through June and July she has sent them in. But during August she has been away travelling and we have had no flowers on the Altar. Will not some one else another year undertake to supply them for that month? And will not those who have no means of raising flowers themselves contribute a small sum every week towards purchasing them, so that each Sunday and Holy Day we may have at least two bouquets on the Altar. The Treasurer of the flower fund is Miss Jane B. Hewson.

The Choral Society.

The "Mozart" held rehearsals all Summer, and the attendance was remarkably good, reaching as high as twenty-nine members.

The music practiced was necessarily of a light nature, the pieces taken up being—

O Hush Thee My Babie, by Sullivan.
The Belfry Tower, by Hatton.
Old Ocean's Life is in Our Veins, by Leslie.
Sweet and Low, by Barnby.
Twilight on the Sea, by Sudds.

In the Autumn, when the members have returned for the Winter, we hope to take up music of a somewhat heavier character.

Arrangements are being made for a public rehearsal which will be given as early as posible in the Fall, and the friends of the "Mozart" will then be able to judge of the work done by the Society during the hot weather.

In order that the singing of the Society shall be creditable it is necessary to limit the membership to those who have some knowledge of music. It is therefore proposed to start a class for instruction in music. Due notice of this will be given, and the class will be open to all friends of the members and of the congregation. The instruction will be absolutely free of all charge, and those wishing to join must hand their names and addresses to the musical director, through any member of the Society, on or before October 1st.

The Choir.

The choir master, Mr. Brock, has been on a vacation during the Summer season, but his place has been very ably filled by Mr. Wilson, who has well maintained the discipline and singing of the Choir. The latter has been very creditable indeed, notwithstanding the small number sometimes attending the services. During the Summer Mr. Pressick left for New York, but the tenor side has been reinforced by Mr. Jackson, who has recently joined us.

MUSCULAR Christianity has been well represented in the colonies. The story of Bishop Selwyn's encounter with the bushmen is well known. Bishop Goe of Melbourne seems to have had a somewhat similar experience in his younger days. When a curate, a parishioner styled Jim the Slogger called at the parsonage asking him to baptize the baby. Accordingly, the bishop repaired to Jim's house, but was surprised, on being admitted, to see Jim lock the door and pocket the key. "Be you the parson come to sprinkle my kid?" he asked. On the Bishop's assenting, he continued: "Yer can't sprinkle that kid till me and you has had a fight, parson." The unfortunate parson protested, but finding protest useless, took the bull by the horns and "stood up" to Jim. The battle went for the Bishop; and Jim, pulling himself up from the floor, muttered: "He's the parson for me; he shall sprinkle my kid." The Baptism was forthwith proceeded with, and we are given to understand that Jim took to church going from that day. It is a curious fact that the Bishop's full name is Field Flowers Goe; a name which certainly does not connote all the qualities which he seems to possess!

A Contrast.

The average contribution of all the Christian people in this land of wealth and plenty to all forms of Christian benevolence is just thirty-two cents apiece. Is it any wonder that the windows of heaven are not opened above us and our Church filled with blessing.

The average expenditures of the people of that land, for liquors of all kind, spirituous and malt, is fifteen dollars apiece. Is it a wonder that the dockets of the criminal courts are crowded; that the prisons are overflowing; that poor houses, insane asylums, and houses of correction are inadequate to receive the patients and criminals who seek entrance and are sent up: that poverty and distress are abounding in the midst of plenty? Suppose the proportion were reversed—that thirty cents per capita represented the expenditure for liquor, and fifteen doliars that for Christian benevolence—does any one doubt that there would be a reversal, moral and spiritual, everywhere?—Church Life.

THE BEST reward for having wrought well already is to have more to do.—Charles Kingsley.

Turning to the East During the Creed.

Church people are often asked why they turn to the east during Creed, and beyond saying that it is a primitive custom, are at loss to give a satisfactory reason for their practice. If they would commit the following lines to memory, or at least the thoughts embodied in them, they would be ready at all times to satisfy inquirers.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
And this for reasons three;
First Holy Church hath practiced it,
And she's a guide for me.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
For thence the rising sun
Through thousand circling months and years
His ceaseless course hath run.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
And my Redeemer bless,
Who rose on our benighted earth
'The Sun of Righteousness.'

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
And look for my final doom;
For thence the scriptures seem to speak
The Righteous Judge shall come.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
My reasons I have given,
But not my eye alone, my heart
Must turn itself towards Heaven.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed,
And tell me now, I pray,
Why any humble Christian need
To turn the other way?"

As Daniel and the pious Isralites prayed with their faces toward Jerusalem, the holy city, so the early Christians were wont to turn towards the East in their prayers, and more particularly in their Creeds and Doxologies (which partake of the same nature), as looking for the rising for the Sun of Righteousness It is the same symbolical reason that Christian churches were ordinarily built with the Altar, towards which the worshippers turned, at the East: and that the general custom, in burying the dead, is to lay the body with the feet towards the East.

In Africa, S. Augustine (A. D. 395) says: When we stand for Prayer, we turn towards the East, where the day begins, that the soul may be admonished to turn to God, the more excellent nature.

In Asia Minor, S. Basil (A. D. 370) asserts that praying towards the East was an immemorial custom derived from the Apostles, by a constant and secret tradition, anterior to any written documents of history.

CHRISTIANITY is not one of the religions of the world, but it is the one religion for the world. Jesus Christ, our Prophet, Priest and King, our sufficing sacrifice and our living Lord, is not the ideal man, the product of the growth, circumstances and conditions of one nature or of the whole human race, but He is the "Son of God with power," miraculously conceived by the Holy Ghost, miraculously born of the Virgin Mary, dying for our sins and rising again for our justification. "A Christianity" (I use the words of Coleridge) "without a church exercising spiritual authority is a vanity and dissolution." The Church is not an aggregation of persons agreeing in certain doctrines or practices, but it is the "Body of Christ," perpetuated in accordance with the laws of its organism. "The fellowship of kindred minds" is not the communion of saints. A certain "continuity of Christian thought" is not the same thing as the Faith once and forever given to the saints.—BISHOP WILLIAMS, of Connecticut, Convention Sermon, 1885.

"Be ye well assured that if any persons are joined together otherwise than as God's Word doth allow, their marriage is not lawful."—Solemnization of Matrimony.

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published by S. John's Guild, under the direction of the Rector.

As the Guild desires this paper to be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, (if sent by mail 60 cents) to be paid in advance, to Mr. Chas. L. S. Tingley, 305 Walnut Street.

Advertising rates, 50 cents per inch for each insertion. Special rates to yearly advertisers.

OUR GUILDS.

A Guild is a society or fraternity. It was formerly a name given to associations of mechanics or civic bodies. The great Guild Hall in London is so called because the civic corporation meets there. But nowadays with us, the term is almost entirely confined to religious societies, and is generally used to designate those bands of men or women who are associated together in our several parishes for purposes of work or devotion. There has been a great growth of such societies of late years, and there can he no question but that they have added very much to the strength and efficiency of the Church.

We have in our parish four of such Guilds and we want to describe exactly what they are, that all in the congregation may understand their purpose, and each one find his or her place in one or other of them.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.

This is for young men. By that is meant the older boys of the parish and any men who feel young enough to take part or interest in what interests young men. Its purpose is to bind the young men of the parish together, make them know each other, and help them to lead a Christian life, and interest them in and lead them to work for the parish. It has two meetings each month, one a devotional and business meeting, the other for recreation. At the first meeting, after assembling in the Guild room, the members enter the Church in procession, the banner of the Guild being carried. Here a special office, which they have had printed, is recited, and a short instruction, especially adapted for men, is given by one of the clergy. After which the business meeting is held in the Guild room. This meeting teaches the members how to preside and keep minutes and carry on business according to parliamentary rules, which are very important things for every man to know in this country where so many such meetings are held.

At the recreation meeting the members provide some entertainment for themselves in the school room, or have lectures, concerts, &c., for the benefit of the Guild or the parish. This ought to call out any talent the members may have in this way, and afford healthful and improving amusements. We trust that all the members of this Guild will take great interest in it this Winter, and that all the young men, and as many of the older men as would like to, would join it.

S. MARY'S GUILD.

This is for young women, and has the same purposes, and is conducted in the same way as S. John's Guild. It has been very successful the last two winters. The attendance at its meetings generally fills the Guild room, and it has provided several most interesting and agreeable entertainments. We shall be glad to see its ranks still further increase this winter. Any one in the parish who has been confirmed can enter either of these Guilds at any meeting, and any one not yet confirmed, and any one, confirmed or not confirmed, belonging to another parish, can be elected a member after having been nominated at a previous meeting.

MEN'S GUILD.

This is a general Guild, embracing all the male members of the parish. Every male communicant is considered as belonging to it. There are no dues, and no regular meetings. But it is divided up into chapters, and every man who does any work in the parish is considered as belonging to one or other of these chapters.

Thus, all who sing as volunteers in the choir, or act as servers, cross bearers, lay readers, etc., are members of the Lay Helper's Chapter. Those who teach, or act as officers in the Sunday School, are members of the School Chapter. Those who give their professional services as physicians or lawyers, or interest themselves in getting work for the unemployed, or in other benevolent ways, are members of the Beneficial Chapter.

There is only one general meeting of the Guild in the year, on the evening of All Saint's Day. The members are expected to attend one of the celebrations of the Holy Communion on the morning of that day, making a special object of their devotion the consideration of how far they have been discharging their duties as Christian men to their fellows, and seeking grace to do their duty in time to come. In the evening a meeting is held in the Guild room, at which time a report is read of what the men in the parish have done in the past year, and a general consultation held as to what benevolent or useful works the members can engage in during the following year.

It is a real advantage for the men of the parish to meet together thus at least once a year, if for no other purpose than to become acquainted with one another, and to hear of what others have been doing, or of what might be done for the good of the Church. We earnestly hope that all the male members of the parish that can possibly do so will attend this meeting on the evening of All Saint's Day, Nov. 1st, at 8 P. M.

WOMEN'S GUILD.

The constitution of this Guild is the same and its purposes the same as the Men's Guild. But as there are more women that have leisure to work, than men, and there are more ways in which they can work for the Church, there are more chapters in this Guild than in the Men's Guild, and more has been accomplished. Almost every woman of the parish ought to be able to find something she can do on one or other of the chapters of this Guild, and all can aid the various works of the Guild by their contributions towards what is being carried on by its chapters. What those works are is fully described in the Year Book in which the report of the work of the Guilds is published each year, and any lady attending the congregation can select from it what work she would like to engage in. The anniversary of this Guild is S. S. Simon and Jude's Day, which this year occurs on Sunday, so the devotional meetings will be held that day and the sermon at the 11 A. M. service will be a special address to the women on Church work. The business meeting for hearing the reports of the past year's work, and arranging for the coming season, will be held on Monday after the 10 A. M. prayers, all the female Communicants of the parish are requested to attend,

Such then are our Parochial Guilds. We think that anyone who looks into them will see that they afford a very thorough and efficient way of carrying on the work of the parish and interesting and benefitting its members. All that is wanted is that each one should take his or her share in them and do their duty in regard to them.

ASSISTANT MINISTER.

We are happy to announce to the congregation that the position of Assistant Minister in the parish has been filled by the appointment of the Rev. Henry Kittson. He enters upon his duties with the beginning of this month. He comes to us very highly recommended and having had some twelve years' experience in Church work in the United States and Canada. We speak for him a hearty welcome in the parish.

PARISH NOTES.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The Sunday School recommenced its sessions on the first Sunday in September with a very good attendance of 52 scholars. All the teachers have not yet returned, but the Rector, fortunately, has been able to secure the services of Mr. Blackwell, Mrs. Pollock, Miss Price, Miss Neilson, Miss Stewart and the Misses Croxton, who have temporarily supplied the places of those who were absent. The Rector has acted as superintendent. There will be some changes in the Sunday School this year. Mr. Grimball and Mr. Buell have resigned their positions; also Miss Calder, Miss Haslet and Mrs. Thorn. But their places will be probably permanently filled by some of those who have been acting as supplies. Miss McCauley, who formerly taught in the school, and was one of the most efficient workers we ever had, who has been absent from the city for some years, has returned and has already collected for herself a class of some of the older girls who formerly belonged to the school. Mr. Henry Carson will act as cross bearer at the Litany Service, and Mr. William Remont will give his very valuable services as a cornetist.

Let the parents of the congregation see that their children attend the Sunday School and Litany Service.

TEACHERS. — What we want very much is some male teachers in the school. Why is it that men will not give their time and attention to this work? What greater or more important work is there which they could undertake than that of training up the young in the right way? What is more evident than that the very foundations of our social state are being undermined by the neglect of the religious and moral education of the rising generation, the ignorance in which it is growing up, the licence that is allowed it? We know of no greater charity or work more worthy of the ability and energies of the most cultured men. Engagements in other things should be no excuse for its neglect. The late Lord Chancellor of England was a Sunday School teacher till his death at some eighty years of age. The late Mayor of Brooklyn is the superintendent of the large Sunday School of S. Ann's Church. And the practical head of the largest banking house in our city, is the most laborious and faithful superintendent of one of our most successful schools. If our men had the spirit and appreciated the importance and the glory of the work, they would not be kept back from it by the effort or sacrifice it would require. We call them to the rescue.

GUILD MEETINGS.—S. John's and S. Mary's Guilds both met this year a month earlier than usual. A fair number were present at each meeting, though S. Mary's had a very rainy evening. We want to see all the young men and all the young women of the parish banded together in these Guilds. We trust a pleasant and useful series of entertainments will be arranged for each during the Winter. Bring in and interest the young people and we will build up the Church. Let them remember that the Church is their's, and if they will be true to it, nothing else can so bless and benefit their lives.

CASSOCKS FOR THE CHOIR. — The ladies of the Women's Guild are now engaged in making a set of new Cassocks for the boys of the Choir, of which they stood very much in need. The old set has seen good service, having been in use nearly eight years, and they have been mended and patched till they will no longer hold together. A member of the Guild has presented an entire piece of stuff out of which the new Cassocks are being made. And those who are doing the sewing can feel that they are saving the Church a very considerable outlay, which would be required if the Cassocks had to be purchased from an ecclesiastical tailor.

COURSE OF SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to begin the first Sunday evening in October a Course of Sermons on the Creeds. He trusts they will prove useful and instructive. It is the duty of the Christian pulpit to instruct. And the only religious instruction that many persons receive is from the Sunday Sermon they hear. It is well, therefore, that one at least of the sermons preached each Lord's Day should be of this character. They may not attract people perhaps as much as sermons on more sensational topics, but those who really desire to increase their knowledge of the fundamental principles of the Christian religion will appreciate them. Leaflets containing the order of Evening Service for each Sunday, will be distributed to each member of the congregation who is not provided with a prayer book, or who cannot find the places. We hope to see the evening service as largely attended as it was last Lent during the sermons on Church Unity.

MEETING OF WOMEN'S GUILD.—The Rector hopes to see all the women of the parish at the anniversary of the Women's Guild, on October 29th, after the 10 A. M. prayers.

KNEELING HASSOCKS.—We still need more kneeling hassocks in the Church. If at this time of the year when the parishioners are cleaning and putting down their carpets, they would send to the Church any small pieces they may have, we will see that they are made up into kneeling hassocks. The Sexton will call for such pieces if notified.

PRAYER BOOKS AND HYMNALS.—The supply of prayer books and hymnals in the Church is not sufficient, and many we have are fearfully dilapidated. It has been suggested that if each member of the congregation would bring one new prayer book or hymnal and leave it in the Church, an ample provision for this want might be made at but little cost to any one. But if any persons do this, it is requested that they bring such books first into the vestry that they may be all stamped with the name of the Church, otherwise they will be likely to be carried off and no one know to whom they belong.

WEDNESDAY EVENING LECTURES.—The Wednesday evening service, recommences with the first Wednesday in October, and the Rector will continue this year the course of lectures on the Bible, he was delivering last winter. He was much gratified by the general attendance at these lectures last year and he trusts that as many members of the congregation as can do so will avail themselves of this opportunity offered them during the week for worship and for increasing their knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures.

The double daily service also begins with the first of October. We hope to see this better attended than it has been. How could a half hour in the week, morning or evening be better employed?

KEEP YOUR PAPERS.—If those who get the numbers of the NEWS, will keep them, and file them away, they will afford a regular history of the parish, and be useful to refer to, and pleasant often to look over and recall old days, and the labors, gifts and service by which we have tried to serve the Master. And a very good way to aid the parish is by taking an extra copy or two and hand it to some friend whom you think might become thereby interested in it. Let each one be ever thinking how he may serve or benefit the Church and we shall be like a busy hive of bees, working in the Master's cause.

We hope also this winter to publish a good deal of matter which will be useful to keep for reference. Such will be "the Ritual Catechism" whose publication begins with the next number. It will contain a description of all the parts of a Church edifice, the furniture, utensils, vestments, postures, customs, etc., used in Divine Worship, with a definition of the various terms employed in designating them. These are things with which every Churchman ought to be familiar. Thus we shall try to make the numbers of the NEWS of permanent value.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS.—The Rector particularly requests members of the congregation in changing their residences always to notify him, as it will save him much inconvenience.

GIFT TO MR. THORN.—One of the members of the Embroidery Committee of the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild has made and presented to the Rev. Mr. Thorn a very beautifully embroidered set of white silk markers for Lectern, Altar and Litany books. We are very glad he should have this souvenir of his connection with our parish.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—The following names have been returned by the teachers as deserving to go on the Honor Roll this month. It may be that others deserve it who belong to classes whose teachers have been away All our teachers we hope will be back this month so the next returns will give the names of all who are entitled to appear.

David McCracken, Maud Waterman,
Harry Ellis, Mary McCracken,
Stanley Norris, Bessie Milliken,
Arthur Waterman, Annie McCracken.
Ethel Waterman.

POOR FUND.—The record of offerings this month shows a very small amount given to the poor. Will not the congregation remember that the only offerings we have in this Church for the poor are what is received through the Alms Boxes in the vestibule, and now the winter is coming on, and the mother's meeting about to begin, we shall need funds.

Camden Marriages.

The evil of Camden marriages is becoming so great that the Rector recently felt himself called upon to speak to the congregation in regard to them. One has only to look over a morning paper to see that the vast majority of marriages of persons residing in this city are performed in Camden. It is actually an exception to see a record of a marriage performed by a clergyman in Philadelphia. Now, as the Rector said, there can be only two possible reasons for this. It must be either to escape paying the small fee of fifty cents to obtain the license which the Pennsylvania law requires, —and if a man is too poor to pay that he is too poor to marry,—or there is some impediment or objection to the marriage which would prevent its solemnization here. Persons therefore run great risks in being married in this way. And the publication of a marriage as performed in Camden between persons residing in this Commonwealth is the announcement that there is something wrong or underhand about it.

Marriage is the most important transaction in a man or woman's life, and therefore is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly or lightly or contrary to the laws of either the Church or State. Nor should it be contracted secretly. If it is to redound to the happiness of the individuals concerned, and the welfare of the community, it should be contracted openly, solemnly, in the church or home, with the full sanction of the laws of God and man. The church has her special office of blessing for this, as she has for every other important event in the life of man. And every dutiful member of the church, in being married, will seek that blessing in his own parish, and not slink away to some unauthorized agent to perform a ceremony he knows the church would not sanction, or in a way it does not approve. And yet that is what many, even professedly church people, are doing in going to Camden to get married, as the records of our own parish show which we publish every month, not a single marriage being recorded. People are seeking the offices of the church in baptism and confirmation and communion, in sickness and at burials, but not in marriage. Every one should try to create a healthy public sentiment on this subject, and do everything to discourage this flagrant violation of the laws both of the church and state.

THE LITANY SERVICE.

We have the Litany in this parish as a special service by itself on Sunday afternoons, for two reasons, first to shorten the morning service and secondly to provide a special service for the children of the parish. In churches where there is a celebration of the Holy Communion only once a month, the Morning Prayer, Litany and Ante-Communion office constituted a service of reasonable length. But when, as here, we have each Sunday the service of our Lord's own appointment and that which the Prayer intends should be celebrated every Sunday and Holy Day, the Morning Prayer, Litany and Holy Communion make too long an office, and involve unnecessary repetitions. We have adopted therefore the plan generally followed in England, where there is a weekly Communion, of having the Litany as a separate service in the afternoon. This we think better than the plan of some churches of having the Morning Prayer said plain without any music at an early hour, and the midday service consist of Litany and Holy Communion, as in that case those who never get to church but on Sunday never hear the Special Lessons, Psalter or TeDeum. Moreover the Litany being our most deeply penetential service is out of keeping with the joyful Festal Eucharist.

Then again we consider it essential that there should be a special service for the children. The great trouble with the modern Sunday school is that it takes the place of church. Formerly, when Sunday school was generally held in the morning, the children went to church after the Sunday school was over. But now that it is held in the afternoon and there is no service then, the children never go to church at all, and thus grow up unaccustomed to it, and ignorant of its ways and teachings. Moreover it is made by the Prayer Book the duty of the Minister of every parish "diligently upon Sundays and Holy Days, openly in the church to instruct and examine the children of his parish." Now some clergymen think they discharge this duty by having a "Children's Church" once a month during the winter, that is some eight or nine times in the year. But how much instruction can a clergyman convey in eight or nine lessons? Surely if that instruction is to be effective, and it is a duty the clergy are to perform themselves, not delegate to others, it should be given every Sunday. A Children's Service every Sunday therefore should be held for these two purposes, first that the children may acquire the habit of going to church and become familiar with the church.

And secondly, that they may be brought continually under the personal instruction of the clergy of the parish.

Now the Litany seems to be the best service in the Prayer Book that can be used for this purpose. We do not say that it is the most appropriate that could be devised for a Children's Service. But we do think that it is better than either Morning or Evenings Prayer with their long Lesson and Psalter, and places the children can hardly find. It is short, and broken up into constant responses the children can be taught to sing, and whose short, terse sentences of supplication will be apt to fasten themselves in the memory. And the actual words of the service are not after all of so much importance, it is the impression that is produced by being in the church and becoming familiar with its ministrants and offices that affects the childish mind. Certainly, as we look back on our own childhood, it is not so much the words that we heard that we remember, and that made us love the church, but the objects that were presented to our eye, what we learned by heart, and the habit that we formed. The Rector, therefore, at great additional labor to himself or his assistant, has always held this children's service every Sunday afternoon. He considers the attendance of the children at it of more importance than attendance at the Sunday school, and he trusts that the teachers of the various classes in the school will see that their children attend this service, and that the parents of those children of the parish who do not come to the Sunday school will at least send their children to attend this special children's service every Sunday afternoon. Nothing is more important to a child's future life than that he should form the habit of regular church going at least once a Sunday, and that he should be thoroughly instructed in the principles of our holy religion, and none will be as naturally competent to give that instruction as the clergy of the parish.

While this service is intended thus primarily for the children, it is one which many adults as well will find it profitable to attend.

PARISH NOTES.

S. Andrew's Brotherhood.—Our Parish Chapter of the Brotherhood held its first meeting on the evening of the first Sunday in October to organize for work for the winter. Its meetings will be held hereafter on the evening of the second Thursday of each month. The purpose of this Brotherhood is to band the young men of the Church together for the purpose of spreading and building up the Church. Each one who enters it promises to make an effort each week to bring some man to the Church or to the Bible class. They also undertake to welcome men to Church, show them to seats, provide them with Prayer Books, etc. While it started with the members of a Bible class, its membership need not be confined to those belonging to Bible classes. And we trust that all the young men in the parish whether they belong to the Bible class or not, will become members of the Brotherhood. If the men value the church for themselves they must certainly want to see their friends in it, and they are the persons who can best bring them. Many a young man who has not been in the habit of going to church could easily be induced to come if a friend asked him, and his whole life and character might be determined by his doing so.

Young men will you not associate yourselves together to do that much for your Master and for your fellow men?

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. — During the month there has been presented to the Church, a fair linen cloth with open work ends for the Credence table, a set of red silk markers with metal crosses for choir prayer books, cassock for choirman, number of pieces of carpet for kneeling hassocks, twenty-one prayer books and sixteen hymnals for the church, whisk and paper pad for the vestry, box of envelopes for the Sunday school.

EMBROIDERY CLASS.—Our class for church embroidery recommenced its work on the last Wednesday in October. It will meet regularly every Wednesday after Morning Prayer in the Parish building. Any ladies whether they belong to the congregation or not are invited to join it. A competent teacher will instruct them without remuneration, it being understood that after they have learned to embroider they will do some work for the church. The class will take orders for any kind of church needle work, and it will be glad if members of the congregation hearing of churches or clergymen needing vestments, etc., will try to secure orders for it.

THE LADIES AID begins its meetings for sewing, at the church this month on Thursdays, at 3 P. M. It will take orders for any kind of sewing. All willing to work for the church in this way are invited to join it.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL recommences with this month. It is held every Saturday after the Morning Prayers in the church. It is most useful in keeping the children out of the streets for a couple of hours on Saturdays, making them familiar with the church, giving them some religious instruction, and teaching them some handy work, the girls sewing, the boys drawing, painting, etc. There are not many parishes that have as flourishing a school of the kind as we have now maintained for years. We hope this year to have both more teachers and more scholars than ever.

LECTURE.—Our Senior Warden Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, gave a lecture before S. John's Guild last month on his reminiscenes of the war. We regret that the arrangements for the lecture were not made before the publication of the October number of the NEWS that we might have announced it in it. This might have secured the lecturer a larger audience than he had on the notice given.

THE LEAFLETS WITH THE EVENING SERVICE which we distribute every Sunday evening add very materially to the comfort of the worshippers who are not familiar with the Prayer Book, and of our own people who have not copies of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis.

THE REV. MR. THORN.—The Rector has had several letters from Mr. Thorn since he left the parish. The last announced his removal from Blairsville, where he was first stationed to Miles Grove, which he speaks of as his future home and describes as "a lonely place on Lake Erie," where he "hopes to spend many happy months." He desires to be most kindly remembered to all the members of the parish.

THE REV. MR. KITTSON.—Our new assistant Mr. Kittson had scarcely got to work in the parish before he was called away by the sickness of his wife and was absent over two Sundays. We are glad to say however he has now returned and is hard at work.

FLOWERS FOR THE ALTAR. — The congregation has noticed that there have been no flowers on the Altar during the past month. The reason has been because there have been no funds contributed for the purpose. If each member of the congregation will send a small contribution each week or each month to the Treasurer of the Flower Committe, Miss Jane B. Hewson, she will see that at least two bouquets are supplied for each Sunday and Holy Day.

SUBSCRIBERS.—We still need more subscriptions for the NEWS. We are much indebted to our friends who have secured us some new advertisements. But we want more of these too.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY.—The Society is in a most flourishing condition; indeed its development has been something exceptional. It has reached almost seventy members in a little over five months, and at the present rate of increase it will iuclude a round hundred by Christmas.

The spirit and enthusiasm of the members is very strong, and the hard work they are doing at the rehearsals is showing it results in the execution of the pieces they are singing.

A very acceptable gift of fifty copies of the anthem "I will give thanks" by Barnby, and the "Magnificat" by Berthold Tours has been received through the President, the money value of which is about eight dollars.

The Board of Managers have published a circular giving full information in regard to the Society. Copies may be had from any of the members.

THE CHOIR.—The choir during the past two months has materially increased in numbers, and Mr. Brock who has returned after a vacation of three months has resumed his old place as choirmaster, while Mr. Wilson, who so efficiently acted is his place while absent, has taken a permanent position as tenor. Mr. Wilson deserves very great credit for having kept the efficiency of the choir up to so high a standard of excellence with such a small number of choristers as were present during the summer months. The good singing done by the choir (numbering sometimes only eight or ten members) was the cause of very general commendation by the congregation.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—Two of the members started on a tramp September 15th from the Delaware Water Gap to Wilkes Barre, and from there to Philadelphia, reaching here September 25th, after walking 225 miles, a pretty good feat for two boys. Perhaps our young men may be able to form a Rambling Club or Society in connection with the Guild. This would no doubt be of great benefit to them, if we may judge by the great improvemeut in the two travellers just mentioned.

The country around Philadelphia affords many chances for pedestrian trips and our young men would be the better for more exercise of that nature

FOUND. — A small key has been picked up on the church premises, which can be had by the owner on application to the Sexton.

WANTS.—Volunteer alto and tenor singers and readers wanted for the Choral Society. Apply at the parish building any Monday evening.

Volunteer instrumentalists, chiefly violinists wanted for the Choral Society, apply at the same place, at the same time.

Wanted fifty persons to donate two Prayer Books and two Hymnals each for the use of strangers attending the church services, second-hand copies will answer.

IMPROVEMENT IN SINGING.—We are glad to note a marked improvement in the singing in the congregation. We want to have the congregation take part in the singing. The same chants are used constantly, and the majority of the hymn tunes are familiar, and it adds immensely to the effect and heartiness of the public worship of the church if the congregation will not leave the singing all to the choir, but themselves join in it.

The Sign of the Cross.

We notice that a good many members of the congregation use the Sign of the Cross, and other acts of devotion, such as bowing to the Altar when they pass before it. And some are very much offended when they see these things and say that the persons who use them are nothing but Roman Catholics. It is well therefore for us to remember that the Church says concerning the Sign of the Cross, in the office for baptism that she "knows no worthy cause of scruple concerning the same," and the office as it stands directs that it shall be marked on the person of every one baptised. If therefore, this is the judgment and use of the Church in regard to it, if there is a purpose in its use on the body of an unconscious infant, it certainly can be used to edification by an adult. If when we enter the Church we are signed with it in token that we are not to be ashamed of Christ's Cross and manfully to fight under it, it certainly can be used devotionally from time to time to remind us that we are enlisted under that banner, and of the grace and strength that flows to us from the Cross of Christ. To devoutly cross oneself is to preach a sermon and to make a prayer by a sign.

So the bowing to the Altar is a devout recognition of the sacredness and solemnity of the purpose for which the Altar is used. In the British House of Lords stands the throne or chair on which the sovereign sits when he opens or closes the Parliament. And when anyone passes that chair, even when it is vacant, he pauses and makes a reverence before it. If that is done to the chair of an earthly sovereign, surely it is not unfitting that Christians should treat with similar reverence that which not only represents the sovereignty, but the infinite goodness and condescension of God to men. Moreover we have the authority of the English Comons of 1640, and the coronation service of the English Sovereigns, which command this to be done. Certain it is that the danger of this age is not in too much reverence, but in too little. And it is very strange to hear people finding fault with others because they are too devout. Though of course there are differences of temperament. There are some persons who find edification and help in such things, and to others who have not been accustomed to them they seem strange. The true rule in regard to them is charity. Let those use them who like, and let none be offended with them, and let not those who use them be offended with those who do not. Only, if any one makes himself conspicuous by his acts of devotion, let him be very careful to carry out devout and holy conduct into all his life, or people will set him down for a formalist and a hypocrite.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER I.

Church Buildings.

Ques. How should churches be built?

Ans. So as to indicate their sacred character. A church should never be so built as to be mistaken for a bank, school or other public building.

Ques. What are the principal parts of a church?

Ans. The nave, which is the main body of the church where the congregation is accommodated; the aisles, for additional accommodation if required: the chancel, which contains the choir and sanctuary; the tower, the base of which is generally used as a vestibule and the upper part as a belfry; the organ chamber, which is usually on one side of the chancel and the vestry, which usually also adjoins the chancel.

Ques. At which end of the church is the chancel?

Ans. The east end, if the shape of the site will permit it.

Ques. How is it separated from the rest of the church?

Ans. It is raised a few steps above the level of the nave, so that the worshippers can better see the altar, etc., and it is often divided from the nave by an open screen, called the Rood screen because it is generally surmounted by a cross.

Ques. How is the nave of a church divided from the aisles?

Ans. By an arcade of columns upon which the walls of the nave rest.

Ques. What is the clere story?

Ans. The part of the nave walls above the aisle roofs. The windows in that portion of the nave are called the clere story windows.

Ques. What is the triforium?

Ans. It is a gallery running round the church beneath the clere story windows.

Ques. What is an ambulatory?

Ans. A passage way built in some churches behind the altar.

Ques. How are very large churches usually built?

Ans. In the form of a cross. And the transverse sections, are called the transepts.

Ques. What is a Cathedral?

Ans. The Bishop's church, so called because he has his cathedra or Bishop's seat there. It should be the largest and finest church in the diocese

Ques. What are the principal styles of church architecture?

Ans. The Gothic, chiefly distinguished by the use of the pointed arch. The Norman, by the round arch: and, the Italian, which is an adaptation of the Roman and Grecian orders of architecture.

Ques. In which order is the dome used?

Ans. Only in the Italian. Though there is a similar arrangement in some Gothic churches, which is called a lantern.

Ques. What is a campanile?

Ans. It is a bell tower detached from the church, used in Italian architecture.

Ques. What is a baptistry?

Ans. A separate building for the administration of baptism, sometimes detached from the church, and some time adjoining it.

Ques. What is a crypt?

Ans. A chamber beneath the church often used for interments, sometimes as a chapel.

Ques. What is an apse?

Ans. A chancel with a circular or polygonal termination.

"Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come."

The church of God in her wisdom and care for her children has properly appointed a season of preparation before each of the great festivals of the Christian year. The joyful season of Christmas is preceded by the four Sundays or the three weeks of Advent. Easter, called the Queen of Festivals, follows after the solemn forty days of Lent. While Holy Thursday, or Ascension Day, has its three Rogation days of preparation.

Lent has taken its proper place in the religious life of our church people within the last thirty years. Special services are held in every Church and Chapel during that season. Its influence has gone beyond the confines of our Church. Its presence and its spiritual power is acknowledged by our sectarian brethren, while society, often so arbitrary and scornful of pious customs, has felt obliged to submit to the call of Holy Church.

The Rogation days are still practically in abeyance excepting where the churches have daily services. Nevertheless, it must be observed, that the Collect, Epistle and Gospel of the Sunday preceding Holy Thursday plainly holds forth the truth that our blessed Lord, as our Great High Priest, stands ever "interceding for us, the Just for the unjust, to bring us to God, through whom alone we have access unto the Father."

The season of Advent is the preparation for the coming of the Lord, and in its teaching there are three leading ideas.

1. The first has reference to the historical facts in connection with our Lord's first coming.

2. The second idea is that due preparation of body, mind and soul in prayer and meditation, is necessary, if Christians desire to enjoy fully the joys of the Christmas festival. "Watch and pray" is the text of an Advent sermon.

3. The third idea is that in preparing for the spiritual pleasures of Christmas, preparation is made for the great fact still in the future,—far or near, no man knoweth, — namely, the second coming of our Lord in glory "to judge both the quick and the dead."

The Collects, Epistles and Gospels for the Sundays of Advent present us with the means to make such preparation effectual. On the first Sunday we hear the warning message of Christ's coming and the exhortation to be ready as faithful servants. On the second Sunday the Word of of God is set forth as the means by which Christ is revealed to us and that if we desire to share in the hope of everlasting life we must "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest the Holy Scriptures, which have been written for our learning." On the third Sunday, the living voice of the church, in her ministry, is raised to preach the same grand sermon of repentance, such as was preached years ago by "the Voice in the wilderness." On the fourth Sunday the same great truths and facts are repeated and emphasized. Christian brethren, the night cometh when no man can work, let us gather the fragments that remain,—the fragments of our life, of our privileges and opportunities,—"that nothing be lost." Let us watch and pray lest we enter into temptation.

CHRISTMAS OFFERING.

This church has always largely depended on special offerings at Christmas and Easter to make up the amount needed for its current expenses during the year. And though the introduction of the envelope system has largely increased our regular weekly income still, our expenses having been increased the last year some $2,000, we need a large Christmas and Easter offering to make our ends meet. The readers of the NEWS will notice in the monthly record of offerings that our expenses are estimated at $400 a month, while our receipts for current expenses each month are often much less than that. We count upon the Christmas and Easter offerings to make up the difference. It is hoped therefore that all attending the church, those who are using the envelopes as well as those who do not, will make a special and large offering for the church on Christmas day. The interest on the mortgage on our property, $750, falls due this month and we have not the money on hand to pay it.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—During the month of November there was presented to the Church a copy of the largest, handsomest Oxford folio Bible that is printed. We had long wanted one, but as they cost $50, did not know how to get it. This was given by a parishioner in memory of a deceased child. It is bound in red Turkey Morocco, with the lettering on the outside "Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, All Saints, 1888." The type in which it is printed is very large and clear, the Apocrypher being in the same type as the rest of the book, which will be a great relief to the eyes of the reader. It is also a much better size for the Lectern than the Bible we had on it before. The ladies have completed the new cassocks they were making for the boys, so that the Choir now presents a much more respectable appearance. Twenty new kneeling hassocks have been made from the pieces of carpet given us last month. If we had more carpet we could make more. A mat has been presented for the choir room. A very acceptable gift of some 56 volumes has been made to the Sunday School, and 18 for the Parish Library. A gas standard and bureau for the ladies' work room, six Prayer Books and one Hymnal for the Church, and two cans of condensed milk for the poor have also been presented. We have also to acknowledge a very handsome gift of three dozen Prayer Books and Hymnals from the Bishop White Prayer Book Society, which will be most acceptable as we were much in need of them.

SEWING MACHINE. — A very useful addition to the workroom of the church has been made by the purchase of a sewing machine, purchased jointly by S. Mary's Guild and the Ladies' Aid.

CHANGES IN THE SERVICE.—During Advent we sing as required by the new rubric in the Prayer Book the whole of the Benedictus in the Morning Service. And as ancient Catholic custom forbids the singing of the Te Deum and Gloria in Excelsis during Advent, we sing Benedicite in place of the one and the last two verses of the Hymn Dies iræ 483 in place of the other.

IMPROVEMENTS.— One or two improvements have been made recently in the Church, which will add materially to the comfort of the congregation, and also be an economy. A branch pipe has been carried from one of the heaters under the Church to the Guild room, which is now used as a Vestry. This heats this room better than it has ever been heated before, and enables us to dispense with the extra fire that is under it, except in very cold weather when it may be needed to heat the large school room above. A stop-cock has also been put on the main gas pipe from the meter, so that the light throughout the Church can be regulated from one place. This will enable us to make a great saving in gas by not turning it up to the full height until the service begins. Storm doors have also been put in the vestibule, which will prevent the inside doors swinging open and causing a draught upon those sitting in the back part of the church.

MOVE UP IN YOUR SEATS.— In a church where the seats are free, those who go first into a pew should sit down at the upper end of it, and not force those who come later to push by them in order to get a seat. It makes it much easier too for those coming late to find seats, for if all the ends of the pews next to the aisles are filled, one does not readily see where the vacant places are. If this rule is observed it will add to the comfort of all. We have heard complaints of the discourtesy of some in forcing others to push by them.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies of the Women's Guild are now engaged in making up their annual missionary box. It is to be sent to a clergyman in the Diocese of Michigan, who is very anxious to get it before the cold weather sets in. Donations of money and material are still needed for it. Those who are willing to sew for it, can get pieces of clothing, &c., to make up, on Wednesdays after Prayers in the morning or evening.

THE YEAR BOOK for 1887-'8, containing the report of all the work of the Church for the past ecclesiastical year, with statistics, &c., was distributed in the Church on the Sunday next before Advent. Any who did not get copies can obtain them from the Sexton.

ENVELOPE SYSTEM.—We are glad to find the envelope system has been so generally and heartily taken up by the congregation. 105 Pledges have now been made. As these represent in many cases not simply individuals but families, this shows that the system has been adopted by the great bulk of the congregation, some few only preferring to contribute still by the old method. We hope however to see additional pledges made, as we are convinced that it is the most business like and surest way to support the church. And every member of the family, as well as the head, ought to make a pledge, and thus discharge the duty of individually offering a fixed proportion of ones substance to the Lord.

NOTICE. — On Sunday afternoon, October 28th, the Rev. Mr. Kittson baptised two children. The persons who brought them were not their parents, and were not able to give exact information in regard to date of birth, etc., required for the register, but promised to furnish it. They have not done so, and there is no record on the parish register whatever in regard to these baptisms. As there is no means of knowing who the parties were, it is hoped that this notice may reach their eyes, and that they will supply the required information. The parish record of a baptism is very important, and is frequently appealed to as legal evidence of age, etc.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—S. John's Guild had a very pleasant entertainment provided for it on its last recreation night, to which the congregation generally was invited. It was given by a gentleman who has lately connected himself with our congregation and who has great powers as a humorist. We shall hope to hear him again. S. Mary's Guild is also to have a Chocolate Party which will take place before this number of the NEWS is issued. The proceeds are to go towards paying the interest on our mortgage due this month. The vestry will be much indebted to their young friends for their help. On the evening of S. John's day, December 27th, S. John's Guild will have their annual supper, and on Holy Innocents day, December 28th, we shall have as usual a festival for the Sunday school children. Donations for both of these entertainments will be needed. Contributions placed in the Alms boxes in the vestibule which are marked for "flowers," during the week before Christmas' will be used in providing the Christmas decorations for the church and the children's festival. Before the entertainment the children will sing their Christmas carols in the church, and we hope the parents of the children and members of the congregation generally will be present to hear them sing.

HONOR ROLL.—As through an inadvertence the Sunday school honor roll was not published last month, we have a very long list this month as it covers both October and November. But we are glad to see so many names of boys as well as girls deserving commendation.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER II.

Church Furniture.

Ques. What is the chief article of furniture in the church?

Ans. The Altar, whereon is celebrated the Sacrament of the Holy Communion.

Ques. Where should it stand?

Ans. At the extreme end of the chancel and elevated as much as possible above the nave.

Ques. Why is this?

Ans. Because it occupied a similar position in the Jewish temple, and in S. John's vision of the worship of Heaven. And because it sets forth Christ Crucified for man, and as the great source of spiritual life. which is the chief teaching of our religion.

Ques. What is its size?

Ans. It should be 3 feet, 6 inches high, at least 2 feet deep and from 6 to 12 feet long, according to the size of the church.

Ques. What should there be behind it?

Ans. A shelf, called a Retable, or shelves called Gradines, to hold the Altar ornaments.

Ques. What is a Reredos?

Ans. It is an architectural structure of wood or stone, often highly ornamented with sculpture, painting, or mosaic, erected behind the Altar to give it greater dignity and prominence.

Ques. What is a Dossel?

Ans. A rich curtain sometimes hung behind the Altar where there is no Reredos, or at its sides.

Ques. What other furniture is there in the chancel?

Ans. A small side table or shelf in the wall, called the Credence, to hold the vessels, etc., used in the Altar service.

Ques. On which side should this be?

Ans. Always on the south or epistle side, because the Deacon or Server stands at that side of the Celebrant, and so it is more convenient for him to reach the vessels when they are needed.

Ques. What are the Sedilia?

Ans. Three seats, sometimes built in the wall, on the epistle side of the chancel, for the celebrant, gospeller and epistoler. If they are on the same level the celebrant sits in the centre one, the gospeller on his right and the espistoler on his left. If they are on different steps as they are sometimes arranged the celebrant sits on the highest, the gospeller on the next, and the epistoler on the lowest.

Ques. Should there be any other furniture in the chancel?

Ans. Nothing but a movable chair provided for the bishop when he visits the church or performs Pontifical acts, and some small wooden forms for Severs or Acolytes.

Ques. What may be placed at the entrance of the sanctuary?

Ans. A rail for the convenience of communicants in kneeling, and to separate it from the rest of the chancel.

Ques. How is the choir furnished?

Ans. With benches or stalls arranged on each side, running the length of the choir and facing each other.

Ques. Why is this?

Ans. For facility in antiphonal singing, the choir being thus divided into two parts, the one side responding to the other. The choir boys sit on the front benches on each side, the choir men behind them, and the clergy behind them.

Ques. Which is the Dean or Rector's stall?

Ans. The Dean's stall in a Cathedral, or the Rector's in a Parish Church is always the stall nearest the nave on the epistle side. Hence that side of the choir is called the Decani, and the opposite side, on which the Cantor or leader of the choir usually sits, the Cantoris.

Ques. What other furniture is in the choir?

Ans. A Lectern to hold the sacred Scriptures from which the lessons are read. It is sometimes placed in the space between the two sets of stalls, and sometimes on a platform just outside the Chancel arch.

Ques. Of what form is it sometimes?

Ans. Of the form of an eagle, to signify that the Scriptures were brought down as it were on wings from Heaven.

Ques. Where is the Pulpit generally placed?

Ans. Outside the Chancel arch on the gospel side.

Ques. What is the Litany desk?

Ans. A low desk on the floor of the nave, just outside the Chancel, facing the Altar, at which the Litany is said.

Ques. Why is it placed there?

Ans. Because the Litany being a most deeply penitential supplication, the Priest who says it, kneels on the same level as the people, and as their spokesman and representative, pours it out before the Lord, as Solomon knelt with his hands stretched out towards the altar, and "the Priests wept between the Porch and the Altar" on occasions of prayer and penitence.

Ques. Where is the Font usually placed?

Ans. Near one of the doors of the Church, to signify that it is by Baptism that we enter the church.

Ques. What other pieces of furniture are needed in a Church?

Ans A Bier, on which the body is carried into the church when it is brought for the burial office, and chairs or benches for the accommodation of the congregation.

A Christmas Carol.

Composed for this issue of the NEWS by a member of the congregation.

Round a cradle rough and lowly
In a far off Eastern land,
Swelled those sounds so sweet and holy
From a glorious Angel band.

"Peace on earth, good will to men!"
The glad message rings again
From far, far across the ocean,
And o'er the wide-spread main!

Long ago those echoes floated
Round the manger bare and plain,
And year after year have gathered,
Giving back the song again.

Eighteen hundred years and over
Has the glorious anthem rolled
Till the listening world has caught it,
And the mighty truth been told—

That the little human Baby,
Was the King of Heaven above,
Who had come on earth to sojourn
In the greatness of His Love!

With pardon for the erring ones,
With peace for human pain,
With news of Everlasting Life
The loving Saviour came.

From that quiet, lowly manger,
Has gone forth the Angel's song,
And its echoes faintly ringing
Have been caught from throng to throng.

And now the wide-world over,
At the early Christmas dawn,
Comes the gladsome Angel's message,
That the Son of God was born!

Soars up the Christmas Carol
That commenced in Bethlehem,
From the lips of countless multitudes
Swells the joyous, glad "Amen!"

From that cradle rough and lowly
In that far off Eastern land,
Come those echoes never dying
Of the glorious Angel band.
Christmas echoes mingling, mingling,
Over every Christian land.

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published by S. John's Guild, under the direction of the Rector.

As the Guild desires this paper to be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, (if sent by mail 60 cents) to be paid in advance, to Mr. William H. Cope, 112 South Fourth Street.

Advertising rates, 50 cents per inch for each insertion. Special rates to yearly advertisers.

NEW YEAR'S GREETING.

This issue of the NEWS is its literal "New Year's Greeting," as it enters thus upon the second year of its existence. We think the volume that has been completed has proved to be all that was promised or hoped for from its issue. We have striven to make the paper literally what its name implies, a mode of communicating to all our parishioners the news of the parish. Other parish papers we see are nearly all advertisements, or taken up with a few long disquisitions on moral or religious topics, or composed only of elegant extracts, or worse still, filled with vituperations against persons or parties they disagree with. But we have aimed at something higher, viz: the keeping all informed of every thing that is going on in the parish, trying to interest them in it, and at the same time inciting them to the faithful performance of their religious duties, and explaining, to those who may not be familiar with them, our various customs and teachings. And from the many expressions we have heard on all sides of approval and eagerness to see the paper, we conclude that our aim has been pretty well fulfilled. Financially we have done as well, we suppose, as we could expect. We were told when we began that no parish paper ever paid for itself, but, in our first year, we have come not so very far from doing so, as the subjoined statement of our business manager will show. Perhaps some kind friends will come forward and square up our account for the past year, and if all the members of the parish will subscribe for the coming year, and also exert themselves to get us some more advertisements, we would not only meet our own expenses in the future, but have a surplus to turn over to our church account. However, we mean to persevere and we are sure we shall be no unimportant factor in accomplishing the great work which we see lies before this parish in the years to come.

In reviewing the history of the parish during the past year we feel that substantial progress has been made. The congregation has increased, the attendance especially at the Sunday evening service has been much better than before; the work has extended, as the spiritual statistics will show, more than fifty baptisms for instance having been administered during the last year; some very great improvements have been made to the church building; the offerings for current expenses have been much larger; the rector and assistant minister have received regular salaries throughout the year, and the amount expended for the music has been double that of previous years, in addition to which quite a sum has been accumulated towards extinguishing the church debt. Still this is only the beginning of what we hope to accomplish in the future. We want to see the church crowded at every service. We want to have its ministrations carried into multitudes of homes in its neighborhood which are yet strangers to any religious influence. We want our income increased so as to give our clergy sufficient salaries and perhaps employ more. We want our whole church debt wiped out, our building completed, a clergy house and perhaps other accessories added. This is some of the work before us. Let us all be a united and determined band, and let each contribute his share, and it can be done. May the new year see us take a great stride forward. May that year above all see us a happy, peaceful family. Let no petty, contemptible jealousness and rancors disturb our harmony and interfere with our progress. Let each one rise above considerations of self, and feel that they are working for God and for His Church, and whatsoever they undertake, do it with their might. With conscientious, self-denying clergy for leaders, who seek not their own, but the things of the Lord, is it too much to expect that those who engage in the work of the church should do it, not for their own pleasure or exaltation, but that they may serve the Lord Christ. If all are animated by that spirit, God's blessing will rest upon the church, and attend the labors of each one working in it. Such a Happy New Year we wish our readers and the parish to which they belong.

Change of Management.

Mr. Chas. L. S. Tingley who has been our very efficient business manager for the past year retires, and Mr. Willian H. Cope another member of S. John's Guild, and one of our vestrymen, takes his place. His address will be 112 S. 4th Street, where he can be seen any day during business hours upon matters connected with the NEWS.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS. — On Christmas day the Rector was presented with a new set of Eucharistic vestments of linen, the Orphreys of the Chasuble being beautifully embroidered. A pot of artificial flowers was presented for the Vestry table, 500 labels for the prayer books and hymnals of the Church, some decorations for the Christmas tree, and a large number of fancy articles for the sale held in connection with the entertainment given by S. Mary's Guild. There have also been added to our Church cupboard, 4 doz. cups and saucers, 2 sugar bowls, 3 small pitchers, 2 waiters, a coffee pot and other tin ware, all of which will prove very useful in future entertainments. We have also secured 2 tons of coal for the poor, and 4 turkeys, a ham, a quantity of bread, butter, coffee, sugar, cake, and preserves were donated for the annual supper of S. John's Guild, and the Chocolate party of S. Mary's Guild, and 14 cakes and 184 oranges for the Sunday school festival.

ENTERTAINMENTS. — Our December entertainments all proved very successful and enjoyable occasions. They began with a "Chocolate party" given by S. Mary's Guild for the benefit of the Church. The large school room in the parish building was filled, and beside the refreshments provided there was quite a programme of musical selections, and humorous recitations, also a sale of fancy articles. The amount realized over the expenses was $77, which was placed on the Altar on Christmas day as an offering from the Guild.

On the evening of S. John's day our Young Men's Guild held their anniversary, sitting down to a very sumptuous supper of cold turkey, ham, dressed celery, pickles, coffee, ice cream and cake. Just fifty young men including the members of the Guild and their invited guests were thus entertained. There was also some piano music and after dinner speeches.

The next night, Holy Innocent's day, was the children's Christmas festival. The children entered the Church headed by the choir and two banners. The singing was accompanied by organ and cornet. The children filled both sides of the middle aisle and the rest of the church was well filled by the families and friends of the scholars. After singing five carols and an address from the Rector all adjourned to the school building where there was a Christmas tree, and sugar plums, cake and toys were distributed to the children, the latter by a veritable Kriss Kringle who caused much joy and merriment among the little ones. There were also some recitations by some members of the school and a final tableau representing "good night."

The hearty thanks of all who enjoyed these entertainments are due to those whose liberality and whose labor provided them. Christmas comes only once a year, and it is the only joy of the kind that comes into some lives in a whole year.

COMPARISON OF OFFERINGS.—In the September number of the NEWS we published a comparison of offerings for the current expenses of the church from May 1st to September 1st, 1887 and 1888. The receipts during that period in 1887 were $540.20 and for the corresponding period in 1888 they were $1,027.08, being an increase of $486.88. We can now give a comparison between another four months of this year and last year from September 1st to January 1st, which includes the Christmas offering each year. The receipts for current expenses during that period last year were $1,345.17, and this year $1,590.20, being an increase of $245.03. Putting these two comparisons together we see that the increase for the eight months from May 1st, 1888, to January 1st, 1889, over the corresponding eight months last year is $731.91. This certainly is largely due to the adoption of the envelope system. Let every attendant of the church make a pledge according to his ability and we shall see our receipts still further increase.

LOST AND FOUND.— Three muffs have been left in the church this month. They can be had from the Sexton on proving ownership

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.—Nine new members were formally received last month into S. Andrew's Brotherhood. We trust this association is going to become a power in building up our church, and bringing men into it. The Brotherhood meets the second Thursday evening of each month.

NEW TEACHERS.—We are glad to welcome four new workers in the Sunday school this month, three of whom are men. We trust this is a beginning of men devoting themselves to this most useful and important work.

WANTED.—A thoroughly competent teacher for a Bible class of men on Sunday afternoons.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR 1889 are now due. We will acknowledge them each month as they are paid. Fifty cents a year is the subscription, sixty cents if sent by mail.

BACK NUMBERS. — Persons wanting back numbers of the NEWS so as to complete sets, making up the first volume can obtain them in the vestry.

A LECTURE on "Indians and Cowboys," under the auspices of S. John's Guild, will be given in the Parish Building, on Tuesday evening, January 15th, at the nominal admission price of 25 cents. We should like to see the congregation present.

The position of the Priest at the Altar.

Many persons do not understand why when the priest stands at the altar he should turn his back on the people, and they think it very improper that he should do so. But if they would consider what the office is which the priest performs they would see why he does it. The priest acts in divine worship in two capacities. He is first the representative of God to man. As the apostle says "we are ambassadors of God, as though God did beseech you by us." So when he acts in this capacity and speaks in God's name to the people, as he does when he is preaching, reading the Scriptures, exhorting or pronouncing the absolution, he naturally and properly turns towards and faces the people. But then secondly he acts as the representative of the people, to present their prayers and praises, confessions and offerings to God. So as naturally and properly when he does this he should stand as a leader stands at the head of his troops to lead or represent them, all facing the same way. This certainly is the common sense rule. And the position of the priest teaches the people what is the nature of the action he is performing. In sectarian churches where there is only a single desk facing the people, behind which the preacher always stands, you actually hear of prayers spoken of as "addressed to the audience." It is unnatural and embarrassing for a clergyman to say his prayers with his face to the people, and it makes the congregation look upon themselves as an "audience." The clergyman should be as inconspicuous as possible. All that is wanted is to hear his voice pouring forth the supplications, which the people make their own by saying "Amen." This is the plain meaning and direction of the Prayer Book, as is seen for instance in the transition in the Communion office where the rubrics says "the priest turning to the people shall say" the comfortable words, and "then shall the priest turn to the Lord's table and say" the preface to the ter sanctus, which is an ascription of praise to God.

Some old fashioned clergymen try to comply with these rubrics and yet not turn their backs on the people, by going round and standing at the end of the Altar, and so when they turn to it they have their side only to the people and their face to the side wall of the chancel, a position without significance or convenience. Some even remove all the vessels to one end of the altar and consecrate the elements in this position, a very strange and awkward way in which to use a long narrow table. When the rubric directs the priest to begin the Communion service at "the right side" of the Altar, it means the right side of the front, not the end, as that was never used in any portion of the church until this invention of Anglicans to avoid wounding Puritan sensibilities in regard to the priest turning his back on the people. But it is not the direction of the Prayer Book. Everything there has a meaning, and will be found, if studied, to be grounded on common sense and convenience, and calculated to teach truths which otherwise might be lost sight of. There is etiquette and propriety to be observed in the intercourse of social life. So also is there in so important and solemn a thing as the rendering of worship to Almighty God, and even such a thing as the position in which the celebrant of that worship is to stand, is not too insignificant to be regulated by rule. But the rule to be observed will naturally be different from that observed in the intercourse of man with man.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

Chapter III.

Ornaments and Vessels.

Question. What are Altar Ornaments?

Answer. First, a Cross or Crucifix, which is placed on the Retable, immediately above the Altar. It is made of wood or metal, often highly wrought and ornamented. It is put in this position in order that, as the great sign and symbol of our religion, it may always be the most conspicuous object before the eyes of the worshippers.

Second, two or more Candlesticks, with candles. A beautiful and expressive symbol used in Divine worship by all religions, signifying the Divine life.

Ques. What is the authority for the use of lights in our church?

Ans. They were prescribed by the old canons of the Church of England, and by the injunctions of Edward VI, "to signify that Christ is the true light of the world," and they have always stood upon the Altars of the Cathedrals, Royal chapels and other principal Churches of England.

Ques. Where else are they used excepting upon the Altar?

Ans. They are placed on or around the Bier at funerals, to signify that the soul is still living and enjoying the light of God's presence, and they are sometimes carried in processions.

Ques. What else should be upon the Altar?

Ans. A small desk of brass or wood to hold the service book. Also vases of suitable shape and workmanship to hold flowers on festival occasions.

Ques. What is a Chalice?

Ans. A cup set on a stem in which the wine for the Eucharist is consecrated, and from which the people are communicated. It should be made of gold, silver gilt, or silver, and is often decorated with gems, enamel or engraving. It should be the richest vessel belonging to the church.

Ques. What is a Paten?

Ans. It is a disk of the same material as the Chalice, and made to fit on top of it, to hold the bread for the Eucharist.

Ques. What are the Cruets?

Ans. Small bottles of glass or silver, to hold the wine and water before they are poured into the Chalice.

Ques. What is a Flagon?

Ans. It is a large Tankard, made of silver, to hold the wine, when there are many communicants.

Ques. What is a Pyx?

Ans. A covered box or vessel which holds the Breads before they are placed upon the Paten.

Ques. What are Alms Basins?

Ans. Plates or vessels in which the Alms of the congregation are collected.

Ques. What is an Alms Receiver?

Ans. A large basin, in which the alms plates are placed, or the money poured before it is placed on the Altar.

Ques. What is an Altar Spoon?

Ans. A Spoon of rich material and workmanship, used for removing any foreign matter which may fall into the Chalice, or for administering the Eucharist to those who cannot conveniently receive it in any other way.

Ques. What other utensils are used in the Altar Service?

Ans. An ewer and bason for the Lavabo, or washing of the Priest's hands before he consecrates the elements.

Ques. What is used in the administration of Baptism?

Ans. A cup, shell, or other vessel, from which the water may be "poured" upon the candidate as the rubric directs.

Ques. What is a Processional Cross?

Ans. A Cross made of wood or metal, placed upon a staff, which is carried, as the Standard of the Church, at the head of processions or before the choir or clergy.

Ques. What is a Crozier?

Ans. A Staff in the shape of a shepherd's crook, highly ornamented, the symbol of the Bishop's authority. It was directed by the first English Prayer Book to be given to each Bishop at his consecration.

Ques. What is an Arch-Episcopal Staff?

Ans. A similar rich staff, terminating in a small cross, the symbol of an Archbishop or metropolitan.

Ques. What is a Corona?

Ans. It is a crown shape chandelier, sometimes used to light the chancel.

Ques. What are Sanctuary Lamps?

Ans. Lamps suspended by chains from the roof of the Sanctuary, and kept perpetually burning, generally seven in number, to represent "the seven spirits of God which are before His throne."

Ques. What else is used to decorate the walls of the Church or carried in Procession?

Ans. Banners, painted or embroidered with various ecclesiastical devices or pictures.

Ques. What is a Thurible?

Ans. A vessel suspended by chains, carried in the hand, in which incense is burned.

Ques. What authority is there for the use of incense in Divine worship?

Ans. It was used in the Jewish worship, and universally in the Christian church until the Reformation, and in many English churches down to the reign of King George III.

CONFIRMATION.

There are some subjects of which we have to speak every year. One of these is Confirmation, because every year there are young persons growing up who should be Confirmed, and those older persons who have never been Confirmed need to be reminded of their duty. Though in regard to this last class of persons, every year they put off being Confirmed makes it less and less likely that they ever will be, and any reminder of its necessity seems more and more useless. Yet there are many persons who are not Confirmed, not so much from a deliberate refusal to do their duty, as from a mistaken idea as to what Confirmation is and what it involves. Many think that it is simply a profession, a profession that they are good, and they shrink from making that profession both because they cannot honestly feel that they are good, and from fear of not being able to live up to the standard required of them. But every one should remember that the requirement to be good does not in the least depend upon whether we make a profession or not. Every one who has so much as heard of the Christian religion is required to live a Christian life, and he must answer for it if he does not. The vows of Confirmation are the natural necessary vows which every Christian should make because he is a Christian, and the obligation to keep the vows is binding upon every one whether he is Confirmed or not. The object of Confirmation is that every one may receive a special invocation of the Spirit of God upon him that he may have grace and strength to live as every Christian should live. Of course it would be a mockery for any one to seek that invocation unless he was honestly determined to try to do his duty. But any one who has that determination, not only may, but should be Confirmed, that he may gain the help to do what he cannot do in his own strength.

Nothing is more important for young men or women just growing up, and beginning to act for themselves and direct their own lives, than that they should receive this rite which the Church has provided for that most critical period of their lives, to protect them from the dangers to which they will be exposed, and help them to walk aright. What more beautiful or happy than a life that has never seriously gone wrong, but has been moral and virtuous from its youth. Parents and guardians try to secure that blessing for your wards.

But if any have gone wrong or have been living lives of neglect and forgetfulness of God, how much better will it be for them to turn over a new leaf the first opportunity that offers. Or if there are some who have been trying to be good without having been Confirmed, let them remember that they have not been doing all their duty or enjoying all the privileges they should, and so it is their bounden duty to be Confirmed. We have never heard of the case of any one regretting they had been Confirmed, but many live to regret they have not been. Let every one be Confirmed then when he has the opportunity. It is only a privilege and blessing, why should it not be received? If you have any serious doubt or difficulty in your mind in regard to the propriety of your being Confirmed, go to one of the clergy and consult him about it. Don't trust your own judgment in the matter. Or if it is only diffidence keeps you back, think of the tremendous importance and necessity of the act, and do not let a little feeling of diffidence keep you from doing what is your duty, and so essential to your good.

We trust all the adults in the parish not yet Confirmed will seriously consider this matter. The Bishop has appointed the evening of April 25th, to administer Confirmation in our Church, and we mention the fact thus early that all may have the time to think it over, and not have the excuse that they had not time to consider it. The Rector will give a course of instructions every Monday, at 4 P. M., in the Guild room, beginning with the first Monday in March, and the Assistant Minister a similar course every Thursday, at 8 P. M., during March and April. All looking forward to Confirmation are expected to attend one or other of these classes, and any interested in the subject are invited to be present.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have received last month a donation of 43 volumes for the Sunday school library, also $5 to purchase books for the same, ½ ton of coal for a poor woman, a long wooden handle for taper to light the Altar lights, a quantity of long candles and wafer breads for Altar, and an embroidered linen cover for Chalice pall.

THE S. JOHN'S GUILD LECTURE.—A very entertaining lecture was given by Mr. Gray on the 15th ult., for the benefit of the Guild. The subject was the lecturer's own experience among the Indians and Cowboys of the West.

The small attendance can be accounted for only on the supposition that the people of the parish have an idea that such entertainments are intended only for the members of the Guild. This is a mistaken idea, however. It is hoped that the next effort made by the members of S. John's will be patronized by all as it no doubt will be.

THE BOYS OF THE PARISH. — The clergy recognize the responsibility that lies at the door of the Church with regard to the many boys who throng the street corners of our neighborhood. What are we doing for them? What can we do for them? We are doing comparatively nothing, but we could do something with the proper and sufficient means. Who will give us the means? A beginning has been made in the proper direction with the boys of our Sunday school, and our choir. Once a month the doors of the parish building will be thrown open for their entertainment. On the eve of the conversion of S. Paul, all the boys were invited to a "donkey party" and were regaled with a goodly supply of oranges. In this way the clergy are trying to become better acquainted with their young charges. Who will help!

We ought to have a reading room, a parlor for quiet games, a gymnasium, etc. Give the boys a chance.

COAL FOR THE POOR. —The young men of the Bible Class have formed an Association to supply coal for the benefit of the poor of the parish.

At a meeting held for the purpose of organization, the following officers were elected:

President, The Rector; Vice-Presidents, Lawrence Gaff, Stewart W. Jackson; Treasurer, Carroll Hodge; Secretary, Edw. Carpenter, Jr.; Advisory Board, Rev. Henry Kittson, Miss Jane Hewson, Mrs. Grimball.

All the money collected in the Bible Class will go for this purpose, but the members of the Association will be glad of contributions from others not members of the class.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Forty-six subscriptions expired with the December number of the NEWS. Only 17 have been renewed. Will not the others please renew at once and endeavor to get as many new subscribers as possible. There are certainly 50 members of the parish, not on the list, who should become subscribers and if all will help, the paper can easily be put on a self-supporting basis. Please consider this as a personal appeal.

THE MISSIONARY BOX.—The box of the Domestic Missionary Society was shipped on January 15th, to the Rev. A. Bailey Hill, Albert Lea, Minnesota.

It was solidly packed with underwear, clothing, shoes, blankets, quilts, and groceries, and was in every respect a most satisfactory one. All of the underwear was new, and most of the clothing. At a time when a new dress for the Missionary's wife was almost out of the question, owing to lack of funds, the members of S. Mary's Guild most generously provided one of durable and suitable material together with the necessary trimmings, &c. The only regret was that the box got off so late. This was not the fault of the committee as they were only given the work by the Women's Auxiliary late in November. The ladies of the Domestic Committee desire to return their thanks to those who contributed in money, goods and labor, and would especially thank S. Mary's Guild for their much appreciated assistauce. The box was valued at $125.00.

THE REV. MR. THORN wrote a long letter to the Rector last month, giving an account of a donation party he had had, when his house was taken possession of by a large number of his parishioners and stocked with all manner of provisions for the Winter. He seems to feel that his lot has fallen in pleasant places, but adds that he looks eagerly each month for the ASCENSION NEWS to tell him of our parish, where he says "I passed some of the happiest days of my life." He will see from our references to him that we don't forget him.

BUILDING FUND.—Our readers will notice the receipt of $1,000 towards this fund last month. It came from a source outside the parish. Our warmest thanks are due for it. May it lead to others. It would be a grand thing for the Church if we could soon build our Chancel. Five or six thousand dollars in all would be required. We have also now over a thousand dollars paid in towards reducing our Church debt. Let both funds go on together.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL. — These scholars have attended Sunday school and service every Sunday during the past month. They have also had good lessons and been perfect in conduct. As some of the teachers were absent on account of the storm the last Sunday of the month, the list may not be perfect, if so, it will be rectified next month.

Welcome From S. John's Guild.

The following poem from the facile pen of one of our parishioners was read at the Guild's Annual Supper on the evening of S. John's Day, December 27th, 1888.

We bid you a kindly welcome
In the glow of the Christmas light,
Our brothers in spirit, and heart, and work,
While the Christmas cheer is bright!

There is never a life so lonely
But is cheered by a pleasant word,
There is never a heart so full of care
But the voice of a friend can be heard.

The Guild of Christ's best loved Apostle,
Would follow His motto today,
In the world—our wide, rocky Patmos,
We would ever His motto obey.

"Little children love one another,"
Are the words of the "Martyr in will,"
Let us ever press forward with vigor,
And his loving injunction fulfil.

Then brothers accept of the welcome
We give you so gaily to-night,
Let us laugh and be merry in season,
While we always stand up for the right

Let us set up this evening a milestone
To guide us in life's busy day,
To cheer us when moments are dreary,
Or storms turn us out of the way.

With a sigh for the year that's departing,
With a smile for the new one just here,
Let us welcome the newcomer's advent,
With laughter, and song, and good cheer.

Let's have a good time and be jolly,
Hurrah for our sweethearts and wives!
Hurrah for the dainty-sweet darlings,
The pleasure and plague of our lives!

Hurrah for these pleasant, bright meetings!
Hurrah for our plentiful cheer!
Come give us a handshake in earnest,
With Hurrah for the coming New Year!

CHAPTER IV.

Vestments.

Question. Why are Vestments used in Divine worship?

Answer. In order that the various ministrants may be decently and appropriately clad according to their various offices or the functions which they perform.

Ques. What is the authority for their use?

Ans. They were appointed in the Old Testament to be used in the Jewish worship, they appear in S. John's description of the worship of Heaven, and they have been used universally throughout the Christian Church.

Ques. What is the general Vestment used in some shape by all ministrants in all services?

Ans. A white linen garment, which signifies "the righteousness of the saints," the purity and holiness necessary for all who engage in the worship of God, or minister about holy things.

Ques. What is a Cassock?

Ans. A close fitting clerical coat reaching to the ankles, worn by all persons occupied in the services of the Church. It is generally made of black serge or cloth. Sometimes it is purple or scarlet.

Ques. What is a Surplice?

Ans. It is a loose vestment with flowing sleeves of white linen, reaching below the waist or knees, used by priests and deacons in their ordinary ministrations.

Ques. What is a Cotta?

Ans. It is a short Surplice, with tight sleeves, worn by choir men and boys, servers or other lay ministrants.

Ques. What is a Stole?

Ans. It is a scarf of rich material, generally widened at the ends, terminated with a fringe and ornamented with embroidery, worn by a Bishop or Priest over both shoulders and by a Deacon over one shoulder. It distinguishes the clergy from others taking part in Divine service, and signifies the "yoke" of their office. It can vary in color according to the Church season or office in which it is used.

Ques. What are the Eucharistic Vestments?

Ans. Special Vestments used only in the celebration of the Holy Communion, to give It greater dignity and distinguish it from all other services.

Ques. What are they?

Ans. The Alb, which is a long vestment of white linen or cambric reaching to the feet, with close sleeves. The Amice, which is a separate collar made of the same material, often decorated with embroidery, under which the Stole is passed. The Chasuble, which is a circular vestment reaching nearly to the knees, without sleeves, with a hole in the centre through which the head is passed, worn over the Alb and Stole. It is made of linen or rich stuff, and decorated with embroidery. It generally has stripes on both the back and front of it, in the shape of a cross, called "Orphreys." If made of stuff, it may vary in color with the season of the Church year or office in which it is used. The Girdle, which is a cord confining the Alb at the waist, and through which the ends of the Stole are passed to hold it in its place, it being crossed over the breast when used by a Priest in the Eucharistic office. The Maniple, which is a linen napkin worn over the Priest's or Deacon's left arm on which he wipes the Chalice as he administers it. When the celebrant does not minister the Chalice, he sometimes wears a Maniple made of the same material as his Chasuble or Stole.

Ques. What are Dalmatics and Tunicles?

Ans. They are vestments similar to the Chasuble, but cut square and with short, open sleeves, worn by the Gospeller and Epistoler who assist the Priest in the Celebration.

Ques. What is a Cope?

Ans. It is a semi-circular cloak of rich material reaching to the feet, without sleeves, fastened over the chest by a clasp called a Morse, with a piece of embroidery on the back called the Hood, and with stripes of embroidery running down the front. It is worn by Bishops in performing Episcopal acts, and by Priests in Processions, Marriages, Burials and other solemn services.

Ques. What is the authority for the use of these vestments?

Ans. They have been used from time immemorial throughout the Catholic Church. The first English Prayer Book of King Edward VI, prescribed them, and the present English Prayer Book orders that "such ornaments of the Church and of the ministers thereof, at all times of their ministrations shall be retained and be in use as were in the Church of England in the second year of the reign of Edward VI." And as there are no directions in our American Prayer Book in regard to vestments, but the Preface to the Prayer Book declares that the American Church has no intention of departing from the worship of the Church of England, whatever was the law of that Church when ours became independent of it must be the law with us, until some other law is passed.

Ques. How is it then that the Surplice and Stole have been generally the only vestments used with us in Divine Service?

Ans. Because after the Reformation the opposition of the Puritans to all vestments was so great, that it was usually found expedient to retain only the simplest and most necessary one. Copes, however, were worn in some English Churches and Cathedrals down to the end of the last century, and always in Westminster Abbey on State occasions, and the revived use of all the vestments has been very extended of late years.

Ques. What is a Biretta?

Ans. It is a square cap of silk or other stuff, worn by the clergy in processions, and services out of doors.

Ques. What is a Mitre?

Ans. It is a cap worn by a Bishop, made of rich material, cloven in the midst, to represent the tongues of fire which sat on the heads of the Apostles at Pentecost, to show that Bishops are the successors of the Apostles, and share in their gifts.

Ques. What else does a Bishop wear?

Ans. A Rochet, which is a surplice made of lawn or very fine linen, with tight sleeves, or loose sleeves confined by a band at the wrist.

Ques. What do our Bishops generally wear in place of a Cope?

Ans. A Chimere, which is a cloak made of black satin, through which the sleeves of the Rochet are passed. It is not properly an ecclesiastical vestment, but was simply the street dress of dignified persons in the reigns of Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth.

Ques. What other ornaments does a Bishop sometimes wear?

Ans. A rich ring, set generally with a sapphire, worn upon the fourth finger of the right hand, to signify that he is wedded to his Diocese. Also a pectoral cross, a rich metal cross worn on the breast, suspended by a chain around the neck.

Ques. What is a Verger's Gown?

Ans. It is a gown of black stuff sometimes ornamented with velvet, with straight or loose sleeves, worn by Sextons or Vergers in Churches and Cathedrals.

Ques. What do Servers, Acolytes and Cross-bearers sometimes wear?

Ans. Girded Albs with Amices.

BUILDING OF THE CHANCEL.

It is with the greatest pleasure, and devout thankfulness, that we announce to the congregation that arrangements have been made by which the building of the Chancel, Organ Chamber and Vestry of the Church will be proceeded with at once. This will be an immense improvement to the appearance of the Church, both on the exterior and in the interior. It will take away from the small and unfinished effect it has now, and make it a striking architectural feature on the street. It will afford ample accommodation for the Choir and add greatly to the dignity with which the service can be celebrated. It will enable us to obtain a large pipe organ, which is what we need to make our music as attractive as it should be. It will give us a permanent and separate Vestry for the clergy, and afford additional seating capacity in the Church. It will enable us also to remove the unsightly wooden fence, and grade the ground at the south end of the property. And this great improvement coming so soon after our getting into the Church itself, will, we are sure, give a great impulse to the growth of the parish and increase of the congregation.

The addition to the building will be of grey stone on the exterior and different colored brick on the interior, to correspond with the part already erected. The Chancel will be 30 feet deep, by 25 feet wide, with an apsidal termination It will be divided from the Nave by a dwarf screen of brick and stone, on which it is hoped, some day may be erected a high screen of ornamental metalic work. There will be three steps within the sanctuary running across the chancel, and the Sedelia, Credence and Bishop's seat will be built in the wall. The Chancel will be lighted by eight windows, which, it is hoped, will be gradually filled with stained glass representing the later events in the life of our Lord. The organ chamber, lying on the right of the Chancel, will present a prominent gable on Broad Street. Over the junction of the Nave, and Chancel there will be a Fleche rising to the height of 120 feet from the pavement and large enough to contain a bell. It will be covered with copper. The clergy Vestry will lie between the Chancel and the present Choir Room. The work will be proceeded with as soon as the weather permits, but without interrupting at all the conducting of the services in the Church.

This improvement has been made possible by a handsome donation of $3000 from a member of the parish, together with the donation of $1000, for thi purpose which was acknowledged last month, and by some of those who had subscribed to the debt of the Church transferring their subscriptions to the Building Fund, which they have done in order to secure the above mentioned donations. The amount of the contract which the Vestry has authorized the Building Committee to make will be something over $7000. This, however, does not include the tiling of the Chancel, which should be done when the building is erected, or the additional seats which will be needed in the Church, when the present Chancel is removed.

We also append a list of things which the building of the Chancel will necessitate and which we hope may be furnished by individual contributors as gifts or memorials.

A new Altar and Reredos.
A large Pipe Organ.
Clergy and Choir Stalls.
New Pulpit.
New Altar Rail.
Rood Screen.
Brass or ornamental iron gates for entrance to the Choir.
Eight stained glass windows, with scenes from the life of our Lord.
Oak Litany Desk.
Oak Forms for Servers.
Tiling of the Chancel.
Tiling round the Font, with rail and book desk for same.
Tiling aisles of the Church.
Bell.
Grading south end of the property, and setting curb and iron railing.
Flag pavement to school building.
Sanctuary rugs.
Service books for Gospeller and Epistoler.
Vesting Altar for Sacristy.

Persons thinking of contributing any of these things are requested to confer with the Rector or any member of the Building Committee. All articles of furniture must be from designs furnished by the architect or approved by the Building Committee. Designs for the windows will be obtained from the same firm which made those in the rest of the Church.

Our warmest thanks are due to those whose generosity has made it possible for us to have thus a practically completed building, which will so immensely enhance its beauty and effectiveness. And we are sure that there are others who will want to have a hand in the good work, and will come forward and give some at least of the above mentioned things which are needed for its thorough furnishing and ornamentation.

LENT.

The Holy Season of Lent is again upon us. May we all have grace to use it profitably. The clergy will provide three Celebrations of the Holy Communion every week, two services every day, a lecture on Wednesday evening and Friday afternoon, and a Confirmation instruction each Monday afternoon and Thursday evening; also, the Monthly Guild Services. And they urge the parishioners to use these opportunities to endeavor after real spiritual progress. They can truly say with the Apostle that they greatly long after each member of the parish, and their heart's desire and prayer to God is, that each one may truly and faithfully perform their religious duties, and may in their daily life and conduct worthily exemplify their Christian character. Lent is a time for special earnest effort to gain the victory over besetting sin, and to seek for real growth and advancement in the spiritual life. May a real spirit of devotion be kindled in the parish, a devotion which will not expend itself in Lent, but manifest itself in permanent increased interest in religious matters, regularity at all times in the performance of religious duties, willingness to spend and be spent in the service of our Divine Master. They who learn to keep Lent aright will learn to live true Christian lives at all times, and be faithful and profitable servants of their Lord.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—There have been presented this month a prayer desk, and picture of the Crucifixion in wooden frame, for the Vestry, 50 printed slips for coal orders, 200 oranges for the School children, and sign, "Post no Bills," for fence.

LENTEN SERVICES.—The additional services during Lent will be an early Celebration of the Holy Communion every Thursday, at 7.30 A. M., and a Lecture after Prayers on Fridays, at 5 P. M. The Miserere (Psalm LI) will be recited every morning after Morning Prayer, and the De Profundis (Psalm CXXX) after Evening Prayer. A portion of the Choir will be present every afternoon, and there will be a special offertory on Friday afternoons to pay the expenses of the Lenten Services.

COURSES OF SERMONS.—The Rector will preach a course of four sermons on Sunday evenings, beginning with the first Sunday in Lent, on the history, doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Episcopal Church. All wishing to make themselves familiar with the history, character and teaching of the Episcopal Church should attend them. The Assistant Minister will lecture every Friday afternoon during Lent at 5 o'clock, on "Obstacles to Religion." The Rector will continue his lectures on the Bible every Wednesday evening, except on the evening of Ash Wednesday, when he will speak on "Lenten Duties."

JANUARY NUMBERS.—Persons having copies of the January number of the NEWS, who do not want to keep them, are requested to return them to the Church, as the edition is now exhausted, and numerous requests are made for them from persons desiring to have copies of the various Chapters of the Ritual Catechism we are publishing.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The following letters have been received in acknowledgment of the box sent by our Women's Guild to a Missionary in Minnesota:

Albert Lea, Minn.
Dear Mrs. Cope: Jan. 28, 1889

We received the box Saturday, and were so busily engaged unpacking, that we did not have time to write you until to-day. I want to thank you and the others who helped in sending it. It contains a great many more articles than we expected, and every thing is just what we wished for.

The baby was delighted with her things, the little cloak fitted her nicely.

My things were all very nice, and the groceries were quite a surprise.

Thanking you again for your trouble and kindness in preparing the box,

I am very sincerely
CORA HILL.

Albert Lea, Minn., Feb. 4, 1889

Mrs. Wm. H. Cope—My dear Madam—

I beg to tender to you and the ladies of your parish my grateful thanks for the missionary box which you have so kindly prepared and sent for me and family. Words fail to express the gratitude of our hearts for the kindly gift. The things were not only numerous, but of a quality to demand our highest appreciation. Thanking you all very kindly indeed,

I am, dear madam, Yours truly,
A. BAILEY HILL.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS. — It does not seem possible at present when we have so large a debt on the Church, and so much yet to do for ourselves, to have—as we shall hope to have eventually—regular offerings for missionary and benevolent objects through the Envelope system. All we can do now is through the collections made by the representatives of the different Committees of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, and of the Tract, and Prayer Book Societies. But there is one department of Missions, namely Diocesan Missions, for which there is no collector, and to which we are expected to contribute, this Church being assessed by the Convocation to which it belongs $50, for this year. Of this amount we have paid $16.66 The rest should be paid before the end of April. Any offerings which may be placed in the alms box in the vestibule of the Church, which is marked "Missions," will be devoted to this purpose.

DONATION TO THE RECTOR.—A very pleasant remembrance from a former parishioner was received by the Rector last month of $100, "as a token of regard," and another $100 for the Church "to be used for any purpose he might think best." Such a gift from one who is no longer able to be a regular attendant of the Church is a very gratifying and substantial proof of continued interest in it.

MOTHERS MEETING.—Mrs. Grimball who has had charge of this work both this and last winter, has been obliged to give it up on account of domestic duties. Mrs. Kittson and Miss Amanda Jackson will take her place.

The meeting, with the adult Bible Class for men and women, which is taught by the Assistant Minister, will be held hereafter on Friday evenings, instead of Saturday as before.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—We need more advertisements to help pay for issuing this paper. Will not our members exert themselves to get some for us, and will not all pay up their subscriptions now due, 50 cents a year, or 60 cents if sent by mail.

Quiet Day for Women.

There will be a "Quiet Day" for women held in the Church of the Incarnation, Broad and Jefferson streets, the services of which will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of New York on Thursday, March 14th, and on Friday March 15th, there will be a "Church Women's Conference" in the Parish Building of the Church of the Holy Trinity, 19th and Walnut streets. The women of this parish are invited to attend both of these meetings.

Insurance Policies for Churches.

One of the Church papers recently suggested that parishioners should take out Life Insurance policies for the benefit of the churches to which they belong, thus persons who are not rich, or who have many personal claims upon them, and so are not able to give, or leave, large sums to churches, could secure a considerable amount for them by a small annual payment; the idea is a capial one. Will not some of our parishioners act upon it?

Contagious Diseases and Public Funerals.

Persons who have the misfortune to lose relatives by contagious diseases should remember that in such cases it is not right to have a public funeral. By that is meant, that the body should not be taken into the church, nor should friends be invited to the house, nor should the body be exposed to view. There is no objection to a service in the open air, if the casket is closed, and the clergy will always be ready to go to the cemetery and say the service at the grave, which is the important part of the Burial Office. And if the grave-yard adjoins the Church, the mourners can go into the Church after the interment and the rest of the office can be said. The rubrics of our Prayer Book expressly provide for the service at the grave being said first in such cases. But no service should be said over the body in the Church or house. Such a funeral is forbidden by the regulations of the Board of Health in this city, and the clergy and others should see that those regulations are carried out. It is not right to endanger lives unnecessarily and spread disease. People should be considerate and thoughtful of others even in the midst of their own affliction.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER V.

Altar Cloths and Linen.

Ques. What do the Canons of the English Church direct the Altar shall be covered with?

Ans. "A carpet of silk or other decent stuff."

Ques. What is it generally called?

Ans. An Altar cloth. It is usually made in two pieces, called the Frontal and Super Frontal. The latter is sometimes used alone. It may be made of any rich material and decorated with appropriate embroidery.

Ques. What is it's color?

Ans. It and other church hangings may vary in color according to the church season or service in which they are used.

Ques. What are the colors generally used and why?

Ans. White for all High Festivals,—except Whitsunday and Martyrsdays—and for Marriages, Confirmations, Consecration of Churches, &c. Violet, for all penitential seasons, and for Burials, or Mortuary Celebrations. Red, for Whitsuntide,—representing the tongues of fire—and for Martyrsdays,—representing blood. Green, the ordinary color of nature, for days not having any special signification. Black, for Good Friday. According to the ancient English use, Blue and Gold were also sometimes used. Sometimes different colored Frontals only are used, the Super Frontal remaining the same, in which case it should be red, to represent the blood of the Sacrifice.

Ques. What is a Pulpit or Lectern Fall?

Ans. A handsomely embroidered piece of cloth or stuff hung in front of a pulpit desk or lectern. It should always be of the same material and color as the Altar cloth.

Ques. What is the Altar Frontal and the Pulpit Fall sometimes called?

Ans. An Antependium.

Ques. What is placed over the Altar Cloth whenever there is a Celebration?

Ans. "A fair linen cloth," that is, a linen cloth made "fair," with embroidery or lace. It should cover only the top of the Altar and hang down over the ends. It is always marked with five crosses, in token of the five wounds of Christ. It is often edged with lace, and has fringe at the ends.

Ques. What is a Chalice Veil and Burse?

Ans. The Chalice Veil is a veil to cover the Chalice and Paten, made generally of the same material and of the same color as the Altar Cloth. The Burse is a pocket made of cardboard and covered with the same stuff as the Chalice Veil, placed on top of the Chalice to hold the Corporal.

Ques. What is the Corporal?

Ans. A linen napkin which is spread under the Chalice and Paten when they are on the Altar, and a corner of which is turned over to cover the Paten when it is not on top of the Chalice.

Ques. What is a Chalice Pall?

Ans. A card of stiff pasteboard, covered with linen, with which the Chalice is covered when the Paten is not on top of it.

Ques. What is a Purificator?

Ans. It is a small napkin used to wipe the Chalice after the Ablutions

Ques. What other linens are used?

Ans. A linen, Cambric, or lace veil to cover the elements after the Communion; a linen cover for the Credence table, a linen napkin for wiping the Priest's hands in the Lavabo, and a linen Baptismal napkin. All pieces of linen used in the Church service should be marked with the Cross.

Ques. What is a Funeral Pall?

Ans. A covering of black or violet cloth or silk used to cover the bier on which the body is carried into the Church for the Burial Office. It may be appropriately decorated or embroidered.

Ques. What is an Altar Protector?

Ans. A cloth of green baize used to cover the fair linen cloth on top of the Altar at all times, excepting during a Celebration.

Subscriptions Received.

Subscriptions have been received during February from Mr. David Rea, Mr. L. Gaff, Mrs. Clement Tingley, Mr. Benjamin Johnson, Mrs. C. H. Darlington, A. H. C., Miss Pollock, Mrs. Thwaites, Mrs. Wm. Walterall, Miss E. L. Stokes, Mrs. Larzelere, Miss H. Dickerson, Mr. Thos. Robb, Mrs. Wm. H. Cope, Miss H. J. Armstrong, Miss Wagner, Mr. W. F. Smith, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, Mrs. J. Edward Carpenter.

After several years of work, the decoration of the Sanctuary of the Church of the Ascension, New York—a memorial gift—has been completed at a cost of $15,000. The architectural work, the mosaics, the reliefs, and the great fresco which cover the East wall have been in the hands of real artists, and Mr. La Farge's fresco is certainly one of the most important works of the kind in the country.

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published by S. John's Guild, under the direction of the Rector.

As the Guild desires this paper to be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, (if sent by mail 60 cents) to be paid in advance, to Mr. William H. Cope, 112 South Fourth Street.

ORGAN FOR THE NEW CHANCEL.

The greatest need in connection with our new Chancel will be a large Organ. The Altar we have, and even the rest of the furniture, will do for a time. But an Organ, now that we shall have a place to put it, we ought to have to make our service as attractive as it should be.

A gentleman, who is not connected with our parish, but who has been much interested in the building of our new Church and assisted very materially in securing subscriptions towards it, has suggested the following plan for obtaining the means to purchase an Organ. It is this: "to take the amount required to build an Organ, and divide it up into sums of varying amounts, so as to suit every sort of purse, so that nearly every one in the parish, or among the friends of the parish, can contribute towards it, and feel that they have helped to erect it" Thus supposing, $4,000 was required for the Organ,—and it would take about that sum to get such an instrument as we ought to have for the Church,—we have something over five hundred persons who are now connected with the parish. Supposing one-half of these are too poor to contribute anything for this purpose, the amount might then be divided among the remaining half in this way:

10	" "	100–	1,000
15	" "	50–	750
20	" "	25–	500
30	" "	10–	300
35	" "	5–	175
40	" "	3–	120
50	" "	2–	100

Such a plan ought to be feasible, especially when we remember that the Chancel will be built by the gifts of a few individuals, no general appeal having been made to the congregation for that purpose. Will not the congregation at large therefore be glad to show their appreciation of the liberality of those who have made it possible for us to have the Chancel, and have themselves a share in the good work, by contributing towards an Organ to be put into the Chamber which is to be built for it? An advantage of this suggestion is that every one who can contribute from a dollar upward, can feel that he is doing something towards this great improvement of the Church, whereas there are but few who could give alone any of the articles needed for the Chancel, which we published last month. The gentleman who proposes the plan will himself give one of the $50 subscriptions and has secured another $50 subscription. We have also a $100 and a $5 subscription which can be used for the same purpose. Who will give others?

Let every one in the congregation who can give anything, fix on the amount of the subscription he can make, and inform the Rector, or the Accounting Warden, or put the amount in an envelope marked "for the Organ," and drop it in one of the alms boxes in the vestibule of the Church. And let each see what he can raise among his friends. Only, no one must let what he gives for this purpose be taken from his ordinary contributions to the support of the Church, or diminish the amount of his Easter offering. For the current expenses of the Church must be met, whereas we can wait for the Organ.

PASSIONTIDE.

With the first Sunday of this month we enter this year upon the Passiontide. The solemnity of Lent deepens as in these two last weeks we have especially set before us the sufferings of our adorable Lord. During this time all the Lessons in the Communion and Daily Offices relate to this subject. Everything that is bright and festive in our Churches is put away or covered over. The Sermons and the Hymns we sing are all about the Passion. And in the last week of Lent, called preeminently Holy week, we have the most prolonged and solemn services in the whole year. In every way the Church tries to make us realize the importance of the events this time commemorates, and to help us use their commemoration profitably to our soul's growth. Every one should try and be at one of the services at least each day in Holy week. If we believe our Lord suffered so much for us, we should dwell with reverent gratitude on all the acts of His passion, and try to imbibe ourselves the spirit He manifested. If we keep this season so, it will be a great benefit to us.

The Rector will preach each night in Holy week at 8 P. M., except Wednesday, when the choir will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion." The Assistant will speak each morning, including the three hours' service on Good Friday. There will be a Holy Communion every day at 7.30 A. M., and every day except Good Friday at 10 A. M. Evening Prayer daily, 5 P. M.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—There was presented during March a linen Maniple with drawn work, a hand made linen priest's girdle, piece of lace for stole, seven wooden frames for colored pictures for the Sunday School room and a bottle of ink for the Vestry. The Rector sent an old set of linen Eucharistic Vestments to a missionary clergyman in the West. The Sunday School purchased a new bookcase for its library.

NEW GUILD.—Some of the older members of S. John's Guild have resigned and have formed a new Guild to be called S. Barnabas'. They have adopted a Constitution similar to that of S. John's Guild, only limiting the membership to men over 18 years old. They have elected Mr. C. L. S. Tingley and Mr. William Gilpin, Wardens, Mr. W. H. Montgomery, Secretary and Mr. Richard Miller, Treasurer. They will meet for the present on the first Monday evening of each month.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD is doing good work for the Church by distributing cards of invitation to the services, on the street, welcoming strangers, and hunting up absentees. A number of persons have been brought into the parish by these means. Hereafter at the meetings of the Brotherhood a paper on some subject connected with Church work or the Christian life will be read by one of the members.

PEW RENTS.— Those wishing to qualify themselves to vote for vestrymen under our Charter, must pay the Warden the sum of one dollar as "pew rent," though no pews are assigned to any persons, all having an equal right to them. These payments are due this month.

VESTRY ELECTION.— The annual election of vestrymen will be held on Easter Monday. The polls will be open from the conclusion of Divine Service, till 1 P. M. All members of the congregation who have paid "pew rent" for two consecutive years are entitled to vote.

EASTER OFFERING.—The Accounting Warden wishes us to inform the congregation, that we shall need $700, to meet all our current expenses up to May 1st. Allowing $70 a Sunday for the three Sundays in April, excluding Easter day,—which is now our general average,—it will leave $490, required as the Easter offering. But as the payment of the semi-annual interest on our mortgage occurs early in June, we ought also to have several hundred dollars if possible, to carry forward for that purpose. Can we not have an Easter offering of at least $700? Let each one attending the Church show his appreciation of its services, and his determination that it shall not lack support, by a liberal offering on this great annual festival.

EASTER FLOWERS.— Contributions for the Easter decorations may be placed in the alms box in the vestibule marked "Flowers." As all want to see the Church appropriately dressed on our greatest of festivals, each member of the congregation should put some offering in the box for this purpose. This applies to all offerings for special purposes. Let each one give something, though it be but a little, and we shall have enough. Never think that it is not worth while to make any contribution unless you can give a large one. It is the duty of each to give according to his ability. The Treasurer of the Flower Committee of the Women's Guild will be glad to receive regular monthly or weekly offerings, so as to keep the Altar always supplied with flowers, and provide for the washing of the surplices.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—We have not yet paid all our assessment for Diocesan Missions, and this is the last month we have to pay it in. Let us try to do something for others besides ourselves, and this is for missions in our own midst. If each person in one of our Sunday congregations were to put a dime in the Mission box in the Vestibule, we would have all that we are asked to give.

COAL ORDERS.—The Coal Association of the Boys' Bible Class sent out to three families, during the month of February, one ton and a half of coal, in half ton orders.

STAINER'S CRUCIFIXION.—A special Passion Service will be held in the Church on Wednesday night in Holy Week, (April 17th.) At this service The Crucifixion, by Dr. John Stainer, will be sung, and possibly also some appropriate anthem.

The Crucifixion is a comparatively short work, of the nature of an oratorio. It is a "Meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer." It is written for two solo voices (tenor and bass) and Chorus. A number of hymns are interspersed, in which the congregation should join. For the information of those who may desire to familiarize themselves with the tunes, we will say that copies of the words alone, with tunes of the Hymns may be obtained from W. H. Boner & Co., 1102 Chestnut Street, at 8 cents per single copy, or the Choirmaster can furnish them.

Members of the Congregation and others who may desire to assist in the singing of the Hymns are asked to attend a rehearsal in the Church on Friday evening, April 12th, from 8 to 8.30 o'clock.

The Crucifixion, as its title indicates, is thoroughly in keeping with the Church Season in which it will be sung, and from a musical standpoint is admirable. When given in our Church it is the intention to omit one of the choruses and substitute a quartette and chorale from Gounod's Redemption. Otherwise the work will be given entire, and will be rendered as effectively as the limited capabilities of our organ will permit.

EASTER MUSIC.— The music on Easter Sunday will be as follows:—

In the morning—

Te Deum, Kyrie, Nicene Creed, Sanctus, Agnus Dei, and Gloria in Excelsis, Tours in F.

Anthem during Ablutions —

"Saviour of Men" - - - Gounod

In the evening—

Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Tours in F. Anthem "Awake thou that sleepest" Allen.

The hymns for Easter day will be —

Processional 103, Tune, Victory.

Recessional 98, Tune, Easter Hymn.

" " 100. Tune, Salsburgh.

EASTER ENTERTAINMENT.—On Tuesday, April 23d, there will be given an amusing, interesting and laughable entertainment in the Parish Building, under the auspices of S. Mary's Guild; the proceeds to be given to the fund for the building of a pipe organ for the new Chancel. It will consist of two very amusing Comedies by ladies and gentlemen who have kindly volunteered, and some fine quartette singing, as well as solos. Tickets, 25 cents, which can be procured from the ladies of S. Mary's Guild. It is to be hoped in view of the trouble, time and kindness of those assisting, and the object of the performance that every member of the congregation will be present.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.— There are now thirty of last years' subscribers who have not renewed their subscriptions for the present year. It is proposed to shortly notify these persons of the expiration of their subscriptions, and it is hoped that all will respond promptly to such notification. Some trouble will be saved if those who know they are in debt to the NEWS will make payment at once. About 500 copies are circulated every month. We have only about 100 regular subscribers. There are certainly some who regularly receive the paper free who could afford to pay the sum of 50 cents per year towards its support.

The Mozart.

The Mozart Choral Society meets for rehearsal every Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the parish building of the Church of the Ascension, and is open to all singers having a knowledge of music.

There are no fines, no assessments, no initiation fees: the only expense attached to active membership being the weekly dues of five cents.

To all who wish to see a strong and flourishing society established in this section of the city, a cordial invitation is extended to become members.

Those who are unable to sing, but who are yet desirous of helping the society, can become associate members by paying two dollars per annum in advance, and in return they will be entitled to reserved seats at all concerts or public rehearsels given by the society.

Application for active or associate membership, and full particulars in regard to the "Mozart" may be had from the president, the Rector of the parish or from any of the other officers.

List of Subscribers.

The following subscriptions were received during March:—
Miss Rousseau, Miss Hoy, Cash, Miss M. L, Goodman, Miss Parmelee, Mrs. H. G. Whelen, Mrs Sam'l Wetherill, Miss Florence E. Smith, Miss A. J. Stewart, Mrs. Thos. B. Allen, Mrs. W. H. Webb, Mrs. H. W. Wharton, Capt. H. B. Seely, Mr. Saml. Wetherill.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER VI.

Postures and Gestures.

Ques. What are the postures generally observed in divine worship?

Ans. Kneeling in prayer and adoration, standing in praise and during solemn acts, or exhortations. Thus the people kneel during all prayers, confessions and supplications, and in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament, and when receiving Absolution or Benediction. They will stand during all Psalms, Canticles, Anthems. Hymns and the recitation of Creeds; during all Exhortations; while Baptism, Confirmation, Marriage, Ordination, or the Blessing of things or persons is being performed, and as a mark of respect when the clergy or any procession enters or leaves the Church. They may be seated during the reading of Lessons, and the Epistle in the Communion Office, and during Sermons and the giving out of Notices.

Ques. Why do they rise at the reading of the Gospel in the Communion?

Ans. Both because it is preceded by the singing of an ascription of praise, and as a special mark of reverence, because it is a direct message from God.

Ques. Why do the people rise at the presentation of the Alms, etc., in the offertory?

Ans. Because the priest is directed to "humbly present and place" them upon the Altar on behalf of the people as their offering to the service of God, and they should show that it is their act, and their realization of its solemnity, by their attitude.

Ques. How long should the people remain kneeling in the Communion after the Benediction?

Ans. Until the remaining Elements are consumed and the Priest is ready to retire to the Vestry.

Ques. Should the position of the Priest always be the same as that of the people?

Ans. No, he will stand when performing official acts, as in pronouncing Absolution, Benediction, Celebrating the Sacraments, and in Addresses and Sermons. He kneels when making his own personal confession or supplication, and in performing acts of adoration. He also receives the Sacrament standing, because he is administrator as well as recipient.

Ques. Why does he sometimes face the people and sometimes the Altar?

Ans. He faces the people whenever he is reading to them or addressing them. He faces the Altar whenever he acts as their representative in presenting their supplications or offerings to God. When in the Choir, he stands or kneels sideways to the people, because the seats in the Choir are arranged laterally for convenience in Antiphonal Chanting.

Ques. What gestures does the Priest make?

Ans. He elevates the right hand in Benedictions and in solemn declarations, as when he pronounces the parties man and wife in the marriage service. He elevates both hands in the "Pax" of the Benediction, and in celebrating the Holy Communion, except during the Amen at the conclusion of each prayer, and when he kneels. This is shown both by records and monuments to have been the attitude observed from the earliest times, and was the ancient attitude in prayer both among the Jews and heathen. In pronouncing Benedictions and Absolutions the Priest also generally makes the sign of the cross, and extends only the three first fingers of his hand to show that he does it in the name of the Blessed Trinity. He also makes the sign of the cross in consecrating the elements in Baptism and the Holy Communion and in other blessings.

Ques. With what finger should he make the sign of the cross on the forehead in Baptism?

Ans. The thumb, because that is the finger over which he has the most command.

Ques. When he places the Alms and the Elements on the Altar why does he first elevate them?

Ans. To show that they are solemnly offered and dedicated to God's service; this is called the first oblation, the second is when the Elements are consecrated to their sacred purpose.

Ques. What special acts of reverence are performed?

Ans. Canon XVIII of the Church of England prescribes that "when in time of divine service the Lord JESUS shall be mentioned, due and lowly reverence shall de done by all persons present." Thls is generally complied with by bowing the head, or bending the knee, at least when that name occurs in the creed, as a solemn acknowledgement of His divinity, some also bow at the words "and was made man" in the Nicene Creed, some bow or kneel from the words "came down from heaven," to "The third day He rose again," some bow at the Gloria Patri or at any ascription of praise to the Trinity, as in the "Holy, Holy, Holy," in Te Deum, some always bow to the altar when passing before it, some sign themselves with the Sign of the cross at certain solemn portions of the service, as at the end of the Creed or when receiving absolution, that what they thus profess or receive may be sealed, or stamped upon them.

The church leaves her children at liberty to use these and such like acts of devotion as they may see best for their edification. If used with reverence and devotion they may help one to realize the importance and solemnity of divine worship. But those who use them should not blame those who do not, nor those who do not use them be offended with those who do.

THE ENVELOPE SYSTEM.

It is just a year now since we began to use the Envelope System in this parish. We say, since we began to use it, because it was only gradually that the envelopes were taken, and even yet there are many attending the Church who do not use them. So that the system is not yet established as we hope to see it, nor all that it can accomplish yet seen. But even so, we can now compare the year since we began to use it with the year previous, and see what the increase has been. The total receipts from offerings for the current expenses of the Church from May 1, 1887, to May 1, 1888—our financial year—were $3,914.06. The total receipts for the same purpose from May 1, 1888, to May 1, 1889, were $5,058.57, being an increase of $1,144.51. Part of this may be due to the natural increase in the congregation. But it is chiefly due we are convinced to the use of the envelopes. The great advantages of the Envelope System are these: first, that it secures the fixing of a definite sum by each person who uses them as that which he ought to contribute to the support of the Church, and secondly, the giving of that sum. If this system is not used, but simply the open offertory depended upon, a great many persons, we think the majority, never determine just how much they will give weekly or yearly to the Church, but put on the plate from time to time what they may feel inclined to, or what they may happen to have in their pocket. And even those who fix upon a specific sum, are by no means careful—with the exception of a conscientious few—to carry out their intention, and if they do not happen to have the sum with them every Sunday or if they are absent, make it up and put double or triple the amount in the plate on the next occasion. But by the Envelope System each one determines what is right, and within his ability, to give Sunday by Sunday, as one should do in such an important and obvious duty as contributing towards the support of the Church, the maintenance of religion, and the carrying on of works of charity and mercy. And then having the envelopes for each Sunday in the quarter, they are a reminder of the obligation assumed, and until they are filled and returned one feels that his debt is not discharged. We have seen this very markedly in the last year. We are sure many have put their names down to a sum they would never have given regularly otherwise. And whenever there has been a rainy Sunday, or persons have been detained from Church, the number of envelopes that have come in together later have made up the difference. Whereas formerly when there was a rainy Sunday, the offertory on the succeeding Sunday was ordinarily no larger than the general average. These are the advantages of the system, and yet at the same time there is nothing in it which interferes with the entire freedom of the seats, or the right of any man to attend the services of the Church and enjoy its religious privileges irrespective of the amount which he is able to contribute to its support. The object of the Envelope System is simply to secure conscientiousness and regularity in giving towards the needed support of the Church according to each ones ability. And our object in writing is to urge upon every attendant of the Church to use the envelopes. The system has been adopted by the Vestry as the mode by which the Church shall be supported, and all attending the Church should comply with it, as under the Pew rent system they would comply with it. No matter what the sum is that one can give, use the envelope in giving it. We have pledges running from 5 cents a Sunday to $5.00 a Sunday, and it is just as important that those who give 5 cents a Sunday should be regular in their contributions as it is for those who give larger amounts. Some one hundred and twenty persons now contribute through the envelopes and we see what has been the result of their doing so, let all attending the Church do the same and we shall see a still larger increase in the coming year.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL.

Our Dedication Festival comes very late this year, as Easter being so late renders the succeeding Feasts late also. But we shall keep it as we did last year with two Celebrations of the Holy Communion on the morning of Ascension Day, Evening Prayer at five o'clock, and shortened Evening Prayer and an Anniversary Service at 8 P. M. On Friday, May 31st, we will have our annual Parish Tea in the School Building, at which we trust all the members of the parish will be present. And on Saturday, June 1st, we will have a special service and sermon for the members of the various Guilds of the Parish. A meeting of the ladies of the parish will be held towards the end of the month to arrange for the Parish Tea.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We received for Easter, when it was carried in procession for the first time, a very handsome white silk and plush banner, having an Agnus Dei embroidered upon it. This is the first embroidered banner that we have had, and it is a very handsome piece of work, it was done by the lady who was formerly at the head of our embroidery class, and with the very heavy poll and brass mountings is a gift to the Church. The Rector also received the gift of a new white silk stole embroidered. Fourteen books were given to the Sunday School Library, 110 Easter eggs for the Sunday School children, Chocolate eggs for the Infant School, a number of flowers for the Easter decorations, and clothes for the poor.

Donations have also been received for a brass Altar rail for the New Chancel and for another piece of Chancel furniture to be selected.

EASTER COMMUNION.—We had this year the largest Easter Communion we have ever had in the Church, and what was peculiarly gratifying to the clergy the largest early Communion. Formerly we used to have about the same number of communicants at the early service and in the middle of the day, this year we had nearly twice as many at the early service. This looks as if the members of the congregation were learning that the best, most solemn and appropriate time for them to make their Communion is at the quiet early service. We hope that more and more will adopt this same practice.

THE CRUCIFIXION.—The singing of "The Crucifixion" on the evening of Wednesday in Holy Week was a new and most acceptable feature of our Passion tide celebration. The Church was filled, extra chairs being placed down each aisle. Had it been a clear night the Church would not have held those who would have come. The Choir did their part admirably, and the choir master is both to be congratulated and thanked for the proficiency the choir manifested and for the gratification which the service afforded.

The only drawback was the want of a large organ, and we trust that this service made that want so obvious that the members of the congregation will all combine to supply this need.

EASTER COLLECTION.—We expected the Easter collection to be much smaller than usual this year, as many persons in making their pledges through the envelope system distributed throughout the year what formerly they gave in one sum at Christmas or Easter, and consequently the offering this year was less than formerly, but not as much as we supposed it would be. Last year it was $636.34, this year $470.62, to this should be added a special donation of $100, which was made to the Rector and was really part of the Easter offering. So that the total offering was only some sixty dollars less than last year, which is very good considering the large increase in the average Sunday offerings through the adoption of the envelope system.

THE ENTERTAINMENT given by S. Mary's Guild on Easter Tuesday evening for the benefit of the organ fund was, as S. Mary's Guild entertainments always are, a great success. There was a great variety of talent, all of which was volunteered and all was excellent. Nearly every seat was occupied, though a few more might have been put in. Those who did not come missed a very enjoyable evening. We only noticed in the audience the faces of two of our vestrymen. The members of S. Mary's Guild complain that the vestrymen and other prominent members of the congregation do not often patronize them, and so encourage them in their efforts to be of assistance to the Church. The proceeds of this entertainment were over $50.

THE NEW CHANCEL.—The walls of the addition to the Church are beginning to rise, we shall all watch their progress with much interest until they are completed. When completed which we expect will be about Oct. 1st, the Church will look very differently both on the exterior and in the interior, and will be much more likely to attract a large congregation. And we are already needing the additional room it will give us, as such congregations as we had on Wednesday evening in Holy Week, and on Easter Day, show. When the Chancel is finished we shall hope to have the Bishop come and open it with his blessing. The Church cannot be formally consecrated until all our indebtedness is paid off.

THE ORGAN.—Subscriptions for the new organ are coming in rather slowly thus far. Those that we know of in addition to those already acknowledged are one of $30, three $10, one $7, five $5, one $2, one $2.25, with over $50 realized by the entertainment given by S. Mary's Guild. We suppose that the Easter offering has interfered with contributions being made just now, but we should be glad if those who intend to subscribe to this fund would do so at once, so that if a sufficient sum was promised the organ, or a part of the organ sufficient for use, could be ordered and be ready to be put in its place by the time the Chancel is finished. The subscriptions need not be paid at present. There certainly must be fifty-five persons in the congregation who can give, and will be glad to give, a dollar a piece for this purpose, and many who can give much more. And as was pointed out in our editorial last month, no general appeal having been made to the congregation for the building of the Chancel, its erection being due to the generosity of a few individuals, it would seem only right that the congregation should combine and put in the organ, a thing which is so much needed. Let every one give something towards it.

VESTRY ELECTION.—We have happily no changes in the Vestry this year, the same gentlemen who served last year being re-elected. The same Wardens were re-appointed and Messrs. Carpenter, Wetherill and Keys, elected to represent the parish in the Diocesan Convention.

THE CONFIRMATION CLASS.—This year consisted of nineteen persons all over fifteen years of age. This was a good class considering the size of the congegation. But there are many more attending the Church who should be Confirmed, but put it off from year to year. Why should they thus deprive themselves of the grace and help it would be to them to enable them to do what every man living in a Christian land is obligated to do, whether he is Confirmed or not?

S. BARNABAS GUILD.—This new Guild for young men will meet hereafter on the first Thursday evening of each month at eight P. M. The members of the Guild will be glad if all the young men in the parish over 18 years old will join them in their efforts to improve themselves and assist the Church.

ENVELOPES FOR THE SUMMER.—With the beginning of this month the Accounting Warden sends out to each person contributing through the envelope system enough envelopes to last for six months, because it would be impossible to distribute them at the end of the next quarter when so many are away from home. Those going away are especially requested to return their envelopes filled for the number of weeks they expect to be away, before they go, that the Church may not be deprived of its income during the summer months.

MISSIONARY BOX—Another Missionary box, valued at $100, was sent after Easter to a clergyman in the Diocese of Minnesota, it was the result of the combined labors of the Ladies Aid Society and of the members of S. Mary's Guild who met once every week during Lent to sew for this purpose.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL brought its sessions for the winter to a close on the Saturday after Easter with its usual festival which the children all enjoyed very much.

The Rev. Dr. Crummell will speak on behalf of the Freedmen.

All ladies attending the meeting are cordially invited to luncheon in the Guild Room.

Afternoon Session at 2.30, an informal meeting at which reports will be read by the officers and short papers by other ladies.

Easter in the Russian Church.

On the night preceding Easter Day, the Russian Churches are densely thronged with the people standing in darkness holding unlighted candles, silent, expectant, when the midnight hour has struck then from far away outside the Church a plaintive strain of music is heard, a thrill goes through the assembly, the music approaches, waxes louder, sounding more joyous, the great western doors roll back, and light appears flowing into the church, attended by jubilant song. The procession of choir and clergy are entering with lights and incense in gorgeous robes, a train of light and colour, of music and fragrance. Instantly the light is caught from the entering tapers and runs in sparks through the Church flying from candle to candle and every worshipper stands with his light burning, so that the vast gloomy interior is suddenly a palace of glory. But this is not all, at the same moment each turns to his neighbor, exclaiming, "Christ is risen" and kisses him, Christ is risen, love is shed abroad, all men are brothers. BARING GOULD.

CHAPTER VII.

The Church Year.

Question. What is known as the Church Year?

Answer. The system which has prevailed in the Christian Church from the earliest times of dividing up the year into a series of feasts and fasts commemorating and teaching the truths and doctrines of the Christian Religion.

Ques. What are its principal divisions?

Ans. The Advent, Epiphany, Lent, Easter, Ascension, Whitsuntide and Trinity Seasons.

Ques. What do these commemorate?

Ans. The coming of Christ on earth, His Manifestation to all nations, His Sufferings, and Death, His Resurrection and Ascension, the Descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, the Nature of God and the truths which flow from it.

Ques. When does the Church Year begin?

Ans. With the first Sunday in Advent which is always the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day, which commemorates the Birth of Christ, and Advent is a penitential season designed to prepare for the Celebration of that Festival.

Ques. How many Sundays are there after Christmas?

Ans. One or two according to the day of the week on which Christmas occurs. The Circumcision is always the eighth day, and the Epiphany the twelfth day after Christmas.

Ques. How many Sundays are there after the Epiphany?

Ans. From one to six according to the time Easter comes.

Ques. What are the three Sundays next before Lent called?

Ans. Septuagesima, Sexagesima and Quinquagesima, Latin words meaning seventy, sixty and fifty, those days being about the seventieth, sixtieth and fiftieth days before Easter.

Ques. What are the two Sundays next before Easter called?

Ans. Passion and Palm Sundays, because on the one we begin to commemorate the sufferings of Christ, and on the other His triumphal entrance into Jerusalem.

Ques. What is the last week in Lent called?

Ans. The Holy Week, because it commemorates the most sacred events in our Lord's life.

Ques. What is the Thursday in that week called.

Ans. Maunday Thursday, from an old English word meaning a gift, probably from Christ having given His great gift of the Encharist to the Church on that day.

Ques. When does Easter occur?

Ans. It "is always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st day of March, and if the full moon happen upon a Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after."

Ques. What is the Sunday after Easter called?

Ans. Low Sunday, because it is celebrated as part of the Easter Festival, though lower in degree than Easter day itself.

Ques. How many Sundays are there after Easter?

Ans. Five.

Ques. When is the Feast of the Ascension or Holy Thursday?

Ans. Forty days after Easter day, because our Lord was seen of His disciples forty days after he rose from the dead.

Ques. What is the Sunday after the Ascension called?

Ans. Expectation Sunday, because it commemorates the time that the disciples were expecting the descent of the Holy Ghost.

Ques. On what day is that commemorated?

Ans. On Whit-Sunday, which occurs ten days after the Ascension. It is so called from the wit or wisdom given to the Apostles at that time.

Ques. When is Trinity Sunday?

Ans. The eighth day after Whit-Sunday.

Ques. How many Sundays are there after Trinity?

Ans. From twenty-two to twenty-seven, according as Easter is late or early.

Ques. What is the difference between a moveable and immoveable Feast?

Ans. A moveable Feast is one which may occur upon different days. An immoveable one is one which always occurs upon the same day.

Ques. What are the minor Festivals?

Ans. Certain days on which we commemorate some of the lesser events in our Lord's life, or persons who were associated with Him as S. John the Baptist and the twelve Apostles, or orders of beings as the angels and other saints.

THE PARISH.

We have just been keeping our Parish Festival, and our thoughts are naturally turned to the question as to just what the parish is, and what are the relationship and duties of its members towards it. A parish means literally a definite territory round a Church, and the Rector or clergyman in charge of that Church has the spiritual cure or care of the persons living in that district, and they are the parishioners of that Church. But in this country we do not always have definite limits to our parishes, and in a large city where there are many Churches, people do not always attend the Church they live nearest to, but some other one which they may prefer. But whatever Church you attend that is the one of which you are or ought to be a parishioner. And even though there be no special district assigned to him, every clergyman ought to feel that the poor at least, and those who do not go regularly to Church, who live in the neighberhood of his Church, are his care, and that it is his duty to look after them and try to benefit them, and bring them under the influence of the Church. And every Christian ought to belong definitely to some parish, otherwise he is like a man who is all by himself in the world, who does not belong to any family, who is without a home. Each parish constitutes, as it were, a family in the Church, and the parish Church is the spiritual home of of each member of that family. If a man does not belong to a parish he loses all the advantages which those family relationships can be to him. He does not know a clergyman to be a father and a friend to him if he has need, and who has not need? Who would not be helped and benefitted by having a good and wise man for his counsellor and confidant, and to sympathize with, and comfort him in his difficulties and trials. And every true clergyman is ready and glad to discharge those offices for his parishioners if they will let him. Surely the true friendship of any one is not to be lightly valued. And if a man does not belong to a parish, he will not form friendships or have that feeling of oneness with his fellow Christians which ought to subsist between those who profess the same faith and belong to the same great body. Neither will he have that interest in, and feeling of responsibility for, the work of the Church which he should have. Nor will he take the part he should in the various societies and organizations by which the Church seeks to do her work. He will not be likely either to be regular in the performance of his religious duties. In fact there is no surer way for a person to become lukewarm and negligent in regard to religion than for him not to belong professedly to any particular Church. Yet that is the position which many Christian people are in. Some do not even belong to any particular denomination, but go about Sunday after Sunday to different Churches, hearing different doctrines, seeing different modes of worship, but really taking part or becoming interested in none. Others go about among Churches of the same denomination, but with the same result. Then there are others who will go year after year to the same Church but never join it, never give their names or make themselves known to the clergyman in charge. This is not good for them, they are wasting, and failing to avail themselves of, the opportunities for good the Church might be to them, and it is a great drawback to the Church itself.

Of course we do not say that one should never go to any Church but the one to which he belongs. He may occasionally attend services in other parishes with great profit to himself, and very probably he will appreciate his own Church all the more when he goes back to it. But what we say is that every one should be enrolled as a member of some parish which he will look upon as his home, where he has his duties, his interests, his relationships, and where there is a clergyman who knows him, is interested in him, and will always be a friend to him in regard to his highest and truest interests. The clergy are required to keep lists of their parishioners, but owing to this fact of persons not making themselves known to the clergyman even whose parish they are attending, and from the constant changes, people coming and going, and being very irregular and uncertain in their attendance, it is almost impossible to keep correct lists even of the communicant members of the Church.

Every one settling in a place or removing into a new neighborhood should at once select the Church he prefers to attend, and then make himself known to the clergyman, and see that he is enrolled as a parishioner. And when he removes from one parish to another he should always ask for a letter of transfer. This will be an introduction for him to the parish to which he is removing, and secure for him all the benefit it can be to him, and it is the only way in which our Church books and statistics can be kept correct. Will not our Church people attend to this. Unless it is done our clergy are like generals who do not know who are their soldiers, and what general could accomplish anything if he did not know who belonged to him and whom he could depend on. And without it a Christian is nothing more than a religious tramp or vagrant, and will gain no more good himself and be no more benefit to the world than one who lives a mere vagabond life in society. Let every one belong to, and work for, and prize his Church, as he would his home.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—A silk Cassock Girdle for the Rector, and 400 tickets for the Parish Tea, two polished oak Hymn tablets for the church, 22 books for Sunday School Library, two kneeling hassocks and pieces of carpet for ditto, candles and flowers for altar, two Japanned waiters, crate of strawberries, tea, sugar and cake for parish tea, a number of articles of table furniture were also loaned for that occasion.

LOST AND FOUND.—Two black fans, a pair of eye glasses, and a pearl scarf pin, have been picked up in the church and are awaiting owners. Apply to the sexton.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It is proposed this summer to make the experiment of doing what is now the general rule in most Sunday Schools, of changing the hour of the session from the afternoon to the morning during the summer, beginning with the second Sunday in June. The Litany service will be continued as usual. There is to be an entertainment, in which the scholars themselves are to take part in the Sunday Building on the evening of June 6.

THE NEW CHANCEL is progressing rapidly, we hope in the September issue of the News to tell just when it will be completed and the first service in it held. There are still some things about it for which we shall need more money, but we should prefer that those who can give anything at present should concentrate their gifts upon the organ which is what we need most.

ORGAN FUND—The following additional subscriptions for the new organ have been made since the last issue of the News, two $100, two $50. one $25, four $5, one $3, three $1. We confess that we are surprised that more persons have not contributed to this object under the scheme proposed in the April News. That was arranged so as to suit every ones pocket, that each member of the congregation might give something, from one dollar upwards, and we thought that this was an object in which there was such general interest that each one would be glad to aid in it, but it looks as if there was an unwillingness to give anything if it is impossible to give a large sum. But this is very foolish, for many small offerings count up, and if those who can give a little do not do so the Church suffers. It will be noticed there has been but three $1 subscriptions. Give your dollar if you can't give more. One hundred dollar subscriptions amount to just as much as $100 from one person.

CHANGE OF SERVICES.—As in former years we shall have in place of the ordinary night service on Sundays during the summer a twilight service which will consist of shortened evening prayer and a brief address at 7 P. M. beginning with the evening of Trinity Sunday. The double daily service and Wednesday evening service will also be suspended, but there will be morning service on all Holy Days, and on Wednesdays and Fridays throughout the summer.

ENVELOPES.—Persons going away for the summer are again urgently requested to put in the offertory before they go, their envelopes for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, so that the Church may be able to meet its expenses, which continue just the same during the summer months.

The warden tells us that a few, a very few, of those who have made pledges are behind hand, and in every case he believes it is because pledges have been made of a larger amount than there was ability to pay, or changes in circumstances have taken place which have made it impossible to fulfil the pledge. In these cases we would suggest that the person making the pledge should reduce the amount, which he can do at any time by notifying the warden. But don't give up giving something, and never stay away from church because you are not able to fill your envelope, no one knows whether you have an envelope or not and you can make it up later when you have the means.

In putting a number of envelopes in the offertory on one occasion it is not necessary to put the exact change in each, the whole amount may be put in one envelope, and the others for the number of Sundays you propose to be away, returned empty.

CHURCH IN HOT WEATHER.—Do not stay away from church because the weather is hot. Remember it is a divine obligation to go to church at least once a Sunday all the year round, and our 7 30 A. M. and 7 P. M. services will be always cool, whatever it may be in the middle of the day.

HOME FOR THE HOMELESS.—The proceeds of the work of the Industrial school this winter were sent as a donation to this most worthy charity for destitute colored persons, on Lombard street above Seventh.

ASCENSION FESTIVAL.—The celebration of our Dedication Festival passed off very pleasantly. The only drawback was that more did not take part in it. There are some persons whom it does not seem possible ever to get to church during the week, or to get to take any interest in the church they attend beyond going to one service of a Sunday.

The Parish Tea was a very pleasant affair. After the eatables had been well disposed of, addresses were delivered by the Rector, the Rev. Dr. Nicholson, of S Marks parish, and by Mr. J. Edw. Carpenter, our Warden. The school room was well filled, though we missed faces that ought to have been there, and to miss faces on such an occasion is like missing them at a family Christmas dinner. Some doubtless were detained by sickness or other unavoidable cause, but others simply from the languid interest they take in parish affairs and others because they won't be sociable. The guilds made a good showing at their anniversary on Saturday evening, when a very good sermon was delivered by the Rev. Father Field. We had also the pleasure of having with us on this occasion our former assistant minister, the Rev. Mr. Thorn, who had been summoned to the City by the death of his father.

CONCERT.—The first public performance of "The Mozart" was given in the parish building on Tuesday evening, May 28th. It proved a most gratifying success. Those who had not heard the chorus at its rehearsels, were surprised at the effectiveness with which all the numbers were rendered. Every selection was attacked with confidence, and all points of expression were well met. To the painstaking zeal of the conductor, Mr. F. R. Remont, may be attributed all lack of that nervousness and "greeness" which so often accompanies a "first concert," and which certainly was not visible on this occasion.

The Concert opened with a Piano Solo by Mr. A. T. Gardner, who also accompanied all the Solos. The opening chorus, "Softly fall the shades of Evening," and Barnby's "Sweet and Low," were probably the best rendered choral numbers. A duet from Lacey Baker's "Dies Irae," was beautifully sung by Masters G. William Hawkins and Louis M. Remont. The Solos of Mrs. Cooke and Miss Oates were also heartily appreciated by the audience, The Cornet Solo by Mr. Wm. Remont was in excellent taste and excellently performed.

The "Mozart" Choral Society is a most useful organization, and although not directly connected with this Church is yet capable of exerting a most useful influence, and is worthy of our heartiest support.

It invites the co-operation of ladies and gentlemen in its efforts to establish a strong and useful Choral Society, having for its object the cultivation of a taste for classical music.

Active membership is open to all singers and readers, and offers the following advantages over other societies of a similar character :—

1 There are no initiation fees. 2 There are no fines. 3 There are no assessments. 4 The only expense is the weekly dues of five cents, which can be paid weekly, monthly, quarterly, or annually, as best suits the members.

Those who cannot sing, but who are yet desirous of aiding the Society, can do so by paying two dollars annually in advance and becoming associate members. In return they will be entitled at all concerts or public rehearsals of the Society, to as many reserved seats as the Board of Managers may deem advisable.

Applications for active or associate membership, and any information that may be desired, will be cheerfully given on any Monday evening, from October 1st to June 1st, either before or after the rehearsals, which are held in the school room of the parish building of the Church of the Ascension, corner of Broad and South Streets. Particulars can be obtained from any member of the Society.

THE ASCENSION BASE BALL CLUB solicits the help and sympathy of all base ball enthusiasts within the parish. The club has made a very successful start this year, winning two out of the three games played, and losing the first through the non-appearance of four of its players.

The expenses of the club are comparatively small, but still they must be met, and subscriptions of any amount will therefore be very gratefully received by Mr. Lawrence Gaff, the Treasurer.

The Club proposes to arrange games with the other Church nines throughout town, and hopes to have the approval and support of those interested in this healthy and exciting sport.

RITUAL CATECHISM.—Chapter VII.

Ques. What are the two great Fast days in the year?

Ans. Ash Wednesday—the first day of Lent—so called from the custom of putting ashes on the person as a sign of penitence, and Good Friday, which commemorates the Crucifixion of Christ.

Ques. What other Fast Days are there?

Ans. The forty days of Lent, the Ember and Rogation days, and all Fridays in the year, except Christmas day when it occurs on a Friday.

Ques. Why is Lent observed?

Ans. In imitation of our Lord's fasting forty days in the wilderness.

Ques. What are the Ember days?

Ans. The Wednesday, Friday and Saturday after the first Sunday in Lent, Whit-Sunday, September 14th, and December 13th. They occur thus at the four seasons of the year, and are meant as times for prayer for God's blessing upon the changing seasons. The Sundays succeeding these days are also the stated times for the ordination of the clergy, and they are to be employed also for prayer for those to be ordained, a special collect for that purpose being provided in the Prayer Book.

Ques. What are the Rogation Days?

Ans. The three days before Ascension Day, and are a fast of preparation for that Feast. They derive their names from Rogations or Processions being formerly observed on those days during which litanies were sung to supplicate God's blessing on the fruits of the earth, and the warding off disasters.

Ques. Why are all Fridays to be kept as fasts?

Ans. Because on that day of the week Christ was crucified.

Ques. What are feasts with Octaves?

Ans. Feasts whose celebration is prolonged throughout eight days. Proper prefaces in the Communion office are provided for such days.

Ques. What is a Dedication Festival?

Ans. A parish Festival observed in commemoration of the day on which the parish Church was consecrated, or from which it takes its name.

Ques. How are the Church Festivals and Fasts observed?

Ans. By appropriate services appointed in the Prayer book for the purpose, especially by selected Lessons, Collects, Epistles and Gospels, and by such music and ritual acts and ornaments as are calculated to set forth their character.

Ques. When two festivals occur on the same day, which is observed?

Ans. The service appointed for the superior day, that is the day of greater importance, is used, and the collect for the other festival is also said as a memorial.

COMPLETION OF THE CHANCEL.

Our new Chancel is nearly completed. What remains to be done can be easily finished in time for the opening which has been set for the last Sunday in this month. The Bishop of the Diocese is expected to be present and open it with his blessing. The Church cannot be actually consecrated until all our debt is paid off.

We can see now how great an improvement to the exterior of the Church the addition is, and we shall soon see, when the partition is removed, how greatly the interior effect will be enhanced.

Of the things we asked for in the March number of the NEWS we have secured, the tiling of the Chancel, and of the space around the Font, and a brass Altar rail, and a rail around the Font. Over $700 has also been subscribed for the new organ. We trust the remaining amount needed for the organ, and the other things for the Chancel will come in time. We also need additional subscriptions for the Building Fund, as there are some extras not provided for, and other things about the building that ought to be done.

We are sure all will be delighted with the improvement of the Church, and we trust it will lead to a substantial increase in the size of the congregation, and a corresponding increase in the means at our command to build up this parish and make it all it should be.

SUMMER SERVICES.

Our Summer Services have kept up very well this year considering the number of persons who go away in the summer, and the great neglect by others of Church going during the heated period.

One Sunday during the summer, we saw in the newspaper, that in the largest Church in the city, the Holy Trinity, there had not been twenty persons at the afternoon service; the same Sunday we had over eighty at our evening service, and we seldom had much less any Sunday during the summer, and often more.

So those of the congregation who have been away, but who have kept up their contributions during their absence, can feel that they have not only maintained the Church's services for those at home, but that those services have been appreciated. The Choir too has kept together very well and given us good music all through the summer.

The Rector, as in former years, has been boarding with his family near the city, coming in town on Sundays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Holy Days. The Assistant Minister was away during July and August taking a trip down the St. Lawrence in a sail boat. Most of the members of the Vestry have also been away, though three or four faithful ones have been in Church every Sunday. We are thankful to say there has been very little sickness, and not a single death that we know of in the parish during the last three months.

We hope now every Sunday to see more and more of the parishioners return. And we trust that they will all come back with the determination to work with renewed interest and vigor in our enlarged and beautified Church. Let each remember that there is still a great deal to be done, and esteem it a privilege to have some share in building, and carrying on so attractive a Church in so central and prominent a position.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—A tailor made Cassock for the Server, two dozen palm leaf fans for the Church, and a red silk embroidered banner with Staff and Mountings for S. Andrew's Brotherhood.

THE GUILDS.—The first meeting of S. John's Guild will be on the third Tuesday of this month. S. Mary's Guild will not meet until October, S. Barnabas' Guild meets on the first Thursday, and S Andrew's Brotherhood on the second Thursday of this month.

REMOVAL OF A VESTRYMAN.—We have to regret the loss of a member of our Vestry, Dr. Chas. B. Nancrede, which is caused by his removal to Ann Arbor, Michigan, to occupy the chair of Professor of Surgery in the State University there. Dr. Nancrede has been a member of the Vestry of this Parish since the autumn of 1880, he was chairman of the Building Committee during the erection of the Parish-Building and the main portion of the Church, to which he gave his constant personal supervision, and ever since his connection with the parish he has given his services in the choir, and has frequently assisted the Rector in reading the Lessons. His wife has also taken an active interest in the work of the parish, having for many years represented it on the Foreign Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, assisted in several of our entertainments, &c. The removal of those so long and prominently connected with the parish will be a great loss. But we must congratulate Dr. Nancrede on the honor conferred on him, it being we understand the most prominent position in his branch of the Medical Profession in the West. Our best wishes will follow him and his family to their new home.

BIBLE CLASSES.—The male and female Bible Classes will not resume their sessions until the first Sunday in October.

POOR FUND.—The Rector wants to call the attention of the congregation to the fact that the Relief Fund of the parish is more than twenty dollars over drawn and there is nothing on hand to begin the work of the mothers meeting, &c., the coming winter. Let everyone put something in the Poor boxes in the vestibule for this purpose.

SIT UP FRONT.—We trust that those attending the week day and early services, especially after the Chancel is opened, will sit up near the front, and not force the clergy to exert themselves unnecessarily to make themselves heard in the back part of the church.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FOR THE POOR.—One of our members who is living in the country where she enjoys an abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables, very thoughtfully sent donations of these most acceptable gifts to some half dozen of the poorer members of our congregation, during the summer. They were much appreciated.

FLOWERS.—As last summer, our altar has been supplied entirely with flowers grown for the purpose, by another of our members who is in the country.

THANKS TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—The following letter was received in acknowledgment of the donation of clothing &c. sent by our Industrial School, the result of the work of the school for the winter:

2021 PINE STREET,
SATURDAY, JUNE 8th, '89.

My Dear Miss Hewson:

Will you kindly thank the children of the Industrial School of the Church of the Ascension for their donation of clothing and groceries sent to the "Home for the Homeless." It was very good of them to remember the poor in our Home and the Board of Managers will not soon forget the act of love and charity.

Very Sincerely yours,
MARGARET M. MILLER, Sec'y.

CHOIR EXCURSION.—On Thursday, August 22nd, twelve boys of the choir, in charge of the Choirmaster, went down the Delaware River for a day's outing. They landed at Pennsgrove, and spent several hours in ball-playing, boating, fishing and other sports. Formidable quantities of lunch were conquered with an ease coming only from fresh air and exercise. The weather was delightful, and every member of the party determined to have a good time himself and to help the others to have the same. Two or three of the gentlemen of the choir who accompanied the party did much to add to the general good time and their presence was a pleasure to all. On landing at Arch St. wharf in the evening, all hands were ready to vote the day a great success, and to look forward eagerly to a second expedition of the same sort which is to be made in September to some other locality.

The funds for these outings of the Choir-boys, have been furnished by a number of members of the congregation who are very good friends of the boys and who appreciate the labors of the boys throughout the year; more, perhaps, than the boys themselves suppose.

OFFERINGS.—Our offerings for current expenses for the past four months, show an increase of $88.96 over the corresponding period of last year.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—No subscriptions to the NEWS have been received since the last issue. And a number of our old subscribers have not paid for the current year. Will they not do so? We do not like to be owing our printer money. And will not each member of the congregation pay the small sum of 50 cents a year needed to keep the paper up. We want, too, some new advertisements as some of our old ones are running out.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL.—The experiment of holding the Sunday School in the morning during the summer months has not proved very successful. The teachers found it no more convenient to attend then than they did in the afternoon. However some few have been present, and the school has been maintained without intermission. Mr. Remont kindly took charge of it during the absence of the superintendent. The following children were present every Sunday during The Evensong.

The Rev. R. A. Sawyer, D. D., writes to The Evangelist (Presbyterian) of New York, about attending a church in London, when Evensong was sung: "Before you is the chancel window, the growth of two centuries—a whole Bible History in stained glass and marble relief work, the shadow on the one being more than compensated by the growing beauty of the other; while you linger lovingly on this embodied story of the holy pages, the bell ceases and the organ begins. Far away, as if it fell from heaven and just now caught your ear, comes a strain of wonderful sweetness that groweth nearer and grander every moment, until it breaks forth into a sort of triumphal march, when a distant door opens, and the white-robed choristers, followed by the clergy, come swiftly forward, fill their places, and bow in prayer, while the organ falls away to silence. Then suddenly, by a trained movement, all stand, and without a note of prelude burst forth into divinest harmony of loftiest praise—not the first time only, but the second and the third, and always the effect is magical on the tired, world-worn spirit. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, one seems to make the transit from earth to Heaven. Such effects, when honestly won and felt, are of priceless worth. A man must be harder than marble, or the English Evensong will sculpture him into something very like holiness. "Brothers, let us cease to worry over the externals of church order, and give ourselves more to praise. Even 'The Historic Episcopate' is forgiven and forgotten by a Presbyterian when his soul is so uplifted in the hour of Evening Prayer."

Visitation of the Sick.

If the following recommendation were generally observed it would tend to make sick-visiting more easy and more edifying: "When notice of sickness has been given to the minister of the parish, in compliance with the rule of the Church, the response to that visit is in the nature of an official, not a social visit. He goes to see the sick not the well. Thus going it is barely possible that the sick man or woman may have something special to say to the priest It is barely possible that he may have something to say to the sick. In the nature of the case it is not a time for crowding the sick chamber with all the relatives and friends available to hear what the parson is going to say. That of itself is sufficient to seal the mouths of most priests except to the merest generalities. And a sick room may, oft-times afford an opportunity for particular and individual instruction, which does not occur at other times. Remembering this it might be an act of consideration and kindness to leave the sick with the minister, at least, once in a while."—S. James's Journal, Washington, D. C.

Missionary Lending Library.

For several years there has been at the headquarters of the Women's Auxiliary in New York, a Missionary Lending Library, for the use of all interested to borrow from it. A few persons have done so from time to time reading the volumes themslves, and in some cases, reading them aloud in society meetings, or lending them from member to member. Catalogues of this library will be sent to any desiring them.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

Chapter VIII.

The Divine Offices.

Question. What is the chief service in the Christian Church?

Answer. The Holy Communion.

Ques. Why is this?

Ans. Because it was instituted by our Lord himself, to be the perpetual memorial of His Death and Sacriface. By it, S. Paul says, "ye do show the Lord's death till He come." In instituting it, our Lord used the language, and some of the actions, employed in the offering of the old Jewish sacrifices, and did it in connection with the celebration of the Passover, the chief Jewish Festival. It is evident therefore that He intended it to take the place in the New Dispensation of the animal sacrifices in the Old Dispensation, to be the continual memorial of His perfect sacrifice for the sins of the whole world, instead of the memorial of the deliverance of a single nation from a temporary bondage. It is the Divinely ordained means therefore whereby that sacrifice is set forth before men, pleaded with God, and the benefits therefore communicated to the believer.

Ques. How often should it be celebrated?

Ans. Every Sunday and Holy day at the least, and in Cathedrals and large Churches, every day if possible.

Ques. Why is this?

Ans. Because of its importance and benefits, and because it has always been so used in the Christian Church. We read in the Acts of the Apostles that the first Christians "continued daily in the breaking of bread." In the earliest account we have of Christian Worship, after the New Testament period, it appears as the great act of the Lord's day worship, and has always so continued in every branch of the historical Church. It has been the chief service in every Christian liturgy.

Ques. May there be more than one celebration of the Holy Communion in a Church on the same day?

Ans. Yes, to accommodate different persons. Celebrations which take place early in the morning are called Low Celebrations, because they are very simple, unaccompanied by music and other ritual accessories and are chiefly for the purpose of Communion. Those in the middle of the day are called High or Solemn Celebrations because they are generally sung, and accompanied with more ceremony, and are more for purposes of worship. The same priest however should never celebrate more than once in the same day, except in case of absolute necessity.

Ques. How should the Holy Communion be received?

Ans. Fasting if possible, as an act of reverence, and that we may not come to it suffering from repletion or drowsiness. It should never be celebrated after the middle of the day. And celebrations in the early morning hours are much the best for the reception of the Communion, as it is then more still and solemn, and we are freshest and have had nothing to disturb us, and can carry the thought of it with us throughout the day. On account of its great solemnity it should never be received more than once on the same day, except by a priest when he has occasion to duplicate, as the celebrant must always communicate.

Ques. May persons be present at a celebration without communicating?

Ans. Yes, especially if they have already received at an early service, or if they do not feel quite prepared to communicate. They can thus take part in the sacrificial side of the service, and no time is so profitable for meditation and prayer and intercession. All persons present at a celebration should remain on their knees throughout the whole service so employed, except when the rubrics direct them to stand. No one however should allow attendance at the Communion to take the place of its regular reception.

Ques. How often should the Holy Communion be received?

Ans. By the Canons of the English Church "Three times in the year at least, of which the feast of Easter shall be one." As our Lord speaks of its being done "oft," we are not fulfilling His Command unless we do it at least thus frequently. The other most prominent occasions for Communion are naturally Christmas and Whitsunday. Hence these are called the Communions of Obligation. But Christians should not be content with doing what is their least duty, the more frequently the Communion is received with preparation and devotion, the better. The Clergy, and those especially occupied in religious things, will want to receive it at least every Sunday.

Ques. What are the Daily or Choir Offices?

Ans. Those called Daily Morning and Evening Prayer, or Matins and Evensong. They are the condensation of the ancient offices for the seven Canonical hours, which were recited daily in the religious houses.

Ques. Of what do they consist?

Ans. Chiefly of the recitation of fixed portions of the Psalter, to which have been added lections from the Holy Scriptures, and prayers of penitence and intercession. They are the Church's daily oblation of praise and prayer and should be recited by every priest that he may discharge his priestly duty, set the highest ideal of worship before his people and give the fullest opportunities for worship. Almost every one in a parish could and should attend one or two, if not more of these services in a week, this would always secure a congregation. But the office should be said by the priest even if there are no others present.

Ques. What is the Litany?

Ans. It is a penitential supplication broken up into short petitions to give it intensity, and because they were used originally in processions.

Ques. Why is the Litany said on Wednesdays and Fridays?

Ans. Because they have always been regarded as penitential days, from our Lord having been betrayed on Wednesday and crucified on Friday.

Ques. When else may it be used?

Ans. On any day or occasion of special penitence.

Ques. What are known as the occasional offices?

Ans. Baptisms, Marriages, Churchings, etc., which are only occssionally performed.

Ques. What are Private Offices?

Ans. Those which are performed for the benefit of individuals or in private houses.

Ques. What are Pontifical Offices?

Ans. Those which can only be performed by a Bishop.

Ques. How has the Church provided for the proper celebration of all her offices?

Ans. By means of the Prayer Book which contains in substance the rites, and to a large extent the identical words, which have been used in all parts of the Church from the earliest times.

THE ORGAN FUND.

Now that our Chancel is finished and occupied, we feel the one thing for us to do is to push the completion of the fund for a large Organ. We have the chamber standing ready to receive it. And the little organ we have is more than ever too small for the Church. And our Church and service is so complete in other respects, it seems too bad it should be wanting in this one particular. But it takes so much money to buy an organ and so much time to build it, that if we hope to have this want supplied by next Easter we must bestir ourselves, for the Vestry will not order the Organ until there is a reasonable prospect of being able to pay for it when it is ready.

This is an object which we should certainly suppose that every one attending the services of the Church would be interested in, and willing to contribute to, according to his ability. And to secure the contributions of all, we proposed a plan in the April number of this paper, by which subscriptions of any amount could be made. According to that plan, five subscriptions of $200, ten of $100, fifteen of $50, twenty of $25 thirty of $10, thirty-five of $5, forty of $3, fifty of $2, fifty-five of $1, would give $4,000, the amount required. In response to this appeal we have received so far three $100 subscriptions, five of $50, two of $25, five of $10, fourteen of $5, two of $3, eight of $2, eleven of $1.

Now who will fill up the remaining numbers? There are some attending the services of the Church who have not, to our knowledge, contributed anything towards the building or furnishing of the Church, who would be quite able, we should think, to make the larger subscriptions still required. And if every member of the congregation would put his or her name down for one of the smaller subscriptions,—an amount which would hardly be missed or which the sacrifice of some little personal indulgence would secure,—the whole sum would be raised.

We understand the Guilds have some entertainments in view for this end. And some of the little girls in the parish have been working during the summer, making things for a little sale for this object.

Let all give and work together for this end, and we shall soon have added to our already beautiful services, the pleasure and inspiration which comes from the sweet and soul stirring tones of that greatest of all musical instruments, a full Organ.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

Throughout this month, there will be in session in the city of New York, what is known as the General Convention, which is the great National Council of our Church. It meets only once in three years. It is composed of all the Bishops and of certain Clerical and Lay deputies from each of our Dioceses and Missionary jurisdictions. It is the great legislative body of our Church, and the prosperity and progress of the Church depends largely upon its action. It is something therefore in which every churchman should feel an interest. And the Church wisely provides a special Collect to be said in all our Churches while the Convention is in session, asking God's blessing on its deliberations.

The present session of the General Convention should be one of special interest to us, because there are several very important matters, nearly affecting us all, which will come before it, for its action. One is the revision of the Prayer Book, this was begun six years ago, but not completed, and may not be completed until yet another session three years off. As according to the Constitution of the Church no change can be made in the Prayer Book unless it has been proposed at one session of the Convention, and is acted on at the next. Certain changes were thus finally made at the last session, such as the restitution of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis to the evening service, and certain other changes were proposed, which are to be acted on at this session. And the committee charged with the matter are going to propose some more changes which if considered favorably, will be acted upon in 1892.

Another very important matter will be the consideration of a new Hymnal. It has long been felt that there were a large number of Hymns in our present book which were unsuited for public worship, and consequently which are never used. And on the other hand, there are a great many excellent hymns not in the book, which we ought to have the privilege of using. A committee therefore was appointed at the last Convention to revise the Hymnal, which will bring in its report at this session.

We shall hope to explain in our next issue what action has been taken on these two important points. In the meantime, as no other Convention has ever had two such important matters to act on, let us constantly pray that it may be guided aright.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH LAST MONTH. —Brass Altar rail and rail for Font 34 linen Cottas for the choir, the material being the gift and the work all done by one lady of the parish, a tailor made Cassock for the Cross bearer, two linen maniples embroidered, linen baptismal napkin embroidered, three purificators, kneeling carpet for Altar rail, two Turkish rugs for the Chancel from John Wanamaker, 12 kneeling hassocks, and 18 kneeling benches made by the Sexton. Six copies of the order of service for the blessing of the Chancel were made by a parishioner on a type writer.

CHANGE OF SERVICES. — Hereafter, beginning with the first Sunday in this month, the Litany service will be held at 4 P. M., instead of 3.30 P. M., as heretofore. The children of the Sunday School will assemble in the Church at 2.30 P. M., when there will be a short service and instruction especially adapted for them, after which the Sunday School will be held. At the Litany service, an instruction appropriate for adults will be given. The Sunday School children will not be required to attend the Litany service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The sessions of the Sunday School were changed to the afternoon on the third Sunday in September. Since then the school has been gradually filling up, and we hope this year to have a larger school than ever before. We regret to lose our assistant librarian, Mr. S. S Penniston, by his removal to Holmesburg. Mr. Harry Carson will take his place. We are glad to welcome Mr. Ray Jones as a new teacher.

As noted above a change will be made in the session for the Sunday School, which it is hoped will be equally acceptable to both teachers and scholars.

S. BARNABAS', S. JOHN'S, S. MARY'S GUILDS.—The objects of these Guild's are to bind together the young men, the boys, and the young women of the parish, to assist them in the cultivation of their spiritual life, and to interest them in, and encourage them to work for the Church. So we earnestly invite all the young people of the parish to enter these Guilds. We are sure it will be for their profit and edification to do so. And the Church will surely thrive if the young people are interested and active in it. Let all the young people feel it their duty to belong to one of these Guilds.

ANNIVERSARY OF GUILDS. — The Anniversary of the Women's Guild of the parish takes place on Monday, October 28th, S. S. Simon's and Jude's day. The Rector hopes that all the female communicants will be present at the 10.00 A. M. celebration on that day, and attend the business meeting which will be held immediately afterwards in the Guild room. The reports for the past year will be read, and the work mapped out for the coming season. The Anniversary of the Men's Guild will take place on Friday, November 1st, All Saint's day. The Rector asks the men of the parish to attend one or the other of the Celebrations of the Holy Communion, on the morning of that day, making the welfare of the parish the object of their special intercession at that time. The business meeting will be held at 8 P. M., in the School building. Is it too much to ask all the men of the parish to come together on this one occasion in the year, for the purpose of becoming acquainted with one another and talking over plans for the advancement of the Church? No Church can do all it should do, unless the men take an interest in it.

KNEELING MATS. — Persons having at this season pieces of carpet to dispose of, can send them to the Church, and they will be made up into kneeling mats. We need more for our new pews.

OPENING OF THE CHANCEL. — We had a most propitious day for the opening of the new Chancel, and though the tile men disappointed us in not completing their work, still we managed to cover over the floor with rugs and carpet and presented a very respectable appearance. Every one agreed the Chancel looked beautifully. The Church was crowded at the 11 A. M. service. In addition to the Bishop who was the preacher on the occasion, and the clergy of the parish, the Rev. Dr. Childs and the Rev. Dr. Robins were present. The whole choir was present, and two banners as well as the Cross were carried in the procession, which passed round the Church.

The Church was filled again at night when the Rector preached a sermon setting forth the purposes for which a Church is built and how we have tried to carry them out here.

We will print next month the form of service used by the Bishop in blessing the Chancel.

THE NEWS.

The Rector was much startled this last month by the business manager of this paper asking him whether he did not think it had better be discontinued, as it is not paying for itself, and every issue we are running deeper into debt. The Rector's reply was he would not discontinue it without laying the matter before the congregation, if they believe the paper is useful they must devise some method of paying for it, if not it must be stopped.

We think it but right therefore, that a statement of the financial condition of the NEWS and its needs should be brought to your notice. We owed January, 1889, for printing, etc., $31.46. We owe now about $75.00, leaving advertisements entirely out of the question, if all subscriptions now due and to become due, are renewed, we shall have about $22.00 to offset this debt. We have on our list only 109 subscribers. Of this, nine do not belong to the parish, leaving just 100 subscribers out of our whole congregation, and yet we circulate every month nearly 500 copies of the paper. Do you not think this showing a rather mean one? We have frequently made appeals for a more liberal support for the paper, but the response has been of a most meagre description. We ought to have at least 200 subscribers from the parish instead of the 100 we have. There must be a large number of people now taking the NEWS free every month, who could easily afford to pay 50 cents per year to help sustain it. Then we need more advertisements and could readily get enough to fill two pages, if some attempt was made to obtain them. One lady not only promptly renewed her subscription but at the same time handed to the treasurer a donation towards paying off the deficit of last year, and shortly after procured an advertisement paying $4. This is the sort of interest we want taken in the NEWS, and many could accomplish just as good results if they would only try. We think the paper is fairly interesting and attractive, we know it is useful in the parish. Will you sit still and see its usefulness ended when a slight effort on your part would assure its succcess? The matter is left for your decision.

THE LATE BISHOP DOANE, of New Jersey, in preaching a number of years ago at a church in England, took as the theme of his discourse the subject of "Adult Baptism." After the sermon was concluded the Rector of the parish spoke to the Bishop in high terms of the sermon, but said that it had there no application, as he was not aware of an unbaptized adult in his parish. Twenty years rolled on, and the good Bishop had in the providence of God been called to a higher sphere, and the Bishop's son, the present Bishop of Albany, preached at the same church. There was a person present who came forward after the service and told the Bishop of the sermon that he had heard preached by his father long years before, and said that he had felt that it was intended for him, for he was unbaptized and an unbeliever, but his heart had been touched, the good seed had taken root, and he had been converted to the truth, had since taken orders and become a clergyman in the Church of England. That clergyman is now well known as the author of the "Church Teachers' Manual," "Church Doctrine, Bible Truth," &c. The Rev. M. E. Sadler, Prebendary of Wells and Rector of Honiton, England.

The Mozart.

The weekly rehearsals of the Mozart Choral Society will recommence Monday, October 7th, 8 P. M. It is hoped all the members will be present.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER IX.

The Holy Communion.

Ques. What assistance should the Priest have in the celebration of the Holy Communion?

Ans. The Priest is usually attended by some minister or ministers to assist him, this being one of the purposes for which Deacons are ordained, as is stated in the Ordinal.

Ques. How many assistants should there be at a High or Solemn Celebration, and what duties do they perform?

Ans. There should be two clergymen to assist the Celebrant, called respectively the Gospeller and Epistoler, because one reads the Gospel and the other the Epistle. Sometimes they are also called the Deacon and the Sub-Deacon, because the one, even though a Priest, performs the Deacon's part, and the other assists him. The Gospeller stands on the step of the Sanctuary next below the foot pace of the Altar, on which the Celebrant stands, and the Epistoler stands on the step below the Gospeller. In addition to reading the Gospel and Epistle, they assist the Priest in arranging the Chalice, in the distribution of the Elements and in performing the Ablutions.

Ques. What assistants should there be at a Plain or Low Celebration?

Ans. One clergyman or layman who acts as Server He arranges every thing for the Priest in the Sanctuary and in the Sacristy. He brings him the vessels from the Credence and gives out and receives the alms basins. He kneels throughout on the lower step of the Sanctuary on the Epistle side and if a layman takes no part in the service. If a Priest or Deacon he may read the Epistle. It is useful also at a High Celebration to have one or more laymen act as Servers or Acolytes.

Ques. How is the Chalice arranged for the Celebration?

Ans. A folded Purificator is put on top of the Chalice, on which is placed the Paten, and on that the stiff Pall, over which is thrown the colored Chalice Veil, and the Burse containing the Corporal. Thus arranged the Chalice is placed on the Altar before the Celebration begins at a High Service, at a Low Service the Priest carries it into the Sanctuary when he goes, holding the knop with his left hand, and placing his right on top of the Burse. At both Celebrations the Celebrant carries the Chalice out with him.

Ques. How does the Priest make his private devotions before beginning the Celebration?

Ans. Standing humbly in the midst before the Altar, on the lowest step of the Sanctuary

Ques. Why does the Priest begin the service at the side of the Altar?

Ans. To distinguish the preparatory and subordinate part of the service from the more solemn part. He goes to the midst at the Creed, and remains there to the end.

Ques. What is the "right side" of the Altar?

Ans. The right or north side of the front, not the end. There would be no utility or symbolism in standing at the end, and no Christian liturgy ever directed it.

Ques. When should the Priest arrange the Chalice?

Ans. While the offerings are being collected. This is in accordance with the rubric, and is an economy of time?

Ques. What is often sung during this time?

Ans. After the Priest has "begun the offertory by saying one or more of the sentences," the choir sings them, or some other Anthem or Hymn.

Ques. What is the Lotio manuum or Lavabo?

Ans. Before the Priest arranges the Chalice, the server brings from the Credence an Ewer and Basin, holding the one in his right hand and the other in his left, and pours water over the Celebrant's hands which are held over the Basin. The Celebrant wipes his hands on a napkin which is on the left arm of the Server. This is both necessary for purposes of cleanliness and is symbolical of the purity which should distinguish those who handle Holy things. "I will wash my hands in innocency, O Lord, and so will I go to Thine Altar."

Ques. How does the Priest arrange the Chalice?

Ans. He removes it a little to the left of the Altar, while he takes out and spreads the Corporal in the midst, he places the Burse against the super Altar, replaces the Chalice on the Corporal, removes and folds the Chalice Veil, and places on top of it the Pall and Purificator. The Deacon or Server brings him from the Credence, the Breads, of which he takes as many as he thinks will be sufficient, and putting them on the Paten, places it on the Altar in front of the Chalice, and covers it with a corner of the Corporal thrown back over it. He then takes from the Server the Cruets, and pours into the Chalice enough wine and water, and places it on the centre of the Corporal, covering it with the Pall. The Elements are thus always covered while they are on the Altar, except during the Consecration.

Ques. Why is water as well as wine poured into the Chalice?

Ans. This has been the almost invariable use of the Church from the earliest times. It arose probably from the care of the Church to do in the Celebration exactly what our Lord did in the Institution, and there can be no doubt that he used the Cup of wine mingled with water, as that was the universal custom among the Jews. It is also said to symbolize the blood and water that flowed from our Saviour's side. The use of water as well as wine was prescribed by the first English Prayer Book.

Ques. Why is unleavened or wafer bread sometimes used?

Ans. Because that too has been the custom in the Western Church from the same reason, that Christ almost certainly used unleavened bread in instituting the Eucharist. It also seems but proper that a special bread should be made for this sacred purpose, instead of employing that commonly eaten, and because it has the great advantage of not crumbling as ordinary bread does and because it can always be kept at hand in readiness. It also was prescribed by the first English Prayer Book. The present book says "the finest wheaten bread shall suffice."

CHANGES IN THE PRAYER BOOK.

We said in our last issue that we hoped to be able in this number to explain what changes in the Prayer Book had been made by the General Convention which has just closed its sessions. We will not, however, attempt to explain them all, but only those which will effect the general character of the services in this parish. Almost all the changes proposed at the General Convention held in 1886 were adopted in this Convention of '89 and so are now part of the law of our Church. Those which will affect us are chiefly those in regard to the shortening of Morning Prayer both on Sundays and week-days. The new rubric at the beginning of Morning Prayer allows the Minister "on any day not a Sunday," to omit the Exhortation, "Dearly Beloved Brethern," saying in place of it, "Let us humbly confess our sins unto Almighty God," and to end Morning Prayer with the Prayer for Grace, and 2 Cor. xiii, 14. Of this we shall avail ourselves as it seems unnecessary to repeat every day the long Exhortation setting forth the purposes of public worship to those who are perfectly familiar with them and have come to Church in order to fulfil them. The Prayers which follow that for Grace, we will use in rotation, so that one or more of them shall be said every day, and all of them in the course of the week.

The rubric also provides that on any day when the Holy Communion is immediately to follow Morning Prayer, the Minister may pass at once from the Sentences to the Lord's Prayer, first pronouncing, "The Lord be with You, Answer, And with Thy Spirit, Minister, Let us Pray." This permission we propose also to avail ourselves of, as it will help to shorten the morning service, the length of which so many complain of, and will remove some very unnecessary and unedifying repetitions. For whenever the Holy Communion is celebrated, there is a confession and absolution in it, why therefore should another confession and absolution be said immediately before, especially when the same confession and absolution is repeated in the Evening Service? Such solemn words are apt to lose their force and impressiveness from such constant repetition. The Prayers after that for the President may also be omitted when the Holy Communion is celebrated, as their substance is contained in the Prayer for Christ's Church.

There is another change in the Prayer Book which will enable us to shorten our Sunday morning service. Twenty new selections of Psalms, some of them consisting of a single Psalm, have been set forth in place of the old ones. One of these we shall always use, unless the Psalter for the day happens to be particularly short. The object of having the whole Psalter divided up into so many Psalms to be used each day, was that the whole Psalter might be read through every month. But as the vast majority of our Sunday congregations never come to Church but on Sunday, this is never accomplished. There is no object therefore of their using just the Psalms appointed for the days of the month on which the Sundays fall. And we find too that many of the congregation become very weary when the Psalter is long. It is a greater strain also on the choir than anything else they sing. And some of the selections contain joyful and some penitential Psalms. The Psalter can thus be made to correspond better to the Church season than it can by using the Psalms in course.

On week-days we shall still use the Psalter as divided for each day of the month, and also generally on Sunday evenings when the service is shorter, and there is not so much to be sung. But by the changes on Sunday mornings we shall hope to solve the question, which has been agitating so many parishes where there is a weekly celebration of the Holy Communion, as to how to shorten the mid-day service. Some have Morning Prayer said at an earlier hour and have only the Communion at mid-day, others omit Morning Prayer and say only the Litany before the Communion, so that those who go only to the mid-day service never take part in Morning Prayer at all. But if it is shortened as we are now permitted to shorten it, and the unnecessary and unliturgical repetitions removed, it, with the Holy Communion together, will not make too long or unreasonable a service.

Another advantage of these changes is that it will make the evening service entirely different from the morning service. People often say that there is no use of going to Church twice a day because they have to say over exactly the same things which they said in the morning. But now there will be nothing in the evening service that was in the morning except the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the versicles. We think this is an important gain, and trust it will lead to the revival of the old and proper practice of Christians going to Church at least twice on the Lord's day.

Some of the other changes made in the Prayer Book were the appointing of several new sentences at the beginning of Morning and Evening Prayer appropriate to the different seasons of the Church year, and some new offertory sentences, and a presentation of the candidates to the Bishop in the Confirmation office. Quite a number of changes have also been proposed at this Convention, but as they cannot be acted on finally until three years hence, we need not concern ourselves with them now. But we are thankful to say that it was agreed on all sides that the work of revision of the Prayer Book shall finally cease then, so that the fixed standard Prayer Book can then be published. And we are also thankful that the revision has taken the course it has. For while there were some things which we would like to have seen in the Prayer Book which have not been adopted, we think that nearly everything that has been done has been an improvement and some things which were proposed which were very undesirable have been rejected. We believe that the Prayer Book as finally revised, will be much superior to what it was before, and better adapted for the various wants of our time and people.

Action on the Hymnal was deferred to the next Convention to be held in 1892.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. — Ingrain carpet for Sacristy, kneeling carpet for font rail, 9 kneeling hassocks, Brown's Animal History, 60 parts, for parish library. Through the liberality of our Assistant Minister, our Sunday school has also received for the first time, in many many years, the gift of a perfectly new library of about 200 volumes, making together with the best of the old books about 500 in all, of which a catalogue has been printed The same liberality has also entirely refitted the Guild room, by coloring the walls and ceiling, putting down a new carpet, furnishing an oak extension table, &c.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS. — A long felt want of a Bible Class for men on Sunday afternoons has at last been supplied by Mrs. Kittson undertaking its charge. It will meet in the male Bible class room at 3 P. M., and it is hoped the members will afterwards attend the 4 P. M. service in the Church.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE.—The change in the afternoon service seems to work well. The attendance of the children being larger than ever before at this time of the year. It is hoped that the 4 P. M. service will grow into a regular Sunday afternoon service for adults.

GUILD ANNIVERSARIES. — That of the Women was better attended this year than usual. Things were so organized that we think there is good prospect of increased work being done. Still we are disappointed in more not coming forward to help. It is strange that Christians should not consider it a privilege to have the opportunity of doing something for the cause of their Master.

BIBLE READINGS. — The Assistant Minister is giving a course of Bible readings on the Miracles of Our Lord, at the Wednesday evening services this Winter.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR ORGAN FUND. —S. Mary's and S. Barnabas' Guilds purpose giving a Dramatical and Musical entertainment during the first week in December, in the Drawing Room, 40th and Locust streets, West Philadelphia, for the benefit of the Organ Fund. The aim of the committee in making up the programme has been to give an evening of first-class fun, and they can promise two amusing farces and music by competent performers, one of whom has sung in a leading part on the operatic stage. We trust, that knowing what a great addition a large organ will be to our services, that this effort on the part of the Guilds to forward the work, will receive the hearty support of the Vestry and congregation. Tickets can be had on application to Mrs. Bond, or Messrs. Montgomery or Tingley.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—S. Mary's Guild gave a very pleasant social tea on their recreation meeting night last month. The only draw-back being that the invitations were not as widely disseminated as it was intended they should have been, so that many were not present whom it was hoped would have been there.

An All Hallow Eve party was also given to the children of the Sunday school, consisting of magic, recitations, &c., which was greatly enjoyed by the youngsters.

MISSIONARY AND POOR BOX.—Donations of money and clothing are now needed for the annual missionary box and for the work of the Mother's meeting.

Pastoral Letter.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, 1102 WALNUT ST.
PHILA., October 19, 1889.

To the Churchwomen of the Diocese:

Dear Fellowlaborers in the Lord:—Each succeeding year affords fresh illustrations of the power and blessedness of the organized work of Christian women. The recent meetings of the Women's Auxiliary in New York, in connection with the meetings of the General Convention as the Board of Missions were not only means of spiritual refreshment to those who were present, but they nerved each heart anew to do more than ever before to make known the Saviour's love, and to help and comfort those who are laboring in His name. It would be a great benefit if the spirit of those meetings should be diffused throughout the Church until every heart is warmed and every hand is busy in the work of Christ.

In the hope that by coming together for conference and prayer we may all be quickened to greater diligence in The Master's Service, I have appointed an all day meeting of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, to be held on Thursday, November 21st, in St. Andrew's Church, Philadelphia, Eighth street, between Locust and Spruce, to which I cordially invite you.

The following will be the order for the day:

10 A. M., Holy Communion.

11 to 12.30, Addresses.

12.30 to 2 P. M., Lunch in the Parish Building, for all.

2 to 4, Addresses.

It is expected that Bishop Morris, Bishop Talbot, Bishop Kendrick, Rev. A. H. Locke, of China, and Rev. Paulus Moort, of Africa, will speak.

Faithfully yours,

O. W. WHITAKER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania.

SERVICE.

For the opening and blessing of the Chancel of the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, September 29th, 1889, adapted from a service used by the Lord Bishop of Aberdeen, in opening S. Mary's Church, Aberdeen, February 11, 1864.

The Bishop having taken his chair on the north side of the Sanctuary the Rector shall approach him and say:

Right Reverend Father in God, in the name and on behalf of the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestry, and of the Congregation of the Church of the Ascension, I request you to bless and formally open this building for the worship of Almighty God.

The Bishop shall reply:

I am willing so to do, the Lord being my helper.

Then proceeding to the midst of the Sanctuary, the Bishop shall say,

V. Our help is in the name of the Lord.

R. Who hath made Heaven and Earth.

V. The Lord's name be praised.

R. Henceforth, world without end.

V. Lord, we have loved the habitation of Thy House.

R. And the place where Thine Honor dwelleth.

V. Lord, hear our prayer.

R. And let our cry come unto Thee.

O Lord God, whom the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain, and yet who dost vouchsafe to have Thy dwelling upon earth in houses built for the worship of Thy Name, look down, we beseech Thee upon this place, and by Thy grace cleanse it from all defilement, and keep it pure and free from all evil, driving hence all spiritual wickedness; through Jesus Christ, our Lord, to Whom with Thee and the Holy Ghost be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

Grant, O Lord, that they who in this place shall in their own persons renew the promises and vows made for them by their sureties at their baptism and thereupon be confirmed by the Bishop, may continue Thine forever, and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more until they come to Thine everlasting kingdom. Amen.

Grant that they who may be joined together in this place in the Holy Estate of Matrimony may faithfully perform and keep the vow and covenant betwixt them made, and remain in perfect love and peace together unto their lives end. Amen.

Grant that those who shall here confess their sins, and seek of Thee, the God of all consolation, mercy and pardon, peace and quietness, may ever find Thee in the fulness of Thine abundant charity. Amen.

Grant that by Thy Holy Word, which shall be read and preached in this place, the hearers thereof may both perceive and know what things they ought to do, and also may have grace and power faithfully to fulfill the same. Amen.

Grant that they who shall here offer the Sacrifice of Praise and Thanksgiving, may find and feel that such sacrifices are acceptable unto Thee. Amen.

Grant that they who shall here receive the Holy Sacrament of Thy love may so eat the flesh of Thy dear Son, Jesus Christ and drink His Blood, that their sinful bodies may be made clean by His most Sacred Body, and their souls washed through His most Precious Blood, and that they may evermore dwell in Him and He in them. Amen.

And be pleased, O Lord, as Thou didst accept the offering of Solomon in the house that he built for the glory of Thy Name, to receive the varied gifts here presented for Thy service. Bless those who have given of their substance towards raising and furnishing this House of Prayer. Remember this to them, O Lord, for good, bless them in their going out and coming in, in mind, and body, in spirit and estate. Amen.

And so we beseech Thee, O Lord, to bless and sanctify this building which we now dedicate to Thy service and glory. Amen.

"Peace be within thy walls and plenteousness within thy palaces." (Psalm cxxii, v. 7.)

"Thine, O Lord, is the greatness and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in heaven and earth is Thine: Thine is the Kingdom, O Lord, and Thou art exalted as head over all. All things come of Thee and of Thine own have we given Thee." (1 Chron. xxix. 11-15.)

The Bishop shall return to his seat.

Another Choir Excursion.

On the 5th of October the boys of the Choir, accompanied by two gentlemen, took a trip to the Switchback. The weather was fine and the temperature just cool enough to make an out of door exercise thoroughly enjoyable.

The party took the morning train; and though compelled to separate and shift about considerably in order to secure seats in the crowded cars, the boys managed in some unaccountable way to derive considerable pleasure from the long and tedious ride.

Probably the only miserable person was one of the gentlemen. He was standing in the front of the car when a benevolent lady who had been regarding a batch of the capering youngsters with no little curiosity, made room in her bench and invited him to sit down beside her, a privilege which he accepted—inwardly with a vague feeling of uneasiness, outwardly with every appearance of deep thankfulness.

As soon as the benevolent lady had thus adjusted the bucket, she immediately began to work the pump-handle with that nervous, feminine energy so familiar and so terrible to many unfortunates of the opposite sex. "Are the boys from a home? No! From a choir? Indeed! What choir? Then they sing? How charming! I'm sure that boy there is a lovely singer. Won't you have them sing? I should enjoy it so much, etc., etc."—But the poor wretch had sneaked away on the pretense that one of the boys needed his attention.

At Mauch Chunk the boys, after leaving the train, were marshalled, counted and "hustled" into the gravity car. Lunch was eaten on Summit Hill, and as each boy had provided his own dinner it may be imagined there was no scarcity of provisions. Indeed one would have thought that the commissary department of an army had come to a halt upon the mountain side. This important matter concluded, several relic hunting maniacs of the party secured some souvenirs and then the mines were visited. The rest of the day was spent in various games upon the top of the mountain. Prisoners-base, lame-duck, and duck-on-davy, all came in for a fair share, and it may be confidentially admitted that Mr. Wilson proved himself quite as expert at these sports as any of his juvenile companions. Indeed, it was owing to his well directed efforts that the success of the expedition was so pronounced, and without having consulted that gentleman's own wishes, we take the liberty of hoping that he will be a fixture in all such excursions in the future.

OUR "RITUAL CATECHISM" has been crowed out this month, it will be continued in our next issue.

THE DAILY SERVICE.

We have in this Church a daily service, prayers said every morning and evening. Why is this? We answer because the Prayer Book provides a daily service, and evidently expects it to be used. If it was intended only for Sundays, it would be called the Sunday Morning and Evening Service, but it is not called that, but "Daily Morning and Evening Prayer." And when we look at the Prayer Book and Canons of the Church of England, from which we got our Prayer Book, we find there the same services together with the command to every Clergyman to say them daily, either in public or in private.

And as the Preface to our Prayer Book says that our Church has no intention of departing from the principles of worship of the Church of England, it is evident, even though we have not the direct command to say this service every day, that it is the mind of the Church that it should be so said. And if that is the mind of the Church, every loyal Clergyman will feel that it is his duty to carry out that intention.

The history of the Daily Service is this. In the Jewish Church, there were daily sacrifices, the offering of incense and the observance of hours of prayer, as well as the Sabbath-day services. And in the New Dispensation we read in the Acts of the Apostles that the Apostles "continued daily in the breaking of bread and in prayers," that is in Celebrating the Eucharist which Christ instituted to take the place of the Jewish sacrifices, and that they observed as well the hours of prayer in the Temple. And from the earliest Christian ages we find that the Eucharist was thus often offered daily, and that in addition stated services of prayer and praise were recited throughout the day. This was especially and most fully done in the Monastaries and various religious houses, where large numbers of Christian men and women lived in community. In them an almost continuous worship was kept up by day and night. The special hours of prayer observed were seven, Matins sung at midnight, which consisted really of two offices Nocturus which belonged to the night office and Lauds which was the first of the day offices, Prime sung at 6 A. M Terce at 9 A. M., Sext at noon, Nones 3 P. M., Vespers 6 P. M., Compline 9 P. M. These were called the Canonical Hours, and the services appointed for them were contained in a book called the Breviery. At the time of the Reformation in England the offices in this book were not only translated into English, but were simplified and condensed into two offices called Matins and Even Song, which, with some slight changes are what we have in our Daily Morning and Evening Prayer. The Breviery offices were really never said, except in the religious houses or in the Cathedrals or by the Clergy in private. But the daily offices in the Church of England and our own Church, are intended for the people, to be said in every parish Church. So that the English Church has the proud distinction of being the only Church, or Christian body, which has a really popular daily worship, which corresponds to that of the primitive Church and of the old Dispensation.

So we try to carry out the intention of the Church, that thus as an Institution it may fulfil one of the purposes for which it exists, the due and appropriate worship of Almighty God, that it may set before the people the highest ideal of worship, and give them the fullest opportunities for it.

There is no greater need than that of bringing our religion into our daily life. And if we never worship but on Sundays, we are not giving God all that we should, and our worship will not have all the effect in our lives that it should.

Most Christians try to make up for this by daily private worship at home, but however necessary this is, it does not take the place of the service in Church. At the same time we do not say that it is an obligation for every Christian to attend Prayers in Church twice every day. But we do say that if there are any who could do this, or who could go once a day, it would be a very beautiful and beneficial thing for them. And though there may not be many among our busy people who can do that yet, we do think that it would be perfectly practicable for nearly every one in our congregation,—except those who have business engagements just at those hours—to go to at least one such service every week. If all did this, it would have the effect of connecting the Sundays, bringing one's religion into his week day life, giving him an half hour of retirement from the world, and thought about religious things which could not but have an effect on his religious life, and would be, we should think, of great comfort and sweetness to him. And if all in the congregation made a rule to come thus each to one service in the week, we would be sure of having quite a number at every service, instead of merely the two or three and sometimes none, that we have now.

Will not each member of the congregation who can possibly so command his or her time make a resolution to attend at least one daily service in the Church each week during the coming winter? It would make our daily service a reality, it would cheer the hearts of the Clergy to see their privileges shared, and the opportunities for worship they offer to the people appreciated, and above all it would, we are sure, be of great spiritual benefit to those who practiced it.

We earnestly hope to see the daily service become the rule in all our Churches, and to find the people more and more largely attending it.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are very happy to announce that the question of the continuance of the News has been solved by a single member of one of our Guilds having energetically secured us some fifteen new advertisements, which will make up the deficiency in our accounts. We still want however, every member of the parish to become a subscriber. And as we think those who subscribe ought to have some advantage over those who do not, we propose hereafter to send the News by mail to all who subscribe at 50 cents a year without any additional charge.

Our parishioners can take no better way of showing their good will than by consulting our advertisements and patronizing, as far as possible, the advertisers, so that those who have so cheerfully helped us to fill our columns and our treasury may realize that in helping us they have helped themselves. Mention the NEWS to others.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Closet for Mother's Meeting, gilding gas pipes in Chancel, comb and brush for sacristy, roller towel for choir room, grain and fruit for Thanksgiving day, clothes and material for poor. Two colored pictures in gilt frames for Guild room. Linen alb, amice and chasuble embroidered, canton flannel cover with lace border for credence, linen cover for do embroidered.

COURSE OF SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to deliver on Sunday evenings beginning with the first Sunday in Advent a course of historical sermons on the Founders and Fathers of the Church. The subjects for the four Sundays before Christmas will be S. John Baptist, S. Peter, S. John, and S. Paul.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR ORGAN FUND takes place at the Drawing Room, 40th below Locust St., on Tuesday evening Dec. 10th. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Bond or Mr. W. H. Montgomery.

ORGAN FUND.—We are glad to say that about half the sum required to pay for the new organ has now been pledged. Shall we not soon have the remainder that is needed? We repeat what we have said before, that as the Chancel was built by the subscriptions of three or four persons without any general appeal to the congregation, we think that all should subscribe to put in the organ. Let each give something whether it be a large or small offering. Subscriptions may be handed to the Rector or Wardens, or placed in an enveloped, marked for the organ, in any offertory, or dropped in the Alms box in the vestibule which is designated for this purpose.

GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—All the male Guilds of the parish propose to have a joint entertainment in the parish building on the evening of St. John's day, Dec. 27th, to which representatives of other male Guilds will be invited. All the members of S. Barnabas and S. John's Guilds, and of S. Andrews Brotherhood are expected to be present.

CHRISTMAS COMMUNION.—Let all remember that Christmas day is one of the three great seasons in the year when all Christians are expected to make their communion. There will be three Celebrations that day at 7.30, 8.30, and 11 A. M. If you can not come that day, come on one of the Holy days or Sundays near it.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS.—As in past years special offerings will be asked from every member of the Church on Christmas day. When we are giving gifts to each other in our households that day we must not forget to give a gift to our Mother the Church, which is the great household which includes all Christians. We depend on the offerings of that day to pay the interest on the mortgage on our property, $750, which becomes due this month.

REMEMBER THE POOR.—The congregation must bear in mind that the only way we have of making collections for the poor in this parish is through the Alms boxes in the vestibule, and so constantly from time to time drop something in them. The work among the poor is increasing and we have not the means to carry it on.

CHILDREN'S FAIR.—Some little girls connected with, and interested in, the parish held a fair in the parlors of Mr. Carpenter our Senior Warden, on the last day of November, for the sale of articles, made chiefly by themselves, for the benefit of the organ fund. They realized $60.80. Very good, and very many thanks.

READING ROOM.—One of the members of S. Barnabas Guild is in the Guild room every Monday evening to to keep it open as a reading room for any who will use it.

THE YEAR BOOK FOR 1888–89 has been printed. Copies may be otained from the Sexton. It contains the report of all the work of the parish for the past Church year.

THE CHOIR now sing regularly an Anthem Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, and a special Anthem during the offertory at the Sunday evening Service. There will also be a choir hereafter at the 4 P. M. service, so as to make it a regular afternoon service.

THE BUSINESS MEETING OF S. MARY'S GUILD is changed this month from the second to the fourth Tuesday as the entertainment in West Philadelphia is to be given on the second Tuesday, and the Guild will meet hereafter every Tuesday evening, as classes are being formed for instructions in voice culture, music, embroidery and dress making. These classes are open to all members of the Guild, others can join them for a small consideration.

MISSIONARY BOX.—All the ladies of the congregation are invited to meet at the Church every Tuesday after morning prayer to sew for the Missionary box which is now being made up.

SUBSCRIPTIONS IN NOVEMBER.—Mrs. Charles Lynch, Miss Davis, Mr. Chas. E. Bonnet, Dr. T. R. Neilson, Mr. W. H. Tevis, Mrs. Henry Lehman, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. F. McVeigh, Mr. Ray Jones, Miss Voigt, Mrs. Chas. E. Allen, Mr. S. S. Peniston, Miss A. S. Sherrett, Miss Wurts.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER IX.

Holy Communion.

Ques. How does the Priest present the offerings of the people?

Ans. They are brought by the Server to the Deacon, and by him to the Priest, who elevates them slightly to show that they are dedicated to God's service and then places them on the Epistle side of the Altar.

Ques. Can anything beside money be included in the offerings?

Ans. Yes, anything that is to be given or dedicated to God's service may be thus offered and consecrated to its purpose at this time, as implied in the rubric which speaks of "other devotions of the people."

Ques. Why do the people stand at the presentation of the offerings?

Ans. To show that it is the solemn offering of their substance as a tribute and act of worship to God, in which the Priest is their Agent.

Ques. What is called the Canon?

Ans. The Prayer of Consecration of the Elements, because it is conducted by an invariable rule or Canon in all liturgies.

Ques. What is a Sanctus or Sacring bell?

Ans. A bell sometimes rung at the Consecration to call the attention of the people to it and to stir up their devotion?

Ques. How does the Priest Consecrate the Elements?

Ans. In addition to the manual acts prescribed in the Prayer Book, he should make the sign of the Cross over each Element before he lays his hand on it, and elevate it slightly at the words "do this" to show that they are thus offered to God. Some also place the Paten on top of the Chalice after the Consecration and elevate them together at the words "which we now offer unto Thee," which is called the econd or greater Oblation.

Ques. How is the fraction performed?

Ans. If Wafer Breads are used, there is always one piece, which is larger than the rest, which is for this purpose, and is broken into three parts. If ordinary bread is used, one piece should be cut larger than the others and broken in the same way.

Ques. When should the Priest make his Communion?

Ans. During the singing of the Hymn or Anthem which follows the Consecration. He first kneels to make his private devotions, then rises and receives each Element standing, after which he kneels again. He receives standing, both because of greater convenience and because it is his official position as a Priest?

Ques. What is the most appropriate Anthem to be sung after the Consecration?

Ans. The Agnus Dei. It has long been used in this place; the first English Prayer Book directed it. Other Hymns may be sung after it, while the people are receiving the Communion, or the organ should be played softly during this time.

Ques. How should the people receive the Elements?

Ans. They should kneel erect, not bending over, and receive the Bread in the ungloved palm of the right hand which is placed over the left hand and so conveyed to the mouth. They should never take the Element with the fingers, as there is danger of its falling to the ground or particles being rubbed off it. In administering the Chalice the Minister should always retain hold of the knob of it, lest it should fall in being passed backward and forward, but the person receiving it should always guide it to his mouth by putting his hand on the foot of it, otherwise it is difficult for the Minister always to see that the Element has been received.

Ques. In distributing the Elements, on which side of the Chancel should the Priest begin?

Ans. Always on the Epistle side, thus following the course of the sun, from the south to the north, it being supposed that Churches are built having their Chancels in the East.

Ques. How are the remaining Elements consumed?

Ans. Excepting under very extraordinary circumstances the celebrant ought to be able to do this himself without calling any one to his assistance. He first consumes the remaining Breads, and then reverses the Paten over the Chalice and taps with his fingers on the bottom of it, so that any crumbs or remaining particles will fall into the Chalice. He then drinks all that is in the Chalice.

Ques. How are the Ablutions performed?

Ans. The Server brings the Cruets from the Credence, and he or the Deacon, when there is one, pours into the Chalice first a little wine, with which the Celebrant rinses the Chalice and then drinks it, secondly a little wine and water is poured in, and thirdly, if necessary, a little water by itself, and the same thing is done, after which the Celebrant wipes first his lips and then the Chalice with the Purificator, which he then folds, places on the Chalice, and then arranges the Chalice as it was at the beginning of the service and carries it out of the Sanctuary with him.

Ques. What is the necessity for these Ablutions?

Ans. They are necessary from the rubric in the Prayer Book that directs that none of the sacred Species be carried out of the Church. This cannot be done without the cleansing and rinsing of the vessels that contained them. And if done in the Sacristy it would not be done as carefully and reverently as at the Altar.

At a high service the choir should sing the Nunc Dimittis or some other appropriate Anthem during the Ablutions, and the people should remain kneeling until they are performed. They should then rise and remain standing until the clergy and attendants have left the Sanctuary.

Ques. When is incense used?

Ans. According to the ancient rite it was used in High Celebrations of the Holy Communion at the Introit, the reading of the Gospel, the Oblation and after the Consecration. The Altar was incensed by the Celebrant in the midst and at the Epistle and Gospel sides. The Celebrant was then incensed by the Deacon, and he in turn by the Server, who afterwards incensed the choir. Incense was also used in Processions and at Burials, and at the Benedictus in Morning Prayer and the Magnificat in Evening Prayer when solemnly sung.

It is much to be desired that this most Scriptural, Ancient and Universal Symbol, so expressive of prayer, and adoration and intercession should be used in a simpler way, not involving the incensing of persons and things, the purpose of which is not so evident.

OUR YOUNG MEN.

Three Societies have been organized within the limits of this City; S. Andrew's Brotherhood, the Iron Cross Society and the Friendly Society. The object of these Societies is to encourage the young men of the Church to live a Godly life and to take their place in the work of the Church of God. Much enthusiasm has been aroused, and the sympathy of many Bishops has been elicited. The wonderful success in extending their influence, and the rapid increase in membership are evidences of the great need existing for such associations and of the desire of our young men to be up and doing when the opportunity offered. The force of example is contagious, and the following well-known case may have been the experience of most of us who as boys, were cast in the world of school life.

When they laughed at a little boy on one of our Government training ships for boys, for kneeling down and saying his prayers before he got into bed, the same as he did at home, he stopped and made up his mind to say them in bed. Pretty soon he stopped saying them altogether. A year after another new boy came. He knelt down too and every one laughed and jeered him. He finished his prayers and then went quietly to bed. The next night he did the same and there was the same laughing and jeering, and it was the same several nights. The seventh night the boy who had stopped praying slipped out of bed and knelt beside the new boy. Before many nights other boys knelt down and the laughing began to grow fainter. Now a great many kneel and pray every night and morning, and, though a great many are still ashamed to, there isn't a boy who would allow any fun-making at the boys who pray.

Many in Church and Sunday-school sign themselves with the Sign of the Cross, in token that they shall not be ashamed to confess the Faith of Christ Crucified, and manfully to fight under His Banner against sin, the world and the devil, and to continue Christ's faithful soldiers and servants until their lives' end, and bow the knee at the name of Jesus. How is it outside? When you heard that wicked story did you smile? The Church of God needs young men who are not ashamed of the Church of God

Her young men believe that Jesus Christ came down from Heaven for us men and for our salvation: at home, at school, on the play ground, in the factory, the counting house, the college, the question is being asked—and honestly—"Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" everywhere She needs young men to answer "Come and see."

Her divine Lord said to the young man "Go and sell that thou hast and give to the poor:" at our doors are the hungry, the cold, the sick: everywhere She needs young men willing to go to the lost sheep of the house of Israel; to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction.

She teaches her young men the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments: the Church of God needs young men in her Sunday-school willing in turn to teach the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments to others.

The Church of God needs young men to minister unto the Lord: of the many made Hers by the washing of water, how few assume any duty in the service or care of the Sanctuary. Samuel of old ministered before the Lord being a child. Samuel did not yet know the Lord, and ere the Lamp of God went out in the Temple of the Lord where the Ark of God was, the Lord came and called Samuel, and Samuel answered: "Speak, for Thy servant heareth."

The Church of the Ascension seems to us well placed to be the Church for young men. Its attractive interior, its free seats, its bright and frequent services, its enormous field for aggressive and evangelistic work, give our young men just those opportunities and facilities for which they are all clamoring so loudly and so persistently. The Clergy of this parish are willing to lead the young men into broad fields of usefulness, where the richest harvest can be gathered into the garners of the Most High.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Engraving of Madonna in wooden frame, four photographs framed for Guild room. Bagatelle board, two books and five magazines, 1½ tons of coal, candles for Altar, Lectionary for 1890, clock for Sacristy, red plush and yellow satin dossel for Sanctuary, linen surplice, embroidered, for Rector, donations of clothing for missionary box and the poor, and of oranges, &c., for Christmas festival, regilding Altar cross. The clock came to the Church anonymously. Will the unknown giver accept our thanks.

CHRISTMAS.—The Church was decorated this year by the erection of a lofty screen at the entrance of the choir, covered with green, and by the hanging of a new and very handsome dossel of plush and satin,—the gift of a few members of the parish,—behind the Altar.

The designs of both of these were furnished by the Architect of the Church. Through the kindness of the Rev. Dr. Batterson, we were enabled to have three celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day. The effect of which was to make the number of communicants at the early services—125, far outnumber those in the middle of the day—46. The Children's Festival took place on the evening of S. Stephen's day, as Holy Innocent's day, being Saturday, was not appropriate or convenient for it. Some new features were introduced into the entertainment which proved very successful. On Monday evening before Christmas, each member of the mother's meeting was given a turkey and bag of potatoes for a Christmas dinner. The music on Christmas day and the Sunday after was well rendered, in spite of the absence of the choir-master, which was caused by the death of a relative. The Rector wants to acknowledge his obligations to the Rev. Dr. Batterson for his kind assistance during the three Sundays in December the Assistant Minister was kept from Church by sickness.

The teacher of the female Bible-class was much gratified by the reception of a beautiful silver pencil case from the members of her class. Each member of the several Bible-classes received a box of bon-bons and a Christmas card from the teacher.

MISSIONARY BOX.—All the ladies in the congregation are invited to meet in the parish building, after prayers, every Tuesday, to sew for the missionary box, or sewing may be taken home if preferred.

CHURCH FURNITURE. — Our old Bishop's chair, Altar rail and Credence table, with one of the linen covers of the latter have been presented to a new Church which has just been built at Crisfield, Somerset County, Maryland.

THE ANNUAL Meeting of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew was held on S. Andrew's Dav in the Church of the Epiphany. The Rector of the Ascension who is Chaplain of the District Branch celebrated the Eucharist at 8 o'clock and Rev. Dr. McConnell preached at the evening service.

THE NEW ORGAN.—We announced last month that about one-half the money required for the building of the new organ had been subscribed. We also asked for a subscription from every member of the parish for this purpose. We now announce that the organ has been contracted for and is being built, but we deeply regret to say that we are not able to announce a general response to our appeal for subscriptions.

There has been received since the December issue of the News a total sum of $70.75; of this $50.00 was obtained from a gentleman outside the parish. The remaining $20.75 was given by 23 members of the parish in amounts varying from one cent to $5.00. This we are not at all satisfied with. We meant exactly what we said last month, for we think it the duty of each parishioner to make his or her contribution to this fund whether the amount be one cent or $100 00. We most sincerely trust that you will all look upon the matter in the same light, and that next month we may be in a position to record a large nnmber of new subscribers to the organ fund.

Advertisements.

The friends of the News will notice a number of blank spaces on our advertising sheets. The advertisements which formerly filled these spaces have expired, and we have not been able to secure their renewal. Will you not help us to get others to take their places? Some of the stores which you regularly patronize would probably give you an advertisement for a year if you apply to them. Will you make the effort?

Subscriptions.

Subscriptions for the year 1890 are now due and payable. Be good enough to renew without delay. We are now sending the News by post to all subscribers at the uniform rate of 50 cents per year. Please keep the business manager informed of your correct address. How many of you will send one new subscriber when renewing your own subscription? The following subscriptions were received during December:—Mrs. A. Jackson, Miss F. Jackson, Mr. S. Jackson, Miss J. Davis, Mr. H. C. Atkinson, Mr. M. F. Roberts, Mrs. M. S. Jansen, Mrs. Milliken, Miss McCauley, Cash.

A CIRCULAR.

The following circular was handed to all coming to the Church on the first Sunday in December.

CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION.

To its Worshippers:

The committee to whom the Vestry has committed the charge of looking after the expenses of the Church, kindly beg leave to call your attention to the great need of an increase in its revenue, and to the importance of each worshipper subscribing to the system adopted and known as the envelope system. The Church being free and having no endowment fund, depends entirely upon each individual attendant assisting by regularly giving so that the current expenses including the Clergy's salary, music, heat, gas, etc., can be promptly paid.

The amount of the individual contribution is a matter to be decided entirely by the conscience of the contributor, and a knowledge as to what it is is entrusted only to the Accounting Warden. The account is kept by numbers and not names of the contributors. No scheme could be devised to better equalize the appearance of the offerings of all, the poor as well as those in better circumstances. each envelope as it is placed on the plate be it from rich or poor, resembles its neighbor. If in your Sunday offerings you are now giving five cents per Sunday. can you not increase it to ten cents? If this proportion of increase is applied to all contributions we would then have ample revenue to support the Church, and we are sure that none would feel any poorer.

Remember this Church is free to all and depends entirely upon the Worshippers for its support.

Statement.

The report of the business manager of the NEWS for the year 1889 is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Balance for December 31, 1888 . .	$ 2.04

Cost of Publication for 1889	136.50
" Postage "	4.09
Deficit	36.70

We think all friends of the News must be pleased with the above statement. Last year (1888) the News failed to be self-sustaining, the deficit being $31.46. This year (1889) the deficit is only $3.20. But we still have the unpaid balance of 1888 to provide for. Six donations of $5.00 each would cancel this indebtedness. Who will hand in one? The business manager wishes to express his gratitude for the interest shown in the News by quite a goodly number of the parishioners. Can not the interest be more general during 1890? Will you not all try to help us? Many thanks are also due the publisher for his interest in the work, his willingness to make changes, &c., and above all his forbearance in the matter of payments. The latter is all the more reason why that 1888 deficit should be paid at once. We will gladly publish any sums received for this purpose.

December 31st, 1889.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER X.

Customs.

Ques. What are some customs observed in connection with the Church Seasons?

Ans. At Christmas the Churches are usually dressed with evergreens. But it is often overdone, the Churches being given over to the taste of the upholsterer to the destruction of that of the architect. It is very common to festoon wreaths of leaves over the entire Church. This should never be done. If wreaths are used at all they should follow the lines of architecture, over the arches, round the capitals of the columns, etc. But it is better to use natural boughs, tied round the columns, etc., in a natural way, and the chief decoration should be concentrated about the Chancel. A temporary Rood Screen, where there is no permanent one, covered with greens is probably the most effective decoration that can be used.

Ques. How long should the Christmas greens remain in the Church?

Ans. From Christmas eve until the eve of the Feast of the Purification, unless Septuagesima should come before when they are taken down on its eve.

Ques. How should the Feast of the Epiphany be distinguished?

Ans. By the special use of lights, to typify that Christ is the light of the Gentiles.

Ques. How are the penitential seasons of Advent and Lent marked?

Ans. The Te Deum and Gloria in Excelsis are not sung during Advent or from Septuagesima to Easter. The Benedicite is sung in place of the one and some appropriate hymn in place of the other.

Ques. How is the Passion Tide marked?

Ans. From Passion Sunday to Easter all the pictures and ornaments of the Church are removed or veiled. The Altar Cross, Candlesticks and processional Cross are veiled with black or violet crape.

Ques. How is Palm Sunday observed?

Ans. By a Procession of Palms. The Clergy and choir going round the Church each carrying branches of Palms or other trees, and singing an appropriate Hymn. Palms may also be placed on the super Al ar and attached to the processional Cross. They are generally distributed to the people after the service.

Ques. How is the Institution of the Holy Communion on Maundy Thursday commemorated?

Ans. With special music and the use of white vestments, flowers, etc. But all the other services on that day should be conducted as during the rest of the Passion Tide.

Ques. How is the special solemnity of the three last days in Holy week marked?

Ans. No Gloria Patri is sung after any of the Canticles or elsewhere, except after the last Psalm of the Psalter when the rubric requires it to be sung.

Ques. How is Good Friday observed?

Ans. There should be no high or festive celebration of the Holy Communion on this day. In some Churches it is omitted entirely. After Morning Prayer and the Litany, "The Reproaches" are sung, and from 12 to 3 P. M., the hours during which our Lord hung upon the cross, there is a continual preaching of the Passion, interspersed with the singing of hymns. In some Churches also the Stations of the Cross are observed. It is well also to have sermons or meditations on the Passion every day or night during the Holy Week.

Ques. Why is the Altar sometimes stripped of all vestments on Good Friday?

Ans. To typify our Lord's humiliation on that day, being stripped of all His garments. This may be done instead of using a black Altar cloth on that day.

Ques. How is Easter celebrated?

Ans. With the finest music, the richest vestments, the choicest floral and other decorations that the church can command. Banners are also often carried in procession or hung around the church, on this and other high festivals. Bouquets of flowers may be placed on the Altar on every festival day in the year, unless perhaps during Advent and Lent. But on great Festivals additional flowers in pots are placed round the Altar and in other prominent places in the Church. Additional lights are also sometimes used on this and other Festivals, or carried in processions.

Ques. How are the Ember and Rogation days marked?

Ans. In common with other Penitential seasons, by the use of violet vestments, and the disuse of the Te-Deum and Gloria in Excelsis, except at the Whitsuntide Ember days because they occur within the octave of a great Festival. The Litany should be recited on each of the Rogation days.

Ques. How are Thanksgiving day and Harvest Home festivals observed?

Ans. By placing specimens of the fruits of the earth on the super Altar and in the Chancel. But care should be taken to observe dignity in the arrangement, lest the Chancel assume the appearance of a market.

At no time should decorations of any sort be put upon the Altar itself. Nothing should ever be placed there but the Chalice and Paten, the offerings of the people, and a single Altar book on its rest.

Ques. How should baptism be performed?

Ans. By dipping, or pouring water on, the person three times at the mention of each person of the Trinity.

Ques. What custom is observed in Confirmations?

Ans. The female candidates are often dressed in white or wear veils.

Ques. How are marriages sometimes conducted?

Ans. The choir is present. It meets the bridal party at the entrance of the Church, and precedes it to the Chancel, singing an appropriate hymn.

The groom usually comes to the Church by himself and awaits the bride at the Altar.

All marriages, baptisms, and funeral services should be held in the Church, never in private houses, except under most extraordinary circumstances. There should also be celebrations of the Holy Communion at marriages and burials when possible.

Ques. What is sometimes done at the consecration of a Bishop?

Ans. He is invested with the Mitre and Pastoral Staff, the symbols of his Episcopal authority.

Ques. What is often done at Ordinations?

Ans. After the laying on of hands the Bishop invests those made Priests with the Chasuble or the stole placed over both shoulders, and those made Deacons with the stole placed over the left shoulder and tied under the right arm.

Ques. How should Clerics be buried?

Ans. Bishops in their Episcopal habits, Priests in their Eucharistic vestments, violet or with violet stole, Deacons in cassocks and surplice with stole. Lay readers, Servers and choir men and boys may be buried in cassock and cotta; and members of religious orders in their respective habits.

Ques. Is it common for Bishops or Priests to bless Altars, Fonts or other things used in the service of the church?

Ans. Yes, on the same principle that churches and church yards are consecrated.

Ques. When and why are Processions made through the church?

Ans. On special occasions to mark their dignity and importance.

WHAT WE HAVE DONE AND WHAT WE WANT TO DO.

It is satisfactory to look back and see the progress we have made since we took possession of the vacant lot on Broad Street, in June, 1885, with nothing in hand but part of the purchase money of the property on Lombard St. By November, 1885, our substantial two-story parish building on the rear of the lot had been erected and paid for. This gave us a place in which to hold our services, and afforded us from the start a commodious workhouse in which the Schools, Guilds and all the work of the parish could be carried on. June 3rd, 1886, the corner stone of the Church was laid, and by the following December, the nave and aisles were completed and occupied for Divine service. Gradually all the aisle windows were filled with memorial stained-glass, the capitals of the columns carved, and other enrichments made.

Last summer we erected the chancel, organ chamber and sacristy, which have so improved the Church, and now we have made a contract for a large pipe organ to be put in before April 1st, at a cost of over $4000. We shall thus have erected and furnished within less than five years, a handsome church and school building at an expense of over $44,000, all of which has been raised, except what we still need for the organ. During this time our average Sunday attendance has increased from about 250 to 400 persons, and our current receipts from about $3,500 to $6,500, without counting special gifts for the Building Fund and improvements. This is what we have done.

But we must not think that we have done all that there is to do, and it is well to set before our people from time to time, what we have still before us, that they may be incited to further efforts to make our Church all it should be. So we here set down in order some of our further needs. We want $1,500 to complete the payment for the organ; $25,000 to pay the mortgage on the property, which is really the purchase money for the ground, all the money we have spent having been paid for the buildings we have erected.

Then we need money to grade and pave the southern part of our lot and run an iron fence along the whole Broad Street front. Then we want to fill our chancel and clere-story windows with handsome glass, to put in a new Altar and Reredos, a metallic or wooden Rood screen, a stone or brass pulpit, oak stalls and Litany desk. Each of these things might be a memorial. We want also to tile our aisles. Then we should have money to purchase the corner property, so as to extend the Church to South Street, and erect a tower with a chime of bells, and perhaps a clock, at the corner of the two streets. Then we should build a clergy house on the other end of our lot, and put another story on our present school building to furnish—what we very much need—an infant school room, a ladies work room, a kitchen, and a gymnasium.

After which we should provide an endowment for the permanent support of the Church, to insure its work being always carried on, no matter what fluctuations may occur in the wealth of its membership. And then there would be still room for beneficence in establishing a day school and other charitable agencies which should cluster round a large city Church, to say nothing of assisting in all the works of the Church at large.

This is a large programme and will require the raising of a great deal of money. It may require a long time to accomplish it, but if all our present members are as much interested in the Church as they should be, and give as liberally as they can, and remember us as well in their wills as in what they give during their life time, it will not be impossible.

Let each member see what he or she can do individually towards establishing our Church according to the plan we have sketched, thus making it a strong and lasting power for good. For what better purpose could we work or give our money?

PARISH NOTES.

ST. MARY'S GUILD. — Instruction classes have been formed in connection with the Guild, the meetings of which will be held hereafter as follows:

First and third Monday evenings of every month, Embroidery Class. Second and fourth Mondays, Dressmaking. Second Tuesday, Business Meeting. The other Tuesday evenings of the month, Elocution and Music. Instructions will be given in any kind of embroidery or dressmaking, those attending being expected to find their own materials.

Any woman belonging to the parish who has been confirmed can become a member of the Guild; those unconfirmed or belonging to other parishes may be elected members after due nomination. The dues are ten cents a month, which entitles the members to the benefit of the above classes.

ENTERTAINMENT—St. Barnabas and St. John's Guilds held a joint annual entertainment on the evening of the first Thursday in January. They sat down to the number of thirty-eight, including some guests from other Guilds, to a bountiful Tea, for the serving of which they were indebted to the members of St. Mary's Guild. A pleasant evening was passed, which all seemed to enjoy.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR ORGAN FUND.—We have only just heard of the amount received from the entertainment given in December in West Philadelphia, for the benefit of the organ fund $123.75, and so can only now express to the gentlemen and ladies, both outside and inside the parish, who got up and assisted in that very enjoyable affair, our indebtedness to them for their kindness.

POOR FUND—We have now some thirty-nine women connected with the Mother's Meeting. To provide material for this work and assist those who are in need, we require funds. Two meetings of the ladies were held and several appeals made by the clergy in regard to it. Quite a response was made by contributions placed in the alms boxes for the poor in the vestibule. But we want regular offerings for this purpose. One gentleman has promised to give $1 a week, and others, smaller sums. Will not more do the same? The contributions may be placed in the alms chests or handed to Mrs. Kittson, who has charge of the Mother's Meeting.

LENTEN SERVICES.—In addition to the daily prayers at 10 A. M., and 5 P. M., there will, during Lent, until Holy Week, Holy Communion every Thursday, at 7.30 A. M., and a lecture after prayers on Friday afternoons. The choir will be present at the daily 5 P. M. prayers, and we shall avail ourselves this year of the new rubric after the final collect which says, "in places where it may be convenient, here followeth the anthem," to sing our Lenten Psalm, De Profundis, in this place. As it is sung kneeling, it will require no change of posture, but it will avoid bringing the two things we sing close together, and on Fridays the lecture will follow immediately after the anthem and the prayers following will be omitted. This will make the service on Friday but little longer than on other days. The Rector will lecture on Fridays on the six stages of life. Infancy, Childhood, Youth, Manhood, Maturity and Old Age.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of Thursday April 10th, the Thursday after Easter, to administer Confirmation in this Church. It is hoped that all in the parish, of sufficient age, who have not yet been confirmed, will give in their names for presentation to the Bishop at that time. Instructions preparatory to Confirmation will be given in the Guild room every Monday at 4 P. M., and every Thursday at 8 P. M., beginning with the first week in Lent. Persons desiring to be confirmed are expected to attend one or other of these series of instructions, or to see one of the clergy privately, in regard to the matter.

GIFT TO THE CHURCH.—We have only received one gift this month, but that is a most useful one, viz., a vesting altar, that is, a large oak case to hold all our vestments, pulpit hangings, stoles, chalice-veils, linens, etc. There is a separate drawer for each different color of vestment, other drawers for the eucharistic vestments and altar linens, and a cupboard for the cruets, etc. It is altogether most complete and handy.

MISSIONARY BOX. The Committee having charge of making up our annual missionary box, succeeded in sending off, early last month, a very good box valued at $125. It seems to have been much appreciated, if we may judge from the following extracts from the letter of the missionary acknowledging its receipt: "It gives me heartfelt pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the elegant and substantial gift from the ladies of the Church of the Ascension You have done me a great and lasting service for which I cannot be too thankful. It would have been impossible for me to have gotten these treasures without your timely help and I have most seriously needed them. Your gifts are helpful to us to the greatest extent."

We wish we had the means to send another box. It would afford work to those who perhaps cannot serve the Church in any other way, and would fill another of the many appeals that are being made.

ORGAN FUND.—The receipts from the entertainment and some contributions have increased our organ fund, $279.60, during the last month, $125 of this was from two anonymous contributions of $50, and one of $25, through the offertory, for which we are very grateful. But as we have still a considerable amount to raise we want to point out that the amount so far contributed has come from about 78 different persons, and that 14 of these do not belong to our congregation, so that only 64 of all our members have contributed anything towards this purpose. And then we have only 25 offerings under $5. Now we think there is a good deal of pride in this. People wont give anything if they cannot give a large offering. But all should give in proportion to their means, and if each one would give something according to that rule, we would have all we need. Let each one who wants to see the organ in the Church give something towards it.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON SERVICE.—Arrangements have now been made by which our regular choir is present at the 4 P. M. Sunday service, thus making it one of the regular services for those who prefer an afternoon to an evening service.

ACCIDENT TO THE SEXTON.—While trying to clear up the cellar last week our sexton accidentally ran a nail into his knee. It may lay him up for some time, as injuries to the knee are often very troublesome. His place is being supplied by Mr. John Anderson, formerly Sexton of S. Luke's Church.

SERVICE FOR S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.—The quarterly meeting of the Diocesan Chapters of the S. Andrew's Brotherhood will be held in this Church on Thursday, February 27, at 8 P. M. Sermon by a special preacher.

HISTORICAL SERMONS.—The concluding sermons on Sunday evenings of the course on "the Founders and Fathers of the Church" will be delivered on the Sundays of this month up to the beginning of Lent, on S. Jerome, S. Augustine and S. Chrysostom.

GYMNASIUM.—The boys of S. John's Guild have been trying to raise a sufficient sum to purchase some gymnastic apparatus which can be placed in the back part of our large school room, as we have no room we can devote to it exclusively. It will afford a useful and healthful entertainment for our young men. They have now about $75 towards it, but it will cost $115.

CHURCH NEWS.

AN EXAMPLE FOR RICH MEN.—The late Mr. Schoenberger of Pittsburg, who died a few weeks ago, left in his will $1.000,000 to charities. Among other bequests he gives to his parish Church, Trinity Church, Pittsburg, which he largely built himself, $100,000 on condition that the seats in it should all be made free and that a daily service should always be maintained in it. We wish others would remember their churches in their wills, and attach the same conditions to their gifts.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER IX.

Symbols.

Ques. How and why have symbols been employed?

Ans. They have been used by every nation and society, as an easy and effective way of setting forth or teaching great truths or facts, e. g. Standards, Flags, Seals, Coats of Arms, etc.

Ques. How long have such things been employed in the Christian Church?

Ans. Universally from the very earliest times as we see from inscriptions in the catacombs and on Christian monuments of the first and second centuries.

Ques. What is the great Christian Sign?

Ans. The Cross, because on it our Lord suffered, thus offering the great sacrifice for human sin, and giving the sublimest exemplification of heroism and self devotion. No other sign could so fully set forth the greatest characteristics and the most essential teachings of our religion.

Ques. What are its forms?

Ans. 1. The Latin Cross, in which each end of the transverse beam and upper part of the central beam are one half the length of the lower part of the central beam. 2. The Greek Cross, in which all the four arms of the cross are equal in length and at right angles to each other. Often the Greek Cross is doubled and each, or two, of its arms form a cross. 3. The Maltese Cross, which is the same shape as the Greek Cross except that the ends of its arms are widened. 4. The S. Andrews Cross, in which the arms are all equal but not at right angles. 5. A floriated cross, one in which the end of the arms terminate in fleur de lis or other ornamental figures. 6. The Celtic Cross, which has a circle running round the juncture of the cross, and the central beam often greatly prolonged.

Ques. What do the letters I. H. S. stand for?

Ans. They are the chief letters in the name JESUS in the Greek and so stand for it. Some also say they stand for the Latin words IESUS HOMINUM SALVATOR, Jesus the Saviour of men. The letters I. H. C. stand for IESUS HOMINUM CONSOLATOR, Jesus the consoler of men.

Ques. What does the sign XP stand for?

Ans. It is a monogram composed of the Greek letters, X, Chi and P, Rho, which are the chief letters in the Greek word CHRISTOS, Christ, and so stand for it.

Qnes. What sign is used for the Holy Ghost?

Aus. The Dove, because in that shape He descended on our Lord at His baptism. He is also sometimes represented by a tongue of fire, because in that appearance He lighted on the Apostles at Pentecost, and the color, for services, etc., which relate to the Holy Ghost, is red.

Ques. What signs are used for the Trinity?

Ans. The triangle, or three circles, or both entwined, the three leaf clover, or fleur de lis.

Ques. What is the sign of the Holy Eucharist?

Ans. A Chalice and Paten with a wafer, having a cross drawn upon it, perpendicular to the paten. It is also sometimes symbolized by a sheaf of wheat and bunch of grapes.

Ques. What do the letters B. V. M. stand for?

Ans. The Blessed Virgin Mary. The color for things relating to her is blue.

Ques. What is an Agnus Dei?

Ans. It is the figure of a Lamb with a halo round its head and a banner, with a cross upon it, supported by one of its front legs. It represents our Lord as "the Lamb of God."

Ques. How else is our Lord sometimes represented?

Ans. In His character of "the Good Shepherd," the figure of a Shepherd with his Shepherd's crook and a lamb in his arms.

Ques. What was a very common sign of our blessed Lord in the early Church?

Ans. The fish, from an anagram formed on the letters of the Greek word meaning a fish, JESUS CHRIST, Son of God the Saviour.

Ques. What are the signs of the four Evangelists?

Ans. The four beasts which S. John saw in his vision, Rev IV, 7, the first like a lion, the second like a calf, the third had a face as a man, the fourth a flying eagle.

Ques. Which do these represent?

Ans. S. Matthew the man, because he gives us our Lord's human geneology and dwells on His human life. S. Mark the lion, because he sets forth His kingly dignity. S. Luke the ox, because he tells more of the priesthood and sacrifice of Christ. S. John the eagle, because he soars to the contemplation of His divine character.—S. Jerome.

Ques. How are the Apostles represented?

Ans. S. Peter, with the keys, because of our Lord's words to him, "I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of Heaven." S. Paul, with the sword, because he was beheaded. S. Andrew, with the shaped cross on which he was crucified. S. James, with the pilgrims staff and scallop shell, with book and broad hat. S. James the Less, with book and club, because he suffered death from a blow from a fullers' club. S. Philip, with a small cross, the staff knotted like a reed. S. Matthew, with pike or spear, S. Matthias with an axe, S. Bartholomew with a knife, S. Simon with a saw, because by those instruments they were each killed. Many other saints have their respective signs.

Ques. What are symbols of the Church?

Ans. An ark, or a ship, or a pelican.

Ques. What of the Resurrection?

Ans. The Phœnix, because it was supposed to rise from its ashes, and the Peacock, because its flesh was supposed to be incorruptible.

Ques. What of Saints?

Ans. The palm branch and crown.

Ques. What is a Halo or Nimbus?

Ans. A circle drawn round the head of the figure of a Saint. That round the head of our Lord usually has a cross within it.

Ques. What is the proper form of a Christian tomb?

Ans. The cross, in some shape.

Ques. What letters are often inscribed on tombs?

Ans. R. I. P. which stand for the Latin words Requiescat in pace, may he rest in peace. Sometimes the words "In Peace" are inscribed or "May light perpetual shine upon him."

OUR FINANCES.

We trust none of our members were discouraged by the list of big things that we would like to see done in the parish, which we gave in our last issue. We only wanted to set before our people the opportunity we have in this location of doing a large work if we were properly equipped for it, in the hope, that having the full conception before them of what the Church ought to be, they might be stimulated to constant and further efforts for its improvement, and that some individuals perhaps might be moved to give us one or more of the things we need, or contribute largely toward them.

And of course we are not so sanguine as to hope that every thing we want will be done at once. But we propose to take them in hand in the order we set them down. First, to collect what we still need to pay for the organ; Second, to get the few hundred dollars necessary to fix up our grounds, put up iron railing, etc., and then to begin a systematic effort to reduce our debt. This is a great burden, and the amount we pay every year in interest on it is so much taken away from our current expense account, and before very long would amount to a sum as large as the debt itself. In the five years since we assumed it, we shall have paid $7500 in interest, nearly a third of the whole debt itself. If we could be relieved of this we should have just so much more money every year for our current expenses. So our great effort, now that we have our chancel and its necessary furniture, should be directed to this end. After that we can talk of other improvements.

But in the meantime we must remember that our current expenses, including the interest on the mortgage, have to be met all the time. To do this the Vestry adopted some two years ago, as the mode by which the Church should be supported, what is known as the Envelope System. It is the method of securing contributions generally used in free Churches. But some of our members do not understand it. Some people think that a free Church means one in which you do not have to give any thing. But that would not be possible in any Church, for one of the great duties of the Church is to teach people to be liberal givers. A free Church is one in which all the seats are free to any one, and in which people are not required to give according to the seat which they occupy, or reserve when they don't occupy it, but in which they are expected to give in accordance with their ability. In a free Church the poor man and the stranger have the same rights as the rich man. In it, he who can only give a little has just the same privileges as he who can give much. And the Envelope System secures just this. Each one attending the Church is asked to make a pledge to give as much as he can afford every week, until he gives notice to the contrary, and then he is furnished with envelopes in which he puts his offering every Sunday, and no one knows what is in that envelope but the Rector and the Warden. And it is on these offerings that the Church depends for its support. So every one should use them, even if they could not give more than five cents a week. Every one should contribute to the support of the Church, because all have the equal benefit of it.

And all attending the Church should not only use the envelopes, but be conscientious as to the amount they give in them. It is not as in a worldly business where each one tries to get off as cheaply as he can, but is a duty to be discharged to God, one in which all should be governed by considerations of duty and of love. And the best guide one can take in determining the amount they should give, is to make it the same as they would pay for a pew in a Church where the pews are rented, if they could afford to take one. These rates are fixed by the amount required to meet the expenses of the church. And as most of the people attending our Church want, we are sure, to have as talented clergymen, and as good music, and as well decorated and heated and lighted a Church as the best in the city, they ought to give the same amount they would be required to pay in those Churches. Yet the amount so far pledged through the envelopes with us is not a quarter of the pew rent in S. Mark's or S. Stephen's Churches. So if our people want their Church to compare with those, or to do the right thing by their clergy and other servants, they must give as much as the parishioners of those Churches do. And if any one can afford to pay pew rent in another Church, and does not give the same amount here, he is simply taking advantage of a system designed to benefit the poor, to defraud the Church of what is her due.

And then our people must remember that as the amount they contribute through the envelopes takes the place of what they would pay as pew rent in another Church, they should give in addition to various charitable objects, the poor, Sunday Schools, Missions, etc., as they would in pew-rented Churches through the various collections which are always being taken up. These things are necessaries, and all should contribute toward them as regularly as they do to the support of the Church. Giving of our substance to the Church of God, and for charitable and benevolent objects, is just as much a Christian duty, as prayer, or Church-going, and if we fail in it, if we "shut up our compassion, how dwelleth the love of God in us?"

"If thou hast much give plenteously, if thou hast little, do thy diligence gladly to give of that little."

LENT.

The season of Lent is intended as a time for self-improvement, for the earnest effort to correct what may be wrong in our characters or disposition. It is a time for special discipline and devotion, for more frequent Church-going and attendance at the Blessed Sacrament. It is a time for special self-denial, for performing acts of benevolence and charity, in short for cultivating and perfecting our Christian Character. Are we employing the season for these purposes? Do we set definitely before ourselves these objects and make earnest efforts to effect them? Ample opportunities are offered us which can be used for this end; there is an abundance of objects appealing to our charity. Are we employing them, and embracing our opportunities for doing good? This season of Lent is one of the oldest and most widely used parts of the Church's discipline, and if we employ it as the Church intends we should, we will find it most useful and beneficial for our souls growth and our highest welfare.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—During the last month some friends of the parish have fitted up our Bible Class and ladies' work room, by having the walls and ceiling colored, the old rag carpet taken up and replaced by an ingrain rug, and the old table consisting of a board on tressels, replaced by an oak extension table. The small front room has also been furnished with a similar rug, and a gas cooking stove, a shelf and pegs for hanging up hats and wraps. We have also received various donations of clothing, etc., for the poor.

LENTEN SEWING.—The members of "the Ladies' Aid" invite all the ladies of the congregation to join them in sewing during Lent for the benefit of the Home for Crippled Children, on Thursday afternoons, at 3 P. M., or if any prefer to take work home, they can get it before any of the afternoon services from one of the ladies in charge

THE ENTERTAINMENT BY S. JOHN'S GUILD, given for their gymnasium fund was quite successful. It consisted of a magical exhibition, kindly given by Mr. Bowman Price, recitations by Master Dutton, a member of the Guild, and a repetition of one of the pieces performed in West Philadelphia for the benefit of the organ fund. The proceeds of the entertainment were about $30, which, with the subscriptions previously received, have enabled the Guild to purchase quite a number of gymnastic appliances which are already in use, and much appreciated.

SALE OF ORGANS.—We have been able to dispose of the large reed organ we bought when we first moved into the parish building but which we have not used for the last two years. We have also the prospect of our selling the pipe organ we have now in use, when our new organ is put in; we shall thus add several hundred dollars to our organ fund. We expect to have the new organ put in this month, but we still need more money to pay for it.

SERVICES IN HOLY WEEK.—As the next number of the NEWS will not come out until just before Easter, we publish here the list of services for Holy Week which will be the same as in previous years.

Palm Sunday, Procession of the Palms, before the 11 A. M. service.
7½ A. M., daily, Holy Communion.
10 A. M., daily, (except Good Friday) Morning Prayer and Holy Communion.
5 P. M., daily, Evening Prayer.
8 P. M., daily, Sermon on the Passion.

GOOD FRIDAY.
11 A. M., Morning Prayer, Litany and Singing of the Reproaches.
12 to 3 P. M.. Preaching of the Cross.

NOTE.—Copies of the words of the Reproaches will be distributed to the congregation at the service. Persons who may not be able to remain during all of the service and preaching on Good Friday, can come or leave the Church at any time during the singing of the hymns with which the preaching will be varied.

CONFIRMATION.—As the evening appointed by the Bishop for Confirmation happened to be that of the annual meeting of the Vestry and also of the meeting of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, at the request of the Rector, the Bishop has changed his appointment to Wednesday evening, April 16th.

WORK OF THE CLERGY.—In addition to their regular work in the parish the clergy have undertaken to help some of their Brethern during Lent, the Rector preaching in S. James' Church, Kingsessing, S. John the Baptist, Germantown, Trinity, West Philadelphia, and at one of the noonday services in S. Paul's Church, and the Assistant in the Church of the Evangelists and S. Peter's Church.

EASTER OFFERINGS. As the amount pledged through the envelopes, together with the contributions of strangers through the ordinary offertories, is still far from being sufficient to meet all our current expenses, we must depend as we have in former years for large special contributions on Christmas and Easter. On the Sundays preceeding Easter the Rector will be able to announce just how much will be needed to meet all our obligations up to the end of our financial year, April 30th, and we trust that each member of the congregation will do his best to contribute his share toward the sum required, so that we may be able to come out, as we usually have heretofore, with every thing paid up to the end of the current year. Our expenses have been heavier this year than ever before and it will require extra liberality on the part of each contributor to meet them. If any one fails the balance may come out on the wrong side of the account.

OFFERINGS FOR DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—As in other years the amount apportioned to this parish for the support of Diocesan Missions is $50. This ought to be paid this month. All offerings placed in the alms box in the vestibule of the Church which is marked for "Missions" will be devoted to this purpose. Let each one give something and the amount can be raised without any one feeling it. We are ashamed to say that we have never yet paid our assesment in full. Do not let us be derelict this year, and so prove false the allegation so often made that free Churches do nothing for any one but themselves.

DEATH OF FORMER SEXTON.—Mr. Steward Mitchell, sexton of the Church for nearly six years during the present Rectorship, died very suddenly February 23d. He was only sick a few hours.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD SERVICE.—The quarterly service for all the Diocesan Chapters of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, was held in the Church, on the evening of February 27th. About one hundred members of the brotherhood were present and some nine of the clergy; the full choir was present, entering the Church in procession from the Parish building with the members of the Brotherhood, carrying the banners of the various Chapters. An effective sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Watkins of West Philadeiphla. But very few persons were in the congregation beside the members of the Brotherhood. Whether this was because our people supposed the service was only for the Brotherhood, or because the night was a little rainy, we do not know. We do know that those who stayed away, missed an inspiring service and a good sermon. A short business meeting of the Brotherhood was held afterward in the school room.

EASTER COMMUNION.—As every one will want to make their Communion on Easter day, there will be three celebrations, at 7.30, 8.30 and 11 A. M. We trust all who possibly can will come to one of the early celebrations. If any cannot come on Easter Day itself, let them come to one of the celebrations on Easter Monday or Tuesday, which is one of the purposes of having Communions on those days.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions were received during February: Mrs. Dr, Butcher, Mr. J. H. Botwright, Mr. Jno. M. Steward, Mrs. Wm. P. Chandler, Miss Goodman, Mrs. T. H. Bowers, Miss A. H. Chamberlaine, Mrs. Carman, Mr. Jno. B. Hazlett, Mr. Jas. Lescure.

Subscriptions due and unpaid 28.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER XI.

Church Music.

Ques. How early was music used in the services of the Christian Church.

Ans. Our Lord and His Disciples sang a hymn at the Last Supper, and Paul and Silas when they were in prison. The Apostles exhorted Christians to the singing of Psalms and Hymns, and in early accounts of Christian worship, we read of singing, especially the Psalms of David. The early Christians, having been accustomed to the worship of the Jewish temple, in which singing and the use of musical instruments formed so large a part, it is probable that they formed their worship after that model.

Ques. What is the propriety of using music in Divine worship.

Ans. First, because it is the highest and most artistic form of human expression, and therefore, the most fit to be employed in God's service; and secondly, because it is calculated to inspire and call forth human devotion.

Ques. Should the prayers of the Church as well as the hymns be sung.

Ans. Yes, because music is quite as capable of expressing devotion and penitence, as praise—many hymns or portions of the hymns, as of the Te Deum, are prayers—and because it affords a more solemn and more effective way of rendering them, than simply saying them.

Ques. What is "intoning?"

Ans. It is the reciting of prayers, etc., upon a single note, or with slight inflections.

Ques. What is the technical meaning of the expression, "say or sing," in the Prayer Book.

Ans. It is to recite on a single note, or to sing to a melody.

Ques. What portions of the service should especially be sung?

Ans. The Canticles and Psalms.

Ques. How are they generally sung?

Ans. To Gregorian tones, or Anglican chants.

Ques. What are they?

Ans. The Gregorian tones are a method of singing in unison, according to certain inflections arranged by Pope Gregory the Great, and supposed to be adaptations of the ancient Hebrew method of chanting. Anglican chants are a method of singing in parts with a regular recitative and cadence. There are a great variety of them, and they are peculiar to the Anglican Church.

Ques. What is an anthem?

Ans. It is a set piece of music in harmony, often containing solos and duets. The Canticles, Te Deum, Creed, etc., are often sung in this way.

Ques. What are the great musical portions of the Communion Office?

Ans. The Kyries—the responses to the Commandments,—the Creed, the Agnus Dei, generally sung after the Consecration; the Ter Sanctus, and the Gloria in Excelsis.

Ques. What is a Church Service?

Ans. It is a musical arrangement of the several parts of the Communion Office by one composer. Sometimes it includes a Te Deum and Benedictus to correspond.

Ques. What is meant by "Presenting?"

Ans. It is the singing of the first notes of a Psalm, Canticle, Creed, etc., by the Priest of Cantor, to announce to the Congregation what is about to be sung, or to what tone.

Ques. What is antiphonal singing?

Ans. It is the singing of alternate verses by two choirs, or by the Priest and choir. It is especially adopted when a long Psalm or number of Psalms are to be sung, as it rests the voices and adds life to the singing.

Ques. What is an "Introit?"

Ans. A Psalm, Hymn or Anthem sung as the Clergy are entering the Chancel to begin the Communion Office.

Ques. What is an "Offertorium?"

Ans. A piece of music sung or played during the collection of the offerings.

Ques. What are Processionals and Recessionals?

Ans. Psalms or Hymns sung as the choir is entering and leaving the Church.

Ques. What is a Quartet Choir?

Ans. One composed of four persons singing the Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass parts.

Ques. What is a Chorus Choir?

Ans. One composed of a large number of singers.

Ques. How long have Boy Choirs been used in the Church.?

Ans. From a very early period, and they have always been continued in the Church of England since the Reformation, as they were before it, in the Cathedrals and Royal Chapels. Of late years they have been introduced largely both in England and in this country, into parish Churches. They are now really distinctive of the Anglican Communion, as they are not used in any Roman Catcholic Churches, or those of the Protestant denominations, at least in this country.

Ques. Why are they clad in surplices?

Ans. That they may be, like the other ministrants of Divine worship, "decently habited," that is, becomingly and appropriately to the holy service in which they are engaged, as the Priests and Levites in the Jewish worship, wore the linen ephod.

Ques. Where should the Choir always be placed?

Ans. In the Sanctuary, in front of the people, to lead their praises, as the clergy do their devotions.

THE HOLY COMMUNION.

How few Church people really understand or appreciate what the Holy Communion is! There are multitudes who look upon it as if it was something which only concerned a very few particularly pious people, but which the generality of people had no concern with. So we have come to have two classes of persons in our congregations, those who are communicants and those who are not, whereas every one should be a communicant unless he is an infidel or is leading an abandonedly wicked life. For consider what the Holy Communion is. It is what our blessed Lord instituted to be His memorial. In doing so He used much of the language and many of the acts connected with the offering of the Jewish sacrifices, especially that of the Passover, the memorial of deliverance of the Jewish people from their Egyptian bondage. So just as the Jews offered those sacrifices as the memorial of God's goodness to them, and as the means by which they sought His pardon and favor, so it is evident that our Lord intended the Sacrament He instituted under such solemn circumstances to serve the same purpose in the new dispensation He was inaugurating. So He commands that it should be done "oft, in remembrance of" Him. S. Paul says "as oft as ye do this, ye do show forth the Lord's death till He come," and that it is "the communion"—that is, the communication—"of the body and blood of Christ." It is the memorial of Christ's death both before men and before God. It sets forth to men more vividly and eloquently than any words or picture or other method could, the sacrifice of the death of Christ for man's sake. It is the proof and pledge to him of God's goodness and favor towards him, and it is the means by which the benefits of that sacrifice are communicated and sealed to men. And it is a memorial before God, that is, the means by which man sets forth and presents before God what His only begotten Son has done for man, and so it is the most potent and effectual mode of prayer.

Now if these are its purposes, it is evident that they apply to all men who are believers in the truth of the Christian religion. All need to be kept in mind of what Christ did and suffered from love to man, to have ever vividly kept before the mind all the benefits of Christ's sacrifice, and to be strengthened and refreshed by having those benefits communicated to them. And all need to pray, to use this the most effectual means of prayer.

The Holy Communion is in short the great distinguishing act of Christian worship, the heathens, Buddists and Mohammedans use prayer and praise in worship. But only Christians celebrate the Holy Communion. It is the method by which the Christian confesses his faith in Christ, and pledges his fealty towards Him. And that should be a thing which he will do not only once in his life, or seldom, at great intervals, but which should be a joy and interest and help for him to do often. So we find the Holy Communion has always been regarded by the great body of the Christian Church. In the book of the Acts of the Apostles we read that they "continued daily in the breaking of Bread," and it is evident from the same book that it was one of the purposes for the assembling of Christians on the Lord's day. And from the history of the Church we find that it was always and everywhere celebrated at least upon every Sunday and Holy day, down to the Reformation. And our Prayer Book witnesses that it was the intention of the English Church that the same practice should continue. And it is so celebrated to-day by all the Greek and Roman Churches, which together constitute the immense majority of Christians. It is only among the various Protestant sects that the peculiar conception of the Holy Cummunion to which we have referred has sprung up. And it is through our association with members of those bodies that those views have come so largely to prevail among us. But we should try to come to look at it as the Scriptures and Church History and our own formularies teach us, to realize all that it is and all that it imports. And then we will come to feel that it is something which is of supreme importance to all, it will be the greatest interest and joy to all to celebrate it, and one will feel that to fail to do so means really to apostatize from Christ. In all Christian history the greatest penalty the Church could inflict on any one has been to excommunicate him, that is forbid his coming to the Holy Communion. And yet how many among us thus excommunicate themselves.

It is because we hold this view of the Holy Communion that we celebrate it in this parish as frequently as we do. And we trust that it will come to be more and more appreciated and used, that the number of Communicants will come to be the same as the number of the attendants at the church, and that it will come to be the exception, a rare and surprising thing that any one should leave the church when the celebration of the Holy Communion begins.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. — We received last month a most acceptable donation of two dozen Prayer Books and two dozen Hymnals from the Female Prayer Book Society, a new clergy surplice embroidered, a canton flannel credence cover, edged with hand-made lace, and an embroidered linen cover for the same, twelve books for the Parish and Sunday school library, and some palms for Palm Sunday. Two corporals, two maniples, a fair linen cloth, four purificators and a linen pall have also been made and embroidered, to be sent to mission Churches.

THE NEW ORGAN. We are much disappointed that the new organ is not ready, as it was promised, for use on Easter day. But through sickness of workmen and other causes it was unavoidably delayed and the builders have asked for an extension of their time for a week or ten days. So we shall hope to be able to have it played on Low Sunday or the Sunday following. As soon as it is in position, we shall have a special service for its dedication, together with an Organ recital, of which due notice will be given. The offertory on that occasion will be for the Organ fund, and the congregation must remember that we still need over a $1,000 to complete the payment for it. The fund has been growing slowly each month, but we must keep it growing until it is all paid for, as this is the first indebtedness we have incurred for anything beside our ground rent.

NEW CHOIR STALLS.—We are happy to announce that a gentleman has offered to put in our permanent choir stalls, which will be a great improvement over the temporary ones we have been using, which were first made when we held our services in the parish building, and have been altered and put together and pieced out with chairs in the various chancels we have had since. The new ones will be much handsomer and more comfortable. They will be made of oak to correspond with the organ case. There will be yoke stalls for the clergy, and the ends of the stalls will terminate in carved poppy-heads.

GYMNASIUM.—The gymnastic appliances procured by S. John's Guild are now in full use. The Guild meetings are every Monday evening. The girls of S. Mary's Guild also use them on Tuesday evenings.

LENTEN SEWING.—The ladies accomplished quite an amount of sewing this Lent, enough to constitute a nice donation, valued at $25, to the Home for Cripple Children, a most deserving charity.

DEATH OF MR. LEACH.—It is singular that two persons who were formerly Sextons of this Church should have died within two weeks of each other. Mr. Leach was sexton for some fifteen years during Bishop Hare and Rev. Mr. Stuart's Rectorships. He was buried from the Church on Sunday, March 9th, and as he belonged to a number of societies his funeral was very largely attended. He had been in ill health for over a year. The last time he was able to be in Church was on the dedication of the new chancel, when he came both morning and evening.

VESTRY ELECTION—The annual election for vestrymen will be held on Easter Monday. The polls will be open from the conclusion of Divine Service in the morning until 1 P. M. There are two vacancies in the present vestry, owing to the removal from the city of Dr. Charles B. Nancrede and Mr. Salmon A. Buell. We understand that Mr. William H. Tevis and Mr. William Platt Pepper, two recent additions to our congregation, will be nominated in their places.

ADVERTISEMENTS. We must thank several of our members who have exerted themselves to secure us new advertisements. It is a very substantial way of helping the paper and so helping the Church, for we think all agree that the NEWS is very useful in keeping all our people informed about their Church, and instructing them in regard to its principles, its progress and its wants.

EMBROIDERY CLASS.—The ladies of the embroidery class have been kept very busy of late on quite a number of orders they have received. They are also engaged in working a new white silk altar cloth for the Church which we shall hope to see before long.

AMOUNT OF EASTER OFFERING.—According to the estimate of the accounting Warden, we shall need an offering of about $700 on Easter day to meet all the current expenses of the parish up to the close of the financial year. We trust it will be forthcoming.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.—The regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood will take place this month on the third Thursday, in place of the second, as there is a Confirmation instruction and a Vestry meeting which will occupy the clergy on that evening.

CONFIRMATION will be administered in the Church on Wednesday evening, April 16th, as announced. The Instructions will be continued on Mondays at 4 P. M., and Thursdays at 8 P. M. until then. The class will be about the same size as last year. There are many in the parish who should be confirmed who have not given in their names.

CHURCH NEWS.

SERVICES in S. Paul's Church, Third street, below Walnut, have been held every day in Lent from 12.30 to 12.50 P. M., for business men who could attend most conveniently at that hour. Short addresses being given each day by different clergymen, on Mondays by a layman under the auspices of S. Andrew's Brotherhood.

THE Rev. Dr. Vibbert of Chicago, formerly Rector of S. Luke's, Germantown, has been called to the Rectorship of S. Peter's Church, Third and Pine streets.

THE Rev. Dr. Nichols, Rector of S. James' Church, 22d and Walnut streets, has been elected assistant Bishop of California. Both these gentlemen have signified their acceptance. The one will be a gain and the other a loss to our city.

THE new parish of S. Elizabeth in the south-western part of the city, 16th and Mifflin streets, is now fairly established, the parish house, in which services will be held until the Church is built, having been formally opened by the Bishop in February. The city is growing very rapidly in that direction and a new Church is much needed there.

THE handsome marble Altar and Mosaic Reredos, which has been since the Centennial Exhibition in the Memorial Hall, in the park, is at last to be put to the use for which it was intended. It has been purchased for S. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia. The Chancel is being prepared to receive it. We had always hoped that we might have had it here. But its price was beyond us.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that Mr. William W. Astor will present to Trinity Church New York, bronze doors costing $100,000, in memory of his father who has recently deceased.

Effect of a Musical Service.

"I am an Episcopalian. I am every thing that has any good in it. Honey is honey, no matter where it is; and I will say this, and my Episcopalian brethren may make as much of it as they can, that their service in their Cathedrals lifted me up as no sermon ever did, as no prayer ever did, and brought me nearer to Christ, nearer to God, nearer to Heaven, with a suffusion of tears and almost dissolving body. It carried me higher than ever I stood before."—Henry Ward Beecher.

Deadheads.

A number in the parish contribute nothing to its support. They do not rent sittings or pews; they place little or nothing on the plate as it passes Sunday after Sunday; they give regularly and systematically to no parish or Church cause, and yet they are not poor either. In fact, they are what the world calls religious "deadheads." They occupy places in church, they appear to enjoy the worship, they get the benefit of the preaching and music, they call for the services of the clergyman in sickness and trouble, and expect him to lay them away decently and in order when they die, all free of cost. In the meanwhile they spend upon their worldly ease and enjoyment what they are thus saving from the parish and the Church. We submit this to be rather small, and if it is done intentionally, it is mean; if thoughtlessly, it is reprehensible.—The Living Church.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER XI.

Ecclesiastical Offices.

Ques. What are the three Orders in the sacred Ministry?

Ans. Bishops, Priests and Deacons.

Ques. What are the duties of Bishops?

Ans. They are the successors of the Apostles to whom our Lord committed the government of the Church. Each rules over a district called a Diocese, or in the case of a mission, a missionary jurisdiction; they have the chief care and direction of the Churches, Church institutions, funds, etc., the direction and discipline of the clergy and laity. They alone have the power of ordination.

Ques. Is each Bishop and Diocese an independent Church?

Ans. No. The authority of the Church lies in the universal Episcopate. But for convenience neighboring Dioceses are associated together into Provinces which act as the unit of the Church for all purposes except such as relate to Faith and Morals.

Ques. How do Bishops receive their office?

Ans. They are elected by the clergy and laity of their Dioceses or sometimes by the clergy of the Cathedral Church. But the majority of the Bishops of the Province must consent to the election, and they only can consecrate the elect.

Ques. What is the Bishop who presides over a province called?

Ans. An Archbishop, Metropolitan, Primate or Presiding Bishop.

Ques. How is he chosen?

Ans. Generally he is the Bishop of the chief city or most ancient See. Sometimes he is the oldest Bishop by Consecration. Sometimes he is elected.

Ques. What are his duties?

Ans. He presides at all meetings of Provincial Synods, takes order for the Consecration of Bishops-elect, hears appeals from Diocesan Courts, presides at trials of Bishops, etc.

Ques. What is an Assistant or Coadjutor Bishop?

Ans. One who assists a Diocesan or Missionary Bishop. He can perform all Episcopal acts for which the Bishop commissions him, but he has no independent authority. He generally has the right of succession.

Ques. What is a Suffragan Bishop?

Ans. A Bishop consecrated to take the entire episcopal oversight of a portion of a Diocese. The term is also applied to the Bishops of a Province as distinguished from the Presiding Bishop.

Ques. What is a Patriarch or Pope?

Ans. One who presides over a group of Provinces. The ancient Patriarchates were Jerusalem, Antioch, Alexandria, Rome and Constantinople.

Ques. What are the duties of a Priest?

Ans. To celebrate the Holy Communion and other Sacraments of the Church, to preach, to preside over or assist in the care of a particular Church or parish, and perform other ministerial duties.

Ques. How does he receive the office?

Ans. Any man of requisite age, education and character, as proved by examinations and testimonials, may be ordained by a Bishop, the other clergy of the Diocese consenting to and taking part in his ordination personally or by their representatives.

Ques. What are the duties of a Deacon?

Ans. To assist the Priest in Divine Service, to instruct the youth and to look after the poor and needy of the parish. He cannot celebrate the Holy Communion, or pronounce the Absolution or Benediction. He can Baptise in the absence of the Priest, and preach if he be licensed thereto by the Bishop.

Ques. How is he ordained?

Ans. By the Bishop alone after due examination and recommendation by some of the clergy and laity of the Diocese.

Ques. Where does he exercise his office?

Ans. Wherever his Bishop may appoint. All Deacons are at the absolute direction of the Bishop and can be sent wherever he sees best, though if licensed by the Bishop to act as assistant to a priest, they work under his direction.

Ques. Is the office of a Deacon ever discharged by a Priest?

Ans. Yes frequently, particularly in parishes where it is desired to have more than one celebration of the Holy Communion in a day, or to perform other priestly duties which cannot be conveniently discharged by the clergyman in charge of the parish.

Ques. Must all entering Holy Orders be first made Deacons?

Ans. Yes, and they may remain Deacons for life, or after due probation and examination they may be advanced to the Priesthood, provided they have been Deacons for at least one year.

RITUAL.

By ritual, we mean those ceremonies, acts, and ornaments of the Church which are not prescribed in the Prayer Book, but which are necessary in performing its offices. For instance, the Prayer Book says nothing about the furniture or ornamentations of the chancel, or about the dress of the Ministers, or as to many of the postures they shall assume. Yet it is manifest that the chancel must be furnished ; that the Ministers should be properly vested, and that they must assume postures, or perform acts in celebrating Divine worship.

And the question is, by what law or rule these things are to be governed. And Clergymen follow different principles in regard to them. Some think they should be ruled by the customs of the Church, simply as it has been in this country since the Revolution. But that seems a very narrow rule to follow, as it cuts us off from all previous traditions of the Church, and shuts us up to a period in which the Church has been very weak and depressed, and can hardly be supposed to be adapted to all the wants and tastes of our rapidly increasing populations.

Others prefer to follow as nearly as possible the Ritual of the Church of Rome, as if, being a great and ancient Communion, it was the natural standard on such matters. But the objection to this is, that much of the present Ritual of the Church of Rome is not ancient, but novel, has no authority from antiquity, was never at any time used in the Church of England. Moreover, there are grave doctrinal differences between our Church and that of Rome. And even admitting that its Ritual does not necessarily teach or symbolize its peculiar doctrines, it does do so in popular estimation, hence the use of distinctive Roman Ritual creates that impression, or raises a prejudice which interferes with the teaching of true Catholic doctrine.

A third class of clergymen are eclectic, and follow what use, or variety of uses, their personal judgment or tastes prefer. But such individualism has neither authority nor wisdom to commend it.

But there is a fourth rule which seems to us the right one, and that is to follow the laws and traditions of the whole Anglican Church as it has existed, not only for the last hundred years or so, but from the very beginning of its separation from Rome. And for for this there is distinct authority, for, although there are no Ritual directions in our Prayer Book, the Preface of the Book declares that it has no intention of departing from the principles of worship of the Church of England, from which it was derived, and there is a rubric in the Prayer Book of that Church, which declares that all the "ornaments of the Church and of the Ministers thereof shall be retained and be in use that were in use in the second year of the reign of King Edward VI." Hence we are sent back to the Prayer Book of that time, which was the first English Prayer Book, to find the rules we should follow, and that Book, and the Injunctions which accompanied it, specify the various ornaments, vestments, etc., which shall be used.

And if we examine these, we shall see that while they retain all the distinctive acts and elements which have been employed in Christian worship from the very beginning, and which entered into Jewish worship before it, there are, nevertheless, marked differences between it and the modern Roman Catholic Ritual. For instance, it forbids the Elevation and showing of the Elements to the people for worship, and it nowhere directs, as indeed the older Sarum Ritual, from which ours was derived, never directed the Priest to genuflect, i.e., to kneel rapidly on one knee, as is so frequently done in the Roman Ritual, but only to kneel and bow. while the English Prayer Book directs the use of all the ancient vestments of the Church, it is known that they differed essentially in shape from the present Roman vestments, the surplice and chasuble being long and full, instead of the short lace Roman cotta and fiddle-back chasuble. So, as to the ornaments of the altar, modern Roman altars are covered with a multiplicity of candles, generally six large ones, the Cross being regarded as the seventh, and innumerable small ones. But the first English Prayer Book forbade the use of any candles, excepting two, "to signify that Christ was the true light of the world." And the altars of the Cathedrals, and Royal and College Chapels, and principal Churches in England have had two, and but two, candles on them since that time. Thus, while retaining the various acts and symbols which have entered universally into religious worship, and to which we are entitled, and not to use which in some form is to put us out of sympathy with the rest of Catholic Christendom, a marked distinction between the worship and appearance of English and Roman Churches is thus kept up, which, at least as long as those Churches are not in communion with each other and differ as widely as they do, seems to us advisable.

It is not necessary that the Ritual of all branches of the Church should be the same ; witness the great difference between that of the Eastern and Western Church. Nor is it necessary that the Ritual of one branch of the Church should always remain the same, and if a new use should spring up, and be universally adopted among us, we would not hold out against it. But the rule which we have given above seems to us to have the highest authority and to be the wisest for the present, and is that, we believe, which is followed by the best and most prominent Churches both in this country and in England.

Moreover, we think it very unwise for constant changes to be made in the Ritual of a Parish, as it keeps the people excited and in unrest and suspicious of the intention and tendency of things. We have now in this Parish an orderly, dignified and beautiful service, in thorough accord with the rubrics of the Prayer Book and the best customs and traditions of the English Church, and from that standard it is the intention of the present Rector not to depart, but to keep things essentially as they now are. We say this that people may know what they have to expect, and not be looking for or fearing constant changes.

OUR DEBT,

Munificent Offer Towards its Reduction.

The only debt on our property is the mortgage of $25,000 which we have always had on the land. The interest on this is a great drain upon us. If we could be relieved of it we would then be in a very sound condition, could pay our clergy the salaries they are entitled to, and add to our appropriations for music, benevolent work, etc.

The mortgage is due on the 10th of next month, and must then be either paid off or renewed. Or, if it could be reduced, we should be so far assisted. We have great pleasure in saying that we have received an offer, and are authorized to announce that a gentleman will give $2500 towards this latter purpose, provided an equal sum is contributed towards the same by the 10th of June.

We are very anxious that this offer should be taken up, and yet we feel that the congregation has been asked to do so much lately, in the building of the chancel and putting in the organ, that it is hardly possible to make a general appeal for this purpose just now. But are there not some individuals whom God has blessed with this world's goods, who either belong to our Parish or are interested in its work, who will step forward and help us to avail ourselves of this generous offer, which will relieve us so far of this incubus, and set us permanently on our feet, to take the rank and do the work we should among the Churches?

This appeal is sent forth with the prayer that God may move the heart of some one or more into whose hands it may fall to respond to it.

Finances.

The receipts for the month of April for current expenses were $898.16. This sum represents the special offerings of Easter, which amounted to $551.25, exclusive of the envelopes for the day.

There are now about 350 communicants in this Parish. There are 140 who have made pledges under the envelope system.

The Finance Committee particularly request those who have not made pledges to do so without delay, that the Vestry may be able to make the necessary appropriations for the coming fiscal year.

We still need $1,000 to complete the Organ Fund.

PARISH NOTES.

S. MARY'S TEA.—S. Mary's Guild gave another of their very pleasant and successful teas on the evening of April 22d. Written invitations were sent to all the young people of the parish and to the members of the vestry and their wives. A large number were thus brought together and made acquainted with each other, many of whom had never met before. The evening wound up with a package party, a number of articles which had been made by members of the Guild, being tied up in packages and disposed of by means of an auction which netted $16, which was given to the organ fund. We are sure all who were present enjoyed themselves, and such occasions are very profitable in cultivating sociability in the congregation.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—We shall keep Ascension day, the name day of our Church, which comes this year on the 15th of this month, as in other years, by a special anniversary service and sermon by the Rector on the evening of Ascension day, in addition to the usual services during the day. On the following evening we shall have our annual Parish Tea, to which every one attending the Church is invited. Tickets of admission will be sold for 25 cents, to cover the cost of the entertainment; but they will be given to all who cannot afford to buy them. And we want to see every member of the Parish present. On Saturday evening will be the annual services for all the Guilds of the Parish, with procession and a sermon by a special Preacher. All the members of S. Mary's, S. Barnabas, and S. John's Guilds, and of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, will assemble in the Parish building, and enter the Church preceded by their respective banners and wearing their badges; the pews in the middle aisle will be reserved for them.

ENVELOPES FOR BENEVOLENT PURPOSES. By resolution of the Vestry the Accounting Warden has been directed henceforth, in sending out the envelopes for the support of the Church at the beginning of each quarter, to send with them one extra envelope for one of these four benevolent purposes,—the Poor of the Parish, the Support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools, the General Missions of the Church, and Diocesan Missions. These are objects to which all should contribute. And it is sought thus to secure an annual contribution towards each of them from every member of the Parish. A new circular has also been prepared, to be sent out with the envelopes, explaining the mode of collecting offerings in the Parish.

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION.—The Rector of our Parish was honored by being asked to preach in Christ Church, on the afternoon of the second Sunday after Easter, before the Society of the Sons of the Revolution, of which he is a member. Not only were the members of the Society present, but also those of the Cincinnati, about fifty of the Loyal Legion, and the whole of the First City Troop in their picturesque uniform, besides numerous visitors. It is due to the Rector of Christ Church to say that the suggestion of Mr. Hodge's name as the preacher on this occasion came from him. Mr. Hodge expects shortly to ask him to preach for us.

THE DEDICATION OF OUR NEW ORGAN took place Wednesday, April 23d, 1890, 8 P. M. The following service, which had been licensed by the Bishop of the Diocese for similar occasions, was used: Processional Hymn, 423; Psalm 150; Lord's Prayer and Collect of Dedication, followed by Doxology, "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow;" Offertorium, Hymn 430 (offerings being for the organ fund); Collect and Blessing; Recessional Hymn, 433. After which an organ recital was given by Mr. D. D. Wood, Organist S. Stephen's; Mr. J. Benton Tipton, Organist S. Clement's; Mr. Stanley Addicks, Organist Church of the Transfiguration; Mr. Robert B. Salter, Jr., Organist Church of the Ascension—as follows:

Part I.

1. March in Bb, Silas
   Mr. Salter.
2. Con Moto Moderato—en forme d'Ouverture, Henry Smart
3. Barcarolle, from 4th piano-forte Concerto, W. Sterndale Bennett
4. Prelude and Fugue in Eb (S. Ann's), J. S. Bach
5. Romance from Symphony, "La Reine de France," Haydn
6. Offertoire for Easter Day, Batiste
   Mr. Tipton.

Part II.

1. Grand Offertoire (S. Cecelia) in D, Batiste
   Mr. Addicks.
2. Serenade, Op. 8, Beethoven
   Mr. Wood.
3. Bridal Song, Jensen
   Mr. Addicks.
4. Overture to Semiramide, Rossini
   Mr. Wood.

The offertory amounted to $22.

The organ was played for the first time on Low Sunday, and adds immensely both to the beauty of the Church and the perfection of the service. But the congregation must remember that we have still about $1000 to raise to complete the payment of it.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. — Linen chalice pall edged with lace, white satin center for altar dossal, bottle of wine for Communion, pair of long wax tapers, fine linen chalice veil, oak platform and desk for school room, 100 copies of Littell's Living Age, and 20 dozen colored eggs for Easter. There was also received anonymously a pair of brass seven branch candlesticks with a box of candles for same, with request that they be placed on the altar. The Rector takes this method of acknowledging the same, and thanking the donor for his kind intentions, though he does not see his way clear at present to use them in accordance with the principles laid down in our editorial on Ritual.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF GIFT OF ALTAR LINEN.—

Mexia, Tex., April 11th, 1890.
To the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia.

Dear Brother and Sisters in Christ: We, the Sisters of Christ Church, Mexia, Tex., send you greeting, and thank you very much for your beautiful present of Communion linen on the 7th inst. It will add greatly to our pleasure when we gather around the Lord's table, and see your offering to Him, to think that we have friends, though far away, who sympathize with us in our struggle for a Church.

Very truly yours in Christ,

ELIZABETH T. MICHARD,
Sec. Lady's Aid Society of Christ's Church, Mexia, Texas.

We would like our ladies to keep on making such sets of linen to give away, as there are weak Churches and Missions all over our country that would be glad to have them.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions were received during April: Mr. J. E. Carpenter, Mrs. J. E. Carpenter, Dr. Thos. R. Neilson, Mrs. Henry Selby.

Subscriptions due and unpaid, 19. All subscribers whose subscriptions have expired have been notified of the fact. If you are among the number, will you please make prompt payment.

Report of the Mother's Meeting and Working Women's Guild, Church of the Ascension, Easter, 1890.

This report covers a period of seven months only, from 1st Oct. to 1st May.

The Mother's have met on every Wednesday, after the usual service in the Church, which they all attend, when their needs were attended to and material of various kinds distributed. On these occasions 125 articles of clothing were distributed; marketing and groceries were also given to several families each week, and five members were aided at various times to pay their rent; 12 tons of coal have been divided amongst the members. For this coal the President desires to thank Mr. W. P. Pepper for three tons, Mrs. Jackson for two, and Mr. Drayton for one; also the Young Men's Bible Class collected $7 towards our coal fund. Nine large blankets and five comfortables were distributed; seven of these were the generous gift of a lady not a member of the Parish. We are also indebted to this kind lady for two sets of new flannels, two new dresses, and a carpet rug for the small Bible Class Room.

The Working Women's Guild met on every Friday, from 7 to 10 o'clock, for work. There are now 38 members on the roll. Once a month the meeting is of a social character, ending with a tea. These meetings have been well attended during the winter, except during March. All the members are communicants, with only six exceptions, and regularly attend the services on Sunday. Their children also are regular at the Sunday School. Six hundred and sixty-five articles of clothing have been cut and made, and four dozen towels hemmed. These articles have been sold to the members at a moderate price, and all the receipts devoted to the Organ Fund. We desire to extend our thanks to the members of the Parish who so kindly contributed to our funds. The cash donations from this source have amounted to $150.93; our expenses have been $150.90. In addition, the following gifts have been received: 2 dozen cups and saucers, 2 plates, 2 dozen plated spoons, 2 cake plates, 2 dozen white uniform aprons for the Guild members, 30 Guild badges, 1 large closet, 1 oak extension table, 1 work basket and pin cushion, the use of 1 Singer sewing machine, Five ladies of the congregation have kindly provided ample provisions for the monthly tea. The work is growing and promises well for the future, but we need money to carry it on. We need willing hearts and hands to help in this good work. We need the prayers of the Parish. F. M. KITTSON.

FREQUENCY OF COMMUNION.

There is a great difference among the people in this parish in regard to the frequency with which they receive the Holy Communion, and the question is often asked, how often should it be received?

It is evident from our Lord's use of the word "oft" in connection with its institution that He intended it should be frequently received, and if we read the history of the Church we see that at first, and in many places, it was received daily, with others every Sunday. Many canons were passed by various Councils in regard it, and finally the rule was established in the Roman Catholic Church that every Christian must receive it at least once a year, under pain of excommunication, and in the English Church, at least three times a year, of which the feast of Easter should be one. This would seem to be the lowest number of times that could be described by "oft." So that if a Christian did not receive at least this number of times, he was not making any effort to fulfill his Lord's command, and avail himself of the means of grace at his disposal. Hence these Communions are to be regarded by all Christians as of obligation, and they will be naturally made at the great festivals of Christmas, Easter and Whitsun-day. But a Christian ought not to be satisfied with doing only the least that he is required to do, and if he appreciates what the Holy Communion is, he will want to get all the benefit from it he can. So that in addition to these Communions of obligation, he will want to make other Communions frequently throughout the year. How frequently he will make them must depend upon his devotion, and upon the leisure and opportunity he has to make his preparation for it. For the Holy Communion should never be approached lightly, carelessly or as a mere matter of form. A special preparation should be made before each Communion. If all were living the holy and devout lives they should, it would be natural, and well for them, to receive every Sunday and Holy day, if not more frequently. This should be the ideal after which all should aim. And the Clergy and those especially engaged in Church work, or religious things will want to receive that often. But great care should be taken by every weekly Communicant to see that his life and character correspond to his action and that his Communions do not degenerate into a mere form. It is indeed a great privilege and a beautiful thing for one to be a weekly Communicant, but sometimes the very frequency of a privilege leads to its not being appreciated or to its being carelessly used.

For the majority of persons living in the world, we suspect that a monthly Communion, with additional ones at the Festivals and other special occasions, is the most profitable rule. But whatever number one fixes on, whether monthly, or weekly, let it be a rule. Do not leave it to chance or to the impulse of the moment. Always determine how often you will receive, and have a definite time to make your Communions. We fear that often in Churches where there is a weekly celebration there are persons who do not make their Communion as frequently as they do in Churches where there is only a monthly one. For where it is celebrated only monthly the people seem to take it for granted that they are expected to make their Communions, and prepare themselves accordingly. Whereas when there is a weekly Celebration they think they can come any Sunday and so put it off from time to time and really do not go as often. There should be a Celebration every Sunday and Holy day at the least, as the Prayer Book intends, that the highest worship may be continually offered to God, and the fullest opportunities be given to the people to communicate. But if a Christian does not feel prepared to make his Communion every Sunday, he should then fix upon certain Sundays on which he will, and be just as regular about it as he would if there were only Celebrations in the Church upon those Sundays.

As no Christian would be regular in saying his prayers unless he had a definite hour in each day in which to do it, so should he secure regularity in performing this the chief and most important act of religious worship, by having an inflexible rule as to the time for it. If he becomes careless or indifferent about it, there cannot fail to be a disastrious effect upon his religious life. Of course, though one may not always feel prepared to Communicate whenever the Holy Communion is celebrated, he can always remain during the Celebration and take part in it as far as he can. There can be no better way to prepare to communicate than that to remain during a Celebration. But as one grows in his religious life he will naturally want to Communicate more frequently.

PARISH NOTES.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL was observed this year with more interest that in previous years, but still there was not as large an attendance at the services as we should like to see. The morning of Ascension day was very rainy, which may have accounted for the very small attendance at 11 o'clock, but more would have been there if this Festival was regarded as it should be. The attendance both on Thursday night and at the anniversary of the Guilds was larger than last year, but we should have liked to have seen the Church crowded on both occasions. Father Benson preached a very thoughtful sermon.

THE PARISH TEA was a great success in point of members, but we were much disappointed at the failure of the speaker of the evening, Mr. George C. Thomas, who had promised to make an address, to put in an appearence, and the comfort of the older persons was much interfered with by the number of children present, who monopolised the seats, made a great disturbance and devoured far more than their share of the provisions. The only remedy for this another year will be to rigidly exclude all children, which will be only just, as the Parish Tea is not intended for them, they having their own Festivals at Christmas and Easter.

ENVELOPES FOR THE SUMMER.—Persons going away from the parish for the summer will not fail to put the envelopes for the Sundays they will be away in the offertory, before going, that we may have the means to carry on the Church during that time.

ABSENCE OF MR. KITTSON.—We regret to announce that the Assistant Minister has been obliged on account of his health to ask for an indefinite leave of absence. The Rector is looking for some one to take his place, but hopes that in the Autumn Mr. Kittson will be able to return in renewed health and strength.

THE NEW CHOIR STALLS have only just been put in the Church, though promised for Ascension Day. The delay has been due to the long continued strike among the carpenters, the contractor having absolutely no one to work for him. They are very handsome and complete the furnishing of the Chancel.

CHANGE IN SUNDAY SERVICES.—The special service for the children at 2.30 P. M. is discontinued for the summer, the children being expected to attend instead the 4 P. M. service, and we begin with the first Sunday after Trinity the shortened twilight service, at 7 P. M. in place of the regular Sunday night service. We trust all our people who remain in town will attend at least one service each Sunday during the summer. The daily service is discontinued, but there will be service on all Holy days and every Wednesday and Friday morning.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. Pair of glass cruets for the altar, Sketch book of the American Episcopate, 2 Virginia creepers, 2 white china dishes, 100 copies of the Imitation of Christ, 2 large bundles of clothing, crate of strawberries, 3 large cakes, large number of small cakes, 15 dozen tea biscuits, ginger bread, 4 dozen bananas, tea, coffee, sugar, etc., and 400 tickets for the Parish Tea.

OUTSIDE IMPROVEMENTS.—The congregation will be glad to learn that the Vestry has decided to improve the exterior of the Church, by putting up stone steps, completing the pavement, sodding our vacant lot and placing an iron railing along the Broad St. front. Special contributions are asked for this purpose.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS were received during May: Mr. Chas. E. Bonnet, Miss E. H. Cooke, Mrs. C. F. Leaming, Miss Trucks, Miss A. J. Stewart, Miss M. Gilpin, Mr. E. L. Teakle.

Subscriptions due but unpaid, 18. Of those due, but unpaid last month, only 5 have been paid. Notice has been sent several times to these subscribers, notifying them that they were in debt to the NEWS. May we once more call the attention of all delinquents to the above fact.

REPORT.

The following is the report of the Parish for the year ending May 1st, as made to the Bishop.

Baptisms—Adults 5, Infants 28, total 33; Confirmed, 24; Marriages, 3; Burials, 18; Families connected with the parish, 267.

Communicants added—New, 14; by removal, 61; died, 6; removed, 35; present number, 366.

Services—Sunday, 237; other days, 557, total 794; average attendance Sundays, 372; Children Catechised 77 times.

Sunday School—Officers and teachers 27; Scholars, 200.

Bible Classes—Teachers 3, members 35.

Other Parish Agencies—Mothers' Meeting, members 38; Industrial school, teachers, 11; scholars, 100; Men's Guild, Woman's Guild, Young Men's Guild, Young Woman's Guild, Boy's Guild, Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood.

Money receipts from all sources—Pew rents $51.00; offertory $6,551.60; subscriptions for building and organ fund, 4,633.13; interest, 86.82; entertainments, etc., $226.50; total, $11,549.05.

Money Expenditures and Appropriations—Current expenses, (including salaries of ministers, for music, fuel and lighting, care of church building and grounds, and ordinary repairs of same) $3,771.75; interest on mortgage, $1500.00; improvements, $8,289.70; Episcopal and convention funds, $93.11 support of schools, $146.75; for the poor, $228.67; Episcopal Hospital $27.07; Missions, Foreign, $23.00; Domestic, $72.50; Colored people, $28.00; Indians, $51.00; Diocesan, $55.00; Tract and Prayer Book Societies, $21.00; Johnstown sufferers, $53.66; Miscellaneous, $552.68; total, $14,921.98.

Financial Condition — Estimated value of property $70,000; encumbrance, mortgage, $25,000, other indebtedness none.

In his anniversary sermon on Ascension night, the Rector called the attention of the congregation to the substantial advance that had been made during the past year, in the erection of the Chancel, the putting in of the organ, and the decided increase in the congregation, 75 having been added to communicant list. He also pointed out that the receipts for current expenses and benevolent objects were $800 more than the previous year, while the total receipts both last year and this year were over $11,000. He asked whether in view of that fact, it would be too much to expect the congregation during the coming year to raise $5,000 towards reducing the Church debt.

BOYS FOR THE CHOIR.

The music of the Church, bearing, as it does, such an important part in the Sunday services. is a subject that must be of interest to all. For a Parish like ours, the annual appropriation for this purpose is quite liberal, but something besides this is needful.

A boy choir cannot exist without boys. The older boys are continually dropping out of the Choir as their voices change, and younger ones must take their places. In other words, the constant loss at one end must be met by a constant supply at the other. In this the members of the congregation and those interested in the Parish can help the Church greatly by influencing boys to seek membership in the Choir. Occasionally boys are found who are absolutely without musical instinct, but, in general, any bright, intelligent boy, from eight to twelve years of age, can become a very useful chorister. Choir boys always enjoy their work thoroughly, and, beside a salary, they receive what is of far greater value, careful training and instruction that will be useful to them all their lives. You are asked, therefore, to bear in mind the needs of the Choir, and if you should be acquainted with any such boys, even though they belong to families entirely outside the Parish, urge them to apply for admission to the Choir. The Choirmaster may be seen after any of the Sunday services or on Friday evenings, or may be communicated with through the Rector. Half a dozen boys are desired at once, and a good voice can always be made useful.

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER XI, (Continued.)

Ques. What is an Archdeacon?

Ans. A Clergyman, generally in Priest Orders, who acts as assistant to the Bishop in his care of the Diocese. If there is more than one, the Diocese is divided into districts over each of which an Archdeacon presides. He can make visitations, and investigations at the direction of the Bishop and report to him, and he has charge of the missionary work. He is called "the Bishop's eyes."

Ques. What is a Dean?

Ans. He is the Chief Minister of the Cathedral or Bishop's Church. The term is also sometimes applied to officers having similar duties to those of an Archdeacon.

Ques. What are Canons and Prebendaries?

Ans. They are the clergy of a Cathedral, who with the Dean constitute the chapter. Formerly they embraced all the clergy of the Diocese, and latterly they have been regarded as their representatives.

Ques. What is a Rector?

Ans. He is a regularly instituted clergyman in charge of an independent parish.

Ques. How is he appointed?

Ans. He is elected by the parishioners or their representatives, the Vestry, or he is appointed by the person or persons who built or endowed the church, or by their heirs, or by some person or corporation designated by them, but the authority to enter upon the office he receives only from the Bishop of the Diocese, by induction or institution.

Ques. How can he be removed from his office.

Ans. After Institution, only by due process of impeachment and trial before his peers.

Ques. What is an Assistant Minister?

Ans. A clergyman who assists a Rector in the care of a parish.

Ques. How is he appointed?

Ans. Generally by the Rector. Sometimes he is elected by the Vestry, with the consent of the Rector, but he must be licensed or recognised by the Bishop.

Ques. What is a Curate?

Ans. It is literally any one who has the cure or care of souls. In the Ordinal it is the term applied to the Rector or head of the parish. But practically in the Church of England, it is the designation of Assistant Minister.

Ques. What is a Perpetual Curate?

Ans. One who has the permanent charge of a separate chapel in a parish, which, like a Rectorship, is regarded as a Benefice. The difference between the beneficed and unbeneficed clergy is that the former hold their positions for life, but the latter may be removed at any time, at the will of the Bishop or person who appointed them.

Ques. What is a Vicar?

Ans. One who takes the place and performs the duties of a Rector.

Ques. Whas is a Chancellor?

Ans. The legal advisor of the Bishop. He is generally a member of the Cathedral Body.

Ques. What is a Precentor?

Ans. The clergyman who has charge of the music in a Cathedral or collegiate church. The term is also applied to the choir master in a parish church or chapel.

Ques. What is a Chaplain?

Ans. A clergyman in charge of the chapel of a public institution or a private chapel, or officiating in the army or navy, or for some organization.

Ques. What are the titles of the clergy?

Ans. Priests and Deacons are addressed as Reverend, Bishops as Right Reverend, Metropolitans as Most Reverend, Deans as Very Reverend, Archdeacons as Venerable.

Ques. What are the Minor Orders?

Ans. It is a term formerly applied to those who discharged the duties of sub-deacon, reader, catechist, etc.

Ques. How are these offices generally executed now?

Ans. By laymen who act as lay readers, Sunday school superintendents, servers, etc.

Ques. What is a Server or Acolyte?

Ans. A layman or boy who acts as an attendant to the priest and assists him in tne service of the sanctuary.

Ques. What is a Thurifer?

Ans. A man or boy who carries and serves the Thurible or Incense boat.

Ques. What is a Verger or Sexton?

Ans. One who has the care of the church edifice, acts as usher, etc. It corresponds to the ancient office of doorkeeper.

Ques. What is a Warden?

Ans. A parish officer representing the laity. He is to see that all things are provided that are necessary for the church; is responsible for the preservation of order during Divine Service, and presides at Vestry meetings in the absence of the Rector. He should report to the Bishop any failure of duty, or viciousness of life, or error in doctrine on the part of the Rector. If accounting warden, he is Treasurer of the Parish Funds. There are generally two Wardens, one chosen by the Rector, the other elected by the vestry.

In a Choir for 78 Years.

A MAN has just died who was a member of the Cathedral Choir, in Cork, Ireland for 78 years, having entered it in 1812 when he was 9 years old. He had served under nine Deans and six Bishops of Cork, and had witnessed the jubilees of two British Sovereigns, George III and Queen Victoria.

THE DEATH OF DR. KEYS.

Since our last issue we have lost by death one of our Vestrymen, Dr. Roger Keys. He was probably the oldest regular attendant of the Church and one of its most devoted members. He became a member of the parish during the Rectorship of Bishop Hare. He was elected Vestryman in 1874 and served continuously in that capacity until his death. He was Accounting Warden from 1879 to 1885. He always took an active interest in the Church, and in fact the parish really owes its present existence to him. For at a critical period in its history in its old location, when it had become so depressed that the Vestry felt it impossible to continue its services any longer, so that they passed a resolution to close the Church and hand the keys to the Bishop, for him to dispose of the property as he saw best, Dr. Keys came forward and offered to keep up the Church at his own risk. This he did and when the present Rector was elected, the parish owed him some $800, he had advanced out of his own pocket to meet its expenses. All this was paid back to him, and he lived to see the Church not only revived and flourishing, but removed to a new location and furnished with a new edifice in which it is certain to make great progress and become a permanent and important parish.

Dr. Keys was a man who was not only naturally genial and benevolent, but he was always deeply interested in religion. He was confirmed and became a communicant at an early age, and was always a regular attendant at the services of the Church. In spite of his engrossing professional duties, he was for years rarely absent from a single regular service. From the establishment of the weekly Communion in the parish until the removal of the Church to its present locality which made it less convenient for him to attend it, he was never absent from a single Sunday's celebration, and for two years he attended regularly the daily morning prayers in the Church. He was a most attentive listener to sermons, and he testified to the Rector that he had found more comfort and satisfaction in the present teachings of the parish than he had in any other doctrines he had ever heard. It gave him pleasure to represent the parish as he did in the Diocesan Convention, and he followed the life of the Church there and as he could in the Church papers with the deepest interest.

Into his own personal life and relationships and his private benevolence etc., we will not intrude, but from what all in the parish have seen and known of him, it is evident that such a man as he, is a loss to the Church to which he belonged and to the community in which he lived.

We can only pray that God will raise up others to take his place, and be as firmly and intelligently interested in the parish as he was. And for himself, now that the labor of his life is over, we can pray that he may rest in peace and that that light in which he humbly strove to walk while he was upon earth, may shine upon him perpetually in the new life into which he has now entered.

OUR NEW ASSISTANT.

We take pleasure in introducing to the congregation the Rev. H. L. Gamble, who has accepted the position of an assistant Minister in our parish. He comes to us very highly recommended from Lyons, Iowa, where he was Rector of Grace Church. We bespeak for him a hearty welcome. He expects to enter upon his duties with the first of this month.

The congregation will also be glad to learn that the Rev. Mr. Kittson, has been much benefitted by his rest during the summer and that he expects to return to work this month.

This will enable the Rector to take a holiday during September.

PARISH NOTES.

Our Mortgage.—The generous offer in regard to the reduction of our mortgage we published in the May issue of the News, we are sorry to say was not responded to. Some small subscriptions only being made to meet it. We are glad, however, to be able to announce that in extending the mortgage, we have secured the reduction of the rate of interest to five per cent., and also the very valuable privilege of paying off any amount of it over $500 at any time. As often, therefore, as we can secure $500 for that purpose, we can reduce our indebtedness to that extent.

Envelopes for the Poor—Of the 140 extra envelopes marked "For the Poor," sent out with the ordinary envelopes May 1st, only 22 have been returned during the quarter. These contained $24.67, which, together with a pledge of $1 a Sunday, which had been made before by a gentleman, is all that the Rector has so far to depend upon for the work among the poor for the coming year. We trust, however, that the other 118 envelopes will be returned sometime during the year. The object of the Vestry in assigning a separate quarter for each of the charitable collections, was to make it easier for the contributors, but if the year sent in any time during the year their purpose will be answered. The envelopes for the present quarter are for the support of the schools of the parish. Heretofore all the expenses of the Sunday School have been borne by the offerings of the children themselves, and those of the Industrial School have been paid by the lady who had charge of it. This is not fair and cannot be continued, yet the Industrial School is too important a part of our church work to be given up. If each one of our regular contributors will give something in the envelopes they have received for this purpose, a sufficient sum will be obtained.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL recommences its sessions with the first Sunday of this month. We want to see all the teachers and scholars in their places, and we ask for more teachers, both men and women, those who are willing to undertake this work as a great duty and who will be regular and faithful in its discharge. We have a great opportunity for a large Sunday School, but we cannot have it unless we can get a sufficient number of faithful and competent teachers who will volunteer for this good work.

OUR RITUAL CATECHISM is concluded in this issue of the NEWS. We trust that it has been the means of instructing our people in many points of church order on which they wanted information. And we advise our people who have files of the NEWS to preserve them for reference, when they want to know the meaning of a church term or explanation of a ritual act. If we had the means we would be glad to publish the Catechism in pamphlet form for general distribution.

THE IMPROVEMENTS on the outside of the Church we spoke of in our last issue will be made this month. They will consist of setting stone steps to the two doors of the Church, repairing the pavement on Broad street and paving the entrance to the parish building, levelling and sodding the ground to the south of the Church, and running an iron railing along the entire Broad street front. This will give a very different effect to the church on the outside instead of its present very poor and shabby appearance.

THE SERMON preached by the Rector before the Society of the Sons of the Revolution, in Christ Church last April, has been printed by the Society. The Rector has a few copies for distribution if any members of the congregation would like to have them.

CHURCH NOTES.

LARGE DONATIONS.—A check was recently received towards the erection of the Church Mission House, in New York of $50,000, "from a member of Grace Church."

A MEMBER of the Church of the Holy Apostles is now erecting an addition to the large parish building they already possess, a substantial three-story building upon three lots, which he has purchased for the purpose, containing a gymnasium and rooms for Bible class and social purposes.

MRS. T. EMORY OWEN has given $10,000 towards the endowment of St. Paul's Church, Detroit.

THE large and commodious Parish House for S. Simeon's Mission, built by Mr. John E. Baird, at a cost of $25,000 has been completed and is now in use.

MRS. GAMMELL is building a new Church for the Parish of the Messiah, Providence, R. I., as a memorial to her son at a probable cost of $125,000, on condition of its being always free.

THE tower of the Church of the Advent, Boston, is to be completed by a lay member of the Parish, at a cost of $30,000.

What Many of us Go to Church For.

SOME go to Church just for a walk;
Some to stare and laugh and talk;
Some go there to meet a friend;
Some their idle time to spend;
Some for general observation;
Some for private speculation;
Some to seek or find a lover;
Some a courtship to discover;
Some go there to use their eyes,
And newest fashions criticize;
Some to show their own smart dress;
Some their neighbors to assess;
Some to scan a robe or bonnet;
Some to prize the trimming on it;
Some to learn the latest news,
That friends at home they may amuse;
Some to gossip false and true,
Safe hid within the sheltering pew;
Some go there to please the squire;
Some his daughters to admire;
Some the parson go to fawn;
Some to lounge, and some to yawn;
Some to claim the parish doles;
Some for bread, and some for coals;
Some because it's thought genteel;
Some to vaunt their pious zeal;
Some to show how sweet they sing;
Some how loud their voices ring;
Some the preacher go to hear,
His style and voice to praise or jeer;
Some forgiveness to implore;
Some their sins to varnish o'er;
Some to sit and drop a nod,
How few to kneel and worship God!

Bishop Paret's Counsels to Sunday School Teachers.

In committing to your charge in the Sunday school the class I have just assigned to you, I wish to have you distinctly understand the duties of the office, its work and its responsibilities; so only can you rightly discharge them.

You will please understand, then, that you really fill the office known in olden times in the Church as that of the "catechist." The children of your class are placed under your instruction and influence to accomplish a definite end and purpose. You are the rector's special assistant, and so far as they are concerned, to prepare them in due time for being confirmed and admitted to the Holy Communion. These things as definite results to be sought and expected in your work should be always in your thoughts. It will not only give earnestness and definiteness to your teaching in the class, but to your out-of-school influence and your prayers for them. You will, therefore, seek to be as well acquainted as may be with each scholar; to know the character of each; to find out what each one lacks in information, or in devout disposition and earnestness.

As the standard fixed by the Church, you will very carefully train them in the Church Catechism, in knowledge of its words and in understanding of its meaning. And in so doing, you will take occasion often to speak to them of Confirmation and of the Holy Communion as blessings which they are earnestly to desire.

You will be expected to train them by word and example to join reverently and earnestly in the worship; always to speak distinctly in the responses, and to sing when they are able; to kneel, really, during the prayers and to observe carefully all the reverent customs of the Church.

You will encourage them to regular attendance at Church services, and inquire often and carefully as to their regularity in this respect.

You will see that each scholar has a prayer book and a hymn book, and brings them regularly to school.

You will remind them of the Christian duty of giving to God; encourage them in the regular Sunday school offerings and especially to make each a willing contributor to the missionary fund of the school.

You will be expected always to prepare the Sunday school lessons carefully before attempting to teach them. A teacher has no more right to come unprepared to his teachings than a clergyman has to come without study for preaching.

You will keep your class book very fully and clearly according to the appointed rules.

You will be expected to set your scholars an example of punctuality. A teacher habitually unpunctual ought to resign. If you do not love Sunday school work well enough to get to it a few minutes before the work begins, you do not love it well enough to be a teacher.

If at any time unavoidably absent it will be your duty either to provide as a substitute some communicant of the Church, or to give to the rector such timely notice that he can make provision. In this there should be no failure.

If your scholars become irregular you will be expected to search them out during the week and learn the reason. Your duties are not limited to the Sunday school room and Sunday school hours.

You will be expected to remember your scholars in your own private prayers, and seek in every way their growth in grace and knowledge.

You will be, of course, enthusiastic and zealous in the work.

And, last of all, when you find that your interest is failing: that your class, through your fault, is losing interest or becoming irregular; that you don't care enough for Sunday school to come every Sunday, and to come early; that you fail to learn the lessons, and go through the work as a mere routine: then you will either repent and renew your zeal or failing in that, will resign your class to the rector.

May our good Lord, by His grace, make you earnest and true in this true work for Him. Remember how he said: "Whoso receiveth one such little child in My name receiveth Me."

RITUAL CATECHISM.

CHAPTER XII.

CHURCH COUNCILS.

Ques. What is a Vestry?

Ans. In England it is a meeting of all adult male members of a parish, over which the Rector presides. It elects the Church Wardens, levies rates, etc. In the American Church it is a body composed of from six to twelve members of the parish elected by the communicants, pew renters or contributors, on each Easter Monday to serve for the ensuing year. They, with the Rector, have charge of the temporal affairs of the parish. The Vestry is often incorporated by the State and holds the legal title to the property. In some places in England there is a body corresponding to this, called a select Vestry.

Ques. What are the duties of the Vestry?

Ans. They elect the Rector and sometimes Assistant Clergymen, collect and disburse all the revenues of the parish, except those given for charitable purposes, have care of the fabric and its maintenance, provide what is needed for Divine service, appoint the Sexton, etc.

Ques. Has the Vestry any control of the use of the Church or its ecclesiastical affairs?

Ans. None at all, the entire responsibility is with the Rector, subject to the direction of the Bishop. But a Rector may very properly consult with his Vestry about such things and be largely guided by their opinions and wishes.

Ques. What is a Diocesan Council or Convention?

Ans. A body composed of the Clergy, or Clergy and representatives of the laity, of a Diocese, convened for the purpose of consultation with the Bishop. It cannot properly enact canons, and if it does so they gain their authority only from the Bishop's assent to them, and must be regarded as the constitutions he has set forth for the government of his Diocese.

Ques. What is a Standing Committee?

Ans. A select body of Clergymen or Clergymen and laymen elected by a Diocesan Convention to be its representative when it is not in session, and to act as a Council of Advice to the Bishop. It corresponds somewhat to the Chapter of a Cathedral.

Ques. What is a Provincial Synod?

Ans. It is a body composed of all the Bishops of the Province and of representatives of the Clergy, or Clergy and laity. It should deliberate in two houses, and the consent of each be necessary to the enacting of any measure. It can pass canons which are binding upon all the Dioceses in the Province.

Ques. What is a General Convention?

Ans. It is a term applied to the American Church to the council composed of all the Bishops and clerical and lay representatives from each Diocese, included in the national Church, which however, is still but a single Province. It will probably be eventually divided into several, when the General Convention will then meet at longer intervals and be composed of delegates from the several Provinces.

Ques. What is a General or Ecumenical Council?

Ans. A council representing the whole Catholic Church, to which all the Bishops of Christendom have been summoned. It alone has authority in questions of faith and morals.

Ques. Are all its decrees necessarily binding?

Ans. No, not unless they have been generally accepted throughout Christendom, as no General Council would be likely to contain even a majority of existing bishops. No General Council has been held for many centuries.

Ques. What is a Convocation?

Ans. It is a term applied in the American Church to assemblies of the clergy, and representatives of the laity of a portion of a Diocese. It corresponds to a conference of the members of an Archdeaconcy, or Rural Deanery in other places. In England it is the designation of the Provincial Synods of Canterbury and York.

Ques. What is the Pan-Anglican or Lambeth Conference?

Ans. It is an assembly of all the Bishops of the Anglican Communion, that is of the Church of England and of the churches which have decended from it and maintained its constitution and principles. It has been called from time to time of late years by the Archbishops of Canterbury at Lambeth, their London residence. Its purpose is for consultation in regard to the interest of the whole communion.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Rector wants, at the beginning of another season of Church work, to say a very serious word to the congregation in regard to the Sunday School.

The Sunday School is the work of the laity. It will be what they make it—and there is no department of Church work which is more important. Most men are made by their education, and as religion is the most important element in life, so there is nothing so essential as religious education. But under our public school system there is no religious instruction, and in very many families, even of those professing to be Christians, there is either the neglect, or the inability, to impart it. Unless therefore, the Church provides an effective system of religious training for the young, we shall have multitudes of young people growing up without this influence, which is so essential for their own welfare and the good of the community to which they belong.

That Sunday Schools are the best means of conveying religious instruction we are not prepared to maintain, but under the circumstances in which we are placed they are the best expedient we can command, and therefore we should make them as efficient as possible, and their efficiency will depend entirely upon the number and character of the teachers who take part in them. And our difficulty in this parish is to get teachers. The Church is admirably situated to reach a large class of pupils, and if we had a sufficient number of faithful and devoted teachers there would be no difficulty in obtaining and holding scholars. But our people seem to be singularly indifferent to their duty in this respect.

Why is it, that in the neighboring parish of the Holy Apostles there is a Sunday School of 1000 children and we have not more than 200? It is because one of the most active business men in this city has for years devoted himself to that school, being just as punctual in his attention to it summer and winter as he has been to his own business, and because he has been faithfully seconded, seven out of the twelve vestrymen of the parish being teachers in the school, whereas we can scarcely get a single male teacher, and not as many females as we need.

Undoubtedly there are many who have no vocation for this work at all, and there are others who would find it wearying and burdensome. But how many are there who could prepare themselves for the work if they would only try, and how many who would succeed in it even though they did not find it agreeable, just as men succeed in making their living in employments they do not personally fancy.

What all need to feel is their duty to do this most important work. If a call and opportunity comes to us to engage in a good work and we refuse to do it, surely we are responsible for the results. And what call could be more imperative than that to devote a little of our time and labor to the great, essential, work of training up the young in the fear of God, and teaching them those cardinal principles of morality and virtue which are so necessary to their welfare in this world and in the world to come.

Will not the lay people of our parish, both men and women, seriously consider this matter. The clergy will do all they can to discharge their duty towards this portion of their flock. Some 75 times in the year the children are publicly taught and catechised in the Church. But we need too the lay people to gather the children in classes and teach them personally, and instruct, and attach them to the Church, as can only be done in that way. In other parishes men of intelligence and capability can devote themselves to Sunday School work, how is it there are none in ours who are willing to do the same? If there are any who will make the effort and sacrifice it will involve, they would soon become interested in it, and feel fully rewarded by the good they were accomplishing. We trust both the men and women of the parish will seriously consider their duty in this respect.

PARISH NOTES.

MEMORIAL WINDOW. The order for another memorial window in the clere story has been given. It is to contain the figure of S. James, and is erected by a gentleman in memory of his mother who died in August, and who had been a regular attendant of the Church during the past winter. A design is also being made for the central window in the chancel so as to be ready in case any one should wish to put it in. The beauty of the chancel will be greatly increased when all its windows are filled with handsome glass.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The donor of the new stalls has had made cushions covered with red velvet for each of the clergy stalls, for the Sedelia and Bishop's seat in the chancel and for the Litany desk.

SERVICES RESUMED.—The children's service will be resumed the first Sunday of this month at 2.30 P.M. The Wednesday evening service and lecture begins October 1st, at 7.45 P.M. The daily service is also resumed with this month, and we do trust it will be better attended than it has been heretofore.

ADDITIONAL COMMUNION.—As we have now three Priests in the Parish and each will want to have a weekly celebration, there will be hereafter an additional communion every Thursday at 7.30 A.M.

BIBLE CLASSES.—All the Bible Classes will resume their sessions on the first Sunday of this month, and we hope that all in the Parish, young and old, will avail themselves of these opportunities to gain information about the Bible and Prayer Book. It is lamentable how ignorant many professed church people are on these subjects, and it is because they do not study. The Young Men's Class this winter will be taught by the Rev. Mr. Gamble, and the Men's Class, for the present at least, by the Rev. Mr. Kittson. The Mothers' Meeting and Women's Club will not begin until November.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—The women of the Parish will remember that by its constitution all the female communicants of the Parish are members of the Women's Guild. Its anniversary is S.S. Simon and Jude's day, Oct. 28, when all the members are expected to be present at one of the celebrations of the Holy Communion, and to attend to the business meeting in the Guild room at 11 A.M. The Rector earnestly desires that all the female communicants of the Parish will be present at that time. Even those who have not been able to do any Guild work will be interested in hearing the report of what has been done, and may learn of some way in which they can help on the work of the Parish. Surely it is not too much for the Rector to ask that the communicant members of the Parish should take this much interest in the affairs of the Church to which they belong.

MEN'S GUILD.—The constitution of this Guild is the same as that of the women's, and its anniversary is All Saints Day, Nov. 1, the business meeting will be at 8 P.M. And while there are not as many things that men can do in the Church as there are for women, still there are a good many things they could do, and the object of this meeting is that the men may consult together as to what can be done to help on the work of the Parish. And if it did nothing else than to bring the men of the Parish together so that they would get to know each other, it would be most useful. Often men complain of their coming to the Church and yet not knowing any one in it, and the reason is that they will never attend any of these meetings to which they are thus invited. If you have any interest in your Church do all you can for it.

CHURCH DEBT.—Some two years ago we adopted the system of collection for the Church debt known as the A, B, C, system. A large number of the papers were taken, but few were returned. Those who did return their papers paid themselves the amount they called for, or made a donation towards it. One member of the Parish has, however, faithfully followed the thing out, and last month brought in over $32, the full amount the papers she took, represented. This shows what could have been done with them if each one who took them had been as persevering. We hope, however, all will collect or give to this fund as they can, that we may soon make the first $500 payment on it.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Many of our subscribers to the NEWS have not paid their subscriptions for the current year. We beg them to do so at once, as we are considerabiy behind hand in our payments to the printer.

THE Rector spent one Sunday of his holiday in New York, where he attended five full services in as many different churches, besides examining into the methods of Sunday-School work at S. Augustine's Chapel, where he got many ideas by which he hopes to improve our own school, and in going over the new buildings of the General Theological Seminary and listening to the chiming of the tubular bells in its tower, the only chime of the kind either in New York or Philadelphia.

SUPPORT OF SCHOOLS.—The special envelopes for this quarter are for the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools, that is, to provide the paper, and pencils, and paints, and pictures, etc., needed for the Industrial School, together with the Easter Festival, and the class books, question books, rewards, etc., for the Sunday School. It is simply impossible to hope to carry on successful schools unless they are properly appointed with these things, and we ask each member of the congregation to contribute something towards this object.

CHOIR EXCURSION.

On Saturday, September 27th, the Choir Boys were taken out for an all-day excursion, accompanied by the Choirmaster and two other gentlemen. The tug-boat "George Schauble, Jr.," was chartered and a trip up the Delaware was made as far as Bordentown.

The weather proved rather unfortunate, but did not in any way interfere with the pleasure of the boys, who thoroughly enjoyed the fact that they were the sole occupants of the boat. They are now prepared to render a full report on the construction of a tug-boat from the top of the pilot house to the very stern of the boat, for no portion was left unexplored. Lunch was dispatched on the way up; much to enjoy was seen all along the shores; and on the arrival at Bordentown, all hands went on shore to witness the interesting process of bringing boats through the "locks" located there.

The return was made in good time, the party landing at Philadelphia at about 5.30 P.M. Much of the pleasure of the party is due to the genial captain of the tug-boat, and to his equally good-natured crew, who all seemed to enter thoroughly into the spirit of the occasion. The excursion was made possible through the liberality of several members of the Church, and it is the desire of the Choirmaster to make such excursions a more frequent occasion for the boys. They keenly appreciate them, and really deserve them for their faithful work in the choir.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.

The annual meeting of the whole Brotherhood in the United States is to take place in this city on the 16, 17, 18 and 19, of this month. As many members of the Parish will, we are sure, be interested in attending the various meetings in connection with it, we publish the hours, names of speakers, etc., as far as arranged. We hope especially that the men of the congregation will attend as many of these meetings as possible that they may learn what men can do to spread Christ's Kingdom upon earth.

There will be three special celebrations of the Holy Communion for the members of the Brotherhood in this Church on the 16th, 17th and 18th, at 7 A.M.

As delegates from the various Chapters all over the country are expected and it is desired to extend hospitality to as many as possible, the members of our various congregations are asked to entertain them. If there are any in our Parish who are willing to do so, will they kindly inform the Rector at once that he may send their names to the committee.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16.

10 A.M.—Opening Service, Holy Communion, Grace Church, 12th and Cherry Sts., the Rt. Rev. O. W. Whitaker, D.D., Bishop of Pennsylvania; Charge to the Brotherhood, the Rt. Rev. H. C. Potter, D.D., Bishop of New York; Organization of Convention.

Rules for Communicants.

1. Make your Communions at regular intervals and always after self-examination.

2. Take off at least the glove of your right hand and lift your veil before coming to the Altar rails.

3. Kneel straight upright at the rail with your head erect, and reserve acts of worship to the time before and after being at the Altar.

4. Receive the species of Bread in the palm of your right hand and never in your fingers, and be careful to receive every crumb.

5. When you receive the Chalice guide it by holding the base and take as little as possible.

6. Never wipe your mouth after receiving, either with your hand or with a handkerchief.

7. Never be in a hurry to receive, but wait till the species of wine touches your lips.

8. Remain on your knees while the others are receiving, remembering in whose Presence you are, and employ the time while others are receiving by offering special prayers and intercessions for yourself and others.

9. Never leave your place after the Service till the Priest has consumed what remains of the Blessed Sacrament and has gone to the Vestry.

GROWTH OF THE CHURCH.

The Rev. Dr. Schauffler, Presbyterian, calls attention to a feature of Christian growth in New York worthy of careful consideration. He says—"That the Protestant Episcopal Church in the City of New York is outstripping all other Protestant evangelical bodies in its accessions to the Church is an undeniable fact. As between them and the next largest body, viz., the Presbyterian, the figures are as follows: Episcopalians in 1882, 25,733; in 1887, 33,903; in 1890, 36,175; Presbyterians in 1882, 19,232; in 1887, 20,809; in 1890, 22,526. According to this the growth of the former has been over 11,000 members, while that of the latter has been only a little over 3,000 members Is there any reason for this? Many reasons have been assumed, some of them complimentary to the Episcopalians, and some of them the reverse. I will, however, call attention to one, to me, all-sufficient reason; There are in this city seventy-nine Episcopalian churches and chapels of all kinds, and they have to care for them 117 ordained men. On the other hand the Presbyterians have fifty-four churches and chapels of all kinds and just fifty-four ordained men to care for them. This one fact is in itself quite enough to account for the relative growth of the two bodies in this city. Not until the other evangelical bodies in this town copy after the Episcopalians and multiply their force of ordained workers will they be able to match themselves with that great body in the growth of their churches. Modern church life in large cities is so exhausting that one man can no longer do the work that a large congregation requires as well as two men could do it."

MONEY.

The power and necessity of money in secular affairs is universally recognized. The proverbial phrase "the almighty dollar," if not absolutely true—for there are some things money cannot buy—yet expresses very forcibly the truth, that if a man has money he can command pretty much everything, and that if he has not he is pretty helpless. And this is true in regard to church, as well as secular, matters. At first sight it would seem as if it ought not to be so. The Gospel is to be preached freely and offered without money and without price. But as the Scripture saith, "how shall they hear except there be a preacher, and how shall they preach unless they be sent." If men are to give—as they must—their whole time to preaching, administering the sacraments and performing the offices of the Church, they must be supported. If churches are to be built, and if they are to be in any way worthy of the sublime purpose for which they are intended, it can only be done by a large expenditure of money. Then they have to be taken care of, lighted, heated, organs, choirs, etc., provided for them. And if the Church is to do anything but simply celebrate the divine offices, if it is to carry on, as it should, an educationary and missionary work, then these churches are to be built and maintained, not only where there are wealthy people who desire them, but in the poorest districts and in new and distant places. And parish and school-houses are to be built, and furnished with libraries and gymnasiums and other appliances to draw and instruct the young. Then there is an unlimited benevolent work for the Church ever to do; the poor, sick, orphans, widows, afflicted, to be sought out and cared for. And to do this requires buildings, supplies, officers, etc., all of which can only be provided by continual and large supplies of money.

Persons, therefore, who think that they can profess to be Christian people and yet be exempt from the duty and the call to give money for religious purposes, are very much mistaken. They neither can be, nor ought to be, so exempt. The work of the Church simply cannot be carried on without money. And it would not be good for Christians themselves if they were not called upon to give. The most beautiful and elevating characteristics of the human heart are those of generosity and compassion, and unless there were constant appeals to those qualities they would be lost, and the character would become selfish, luxurious and sordid. There must, therefore, always be a demand for money in the Church.

But the question is, how is money to be obtained for all these purposes of the Church?

One very generally adopted method has been the sale and renting of seats in churches. But this is fundamentally wrong in principle, because it makes a man's religious privileges depend upon the amount of money he is able to pay, turns what should be the Father's House for all His children into a private club house, brings social distinctions into the church, and creates the impression that religion is only a matter of money and so a luxury beyond a poor man's reach. Moreover, even if it were right to provide for the support of the Church by pew rents, there is still all the vast benevolent work of the Church to be carried on.

The only way in which the whole work of the Church can be fully and properly provided for, is by teaching people to give voluntarily on principle, teaching them that it is a bounden duty and necessary exemplification of the Christian life, that it is just as much an obligation upon a Christian man to support and carry on the work of the Church as it is to provide for his own family. And he should do the one precisely on the same principle that he does the other, from love. A rich man provides his family with all the luxuries that he can command, and the poor man gives his family all the comforts he can afford. So "he that hath much should give plentiously" to God's service, "and he that hath little should do his diligence gladly to give of that little." It should be a glad and willing offering. No one should ever resent being asked to give, he must ever expect to be asked, "the poor ye have always with you," as long as there is any sin or suffering upon earth there will be need of giving. And every man should be ready and glad to give according to his means. His religious privileges or position in Church should never be dependent upon the amount he gives, for God gives His spiritual gifts to all equally. What man gives to God should be an act of worship, a thank offering, should proceed from a loving heart, and be as bountiful as he can make it. A man should not give because he will gain praise or credit for it, or because it is expected of him, or because others do it. Nor should he refrain from giving because others do not give. Whether others do their duty or not, does not in the least excuse him. It is his duty, as it should be his joy, to give the due proportion of his income. He must answer for himself, others for themselves. But what one and all need to learn is to give, and be always giving, for there is always need of giving, "as the Lord hath prospered him." Not until Christians learn to use their money so, can the work of Christ be done upon earth.

A STATEMENT.

We are again confronted with the question, shall the publication of this paper be continued? The receipts from subscriptions and advertisements are not sufficient to meet our expenses. If all our subscriptions are paid up—and some thirty are now due—we shall still need some $50 to pay the expenses of the paper up to the first of the year. To meet this sum we must ask for donations in addition to subscriptions. But if the paper is to be regularly continued more members of the congregation must subscribe for it, or obtain additional advertisements for it. Who will do this? Or do you want the paper given up? The reply to this will determine the question.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Five dozen kneeling hassooks, 30 kneeling benches were also made by the sexton during the summer, a set of castors and 2 silver salt spoons and mustard spoon, fine linen corporal, burse and pall for private communion service, five gallons of Port wine for Communion, one gallon of Catawba wine for Communion, a white brocade silk eucharistic stole embroidered, also an antique embroidered silk maniple turned into a choir stole.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.—On the twenty-third of this month the Rev. Mr. Hodge completes the tenth year of his Rectorship of this parish. He proposes on the morning of that day to preach a sermon reviewing the history of the Church during that period.

BROAD STREET OMNIBUSES.—The congregation has been very much annoyed by the noise made by the Broad Street omnibuses, especially by their stoppage and the ringing of their bells just in front of the Church where the transfer to coaches going all the way down the street and to the South Street cars were made. But we are glad to say that the wardens having represented to the President of the line how great was the annoyance he has ordered the transfer to be changed to the north side of South Street. This is a great relief.

S. MARY'S GUILD RECEPTION.—A social reception for the young persons of the parish was given by S. Mary's Guild on their regular recreation evening last month, and proved a very pleasant occasion. Coffee and cake and ice cream were served during the evening, and Mr. Stanley Addicks, organist of S. Luke's Church, played on the piano. These occasions are very useful in bringing the young people of the parish together, and breaking up that distant feeling they are so apt to have if they see each other only in Church. S. Mary's Guild has done a very good work in this way.

GUILD ANNIVERSARIES.—In spite of the earnest appeal of the Rector to all the men and women of the parish to be present at the anniversaries of the two general guilds which were held in the last week in October, only about twenty women and twelve men appeared so hard is it to get our lay people to take any interest in the practical work of the parish. However, each year's report shows more and more effective work accomplished. And if every communicant would only realize his or her obligation to do something we should have a very live parish. Let the question for the coming season be not, who will work? but, who will refuse to work?

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, will be held in this Church on Thursday, November 20th. The women of all the various parish missionary societies throughout the Diocese are invited to attend the early communion on the morning of that day at 7.30 A.M., and the morning prayers at 10 A.M. From 10.30 A.M. to 1 P.M., and again from 2.30 to 4.30 P.M., addresses will be delivered by Bishop Talbot, Archdeacon Moran, Dr. Langford, Rev. Mr. Graves, of China, Rev. Mr. Phillips, of this city, and others, on behalf of the different departments of missions.

GENERAL MISSIONS.—The special envelopes sent out this quarter are for the General Missions of the Church, that is, for the support of the great missions of the Church in the domestic and foreign field, to which every parish in the country is expected to contribute. We have now some fifteen missionary bishops and several hundred clergymen and lay workers, not only in the missionary jurisdictions, but in our western and southern dioceses, whose support is wholly derived from this fund. Without it, it would be impossible to carry the Church into the newer parts of our country or support it in places where it is weak. Every communicant should contribute something towards it.

CHANGES OF RESIDENCE.—The members of the parish who change their address would confer a great favor upon the clergy if they would always notify them when they do so, as they often have great difficulty in ascertaining where they have removed to. On one afternoon recently the Rector went to four houses at a considerable distance from the Church, and in each case found the parishioners he was looking for had removed without notifying him. And when any one removes to such a distance that it is no longer possible to attend the Church, a letter of transfer should always be taken to the parish with which they propose to connect themselves. It is impossible for the clergy to keep their registers correct or to know who are their parishioners unless this is attended to.

CLASSES RESUMED.—The Industrial School on Saturday morning, the Mother's Meeting on Friday evenings, the Ladies' Embroidery Class, and the Ladies' Aid Society meetings on Thursday, are resumed this month.

OUTSIDE IMPROVEMENTS.—The delay in completing our pavement, putting up the stone steps and iron railing has been due to the stone cutters, who have put off the work from day to day. We are glad to see, however, that some of the stone has at length arrived, and we are positively promised that the work will shortly be finished. But the congregation are again reminded that we still need contributions for this work and also for the completion of the payment on the organ.

PUNCH CARDS.—The method has been adopted of securing the regularity and punctuality of the children at the Sunday School, of providing each child with a card which is punched on every occasion the child comes to Sunday School and those who produce their cards at the end of the season with the requisite number of holes punched in it will be duly rewarded. And no card is punched after the children's service begins, at 2.30 P. M., on Sunday afternoons, so children who want to get prizes must be punctual as well as regular in their attendance.

WANTS.—Teachers in the Sunday School and for the Men's Bible Class, Mr. Kittson having taken the latter only temporarily.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since the June issue of the NEWS:

Miss Alice Spear, Miss Anderson, Mr. Jos. Hartshorne, Cash, Miss M. M. Menah, Miss Hewson, Mrs. Weaver, Dr. Wm. M. Menah, Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, Mrs. G. Woolsey Hodge, Mr. Carroll Hodge, Miss Drinker, Mrs. Gundaker, Mrs. Miliken, Mrs. A. Jackson, Miss F. Jackson, Mr. S. Jackson.

Subscriptions due but unpaid, 30.

A CORRECTION.

In the editorial on the Sunday School in our last issue, the Rector made the statement, that seven out of the twelve vestrymen of the Church of the Holy Apostles taught in the Sunday School. In the course of the month he received the following letter from Mr. Thomas the superintendent of that school correcting this statement. We gladly publish it, as it only strengthens the argument, and gives as well Mr. Thomas' testimony in regard to his own experience of the work. It shows that the success of this department of Church work depends not upon the clergy, but upon the fidelity of the laity.

Rev. George Woolsey Hodge,
No. 334 South 13th St., Phila.

My Dear Mr. Hodge:—A friend has sent me a copy of the ASCENSION NEWS for this month. In it I find a most excellent article from yourself with regard to the Sunday School, and in it some very kind remarks about myself which I very much appreciate. I only want to say that all that I have done there has more than repaid me a thousand fold. I want, however, to correct one statement. You say that seven out of the twelve vestrymen are teachers in the Sunday School. Of the present vestry ten are engaged in the Sunday School work, and one of the others has frequently acted as a substitute. The remaining one has never been engaged in Sunday School work. I owe my success to the admirable manner in which I have been helped by all who have been engaged in the work.

With kindest regards and best wishes for your success, I am

Very sincerely yours,

GEO. C. THOMAS.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.

The Annual Convention of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, which was held in this city, was a most gratifying success. It was a beautiful sight to see S. George's Hall almost entirely filled with men who had come from all parts of the country at no little expense and inconvenience simply for the purpose of taking council together how the Kingdom of Christ could be extended upon earth. We were particularly pleased with the attendance at the two celebrations of the Holy Communion for the members of the Brotherhood in this Church, 67 men being present the first day and 76 the second. For that number of young men to be present at that service at 7 o'clock in the morning on two consecutive days, when a late celebration had been provided for them the day before and another on the day following, proves that they were animated by real devotion. And that is the best guarantee of success in their work.

They tell of Spain's four-year-old King, that, on a recent Sunday, having been taken to the royal pew for mass, he paralyzed the preacher (who is said to have been unusually energetic in voice and gesture), by calling out, "See here, man, don't you know it is very wrong to go on in church like that?"

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

'Twas All Saints' Day in November,
I sat in my cushioned pew;
The church was a marvel of beauty,
And all things were fair to view.
For down through the costly windows
The sunlight, in mellow rays,
Fell softly o'er priests and people,
Assembled for prayer and praise.
The altar, with flowers radiant,
Crimson, and purple and gold,
Of service, loving and tender,
A beautiful story told.
And soon from the sweet-voiced singers,
What waves of harmony roll!
Chanting the grand Te Deum,
In strains that fill the soul
With visions of glory and beauty,
Of Jesus, the Crucified One,
Exalted, a Prince and a Saviour,
To sit on the great white throne,
With saints and apostles surrounding
And prophets a goodly array,
And "the noble army of martyrs"
Praising him night and day.

Then rose the priest at the altar,
Reading in tones subdued,
Of the "hundred and forty-four thousand,"
That white robed multitude
Which John in his mystical vision,
Saw standing before the throne,
The ransomed whom no man can number
Out of great tribulation gone.
As the priest went on with the story
Of matrons, mothers, and sires,
Of maidens, and old men hoary
Who "glorified God in the fires,"
Singing His praise in the dungeon,
Chanting His love at the stake;
Buried alive in blind fury,
Welcoming death for His sake,
I thought, as I sat and listened,
O, God! can such things be?
Have I the faith of the martyrs?
What have I suffered for thee?
Could I face the rage of lions,
Or go to the rack undismayed?
If tempted like them, could I suffer
For Him who my ransom paid?
My faith is so weak, dear Master,
Such test I could never bear;
The cross of the martyrs outweighs it,
Their crowns I shall never share.

Just then the clear voice of the reader
Rang out in exultant tone,
"My grace is sufficient for thee,"
Sufficient for every one,
To the feeblest who trust in his mercy,
I come with a message from heaven:
Look not with dismay to the future,
As thy day, so shall strength be given.
We sit in our "exiled houses,"
And worship our God at will;
The role of the ancient martyrs
Is not for us to fulfill.
We must live to His glory, brethren,
Be noble, unselfish, and true;
There's a cross for each one to carry,
And work for each one to do.
It may be that active service
To some feeble saint is denied,
For him there are lessons of patience,
And lusts to be crucified.
Let each in his sphere be faithful;
It may be in toil and sorrow,
Who bears the cross for his Lord to-day
Shall wear a crown on the morrow.

LONG SERVICES.

Sometimes we hear people complaining that our services are too long, but we attended recently an ordinary Sunday morning service in Trinity Church, New York, which was two hours and a quarter long, the Litany being omitted. And the next day at the consecration of the new All Angels' Church, 81st St. and 10th Av., which the Rev. Dr. Hoffman, brother of the former Rector of S. Mark's Church in this city, has just erected as a memorial to his father at a cost of upwards of $200,000, we stayed two hours and a half and the sermon was not over, the communion still to follow.

TEN YEARS OF PARISH HISTORY.

On November 23d, the Rector completed the tenth year of his Rectorship of this parish. On the morning of that day he preached a sermon reviewing the history of the parish for that period. When he became Rector the property of the Church consisted of the plain, two-storied, dingy, unattractive Church building on Lombard Street, above Eleventh, a most disadvantageous situation. The Church had stood there nearly fifty years, leading a very precarious and struggling existence. At one time it had become so enfeebled that it gave up its independent life and became a mission chapel of S. Luke's Church. It afterward so revived under the administration of the Rev. Mr. Hare, now the Bishop of South Dakota, who took charge of it as an assistant minister of S. Luke's Church, that it again became a separate parish. But he, as all the preceding Rectors, saw the necessity of its removal to a different locality, and finally resigned because he could not induce his vestry to undertake it. After his resignation it again declined, until at last the vestry resolved to close it, feeling unable to carry it on any longer. This would have been done had it not been for the enterprise of a single vestryman, the late Dr. Keys, who undertook to keep it open at his own personal risk. This he did until the present Rector was called.

When he entered on the Rectorship he found only fifty-three names on the list of Communicants, the Church much out of repair, utterly lacking in any churchly adornments, and $800 in debt. Though the field was unpropitious and discouraging, with the assistance of some friends who came with him to the parish, and most of whom still belong to it, he was enabled to make some decided improvements in the Church edifice and to introduce some features into its services which led to a rapid increase in the congregation and revival of its parochial life. The Church was made free, a vested choir introduced, a weekly Eucharist and daily services instituted, Guilds and other parochial societies formed, etc.

For five years a good and increasing work was thus done. At the same time, from the very beginning, all engaged in it felt that no very large or permanent work could be carried on in that building, in that locality, and every opportunity was sought for the removal of the Church to a better position. In the Spring of 1885 such an opportunity presented itself. An offer for the sale of the building to a colored congregation was received and accepted, and the present property on Broad Street was obtained.

This involved a very difficult negotiation, but by the skill and energy of some members of the vestry it was accomplished. During the summer the parish building on the rear of the lot was erected, and by November was ready for occupancy for Church and school purposes. In the meantime subscriptions were solicited and the building of the Church itself was pushed on. By December 1886, the nave and aisles were completed, a temporary chancel being arranged at one end which served until the chancel proper was built a year ago. And it was only last spring that our organ was put in.

Thus the history of the parish for the last ten years has not been that of a completed and firmly established church, but of the resuscitation of a practically defunct parish, and of one passing through all the difficulties and disadvantages of a removal. During this period the work accomplished, so far as figures can show it, has been as follows: 1947 services have been held on Sundays, and 4651 on weekdays, the Holy Communion has been celebrated in public 1321 times, and in private 75 times; 20,976 Communions have been made. The children have been catechised on 702 occasions and 2235 sermons have been preached. To the 53 Communicants on the list in November, 1880, there have been added 595 names, of which number 387 still remain, 319 baptisms have been administered, 230 persons have been confirmed, 48 marriges been solemnized, and 159 burials. The total offerings for all purposes during this period have amounted to $64,722.12, of which $4812.44 was for benevolent objects. To show the increase in the receipts of the Church since its removal we may mention that during the five years in Lombard Street the receipts averaged $3222.38, and during the five years on Broad Street $9731.84. The size of the congregation, the attendance at the services, and the work accomplished, has been proportionately increased.

In looking back, therefore, over the past decade of our parochial life, we cannot but feel that God has blessed and prospered us, and that through many difficulties and obstacles we have been enabled to revive a practically extinct parish and put it in possession of an ample property in a location which must be always valuable and prominent, with a beautiful and attractive church and commodious school building, and thus made its future success and influence secure.

But we must not think that our work is done, or that there is no further need of effort or exertion. We have still a debt, involved in buying the property, to remove; the tower of the Church and a clergy house to build, many adornments to add to the Church, to say nothing of many other ways in which the strength and efficiency of the Church might be enlarged. But now that we are in the position which we have attained, and possess the plant we have, we believe that all this can be done, and that if the congregation is united and harmonious, and renders the Rector as hearty and efficient support in the future as it has in the past, we shall see at the end of another decade, if we should be permitted to live through it, as great an advance and improvement in the condition of the parish over its present state, as we see to-day when we contrast it with what it was in November, 1880.

OUR INDEBTEDNESS.

We do not like to be always talking about money, and yet as any individual, as long as he has any debts or his income is not sufficient to meet his expenses, must be always thinking how he is going to pay his debts or make his ends meet, so as a parish, as long as we have a debt hanging over us or bills coming in we have not the money to pay, we ought to be thinking and planning how we are going to satisfy these claims. So we think we ought to keep our obligations constantly before our readers.

As to our mortgage debt, that is now in such a shape that the principal cannot be demanded for five years and in the meantime, whenever we we can get together $500 for the purpose we can pay that much on account, and thus reduce it little by little.

But in addition to this we still owe $1000 on our new organ, which we all enjoy so much and which adds so much to the completeness of the Church. We have still a year left in which to pay this, but we ought to be receiving constant donations for the purpose that we may be able to do so whenever the time comes. We have also now made the improvements outside the Church, which have taken away its very shabby appearance and made it look finished. This has cost some $800, towards which only $325 has been subscribed. The remainder ought to be paid at once, as part of the work was done at low figures with the understanding that there should be immediate payment. Are there not others in the congregation beside the four persons who have subscribed the $325, who are sufficiently pleased with the improvement to the Church to assist in paying for it? Put any amount you will give towards it in an envelope marked "Improvements" and drop it in the plate at any offertory. Let all help even though the contribution be small.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Embroidered linen credence cover and maniple, linen pall for chalice, violet silk stole, embroidered, for the Rector; a white chalice veil and burse, and a linen corporal and purificator were presented to a colored mission in Illinois. Two tons of coal and a number of donations for Thanksgiving dinners for the poor, were also received.

SERVICES ON CHRISTMAS DAY.—As Christmas is a day on which there is so much going on at home, and yet is so high and great a festival that every one should wish to be present at the great Eucharistic celebration on that day, in order that the service may not be so prolonged as to make it difficult for any one to stay throughout it, it is proposed this year to have Morning Prayer said at 10.30 A. M. on that day, and to have the service at 11 A. M. begin with the Processional, followed by the Te Deum as the Introit, and then the Holy Communion. In this way no one will have any excuse for leaving the Church before the conclusion of the service, or of staying away altogether because they fear it will be too prolonged. And as in former years it has been noticed that the extra celebration we have had on Festivals at 8.30 A. M., has been attended by only a very few, it has been determined this year to try the experiment of having it earlier, before the 7.30 A. M. celebration, at 6.30 A. M. This will enable even those who have to prepare their breakfasts to get home in time to do so. The services therefore on Christmas day will be at 6.30, 7.30, 10.30, 11 A. M., and 5 P. M.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS.—The congregation will remember that we have to depend upon the Christmas offerings to meet the interest on the mortgage on our property which falls due this month. Every one is expected to give something on Christmas day in addition to his ordinary weekly offering through the envelopes. And let every one make it as large and generous as he can. He who can give gifts in his family at Christmas can certainly give a gift to his Church, and he can feel that what he gives is going to support and build up a work which will do good to the souls and bodies of many men through years to come.

Offerings for the Christmas decorations and for the Children's Festival may be placed in the alms chest in the vestibule which will be marked for that purpose, or given to the committee of the Sunday-school teachers having the Festival in charge.

A GOOD DEED.—The Rector was much gratified lately by being told by one of his parishioners that he had remembered the parish in his will. The Rector felt that a beginning, at least, was thus being made towards the accomplishment of his great desire of seeing the Church not only entirely freed from debt, but placed in such a condition that it will be safe from all contingencies in the future, and be a permanent blessing and benefit to the neighborhood in which it is placed. Are there not others who are interested in it now who want to continue their benefactions to it after they are called hence? In the old country, generation after generation has been educated and spiritually nourished by the gifts which their ancestors left to the church. Thus the good a man can do is extended indefinitely beyond the period of his own life.

ILLNESS OF MRS. KITTSON.—Those who are not already aware of it, will be sorry to hear of the severe illness of Mrs. Kittson, which has necessitated not only the giving up of her work in the parish, but the removal of herself and husband to the South for the winter. They are now in Asheville, North Carolina, and it is hoped that the sojourn in that mild climate may be of great service to her. Mrs. Kittson's place in charge of the Mother's Meeting, will be supplied by Mrs. Clay and Mrs. Jordan and other ladies who have assisted in the work. But her illness is doubly unfortunate, as it deprives us at the same time, of the services of Mr. Kittson. He, however, retains his position in the parish and we trust that in the spring his wife's health will be such as to permit his returning to work.

PAROCHIAL WORK.—All our parochial work is now well under way for the winter. The ladies of the Missionary Chapter of the Women's Guild are now engaged in making up a missionary box for a clergyman in Alabama. Donations of money and material will be thankfully received for the box, and ladies willing to assist in cutting out or sewing, are invited to meet on Wednesday mornings after Morning Prayers, for that purpose.

The ladies in charge of the work among the poor meet in the school building every Tuesday morning to cut out and sew for that purpose. The Embroidery Class of the Altar Chapter meets on Thursday mornings, and the Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoons at 3 o'clock. Surely there is something in one or another of these departments which each one can find to do.

OUR KINDERGARTEN.—During the last month we have inaugurated a daily kindergarten in our school building, for children between four and seven years of age. The sessions will last from 9 to 11.30 A. M., and a charge of 10 cents a week is made for each scholar. The lady in charge, Miss Neidhard, has had experience in teaching, both in S. Peter's and S. Stephen's parishes. But she thinks our church is in a better locality for such a purpose than either of those churches, and prefers to work here. We trust she will succeed in having a large school, and we are sure it will be an advantage to those children whose parents are able to send them.

ADVENT SERVICES.—The usual changes in the service will be made during Advent. The Benedicite being said in place of the Te Deum, the whole of the Benedictus being used, and the last verses of the Dies Irae in place of the Gloria in Excelsis in the Communion office.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL opened with a very good attendance last month. But we miss very much in it, the presence of Miss Hewson, who has so long had charge of it. Her health, however, would not permit her taking it up this winter. The Assistant Minister has taken the general charge of it and we have been reinforced by some five new teachers.

THE YEAR BOOK for 1889-90 is now published; copies can be had from the Sexton. It gives the report of the Church for the past ecclesiastical year.

ANOTHER MEMORIAL WINDOW.—We are glad to announce that the order for the first of our chancel windows has been given. It will be made in England by the same firm that put in the windows in the aisles, thus securing the harmony of all the glass. It will be the central window over the altar, and the subject will be "the Ascension," the fact, to the commemoration of which the Church is dedicated, being thus given the most prominent position in the Church.

THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY MEETING in the Church on November 20th, was well attended, though not as largely as we had been led to expect. One would suppose that all the members of the Auxiliary from the different parishes would be present at this annual meeting, but when the roll was called some parishes were not represented at all, and others by only one or two members. We are sorry to say that out of our eight delegates only three responded when our parish was called. The meetings were very interesting, though one of the appointed speakers failed to appear.

The occasion was useful to the parish, as it brought many here who had never seen the Church before. It was greatly admired.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND DONATIONS.—We are glad to acknowledge the receipt of the following subscriptions and donations for the NEWS during the past month, but we still need more to meet our expenses up to the first of the year:

Mr. W. H. Tevis, Mrs. W. H. Tevis, Mr. Wm. Platt Pepper, Miss E. Whelen, Miss Lea, Miss Pemberton, Mrs. J. B. Read, Mrs. H. M. Bond, Miss Bond, Mr. J. H. Botwright, Miss E. Kerr, Miss Rousseau, Mrs. Isaac Starr, Dr. G. Bonnet, Mrs. K. G. Whelen, Miss Vogdes, Mrs. Wm. Waterall, Mrs. Benners, Miss Isabel Schell, Mrs. C. Collins, Miss E. Montgomery, Mr. C. J. Yost. Donations, $5.

WORKINGMEN'S CLUB.

There has been connected for a number of years with S. Mark's Church, a very successful Workingmen's Club. Recently the vestry of that parish has offered to extend the benefits of the Club to members of other parishes in this portion of the city. The name of the Club has been changed to the United Workingmen's Club, and it is hereafter to be governed by a Board of Managers composed of two persons appointed by the Rectors of each of the several parishes taking part in it, and two elected from among the members of the Club for each of the parishes. The appointed members from this parish are Mr. William P. Pepper and Mr. Thomas Robb, and the elected members, Mr. Chas. L. S. Taylor, and Mr. S. G. Lynch.

The Club building is situated at 17th and Kater Streets, and contains library, assembly, billiard and other rooms.

A circular is being prepared setting forth the purposes, etc., of the Club, which we hope to be able to publish in our next issue. But we trust that without waiting for that the men of the parish will avail themselves of the privileges thus extended to them.

Canon Liddon and Free Churches.

The following resolution with reference to the death of Canon Liddon was passed at a meeting of the Council of the Free and Open Church Association of England:

That this Council desires to place on record their sense of the great loss sustained by the death of Canon Liddon, for many years a Vice-President of the Association, and a consistent and unswerving supporter of the right of freedom of worship. During the twenty years that he was connected with St. Paul's Cathedral, Cannon Liddon had the liveliest satisfaction in seeing the people not only availing themselves, in ever-increasing numbers, of the free and unrestricted use of the Cathedral at all public services, but also daily using the church for private meditation and prayer, so that in these, as in other respects, St. Paul's has become at once the expression and pattern of what a Cathedral church should be.

BISHOP COXE of Western New York, says in a recent address to his convention: "I rejoice in frequent celebrations of the great commemorative sacrifice of the Christian altar. Oh! that I might see the time when in every Church in my diocese the Lord's Supper should be part of the worship of every Lord's Day; and the very best part of it; celebrated and received by devout souls, early in the morning, and (where not forbidden by the requisites of health) before other necessary food."

A NEW YEAR.

With this issue the ASCENSION NEWS enters upon its fourth year, and in doing so presents its greetings to its subscribers and the members of the parish generally. We think it has fully justified its publication, and we know that it has been of great use to the parish in many ways. Though the chief burden of its preparation has fallen upon the Rector, all of its editorials but three having been written by him, as well as the vast majority of the Parish News and other items, yet he has not begrudged the time and labor spent upon it, as he has felt that he was reaching a larger number of persons and was enabled to speak upon a greater variety of topics than he could from the pulpit. By it he can speak to the absentees as well as those in church, and explain and talk about a great many things, and keep every one informed about all that is going on in the parish, as he could in no other way.

We speak of this at the beginning of another year because we want all the parishioners to appreciate this, and become regular yearly subscribers, so that the paper can be certainly and easily carried on without the necessity of making especial appeals to make up a deficit at the end of each year. Through the generosity of a few members we are glad to say that all our expenses are now paid up to date, and we hope during the coming year to secure enough new subscribers and advertisements to give us an income sufficient to meet our requirements in the future.

A paper of this kind is a very important aid in such a work as we have here, which is that of completing and building up a parish. A church that has been built and is out of debt, and where all the pews are rented and a regular routine of parish life is going on, may not require such aid, though even there we should think there would be much in which the parishioners might be interested and new work that might be undertaken, but in a parish like ours, where there is so much yet to do, it is invaluable.

The work of building up a church is not an easy one. It is not something that can be done at once, or even very rapidly, unless a church has great resources at its command, or is in very exceptional circumstances. It is not like many other kinds of work where every gain that is made is a permanency. In church work there are certain disintegrating forces which are always active and against which headway has to be made, sickness, deaths, removals, disaffections, loss of interest, weariness, desire for change and novelty, factions, differences of judgment or taste, worldly and other interests and duties, bad weather, these and other things are so many forces which weaken and destroy whatever is built up, to say nothing of the great and inherent difficulty of all church work involved in runing counter to the natural tastes and tendencies of men. Every one who has any familiarity in church work knows that our parishes are really made over again every few years, old faces disappear and new ones take their place. This is what makes church work so difficult and discouraging. As fast as it is built up it is pulled down. To one who only goes to church of a Sunday and sees everything going on apparently well ordered, the full choir filing in and taking their places, and the services well and duly rendered, we suppose it must seem as if the carrying on of a church was a very easy and agreeable work. They don't realize what is required to make things always move on smoothly and successfully, the difficulty of securing good and satisfactory helpers, and of filling all the different departments of work with faithful and efficient workers, of securing money for all the various needs of a parish, of reconciling a vast variety of tastes and interests, and getting people of very different characteristics to work together harmoniously, and of keeping up the ever flagging interest in church matters. If those who complain when things do not always work to their satisfaction in a parish, could only try their hands at running such an establishment they would soon realize how difficult such an undertaking is.

But we must have our churches and they should be worked so as to do the greatest amount of good, and so we must all try to work on year by year and do the best we can. And we have great faith that if one tries to do one's duty to the best of his ability, and has in doing so a single eye to God's glory, he will succeed. But every one must do his share. No one must ever think he is not wanted in a parish, or that there is no work for him to do, or refuse to do any work or take any interest in it unless it can be done just to his liking. As in a family, each has his place and should contribute his quota, but all should be generous and accommodating to each other, else we never shall get on. Now it is the object of this paper to act as the medium of communication between the different members of this parochial family, and set before all our common interests and aims, and we believe it can be thus of great use in promoting the welfare of our church. So we trust each will subscribe to it, and regularly take and read it, and may all be more earnest and interested this year than ever before.

THE NEWS.

The business manager of this paper is glad to announce that through the kindness of a number of members of the parish, the entire deficit on the NEWS has been paid, and we, therefore, start upon the new year with entirely clean books. Now, that we are in this most satisfactory condition, we desire to keep so, and this can be easily accomplished if all will help. We want more subscriptions, more advertisements, and above all, a more general interest taken in the NEWS. We feel that we ought to have additional subscribers among our parishioners, and we are sure that advertisements can be had if you will only make the effort to get them. Several good friends of the NEWS have secured them in the past, others can do as well if they will try. We specially thank all who have helped us, and ask others to give us their co-operation, that this very important adjunct to our parish work may be successfully continued.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. – A gallon of Catawba wine, a glass and bronze ink-stand for the Rector's table, two and a half tons of coal were secured for the poor, and a number of donations made for Christmas dinners for members of the Mother's Meeting and for the Sunday School Festival. With the proceeds of the last Parish Tea there have been provided a large music closet for the choir room, and curtains to hang in front of the cassocks and cottas. The Rector received at Christmas a number of very gratifying remembrances from different members of the congregation.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.—The arrangement of our services on Christmas day certainly seems to have proved acceptable, as the attendance at the 6.30 A.M. was much larger than at the 8.30 A.M. Celebration we had last year, and the congregation at 11 o'clock also was much larger. At 6.30 A.M. there were some 50 communicants, at 7.30 A.M. 80, and at 11 A.M. there were about 200 persons present, of whom 93 received, and most of the others remained throughout the service. There were in all 50 communicants more than there was last Christmas. The arrangement of the 11 o'clock service evidently gave satisfaction. Certainly on festivals when the services are necessarily so prolonged, it is better to shorten them by having Morning Prayer said at an earlier hour.

The appearance of the church was much admired, though we should have liked to have seen more flowers about the altar, and had the contributions in the box marked for decorations been more liberal, they would have been provided. But we suppose our people are so intent upon paying off our indebtedness that they did not care to spend more money at present in ornamentation. The violin solo by Mr. Louis Gaertner, which was introduced during the Offertory, was very beautiful and made a most effective addition to the music. The report of the offerings of the day will be found in our financial statement.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL. An unusually bountiful festival for the Sunday-school children was, through the liberality of the teachers and some members of the congregation, provided on the Monday evening after Christmas. Each child was given a mock orange containing a surprise within it, a real orange, a box of candy, and a present besides. Our venerable Kris Kingle, who has favored us for several years, reappeared accompanied this time with a real live dog drawing a sled with the bag of presents on it. Some very good recitations and songs were given by several of the scholars, and the singing of the carols in the church was unusually good. There were about as many children with their parents in the school room as it could well hold.

PAROCHIAL VISITS.—The Rector is afraid that some members of the congregation will think that he has forgotten them. But they must remember that it takes him a long while to get round the whole congregation even once during the winter, living as so many of them do, at great distances from the church. He has paid since October 1st over 150 parochial visits, and in addition has gone to some 70 houses, some of them very far away, where he did not find the people at home or found they had removed. Sometimes he has gone two and three times without finding any one in. He mentions this to show how much of his work has to be done over and how much time it consumes. There are still a great many families whom he has not called on as yet this winter, but he hopes to get to them all gradually.

OUR KINDERGARTEN.—There are now some twenty children in our daily kindergarten, which is as many as the teacher thinks she can do justice to. If there was any one who was willing to act as her assistant, we might have then a school of double the size.

THE MISSIONARY BOX has not yet been sent off. We hope that now that Christmas is over the ladies will be able to give more time to it, and soon complete it. Work for it is given out every Wednesday after morning prayers.

MRS. KITTSON.—The congregation will be glad to hear that letters have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Kittson, and that the reports about the latter seem to be encouraging. Mr. Kittson is making himself useful in church work.

MR. WETHERILL.—Many have doubtless noticed the absence from church for some time of the well-known member of our vestry, Mr. Samuel Wetherill. We regret to say that the cause of his absence has been the necessity of his undergoing an operation for cataract of the eye. The operation was successfully performed, and he is now recovering, though for a time he suffered a great deal of pain.

ENTERTAINMENT.—S. Mary's Guild is contemplating giving a public entertainment on their regular recreation meeting night for the benefit of the Organ fund. Due notice of it will be given when the details are arranged.

YEAR BOOK.—Any who have not had copy of the last Year Book can get one from the sexton.

BRING your friends to church with you. We want to see every seat filled.

ADDRESSES WANTED.—The Rector would be glad if any persons could give him the present addresses of the following members of the parish who have removed since last spring without informing him: Mrs. MacCollum, from 1336 S. Broad St.; Mrs. Hulburt and son, from 2422 Lombard St.; Mrs. Norton and son, from 614 S. 11th St.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wadlow, from 2137 Bainbridge St.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beaty, from 340 Lombard St.; Miss Boyd, from 1318 Pine St.; Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell and Miss Annette Smith, from 1309 Catharine St.; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Muns, from 113 Freedland St.; Miss Parkhurst, from 1407 Locust St.; Miss Fanny Scott, from 511 S. Broad St.; Mrs. Hayward and sister, from 1637 S. 15th St.; Mr. Geo. H. Taylor, from 1017 Sergeant St. and Miss Martha Calder.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS.—The Rector has had a great deal of trouble in finding any one to take charge of the Men's Bible Class since Mr. Kittson went away. He has finally succeeded in securing the services of Mrs. Thomas H. Neilson who formerly belonged to our parish, but now goes to S. Stephen's. We trust this appointment will be a permanency, and that the members of the class will try and bring others to fill the class up. Why is it that men are not as ready to avail themselves of opportunities to study the Bible as women are? The class meets in the first Bible class room in the parish building, every Sunday at 3 P.M.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received during December: Mrs. Thomas B. Allen, Mrs. C. Grimball, Miss A. S. Sherrett, Miss A. M. Fosque, Mrs. H. C. Pollock, Miss Jennie Davis, Miss Davis, Miss Wurts, Mr. John B. Haslett, Mrs. Henry Lehman, Miss L. F. Carter, Miss F. C. Cooper, Miss E. Colley. A large number of subscriptions are now due. Will all who are notified in this issue of the expiration of subscriptions, please renew promptly.

CIRCULAR.

The following is the circular of the Club we called attention to last month. We hope all the young men in the parish will join it.

THE UNITED CLUB AND INSTITUTE.

Seventeenth and Kater Streets, below South Street.

This Institution, having been in active life under the name of St. Mark's Workingmen's Club and Institute for more than twenty years, having in that time become nearly self-supporting, and being in possession of a good building and equipment, has recently been reorganized on a basis which will secure an enlargement of the scope of its work and very great extension of its influence and usefulness. All the parishes of the Protestant Episcopal Church south of Market Street and east of the Schuylkill River have been invited, and nine of them have thus far consented, to unite in the work under the new name and a common management. The parishes thus co-operating are Holy Trinity, St. James, Epiphany, St. Mark's, Holy Apostles, St. Luke's, Ascension, All Saints, and Christ Church Chapel.

The object of this circular is to make known this new and important movement, and to call attention to the advantages here to be found for supplying facilities for rest, amusement and instruction, under the most agreeable conditions and at the least possible expense. It is addressed to those who are already members, in the hope that it will cause them to make known these advantages to their friends, and thereby largely increase the membership; and it is addressed also to those who are not members, to convey to them a cordial invitation to come and see the Club and Institute for themselves, and join in the good and healthful work it is doing. The location is very central and convenient; the rooms are large and cheerful; the Reading Room has upon its tables all the best current literature of the day, so arranged that a large number of persons can conveniently read; the Circulating Library, which is the only good one in the Southern part of the city, contains over 3000 standard books in all departments of literature, and is being constantly replenished by the best of new books, the Recreation Room contains six first-rate billiard and pool tables, and ample facilities for other games; the Lectures and Entertainments in the large Hall (seating four hundred persons), supply instruction, amusement and recreation to the members and their families; the Coal Club enables members to obtain coal at a very low price, the saving on which alone is more than enough to pay the member's dues to the Club; the Beneficial Society makes provision for family expenses in case of sickness causing incapacity for work, and the Building Association, one of the best managed and strongest in the city, affords an opportunity to save money and buy a comfortable home instead of paying rent. These are some of the advantages of the United Club and Institute, and many others will follow from an enlarged membership. An active and efficient board of managers is now in charge of the affairs of the Club and Institute and they are determined to do everything in their power to extend its usefulness. A generous and hearty response to this circular will greatly encourage them in this effort, and will enable them soon to add new and attractive features.

Any one over eighteen years of age may become a member. There is no religious qualification for admission; all religious denominations are represented in the membership. The dues are twenty-five cents a month; subscribing members, three dollars per annum, life membership, twenty-five dollars.

HOSPITAL IN IDAHO.

The Rector has received the following appeal. Perhaps some one may like to respond to it.

THE FRANCES HOLLAND HOSPITAL.

WALLACE, IDAHO, December 6, 1890.

DEAR BRO. HODGE:—I write you this letter in the hope that you will read it to your good people and Sunday School, and I feel sure that some will be found willing to help.

While in Minnesota I built six churches, one rectory and the Wilder Farm College. The said college has now 190 students and 12 officers and teachers, and the trustees are enlarging to accommodate 85 more students.

I came here October 31, 1890, as general missionary of Idaho, under Bishop Talbot. Since that time I have built Holy Trinity Church, the rectory and hospital. I have failed to raise means up to this time to furnish the hospital, and this is the reason of this letter to you.

With "home-made" beds and benches we have cared for as many as 21 in one day. We need 214 single beds, furnished, also 50 chairs, and $100 worth of medicine.

Wallace has 60 saloons, one school, one teacher, one church, one preacher. Ours is the only church in all this region (of any kind). Wallace has nearly 2000 people, and within 15 miles there are from 2000 to 3000 miners and railroad men.

I earnestly hope you will be able to furnish a room—cost $25.

Your friend and brother,
D. GRIFFIN GUNN, Supt.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.

A children's missionary meeting will be held in the parish building of the Church of the Holy Trinity, 19th and Walnut Sts., on Saturday afternoon, January 17, at half-past two o'clock. Miss Carter will make an address. All children are cordially invited to come. Miss Carter will make an address to women at the same place, on Monday, January 19, at twelve o'clock. A large attendance is hoped for.

STEADFASTNESS.

Courage, brother! do not stumble,
Though thy path be dark as night;
There's a star to guide the humble;
Trust in God, and do the right!

Let the road be long and dreary,
And its ending—out of sight,
Foot it bravely, never weary;
Trust God, and do the right!

Perish policy and cunning;
Perish all that fears the light:
Whether losing, whether winning,
Trust in God, and do the right!

Some will hate thee, some will love thee,
Some will flatter, some will slight;
Cease from man and look above thee;
Trust in God, and do the right!

Simple rule and safest guiding,
Inward peace and inward light:
Star upon our path abiding—
Trust in God, and do the right!

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published under the direction of the Rector.

As it is desired this paper should be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, to be paid in advance, to Mr. William H. Cope, 112 South Fourth Street.

Advertising rates, 50 cents per inch for each insertion. Special rates to yearly advertisers.

Subscribers will please keep the business manager informed of any change of address.

THE EARLY COMMUNION.

We have in this parish two celebrations of the Holy Communion every Sunday and Holy Day. Why is this? First, because we believe that by the teaching of Scriptures, and of the Prayer Book and from the use of the vast majority of Christians of all time, the Holy Communion is the chief, most distinguishing and most important act of Christian worship and the most valuable means of grace, and therefore ought to be celebrated in all Christian churches at least upon each Sunday and Holy Day, the obligatory times of worship. And we have two celebrations on all of those days in order that every member of the parish may have the opportunity of attending that service, for some might be able to come at one hour and not at another.

There are some whose avocations or duties at home might never allow them to come in the middle of the day if that was the only celebration. And in a household it is often impossible for every member to be absent at the same hour, so, if there is only one celebration in a church of a Sunday, many might not be able to attend except at rare intervals. Those too, who are not strong or well find it impossible to remain through the long musical service in the middle of the day. For these reasons it is well, if not necessary, to have another celebration early in the morning, when almost any one can make it convenient to get off, and when, the Communion being by itself and without any music, the service is much shorter and less fatiguing.

In addition to this, it has been a custom almost of the universal Church to receive the Holy Communion fasting. It is certainly more consonant with one's ideas of propriety, that that sacred food should be the first received in the day. And fasting will tend to our abstraction and devotion, rather than coming to so high and solemn an act after we have feasted and sated ourselves with feeding on the good things of this world. And eating tends to make one slothful and sleepy, not the frame in which we should be when we engage in highest worship. At the same time to fast until the middle of the day is too great a strain upon most people. There should be, therefore, an early celebration for those who desire to receive fasting. Moreover, the quiet, fresh morning hour, before the world is yet astir, and before we have had anything to distract or disturb us, and the quiet, simply said service, where only the devout are gathered and there is nothing to distract our attention, are better fitted for the solemn act of Communion, than to leave it until the day is half past, and many other thoughts and interests have intruded themselves upon our attention, and we are more or less fatigued by a long service. Again the effort and self sacrifice required to rise and go out early will be a far better preparation for Communion than the sloth and self-indulgence begotten of late rising and leisurely attendance at a mid-day service.

On all these accounts, therefore, we think that there should be not only two celebrations of the Holy Communion in a day each Sunday, but that one of them should be an early service. So ever since we have been able to have two ministers in this parish, we have had these two celebrations. But while we are glad to see the attendance at the early service has been gradually increasing, its advantages are not yet appreciated as they ought to be.

We hope that all our people will think over what we have said about the early service, and that we shall see more and more coming to it. Those who have made a practice of always going to the early Communion will all testify that they much prefer it to any other service, and they would consider themselves deprived of a great privilege if they were denied it. Will not others try and see if their experience is not the same?

CHANGE IN ASSISTANTSHIP.

The Rev. Mr. Gamble, having accepted a position in New York, has resigned the assistantship in this parish. The Rector had appointed the Rev. Joseph C. Cator in his place. He spent the last Sunday in January with us, preaching at the evening service, and he was to have entered permanently on his duties the first of this month. But unfortunately a few days before he received a cablegram saying that his father, who is the Vicar of an English parish, was dangerously ill, and he was obliged to sail at once for England. The Rector hopes, however, soon to find some one in his place.

GIFT OF TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

It gives us great pleasure to announce that the Church has received a gift of two thousand dollars towards the extinguishment of its indebtedness. This, together with some other subscriptions which had been promised, and the proceeds of the entertainment of S. Mary's Guild, enables us to complete the payment for the organ and the improvements on the outside of the Church, etc., leaving us no debt but the original mortgage on which we took the property, and towards the extinguishment of which we can now devote all our energies. We hope soon to be able to report that that too has been substantially reduced. And we must not rest until it is wiped out, and the amount of money we are now paying out in interest is set free to meet the current expenses of the Church.

We are devoutly thankful for the handsome donation which has so unexpectedly come to us, and we trust that other friends will be raised up to help us roll away the remaining burden of debt, and add what we still need for the completion of our Church.

PARISH NOTES.

A Bell.—Shortly before Christmas a gentleman very kindly offered to present the Church with a bell, and steps were immediately taken to place it in the fleche which crowns our chancel. But when the measurements were taken, it was found that there was not sufficient space in it even to hang a tubular bell which would occupy less room than any other. This was a great dissapointment, as a bell would be of great use in arresting the attention of passers, and proclaiming throughout the neighborhood our frequent services. But we fear we must forego this advantage until we can erect our tower.

Diocesan Missions.—The extra envelope this quarter will be for Diocesan Missions. And for this object the parish has been assessed $100. This must be raised through these envelopes. So we trust each one will give as large an amount as he can, remembering that the object is to carry on missions in our own Diocese, and that we have whole classes of people and sections of the Diocese which are too poor and too indifferent to religion to support churches for themselves, though terribly in need of the saving and elevating influences which only the Church can exert. The envelopes may be returned at any time during the quarter.

Change of Mothers' Meeting.—The Mothers' Meeting has been changed from Friday evening to Wednesday after the evening service. The hour of the evening service has been made half past seven, so as to allow time for the women to sew after they have attended service in the church.

Wants of Mothers' Meeting.—The ladies in charge of the Mothers' Meeting would be very glad if some one would present a piece of muslin for sheeting and pillow cases, as the women frequently ask for it, but our funds do not permit our supplying it. They would be glad also if persons wanting work done, such as washing, cleaning or sewing, would apply to them, as they could recommend women anxious to get employment. They can be found at the church every Tuesday after ten o'clock prayers, or Wednesday evening after service.

Teachers Wanted.—More teachers are wanted both in the Sunday and Industrial Schools, the classes, especially in the latter, being too large for one person to attend to. Who will volunteer at once?

Gifts to the Church.—Twenty-eight book racks for pews, 2 white and gold plates and 2 cups and saucers for Guild closet, 200 oranges for Sunday School Festival, and a number of dolls, use of costume for Santa Claus, 2 net lace ends for fair linen cloth for altar, 2 linen chalice palls, and 2 linen maniples embroidered for missionary.

Confirmation.—The Bishop will administer Confirmation in the church on the evening of April 15th. Instructions preparatory to Confirmation will be given every Monday at 4 P. M., and every Friday at 8 P. M. during Lent in the Guild room. All persons in the parish who have not been confirmed are invited to attend.

Lenten Lectures.—As the season of Lent is a time for the special study of character of our Divine Lord and of our relations and duty towards Him, the Rector has selected as the subjects for his course of Friday afternoon lectures this year the following: February 13th, Belief in Christ; February 20th, Obedience to Christ; February 27th, Worship of Christ; March 6th, Work for Christ; March 13, Love for Christ; March 20th, Imitation of Christ.

Flowers.—Persons who subscribed to the Altar Committee through Mrs. Kittson a regular sum weekly or monthly for providing flowers for the Altar, the care of the vestments, etc., are requested to make their payments to Mrs. Hewson, who is acting as Treasurer.

The Missionary Box was completed and sent off early this month. It was valued at $200 and was one of the largest and best we have ever sent, some very handsome donations having been made towards it. It was sent to a clergyman in the Diocese of Alabama.

Lenten Sewing.—The members of the Ladies' Aid Society will be engaged during Lent in making new cassocks for the choir, which are very much needed. Are there not some ladies in the congregation who would like to assist in this work? The Aid meets in the parish building every Thursday at 3 P. M. and any who are willing to help the church in this way are invited to come any Thursday at that time.

Subscriptions.—The following subscriptions have been received during January:

Mr. Thomas Robb,	Mr. F. S. Keese,
Miss E. H. King,	Cash,
Mrs. C. Tingley,	Mr. R. Armstrong,
Mr. C. L. S. Tingley,	Mrs. Jno. Alexander,

Mrs. James Sayres,	Miss Snyder.

With the January issue of the News 49 subscribers were notified of the expiration of their subscription. Only 24 of these have renewed the same. The others will be again notified with the current issue. May we ask from them a prompt response?

New Subscriptions and Advertisements.—Since the issue of the January News, appeals have been sent to quite a number of the parishoners to become subscribers to the News. Some have responded and their names have been added to the subscription list, for which we desire to thank them at this time. Many of those appealed to have not replied, and we urge upon them the necessity for an early and favorable answer. The amount, 50 cts per year, is not large, and we really must have more subscribers. Subscriptions, giving name and address, may be placed in an envelope and dropped in one of the alms chests in the vestibule of the Church at any time, and they will get to the business manager.

We also want new advertisements. Some of the larger ones we have had are about to expire. Cannot others be obtained to take their place? Will you try to get one before February 20th?

Guild Entertainment—The public entertainment for the benefit of our organ fund given by S. Mary's Guild in Kater St. Hall on the evening of January 29th was a great success. The hall was filled, many of the people being from outside of the parish. The programme consisted first of a Japanese Wedding, in which the following members of the Guild took part: Misses Miles, Alice Spear, Edith Spear, Jeannette Haslett, Sarah Wilson, Katie Hiller, Sadie Millikin, Bella Anderson, Louise Carter, Alice Pearson, Annie Liscure, Katie Storey, Martha Moitz. This was followed by "An Artist's Dream." The artist was Mr. E. L. Buckley, Jr., and the ladies who took part were Misses Watmough, Grubb, Butler, Bowie, Low, Jackson, Clay, Collins, and Mrs. Harmer.

The Entertainment concluded with a Comedy called "Forfeits," in which Misses Gilpin, Barker, and Larzalere, and Messrs F. Johns and W. Gilpin appeared.

Quiet Day and Conference for Church Women.

A quiet day for women will be held in St. Mary's Church, Locust Street above 39th, West Philadelphia, on the Second Thursday in Lent (19th February, 1891). Services from 9.30 A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 2.30 P. M. to 4.30 P. M. To be conducted by the Rev. Jas. O. S. Huntingdon, of N. Y.

A conference of church women of the Diocese of Pennsylvania will be held in the lecture room of the church of the Holy Trinity, Walnut Street above 19th, on the second Friday in Lent (20th February, 1891). Morning session from 10 A. M. to 12.30 P. M. Topics: Deaconesses Papers by Mrs. A. T. Twing of New York, and Mrs. Jennisson of Detroit; Sisterhoods, by one of the Order of All Saints and others. Afternoon session from 2.30 P. M. Topic, The Training of the Young in the Church. Papers by Miss Mary E. Beach of Hartford, Conn., and Miss Chapin of Pomfret, Conn.

On Thursday a simple luncheon may be had of a caterer on 40th Street near the church.

Report of S. Andrew's Brotherhood for 1890.

The following report should have appeared in our last issue. It will be read with interest as showing what some of the men of the church are trying to do to build up our parish. If others would join it and keep the object always in mind we are sure a great deal could be done.

Philada., St. Andrew's Day, 1890.

To the officers and brethren of Ascension Chapter No. 124. Your Secretary begs leave to submit the following report. The average attendance at the chapter meetings for the year just closed was eleven, the smallest seven, the largest eighteen, the membership on St. Andrew's Day, 1889 was sixteen; fourteen new members have been admitted, one member has resigned and one has been dropped, present number twenty-eight, net increase of twelve. The work has been carried on without any intermission during the summer, the regular meeting being held during the summer months for the first time since the organization of the chapter. The work has been the distribution of cards of invitation to the services of the church and of the evening service leaflet, ushering and welcoming strangers, visiting of men at the direction of the Rector, and mission work under the City Mission, one of the members being regularly engaged at the City Hospital as a lay reader, and another assisting there in the choir.

C. L. S. TINGLEY, Secretary.

A COMPARISON.

The year books of St. George's Church, and Grace Church, New York City, show total expenditures for the year of the former $97,000, and $107,112.23 for the latter. These are large figures, and show what some of the parishes in our sister city are doing. And it is a very good showing for the working of the free church system about which so many persons are incredulous, that the free S. George's Church, which has so recently been raised from an almost dead condition can so nearly equal in its receipts a church so much more fashionable and attractive as the pewed Grace Church. The number of communicants at S. George's is 2,400. And each church is served by a Rector and six assistants.

THE SLAUGHTER-HOUSE.

Say, Paddy!
D'you mind the ould grog-shop that stood on the corner, down the Ninth avenue,
Kep' by Tim Hoggarty, back in the time whin the business—bad cess to it!—
Didn't make headway up in our parish, thanks to the Fathers
Fightin' an' praichin' an' prayin' an' workin' an' writin' agin it?
Tim's was the place to get dhrunk like a baste for a dime, if you had one;
"Hell's ouldest whisky"—that was the name of it, so mortial hot an' strong;
Dhrinkin' it giv' min the horrors so turrible hard they soon died of it.
Sure 'twas no wondher the widows that suffered—poor crathurs!—should christen it—
"Hoggarty's slaughter-house,"

Say, Paddy!
D'you mind poor Barney McSwiligan—fine, dacint man he was whin he was sober—
Wint there one night—more than twinty years past now; but who can forget it?—
Lavin' his wife an' the childer cowld at home, cryin' with hunger, Spindin' his last cint at Hoggarty's dhrinkin' his skin full;
Thin fallin' dead on the door-step with niver a priest to prepare him;
An' Hoggarty sindin' his dead corpse home to the wife on a hand cart;
Sure, wasn't that a rale slaughter-house?

Say, Paddy!
D'you mind Mickey Bralligan's wife—Biddy Doolan that was till she married—
Ravin' an' tearin' an' howlin' like mad forninst Hoggarty's she'd been;
Scraimin': "Come out, come out from the slaughter-house, Mickey, I tell you!
Don't dhrink the stuff that'll knock the life out o' yer innocent body,
An' sind yer dear sowl unprepared down to hell in a jiffy foriver.
Mickey, come out, come out from the slaughter-house!"

Say, Paddy!
D'you mind the great sarmon we heard in the church the very next Sunday,
Praiched by one of the Fathers right from the althar, after the Gospel,
Givin' agin the grog-sellers one of their regular "sand-blasts"?
Och! how me blood run cowld to the very tips of me fingers,
Lavin' me pale as a ghost all shiverin' an' thrimblin' and spacheless;
Whin, of a suddint, out come his riverence thund'rin' and shoutin'
The very same words we heard Mrs. Bralligan scraim at Tim Hoggarty's:
"Come out, come out from the slaughter-house!"

Say, Paddy!
D'you mind how you an' Mickey an' me wint up that same evenin',
Thin an' there tuk the pledge for the rest of our lives and foriver?
Blessed be God! from that day to this not one of us broke it.
An' what's more, we won't aither; eh, Paddy? Dhrink is a poor man's destruction.
Aye! an' the rich man's too, as ye'll read ivery day in the papers.
Raison's agin it, an' so is the Faith, an' our wives an' our childher.
Many's the long happy day, praises be to the Lord! that we've had since we stopped it;
With many more yet, by His blessin', to come if we're thrue and desarve it Sure the whole parish, youngest an' ouldest, all knows an' respects us!
'Twon't be your wife, nor Mickey's, nor mine, that'll wondher what's kep' us,
An' cryin' along with the childher, breakin' their hearts—the poor crathurs!
Thin, gittin' desp'rate, flying down the sthreet bareheaded an' ragged,
Poundin' the door of some divilish grog-shop, like to ould Hoggarty's,
Shoutin' an' Scraimin'—disgracin' our name, an' our faith, an' our nation—
"Come out, come out from the slaughter-house!"—The Catholic World for October.

SELF-DENIAL.

Lent is a time for self-denial. But why should we deny ourselves? For several reasons, chiefly in order that we may learn to govern ourselves, and gain the strength to do it. We have two distinct natures, a higher and a lower one, a spiritual and an earthly nature; and the higher should govern the lower, the spirit the body. But if we never deny ourselves, if we gratify our bodily tastes and appetites just as far as we have the opportunity of doing so, then they will govern our spirits, and we will become slaves of passion and self-indulgence. The spirit should govern in all things. It should have the body and all its passions and appetites so under control that we should never be led into doing or saying any thing we ought not, any thing that is contrary to God's laws or our own highest good. But this power cannot be gained at once, it can only come from discipline and exercise. Hence the value and necessity of the old fashioned receipt of fasting and abstinence from even allowable things at certain times for the purpose of cultivating this power of self-control and self-government in all things. If the men and women of the Church would only follow and comply, as they should, with these requirements of the Church, we would not see the luxury and self-indulgence, and slavery to vice and intemperance and passion and the indifference to the wants of others that is so common.

For another great purpose of self-denial is that we may be able to minister to and relieve the needs of others less fortunate than ourselves. The world is full of sin and suffering. There are always hundreds of objects appealing to our sympathies and asking for our aid. And few of us have such an abundance that we can give to these objects unless we deny ourselves in order that we may do so. But is there any more beautiful, noble, or Godlike action that we can perform than to deliberately to do without something we would like to have in order to give to some person or object that needs our help. In this way it is in the power of every one to be charitable, and thus we can at the same time benefit our fellow-men and elevate and ennoble ourselves.

In every life then, there should be self-sacrifice. No life is a truly Christian one that is not capable of it. And Lent is a time when we should look into ourselves and see how far we are capable of it, and for the purpose of exercising ourselves in it. Let each Christian see that he is denying himself in some way this Lent, and if he can do it in such a way that he can benefit his fellow men thereby, all the better. There are plenty of ways open by which we can do good, the trouble is to find the means to do one millionth part of the good that could and should be done. Christian, what good are you doing in the world? Are you living merely a life of ease and self-indulgence, or are you gaining that grandest and most needed power a man can have of self-control, and are you trying to make the world better in some way for your being in it? If you practice some self-denial during Lent it will help you to do it always.

And that it may have a permanent beneficial effect upon your life, make your self-denial systematic. We are governed far too much by impulse and emotion both in our self-discipline and in our charities.

Practice self-denial always. Make every Friday, as the Church directs, a lesser Lent. If you do once a week, what you do during Lent, you will find it will strengthen you greatly, and help you to be systematic in what you give. Let it be in proportion to your income, and in order to do the good you know you might do, not in accordance with the appeals that are made to you. This is the great advantage of the envelope system we use in this Parish, and we trust every one will comply with it, as it forces one to be systematic in giving. And we should give as regularly to the various benevolent agencies of the Church as well as to the support of the Church itself. And if we are willing to deny ourselves for this purpose, we will be able to do so. Do it during Lent, and you can do it always.

EASTER

As Easter occurs this month, we should be already turning our eyes towards it. We will have the same solemn services preceding it as we have had with so much profit for several years in this parish, viz., the preaching of the Passion every night during the Holy Week and the Three Hours' service on Good Friday in addition to the ordinary services. On the afternoon of Easter Even there will be the usual adult baptism. On Easter day the services will be arranged as on Christmas, viz: early celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30 and 7.30 A. M. Morning Prayer said at 10.30 A.M. and at 11 A.M. the Procession, followed by the Te Deum as the Introit and the Choral Celebration, the Children's Easter Service in the afternoon, and the usual service at night. The Children's Service will be held at 3.30 P. M. in place of the usual service at 2.30 P. M. and it will take the place of the four o'clock service.

We trust all the members of the Parish will remember the obligation of making their Communion at Easter, either on the day itself, or at one of the Celebrations during the week preceding or following it, and we trust they will make a due preparation for it. We hope also they will remember to pay their "Easter Dues," that is, to make a special offering to the church in addition to the amount they contribute Sunday by Sunday through the envelopes, as it is only by the special large offerings at Christmas and Easter that we are enabled to meet our expenses for the year. Let each one give as God has blessed him.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Since our last issue there has been placed over the Bishop's seat in the chancel, a mitre, beautifully carved in stone. It fills up a vacant space and adds much to the appearance of the sanctuary. It was given by one of our parishioners in memory of a deceased child. We have also received a closet, especially made by a parishioner, to hold our banners. It was much needed as we had no proper place to hold them and they were getting injured. A lady gave the Rector five dollars to use for any "special" purpose he saw fit. Out of it he was enabled to replace one of the glass altar cruets which had been broken. Another parishioner has had printed 1000 cards of notice of our services, to be distributed in the neighborhood. In response to our appeal for muslin for sheeting, etc., for the Mothers' Meeting, two pieces have been received, which will prove most acceptable. A violet silk stole was made and embroidered by a member of the embroidery class for our former Assistant, the Rev. Mr. Thorn, who has lately removed to the Diocese of New Jersey.

S. MARY'S GUILD meets every Tuesday during Lent at 8 P. M., to sew for a charitable purpose. It will have no entertainment this month.

OUR ASSISTANT.—We are sure the congregation will welcome back with much pleasure our Assistant, Mr. Kittson, and will rejoice that his wife's health permits him to be with us for a while at least. Owing to our disappointment in regard to Mr. Cator, the Rector was left without any assistance during February except what occasional help he could get on Sundays. This has thrown back the work of the parish in many ways.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop has changed the date he appointed for Confirmation in this parish, from April 15th to April 8th; and in order to lessen the work of the Rector, confirmation instructions will be given only on Friday evenings, instead of Mondays and Fridays as announced. We are glad to say quite a large class is attending the instructions.

THE MISSIONARY BOX sent last month reached its destination safely, and seems to have given much satisfaction. The wife of the missionary writes: "We all send sincerest thanks to the members of your society for their kindness in our behalf. You would have felt in a small measure repaid, could you have seen the pleasure given to young and old. There are very many things that will prove most useful in a large family, to say nothing of the nice outfit. suits, shirts, socks, etc. . . . I hope you will understand how much we appreciate your kindness and how grateful we are to you for the time and thought you have given to our comfort."

In addition to the above the ladies have sent by mail two packages of very warm underclothing to the Bishop of North Dakota for use in his jurisdiction.

CASSOCKS.—As we announced last month, the Ladies' Aid Society are engaged in making some new cassocks for the choir. They would be glad if more ladies in the congregation would meet with them on Thursday afternoons and assist them in this work. They want, also, contributions for the purchase of material for this purpose, as the funds they have on hand are not sufficient.

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.—We are requested to announce that on Sundays, March 8th and 15th, sermons for men only will be preached by the Rev. Father Huntington, O. H. C., in the Church of the Holy Comforter, 19th and Wharton Streets, during a mission he is to hold in that church. Also, on Thursday, March 12th, a special Brotherhood service will be held in Grace Church, corner 12th and Cherry Sts., when a sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Van de Water, of New York. On account of this service our regular chapter meeting will be postponed to March 19th.

THE EXTRA ENVELOPES.—Very few of the envelopes for Diocesan Missions have been returned as yet, and we have to give a hundred dollars to this purpose. The parish has also been assessed $26.86 for the Sustentation Fund of the Diocese. How is this to be paid? No matter how much missionary work we are doing ourselves as a free church, we must remember the claims of others, and do our duty towards the Diocese as well as to ourselves. We trust the amount received this quarter through the envelopes for Diocesan Missions will be sufficient to cover both of these sums, viz., $126.86.

PEW RENTS.—The payment of $1, required by our charter to qualify persons to vote for Vestrymen, is due this month.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—In response to the appeal in the February issue for new advertisements, we have received several for which we desire to express our thanks. We especially wish to refer to three large size ones obtained by one member of the parish. This shows what can be done if the effort is made. Will some others follow this lead? Will you make the effort?

FREE LECTURES.

On Tuesday evening, March 10th, there will be given in the Hall of the United Club and Institute, at 17th and Kater Sts., the first of a course of popular lectures. The lecture will be on Germany, by C. John Hexamer, Ph.D. and will be handsomely illustrated. On March 31st Mr. Andrew M. Spangler will lecture on the Yellowstone Park, (illustrated) and on April 14th, Mr. George B. Wood will give a lantern exhibition of "Artistic Photography." The course will include two other entertainments, the dates and subjects will be announced later.

Admission to this course will be free by card, which can be had at the Club, any evening from 7.30 till 10.

ENTERTAINMENT BY ST. MARY'S GUILD.

On Wednesday evening. February 4, St. Mary's Guild gave an entertainment at Christ Church Hospital, 48th and Belmont Avenue.

The larger part of the company left Broad Street at 6.25, for Bala, where they found a "bus" in waiting, kindly sent by the ladies of the Hospital.

Upon arriving, they were set down to a very good and bountiful supper.

Later on, the entertainment was given in the large dining room. First came "Mrs. Jarley's Wax-Works", which seemed to amuse the audience; the Wax-Works themselves being almost fatally amused by the graceful "Mrs. Jarley," her irrepressible porters, "Pat" and "Tim" and the frequent falls of the "Fat Boy."

After the exhibition, there was some music, and a recitation, which were also well received, but as it was then late, the remaining part of the programme had to be omitted. It is to be hoped that the ladies at the Hospital had as much pleasure from the entertainment as those who took part.

St. Mary's Guild owes an expression of thanks to those who assisted in this, especially to the gentleman who kindly acted as "Mrs. Jarley."

This is the second time some members of the Guild have given an entertainment at the Hospital.

THE TEARS OF JESUS.

BY THE REV. H. G. BATTERSON, D.D.

"And when He was come near, He beheld the city, and wept over it."—St. Luke xix, 41.

The tears of Jesus! What the secret woe
Which caused the Son of GOD to weep, as erst
His eyes looked on the radiant beauty of
The City of His love, all glorious with Its glittering pinnacles of light?
JERUSALEM! The vision bright of Peace;
The hill of Zion, from whence comes all good
To man! "Salvation cometh of the Jews."

Like a fair bride in festal splendor robed,
Her streets are decked with garlands for the feast;
The waving Palms—the sign of victory;
The loud acclaim, "Hosanna!" yet again
"Hosanna!" and the surging crowd pours forth
With shout triumphal, while "Hosanna!" still Rings through the air in welcome to a King!
No sound of brazen trumpet racks the ear;
No pomp, no grandeur of an earthly pride;

But meek and lowly—eyes bedewed with tears,
The rightful Monarch comes to claim His own!
The dark, deep green of Kedron's sunny vale;
The plains of Jerico, in broad expanse
Beyond the Mount of Olives lay; and far,
Far in the distance, stood the purple hills
Of Moab, whence the blessing came from one
Who would have cursed, but GOD withheld the voice,
And thrice into a blessing turned his words.

The city, basking in the glory of
That Eastern sky, uplifted proud and high
Its stately palaces and gleaming walls,
As if in welcome to the gath'ring tribes
Fast coming up to keep within its gates
The Passover of GOD.

* * * * * * *

And Jesus wept! 'Tis said He never smiled
In all the years He wandered here, to bind
The hearts so broken, cleanse the sou s so foul,
And heal the sick, sad-hearted, weary ones
Who gladly sought His healing touch of love.
Rebellious children of the Most High GOD
Flaunted their foul corruption in the face
Of heaven, and made GOD's dwelling place a den
Of robbers!

It was this that made him weep
Those tears of love and pity, as He went
To plead yet once again, with those He came
To save, ere time should come (now drawing near),
Which brought its scourge of desolation.

Once
Again He cried, "Jerusalem! O thou
"Who stoned and killed the Prophets in thy rage,
"I would have gathered thee as doth the hen
"Her tender brood, and made thee all My Own.
"Ye would not hear My Voice, and now behold
"The curse of desolation on thee rests!
"All, all this goodly pile shall be thrown down,
"Nor stone shall be upon another left!
"The flower of thine offspring shall go forth
"With bye-word, and with hissing, and with curse!"

He wept because he saw that ruin lay
In wait, until the time should come wherein
All prophecy should be fulfilled, and tears
Would take the place of laughing pride and joy
With which the city rang in careless glee.
And not for these alone. He saw beyond,
Far down the track of time, how gathering sin
Of generations then unborn, would swell
The mighty torrent of the world's full crime,
And wash the earth with blood!

He wept!
He wept for sins which then were all unknown;
The woeful sins whose rushing flood poured in Upon his heart, until it burst for grief
On that dread Cross, whereon His outstretched Arms
Would fain have blessed the world, as from a Throne!
He wept for us! And shall our eyes be dry
While yet the faithful voice within us, calls
To our remembrance all the slighted love
Of that great Heart, Who poured in streams of blood
A ransom for our souls?

O Earth! Earth! Earth!
Why go ye whirling on in mad carouse!
The Mighty Hand, the bleeding Form upon
The dripping Cross—High Watch-Tower of the World!—
But waits that from this murky vale of death
One sign of penitential grief may come
To ask the life which He alone can give.
O Earth! turn from the revel dark and wild,
While yet the day of grace is found!

Thy tears
Shall win from Him who shed His tears for thee,
A Benediction of ETERNAL PEACE!

SUPPORT OF THE CLERGY.

We want to say a very serious word to the congregation in regard to the support of the clergy. We doubt if it is generally known in the congregation what salaries our clergy have been receiving. Until last October the Rector was receiving only $1000 a year, and the Assistant $600, and the latter was paid entirely by the personal contributions of two members of the Vestry. Since October the salary of the Rector has been raised to $1500. But no permanent provision has yet been made for the salary of the Assistant or for its increase. And yet it is perfectly evident that if the Church is to be carried on as it has been, with its multiplicity of services and organizations designed to reach all classes of people, an Assistant Minister is absolutely necessary. No one man could long stand the physical and mental strain of such an amount of work alone. It seems to us, therefore, that the congregation ought to understand, first what salaries our clergy have been receiving and ask whether they are adequate or not. For though the two gentlemen who have been serving the church for some years as Rector and Assistant may have been willing to do so, for personal reasons, for the amount paid, yet is it right that they should receive no more, if the congregation is able to give more? The laborer is worthy of his hire, and the Lord hath ordained that they who preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel; if therefore, the congregation can give their clergy sufficient salaries and do not do so, they are keeping back from them what is their due. Moreover, the congregation should consider whether, if for any reason one or other of our clergy should leave the parish, it would be possible to fill his place with such a person as would be acceptable for the same sum as is now given. There is a great demand for clergymen, and if men of culture and ability can obtain a fair support in one parish, why should they not go there rather than to another which will not support them? When our Assistant went away this winter, the Rector tried in vain to get some one who would be acceptable in his place, though he offered $800 salary.

If therefore the work of our parish is to be permanently carried on, on the lines on which it has been carried, and to increase, is it not essential that some other provision should be made for the support of the clergy? Should not the vestry itself assume the payment of the salary of an Assistant, and should it not be fixed at a larger figure than heretofore? But to enable the vestry to do this the congregation must increase their offerings. Every one attending the church should make a regular pledge towards the support of the church through the envelopes. And those who have already done so, should ask themselves whether they might not increase their contributions. Is each one doing all they really can and should do? Might not those now giving ten, twenty-five, or fifty cents a week, increase the amount to a higher denomination? Does one member of the family now merely make a pledge for what perhaps would be the equivalent of a single sitting in a pewed church, or does each member of the family make, as they should, a separate pledge? Is any one coming to the church simply to take advantage of its being free to escape the making of any payment? If so, it is not honest. They are robbing God, and his servants. They are doing precisely what they would be doing, if they employed a physician and did not remunerate him for his services. It is a question of right and wrong, and one on which the prosperity and work of the parish depends.

If our people would consider these things we are sure that there are many coming to the church who now contribute little or nothing to its support who would give liberally and systematically, and others who are giving now, who would increase their gifts. As the church is situated, and as it is conducted, it has the opportunity of doing a great work, but it must have resources to enable it to do so. Will not those who are interested in it and who are benefiting by its services, see that it is fully and thoroughly equipped? And let us say in this connection, that the surest and best way of permanently increasing the current receipts of the church is to pay off its debt. Every $500 that is contributed for this purpose can be paid on account of that much of the debt at any time, and thus release $25 a year which now goes out in interest, and which could then go towards meeting our current expenses. As, therefore, we pay our debt we can increase the salaries of the clergy.

FATHER IGNATIUS.

We suppose most of our readers have heard of Father Ignatius, the celebrated English Monk who has been preaching lately in New York and Boston, but as some may not know about him and as he expects to preach in this city during the first week of this month, we will describe just who and what he is. He is a clergyman of the Church of England, who, about thirty years ago, conceived the idea of reviving the ancient order of Benedictine monks. Saint Benedict, who lived towards the close of the sixth century, was really the author and organizer of western monasticism. A man of extraordinary character and austerity, he imposed upon all the monasteries he founded, a most severe rule of life; and this discipline was gradually adopted by other orders, so that his rule became the prevailing form of nearly all monasteries throughout the west of Europe, and remained so until the general breaking up of monastic institutions. This order Father Ignatius has attempted to revive. He has begun the building of a monastery at Llan-thony in Wales, where he and his associates observe the ancient discipline in all its severity. It consists largely of enforced silence and entire exclusion from the world, the time of the brethren being divided between prayer, reading and labor. They wear the coarse Benedictine garb, even going without shoes, using only sandals, though we believe Father Ignatius is compelled by his physician to wear stockings on account of his health. Hundreds of men, we understand, have been attracted to and entered this monastery as probationers or novices, but on account of the great severity of the discipline very few have been professed as Brothers. From his monastery Father Ignatius has gone forth throughout England, preaching and holding missions. And that is what he is doing in this country, though he came here chiefly, we believe, to gain rest. He is certainly a most eloquent and effective preacher, and the effects of his preaching are said to be marvellous.

As in old times there was always a great deal of friction between the Monasteries and the ordinary Episcopal government of the Church owing to the claim of the monks to be exempt from Episcopal jurisdiction, so it is now. Father Ignatius is unwilling to submit to the Bishop of St. David's in whose Diocese his abbey is situated, so the Bishop does not recognize him as one of his clergy and will not give him consequently the usual letter of commendation which clergymen travelling in foreign countries carry with them from their Bishops. Hence it is that some of our Bishops have refused to allow him to preach or officiate in their dioceses. But others have taken the ground of allowing him to do so, as he is a clergyman in English Orders, against whose moral character and fitness there is no accusation and who is a wonderful preacher of the Gospel. We had expected him to preach in this church, but our Bishop is not willing to license him as he has not the letter above referred to.

He is, however, going to hold a mission while he is in this city, extending from Sunday, April 5th, to Sunday, April 12th, inclusive, on Sundays in the Musical Fund Hall, on Locust St. below Ninth, and on weekdays in Industrial Hall on Broad St. above Vine. There will be three services each Sunday and two each day during the intervening week. We believe a charge will be made for admission to these services, for the purpose of getting money for the completion of the abbey at Llanthony.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We used on Easter day for the first time, a new beautiful white brocade silk altar, cloth which our ladies' embroidery class has been engaged in for over a year. It is exceeding rich and handsome and our ladies deserve great credit for it. And it gives us, what we have needed for a great while, an altar cloth corresponding in richness to those we have of other colors. It is valued at least at $200. The Rector received a handsome new cassock, and a new linen surplice embroidered. Seventeen palms for use on Palm Sunday, a pair of large candles and a new altar service book with gold cross let into the cover, and a number of flowers for Easter, were given to the church.

CHOIR CASSOCKS.—As we announced in our last issue, the Ladies' Aid have been engaged in making a new set of cassocks for the choir. They have now made fourteen. And in addition, some ladies collected the money and purchased a new tailor-made cassock for the choir master. The ladies propose to continue their work until they have made twenty-five cassocks in all, which are needed, if the members of the congregation will contribute the material, but their money is now exhausted and they have no more material to work with. Contributions may be handed to Mrs. Gundaker, who has charge of the Aid.

GIFTS TO OTHER CHURCHES.—In addition to the work done for ourselves our ladies have made and embroidered during Lent a white silk chalice veil and burse for the Rev. Mr. Thorn, our former assistant, and another white silk chalice veil and burse for S. Thomas' Colored Church in this city, the material in each case having been provided.

A set of partly-worn linen eucharistic vestments, with girdle and maniple, were sent to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Kensington, and a linen pall, corporal and maniple to S. Thomas' Church.

DISCOURAGEMENTS IN CHURCH WORK.—To show what discouragements church workers have to contend with we publish the following report made by the lady who has lately taken charge of the Men's Bible Class. Out of fifty names furnished her by the Rector, and whom she went to see, she succeeded in finding all but eight, two of whom were out of the city. Of the remaining 42, she reports that 11 refused to attend the class, 3 were sick, 5 worked on Sundays, 1 was engaged in other church work, 5 she thought not likely to come, 10 she thinks may come later on, 2 came once, leaving only five who have been regular attendants.

All honor to those who will continue to try gratuitously to benefit others in spite of such discouragement. But how strange it is that those who have the opportunity thus offered them, of learning something about that which can be of more benefit to them than anything else, should be so indifferent about availing themselves of their advantages.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election for Vestrymen to serve during the ensuing year, held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were duly elected: Samuel Wetherill, J. Edward Carpenter, Thomas Sinnickson, Geo. H. Haverstick, Francis S. Keese, William H. Cope, Thomas Robb, Thomas R. Neilson, M. D., Charles E. Bonnet, William H. Tevis, Wm. Platt Pepper, Chas. L. S. Tingley.

THE EASTER OFFERING this year amounted to $626.99, being some $9 more than last year. While we are thankful that we have kept up as well, still we would like to see a larger increase from year to year. And there is one thing about this offering we especially notice, and that is that there were in it but three offerings over $10. These three amounted to $225, leaving almost $400 made up of small offerings. While this is a very good showing for the great mass of the congregation, still we think that there are more than three persons in it, who could have given more than $10, as an offering on Easter Day.

RETURN OF A FORMER VESTRYMAN.—We are very glad to welcome back to the congregation a former member of our Vestry, Mr. John D. Henderson, who has been residing for the last five years in New York, but has returned to this city to live, and again makes his spiritual home with us. He finds that we have made great advances since he left us.

S. MARY'S GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—On the recreation night of the Guild this month it is proposed to have a supper in the Parish building, to which each member of the Guild shall be entitled to invite a friend.

The Guild made up quite a nice package of clothing during Lent, which was sent to the Bethesda Home for Poor Children at Chestuut Hill.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received during march: Mrs. Geo. W. Biddle, Mrs. R H. Larzelere, Dr. Thos. R. Neilson, Mrs. W. P. Chandler, Mr. W. M. Newnam, Miss A. J. Stewart, Mr. E. L. Teakle, Mrs. John G. Johnson, Mrs. Wm. Waterall, Mr. Jas. Lescure, Miss Alice Spear, Miss B. McClenaghen.

ADVANTAGES OF THE ENVELOPE SYSTEM.

The advantages of this system are that while it secures the freedom of the seats in the church [1] it provides a stated and regular revenue upon which the church officers can depend, and upon which they can base their expenditures. [2] It does not make the income dependent upon the attendance at a particular service or season of the year, the pledges running over the whole year. [3] It teaches people to fix upon a definite sum which they ought to give. [4] It secures the amount thus determined on being paid at one time, if not at another. [5] It does not make the position one occupies in church, or his reception of its benefits, proportioned to his financial ability, but makes the amount he gives dependent solely upon the size of his income and his willingness to devote it to religious purposes, so that the one who can give only a little is precisely in the same position in the church as the person who can give largely. [6] It enables the offering to be made secretly, that which the poor and the rich give looking exactly alike if enclosed in envelopes. [7] It saves the self-respect of the poor and those in moderate circumstances by making them feel that they are not receiving their religious privileges for nothing, but share in the support of the church, even though the amount they contribute be small. [8] It gives every one attending the church—not only the rich, or the heads of families, but each one—a sense of responsibility of bearing a share in its support. [9] It cultivates the habit of systematic giving, and teaches the supreme duty of setting aside a fixed, definite proportion of one's income for religious purposes. [10] It makes giving dependent, not upon impulse or emotion, or upon receiving a quid pro quo for the amount given, but upon intelligent, conscientious and business principles. [11] It puts what one gives to the church in the light of an offering and act of worship, the token and pledge of the reality of his convictions and earnestness of his religious life, and not simply as the payment of an obligation for a convenience received. [12] It makes it easier to give in small sums than it would be to give a large sum at one time.—Magazine of Christian Literature for January.

EASTWARD.

BY THE LORD BISHOP OF LICHFIELD.

Eastward rolls the earth rejoicing,
Ever onward into light;
To a daily resurrection
Rising from the grave of night;
Moving on in expectation
Through the boundless realm of space,
Looking for the coming glory
Of the sons of Adam's race.

Eastward stands the Christian soldier,
Feet on earth and heart above,
Telling out in creed triumphant
All his faith and hope and love.

Eastward lies the lifeless body,
Waiting for the dawning day;
When with life and glory gifted,
It shall wing its upward way.

Lord! amidst the sin and darkness
Of the world's departing night,
Keep us ever looking eastward
Watching for the morning light;
Looking for the Sun of Glory,
With His healing, quickening ray,
And the lifting of the portals
Of the Everlasting Day.

—Amen.

AMENDMENT OF OUR CHARTER.

For ten years this parish has been conducted as a free church on a pew rent charter. When the present Rector was elected he stipulated with the vestry that the church should be made a free church. But the charter, which was granted in 1845, provided that the vestry should be elected by those who had paid pew rent for two successive years, and as it required time and trouble to alter this charter, a by-law was enacted providing that the pew rents should be reduced to the nominal sum of $1 a sitting, and that no particular seat should be assigned to any one. Under this arrangement we have proceeded ever since, the church depending for its support on the voluntary offerings of the attendants, but any person desiring to qualify himself to vote for Vestrymen was obliged to pay to the warden annually at least $1 as pew rent, and obtain his receipt for the same. This was certainly anomalous to have to pay pew rent in a free church, to have notice given out in church that pew rents were due, and to report them in the Journal of the Convention. And it has been very difficult to make our people understand it, consequently very few ever paid it, so few that out of over 350 communicants we now have in the parish only 23 persons were entitled to vote at our last election. This involved a great wrong and a great danger. It was wrong that the whole control of the church should be in the hands of so few, and it was dangerous because at any election those few, or a majority of them, had it in their power to turn out the entire Vestry and elect any twelve persons they chose in their place, who might entirely change the whole character of the church against the wishes of the vast majority of the congregation. And though it might be said that this could only happen through the neglect of the others to qualify themselves to act as voters, and so no one would be to blame but themselves, still as ten years experience has shown that this neglect is so general, there always would be this danger.

The Vestry have therefore determined that it was high time that the charter of the church should be made to correspond to the system on which it is conducted, and they took steps at their last meeting to have the charter amended.

In doing this the question arose what would be the best qualification to exact for voters, for there is no fixed rule in regard to it. In some free churches any one who is "a member of the church and contributes to its support," may vote. But it is a question whether a member means a communicant or one only who is baptized, and how is it to be ascertained whether he is a contributor? In some churches it must be a "regular worshipper and one recognized by the warden as contributing." But who is to determine what is a regular worshipper, and how can the warden know every one who may contribute through the offertory. So that there may be no uncertainty in regard to our charter, the Vestry has determined to amend it so as to prescribe that those shall be entitled to vote who are "communicant members of the parish and who appear by the Vestry books to have been contributing towards its support for one year." Thus there will be documentary evidence to appeal to in each case. The Rector is required to keep a register of the communicant members of the parish, that is of those who having been confirmed in the parish, have been admitted to communion here and still retain their membership, and of others who have been received by letters of transfer from other parishes. And as the Vestry has adopted the envelope system as the method by which the church shall be supported, the warden has a list of all those who thus contribute. If any one does not choose to contribute through this system, he will be depriving himself of his right to vote. The communicants too, being those who have the interest of the church most at heart, are those who alone should have the right to vote. And as the largest proportion of the contributors give through the envelopes, they also should have the right of control.

As this change is to be made the Vestry have embraced the opportunity of making one or two others which are very desirable. One is to prescribe that the Vestry shall be elected in sections, only four each year to serve for three years, thus preventing the possibility of a sudden unexpected change of the whole Vestry. Another is the power of filling vacancies in the Vestry without waiting for the next annual election.

In order to secure these amendments it is necessary that they should first be approved by the Diocesan Convention, and then by the Civil Courts. And we have explained what the purpose of them is here, so that if our members read in the reports of the Convention or of the Courts, that the charter of the Church of the Ascension is to be amended, they will know what it means.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—During the last month our Church has been enriched by the erection of three additional stained glass windows. Two are in the chancel, the centre one representing the Ascension, this subject being given the most prominent position in the church owing to its name. The window next to it represents the Resurrection of our Lord, thus following the sequence of events in our Lord's Life, adopted for the whole Church. These windows are memorials to Rear Admiral Glisson and his wife, both of whom died within the past year. They are erected by their sons, who are now attendants of our Church. The other window is in the clere-story and represents Saint James, and is placed next to the figure of Saint Peter. It is in memory of Mrs. Yost, a former attendant of the Church, erected by her son. These windows are all made in England by the same firm that put in the rest of our glass, and add greatly to the enrichment of the Church. We are glad to say, too, that we have the promise of another window for the chancel, a design for which is being prepared. We have also received the gift of thirty new books for the Sunday School library, a large quantity of magazines for the reading room, and nine plush covered kneeling hassocks, besides several bundles of clothing for the poor.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—Ascension Day, Thursday, May 7th, we shall observe this year, as we have for a number of years past, with the usual celebrations of the Holy Communion in the morning, and a special Anniversary service and sermon at night. We hope all the parishioners will make a point of attending this service, as the Rector then reviews the work and progress of the parish during the year past, and lays out his plans and calls the attention of the people to what he thinks is needed for the time to come. On Friday evening we shall have the Parish Tea. Tickets will be issued for this at 25 cts. a piece and may be had from the sexton only. And it must be understood that only adults are to be admitted, as it is not intended for children, but is for the purpose of bringing the grown people of the parish together. Supper will be provided for the choir boys and members of S. John's Guild after the Guild's Service on Saturday evening. All the members of S. Mary's Guild, S. Andrew's Brotherhood and S. John's Guild will be expected to assemble on that evening in the Parish Building and enter the Church in procession. The Rev. Dr. Vibbert, Rector of S. Peter's Church, will be the preacher on that occasion. All the ladies of the congregation are invited to meet in the Guild room on Monday, May 4th, after Morning Prayers to make arrangements for the Parish Tea.

CHANGE OF CHOIR MASTER.—The time of the contract of the parish with Mr. Brock as Choir Master having expired, Mr. Frederick B. Neilson has been appointed in his place as both Choir Master and Organist. Mr. Neilson was formerly organist of the Church of the Annunciation, and is leader of the University Glee Club, and organizer of what is known as the "Masks and Wigs." We feel very confident, therefore, of his ability to give us, what we all very much desire, a first rate choir for our Church. Nevertheless it is with great regret that we part with Mr. Brock, as we feel that he has faithfully discharged his duties while with us and given us very good music for the amount of money the Vestry were able to appropriate for the purpose. We understand he has taken the position of Choir Master at Christ Church Chapel.

WHITSUNDAY.—Being a day of general Communion there will be an additional Celebration on the morning of that day at 6.30 A. M., and Morning Prayer will be said as it was at Christmas and Easter, at 10.30 A. M.

CLOTHING FOR THE ITALIAN MISSION.—One of our Sunday School classes made during Lent a very nice box of clothing for the children of the Italian Mission in this city. It contained 32 pieces of children's clothing, 19 pairs of stockings, 12 handkerchiefs 12 papers of pins, 12 papers of needles and 4 cakes of soap. The Rev. Mr. Zara, the minister in charge, writes to return his thanks and also to let the class "know how many hearts of little Italian girls they have made happy. They were so pleased with their little dresses, but especially with the nice little handkerchiefs. All of them came in church so clean and neat, it was really a pleasure to see them."

THE FESTIVAL OF THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL was held on Saturday, April 4th, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the children. Nearly 200 were present, who after the giving out of the prizes and Easter eggs and cards in the church were entertained in the schoolroom with ice cream and cakes, and a "fish pond," each child receiving a toy. Some of the work done during the winter, especially some of the painting and wood carving of the boys, was very creditable.

S. MARY'S GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—The members of S. Mary's Guild, enjoyed a very pleasant evening on their recreation night last month. Each member of the Guild was entitled to invite a friend. Between sixty and seventy persons in all were present, and after a pleasant time in the school room where tea and coffee were served, all adjourned to the Guild rooms where a sumptuous spread was provided, consisting of oysters and salad, ice cream and strawberries.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received: Miss A. M. Holbrook, Mr. J. M. Stewart, Mrs. C. F. Leaming, Miss E. H. Cooke, Miss A. D. Butler, Mr. Thos. Sinnickson, Mrs. M. S. Atwood, Mrs. Minshall.

THE SALARY OF THE ASSISTANT MINISTER.

The Vestry of the Church of the Ascension has assumed on behalf of the congregation to pay the salary of an Assistant Minister one thousand dollars per annum. This step has been taken by the Vestry because it is absolutely essential for the prosperity of the Parish.

Heretofore the salary of the Assistant Minister has been contributed by two members of the congregation, but this arrangement could no longer be continued, and the Vestry was therefore confronted with a question which required an immediate answer, which was: shall the services of an Assistant Minister be dispensed with altogether, and many of the church services and much church work in the Parish be discontinued, or will the Vestry on behalf of the congregation, take the bold step of pledging the Parish to the payment of an additional one thousand dollars for this purpose?

The Vestry has unanimously decided to take the latter course, and depending upon the loyal support of the congregation has engaged to assume this responsibility, and has directed the Finance Committee to bring the subject to the notice of the congregation.

In compliance with the duty imposed upon it, the committee addresses this communication to the members of the Parish, and those interested in its work; and particularly and earnestly requests every individual to increase his or her offering through the envelopes.

Remember, a free church cannot live without support! And remember, that your generosity is appealed to, when no pew rents are charged, and you are left to settle with your own conscience the measure of support which you shall individually contribute to your church. A free church is not free in the sense that you are to give nothing or next to nothing to support it, but it is free in the sense that its pews are not rented, and any one may sit where he chooses, and it is open to all.

Let us then exhibit our enthusiasm. We are proud of our church; proud of what we have already accomplished, proud of our Rector, proud of our Assistant Minister, and with God's help, we will continue each of us to do our share as God has prospered us to extend its good work.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS.

The following is the list of the present contributors to the support of the church through the envelope system as adopted by the Vestry. The names of those over six months in arrears are omitted. This list should be largely increased, any one attending the church whose name is not on it, should ask the Sexton for a blank form, and fill it up and send it to the Warden. An additional envelope for a charitable purpose is sent with each quarter's envelopes. The envelopes for the two quarters embracing the summer months are sent out together, the additional envelopes being for the poor and the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools.

CHANGES IN OUR SERVICES

On Whitsunday quite an important change was inaugurated in our Sunday services, which will be continued during the summer months, and if it proves acceptable will become our permanent arrangement.

The Rector has long felt that eleven o'clock for the midday service was too late to suit the majority of our people. We have many persons attending the Church who live in boarding houses, and others, whose dinner hour is one o'clock, and many who live at a great distance from the Church, who have found it impossible to get home in time for dinner. And it was especially inconvenient for those who taught in the Sunday School, to get home and get back again by half past two o'clock. Many persons have complained that they have not been able to remain through the Communion service on this account. It would seem more desirable, therefore, to have the morning service begin at half past ten o'clock, which is the usual hour in most of the churches in the city.

Then, too, the Litany service which we have had for the last two winters at 4 P. M. has not been well attended, the congregations seldom being more than forty or fifty people, and it is doubtful whether the Litany used thus by itself would ever become a popular service. And the Rector has thought that the full choral evening service we have been having at night has been too long and too musical to suit the majority of the people attending it. So his plan another winter is to have full choral evening prayer without any sermon at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and then a shorter and plainer service with sermon at night, which we think will be more popular. This throws the Litany back into the Morning Service, and as it would make it too long to have Morning Prayer, the Litany and Holy Communion together, all sung, the two former are said, only the hymns and canticles being sung. This does not make the Morning Service any longer than it was when Morning Prayer and the Holy Communion were both choral, and we think it will be more acceptable to many people.

The Holy Communion is rendered as formerly, fully choral, and in order to break up the habit, which is not sanctioned by the rubrics and which is a great interruption to the service and annoyance to the worshippers, of persons going out after the Prayer for Christ's Church Militant, the sermon is preached immediately after the Litany, and persons not intending to remain throughout the Communion service are asked to withdraw after the sermon, a space being allowed in which for them to do so. And in order to receive the offerings of those who do not stay until the ordinary offertory, a collection is made immediately before the sermon, which is afterwards presented with the other alms.

This arrangement of services it is thought will suit a great many different people. Those who like a musical service, can come as they have been doing before 11 A. M. and have the sermon and choral celebration, and the choral even-song at 4 P. M. Those who like a plainer service can come to the early Communion and the 10.30 A. M. and 7.45 P. M. services. And those who have missed the Litany from the morning service will get it back again. And above all it will put the midday celebration of the Holy Communion at an hour and give it a prominence which we trust will result in its being more largely attended and appreciated as being the grandest and most glorious act of worship the Christian can offer unto God, and in doing which each Christian should feel he ought on every Sunday to assist.

And we shall thus be carrying out better than we heretofore have done, what is the great aim of this Church, to reach and accomodate all classes of people, by thus having services not only at different hours throughout the day, but of different kinds.

The afternoon service will not begin until October; in the meantime we shall have our children's service at 3 P. M., and during June, July and August our twilight service at 7 P. M.

A BEQUEST TO THE CHURCH.

Since our last issue a member of our parish has died, Mr. Benjamin Johnson. He was in the church on Whitsunday and at his office on the succeeding Monday and Tuesday, after which he was taken sick with erysipelas and died the following Saturday. He had been baptised and confirmed in the Church of the Ascension during the rectorship of Bishop Hare in 1868, and although subsequently connected with other churches and always interested in visiting other churches, he never lost his attachment to our parish. He contributed towards the building fund of the new church and put in the first of the figured clerestory windows and now by his last will he makes the church a very handsome bequest. His will is quite the model of a Christian Testament and begins: "In the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The second section reads, "2. I reverently commend my soul to my Creator, in the Communion of the Catholic Church, in the confidence of a certain faith, and in the comfort of a reasonable religious and holy hope, looking for the resurrection of the body and the life of the world to come."

The third section gives directions in regard to his funeral, specifying that his body is to be buried "with feet towards the east," desiring that the Episcopal office for the burial of the dead be read and stating that he was confirmed in the Church of the Ascension, Phila., March 31st, 1868. The ninth section is as follows:

9. "I give and bequeath the sum of ten thousand dollars to the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Broad St. below South St.,—the principal not to be used or expended, but to be kept invested, and the net income arising therefrom to be used and expended, first in obtaining a suitable metal lamp, to be suspended over or in front of the Altar, in which shall be kept an artificial light, burning perpetually, day and night, and the remainder of said income to be used towards the general expenses of the Church, other than the Rector's salary and any funded debt."

God be praised that He put it in the heart of His servant thus to lay the foundation of that work the present Rector has so ardently longed to see accomplished, namely, the endowment of this free church for all classes of people in this central portion of the city. May others of our parishioners be moved to follow his example and complete what he has thus nobly begun.

And the lamp which he directs to be hung and kept burning in the Chancel will be the perpetual and, as it were, ever-living memorial of this benefactor of our Parish. May he rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon him.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—During May, a polished brass and jeweled Altar Cross to match our candlesticks, a hand-made linen girdle, piece of damask for private communion service, silver plated coffee and tea pot, 3 framed pictures and 3 framed illuminated texts, 15 bound volumes of the Church Times, 4 do. Illustrated London News, 2 do. Newbury House Magazine, 3 do. Scribner's, number of unbound illustrated papers and magazines, crate of strawberries, 250 tea buns, cream, tea, coffee, sugar, large number of cakes, etc., for Parish Tea, 2 doz. cups and saucers, and 2 doz. plates, quantity of old clothing for the poor; the Female Bible Class presented a carved oak shelf for the Baptistry; the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild made up and embroidered a set of eucharistic vestments for S. Thomas' Church, to which also was presented a white silk eucharistic stole. We have received an order for another window for the chancel, and have partial promises of two others for the chancel and one for the clerestory.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL was observed this year with an equal interest with previous years, but still not with the universal interest on the part of every member of the parish we would like to see. The congregations on the morning of Ascension Day were not such as that great festival should in itself call out apart from the fact of its being our special Parish festival, and the attendance at night was by no means what it ought to have been, though we were glad to see more of our Vestrymen present than we have seen on previous occasions. The arrangement of the Parish Tea was decidedly superior to that of former years, there being none of the noise and unseemly devouring of the provisions by the children we have had before. There was ample of everything, and enough left over to afford a supper for the choir and S. John's Guild members the next evening. And whether it was on account of the supper or not we don't know, but certainly, the members of this Guild made a much better showing at the Guild service than they did a year ago.

Certainly altogether these observances in connection with our annual festival ought to tend to strengthen the interest and attachment of every one to the Parish.

SERVICES FOR THE SUMMER.—The daily service and Wednesday evening service are discontinued during June, July, August and September, and the Sunday evening service changed to 7 o'clock until September. The Thursday Communion will be continued until July. The children's service will be at 3 P. M., followed by the Sunday School. The Men's and Ladies' Bible Classes will be discontinued until October, and the Young Men's Bible Class will meet on Sunday afternoons.

CHANGES IN THE CHARTER spoken of in our editorial last month were duly presented at the meeting of the Diocesan Convention and referred to the Committee on Charters, by whom they were favorable reported and then approved by the Convention. It only remains now for them to receive the sanction of the Civil Courts.

THE NEWS will not be issued during July and August.

CHOIR VESTMENTS.—We do not know whether our people appreciate what has been done in regard to our choir vestments during the past year. Not only has a complete set of new cottas been made, but the cassocks which were in a very torn and dilapidated condition, have been entirely made over. The ladies who have done this work, especially Mrs. Gundaker and Mrs. Nicholson, who have had it in charge, deserve great credit for what they have accomplished with very little means. We trust that in the Autumn they will be given the material for what is still needed—some more cassocks for the men.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received: Mr. J. E. Carpenter, Mr. Edward Carpenter, Miss Anderson, Mrs. Isaac Starr, Mrs. Thos. H. Bowers, Mrs. Henry Selby, Miss Rousseau, Mr. Chas. E. Bonnet, Dr. G. Bonnet, Miss M. Gilpin.

REPORT.

Other Parish Agencies.—Mother's Meeting, members 30; Industrial School, teachers 18, scholars 193; Men's Guild, Women's Guild, Young Men's Guild, Young Women's Guild, Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood.

Money Receipts from all sources.—Pew rents $49.00; offertory $8641.86 Donation $2000; interest $26.71; other sources $69.68; total $10,787.25.

Money Expenditures and Appropriations.—Current expenses, (including salaries of ministers, for music, fuel and lighting, care of church building and grounds, and ordinary repairs of same) $4467.73; interest on mortgage $1375.00; improvements $5178,70; Episcopal and convention funds $75.42; support of schools $201.43, for the poor 172.35; Episcopal Hospital $32.43; Missions, Foreign $19.00; Domestic $128.87; Colored people $18.50; Indians $43.00; Diocesan $57.00; Tract Prayer Book Society $21.00; S. Andrew's Brotherhood $62, 23; Church Building $11.00; Theological Education $100.00; Miscellaneous $363.87: total $12,267.43.

Financial Condition.—Estimated value of property $70,000; encumbrance, mortgage $25,000; other indebtedness none.

CONTRIBUTORS.

We print again this month the list of our contributors in order that every one in the parish may see if his or her name is there, and if not, why? The following additional pledges have been received during the month.

140 making a total of $2648.10, a year, or something over $50 a week. This is not sufficient to meet our expenses. We need more contributors. No one should be deterred from making a pledge from the idea that he is binding himself to do what he may not be able to preform, as the pledge is for no definite time, but only "until notice is given to the contary," which may be done at any time, the envelope system possessing this great advantage over the pew system which involves a legal obligation extending over a year or six months at least.

Persons going out of town for the summer should put in the offertory before they go, the amount due for the number of Sundays they propose to be away.

OUR AIM.

As we enter upon another season of church work we are anxious to set before our parishioners exactly what is our aim in this parish, and to try and elicit the earnest, active interest of each member of the congregation in carrying it out.

Most of our churches in this city (we say it without meaning disrespect) are one-horse concerns. That is, they are manned by a single clergyman, have only two or three services a week, rent their pews, and professedly minister to only a comparatively small number of persons who have clubbed together for the purpose of supporting them for their own personal benefit, and make but little effort to draw in persons of different classes or conditions.

Now that is very far from our ideal of what a church should be and the work it should accomplish. Our model has always been one of those London churches, and we have some such in New York now, which are served by six or seven clergymen, whose seats are all free, where there are services at all hours and of different kinds, to suit different classes and characters of people, and which are supplied with al the appliances needed to carry on various missionary and charitable works. Our church is just in the position to do such a work as this. But it needs two absolutely necessary things, means and workers, though if we had sufficient of the one we could secure the other. With our two clergymen and volunteer workers we have done, we think, a pretty good work—five services on Sunday, and two or more daily during most of the year being maintained, with a fair amount of school and guild work beside. And we flatter ourselves that there are not many parishes of similar means that reach as many different kinds of people and accomplish as much. But we want to see a great deal more done.

The changes in our services which we make this year, we trust will be the means of extending the work of the church and making it more popular with more people. But to do all we want to do, we must have the active interest of every one now in the congregation. Do not let any one be satisfied with simply enjoying the services of the Church, and with giving just as little as they feel they can, respectably. If anyone really cares for anything, he is willing to work for it, and expend on it all the money he can. So if our people really love the Church, and feel that it is the great instrument in the hands of God for accomplishing the most blessed and needy work of winning men to righteousness and building them up in God's faith and fear, they will want to make the church to which they belong just as efficient for this purpose as it can be made, and it will be a real pleasure to them to have a personal hand and share in this work.

Now, how many of our people are doing all they can in, and giving all they can to, our Church? Are there not many who could join in some department or other of our church work who never do so? Are there not many who do not give anything like as much as they would be forced to give if they went to a pewed church? Are there not many who never think of their church from one weeks' end to another, never have a thought or care as to how it is getting on, never think of it in any other light than as a convenient and pleasant place to go to of a Sunday?

We call on all to rise to an appreciation of their duty to the Church of God; every one who belongs to it is a priest consecrated to God's service and so is bound to do priestly work, the work of seeking and saving and ministering to human souls. To fail to do this is sin. In the picture of the last judgment our Lord has given us, it is not those who have committed great crimes who are punished, but those who have failed to do good, to minister to the sick and afflicted and needy, the least of Christ's brethren.

Let all be up and active then in the best cause that can enlist human effort. Let each strive to do his or her full share to make this parish all it might be made. Give all you can, do some personal work in the Church; there is work each one can do. And remember the Church always, remember it in your prayers, keep it in your thoughts, tell others about it, try to bring to it those who go nowhere, are connected with no parish, or belong to some other denomination.

If our people would all thus work with a will and give to the full extent of their ability, we shall soon have here a church second to but few in the land in the amount of good it would accomplish.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH since our last issue: book for record of services, a dozen palm leaf fans, 119 books for Parish and Sunday School library, quantity of magazines, papers and clothing for the poor. Out of some money placed at his disposal the Rector has ordered head stones for two graves in the church lot in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, that our dead may not lie unmarked. He first had made two crosses of solid oak for this purpose, but finding that the rules of the cemetery did not allow any perishable material used, these have been thrown on his hands. He would be glad to dispose of them to any one who has unmarked graves in a church-yard or cemetery where they could be used.

IMPROVEMENTS.—We have not done very much in the way of improvements this summer. But we have had the old shabby fence at the back of our lot replaced by a new one, and the iron fence along Broad Street painted. The sexton has been trying very hard with the aid of a hose and lawn-mower to cultivate the grass on the side and end of the church. We have also had placed another sign on the south end of the church, and a notice board in the vestibule containing the names of the contributors to the church. Let every one attending the church see that his or her name is there.

ACKNOWLEDGING GIFTS.—We find that some persons object to having gifts which they make to the church acknowledged in the NEWS. We are sorry for this, as it prevents our record of what is done in the Parish being a complete one, and we think, too, that nothing so encourages people to give as the seeing and noticing what others do. Still we must of course respect the feelings of donors, and if they wish not only to conceal their names, but not even to have attention called to what they have done, we will abstain from mentioning it. If, therefore, persons notice from time to time things given to the church which are not mentioned in the NEWS they will understand that it is not negligence or inappreciation on our part, but it is in compliance with the wishes of those who have given them.

TAKE ENVELOPES FOR YOUR CHILDREN.—We think it is very important that heads of families should not only take envelopes in which to make their own offerings for the support of the church and its charities, but should take them for their children as well, in order to teach them the duty of giving and bringing them up in the habit of doing it systematically. If you can't give any more than you are giving now, it would be better to divide up the sum you are giving among your children, so that each would have his or her envelope to put in every Sunday.

ARRANGEMENT OF SERVICES.—The change made in the arrangement of our services has worked very satisfactorily. Almost every one whom we have heard speak about it has been pleased. The service is no longer than it used to be, and yet we get out an half hour sooner. It certainly has largely increased the attendance at the Holy Communion, and it is much more orderly for the few who cannot remain to go out during the interval that is allowed, than interrupting the service as they did before by going out in the midst of it. The twilight service will continue throughout September, and on and after the first Sunday in October there will be at 4 P. M. Choral Evensong without a sermon, and shortened evening service and sermon at 7.45 P. M.

THE VACATION.—The summer has made the usual change in our congregation, so many being away from town. Sometimes we have not had a single vestryman present to take up the collection. Still we have had pretty good congregations, there being rarely less than 100 persons present at any of the principal Sunday services. The twilight service has been more popular than ever this year.

The Rector has been with his family as usual near the city, at Jenkintown, whence he has come in to the services and to answer such calls as have been made upon him. During June the Assistant took most of the duty, and will do the same during September. During July and August he was away in Canada, part of the time on a camping-out expedition. We are glad to say his wife is reported as much better.

The Choir Master was away for three Sundays, and various members of the choir have had holidays from time to time. We must compliment the choir on the proficiency it has attained, and we look for great things from it during the coming winter.

DEATH OF MRS. WEAVER.—We regret to announce the death last month of Mrs. James B. Weaver, a member of our Parish. Although living at a great distance from the church she attended it, preferring its services to those of any church in her neighborhood, and was as regular as her health, which for a long time has been in a very precarious state, would allow her to be. She took an active part in our missionary work, for some years having done all the purchasing and superintending the cutting out and making of the articles for our annual missionary box.—R. I P.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL reopens with this month, and we hope all the teachers and scholars will be in their places, and that the former will determine by their interest and devotion to the work to make this most important branch of our church work especially successful this coming year. New teachers, male and female, are needed. Who will volunteer? The School will begin with the children's service in the church at 3 P. M. during this month, and after October 1st at 2.30 P. M.

PARISH REPORT.—Some persons have not understood our annual report of the Parish published last month. They have supposed from the fact of our receipts being reported as $10,787.25, and our expenditures $12,267.43 that we were therefore nearly $1500 behind hand. But this is not so, as the previous year we made and reported the collections which paid for the improvements, &c., we made during the past year. There is no place in the blank form of Diocesan parish reports for a balance on hand, nor is it desired that such should be reported, so no attempt is made to balance the two sides of the report.

As a matter of fact we have no indebtedness now whatever beyond our mortgage, except that our expenditures for current expenses last year exceeded our receipts for the same by about $300. This we must not only make up this year, but we must sustain an increased rate of expenditure, for we are going forward and we don't mean to go backward. The congregation must remember, too, that the bequest made us by the late Mr. Johnson will not be paid until a year from his death, so that we will derive no benefit from it during the current year.

CHURCH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have this summer noticed a large number of gifts made to various churches. The Cathedral of Long Island received $500,000 from Judge Hilton; S. George's Church, New York, $200,000 from a gentleman who witholds his name for the purpose of extending its work among the poor; another church in New York received $100,000 from a lady; Grace Church, Elizabeth, N. J., $50,000; S. Stephen's, Pittsfield, Mass., $40,000, etc.

When will some one come forward to help our church in some such large way? How can we expect to do any extended work while we are hidden behind an apothecary's shop and are crippled with a $25,000 debt? If the means were given us we have the place here to do a large work, but we need greater prominence and a bigger and better appointed workshop and more money to secure workers.

CONSECRATION OF BISHOPS.—Dr. Phillips Brooks is to be consecrated

Bishop of Massachusetts, in Trinity Church, Boston, on Wednesday, October 14th, and Dr. Nicholson, Bishop of Milwaukee, in S. Mark's Church in this city, on SS. Simon and Judes' day, October 28th.

THE CATHEDRAL IN NEW YORK.—This great enterprise is making evident progress, as after a long and careful competition between various architects. those to whom the building is to be entrusted, have at last been decided upon. A number of gifts for it, too, have lately been made, including some magnificent tapestries, valued at $75,000.

When will a movement begin for a cathedral for this Diocese? The Bishop has not a building which he can call his own, in which he can perform his episcopal acts. Nor is there in this great city a single building, which, by its proportions and richness, sets forth the supreme dignity and importance of religion, or which is large enough for great functions on such occasions as meetings of conventions, consecration of bishops, choral festivals, etc.

We can conceive of no more necessary thing or greater power to the church than that of a grand cathedral in every Diocese. What better use could a rich man do with his money than giving or leaving it for such a purpose?

Prayer for the Parish.

Antiphon.—I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground. I will pour My Spirit upon thy seed, and My blessing upon thine offspring.

Versicle—Turn Thee again, Thou God of Hosts.

Response.—Look down from Heaven, behold, and visit this vine.

Almighty and Everlasting God, Who dost govern all things in Heaven and earth, mercifully hear the supplications of us Thy servants, and grant unto our Parish all things that are needful for its spiritual welfare; more Ministers to labor in Thy vineyard; Schools wherein to bring up the young in Thy faith and fear; Endowments for the necessary purposes of religion; Bless and encourage the Clergy; Strengthen and increase the faithful; Visit and relieve the sick; Turn and soften the wicked; Arouse the careless; Recover the fallen; Restore the penitent; Remove all hindrances to the advancement of Thy Truth; Bring all to be of one heart and mind within the fold of Thy Holy Church, to the honor and Glory of Thy Holy Name; Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Bowing at the Sacred Name and at other times.

An English canon* enjoins that "when in time of Divine Service the Holy Name of Jesus is mentioned, due and lowly reverence shall be done by all persons present, as hath been accustomed." This custom no doubt is based in part on the Scripture declaration that "at the Name of Jesus every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. (Phil. ii, 9.)

It is also a reverent practice to incline the head at the ascription of Glory be the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost," even as the Angels veil their faces as they worship the Thrice Holy (Isaiah vi, Rev. iv); and to bow the head or knee when in the Nicene Creed we acknowldge the ineffable condescension of the Son of God from the words "Who for us men and for our salvation came down from Heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made Man," to "the third day He rose again."

*Canon xviii. 18 3.

THE Church, as being the House of God and the common home of the faithful, should be ENTIRELY free for all nations and for all classes. "All equal are within the Church's gate."

The Pew system is at once most dishonoring to God and most mischievous in its effects. It is a fundamental rule of our Parish that all the sittings should be always free. The principle of a free church, it should be remembered, is violated when persons pretend any claim to a particular place and seem to appropriate it.

"Have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ with respect of persons." (See St. James ii, 1-5.) When this scriptural rule is observed, another must also be remembered: "Upon the first day of the week let every one lay by him, in store, as God hath prospered him." (1 Cor. xvi, 2.) The weekly offertory should be regarded as a distinct act of worship, the offering of our substance to God. "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine own have we given Thee." (1 Chron. xxix, 14.)

None should stay away from church because they have nothing to give, but none who have should withhold from God His due, for the support of His Ministers, the maintenance of Divine Service, and the work of His Church. "If there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not." (2 Cor. viii, 12.)

Any one desiring to see the clergy in regard to spiritual matters or church work, can find one of the clergy in the Church after any of the Sunday or week day services.

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish, is published under the direction of the Rector.

As it is desired this paper should be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, to be paid in advance, to Mr. William H. Cope, 112 South Fourth Street.

Subscribers will please keep the business manager informed of any change of address.

PARISH VISITING.

The object of parish visiting is that the Clergy may become acquainted with their parishioners, may come to know their characters and needs, so as to be able to be spiritual helps to them, and also to interest them in parish matters. The office the clergy should discharge is more than that of administering the sacraments and preaching. They should bear a personal relationship to each member of their parishes. They should be pastors, i. e., those who watch over and care for souls. Each soul should be an individual study and care to them, and it should be a constant object of solicitude and effort to guard each soul from evil, to train and develop it in spiritual things, and to comfort and support it when tempted and harassed. But to do this it is absolutely necessary that the clergy should know their people. To do this they go to see them. Parish visiting is not social visiting, or the payment of a compliment; it has a distinct, high spiritual purpose. It involves an intimate acquaintance, and confidential intercourse and friendship between the pastor and his people. If the pastor is what he ought to be, his friendship will be worth having, and should be a great help and comfort.

But how is he to become intimate with his people? To those who don't think much about it, it may seem a very easy thing. But consider the difficulties in the way. In the first place, we have in this parish some 500 people who consider themselves as belonging to it, and these people are scattered from Second St. to Forty-ninth St., and from below Mifflin St. to above York Ave., and some come in even from places in the country. Then there are only eight months in the year that can be practically used for visiting, and out of those all the Sundays and festival days must be taken, for on them the clergy have enough to do in the church. Then there are people who can only be seen at certain times, men and work people only at night, and often when the clergy call even at those times, they are not at home. Then there are cases of sickness, when the clergy have to call very frequently, and there are funerals and other clerical engagements which take up a great deal of time, and Guild meetings and services in the church which often leave even few evenings in the week free. So when all these things are put together it is evident that it is hard for the clergy in a parish such as ours, to get round to see all the people in their houses much more than once a year. Their aim has been, heretofore, to visit more frequently, and in order to do it, the clergy have divided the parish between them, the Rector calling on some families, and the Assistant on others. But a different system will be followed this year. It is desirable that the people should know both of the clergy; so they will both try during this coming year, to call on each member of the congregation. One will begin at one end of the parish, and one at the other, so that while the Rector is visiting part of the people, the others will not be left until he can get all the way round, but the Assistant will be seeing them. Thus the clergy will try to do all they can to become acquainted with their people and be of service to them.

But why should the people wait for the clergy to come to them? Why will they not come to the clergy? One of them can be found in the church every day, morning and evening, and after the service would be glad to see any one who will come to them. And the church is a much more appropriate place and a much easier place to meet a clergyman about religious matters than amid the distractions and interruptions of a home, or wherever a clergyman can happen to get hold of his people.

The clergy want to be of service to any one who needs their services, and by their training and education they are fitted to advise and assist people in spiritual matters. And there are constantly arising in every one's life, questions and experiences in which spiritual guidance is needed. Why will you not go to your priest in such moments as you go to your physician when you are sick? The clergy will come after you as well as they can, but it would be better and easier if you came to them.

AFTERNOON SERVICE.

We begin this month for the first time a regular Sunday afternoon service. Heretofore we have always had the evening service at night, because it was believed that a larger congregation would attend at that hour. But now we think the time has come when we should have both an afternoon and evening service, for there are some persons who only care to go to church in the afternoon and some only at night, and our parish is large enough now to contain a sufficient number of both classes to make it worth while to have the two services. We had, indeed, formerly the Litany service in the afternoon, but the regular choir was not present, and it was hardly regarded as taking the place of the evening service. Now we shall have full Choral Evensong at 4 P.M., without any sermon, but with an anthem after the third collect, as provided for by the new rubrics. And then at 7.45 P.M. we shall have shortened Evening Prayer with a sermon, the choir again being present. We earnestly hope that this arrangement will enable every person in the parish to attend two services each Sunday, as we think they should. For while we admit that a man has fulfilled his actual moral obligation if he has attended one service on a Sunday, still it is the evident intention of the Church, and should be his natural desire, to go to a vesper service as well as to the great oblation of the morning. The one is the thanksgiving for the other, and sanctifies the whole day. It is a very careless and slovenly way for Christians to get into, to go to church only in the morning, unless there is great cause for their doing so.

And by the arrangement of our services we have taken away all the objections which are sometimes made to the second service, such as that it is just the same as the morning, and that there is no object in going through it again. As it will be arranged, there will be absolutely nothing in the evening service that there was in the morning, except the Lord's Prayer, Glorias, Creed, and Versicles, which should always occur in every service. And there will be no sermon, as one sermon a day, certainly from the same preacher, is quite as much as any one can digest. There will be a sermon at the night service because many persons attend church at night who go at no other time. We trust that the congregation at that service will not be diminished, but that we shall have in addition a congregation in the afternoon composed of those who have not been going to church a second time at all heretofore, or going to other churches. And we hope that, if our choir render this service as we are confident they will, it will become so popular as to be attended largely by people outside of our parish, as well as by our own people.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER SEVICES.—The daily service, Thursday Communion and Wednesday night service begin this month. The latter will take place at 8 o'clock, and will be preceded by a Teachers' Meeting and the Mother's Meeting at 7 o'clock. But the latter will not begin until November.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Mr. William B. Gilpin, our Sunday School Superintendent, having gone to New York to enter the General Theological Seminary, the Assistant Superintendent, Mr. W. H. Montgomery, will succeed him as Superintendent of the School. Beginning with this month the children's service will be at 2.30 P. M., and the Sunday School from 3 to 4 P. M.

BIBLE CLASSES.—As the hour of morning service on Sundays has been altered to 10.30 A. M., it has been thought best to discontinue the Young Men's Bible Class which has been held heretofore on Sunday mornings, and have it meet instead on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, immediately after the children's service. The Rector's Bible Class, mentioned below, will take the place of the Men's Bible Class. There will be also a Young Women's Bible Class which will be held in the choir room.

BIBLE AND QUESTION CLASS.—Beginning with next month the Rector will himself conduct an adult Bible and question class on Friday evenings in the Guild room for the general study of the Bible and discussion of any church questions on which the members may desire information. Any person attending the class may ask any question in regard to Biblical or Church matters, and the discussion will be of the most informal character. It is hoped that many of the Confirmed members of the Church will avail themselves of this opportunity of informing themselves in regard to ecclesiastical subjects, and that those looking forward to Confirmation will also join it, that their preparation therefor may not be as hurried as it often is.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The monthly business meetings of S. Mary's Guild will be resumed on the second Tuesday of this month. A full attendance is requested.

LADIES' AID.—The meetings of the ladies will be resumed on the second Thursday in this month. The work to be taken up at once is the providing some more new cassocks for the choir, which are very much needed. The ladies of the congregation are invited to aid in this work. The meetings are held every Thursday in the parish building at 3 P.M.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE WOMEN'S GUILD, which should take place on SS. Simon and Jude's day will be held this year on the day before, Tuesday, October 27th, as the consecration of Dr. Nicholson as Bishop of Milwaukee occurs on the 28th, and the Rector and doubtless many members of the congregation will want to attend that service. The Rector particularly requests that all the female communicants of the parish who can possible do so, will be present at this meeting, when the reports of what the various Women's Committees have done during the past church year will be read, and work for the coming year be mapped out. Even those who cannot take any personal part in our church work are asked to be present to show their interest in the work and learn about what is being done. There will be a special celebration of the Holy Communion for the Guild after 10 A. M. Prayers and the business meeting will be held in the Guild room after the church service. Let every female member of the parish come.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—The two new memorial windows, one for the apse and the other for the clerestory of the church, which were ordered last summer, have arrived from England, and as soon as they can be passed through the Custom House, will be put in their places. One represents the Crucifixion, and the other contains the figure of S. John.

SPECIAL ENVELOPES.—Many of the special envelopes sent out the last two quarters, for the Poor and for the Schools of the Parish, have not yet been returned. The congregation must remember that the carrying on of the Sunday and Industrial Schools and Mother's Meeting and aiding the poor of the parish depends upon the offerings made through these envelopes. And it is just as necessary to contribute to these purposes as it is to the support of the Church. The general envelopes take the place of pew rents in a church where the pews are rented, and the special envelopes of the charitable collections, which in such churches are made in addition to the pew rents.

SPECIAL SERVICE.—The Society of the Sons of S. George will attend the Sunday night service, S. Luke's day, Oct. 18th, in this church. The seats in the middle aisle will be reserved for them. This has been arranged by our Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, and we hope during the winter to have other societies come to our services in the same way.

PUBLICATION OF MARRIAGE BANS.—We had quite an unusual experience last month in having bans of marriage published for three Sundays in our church. It was the case of a gentleman who is going to marry a Canadian lady, and according to the law in Canada the bans must be published in the parishes in which both the parties reside. The publication, therefore, had to be made here in order to comply with that law. We only wish it was the law in this country as well. Marriage is too solemn and important a thing, too intimately affecting the welfare of the whole community to be entered into clandestinely, as it is so easily and so often done with us. If publication of the bans was always and everywhere required, it would do away with much of the misery and trouble that follow now from the contraction of hasty and improper marriages.

HISTORICAL SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to preach a course of historical sermons on some epoch of Church history on one Sunday evening—probably the fourth—of each month during this winter. Sermons of this kind have proved very popular in times past, and it is hoped that this series will prove both popular and instructive. The subject of the sermon on the fourth Sunday evening of this month will be "The Apostolic Church."

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received: Miss Trucks, Miss M. Marks, Mrs. Walter Cox, Mr. Harry R. Carson, Mr. Henry C. Kerr. A number of subscribers are in arrears, and are notified this month. Will they be good enough to make payment promptly?

PRAYERS FOR THE DEAD.

THE following opinion, given at the close of 1882, by the late Archbishop of York, Doctor Magee, then Bishop of Peterborough, to a Leicester memorial on the subject of prayers for the dead, is of interest:—"Prayers for the dead are not necessarily a Roman rite, nor does their use necessarily imply belief in any Roman doctrine. There is a doctrine respecting the state of departed souls, and there are prayers for these founded on that doctrine which are distinctly Roman—namely, the doctrine that the souls of the faithful departed pass through the cleansing fires of purgatory, and that remission of these pains may be obtained for them by Masses and prayers offered on their behalf by the faithful on earth. This our Church distinctly condemns in her Articles. On the other hand, there is a doctrine as to the state of the faithful departed, and there are prayers for them founded upon that doctrine, which are not Roman but primitive, and which our Church has never condemned. The belief was undoubtedly general in the early Church, that the souls of the faithful, though free from suffering, were capable, while awaiting all their final consummation and bliss, of a progress in holiness and happiness; and that prayer for such progress might therefore lawfully be made on their behalf by the Church on earth. Accordingly prayers for the rest and refreshment of the departed abound in the early liturgies of the Church, and especially in connection with the celebration of the Holy Communion. To say that such prayers imply a belief in Roman doctrine is not only unjust and uncharitable, but also, in regard to our controversy with Rome, extremely rash and unwise."

NEW PARISH BUILDING.

To be Erected for the Memorial Chapel of the Holy Communion.

THE September number of the "Parish Intelligence of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Apostles" states that on the Sunday preceding his departure for the Pacific coast, Mr. George C. Thomas visited the Memorial Chapel of the Holy Communion, and in an address to the scholars said: "I wish to tell you something which I know will interest all of you, and I preferred to do this myself, rather than that you should hear it from any one else. After considerable thought and consultation Mrs. Thomas and I have decided jointly to put up, at the corner of Twenty-seventh and Wharton streets, a building, which may be used for all purposes in connection with the Memorial Chapel work. It will contain ample accommodations for the Sunday school and Bible classes, and also gymnasium, kitchen, guild rooms; &c., and thus fully meet the requirements for the future and better provide for that which is now so rapidly and satisfactorily growing. The erection will be begun as soon as possible, and it is hoped that it may be completed by Easter. The new building will also be a memorial, and in affectionate remembrance of Mr. J. Barlow Moorhead and Mr. John W. Thomas, the loved and most respected fathers of my wife and myself." Thus one wealthy, generous layman equips a church which he does not himself attend, with all that is necessary to carry on its beneficent work for generations, and in a way in which it could not possibly have provided for itself.

TWO-THIRDS of the church members in this country are women; 43,000 of the 45,000 convicts in the State prisons of the United States are men.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

There is nothing so important as education. Most men's lives are determined by the education which they receive, and the views and principles which a man or woman imbibe in their youth they generally carry with them through life, and they determine what their lives are. So it is all important that every one should receive a sound religious education, should be thoroughly instructed in the principles of religion, to understand what the Church of God is, what its claims, teachings and the obligations to it are, to have so intelligent and firm a conviction of religious truth as to be able to answer assaults which from time to time are made on it, to have it completely govern all our actions, and to be able in time to teach it to others.

But there are many things now-a-days which interfere with the reception of such religious instruction. The decay of parental discipline, neglect of religious exercises and teaching in the family, the liberty allowed children to attend Sunday School and Church or not, as they choose, and the incompetence and lack of thoroughness in Sunday School teaching, and the almost entire divorce of secular and religious instruction. All these things tend to create an alarming neglect of distinct religious teaching, and we have multitudes growing up among us with the most hazy and indefinite notions in regard to religious subjects, and living in utter neglect and disregard of all religious duties.

In order to remedy this state of things we call most earnestly upon all heads of families to see to the religious training of their children, either to attend to it personally themselves, or if they do not feel themselves competent or have not the leisure, to see to it that their children attend regularly and faithfully the Sunday School and Children's Services in their parish, and that their children study the lessons that are given them. To our minds it is most astonishing that parents who are ready to make any sacrifices to secure the secular education of their children should be so indifferent and careless in regard to their religious training, which is really of far greater importance to them. They seem to think that religious knowledge will come to them naturally, or that it can be picked up anyhow. But this is not the case, and the reason why so many people fall into sinful or utterly worldly and careless lives, or become a prey to sceptical influences, or are carried away into this or that heresy or schism, is because they have never been taught and really grounded in an intelligent apprehension of the religious faith they profess. Parents therefore, and those responsible for the training of children, cannot be too attentive and careful in this matter.

But we call not only upon parents, but upon all the adult members of our parish to attend to their own religious training. If through fault of others or stress of circumstances they have not been well taught in their youth, there is no reason why they should not remedy this now. There are numbers even of the communicant members of our Church who are lamentably deficient in their knowledge of the Bible and Church truth. Many who could not explain the meaning of, or even recite correctly the Ten Commandments, much less give any intelligent account of the characteristics and teachings of the Church to which they belong.

To remedy this they should make use of the means of self improvement which are offered them. Text books on every branch of Bible and Church teaching are now most common and accessible to every one, and we have some such in our parish library. And our Church people should take the pains of reading them and informing themselves on such subjects. In addition to this, we have Bible Classes for such study suitable for every one. The Rector of this parish begins this month an additional class, to be held every Friday evening in the Guild room with this special purpose of instruction in the nature and character of the Bible, and of giving information on any Church subject that may be desired. He earnestly hopes that there will be a great many who will avail themselves of this means of improving their knowledge on such subjects, and that all will feel the importance both for themselves and for their children, of a through religious training.

PARISH NOTES.

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE on Sundays is proving, as we anticipated, very popular. Already the attendance is much larger than it was formerly at the Litany service and as the winter advances and the service becomes more and more known, we are confident the attendance will become larger still. It is just such a service as one wants for a Sunday afternoon.

THE RECTOR'S BIBLE AND QUESTION CLASS, announced last month, will be held every Friday at 8 P. M., in the Guild room.

SUBJECT OF HISTORICAL SERMON on the fourth Sunday evening of this month will be "The Early Church," the age of persecution.

KINDERGARTEN—The Kindergarten which was held last winter in our Parish Building re-opened the last of October. The same lady who gratuitously gave her services last year, will continue in charge of it, and we hope that parents in this parish and neighborhood having children too young to go school, will avail themselves of this opportunity of sending them where they will be both instructed and entertained for some hours every day. The sessions are from 9 A. M. to 12 noon. If funds could be procured to provide an assistant teacher the size of the school could be doubled.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING re-commences this month on Wednesday evenings.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL on Saturdays at 10 A. M.

EMBROIDERY CLASS on Thursdays at 10.30 A. M.

THE DAILY SERVICE.—Will not each member of the congregation resolve during the coming winter to attend in addition to the Sunday services, one service in the Church each week? As there is a service at 7.30 A. M., others at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M., and one at 8 P. M., there is certainly no one in the congregation who could not go to Church at one of these hours. If every member of the congregation would form and carry out this resolution we should always have a goodly number present at every service, and not only would a perpetual incense of prayer and intercession be thus ascending from the Church, but such a practice would be of inestimable benefit to the personal life of each one engaging in it.

ANNIVERSARY OF WOMEN'S GUILD. We had some twenty-seven women present at the Anniversary of the Women's Guild this year, out of all the women of the Church who were asked to come. The Rector is very grateful to those twenty-seven for taking this much interest in the work of the parish, and he trusts that they and others too will work very hard during the coming winter. The Ladies' Aid has already began its meetings on Thursday afternoon, and we shall soon get started on a missionary box. The Embroidery Class, the Mother's Meeting and the Industrial School re-commence this month.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—The members of the Sunday School and their parents enjoyed a very pleasant entertainment on the 29th of October. It consisted of dialogues, pieces, songs and choruses from the children themselves, and the members of St. John's Guild displayed their development of muscle by a friendly contest in a "Tug of War,"—the champions, Messrs. McCracken, Hornen, Lynch and Clarke, being the victors. At the close two large baskets of apples were distributed to the satisfaction of everybody.

ARREARAGES IN ENVELOPES.—The Warden informs us that the arrearages of contributions through the envelopes now amount to over $200. This is seriously crippling us in meeting our current expenses. These arrearages are legal and moral obligations, and we trust they will at once be made up. Many of them doubtless are due to absence during the summer.

SPECIAL ENVELOPES.—The Rector wants to call the attention of the congregation to the fact that the amount received through the special envelopes for the Poor during the half year from May 1st to October 31st, 1890, was $54.12, and for the corresponding period this year was $41.05, and the amount received during the same period for the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools, 1890, was $30.58, this year $10.70. Now the Rector cannot suppose that this falling off is due to lack of interest in these necessary branches of Church work. It must be simply the result of carelessness. The special envelopes have been overlooked. He begs all who have such envelopes to fill them and return them at once. It is impossible for the demands of the work among the poor to be met, or the schools carried on with the funds thus far contributed. And surely the congregation will not see those works stopped for lack of funds.

ADDRESSES—Again the Rector must request persons belonging to the parish to notify him of changes of their addresses. No sooner had he begun his visiting this autumn, than he went to three places, all at great distances from the Church, and found that the persons who had been living there had removed. It would save the clergy a great deal of time and labor if prompt notification were made to them in such instances.

The Christian Social Union.

This is the name of an association which has existed for some time in England. The President is the present Lord Bishop of Durham, and the head of the Pusey House at Oxford is one of the Vice-Presidents. A similar society has lately been formed in this county, of which the Bishop of Central New York is the President and Prof. Ely of Johns Hopkins University is the Secretary.

The following are the objects of the Union.

"(1) To claim for the Christian Law the ultimate authority to rule social practice.

"(2) To study in common, how to apply the moral truths and principles of Christianty to the social and economic difficulties of the present time.

"(3) To present Christ in practical life as the living Master and King, the enemy of wrong and selfishness, the power of righteousness and love."

Any commmunicant member of the Church can belong to it.

It is proposed to form branches of the Union in different localities throughout the country, which will hold meetings from time to time for the study and discussion of social questions.

Such a branch has been formed in this city, the first meeting having been held in our parish building on the 10th of last month. It is proposed to continue the meetings here for the present on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 3 P. M.

The object of these meetings is simply for the study and discussion, of this deeply interesting and important subject, and any one can take part in them without being committed to any special theory in regard to it. We trust there are those in our parish who will be interested in attending them. There are no dues, but every one who can is expected to contribute at least 50 cents a year to the funds of the society.

HAVEN'T you been bothered many a time trying to remember the meaning of all these Bible terms? It is taken from a contemporary. Preserved where you can easily refer to it, it will prove helpful:

A gerah was a cent.
A cab was three pints.
An omer was six pints.
A shekel of gold was $8.
A firkin was seven pints.
A farthing was seven cents.
A talent of gold was $13,809.
A talent of silver was $538.30.
A bin was one gallon and two pints.
Ezekiel's reed was nearly eleven feet.
A cubit was nearly twenty-two inches.
A shekel of silver was about fifty cents.
A mite was less than a quarter of a glass.
A piece of silver or a penny was thirteen cents.
A Sabbath day's journey was about an English mile.
An ephah or bath, contained seven gallons and five pints.
A day's journey was about twenty-three and one-fifth miles.

"BE YE STEADFAST."

Cease lamenting, contemplating,
Mourning for "the might have been;"
Know the past is gone forever,
Try again, and work to win!
Daylight comes when darkness ends;
Shadow with our sunshine blends.
Then forget the faded fortunes
And forgive the faithless friends.

Silence sorrow, do your duty;
Mercy reigns, and God is good.
Trifled, trampled, all forsaken,
You will yet be understood.
In your darkest night a gleam
Of a kindly star must beam:
Infinite, Divine compassion.
Brotherhood is not a dream.

Do not nurse your mournful echoes
Of the dreary days gone by;
Let them perish! Do your ablest
Once again. You can but try.
Persevere, and stand the test;
Providence will do the rest.
Then, whatever may betide you,
You have done your very best.

Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

A general meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held on Nov. 12th, at the Church of the Epiphany, beginning with morning prayer at 10 A. M., at which addresses will be delivered by representatives of the four branches of its work. A light luncheon will be served between the morning and afternoon sessions. All women interested in the missionary work of the Church are invited to be present

LETTER FROM MEXICO.

The Rector recently received the following letter from one of our young men, who has gone to seek his fortunes in Mexico, which he thinks will be interesting to quite a number in the parish.

San Luis Potosi, Mexico.
Apartado 132.
September 20th, 1891.

Dear Mr. Hodge:-

I have been intending for some time past to write you, thinking you might be interested slightly in hearing from me. Last evening I received from Mr. Cope a copy of the ASCENSION NEWS, and brought forcibly to mind that which I left behind me. I was very glad to get it.

On my arrival at Galveston, Texas, I went right through to the City of Mexico, but when I got there I found a note awaiting me telling me to come up to this place, which was retracing my steps about 300 miles and bringing me that much nearer the U. S. I stayed at the capital a few days to take in some of the sights, and I trust that before turning my steps again northward, I shall be able to visit it again, for there is much to see. Just as I was getting on the cars, I met Mr. Gordon and introduced myself to him. Inasmuch as his particular district is the capital, I did not give him your letter, but will have to keep it until I am in a place where there is a clergyman, American or English. Here there is none. I believe there are Methodist or Presbyterians around, but they do not interest me.

San Luis is a city of about 60,000 inhabitants, and is situated in a valley surrounded by mountains on all sides, and is at an altitude of 6000 feet. Except during the mid-day, it is very pleasant, especially after 4 o'clock in the evening.

Just now I am living in the city itself, but most any day I will take up my residence in the mountains about four or five miles away.

From there, in the evening just as the sun is disappearing, casting its rays on the many Church towers in the city, a most beautiful view is obtained. I often go out horseback and return at that hour.

There are very few foreigners here, and these are mostly Germans. They are very good fellows. Last Sunday I went out with quite a party of them for a ride across the country. We made quite a cavalcade. In some of the American papers that have been sent me, I have read rumors of a near war in this country. So far as I can learn there isn't the slightest truth in it. Of course nearly all the time there are petty troubles in the different States, but the army rules the country to duty.

This last week, the celebration of Mexican Independence from the Spanish rule, has been going on. On last Tuesday and Wednesday the city was decorated all over with flags, lanterns and flowers. At night on the 15th the city and State palaces were one mass of fire from top to bottom. At 11 o'clock the Governor came out on the balcony of his palace, and repeated the words used by Hidalgo, 81 years ago, "Viva la Virgen de Guadalupe, Viva la Independencia de Mexico, muerto a los Espanoles." (long live the Virgin of Guadalupe, long live the independence of Mexico, death to the Spaniards,) and the people punctuated every sentence with viva, viva. A party of Americans got on the balcony of our house, and gave some Yankee yells for Mexico. All the bells in the place rang for half an hour, a dozen bands played the national hymn, and with all the yelling, pandemonium reigned for the next 30 minutes.

About every week is a grand feast day in the R. C. calendar, and the day is generally kept as a holiday. On such occasions, a lot of booths and tents are erected around some Church, and there for all day and night the Indians keep up their gambling, always first in the Mexican mind; drinking and dancing. The first few were quite interesting to me, but there are so many and all being alike, they are getting tiresome and I don't pay much attention to them now. For the present, I am living in a very nice house right opposite the Plaza Mayor. Nearly every night and Sunday morning and afternoon, we have music.

Sunday is a gala day. In the forenoon, crowds parade the streets, clowns advertising the bull fights, the lottery drawings take place, and one would think it was most any day than Sunday. I generally go to the Cathedral in the morning, read over our own service, read, and in the afternoon go out for a ride. The native amusements have no attraction for me.

I like the place very well now. At first it went rather hard, but I expected that, so did not give up my courage, and am now glad I stayed.

I shall be very glad to hear from you when you can write. My interest in the ASCENSION shall always remain unchanged. It is the parish through which I first knew the Church.

Yours Sincerely,

H. R. CARSON.

OUR FINANCIAL SITUATION.

It is right and necessary that our people should understand our present financial situation. Our financial year runs from May 1st to May 1st. On the first of May this year we came out, as is frequently the case with churches, with a deficit of some $300. This, instead of being made up at the time, was allowed to run over into the new year. And this year our expenses are much larger than they were last year, owing to the increase in the salaries of both the Rector and the Assistant Minister. And yet our income for the first six months of the current year has been no larger than it was for the corresponding period last year. We have therefore now not only the deficit left over from last year, but a much larger deficit for the expenses of the Church so far this year, with the likelihood of its still further increasing. Now how is this to be met? We know of no way but by larger contributions from our people.

We speak of this especially now in view of the approaching Christmas offering. We have always depended upon special contributions at Christmas and Easter to make up the amount needed to meet our expenses for the year, as our receipts Sunday by Sunday are not sufficient for the purpose. And as we have this year special need, so we ask that the Christmas offerings may be especially large.

In previous years we have had in addition to the ordinary offerings for the support of the Church, large special offerings for building and improvement purposes. One year we built the school building, another year the Church, later we added the chancel, later still we put in the organ and made the outside improvements. Now this year we are asking for nothing of this kind from our people. Will they not therefore give what they have in other years given for these purposes, this year towards our current expenses? We say this year because if we can manage to get through this year, another year we will be in receipt of the income of the fund left us by the late Mr. Johnson, which will be a very material help in meeting our current expenses.

We know that our people are interested in our effort to prove that a Church can be supported on the free principle. We have an excellent position here for doing the work of a free Church. And any one who knows anything of the character of our congregation, knows that it is largely composed of those who could not afford, and would not be likely to attend a pew Church. The Church is conducted in a way calculated to attract persons of different classes. The clergy do not spare themselves in providing services at all hours, and of all kinds. And the people are being reached, and could be reached in larger numbers if we had greater resources at our command. Shall not this good work go on and increase? To what better purpose could anyone contribute than that of maintaining a free and open Church for all people? Will not those who have been interested in this work hitherto, give as largely as they can to meet our current expenses, for that is our special need now?

And are there not those who can do something to relieve us of the incubus of our debt, either by a donation now or by making some provision for it in their wills? If it was not for this debt, we would have no difficulty in meeting our current expenses. We stand under special disadvantages with it, as a gentleman outside our parish said to us recently, "no free Church has a fair chance that has a debt on it."

By special arrangement we can pay $500, on account of this debt at any time. Who will give or leave us that amount, or more? Let every one think about it. And especially let every one remember just now our Christmas offering. We need to have it very large.

PARISH NOTES.

OFFERINGS AT WEEKDAY SERVICES.—The Finance Committee of the Vestry has taken the responsibility with the approbation of the Rector of directing the discontinuance of making collections at the Wednesday evening services, and at the ordinary early Celebrations on weekdays. The purpose is that our people may feel that they do not have to make an offering every time they come to Church. And the hope is, that more will attend these weekday services, if they are not always asked to give when they come. Any present at those services who desire to make a contribution, can do so by putting it in one of the alms boxes in the vestibule.

A SEWING MACHINE.—Is there not some one in the congregation who has a sewing machine they would like to give to the Church? It is very much needed for the work of the Ladies' Aid and our other sewing societies. The only machine we have is one purchased some years ago by S. Mary's Guild, which was second-hand when bought, and is now almost useless.

RECTOR'S BIBLE CLASS.—The Rector has been disappointed that so few thus far have cared to avail themselves of this opportunity for systematic Bible and Church instruction. He is very anxious to see his people all intelligent church people, and he is sure that there must be many subjects on which they need information. Will they not come and get it? Anyone can ask any question they like. The class is open to all, men and women, old and young. It meets in the Guild room every Friday at 8 P. M.

S. Marys' Guild had a very pleasant entertainment on their recreation meeting night last month. It consisted of a supper to which every member of the Guild was entitled to bring a friend. They are planning a public entertainment in January for the benefit of the Church. If the Guild get up such an entertainment we trust all in the congregation will interest themselves in buying and selling tickets. We should like to see all the young women of the parish in this Guild.

Sunday School Hymnal. We have lately introduced a special Sunday School Hymnal into use for our children's services. It contains hymns more appropriate for children than most of those in our Church Hymnal, and has also the office we use at the children's services. We trust its use will improve our music at that service, and make it more attractive for the children.

Christmas Festival and Decorations.—We trust our people will not forget to give a special offering to provide the Christmas festival for our children, and the decorations for the Church. One of the alms boxes in the vestibule will be devoted to these purposes for some weeks before Christmas, or donations may be handed to the clergy or the superintendent of the Sunday School.

Our Missionary Box.—We have generally got to work on our annual missionary box before this. But owing to the death of Mrs. Weaver, and the difficulty the Rector has found in getting anyone to take her place, we have been behind hand this year. Miss Hewson has, however, kindly consented to make the collections for it, and some of the other ladies will superintend the purchase and cutting out of the materials. If those, therefore, who are willing to contribute towards it, will give their donations to Miss Hewson, we shall soon get it started.

Clothing.—The members of the congregation will bear in mind that we can use any kind of clothing, even worn out shoes, at the Church. What is good enough we put in our missionary boxes, and the rest we use in our own work. The sexton will call for bundles if so directed.

Historical Sermon.—The third sermon in the historical course will be preached by the Rector on the evening of the third Sunday in this month, the subject being, "The Church under Constantine and his Successors."

Christmas Day.—There will be an additional early celebration of the Holy Communion at 6.30 A. M., as last year. The midday service will begin at 10.30 A. M.

The Christmas Music.—The choir is hard at work on the Christmas music. Every effort will be made to make the service on that day the most successful ever held in the Ascension. Orchestral instruments will be employed in sufficient number to supply brass instruments for the processional and full strings for the service. Gounod's famous S. Cecilia will be given. The Te Deum is not decided on. In the afternoon of the Sunday after Christmas the choir will sing, Stanford's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, and Goss' anthem, "Behold I bring you good tidings." The full force of boys (24) will be used, and the tenors and basses reinforced from the ranks of the University Glee Club.

Childrens' Festival.—Our usual Childrens' Christmas Festival will take place on the evening of Holy Innocents' Day, December 28th, at 7.30 P. M. The children will assemble in the church and sing their Christmas carols, and afterwards proceed to the school room, where some new features will be added this year to the entertainment.

We hope the parents of the children and others interested in the school will be present.

Christmas Offering. — Let every one remember to give a special Christmas offering to the church.

The Ladies' Aid Society will be glad to take orders for any kind of sewing.

The Year Book containing the report of the church for the past ecclesiastical year was distributed in the church on the first Sunday in Advent. Any one who did not get a copy can obtain one from the Sexton.

CHRISTIAN SOCIAL UNION

A meeting of the Philadelphia Branch of the Christian Social Union will be held in our Parish building, on Monday, December 14th, at 8 P. M., when the Rev. Dr. Hollond of St. Louis, who is one of the most eloquent preachers in the American Church, and who was really the inaugurator of this movement in this country, will be present and make a statement of the purposes of the Union.

Any one who is interested in the study of this most important subject of social economies is invited to be present. It is a subject which involves many difficulties and perplexities, and yet is of such vital consequence to the welfare of our Country and to the work of the Church, that we think all churchpeople ought to try and master it, and endeavor to carry out in their own lives and in the actions of those organizations or institutions, to which they belong or of which they form a part, the principles of the religion they profess.

Joining this Union commits no one to any particular theory. It is simply for study.

First Annual Report of the Kindergarten.

A Kindergarten was started last November in connection with the Church of the Ascension; the Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, having kindly given the daily use of the Sunday School room for the purpose. The locality proved to be a suitable one, as the attendance after the first few weeks increased rapidly, making it difficult for one teacher to carry on the work.

This Kindergarten was organized with the desire of bringing the neglected children of the neighborhood under a pure and cheerful influence.

The children are taken at an age when they are most impressionable, from 3 to 7 years.

In the Kindergarten materials we have the fundamental forms of nature, presented in their simplest elements and thus from the created, the child is led naturally to the source—the Creator.

The Kindergarten means true moral and religious culture for these little ones.

Since last November upwards of seventy children have been enrolled upon the books. The largest number at any one time being thirty-five, with an average daily attendance of about twenty children.

This Kindergarten has no money or resources apart from the voluntary subscriptions and donations of a few friends.

In order to carry on the work money is needed both for an assistant teacher's salary and for new materials.

Anyone who is willing to become an annual subscriber or to subscribe for this year only, may send their subscriptions to Miss Pauline Neidhard, 1511 Arch Street, or to Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, 334 S. Thirteenth Street.

We are glad to acknowledge the receipt of subscriptions and donations which have been sent to us during the past year from the following subscribers: Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell, Miss Clara Williamson, Mrs. Wm. Logan Fox, Miss Mary White, Miss Hoy, Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, Miss M. Wurts, Miss Ella Williamson, Mrs. Chas. Neidhard, Mrs. S. Decatur Smith, Jr., Mrs. J. W. M. Newlin, Mr. Chas. A. Eckels.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MEXICO.

As so many of our readers were interested in the letter from Mexico we published last month, we print another lately received. We think we shall have to ask Mr. Carson to become our regular correspondent.

San Luis Potosi, Mexico.
Nov. 13th, 1891.

Dear Mr. Hodge:

I received your letter four or five weeks ago, and was much pleased to hear from you. I am not living in the city proper any more, but am now "roughing it" some four or five miles out.

It is right up on the first elevation that goes to make up the mountains—the Sierra Madre—in these parts. The great valley of San Luis lies at our feet, and we can see for miles. Up to this last week, my business caused me to be in the saddle most of the time, and you can be sure, I thoroughly enjoyed it after being shut up in a Philadelphia office for four or five years.

Last week was one series of holidays; Sunday and Monday were All Saints' and All Souls' days, and nationally observed, and Wednesday was the Governor's birthday; besides, on Friday, the Governor and a party of distinguished Mexicans visited the works out here, so that day was also a holiday. On the Governor's day, I made one of a party of four, for a trip of 40 miles, to the mountains on the other side of the valley, 20 miles away. We started with the intention of visiting the famous San Pedro mine, but we were so slow in getting off, and had such a hard time finding something to eat at dinner time, that we were compelled to return, not having quite reached our destination. We will try another day and hope for better luck. From this mine, Spain received more gold than from any other in the world, save from Potosi, in Peru. In fact, from it, I believe, was taken the largest nugget of pure gold, that was ever found. So you can imagine I am interested in visiting it.

This coming Sunday, ten of us are going on a trip in a different direction.

I suppose the Roman Saints' days are celebrated in Europe about in the same manner as here, and you have some knowledge of them. All Souls' day was indeed a day for the dead, altho' of somewhat ghastly feasting. Throughout the market place, everything mostly was made to represent death. Candied skulls, skeletons, coffins, abounded all over. The real skull itself was occasionally seen. Coffins with bodies in them, were sold as toys. A string is pulled and the body springs up: I secured a cardinal in this condition.

But the celebration of the Governor's birthday, was magnificent. The great plaza had been transformed into a veritable fairy-garden.

For weeks past it had been inclosed from the public view, and one could only imagine what was going on within. But when the opening day came! Within were constructed quaint walks, extending up into the air, on artificial supports, up into the boughs of the trees; there were miniature cascades breaking over rocks; lakes, in which were swimming ducks, enjoying the freshest and cleanest water for months; bands were playing constantly soft music; mosses and flowers were everywhere. The lower class of people were excluded as they were unable to pay the admission fee. I did not know that these people here, seemingly so degraded, had so much taste. It is doubtless confined to the upper classes.

The lower people are suffering for the necessities of life almost, and that is saying a great deal.

They live entirely on corn, made into a cake, (being crushed, mixed with water and thrown on the coals) and beans. But within these last two or three years, there has been in some parts of the country, famine. Even here, in the State of San Luis, one of the most fertile in the country, corn is worth $4.50 for 30 pounds. Since I have been here, I do not believe we have had rain more than half a dozen times; and now the rainy season is past, and there can be no hope for it for the next eight or nine months at the soonest. Here at the works we have to buy water for ten cents for a small barrel.

I do not see how a human being can possibly live on less than these people. This company I am with pays the best wages in the country, almost. On its pay-roll are about 1000 names; three-fourth of these make 37½c. a day, or $2.25 a week. On this, they support families averaging eight and ten. Do you not think they have about solved the problem of living?

They are the most courteous and obliging people that can be found. I have been often invited to share with them their cold, heavy, tastless, corn cake (torpilla). On the road, if you encounter them, be he the poorest and most abject creature, it is always—"a Dios"—(be you in God's keeping).

I am enjoying my life here very much. I meet all kinds of people, from every part of the world. I appreciate the opportunities for seeing and knowing life, as I had never imagined before.

It is getting late, and besides I am tiring you. I am always glad to get news from Philadelphia, and you may be assured, not the least, to hear from you.

OUR CHRISTMAS.

We certainly had a very successful Christmas in our parish this year. Our music was admitted on all sides to have been the best we have ever had, probably finer than in any other church in the city. Our collection was the largest we have ever had at any time, Christmas or Easter, reaching, with some additional offerings which came afterwards, nearly $900.

Our Children's Festival was unusually successful; the attendance, both of children and adults, was larger than in former years, and the singing better, some novel features being introduced. The members of the Mother's Meeting received each a Christmas treat through the liberality of some members of the congregation, and the choir boys and men were given a special supper as a reward for their hard work in preparing for the Christmas music.

The number of communicants on Christmas day was not, we are sorry to say, quite as large as last year. There were more—which there should not have been—at the mid-day celebration, but not as many at the early ones. But this, we are sure, was largely due to the prevailing influenza, which we know has affected a great many in the congregation. The attendance both on Christmas day and the following Sunday was large, though not as large as we are sure it would have been but for the same cause. So all things considered, we have had a very successful Christmas.

Well, now can we not keep up an equal success all the time? We want to see the congregation filling up more, and the work extending. Will not each member of the parish see if they cannot contribute towards this? If each would feel a personal interest and responsibility in their church, we are sure they could. They can do it by being regular in their own attendance. Do not let little things keep you from church. As our services are now arranged, no one should have any excuse for not being at church at least once a Sunday, except in case of sickness or some other great emergency. If anything prevents your coming at the hour you usually attend, come at some other hour; and come to the weekday services as well as on Sunday. There has been a marked falling off of late in the attendance on Holy days, Wednesday evenings and at the daily service. Our people should not let their worldly occupations and interests interfere with their spiritual duties. We can't give too much attention to the latter. The beginning of a new year is a good time to make new resolutions about these things.

And then we hope our people will interest themselves in trying to bring others to our church. Tell your friends about the church and its services. A great many people know nothing of it. Except those living in the southern part of the city, few ever pass or see it. There is nothing to bring them this way. But if they were told of it we are sure they would be attracted to it.

And we must all remember that we have a great deal yet to be done. We want to get rid of our debt, which consumes so much of our annual income in paying its interest. We ought to be able to buy the property adjoining the church, so as to extend it to South Street, to give it proper dignity and prominence. And we want very much more room in our parish building, for Bible classes, infant school, gymnasium, work rooms, etc. All of these things would extend the influence and work of the church. Who will contribute towards them? Are there not those in the congregation who, if they cannot give more to the church than they are giving now, could remember it in their wills. The great hospitals and benevolent institutions we have in our city could never have been built or maintained, had it not been for the legacies they have received. No more can our churches do the work they should do, unless they are helped in the same way. And the Church is the greatest of charities.

Let each of our members take a deep interest in their church, and we are sure they can put it in such a position that it shall always be successful.

THE NEWS.

We are very happy to say that last year(1891) for the first time in the history of our parish paper, it fully paid its own expenses. Heretofore it has been necessary at the end of each year to ask for donations to make up the deficit. Neither the editor nor the business manager claim the credit for this satisfactory condition, for no matter how well the one may write or how hard the other work, if the parishioners do not take an active interest in the welfare of the paper, it cannot suceed. While we have many subscribers, we really ought to have more. Have you not some friend in the parish not at present a subscriber who would become so if you asked him? Nearly all of the advertisements will have expired by March 1st, 1892, and they have all been obtained by a very few persons. If the paper is to succeed as well this year as last, these expiring advertisements must be replaced by new ones, as it is not fair to expect the same people to keep on year after year. This can be very easily accomplished if the effort is made. Will you not help? The store where you deal most, will likely give us an advertisement if application for the same is made. Be good enough to try and we will continue to have that which very few parishes have, viz.: a parish paper paying expenses.

Every one seems to value the paper for the information it gives about the church. If so, it should be supported by each member of the parish subscribing for a copy or obtaining an advertisement.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two church calendars, a book and number of magazines for the parish library, 6½ tons of coal, a turkey, pair of chickens and quanity of clothing for the poor, candles for the altar, embroidered white silk altar bookmark, two embroidered linen corporals, 12 doz. oranges and number of articles for the Christmas tree.

THE CHRISTMAS MUSIC.—For the benefit of those who were so unfortunate as to be kept away from church on Christmas day and the Sunday following, we will say that the choir fully redeemed the promise given in our last issue, of making the music on that day the finest ever heard in the Ascension. All concerned, the choir master, the men and boys, and they who contributed the means to provide the orchestra—we don't know who they were—all deserve the utmost credit for their labor and efforts in the matter. There were forty persons in the choir, without counting the clergy, crucifer, banner bearers and acolytes. The orchestra consisted of seven instruments, and added immensely to the effect of the music. The service chosen is a most beautiful one, and was admirably rendered. The soloists did their parts well. Our special thanks are due to the extra voices who, though not regular members of the choir, sang on the occasion, and we understand volunteered their services. The only regret we have heard about the music was, that we could not have such services oftener. We shall at least look forward to another such at Easter.

THE CHANGES IN OUR CHARTER, of which we have spoken before, have now been effected, the Court having finally approved of them. So our church is legally as well as in fact a free church, we shall no longer have to have it announced that the pew rents were due, though they were for a nominal sum, and for an unappropriated seat. Nor will our annual reports show any longer, receipts for pew rents. Now for the first time, since the short lived experiment when the congregation was first formed fifty-nine years ago under the title of All Souls' Church, is the parish by its constitution a free Church, though it has at different times been conducted as a free church in spite of its pew rent charter. Nor can any subsequent Vestry hereafter ever rent pews or sittings without at least again applying to the Court and the Convention to have the charter changed. And now no longer will the power of controlling the election of the Vestry be, as it has been for the past eleven years, in the hands of a few who have taken the trouble to have themselves qualified by a special annual payment. Hereafter all the "communicant members of the parish who appear by the Vestry books to have been contributing towards the support of the church for one year" will be entitled to vote at each Vestry election. By "communicant members" is meant those whose names are on the Parish register as communicants. And by those whom "the Vestry books show to have been contributing for one year," is meant those whom the books of the Warden show as contributors for that time through the envelopes. These certainly are the persons who are most interested in, and have the best right to determine, who shall represent them on the Vestry.

BENEVOLENT ENVELOPES. — Look through the envelopes that have been sent you by the Warden and see if you have any for benevolent purposes, the poor, the schools, or missions, which you have not yet returned, and fill them up and return them before the next quarter, which begins with February, when the new envelopes are sent out. If you have attended service of a Sunday morning and put your regular envelope in the offertory, it is a very good plan to use one of these envelopes of an afternoon or evening if you are in church, or on the morning of some holy day when there is a collection, it will give you something to put in the plate.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject for the fourth of the course of sermons on the history of the Church, which will be delivered on the evening of the third Sunday of this month will be "The General Councils."

S. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.—Owing to the removal of several of the members of the Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood from our parish, its numbers have been seriously reduced of late, and we need some more young men to take their places. Are there not young men in the congregation who would be glad to serve the church in this organization? Their duties would be, not only to try to bring men outside of the parish to the church, but to act as ushers, especially at the Sunday evening service, distribute the leaflets, take up the collections, &c. As we have so many services on Sunday we cannot expect our Vestrymen to do this at all of the services, so this duty at the Sunday night service has been put upon the members of the Brotherhood. But we need more members in it. The regular meetings of the Chapter are on the second Thursday of each month, when new members can be always admitted.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 7th, to administer Confirmation in this parish. We trust that all in the parish who are old enough to receive it, and have not yet been confirmed, will present themselves at that time. A course of instructions preparatory to confirmation will be begun next month, of which due notice will be given. And it is of great importance that those intending to be confirmed should attend all of the instructions.

THINGS LEFT IN THE CHURCH.—The sexton has quite a collection of articles which have been left from time to time in our church, which he will be happy to return to their owners upon identification.

LIST OF COMMUNICANTS.—It is very difficult for the Rector to keep his list of communicants correct, as there are many persons attending the church, and making their Communions here regularly who never give him their names. And others move away without taking letters, as they should, to other parishes. The members reported from month to month as removed are often of those who, having removed without informing the Rector where they have gone, or having ceased to make their Communions at all, he has felt obliged to drop from the list. From this neglect on the part of cummunicants many cease to have any parochial connection whatever. Every church-member should be careful to see that he is always registered in some parish.

Miss Parmelee,

Attention is again called to the fact that it would greatly simplify matters if people would promptly renew their subscriptions after being notified of the expiration of same. It is sometimes necessary to send five or six notifications before a renewal is secured. Of the 44 expirations in December less than 20 have renewed; nearly, if not all, will renew, they simply forget the matter. Please bear this in mind. And as it is difficult to send fifty cents by mail to the business manager, hand it to him when you see him in church, or hand it to the Sexton to give him, or put it in an envelope with your name and address marked for the ASCENSION NEWS, and drop it in one of the alms boxes in the vestibule.

A Vision of the Hereafter.

"I had a dream, which was not all a dream"—
Methought I stood beside a placid stream
Whose farther shore was hidden from mine eyes
By murky clouds, and mists which seemed to rise
From off the water, on whose glassy face
A countless fleet of vessels I could trace,
Each laden with a ransom'd sinner's soul,
Which onward pressed towards a shining goal.
Each craft, though guided by an unseen Hand,
Around was compass'd by an angel band,
Whose dulcet voices blended in that hymn
Continually sung by cherubim
And seraphim, around the great white Throne,
"Thrice Holy, glory be to God alone."

And as each wand'rer stepped upon the shore,
I saw that all upon their foreheads bore
The sacred sign of our Redemption, there
Imprinted by God's earthly messenger,
And o'er each one a spotless robe was thrown—
Christ's Righteousness it's name, for He alone
By His Atonement for all earthly sin
Had granted them the boon to enter in
The blessed, holy, heav'nly City's gate,
Upon whose threshold we all seemed to wait;
For glancing downward, I, poor worm, perceived
That I the snow-white raiment had received.

The City's walls, with precious stones inlaid,
Arose before us; and each gate was made
Of but a single pearl. These open stood;
No guardian there, for nothing could intrude
That savored aught of sin, or evil deed.
The way was straight, and it did onward lead
Unto the glorious center, where the Throne
Of the Divinity in splendor shone.
There Patriarchs and Prophets, side by side,
With the Apostolic college were allied;
The Martyrs' noble army, matron, maid,
Confessors all for Jesu's Name, arrayed
In garments whitened by the precious stream
On Calvary shed—which did their souls redeem.

A song was raised, the music soft at first
Then grandly swelled, and in full harm'ny burst;
Ten thousand times ten thousand tongues intone
The wond'rous strain before the Almighty's Throne,
No organ there, to lead the tuneful throng,
As onward rolled the great, majestic song;
But strings of golden harps the harpers wrought,
And their sweet notes unto the chorus brought.
"Hosanna in Excelsis"—this the cry
Which swept around the Throne of God most High!
Anon the loud "Amen" was thund'red out,
And voices from afar took up the shout:
While echoes from the distant realms of light
Repeated "Alleluia."

Here my sight
Grew dim: The music ceased, and some one spoke,
I hearkened to his words, and then awoke.

Outline History of the Catholic Church.

[We cull the following from the neat little Manual of Trinity Church, Michigan City, Ind., drawn up by the Rev. H. Baldwin Dean.]

There is in the world one true, holy, Catholic (or universal) Church which was founded by Jesus Christ, the Divine Son of God, and completed by His Apostles under the inspiration of the Holy Ghost. This Catholic Church, its teachings, its Sacraments, and its worship, are the means of salvation for mankind.

The Church is a Divine institution with a human mission—not a human institution with a Divine mission. An organization for dispensing Christianity; and not an organization for the attainment of Christianity.

A corporation of believers; not a company of believers.

The kingdom of Heaven seeking men on earth; not a society on earth seeking the kingdom of Heaven.

This Church with its Apostolic ministry, faith, sacraments, and form of worship, was planted in every country of the then known world before the end of the first century.

This Church was planted in England as early as the days of the Apostles, or their immediate successors, (three British Bishops sat in the Council of Arles, A.D. 314), and it has had a continuous historic existence in that country to the present day. This is the Anglican branch of the Catholic Church.

The Church of England was planted in this country two hundred and eighty years ago; and when the United States became independent of the mother country it was made a separate national branch of the Anglo-Catholic Church and given the name of Protestant Episcopal.

It is the only Church in this country which has kept the Apostolic form of government by the three orders of the ministry—Bishops, Priests and Deacons; has kept the faith of the Apostles unchanged; has kept itself free from, and protesting against the errors of doctrine and polity into which other bodies of Christians have fallen; and has retained the forms of the Apostolic Church.

The legal name of the body in this country is the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, but the true historic name is The Church in the United States.—Diocese of Arkansas.

The crosses which we make for ourselves by over anxiety as to the future are not heaven sent crosses.

THE FREE CHURCH SYSTEM.

We are very anxious that every one belonging to this parish should understand exactly what is meant by a free church, and should be interested in the extension of that system.

A free church is not one in which the attendants are not expected to give anything for its support, but one in which all the seats are free and people are expected to give, not in proportion to the advantage of the seat which is secured to them, but in proportion to their ability. The custom of selling and renting seats in churches, arose in this country from its being a convenient method of securing a revenue for churches which had no endowment. And at first when the community was small, and today in small places where every one is known and can be provided with a seat, it is not so objectionable, though we think it is never edifying or well to have people graded in the church according to their wealth. But now that our cities have become so large, and there is such a variety of classes of people, that system has become most harmful, and is actually the means of alienating multitudes of persons from the church. We have come to have class churches, that is, churches in which the pew rent is so high that no poor person, or persons in moderate circumstances can afford to attend them, and no single person, unless he takes a whole pew to himself, can go to them. And then we have poor, mean, unattractive churches, where persons who can't afford anything better are expected to go. And the numbers of young men and women and persons living in boarding houses, the floating population of our large cities, who do not stay long enough in one locality to make it worth their while to take a pew or sitting, get out of the way of going to church at all because they feel, and most naturally and properly, uncomfortable in going to a church where the pews are rented. And so it is with that still larger class who do not care sufficiently for religion to be willing to stipulate beforehand that they will give a prescribed sum for its support, and yet who, if our best churches were thrown open to them freely, would go to them, and be benefitted, and perhaps saved from openly sinful or irreligious lives.

For that reason we believe as a matter of principle that all our churches should be free, that is, that no charge should be made for attending them, or anything done to make any one feel that he has no right to, or is not welcome there. Of course, churches have to be supported, they cannot be carried on without money. But if you welcome all people to them, and get them there and interest them, then you can teach them to give freely and generously according to their means for their support, and you can adopt any system to secure regular and systematic offerings that does not interfere with the freedom of the seats.

So we want all attending this church to understand that this is not a church in which you are not expected to give anything for its support, nor is it simply a mission for the poor, or for those who can't afford to go elsewhere. What we want to do here is to build up a church which shall be second to none in the city in its attractiveness, and to prove that churches can be just as well supported, and do vastly better work on the free church principle than on any other, and so do what we can towards breaking down the pew system altogether. We want to banish it from the church because we believe it is a great hindrance to the growth of the church, the great cause of the alienation of the masses. Already two-thirds of our churches in this country are free. But we want to see them all free, and we are sure the church cannot do its full work until they are.

There is an association existing for this purpose, called the Free and Open Church Association, and we should be glad if all the members of this congregation would join it. The annual dues are $1 a year, and any one who will hand his name and that amount to the Rector for the purpose, he will see that he receives his certificate of membership. The association carries on its work throughout the whole country by disseminating papers, holding meetings, etc., to create a public sentiment in favor of this system. Thus as members of that association, and by trying to build up our own church, let us do all we can to promote this great cause of making all the Houses of God in the land free to all people.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—A large wooden cross, a linen alb, photograph of the Rev. Samuel Cox, D. D., Dean of the Cathedral at Garden City, Long Island, sometime Rector of this church. A linen corporal, chalice pall, purificator and maniple were made and embroidered for a missionary station in the west. Five barrels of holly were sent to the church before Christmas and should have been acknowledged in our last number. The holly was unusually good and added very much to our Christmas decorations.

FATHER HUNTINGTON, of New York, will address the Christian Social Union in our parish building on Tuesday, February 9th, at 3 P. M. The public generally are invited to be present.

The Rev. W. D. Bliss, of Boston, will also preach in our church on the same subject on Sunday morning, March 6th.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS.—Beginning with Friday evening, February 19th, the Rector's Bible and Question Class will be made a class of instruction for confirmation. The Rector trusts that all in the parish who are of sufficient age and have not yet been confirmed will give him their names for presentation this year, and that they will be careful to attend all the instructions that are given preparatory to it, that thus they may come to it intelligently and devoutly.

THE HISTORICAL SERMON this month will be preached on the evening of February 14th. The subject being "Monasticism."

AN ENTERTAINMENT will be given by St. Mary's Guild in the parish building, Tuesday, February 23rd, 1892, under the direction of Miss M. J. Jackson. The programme will consist of music and calisthenics, some features of which will be a fan, tambourine, scarf and tennis drill, and a play entitled "Mrs. Willis' Will." As the proceeds are for the benefit of the church it is sincerely hoped that every one will try and be present. Tickets 25 cents, reserved seats 50 cents, which can be procured from any member of the guild, or from the sexton.

BENEVOLENT CONTRIBUTIONS.—Since May 1st, 1891, the following special envelopes have been returned: for the poor 30, support of the schools 30, general missions 35; thus out of 150 envelopes sent out during the year for each of the above objects, only about 30 of each have been returned. Those receiving the others have given nothing to these objects. Is this right? If every member of the congregation would give something, even though it is a small amount, to each of the benevolent purposes for which they are called on, it would give us enough to carry on our work, and make a fair contribution for the purposes outside our parish. Do not refuse to give anything because you can't give a great deal.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS—The special benevolent envelopes this quarter are for diocesan missions. For this purpose we need $133.29. The parish being assessed $100 by the Convocation for the missionary work of the diocese, and $33.29 by the stewards of the Sustentation fund for the support of feeble parishes. These are canonical requirements. The diocese expecting this parish to contribute this amount towards its general work. Shall we not fulfill these obligations? Apart from the motive of charity which should be sufficient to make our people give to these purposes, it certainly looks very bad for a parish to spend all it has on itself and not give anything towards the work of the church at large. People will say it is the fault of the free church system.

OUR OLD ALTAR.—Our people will be interested in learning what has become of the altar we had in the old church. It was first erected, we believe, when the church was improved under Dr. Ogilby in 1847, and was used until the church was sold in 1885. It was then presented to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Kensington, where it stood until the erection of their new building which was completed last spring. It was then sent to a church in Monrovia, Liberia in Africa, where it is much prized. It had to be carried a long distance on the backs of natives to its destination, no other mode of transportation being available. Thus on another continent it still serves its sacred purpose. If any one will give us a handsomer altar than the one we have now, we will gladly transport it to as great a distance.

OUR ANNUAL MISSIONARY BOX is at last under way. Miss Hewson has kindly consented to make the the collections for it, and Mrs. Gilpin to superintend its being made up. Work is being cut out for it, and pieces may be obtained any Wednesday after morning or evening prayer. The work can be taken home. The box is to be sent to a clergyman in the west.

THE SUNDAY MORNING COLLECTION—A change in regard to the Sunday morning collection will be made this month. Heretofore, since we have been having the two services on Sunday morning, we have been having two collections, one for each service. But, as a majority of the people remain through both the services, it has been objected that this was practically having two collections in the same service, and that many persons felt awkard if they did not contribute each time and others did not understand it. To obviate this it has been determined to have hereafter only one collection, which will be made during the singing of a hymn immediately after the sermon. The alms however, will not be presented until the proper place in the service. And during the presentation and the preparation of the chalice and first oblation of the elements, instead of the hymn which was formerly sung there will be substituted the short anthem "Benedictus que venit," "Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord, Hosanna in the Highest", which always occured in the ancient office, and music for which is provided in all the communion services we sing. And in order to obviate the singing of two hymns, one after the other, instead of singing a hymn, as formerly for the introit, the ancient Psalms, appointed in the first English prayer book of King Edward VI. will be used. This arrangement will improve our service both liturgically and musically and at the same time will do away with passing the plate round twice to the same people.

ALTAR LINEN—The Rector has lately had applications for sets of altar linen for churches in the South and West. Are there not some of our ladies who would like to be constantly making up sets of such linen to give away? It would afford them a pleasant handiwork and at the same time be a great charity. Any member of our Altar Committee would give directions as to sizes etc.

OLD CLOTHING.—The Rector made an appeal a few Sundays ago which we trust the members of the congregation will bear in mind. That was for old clothing, especially children's clothing, even old shoes and pieces of stuff that could be torn up for carpet rags. The ladies in charge of the benevolent work can use anything of this kind that is sent to the church. We have frequently cases of children who cannot attend Sunday School, because they have not the shoes nor clothes to come in. And in large families in narrow circumstances clothing of this description is most acceptable, and in order not to pauperize those who receive it, the committee having its distribution in charge have adopted the plan, not of giving it away, but of selling it at low figures. Persons having bundles to send to the church at any time can inform the sexton and he will call for them.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—Some of the members of S. Andrew's Brotherhood propose starting with this month, a night school to be held every Thursday evening, for the purpose of teaching boys over ten years of age, writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, athletics, &c. A penny savings bank will also be be started in connection with it.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—It is proposed to have a series of sermons under the auspices of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, on one Sunday evening of each month, by a special preacher. The first will be preached on the last Sunday evening of this month. The name of the preacher will be announced later.

From our Mexican Correspondent.

San Luis Potosi, Mexico
January 10th, 1892.

Mr. Editor:

If any words of mine can add to the interest of the readers of the ASCENSION NEWS, they will be most cheerfully given.

But I will promise to endeavor not to weary them, nor yet to exclude subjects of more importance and interest than that of Mexico.

Perhaps, to most of your readers in the staid and goodly old city of Philadelphia, this country appeals chiefly as the land of the Aztecs, the Montezumas; as the scene of the wonderful exploits of Cortez and his band of adventurers; and later, as the haunt of bandits and revolutionists, and the home of a race, teacherous and barbarous. It certainly has had a wonderful history, and is but now emerging from the obscurity of past ages, and taking its place among the civilized nations of the earth.

Races of people, now entirely unknown as to whence they came or whither they have gone, once wandered over these cactus covered hills. Buried treasures are continually being found showing traces of a civilization comparing favorably with that of ancient Grecian and Roman cities. Perhaps the people may yet be found in some remote and inaccessible parts of the mountains. Adventurers bring us strange stories.

However, it is not of the past history, nor the promises of the future that I would write. The pen of the historian and antiquarian would be more interesting than mine, and smoother phrases and more glittering promises will the speculator and "boomer" give you.

But, to give a glimpse of the every-day life of these people, is all I desire, and as much as you wish.

Man is about the same the world over. One may be a little less civilized than his brother, and also, somewhat dirtier. The Mexican (I am writing of the typical native) is the living proof of both these assertions. The large cities have, of course, their modern laws, but one has but to go a few kilometres away from the city limits, and the native will be found in all his primitive and untrammeled glory.

On the maps of Mexico numerous rivers are represented, and one would naturally suppose that the country was plentifully supplied with water. Did the curious seek to trace one of these rivers, in reality, he would find the river-bed, but the river as known to our northern minds, would be lacking. Except during certain periods of the year, and these periods rather uncertain, there is very little rain. On the outskirts of every city and running into the cities, are always to be found a number of narrow ditches, containing generally six or eight inches of water. These ditches are the laundry and bath-houses. Every day in the week, Saturday, chiefly, may be seen the lavenderas (wash women) bending low over the waters seeming to bring certain destruction to the clothes, for her wash-board is a stone, and the soap, often, a certain root. (It may not be necessary for me to say, that the subjects of these operations belong almost always to some one else than the operator). The clothes are spread out on the cactus to dry, and at the close of the day are packed in large baskets and carried deftly on the head, while on the back is strapped oftimes a baby. All is not work, however, for the tongue of the lavendera is very loose. Here is a portion of their salutation, repeated, in unison.

Buenos dias, senora; como pasa usted la noche? Muy bien, mil gracias. Me alegra, mucho.

("Good morning, lady, how did you pass the night?" "Very well, a thousand thanks." "I am very glad to know it.")

The variations to this part are very few, but then comes the inquiries after all the family, best wishes for the day, etc., etc. It must be remembered that question and answer are repeated at the same time.

ASCENSION POLYTECHNIC

Some of the members of the Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew of our parish have undertaken lately a new agency for reaching and benefitting the boys of our parish and neighborhood. It has been called the Ascension Polytechnic.

It opened on Thursday evening, the 4th of February, with a membership of 53. At the second meeting there were 72 present, at the third 80, at the fourth 116, making a total attendance for the month of 321 boys.

The Polytechnic is open every Thursday evening from half past seven until half past nine.

The object of the institution is to combine work with pleasure. The first half hour being devoted to an entertainment of some kind, or an enteresting talk. After that the boys go into different class rooms where they are taught, book-keeping, penmanship, short hand, arithmetic, free hand drawing, etc. So far we have been very successful, having classes in five branches in good running order.

Each boy is supplied with a card certifying that he is a member, which he is required to present at the door. The only qualifications for membership being that he is above ten years of age, and that he will agree to conform with the rules.

There is also a saving fund connected with it, in which any amount from one cent up may be deposited, receiving interest at four per cent. So far it has a membership of 20, any member of the Sunday School or the Polytechnic may become a depositor. We hope that the parents will encourage their children to join the saving fund, for it will instil habits that will never be regretted, and we offer unusual advantages for saving, as we do not ask for any specified amount, as is asked by nearly all, if not all, the institutions of like character. And besides we give a higher rate of interest. Any one wishing to inquire further into the matter can refer to Mr. J. Lardner Howell, Treasurer.

In addition to this we have an employment agency in which any boy wishing a situation, registers himself. In connection with this, we wish to ask a favor of the members of the parish, and that is, if any time they may need or know of any one needing an errand boy, office boy, or even a clerk, that they will come to us. We inquire fully into the character, habits, etc., of the boys, and would not recommend any one of whom we did not have a personal knowledge.

Such is a brief outline of the plan and purpose of this undertaking. In order to insure its success we need in the first place more teachers, who will be willing to give their time and interest to it, and in the second place, money or materials which are needed to carry it on. We shall be glad to receive donations of writing paper, pencils, penholders, rubbers, etc., and hope that some will be sent to us. any packages left at the church will reach us by marking them "for the Polytechnic." Mr. H. W. Montgomery, the Superintendent, will be glad to give any further information in regard to the general workings, etc. of the school, to any one who may be interested.

LENT.

With the beginning of this month we enter upon the holy season of Lent. We trust it will be a new call to the members of our parish to renewed devotion and activity. We think there is room for improvement among our members in both these respects. The attendance of our people at church both on Sundays and weekdays is not what it should be. We have enough people now belonging to the parish, together with the strangers who come, of whom we have so many, to make the church crowded at the principal Sunday services if all came, and to give a good attendance at all weekday services. Let all resolve with the beginning of this Lent to do their duty in this respect. We see so much slackness of living resulting from neglect of church attendance that we cannot insist to strongly on its necessity.

Then, too, we do not see the readiness to engage in church work that there ought to be. We have here a wide field, ripe for harvest, but we have not the laborers to work in it. Classes in our weekday and Sunday School might be multiplied almost indefinitely if there were Christian men and women who were willing to become faithful and conscientious teachers. Can our people sit still and feel that this work could be done, and ought to be done, and make no attempt to do it? Let each one ask this Lent: am I doing all I should and could do in the Master's vineyard? And may the Holy Spirit stir up many hearts plentiously to bring forth the fruit of good works to the praise and honor of God's Holy Name.

PARISH NOTES.

S. Mary's Guild Entertainment on Feb. 23rd, proved a most enjoyable occasion. The members of the Guild, the ladies in charge, and especially Miss M. J. Jackson who so kindly volunteered her services to train those who were to take part in it, worked very hard for many weeks previous to prepare for it. Considerable expense was incurred in erecting a special stage providing costumes, calcium lights, etc., all of which conduced to producing a great success. Our schoolroom was filled to its utmost capacity and more tickets could have been sold had there been more space. The entertainment consisted of a tambourine drill and a scarf drill by some twelve of the younger girls of the Sunday School; a tennis drill by sixteen young ladies not belonging to our parish, who most kindly contributed their services; a fan drill by twelve members of S. Mary's Guild, dressed in most becoming and effective Japanese costumes; together with some vocal music by a boy and three little girls, and a violin solo, all of which were very good. This was followed by a play in one act in which four of S. Mary's girls took part, and which was most admirably rendered. We had no idea the Guild possessed such dramatic talent. Altogether a great deal was given for the money paid, and a most agreeable evening's entertainment provided, and quite a little sum of money was netted for the church, for which it returns its thanks to the Guild.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW—The monthly meeting of our chapter of the Brotherhood has been changed to the first Tuesday of the month instead of the second Thursday as heretofore on account of the night school which is held every Thursday. But in addition to the monthly meeting the members are asked to come every Thursday and assist in this school, and a short meeting will be held each week after it to consult about work.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rev. W. D. Bliss, of Boston, who has been commissioned to present the objects of the Christian Social Union in different parts of the country, will preach in our church on Sunday morning, March 6th, on this subject. He will also address the members of the Union at their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon, March 8th, at 3 o'clock in our parish building. Anyone interested in the subject is invited to be present.

The course of sermons arranged by our Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, which was so ably inaugurated by the Rev. Dr. Mortimer last Sunday evening, will be continued this month by the Rev. Dr. Stone, Rector of Grace Church, on the evening of March 27th.

The next sermon by the Rector in his historical course will be preached, Sunday evening, March 13, the subject being "The Conversion of the Barbarians."

As in former years, there will be a short lecture after evening prayers every Friday during Lent at 5 P. M.

ADDRESS TO MEN.—Mr. G. Harry Davis, President of the Local Council of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, will deliver an address to men in the Guild room of our parish building, on the evening of Tuesday, April 5th. We hope all the men of the parish will be present.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS are being given by the Rector every Friday evening in the Guild room, and all in the parish not yet confirmed are earnestly invited to attend them.

QUIET DAY FOR WOMEN—We would remind the female members of our parish of the notice we gave in our last issue of a Quiet Day for Women to be conducted by the Bishop of Pittsburgh in the Church of the Holy Trinity, 19th and Walnut Sts., on March 10th, from 9.30 A. M. to 5.00 P. M. Also of a Conference to be held in the lecture room of the same church on the following day, March 11th, sessions beginning at 10.00 A. M. and 2.30 P. M. We trust as many of the women of our parish as can do so, will attend these meetings.

S. JOHN'S GUILD GAMES.—The members of St. John's Guild may congratulate themselves on the success of their first public display of athletics on the evening of Washington's Birthday. Three silver medals were given for a high jump, fifteen yards dash and a wrestling match. The members of the Guild who distinguished themselves in these were David McCracken, Reynolds Clarke and Jas. Honnen. A trophy, in the form of two-handled silver cup, for the best team at a "Tug-of-War", was won by the members of the Guild of St. Luke's Church. This trophy will remain as an object of competition by the athletes of the various Church Guilds in the city until won three times by the same Guild, when it becomes absolutely the property of that Guild. A large audience, which filled every available part of our hall, showed their interest in the sports by loud and frequent applause.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS—The special envelopes sent out at the beginning of the present quarter for this purpose have been coming in very slowly; and yet this parish is expected to give $133.29 for this object before May 1st. Our people must understand that the purpose of these offerings is to support missions in the poor and degraded neighborhoods in our city, where the offices of religion are so much needed, and in the poorer country portions of our diocese.

While contributing to carry the Gospel to a distance, we must not forget those at our doors who need its influences. Lent is a good time to contribute to these charities, and those who have recently contributed to the missionary box, must not think that that excuses them from giving to any other missionary purpose. That was a special work of the women of the parish. The missionary contributions through the envelopes go to sustain the regular work of the church, in which this parish is expected to bear its share.

BAPTISMS.—We have had very few baptisms in the church of late. By the rubrics of the prayer book the clergy are directed to "often admonish the people that they defer not the baptism of their children longer than the first or second Sunday next after their birth, or other Holy Day falling between, unless upon a great and reasonable cause." This being the direction of the church what are we to think of those people who deliberately let their children go months and even years unbaptised? If there are any such in the parish now we trust they will heed this admonition, and bring their children to Holy Baptism without delay.

THE MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies in charge of the missionary box having collected for the purpose over $80, the necessary materials, etc., for it were purchased, the work cut out and made up, and the box sent off to its distination. In fact two boxes were sent, one to a clergyman in North Dakota, and the other to his wife who is in Canada with a child who is there at school. The first box was valued at $50, and the second at $75.

Any ladies who would like to assist in sewing for another box which is to be sent to a school for Freedmen children in the South, are invited to meet with the members of the Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoons during Lent at 3.00 o'clock, and make up garments for it. We don't know whether our people are aware that these church schools are the only schools that are provided for the Freedmen in many of the Southern States, and there is great destitution among those who attend them.

From our Mexican Correspondent.

(Continuation.)

In one of Janvier's stories of this country are the following lines, "and as a dead burro is a thing almost unknown, the people came from miles around to look at his little fuzzy corpse, and stroked, almost tenderly, his long ears out of which the wag had gone forever."

To any one acquainted with the burro (the Rocky-mountain canary bird, as he is known in the West) it will appeal as a striking picture. There is no friend so faithful to these Mexicans, as this same shaggy burro. Who else has seen the household changes of the succeeding generations, father, son and baby? Hungry, but never complaining; beaten and cuffed, and he is as the most contented house-pet. Put in the fields among the cactus, hobbled, he jumps from blade of grass to blade of grass; a thorny piece of of cactus over an eye, and another over his mouth. He looks contentedly at the landscape, and muses—upon what? In course of time, perchance, the cactus dies and drops off; then does he complete his meal off the scanty grass.

Harness is an invention entirely needless in his case. To make him go forward, one has but to put a hand under his jaw, and with another, catch hold an ear, and shout "burro, arrah, burro." Do you want him to stop, catch hold his tail. To turn, hit him on the face; and so he goes whithersoever you will. It must not be forgotten to accompany all manipulations with "burro, arrah," and also sundry whistles.

As I have written of the burro, so must I also say a word for that other product of this soil, the cactus. It is a prolific family, 999 in all I am told. Were there nothing else to subsist upon, I am sure the Mexican could live and enjoy life upon this.

From it he gets his drink, food, clothes, medicines and all necessities. Is he injured, or his burro, or a friend, "un poco de maguey esta' muy buena" (a little maguey is very good) and straight-way to the door of his jacal does he go, and secures the certain "specific." Is the house-wife in need of a needle and thread, (a very rare occasion), she turns to the plant at her elbow, securely grasps the thorn at the and, giving it a turn or two around a stick to assist her hold, a pull, end out comes needle and thread combined. From the cactus is secured the great national drink, pulque. The root of it is also used as a "dulce" (a sweet). It is cooked in sugar and mescal (a native whiskey) and sold around the streets. Multitudinous are the uses of the plant, few of which I know, but it is safe to say, it answers the Mexican's every want.

A few days before Christmas, I was approached by a Mexican having a sentence written in Spanish and which he desired to have translated into English.

This was the translation, "according to the custom of the Americans, I come to ask you for my Christmas (present)."

Perhaps I did wrong in not endeavoring to explain away his idea of the "custom of the Americans," but I left him in his ignorance. Some victim, probably thanks me for not doing so.

Pilgrimages seem to many of us, simply as acts of the middle ages, or at least some other century than ours. Here, they are of frequent occurence, and the traveler often encounters the pilgrims back on the dusty roads of the country, wearily trudging on to their mecca.

Not far from where I write, there is a church called the Church of the Desert. It is well named. From almost all sides it is inaccessible, but to the initiated there is a narrow trail that leads to it. Not long ago I visited it. Once across the moats that surround it, one is confronted with a most unearthly stillness, broken suddenly by a "caw, caw," from the towers. A sacristan is at the door, and for a fee, will show the visitor the building, the chapels and towers. He says there are no plate nor vestments, for they are all gone. Going out once more into the sun-light, most mournful wails came upon the ear. Putting my horse in position, I awaited. Soon, around a spur of the mountain, came a most motley throng, fully 250 women.

At the head of the procession, trudged a stout old bare-footed Indian woman, a white rag wrapped around her head, and from it protruding four sticks. After her, came four "choristers" in a line leading the singing. Then the others, two by two, barefooted, carrying stout canes, eyes steadfastly on the ground and screaming, screeching, singing the same wierd shout over and over again. On the backs of all, of children as well as the women, were strapped heavy loads of provisions and offerings for the Saint whom they were visiting, and in whose presence they would remain four or five days. At the end of the procession, painfully keeping up with the rest, were two old women struggling along on their knees. For propiation or thanks? And so, I left them. Within, the shrieks and moans of enthusiasts; without, the last rays of a setting sun striking upon the venerable ruins. Had those stone walls tongues, what might they not tell?

EASTER.

During this month occurs the greatest festival of the Christian year. Easter is rightly esteemed the greatest of all festivals, because it commemorates and sets forth the great central fact upon which the whole truth of our religion rests. It was the fact of Christ's resurrection from the dead which proved Him to be the Son of God, and so the Saviour and infallible Teacher of all men, and able to open for them the gate of everlasting life. And the mere observance of this festival is the best answer and refutation of that miserable modern philosophy which is trying to rob the world of this Divine Saviour and of all belief in the supernatural. As long as Chistians keep the festivals of Christmas and Easter, so long will they believe that Christ was miraculously born and miraculously rose from the dead. Unless those are true facts these feasts are meaningless mockeries.

But that those are true facts has been the uniform, unvarying belief of Christians everywhere from the beginning, and that belief has been the power of Christianity, for as S. Paul says: "If Christ is not risen, your faith is vain." If the Christian world should come to lose its faith in the great fact that Easter teaches, religion would soon lose its power to influence and mould the lives of men. It is as true in this age as it was in the first century, that the Church spreads in proportion to the fidelity with which its ministers preach "JESUS and the Resurrection."

And, believing as we do, this cardinal fact of our religion, how natural and becoming is it that we should make the day that commemorates it, the greatest and most joyous in the year. Well is it, that the Church should thus teach the world the importance which she attaches to that event, how she makes the whole of the message that she brings dependent upon its truth; well that in every possible way she should exalt and magnify the keeping of this day, to make men realize all that it imports, the tremendous consequences that flow from it.

So it is that Easter has been universally observed as a day for general communion. If a man has any faith at all as a Christian, this is the natural time he should declare it. This is the great annual muster, so to speak, of the Church's army, in which she tenders to each one the oath of allegiance. And if a man feels that he cannot receive the sacrament even once a year, he thereby confesses himself an infidel or a sceptic, or as living so evil a life that he cannot profess in any sense to be a Christian.

But while it is the bounden obligation of every Christian to Communicate at least at Easter, yet all should come to that sacrament with such preparation and devotion that it may be to them the veritable beginning of a new life in this world, which will be to them the best ground for hope of a joyful resurrection in the world to come. We hope, therefore, not only that all our people will make their communions at Easter but that they will make good Communions.

So, too, Easter is the natural time when all Christians will want to make some special offering to God and to His service. There is nothing else which so proves the depth and sincerity of one's belief or one's affections as the giving of our substance, some substantial token, that which costs us something. If we care for any one, we want to give that person some gift as a manifestation of our love. So if any one appreciates his religion, feels what an unspeakable blessing it is to him, he will as naturally want to do, or give something, to attest his feeling, and as Easter is the culminating day of the whole Christian year, so is it the great day for offerings. Every Christian should make a special Easter offering. The general offerings in our Church this year will be for our current expenses. This is the first obligation we have to meet and we need a large sum, certainly $1000, to enable us to come out even at the end of our financial year, May 1st.

If beyond this anyone wants to do something special, there is our debt which we have not yet begun to reduce, but of which we can pay off $500 at any time. And then there are many things in the way of enlargement and ornamentation which the church needs, which could be given as memorials. We know of one or two such, which will appear at Easter or soon after.

Let each one keep the feast with sincerity and truth, and bring a large offering of a willing heart.

THE HOLY WEEK.

The last week in Lent which commemorates our blessed Lord's passion and death is the great culmination of the devotions of the whole Christian year. Anyone who can divest himself of worldly concerns and duties, should, if possible, give up the whole of his time during this week to the devotional study of the Passion. But if one cannot do that, such abundant provision of services is made in this parish during the entire Holy Week, that everyone can at least attend one service each day. There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion, which includes the reading of all the accounts of the Passion each day at 7.30 A. M. and 10 A. M., the latter being preceded by Morning Prayer, at 5 P. M., Evening Prayer, and at 8 P. M., a sermon on the Passion.

On Good Friday we follow the Anglican custom of having a celebration as on other days. Our Prayer Book not having any provision as the Greek and Latin liturgies have for the Mass of the Presanctified. But as it is not a day for rejoicing, we have only the solemn low early celebration, not the usual second celebration, the Cantata, which is intended chiefly for eucharistic worship. In its place after Morning Prayer and the Litany, we sing the Reproaches, and have the Preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. This is broken up by the singing of hymns during which persons can enter or leave the Church, if they cannot remain all through. This has proved in other years a most edifying service, and we trust as many as possible will attend it.

The Rector will take the three hours service this year and also speak on the mornings of Monday and Wednesday, and preach on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The Assistant will speak on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings, and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Porter's Popular Encyclopedia, 3 volumes, and two other books for the parish library, a damask tablecloth for the Guild closet, 2 gross of lead pencils, 2 reams of foolscap paper, 12 large tablets of writing paper for night school, quantity of dress goods for missionary box, comb for choir room, white silk chalice veil and burse.

PALM SUNDAY.—We shall have our usual Procession of the Palms, but instead of its taking place before morning prayer, it will be immediately before the celebration instead of the usual Introit Psalm.

EASTER FLOWERS—Special offerings for the Easter decorations of the church and the Easter Festival for the children of the schools may be placed in the alms boxes in the vestibule which are marked for those purposes.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir will repeat on Easter day and Low Sunday, the music that gave so much pleasure at Christmas: Gounod's S. Cecilia, Communion Service. The Te Deum will be Field in D. In the afternoon the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis will be Stainer's, and the Anthem, the "Halleluiah" from Handel's Messiah. As the music in the morning is very elaborate it will make the service long, and that it may not be made still longer, it is hoped that all who can possibly do so will make their Easter Communion at one of the earlier Celebrations, at 6.30 or 7.30 A. M.

THE EASTER ELECTION.—On Easter Monday the annual election for Vestrymen takes place. And this year under our amended charter many more have the right to vote than heretofore, the qualification now being, all who have been registered as Communicants, and have been contributing through the envelope system for one year to the support of the church. The Rector and Warden have already made out their lists by which it appears that 112 persons are entitled to vote. Last year there were but 23. This certainly is much more fair and just, and safe. And yet this list brings out the fact that out of our nearly 400 Communicants, only 112 are contributors through the envelope system. Why is this? Surely all the Communicants ought to be contributors in that way. None are so poor that they can't give something, and certainly the Communicants ought to set the example of contributing according to the regular method adopted by the Vestry. We shall hope to see an improvement during the coming year in this respect.

This being the first election under the amended charter the whole number of twelve Vestrymen will have to be elected, four to serve for three years, four for two years, and four for one year. The polls will be kept open from the close of Divine Service in the morning until 1 P. M.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The historical sermon this month will be preached by the Rector on the evening of the second Sunday, the subject being "The Growth of the Papacy."

The sermon under the auspices of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew on the evening of the fourth Sunday will be preached by the Rev. Geo. H. Yarnall, assistant at the Church of the Incarnation.

AN ENTERTAINMENT for the children of the Sunday School will be given in the parish building on Easter Monday evening to which the parents and friends of the children are invited. The admission will be free, apply for tickets to the Superintendent, to whom also donations to defray the expense of the entertainment may be made.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF MISSIONARY BOXES.

March 17th, 1892.

Mrs. Richard A. Gilpin, Phila, Pa.

Dear Madam:

Your favor of February 20th, came duly to hand, and after the usual time the box also. The contents of the same I appreciate very much, you need not have offered any apology for the same. The books were a most desirable selection. Please receive my thanks and convey the same to the ladies of your Guild.

I am very respectfully yours,

John Trenaman,

Buffalo, N. Dak.

St. Thomas, March 21st, 1892.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

The barrel that was sent arrived safely on Saturday the 19th, and we all join in sending our thanks to the ladies of the church for their kindness to us. I received the postal, note a week ago and feel grateful to you for your thoughtfulnesss in sending it. Wishing you a large amount of prosperity in your church work in the future, I remain, sincerely Yours,

Mrs. J. Trenaman.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—As the regular business meeting of the Guild would occur this month in Holy Week, it will be postponed until the fourth Tuesday evening.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received:

Mr. Sam'l Wetherill,	Miss Rousseau,
Mrs. Sam'l Wetherill,	Mr. Thos. Sinnickson,
Mr. E. L. Teakle,	Miss Lavinia Smith,
Mr. Jas. L. Good,	Miss A. M. Holbrook,

Thirteen subscriptions to the NEWS are now due and unpaid. Will those who receive notice with this issue of the expiration of their subscriptions be good enough to promptly renew the same? They can be made as we have explained before, by putting a half dollar in an envelope addressed ASCENSION NEWS, with name of the donor inside, and dropping it in one of the alms boxes in the vestibule.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—Readers of the NEWS will notice a large falling off in the advertisements this month. We made appeal for new ones in the January issue which has not beeen responded to as we had hoped. One member of the parish has sent in two renewals, but other than this there has not been any response. We are much indebted for this kindness, above mentioned, but if the NEWS is to be as successful this year as last, it is absolutely necessary that some new advertisements be handed in at once. Please do not let this go unheeded. They can surely be obtained if the effort is made.

KNEELING.

A certain Canon of the English Church when asked upon one occasion how many sittings there were in a parish church, in the building of which he had taken much interest, replied, "there are 260 kneelings." Was not this very well said? Should we not think of the church more as a place for kneeling than for sitting? Is it not really a place for devotion rather than an audience hall? And yet how often we see the latter idea carried out. It seems to us that kneeling is the very foundation stone of all ritual acts. It does not matter how ritualistically inclined a person may be, to be consistently so he must observe the custom of kneeling as the primary rule of order. How particular some are in bowing in the creed, at the Glorias, when the Sacred Name is mentioned and in making their reverence to the altar, and yet these same people sometimes, and many others always, neglect to kneel at the portions of the service where the church commands us so to do. And especially in the office of the Holy Communion, how can they be satisfied with simply bending their backs and stooping down, when the rubric so plainly says "devoutly kneeling." No one, be he high or low in his church tendencies, can continue this attitude if he will but reason with himself for one moment. It was perhaps with the idea of correcting this wrong, that in the English Prayer Book we find thy curious phrase "kneeling humble upon their knees." Certain it is that any such peculiarity of expression is allowable and even acceptable, if the end in view is accomplished, viz.: the instilling into the minds of the worshippers this most necessary and correct following of the plain intention of our Mother, the Church. There are a few amongst us who are incapacitated by bodily infirmities from complying with this rule, and they are, of course, excusable, but the vast majority are entirely able to kneel, and we trust that those members of this parish who have not been in the habit of doing so will consider the matter, for we are well assured that a very small amount of thought on the subject will heartily convince them of the righteousness of this act of devotion. Go into any of the houses of worship of the Protestant Denominations and look over the assembly at the time of prayer, and then observe how a well ordered congregation in the Church appears when prayers are being said. The difference is striking. The scene in the latter is inspiring, heartlifting, grand, while in the former it is almost absurd by the variety of positions assumed, and the general ease of manner exhibited. Let us then all try more fully to follow out strictly the kneeling requirements of the Church, let us make the Ascension a model in this respect.

VIA DOLOROSA.

By Yesudasan, of Coombaconam, Southern India, in the Tamil language. Translated by Rev. Edward Webb, of Oxford, Pa.

Whither with this crushing load,
Over Salem's dismal road,
All Thy body suffering so,
Oh, my God, where dost Thou go?

CHORUS.

Whither Jesus, goest Thou,
Son of God, what doest Thou,
On this city's Dolorous way,
With that cross? Suff'rer say.

Tell me, fainting, dying Lord,
Dost Thou of Thine own accord
Bear that cross, or did thy foes
'Gainst Thy will, that load impose?

CHORUS.

Patient Sufferer! how can I
See Thee faint, and fall, and die,
Press'd and peel'd and crushed and ground
By that cross upon Thee bound?

CHORUS.

Weary arm and staggering limb,
Visage marred, eyes growing dim,
Tongue all parched, and faint at heart,
Bruised and sore in every part!

CHORUS.

Dost Thou up to Calvary go,
On that cross, in shame and woe,
Malefactors either side,
To be nailed and crucified?—CHO.

"Make a firm built fence of trust
All around to-day,
Fill the space with loving work
And within it stay.
Look not through the sheltering bars
Anxious for the morrow,
God will help in all that comes
Be it joy or sorrow."

THE CHURCH EXPECTANT.

(Episode from an "In Memoriam.")

* * * * * *

The body sleeps a sleep profound,
The spirit seeks that mystic shore
Where kindred spirits hover round
And greet the dear ones "gone before"

The Patriarchs of olden time,
The Prophets who their Lord foretold,
Martyrs of ev'ry age and clime,
Apostles, zealous, fearless, bold.

The dead in Christ are gather'd here,
That vast "innumerable throng,"
Of ransomed spirits; all appear
With victor palms and rapt'rous song.

A fiery pillar gives its light
To these the blessed camp within;
(Without—ah me!—is dreary night
For those who perish in their sin!)

A cross, the fiery pillar seems,
That "wondrous cross" the Saviour bore;
Exalted here, with radiant beams
Through Paradise its glories soar.

This is not heaven; no, that state
Is distant far in time and space;
The disembodied spirits wait
Their blest fruition in the place

Of rest and peace; the Paradise
Of God, the primal Eden, till
The archangel's trump shall bid arise
The dust of earth. That sound shall fill

The just with joy; "made perfect" men,
They rise to brighter realms above;
They "see Him as He is;" and then
They comprehend how "God is Love."

* * * * * *

(Prayer for the faithful departed.)

Eternal rest, grant to them, Lord,
Eternal peace on them bestow;
Eternal light to them afford,
Where'er the Living Waters flow.

Amen.

OUR PARISH YEAR.

The Conventional and financial year of all the churches in this Diocese runs from May 1st of one year, to May 1st of another year. All the statistics of the churches are made up for this period, and the reports containing them sent to the Bishop. So the end of this period is a very good time to look back and review our church work and note how it has prospered in the year past. This our Rector always does in his sermon on the evening of Ascension Day, our anniversary day, which occurs near the beginning of a new parish year, and so is a very appropraite time for the purpose. This the Rector proposes to do as usual this year, when we shall hear all the figures and details, with his comments upon them. But we may very well take a review of the past year here also, and note two or three things in regard to it.

In some parishes as their work is looked over year by year, it must be acknowledged that they are losing ground, in others that they are about holding their own, and in others still that they are decidedly gaining. How is it with us? Well, as we look over the past twelve years we think we can see that we have made steady and very great progress in that time. Of course in some years more has been accomplished than in others, and not near as much has been done as we should have liked to have seen done, but still there has been regular steady progress. What have we done in the past year? It is true no great addition or improvement has been made to our property, beyond putting some memorials in the church which have added to its adornment, but we have gained in the following ways.

First, the greatest proof of progress is increase in the membership of the church, and here we find that 67 persons have been added to the communicant list during the year, 50 have died or removed, making our present number 404.

Secondly, we have by the rearrangement of our services reached and gratified more people. Our Sunday afternoon congregation has been an entire gain, very few formerly ever attending in the afternoon. And we think that that service has tended to bring persons to the church who would not otherwise have come. And at the same time our night congregations have not been diminished, on the contrary we think they have been more steady than they were formerly. Our Lenten congregations too have been much larger this year than formerly.

Thirdly, we have made a great improvement in our music. We have never had as fine a choir before as we have now, and the special music we had at Christmas and Easter crowded the church on both occasions. And as our reputation in this respect gets established, we look for greater results yet in the future.

Fourthly, in regard to our finances, we made a great advance in our expenses a year ago, and our effort this year has been to meet them. We began the year with a deficit of about $300 from the previous year, and in spite of an increase of some $475 in our receipts, we have a deficit of about the same amount for this year. In order to meet this we have been obliged to use up a fund of some $550, which we have hitherto kept as a reserve, and which was very useful in that way. We regret this very much, and hope even yet that we may be able gradually to put it back. But notwithstanding this the Vestry has ventured on the same rate of expenditure for the coming year, as we shall have in addition to our former receipts the interest of the property left us by the late Mr. Johnson. We feel, therefore, that we have succeeded in our effort this year of securing an annual income sufficient to meet our present rate of expenditure. So that another year we can begin an advance in another direction. And the first direction in which we should advance, should be to reduce our debt, and as we do that we shall increase the receipts that can be used for current expenses. We trust the Vestry will undertake a systematic effort for this purpose during the coming year.

And at the beginning of a new financial year we again urge upon every one attending this free and popular church, renewed interest and labor for its welfare. Every one can help it by being regular in attendance at its services, ready to engage in its work, and systematic in contributing to its support. Let every one use the envelopes for this purpose. As the Rector said recently in church, "if any one is too poor to give anything he is welcome to our services without price. But if any one has money to spend in fine clothes or other luxuries, he certainly can afford to contribute something regularly towards the support of the offices of religion which are so necessary to him, and can be of such benefit to the world." Let us see if we cannot make greater progress still in the coming year than we have in the one just past.

OUR PARISH FESTIVAL.

Ascension Day being the name-day of our parish, we keep that Feast as our annual Parish Festival. On the day itself there are two celebrations of the Holy Communion, and all the communicants are asked to attend one or other of them, and make the welfare of the parish their special object of intercession with God at that time. Let each remember the parish is their parish, and what it is depends upon their interest and zeal in regard to it. We shall try to make the mid-day service as fine a service as we can have upon a week-day.

In addition to the 5 P. M. Evening Prayer, we have a Choral

Evensong and Te Deum at 8 P. M. And at this service the Rector preaches his anniversary sermon reviewing the history of the parish for the past year. It is earnestly hoped every parishioner will try to be present.

In addition to these services we have had in connection with our anniversary a Parish Tea, and a Guild service. The first of these has been held hitherto on the day after Ascension Day, but as that is always a Friday, which should be observed as a fast day, it is most inappropriate for such a purpose, and it has been determined this year to postpone it until the following Monday, which will still be within the octave of the Feast.

Our Guild service has heretofore been held on the Saturday evening after the Ascension. But this too is a very unfortunate night for the purpose as so many are occupied on that evening that it has been difficult to get out either the congregation, the members of the Guilds, or of the choir. It has been determined, therefore, this year to have it on Sunday night, combining this month with the service arranged by the Brotherhood of S. Andrew. The preacher on the occasion will be the Rev. Mr. Burgess, Rector of S. Asaph's Church, Bala.

We trust our people will show their interest in their parish by attending these various services connected with our Parochial Festival.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We received at Easter a very handsome wood and brass font cover, suspended from the arch above it by a chain. It was given as a memorial and adds greatly to the dignity of the font. A white silk Eucharistic stole was embroidered for the Rector; five yards of carpet for the Sacristy, and two large terra cotta vases were given to the church; a quantity of pens, pencils, rubbers, etc., for the night school, flowers for the church on Easter-day, and cake, and two dozen Easter eggs for the Industrial School Festival.

EASTER.—As announced the same service that was sung at Christmas was repeated on Easter and the following Sunday, with orchestral accompaniment. It had the effect of crowding the Church on both occasions, and every one was very much impressed by it. We had in all at the three celebrations 304 communicants, the largest number we have ever had on any one day. There were only 258 last Easter. And our offertory amounted to $1200, the largest we have ever had at one time. The children's service in the afternoon was also a great success, the church being filled with the children and their friends.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The children of the Sunday School were given an entertainment on the evening of Easter Monday, consisting of songs, recitations, a farce, etc. They seemed to enjoy it very much. But we think that on another occassion the children ought to be given the front seats, and the grown people sit at the back when the entertainment is given especially for children, as it is impossible for them to see through the grown people.

EASTER ELECTION.—At the first election under our amended charter held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were elected to serve as Vestrymen: For three years—Mr. Samuel Wetherill, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, Mr. Thomas Sinnickson, Mr. Frank R. Stevenson. For two years—Mr. George H. Haverstick, Mr. Francis S. Keese, Mr. William H. Cope, Mr. Thomas Robb. For one year—Dr. Thomas R. Neilson, Mr. Charles E. Bonnett, Mr. William Platt Pepper, Mr Charles L. S. Tingley. At a meeting of the Vestry held subsequently, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter was appointed Rector's Warden, and Mr. Charles L. S. Tingley was elected Accounting Warden.

THE MOTHER'S MEETING closed its sessions for the winter with a final tea in the Guild room. After some singing and an address by the Assistant Minister, an ample repast consisting of meat, tea, buns, ice cream, cake, etc., was provided by the ladies in charge. Thirty-eight sat down to it. And after it was over each person present was presented with a pot with a flower in it to take home as a memento of the occasion.

MISSIONARY BOXES.—During Lent the members of the Ladies' Aid and of S. Mary's Guild were engaged in making up a missionary box for a colored school in Spartansburg, South Carolina. They made in all 61 garments for children, which together with some clothes which had been sent as a donation made out a very nice box, valued at $25.00

The members of the embroidery class worked a very beautiful white silk stole for the Rev. Mr. Thorn, our former Assistant, besides executing an order for an altar cloth and hangings for the Church of the Good Shepherd, Kensington.

A box was made up by one of the girls classes in our Sunday School and sent to the Italian Mission on Christian St. It contained sixty-nine garments for children, 20 pairs stockings, 12 handkerchiefs, 12 cakes soap, 12 portmonnaies filled with bright pennies.

Some of the ladies of our Altar Guild sent a set of altar linen, consisting of a fair linen cloth, corporal, chalice pall, maniple and purificator, each piece embroidered with a cross, to a church in West Virginia. The following letter of acknowledgement has been received.

Bluefield, W. Va., April 11th, 1892.
Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge.

My Dear Brother: I am in receipt through Mrs. S. T. Morris, of a very handsome and beautiful set of Communion Linen from your Society, and (can speak for my people also), we are all deeply thankful to you for the same. We are a struggling little band trying to get along and my field is a very large one, so I cannot give my entire time to them here. We used the linen yesterday, Palm Sunday,, and it was very gratefully received by the people of the church. Let me thank you again and the dear good women who labored to make it.

Faithfully your brother,
W. Hallihen Burkhardt.

A CONCERT.—There will be an entertainment in the Sunday School room on Monday evening, May the 16th, proceeds of which will go towards repairs and improvements of which the room stands very much in need. The programme will contain a long list of volunteers who have kindly offered their services, and we hope that every one will help to make this a grand success. Tickets 25 and 50 cents, which may be had of the Superintendent, teachers or sexton.

OUR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL closed its sessions for the winter with a Festival on the Saturday after Easter. About 180 children were present. Each was presented with a chocolate egg and Easter card in the church, where also the prizes were given out, the girls receiving each a pair of scissors as the first prize, and a thimble as the second prize; the boys received a knife as the first prize, and a paint box as the second prize. Afterwards in the school room all were entertained with ice cream and cakes, and each took a turn at fishing in a supposed pond, from which they drew a small present.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The historical sermon this month by the Rector will be preached on the evening of the second Sunday, the subject being "The Crusades," this will close the course for this season. The Rector hopes to continue them next winter.

The sermon before the Brotherhood of S. Andrew this month will be preached by the Rev. Frederick Burgess. This will be also the annual service for all the Guilds of the parish, and we trust there will be a good turn out. On the evening of the third or fourth Sunday of this month, we expect also to have the annual meeting of the Church Unity Society.

LOST AND FOUND.—The following articles have been picked up in the church and have not been claimed: a long narrow Prayer Book marked E. L. L., Easter, 1890, a Prayer Book of the Church of Ireland, name erased, a Yale latch key.

ORCHESTRA.—Some money has been sent to pay for the extra pieces of music added to our choir on Easter Day and Low Sunday, but the sum of fifty-five dollars still remains to be given. Will not some of the congregation help to make up this sum and send it to the Clergy or the Organist and Choir Master?

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received:

Miss A. D. Butler,	Mrs. Henry Selby,
Miss A. Haynes,	Mrs. L. Deiterick,
Miss Goodman,	Mrs. Isaac Starr,

It will be a great convenience if those notified this month will promptly renew their subscriptions.

Report of the Mother's Meeting for the Winter of 1891-92.

The meeting has been conducted by Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Keese, Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Pleasonton. Number of women belonging to it, 27; average attendance, 15; number of garments cut out and made, 139; number of garments partly worn disposed of, 170. All of the latter were paid for with the exception of 24, which were given away. The women were given a tea once a month, for which many donations were received. At Thanksgiving five tons of coal were distributed among the most needy, and at Christmas a turkey or chicken and basket of sweet and white potatoes were given to each.

Cash received from poor fund,	$10.00
Donations	44.93
From sale of garments	44.96
	$99.89
Expended for material, provisions, etc.,	$97.91
Balance	1.98
	$99.89

In addition to the above other ladies working among the poor have paid many visits and given donations of clothing, coal and provisions. Six large baskets of provisions were sent to as many families at both Christmas and Easter, and two tons of coal distributed.

SUPPORT OF THE CHURCH.

The Finance Committee of this church wishes to put before the readers of the "ASCENSION NEWS" in a short form, the exact condition of the finances of the church at this, the end of the financial year. There is a deficiency this year amounting to $739 of which $295 was carried over from last year. Numbered envelopes have been taken, and are used by only 170 persons in the congregation, though we have 400 communicants. If every person who has not hitherto taken a numbered envelope will do so for the present financial year, all the money needed for the support of this church will be given in a way by which no one contributor will feel that he or she is overtaxed, and yet all the expenses can be met without any deficiency whatever.

The following table has been prepared to show how much the regular and systematic giving of small sums will amount to in a single year.

If 100 persons will give 5 cts. every Sunday it will amount to	$260.00
If 50 persons will give 10 cts. every Sunday it will amount to	$260.00
If 25 persons will give 25 cts. every Sunday it will amount to	$325.00
If 20 persons will give 50 cts. every Sunday it will amount to	$520.00
If 10 persons will give $1.00 every Sunday it will amount to	$520.00
	$1,885.00

Many people think that the giving of so small a sum as 5 cents each Sunday will do no good, and are ashamed to give it, but it amounts to $2.60 a year, and pays for a sitting in a free church where there are no pew rents, at a most moderate cost.

The number on the envelope taken by any person using it, is known only to the Accounting Warden, and the user of it, so that the amount given in it weekly is not known to others in the church as it might be (by some, at least) if dropped into the offerings without an envelope.

Let all then, in our congregation, who have not already done so, begin now, at the beginning of the financial year, to contribute to the expenses of this free church, in proportion to his or her ability, by means of the envelope system, and if 205 more, out of the 400 communicants of the Church of the Ascension do this, as above suggested, we shall be sure of receiving $1885 more in the coming year, and the Finance Committee will have a surplus to report instead of a deficiency on May 1st, 1893, which would be a great pleasure to them.

Let us show by our offerings that we love our church, and appreciate its numerous services, and intend to keep them up in the very best and most complete way, thus honoring the God we serve. "Despise not the day of small things."

CHURCH ATTENDANCE.

As we look over the congregation Sunday by Sunday, we cannot help asking ourselves some questions in regard to our church attendance. When we know that there are now over 400 registered communicants alone belonging to the congregation, a number sufficient of itself to fill the church, if they were all present at one service, we cannot help asking why the church is not fuller even at the principal Sunday services.

When we consider the matter, we feel that certain things must be taken into consideration in regard to it.

First, we have to remember that in no congregation is it ever possible to get all the communicants together at one time. There is always a certain proportion that are sick or infirm, or away, or detained at home by various domestic causes, and there are always some who, though registered as communicants, are very careless and irregular, not only in making their communions, but even in their attendance upon Church. So large is this proportion that we have often heard clergymen say that they thought they were doing very well if they succeeded in getting one-half of the whole number of their communicants in church at one time.

Secondly, we have to consider that in a congregation, especially like ours, which is composed of persons of widely different habits of life, there are many who never go to church but in the morning, others never but in the evening, and we have some who never come but in the early morning, and others, never but in the afternoon. So that while it is true that we never get all of our people out at any one service, we do get a very fair proportion of the whole number out at the various Sunday services. Our total attendance each Sunday bears a very fair relation to the number of our members.

Thirdly, we have to consider too, that our congregation is a very scattered one, some coming from great distances, which of course, makes their attendance more or less irregular.

Fourthly, there are those who insist upon keeping up a nominal connection with the parish, who have really moved away and but rarely attend it. Then there are others, who, though professing to belong to it, have really from one cause or another lost their interest in it. There are always backsliders. Those who have started out fair in the Christian life, but whom the temptations of the World, the Flesh and the Devil have proved too strong for, and who, though they may keep up some show of their profession, have no heart in it, and let every little excuse keep them from church. Others have been attracted to the church by the novelty of its services, their having been different from what they were accustomed to, but like every new thing, they have tired of them, and so fallen away. The interest of others has been due to their holding some office or engaging in some work, and when that has been relinquished for some cause or other, their attendance slackens off.

These and other causes account for the fact that all our members are not in church, even at our principal Sunday services.

But beyond all these there is another cause and one that ought to be remedied, and that is, that the mass of even professedly Christian people do not appreciate as they should, either the obligation or the privilege of Divine worship in the Sanctuary. Every Christian ought to feel that it is a bounden obligation laid upon him by one of the Ten Commandments, and of just as much importance as any other of the Commandments, to sanctify the Lord's Day by at least one act of public worship. It is an obligation he owes to God, for unless he thus honors Him with all the accessories of public worship he is not giving Him the honor and reverence that is His due. He owes it to his own soul, for if a man neglects the aids afforded him by the worship of the Church, he will be depriving himself of what is essential for the cultivation of his spiritual life. And not only should he feel it as an obligation, but he should regard it as a privilege, as the most joyful, comfortable, helpful thing to him in all his life.

If all Christians had this sense of the duty and pleasure of engaging in Divine worship we would not have to complain of there being any vacant places at any of our services. The fact that the church was not large enough on Easter and Low Sundays to hold all that came, proves that if people made the effort or had the desire to come, as they do upon those days, that they could every Sunday, come in sufficient numbers to fill the church to overflowing.

Our ambition is to see it so filled. We are never satisfied when it is not full. Let our people feel their duty and realize their privileges and it always will be full. And let them all feel, too, that regular church attendance is just as necessary and as profitable in the summer as in the winter.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The Rector has received a beautiful set of altar linen for private celebrations, made by a warm friend of the parish. The chalice veil is of the most exquisitely fine drawn work. It is so wonderful, we think it ought to be sent to the World's Fair, as our Guild has been asked to send specimens of its work to be exhibited there. We had a large amount of cake, strawberries, etc., donated for our Parish Tea, also ten chinese lanterns which added much to the decorations.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—We have just time as we are going to press to report in regard to our annual Parish Festival that the attendance on the morning of the day itself was very far from what it ought to be on such a Festival. There were but thirty communicants at the early service, and forty-seven in the middle of the day. How is it that people can so neglect so great a day, which tells them more than other day in the year of a subject about which people are naturally most curious, viz., Heaven.

The attendance at the night service on Ascension Day was greatly lessened by a violent thunder storm which came up just at the hour of service. Only about seventy people were in church. We regret this as we should have liked more of our people to hear what the Rector had to say about the past and future work of the church. Our change of arrangement as to the Guild service worked well, the congregation being much larger than formerly on these occasions, though we should have liked to have seen more members of the Guilds in the procession, and had them hear the excellent sermon of Rev. Mr. Burgess.

OUR PARISH TEA was, as it always is, a success. The tables looked very pretty, the provision was excellent and abundant, and the members of S. Mary's Guild, who acted as aids were especially attractive in their caps and aprons. After some words from the Rector, a most excellent and telling address was made by Mr. G. Harry Davis of S. Luke's Church, Germantown, a very prominent member of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew. We had also a recitation by Mrs. Mason, and singing by Mrs. Mason, Jr., and by Messrs. Thorn and Botwright. Altogether it was a most enjoyable evening. But as in other years we had to lament the absence of many members of the parish who should have been there. Why is it that some people won't be sociable?

All regretted very much the absence of our Assistant Minister, Rev. Mr. Kittson, who was kept away by the extreme illness of his wife. He has the deep sympathy of all the members of the congregation. We missed also the genial presence of the Rector's Warden, as he has been missed through the greater part of this winter from church. This has been due to an acute and prolonged attack of rheumatism, he has now gone abroad for a few months.

A SPECIAL SUPPER was provided for the boys of the choir and members of S. John's Guild, on Tuesday evening, at which over thirty boys sat down. After the entertainment they enjoyed themselves with games in the school room.

THE JOHNSON LEGACY was paid in full to our Accounting Warden last month, after the deduction of $475 for the collateral inheritance tax. This money is now to be invested, and out of the interest we are first to purchase and keep burning a sanctuary lamp, to be hung in front of the Altar, and after that the interest can go towards meeting the current expenses of the Church. As it will be six months before the first payment of interest comes in, the lamp cannot be bought until then.

AN ENDOWMENT FUND.—This legacy of Mr. Johnson practically amounts to the beginning of an endowment fund, but it ought to be much larger. A member of our congregation recently wrote us that she thought every free church should have an endowment, and to start such a fund she would give one dollar, in the hope that ninety-nine others would do the same, to form a nucleus of such a fund, which might be added to by persons remembering it in their wills. Would it not be nice if at least the amount we have had to pay to the State out of the Johnson legacy might be made up, so that the fund could stand at a round $10,000?

MORE ENVELOPES.—The appeal of the Finance Committee published in our last issue, together with the plain statement which was afterwards issued, a copy of which we publish this month, have had the effect of increasing the number of contributors through the envelope system by ten. In addition to this, one gentleman doubled his contribution, and one lady has increased hers. This is well, but there are still a great many persons attending the church who ought to take them. It does not make any matter how small the sum is you contribute every week, give it through the envelopes. Persons leaving the city for the summer will remember to fill their envelopes and put them in the plate before they go. They can put the whole amount for the number of weeks they expect to be away in one envelope. The expenses of the church go on just the same during the summer, and they cannot wait to be paid for until people come back in the autumn.

CHANGE OF SERVICES.—With this month the 4 P. M. service is discontinued and the evening service begins at 7 P. M., and will consist of shortened Evening Prayer and an address. The children's service will begin at 3 P. M. The daily service and Wednesday evening services also cease, but the morning services on all Holy Days and on Wednesdays and Fridays will be continued all summer. The Thursday early celebrations will be continued until July. The work of the various societies will be suspended, and the Women's Bible Class, but the Guild meetings will continue through June.

THE CONCERT for the improvement of the Sunday School room realized quite a sum for the purpose.

THE POLYTECNIC closed on the Thursday before the Ascension with a supper for the members. Over 100 boys were present and thought themselves very well treated.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received:

Mrs. Wm. Galloway, Mr. Wm. Platt Pepper,
Mrs. C. F. Leaming, Mrs. Jackson.
Mr. J. E. Carpenter, Miss F. C. Cooper,
Mrs. M. E. Carman, Miss Trucks,

An Alarming Statement.

We recently saw it stated in a paper that the number of young men in the United States was estimated at 6,500.000. And of this number 550.000 were reckoned among the criminal classes, and only 375,000 were connected with any Christian church of all the religious denominations. This is certainly a sad and an alarming statement.

REPORT.

The following is the report of the Parish for the year ending May 1st, as made to the Bishop:

Baptisms.—Adults 4, Infants 15, Total 19; Confirmed 21; Marriages 7; Burials 27; Families connected with the parish 263.

Communicants Added.—New 29; by removal 38; died 7; removed 43; present number 404.

Services.—Sundays 296, other days 638, total 934; average attendance, Sunday 356; children catechised 75 times.

Sunday School.—Officers and teachers 29; scholars 200.

Bible Classes.—Teachers 3; members 35.

Other Parish Agencies.—Mother's Meeting, members 27; Industrial School, teachers 18, scholars 190; Men's Guild, Women's Guild, Young Men's Guild, members 22, Young Women's Guild, members 39; Chapter of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, members 12.

Money Receipts from all sources.—Offertory $8048.04; interest $16.82; other sources $63.52; total $8128.38.

Money Expenditures and Appropriations.—Current expenses, (including salaries of ministers, for music, fuel and lighting, care of church building and grounds, and ordinary repairs of same) $4922.91; interest on mortgage $1250.00; improvements $852.96; Episcopal and Convention funds $89.34; support of schools $286.53,; for the poor $184.49; Episcopal Hospital $30.58; Missions, Foreign $30.05; Domestic $129.55; Colored people $11.00; Indians $33.00; Diocesan $75.50; Tract Prayer Book Society $24.00; Church Building $9.00; Theological Education $25.00; Miscellaneous $589.27; total $8543.18.

A PLAIN STATEMENT

To the Worshippers of

The Church of the Ascension.

The Expenses of this Parish are composed as follows:

Salary of the Rector, . .	$1,500
Salary of Assistant Minister,	1,000
For the Church Choir, . .	1,500
Interest on Mortgage, . .	1,250
Sexton, ...	480
Convention Fund, . . .	83
Convocation Fund, . . .	105
Coal, ...	175
Gas, ...	150
Water Rent, ...	70
Insurance, Repairs, &c., &c.,	50
	$6,363

These are yearly fixed charges which the Vestry see no way of reducing.

Last year our income fell short $739!

We have 404 Communicants and yet only 170 of the numbered Envelopes have been taken, and registered on the Books of the Accounting Warden. Some of these givers are not Communicants! Is this as it should be? If you are already a Contributor through a numbered Envelope, will you not increase your weekly offering? If not, will you not now take a numbered Envelope, and give your regular weekly offering in that way? As it is so essential that the Vestry shall know exactly how they can meet the above named expenses.

Remember, that no one but the Accounting Warden knows how much you give, and that your Pledge can be cancelled at any time.

The Church remains open daily all Summer, and the expenses, of course, go on just the same. Will you not, therefore, before you leave the City, kindly contribute for the Sundays you expect to be absent?

"If thou hast much give plenteously: if thou hast little do thy diligence gladly to give of that little."

A Litany Hymn for Trinity Sunday.

Father Eternal! from Thy Throne on high,
Look down on us with Thine all pitying Eye
For we are sinful, and we pardon need.
Have mercy on us, to our prayers give heed.

O Word eternal! Day-spring from on high!
Who for us m n came down on earth to die
That we might live fore'er, Redeemer blest!
Blot out our sins, and grant us peace and rest.

O Paraclete! Who doth from Father, Son,
Eternally proceed the Holy One
Who searcheth out the heart and secret thought
Have mercy on us, who with sin are fraught.

O God Triune! Who hast created all
The universe, yet marks the sparrow's fall;
We sinners bow before Thine awful Throne,
And mercy ask; make us to be Thine own.
Amen.

Election to the Episcopate

The Rev. Mr. Kinsolving, the Rector of the Church of the Epiphany in this city, has just been elected Assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Texas. This makes the fourth Rector of churches in this city recently elected Bishops, viz.: The Rev. Dr. Davies, Rector of S. Peter's, Bishop of Michigan; Rev. Dr. Nichols, Rector of S. James, Assistant Bishop of California, and the Rev. Dr. Nicholson, Rector of S. Mark's, Bishop of Milwaukee.

SUMMER RESORT.

As our parishioners aid us in our work so we are glad when we have the opportunity to assist them. We take, therefore, pleasure in mentioning an undertaking of a member of our parish in opening a summer resort to be called Penhurst Cottage, at Mount Pocono, Monroe, Co., Pa. It is reached by the D. L. and W. R. R., is only five minutes from the station. There are fine views, pleasant drives, bracing air, and excellent water. The terms are $10 and $12 a week; special rates to parties. Apply to proprietress, Miss M. S. Wilson.

A DIOCESAN HOUSE.

The committee, of which the Rector of this church is chairman, appointed by the Convention to erect a Diocesan House to afford accommodation for the offices of the Bishop, Secretary, Treasurer and other officers of the Diocese, together with places of meeting for the Clergy, Boards, Committees, etc., is making a vigorous effort to purchase the property belonging to the late Mr. Benjamin Johnson of our parish, on Broad St. below Walnut. The amount asked for the property is $60,000. As we go to press the amount subscribed towards this sum is nearly $40,000, and it is hoped that the remaining amount can be raised by June 10th. If this is accomplished, about $50,000 more will be required to erect the proposed building on this site.

A NEW YEAR.

September is not the beginning either of an ecclesiastical or a civil year, and yet it is practically the beginning of a Church year for all city parishes. For during the summer months there is, we are sorry to say, an entire intermission of all Church work in the cities. All the schools and societies stop their work, and owing to the absence from the city of all who can get away, no progress can be made. For this we suppose there is no remedy until we can get a sisterhood, or paid workers, who would stay in town all summer. But while things are as they are, it makes the first of September the beginning of another year of work and activity in our churches. Then the schools re-open and people begin to return, and gradually our churches assume their wonted aspect and enter upon a new campaign against the powers of evil.

It is a time, therefore, when we should be thinking about and laying our plans for what that work shall be. Every new season brings changes. Persons remove from the parish, or for one reason or another give up positions which they have occupied, and new persons come, or have to be found, who will take their places. Nor is this always easy to do, nor are the changes always for the better.

And each year, too, ought to witness some distinct advance in our parish life. We ought not to stand still in Church work, because there will always remain, no matter what we do, more work still to be done. And there is so much we still need in this parish to make it anything like as efficient as it ought to be. There is the debt to be removed, the Church to be completed and to be decorated, the school building to be enlarged, the endowment fund to be increased.

We still hold, as we always have, that the Church is admirably situated for work. It affords a good field. It is central and can reach a variety of people. But just as in agriculture, there must be not only good ground, but hands and implements as well to cultivate it, so in spiritual things there must be not only a field in which to work, but men and women who are able and willing to work in it, and appliances for them to use. In other words we want workers and money. As we have often said, our Schools and Guilds could be much larger and more efficient than they are, if there were only more persons in our congregation who would give their time and labor to them. And we must have money to supply them with things which they need in this work as well as to furnish additional classrooms, &c., which we need.

Will not the members of the congregation come forward more readily during the coming winter to supply these wants, than they have done hitherto? Several important positions are vacant. Who will occupy them? More teachers, who will be faithful and regular in their attendance, are wanted in the Sunday and Industrial Schools. Will not each one who reads this feel that it is a direct personal call, and honestly ask himself or herself whether it cannot be answered affirmatively, and what share he or she can take in Church work?

And shall we not make some decided advance this winter? What that advance shall be the Vestry will probably determine at their November meeting, whether it shall be the reduction of the debt, or what. But wherever the Vestry lead, we trust the congregation will follow. Everyone should have the same personal interest in his parish that he has in his home. And just as one will not rest content while his house is unpaid for or incomplete, or not wholly occupied, so every member of the parish should feel unsatisfied while it is still in debt, or incomplete, or not doing all it should.

At the very beginning, therefore, of another year of work, we bespeak the earnest, active interest of every member of our congregation, and ask them all to unite in making a great effort during the coming winter to advance the interests of our Church, to make it more complete, more efficient, more what it ought to be. Give us more workers and increase our resources. Those are the two things which we need.

DEATH OF PARISHIONERS.

Long ere this number is issued our parishioners will have heard of the great loss which has come to our Assistant Minister in the death of his most estimable wife. It occurred on June 9th, after a most trying illness, extending over nearly two years.

We not only extend our warmest sympathy to our Assistant, in this great affliction, but we regard it as a personal loss to our parish as well. From her first coming into it, Mrs. Kittson had taken the greatest interest in it and entered most energetically into its work. For two winters she conducted the Mothers' Meeting most successfully, expending a great deal of time and energy in doing so.

In addition to this she organized and as long as her health permitted, conducted a Bible Class for men. She also took the entire charge of the Altar and all its furniture, attending herself personally to the care and changing of all the Altar vestments, linen, &c. She secured from members of the congregation, regular subscriptions towards defraying the expenses of washing all the Altar, Clergy and Choir vestments, providing flowers, &c., for the Altar. To her we owe the handsome dossels which now hang behind the Altar, the Vesting Altar, the decoration and furnishing of the Guild and work rooms, the gas stove, closets, &c., which have been put up.

Her interest never flagged, her work never ceased as long as she had the strength to carry it on. And even after this failed, the Church was still ever in her thoughts and prayers, and she was still making efforts to interest others to take her place. She had firm faith that the work would go on and the Church prosper, that God would raise up those who would provide it with all it needs. And while we believe that those prayers and hopes will be answered, still we cannot but feel that the Church has met with a great loss in her death, and so we grieve for ourselves as well as for him to whom of course the loss is greatest.

We have also lost during the summer another devoted parishioner in Miss Annie Jane Stewart. She passed away on June 2nd, in the Harrison Memorial Home for Incurables attached to the Episcopal Hospital, of which she had been an inmate since early in January. She, although brought up by Christian parents and a constant attendant at various churches, had never been definitely attached to any until she was confirmed at the Ascension in April, 1887. Since then she took the liveliest interest in it, was most regular in her attendance at its services and appreciative of them.

She was a member of S. Mary's Guild and never missed its meetings as long as her health permitted. Her illness, which extended over two years was most heroically borne. Though conscious from the first that it would be necessarily fatal, no murmur escaped her. She maintained her independence as long as she could, working till she could work no more, and caring for herself until it became absolutely impossible for her to do so. Only then would she consent to avail herself of any of those refuges which Christian charity has provided for such cases as hers. And she was most grateful for the care and attention which she received, first in S. Clement's Hospital where she was for a short time, and afterwards in the Episcopal Hospital where she died.

We regret also to chronicle the death in July of Mrs. F. E. Remont, the wife of one of the former members of our choir. Though for the last two years on account of her health, the family has been residing in the country, they still kept up their connection with the parish, and our deepest sympathy is extended to this most happy family circle in the great loss it has sustained.

As constituting one large family, we feel each of these losses that have come to us. We grieve for ourselves and for those most intimately afflicted. And we shall ever remember those who have been taken from us, and pray that they may rest in peace.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have received a handsome donation of 67 volumes for the parish library, including some works of standard authors, such as Dickens, Trollope and others. We should like very much to enlarge this library, especially by putting in it instructive religious books, and we hope our people will use it. And will not those having books out, be careful always to return them?

A LEGACY.—The late Miss Annie J. Stewart, shortly before her death, transferred to the Rector a small sum of money she had saved, with directions that he was to defray from it her funeral expenses and what was left to use for whatever object connected with the church, he might see best. The Rector accordingly provided all that was needed for her funeral, it being held in the church, the choir being in attendance, the interment was according to Miss Stewart's request, in the church lot in Mount Moriah Cemetery.

The money which was left over, the Rector employed first in putting in order the church lot, which it very much needed. Headstones have been placed to each grave, inscribed with the names of those interred therein. Four blocks of marble have been put at the corners of the lot to define its limits, and a slab with a cross and the words "Church of the Ascension" cut in it, placed at its entrance. And as soon as the weather permits, the entire lot will be sodded. We shall thus have, through the liberality of Miss Stewart, a properly cared for lot for our parish dead.

With the amount still left over, the Rector proposes to order another clere-story window, on which the name of Miss Stewart will be inscribed. How nice it would be if each of our devoted parishioners could have their names thus perpetuated in the Church as one by one they pass away! And how much permanent benefit might accrue to the Church if each of our parishioners would remember the Church in their wills, even though each may have but little to leave. We are sure that if Miss Stewart could know what had been done with her money, it would be a pleasure to her that her place in the Church has been as it were, thus permanently preserved.

A ROBBERY.—Early in the summer, the prayer book lying on the litany desk in the Church was stolen. It was a handsome book, bound in red Turkey morocco, with a large brass cross let in on the cover and having silk markers with silver gilt crosses attached to them. It had been presented to the Church some years ago as a thank offering for a recovery from sickness. While we regret the loss of the book and shall take greater care to guard against such an occurence in the future, we must confess that we think it rather remarkable that, in such a neighborhood as that in which the Church is situated, this should have been only the second occasion during the six years in which the Church has been left open every day, in which anything has been disturbed. The other occasion was when one of the alms chests in the vestibule was broken open.

It shows that the objection to having Churches open that they will be subject to robbery and sacrilege is without foundation.

Who will replace the book that has been taken?

SUMMER ARRANGEMENTS.—The Assistant has been taking his holiday during July and August, the Rector conducting the services, assisted in the week-day services by Mr. James M. Blackwell, one of our members, a licensed lay reader in the Diocese, and who expects to enter the Divinity School in the Autumn. The Assistant returns this month, when the Rector will be away for two or three Sundays. He officiates at Atlantic City one Sunday, and at Bellport, Long Island, on another.

RE-BEGINNING WORK. — The Sunday School reopens with the first Sunday of this month. And our Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew recommences its meetings, as well as St John's Guild. We trust both teachers and scholars will be on hand for the Sunday School, and we hope that many men in the congregation who have not yet done so, will join the Brotherhood of S. Andrew. Resolve to do real work in it during the coming winter.

CHURCH PAPERS.—During the summer, copies of various church papers, received as exchanges, etc., have been placed in the racks in the vestibule of the Church. Attendants at the Church are invited to take them home and read them.

ADJOINING BUILDING.—We are sorry to say that during the summer the owner of the property adjoining the Church on the west has been building on the back of his lot. This not only has darkened up very much our Guild room, which was not very light before, and also interfered with the light of the one window we have on the west side of the Church, but it completely takes up the little triangle which is cut off the northwest corner of the Church. So that, if we shall ever want to straighten the Church out on that side, which we always hoped some time to be able to do, we should find it now, we fear, almost impossible to do so. This is the result of having been straightened in means, and not having been able to buy all the ground we should like to have had at the first.

Unless we can soon obtain possession of the property on the corner of Broad and South Streets, we may in like manner be unable to get that when we want to run the Church out to South Street, as we certainly ought to be able to do sometime.

Our Mexican Correspondent.

To see and to know the native as he is, is generally the great ambition of the traveler. One tires of examining architecture, paintings, scenery, but the individual man as a subject is inexhaustable.

The Pullman traveler, eating, sleeping, walking in his palace, sees very little of the aboriginal inhabitant. At the smallest way-station his car is, of course, surrounded by the people, clamoring that he shall buy their candies, fruits and curiosities. Perchance he may observe on the outskirts of the crowd, one or two looking with fearful eyes and trembling body upon the locomotive. They have heard tales of this fearful being and have summoned their courage and have come to see with their own eyes. To them, the devil is imprisoned in the engine, and his alone is the power that propels it. To satisfy his voracious appetite a daily offering of a Mexican is made. The escaping steam and shrill whistles are but his cries for more.

However, if you will come with me this afternoon we will take a short tour of four or five miles, and perhaps we may see something that has a flavor different from that of the nineteenth century. We secure our horses and ride sedately along the city streets, mindful of city ordinances and city police, and also of the inhabitants gliding along the roadway. We pass into one of the suburbs--Tequisquiapam--and have our contests with the dogs, an old yellow one is particularly well known, which with their loud barking and yelping set chase after our horses. We may here slacken up and observe the dwellings, not of stone, as they are in the city, but of clay, sun-baked, until they are as hard and as durable almost as brick. There are walls of these adobe brick, from five to ten feet high surrounding the habitation of the owner. In one corner we may see the house; square, one-story in height and windowless; the door being usually but a blanket suspended over a hole. In the balance of the enclosed space, the patio, it is called, are the burros gazing vacantly into space, the dogs, (half wolves), goats, chickens, and all the owner's live stock. Everything they enjoy in common. The wealthy Mexican may own the lot adjoining his house, and which has a lesser adobe wall surrounding it, and here are the crops raised. Deep furrows run across the lot at regular intervals for the purpose of irrigation. An ancient wooden plow is standing near the well, and the other antique farming implements.

This well and the operating machinery are curiosities, and should find place in the Columbian Exposition. There is a rough limb of a tree upright, to which a cross-bar is attached near the top. To the first mentioned piece is attached a leather bucket, and by muscular strength is lowered into the well, but a huge stone attached to the cross-bar is the power that brings the water to the surface. Great and graceful sweeps it makes, and the water is emptied into the furrows already mentioned, and the deficiency of rain is thus supplied.

PATHS.

The path that leads to a Loaf of Bread
  Winds through the Swamps of Toil,
And the path that leads to a Suit of Clothes
  Goes through a flowerless soil.
And the path that leads to the Loaf of Bread
And the Suit of Clothes are hard to tread.

And the path that leads to a House of Your Own
  Climbs over the bouldered hills,
And the path that leads to a Bank Account
  Is swept by a blast that kills;
But the men who start in the paths to-day
In the Lazy Hills may go astray.

In the Lazy Hills are trees of shade
  By the dreamy Brooks of Sleep.
And the rollicking River of Pleasure laughs
  And gambols down the steep;
But when the blasts of the winter come,
The brooks and the river are frozen dumb.

Then woe to those in the Lazy Hills
  When the blasts of winter moan,
Who strayed from the path to a Bank Account
  And a path to a House of Their Own.
These paths are hard in the summer heat,
But in winter they lead to a snug retreat.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

During this month the great Triennial Council of our Church will be in session in the city of Baltimore, and our church people ought to take an interest in its proceedings and remember it in their prayers, that its deliberations may result in the promotion of the glory of God and the welfare of His Church.

This Convention is the great governing body of our national branch of the Catholic Church. It consists of two Houses; one composed of all the Bishops of the Church, and the other of four clerical and four lay delegates from each diocese, and no action can pass without the concurrence of both Houses. The Bishops sit with closed doors, but the deliberations of the lower House are open to the public and are very interesting. Our local church paper, The Church Standard, will publish during the session of the Convention, a daily edition containing a full stenographic report of all its deliberations. It will be sent to all its regular subscribers, the subscription price for the year being two dollars. We should by all means advise our people to subscribe to it, and they can thus not only learn what the Convention does, but also read the speeches which will be made on the various subjects under consideration.

A number of very important matters will come up for action at this session. One is the completion of the revision of the Prayer Book. This has now been going on for nine years. The Constitution of the Church wisely provides that such an important thing as the Prayer Book should not be altered except by alterations being proposed at one session of the Convention, and being subsequently considered at the next session, three years afterwards. Such alterations were proposed at the Convention held nine years ago. These were acted upon at the subsequent Convention, when others were proposed, and still others at the last Convention, which are to be finally acted upon now. And this we trust will complete the work, for it is very unfortunate for the Prayer Book to be kept in this unsettled state. So that, though there are some further alterations we should like to see made, we would rather forego them and have the revision completed. The book has certainly been much improved by the alterations already made, and most of those proposed for action at this Convention are very good, so we hope that, with some exceptions, they will pass.

Another important thing before this Convention will be the adoption of a new Hymnal. There has long been great dissatisfaction with the Hymnal we have now. There are many hymns in it utterly unsuited for public worship, and which are never used, and there are many excellent hymns in other Hymnals which we ought to have the privilege of using. The report of the committee on this subject has been already published, and although it has met with many adverse criticisms, the general verdict, we think, is that it is a great improvement on that we have now. There are some few hymns omitted that we should have liked to have seen retained, and some others that we like do not appear in it. But the report may be further amended before it appears in the Convention, and we trust that it will be adopted substantially as it is. It certainly will add a great variety to the hymns we already have.

Another important subject for this Convention to consider is that of the division of the Church into provinces. At present we constitute but one province, presided over by the Senior Bishop, who is called Presiding Bishop; but in the primitive Church, and to-day in other branches of the Catholic Church, the provinces are much smaller. It is a very difficult and expensive thing for so large a body as our General Convention, containing representatives from every part of the United States, to assemble together every three years, and in many ways the interests of the Church are hindered by the great extent of territory covered by it. So it is proposed to divide the Church into several provinces and have a General Council composed of fewer members and meeting at longer intervals. A committee is to report on this subject, but there has been for a long time so much difference of opinion in regard to it, that we doubt whether anything will be done. But some of our dioceses will be divided and some new missionary jurisdictions will doubtless be erected.

These and a number of other matters of great interest and importance will come up before this Convention, and we hope our people will inform themselves about them, and especially trust, as we have said, that they will constantly remember the Convention in their prayers, that God would overrule all its consultations to the advancement of His glory and the welfare of His Church.

PARISH NOTES.

SERVICES RESUMED.—With this month we recommence the Sunday afternoon service at 4 o'clock, and the night service at 7.45 P. M., in place of the twilight service. The daily morning and evening prayers are also resumed, and we trust they will be better attended than they have been. We are sure our people will find it a very helpful and comforting thing to attend this daily service as frequently as they can. As we have urged before, let every member of the congregation resolve to come to at least one service a week beside Sundays. Every one could do that, as we have services at all hours during the week. Holy Communion on Thursdays at 7.30 A. M. Daily prayers, daily 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. Wednesdays, service at 8 P. M.

This latter service we hope especially to see improve this winter. The Clergy will do their best to make it attractive. They both propose to attend it, and to give at it special courses of instructions on alternate Wednesday evenings. The subject of the Rector's instructions will be, "The Doctrines and Precepts of the Church," and those of the Assistant Minister will be on the Bible. It is hoped also to organize a special choir for this service.

PROMPTNESS.—At the celebrations of the Holy Communion, those who intend to make their communions should be prompt in presenting themselves at the altar. When the moment for the administration arrives and the clergy turn towards the people for the purpose, they are often much annoyed by the long delay before any one comes forward. They see persons looking about and waiting for others to make the motion, and it is not until some one person is bold enough to do so, coming perhaps away from the back of the church, that there is a general movement towards the chancel. Time is thus wasted, an awkward break occurs, and the clergy are left in doubt whether any one is coming or not. Do not wait for any one else if you are intending to communicate, come forward at once, even though you should be the only person in the church doing so.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to continue his course of historical sermons on one Sunday evening of each month this winter. The subject for the one this month will be, "The Mediæval Church." It is also proposed to continue the course of sermons under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on another Sunday evening of each month, by a distinguished preacher from outside of the parish.

SUPPORT OF THE SUNDAY AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.—The present quarter is the time for the return of the special envelopes for this purpose. The readers of the NEWS will have noticed in the September number that so far only $8.00 had been given for this purpose, and this is the last month of the quarter. All must acknowledge that our schools are a most important part of our church work, but how can they be carried on with such a paltry sum as eight dollars? Will not those who have not yet contributed, do so during this month? Never neglect to return your special envelopes.

GUILD ANNIVERSARIES.—The female communicants of the parish will not forget that S. Simon and S. Jude's Day is the anniversary of our Womens' Guild, and the Rector wants all the female communicants of the parish to be present. Whether you can take part in the work yourself or not, at least show enough interest in it to come to the anniversary meeting and hear about what is being done, and see if you cannot help in some way.

The anniversary of the Men's Guild is on the evening of All Saints' Day, November 1st, (before our next issue) and the Rector begs all the male communicants likewise to be present on that occasion.

TEACHERS WANTED.—More teachers are wanted in the Sunday School and in the Industrial School, which opens the first Saturday in November. But they must be persons who will undertake the work for the love of it, and who will be willing to sacrifice themselves and be faithful and regular in their attendance. Any other kind does often more harm than good.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have received this month another donation of some forty-seven books, chiefly new, for our Parish and Sunday School Library. These donations are very acceptable, as we hope gradually to accumulate a good library, and we hope our people will avail themselves of it. The regular time for giving out books is after the Wednesday evening service, but they can be had at other times on application to the Sexton. Our library has grown so much of late that we need another bookcase. Who will give it?

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received:

Miss M. S. Wilson, Mr. Chas. E. Bonnet, Mr. F. B. Thompson, Mrs. Walter Cox.

NEW MISSION AT NORWOOD.

One of our parishioners, Mr. Charles Lynch, is taking much interest in starting a new mission out at Norwood on the B. & O. Railroad, where he and his wife have been living for some years. He is chairman of the committee in charge of it, and is helping in the choir and, we believe in the Sunday School. Our church has assisted the movement by presenting it with the wooden lectern and large lectern Bible we formerly had in use. They hope soon to be able to build a church.

Our Mexican Correspondent.

Fruit trees, apricot and fig, have lined the road, and all the varietity of the cactus. But we have now left the suburb, and can gratify our inclination to race unhampered by fear of the arm of the law and the bite of the cayote. At times the soil is nothing but sand, and again we go over solid rock. On each side of the road are ditches, now destitute of water. Rain has been absent for many days and only in occasional pools in the monntains is it found. We pass the Santiago (St. James) river, equally dry, but the huge bowlders worn so smooth give testimony of the water that was once present.

We enter another village—Morales—and go up the lane, lined on each side by impenetrable cactus. Our ears are immediately assailed, in addition to the barkings of the dogs, with "deme un cuartillo, senor," or the more modest, "deme un tlaco"—"give me three cents, senor," "give me a penny." The owners of the voices run about unhampered by any "neat dress suitable for a miss of three years," as the fashion catalogues say; nor with corduroys for the young gentlemen of two; nor, in fact, with any semblance of the same. They may indulge their propensity for rolling in the dust, six inches and more in depth, to their heart's content, and without fear of the maternal réproof for "dirtying their nice, clean clothes."

In the yard of one of the houses an animated dance is in progress, it being, doubtless, the feast-day of a patron saint. The twangs of the harp resound, and at times the high falsetto of some "sweet singer" breaks into song—monotonous and somewhat doleful. The dancers do not rejoice in waxed floors, but the soil of Mother Earth is all they need. Their feet are bared, if not already so, the straw sombrero is set jauntily on the head, and an extra tightening given to the blanket over the shoulders, and they are ready. As a dancer retires from the "ball-room," he at once makes his way to the "banqueting hall," which is in one corner of the yard, and the feast prepared is a huge bowl of pulque. It is not for gratuitous distribution, but for a tlaco a large wooden dipper full may be obtained.

This pulque is the fermented juice of the maguey, and is the national drink. It has the smell of yeast, but in taste is sweet yet pungent; at times it is flavored with fresh fruits, bananas and mangoes—altogether it is considered quite healthful.

The place that the Mexican's blanket occupies in his life is interesting and amusing. He is never without it; neither in the most scorching sun, nor at work; in church, or wherever he may be, he always wears it. When new the cost is about $1.50, but the average Mexican, he, of the lower class, generally buys his wearing apparel at the pawn-shops, which abound plentifully. It matters little, if the article be dirty and well-worn, he will buy it. Asking the price, the broker will say, "cuatro reales (50 cents); how much will you give?" A quarter or a third is offered, and the bargain consummated. In dealing with a Mexican, one need never be abashed in offering a third of the price asked, and in nine cases out of ten you will be successful.

It is almost dark, and we must take a "short cut" back to the city. Here is a well beaten foot-path, and we may take it in confidence, for here "all roads lead to Rome." We pass a cross or two, erected to the memory of some waylaid traveler in years gone by; we catch a glimpse of the faded flowers placed upon it by some faithful heart. Some of these memorials have stood for upwards of a century.

As we enter the city, the electric lights are turned on and the angelus is ringing. The hats of the people are off, and there is a hush. The great cathedral chimes cease, and immediately all the parish bells take up the clanging, and the din is intense.

H. R. CARSON.

SMOKING BOYS.

Science gives the following significant facts concerning the results of smoking by boys: "In an experimental observation of thirty-eight boys of all classes of society, and of average health, who had been using tobacco for a period ranging from two months to two years, twenty-seven showed severe injury to the constitution and insufficient growth; thirty-two showed the existence of irregularity of the heart's action, disordered stomachs, cough, and a craving for alcohol; thirteen had intermittency of the pulse, and one had consumption. After they had abandoned the use of tobacco, within six month's time, one-half were free from all their former symptoms, and the remainder had recovered by the end of the year.

TURNING TO THE EAST.

As Daniel and pious Israelites prayed with their faces toward Jerusalem, the holy city, so the early Christians were wont to turn toward the East in their prayers, and more particularly in their creeds and doxologies (which partake of the same nature), as looking for the rising of the Sun of Righteousness. It is for this same symbolical reason that Christian Churches were ordinarily built with the altars, toward which the worshipers turned, at the East, and that the general custom in burying the dead, is to lay the body with the feet towards the East.

COLORS.

The change of colors for the sacred seasons and particular occasions, both in the vestments of the clergy and the adornment of the Sanctuary, is intended as a reminder to the eye of the character and purposes of the several seasons or services. The principle is exemplified and sanctioned in Holy Scripture, as in the many-colored hangings of the Tabernacle (Exodus xxv. 4; xxvi, 1), and the ornaments of the priesthood (Exodus xxvii,i 28) as well as in the significance of sackcloth and sad attire for sorrow and repentance. Accordingly White, the emblem at once of purity and joy, is employed as the ordinary festival color; on the feasts of our Lord and of the Blessed Virgin. Red is used on the feasts of Martyrs who shed their blood for the sake of Christ, and at Whitsuntide as emblematic of the fire of the Holy Ghost. Violet, the color of mourning, is used in Advent and Lent and on other penitential occasions. Black is used on Good Friday and at funerals. Green, the normal color of nature, is employed at ferial or common seasons, not marked by any special commemoration.

On Making a Reverence at the Mention of the Incarnation in the Nicene Creed.

The Word was made flesh. "Here the Word receives another name. Above He was called God, and a light which has come into the world, which has created the world, and which was not received by the world. Here He becomes flesh—so condescends as to take upon Him my flesh and blood, my body and soul, and becomes not an angel, or some other glorious creature, but a man. This is a too great and exceeding treasure and grace which God has exercised towards the poor human race; it is impossible for a human heart either to comprehend or to conceive, still less to express it. Therefore, we Christians should at least accustom ourselves to set much by these words, which even under the Papacy remain and are preserved in honor. This word has been sung in every mass; and this elegantly, with slower and more special notes than the other words, for when they have sung Ex Maria Virgine, et homo factus est, every one has bowed the knee. And it was proper and right that we should kneel before the words, Et homo factus est, and sing them with slow notes, and should hear with joyful hearts that the Divine Majesty had so condescended as to become like us poor mortals, and should thank God for His unspeakable grace and mercy, in that the Godhead Himself has become flesh. For who can sufficiently speak of this? It would not even be a wonder if we were to weep for joy."—Martin Luther on St. John i, 14, (quoted in Hengstenberg, Commentary on St. John.)

The Ascension News,

A monthly record of the work in the Parish is published under the direction of the Rector.

As it is desired this paper should be self-supporting, the annual subscription is placed at 50 cents, to be paid in advance, to Mr. William H. Cope, 112 South Fourth Street.

RESULTS OF THE CONVENTION.

We spoke last month of the many important matters which were coming before the General Convention of the Church, which has been in session during the past month in Baltimore, and we are sure our readers will be glad to know what it has done, not a very easy thing even for those who have attentively read the Church papers, to know exactly. So we will mention the chief things it has accomplished.

First, the revision of the Prayer Book has been completed. Nearly all the proposed alterations have been adopted, including the beautiful additional versicles in the Evening Service; special prayers for unity, missions, and Rogation days; a Penitential Office for Ash Wednesday; a second Collect, Epistle and Gospel for Christmas and Easter day; permission to omit the Decalogue, except at one service each Sunday, and the insertion of the short kyries when it is omitted, an additional offertory sentence, and some changes in the Baptismal, Confirmation, Marriage, Burial and other Offices. All these changes, with those made at previous General Conventions being adopted, a Standard Prayer Book including them was set forth, to go into effect on All Saints' Day of this year. So that they are now the law of the Church. But until we can get copies of the new Prayer Book it will be very difficult to carry many of them out. It is understood, however, that the new books will be issued at once, and we hope all our people will supply themselves with them as soon as possible.

Another thing accomplished was the adoption of the new Hymnal. A number of changes were made in the report of the Committee, some thirty or forty of the new Hymns suggested being dropped, and the same number of those in the old book being retained, and thus altered it was adopted as the Hymnal of the Church, though the use of the old one also is allowed until the meeting of the next Convention. We should like to use the new one in this Parish as soon as possible, and so ask our people to get it as well as the new Prayer Book. They will form very nice Christmas presents to be given by different members in a family. And will not some one give us enough to supply at least the choir with them?

No action was taken on the very important subject of dividing the Church up into Provinces, but a report was brought in favoring it, and a Commission appointed to revise the Constitution and Canons of the Church so as to adapt them to the great enlargement of the church, and doubtless it will report at the next Convention a detailed scheme for constituting Provinces.

No less than five new Missionary jurisdictions were constituted and one Diocese given permission to divide. Seven new Missionary Bishops were elected, an unprecedented number at one time.

A great deal of the time of the Convention was taken up with the discussion of the question of church unity, the result of which was the adoption by the House of Deputies of the declaration which was set forth some years ago by the House of Bishops and afterwards by the Lambeth Conference. A good deal of time also was given to the consideration of the missionary work of the Church.

These are the chief things which occupied the attention of the Convention, which altogether constituted one of the most important and interesting Conventions which have ever been held. And we ought to be very thankful that such happy and satisfactory conclusions were reached by it.

The next Convention is to be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"SOME ONE ELSE."

We would like very much to find out who "some one else" is, we hear this person so constantly spoken of. He must be a person of great ability and great goodness, because he is supposed to be able and willing to do anything and everything that is desired. And he must be always about, always at hand, for people seem to think that his services can be had at any moment and at any place. We speak of this person as "he," and yet there must be both a man and a woman of this name, for the person so constantly spoken of can apparently do all that both men and women can do, or we should judge there must be many persons, both men and women, of this name, from the number of places it is supposed they can fill and the amount of work they can do. And yet in spite of all this general impression which is so prevalent, we have never been able to find one such person, although whenever any one in the parish is asked to do any work, or gets tired of the work they are doing, and wants to give it it up, they say, "let some one else take my place," yet we know no such person and cannot find such a person high or low. We can only conclude, therefore, that all these people who are thus constantly talking about this most capable and religious person who is so ready and willing to relieve them of all their work, and do it so much better than they could do it, are laboring under a delusion. No such person exists. It is a myth. So the sooner the better our people learn that if they are doing some work, or the call comes to them to work, they have got to do the work themselves. There is no one else to do it for them; if they do not do it, it won't be done.

Besides, even if there was "some one else" to do our work, it is not very nice to throw off upon others what we ought to do ourselves, to say nothing of losing the reward we could gain for ourselves. But what we want our people to realize is that this supposed person they are ever stepping aside to make way for, and who they think is so ready and willing to do all their duty for them, does not exist, so they need not talk about him, or look for him, or wait for him.

If there is any duty to be done or work performed, go and do it yourself, and don't try to throw it off upon "some one else," when there is no such person to throw it on.

RESIGNATION OF THE ASSISTANT.

We are sure our people will be very sorry to hear that our Assistant Minister, the Rev. Mr. Kittson, has resigned his position in order to accept a call to a church in Montreal, Canada. Mr. Kittson's family is now in Montreal, and it is natural that he should avail himself of this opportunity of being with them. But we regret very much to lose one who has so long and so acceptably ministered to our people, and it will be very difficult to supply his place, especially just now, as we are beginning the winter's work, and at so short a notice.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Six new linen cottas for the Choir, seven do. made by the Ladies' Aid out of linen purchased from proceeds of the Parish Tea. Lot of magazines for the Guild room.

GUILD MEETINGS.—The Anniversary of the Women's Guild on S. S. Simon and Jude's day was attended as usual by about twenty-five ladies, who alone out of all our female communicants take an interest in our church work. We would that we could make all our women feel their responsibility in this matter. We are glad, however, to welcome this year some new workers and we trust we shall have an active and successful winter.

The Anniversary of the Men's Guild was attended only by the members of S. Andrew's Brotherhood; but we are never discouraged by a small attendance, if the few who come are faithful and zealous. A few good workers can do a great deal, and there are a great many who do work, and do not come to these meetings.

REOPENING WORK.—Our Industrial and Thursday night schools, the Mothers' Meeting, Ladies' Aid, Embroidery Class, and missionary work all recommence with this month. Let us see how successful we can make them all this winter. This can only be done by the members of our congregation volunteering their services, and by those who undertake work being faithful and regular in carrying it out.

We still need teachers in the Sunday School, and Saturday and Thursday night Industrial Schools. Shall these good works fall through or be curtailed from lack of teachers?

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—The school which we have maintained for many years on Saturday mornings during the winter, reopens as we have said, with this month. We consider this one of the most important agencies we have for reaching and benefitting the children in our neighborhood. It is held on the one day in the week when there is no public school, and the children are thus free. It keeps them out of the street, brings them under refining influences, the girls are taught to sew, and the boys to draw, paint, etc., and all attend the Morning Prayers in the church and receive a practical instruction from one of the clergy. But to carry it on we must have funds, and the returns thus far through the special envelopes for the support of this and the Sunday School have been most trivial. Very few envelopes have been returned. Will not each contributor through the envelope system give something for this object?

NIGHT SCHOOL.—On Thursday, November 10th, at half past seven, the Ascension Polytechnic will open for the winter. We hope that every one will feel it his duty to help in this work. The Polytechnic is a night school for boys, and is open every Thursday night. In order to insure its success we need in the first place, workers, who will be willing to give their time and interest to it, and in the second place, money or materials which are needed to carry it on. We shall be glad to receive donations of writing papers, pencils, penholders, rubbers, etc., and hope that some will be sent to us. Any packages left at the church will reach us by marking them "for the Polytechnic." Mr. H. W. Montgomery, the superintendent, will be glad to give any further information in regard to the general workings, etc., of the school, to any one who may be interested.

MUSIC LIST.—There has been prepared a frame to hang in the vestibule of the church to contain a list of the music which will be sung at the different services every Sunday. This we are sure will interest our people to know what they are to expect, and we trust it will lead to a greater appreciation of the very good music our choir gives us. Especially we hope it will increase the attendance at the beautiful choral service we have on Sunday afternoons at four o'clock, a service that is by no means appreciated yet as it ought to be.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SERVICE.—We are glad to note the increased attendance at the Wednesday night service, though we look for still further improvement. The courses of instruction on alternate Wednesdays by the Rector and the Assistant are on the Bible, and the doctrines and precepts of the Church.

RESIGNATION OF A VESTRYMAN.—It is with great regret that we announce the resignation of one of our Vestrymen, our former Accounting Warden, Mr. George H. Haverstick. His resignation was caused by the fact that both he and his wife have abandoned the Communion of our Church, and entered the Church of Rome. Our parish is under deep obligations to both Mr. and Mrs. Haverstick for the fidelity and zeal with which they have served it for many years in the past, and it is a great grief to us that they should have thus cut themselves off from all their former associations and withdrawn from a work in which they were both apparently so interested.

NEW PRAYER BOOKS.—Who will present the church with copies of the revised Prayer Book which is now the law of the Church? We need at least five, which should be the large edition and handsomely bound, an Altar Service, two Prayer Books for the clergy stalls, one for the Litany desk, and one for the Baptistry.

COLUMBUS DAY.—Owing to the difficulty of securing the choir, and the short notice of it which was given, there was no special service in the church on October 21, the day appointed to be observed in Commemoration of the discovery of America, but on the morning of the Sunday following, the Commemoration was held, the special service set forth by the House of Bishops was used and a special sermon preached by the Assistant Minister.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject of the Historical Sermon to be preached on the evening of the third Sunday of this month, will be "The Causes of the Reformation."

ENVELOPES.—Every one attending the Church is expected to contribute to its support through the envelope system, by which each can give according to his means and yet not have his position in the Church dependent upon how much he gives.

If you are not already contributing in this way, ask the Sexton for a form of pledge, fill it up and give it to him or place it in the plate or in one of the alms boxes, and the Warden will send you each quarter the number of envelopes to be used for each Sunday, together with one special envelope for a charitable object for which collections are made during that quarter.

ENTERTAINMENT—On Tuesday, November 15th, there will be an entertainment for the Sunday School. The tickets are ten cents each which can be had of the Superintendent, Sexton, or any of the school children. We feel that every one can buy a ticket at this small price. For a person that cannot go, we think the plan adopted at one of our previous concerts is a good one: a member of the congregation bought a lot of tickets, and then placed them in the Superintendent's hands, to be given away at his discretion. We hope some one will follow this idea.

Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

A general meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held on November 17th, at the Church of the Holy Trinity beginning with morning prayer at 10 A. M., at which addresses will be delivered by representatives of the four branches of its work. A light luncheon will be served between the morning and afternoon sessions. All women interested in the missionary work of the Church are invited to be present.

Weariness In Well-doing.

In a recently-published volume of discourses, preached at the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, by the late Rev. Aubrey L. Moore, the distinguished tutor of Keble College, and one of the brilliant lights of the new Oxford School of Anglican theologians who published "Lux Mundi," we find the following apt and impressive words on that "weariness of well-doing" to which all except the heroic souls are so prone:

"I think clergymen and district visitors and Sunday School teachers know it well. All who try to do any special work for God, according to the greatness of the task undertaken and the zeal with which it is entered upon, very soon feel grievous and bitter disappointment. They are tempted to grow weary and faint in well-doing; they began with such earnest self-devotion, they were going to work God's work, and they expected great results; at least, they thought people would understand that they were engaged in well-doing. And then they soon find that things do not go as well as they hoped. There is so little visible result. Those whom they hoped they were helping Godward broke away, and their past efforts seem wasted. And worse than want of the expected success, they find their very motives challenged or misunderstood. They feel like Moses when, in his zeal and anxiety to help his fellow-countrymen, he thought that they would have understood that God had chosen him to be their deliverer. And he was shocked and disappointed and disheartened that those he was trying to help should turn round him upon and say, 'Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?' And, as I have said, the disappointment and weariness, when it comes, is great in proportion to the zeal with which the work was undertaken.

"Is there not an explanation which is at least possible? Perhaps what we thought zeal covered a good deal of self-confidence, and God would teach us that it is not we who work for Him, but He who works by us. At all events visible success is never a trustworthy test. The promise is certain; the time is left in God's hand—'In due time we shall reap, if we faint not.' And this due time is God's time, not ours. The moment we begin to ask ourselves—and which of us has not done so?—'Am I doing any good? had I not better give up the effort altogether?' we may be quite sure that we are bringing in human tests of heavenly work."

The discourse closes with a brief reference to the simple and familiar truth that God's work in nature is a model for us in our work for Him. Everywhere we see the law of growth, the gradual going-on from the little to the great, and we ought always to be more ready to trust what is gradual than what is sudden. The gourd which springs up in a night, withers in a night.

"Remember that all real, lasting good comes after much effort, silently and, as we think, slowly. The bread cast upon the waters may not be seen for many days, or we may seem, like the Apostolic fishermen, to have toiled all night and taken nothing, just at the very hour which is God's due time, and He Himself is ready to bless our labor with success."

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas is one of the three great feasts in the Christian year. As among the Jews there were three great festivals in each year which they were required to keep by all the males going up to Jerusalem to worship, to pay their tithes and offer their sacrifices, so from the earliest times Christians have kept the feasts of Christmas, Easter and Whitsuntide, which commemorate the greatest facts connected with our religion, in the same way. Christmas tells us of the great fact of the Incarnation of the Son of God to bring about man's redemption, and to share in all his sufferings and sorrows. Easter commemorates Christ's triumph over death, the proof of His divine nature, and of man's resurrection from the dead. Whitsuntide tells us of the divine formation and government of the Christian Church.

These are all truths of inestimable worth and importance to human life, and so should ever be kept before men, and impressed upon them, that they may be known and appreciated.

So we celebrate these Feasts with special ceremonies, and try to make them express and symbolize the great truths they are intended to teach. To do this, there is appointed, first a period of preparation for them, that our minds may be carried forward to them, and contemplate them for some time. Thus the season of Advent precedes the feast of Christmas, and is intended to prepare us for it. And the feast itself should be kept not only with special music and decoration of our churches, but by the performance of the greatest act of our religion, the reception of the Holy Communion.

Persons who have not been properly instructed often think that it is incongruous to make such a day of gladness and general merry-making as Christmas, a time for such a solemn act as the reception of the Holy Communion. But they should remember that the whole significance of the day comes from its religious character. It would have no meaning or purpose were it not for that, so we should consider that fact, and keep it as a great religious day, before we give ourselves up to merry making. And there is nothing incongruous between true Christmas joy and divine worship. The one will enhance the other. Only those who realize what Christmas means, and have such pure and clean hearts that they can peform their greatest act of worship, can truly enter into Christmas joy.

So we hope every one in this congregation will remember that Christmas is a day for general Communion, one of the three times in the year at least, when every Christian should receive. As in previous years the fullest opportunities will be provided for the purpose. These will be celebrations at 6.30, 7.30 and 11.30 A. M., and all who can possibly do so, are urged to make their Communions at one of the earlier celebrations, both because it is the best and most natural time in which to make one's Communion, and because the service in the middle of the day will be unusually prolonged by the special music.

Then, too, at Christmas as we give thanks to God for the great gift of His Son to us, so we try to imitate Him and make others happy by giving gifts to one another. In doing this let us remember the Church. Let every one return God's gift by giving a gift to Him. In what better way can we express our appreciation of what our religion is to us than by doing something especial to support and strengthen that great institution which brings it to us? And our parish is largely dependent upon Christmas and Easter offerings. Our ordinary receipts from Sunday to Sunday are not sufficient to meet all our expenses, especially during the four or five summer months when so many persons are out of town. During those months we have to borrow money in order to meet our expenses. This we have to pay back from the proceeds of our Christmas and Easter offerings. Every one attending the church, therefore, is asked to make a special offering on those days, in addition to his ordinary contribution. And we hope the offering this Christmas will be as large as possible. Last year it reached nearly $900. This year it should be at least $1000. We need also, donations for the children's festival, the church decorations, and for a treat to the members of the Mothers' Meeting.

Let every one realize what Christmas means, what joy and blessing it brings into his own life, and he will be only too glad to do all he can to express his thankfulness by making others happy, and bringing the same joy to them.

THE NEWS.

Last year our parish paper was very successful financially, and a real interest seemed to be taken in its welfare. It paid all its expenses, and we entered on the present year with a small balance to its credit. This year, we much regret to say, we are slightly in debt to the extent of about $15. Our subscription list has fallen off some 35 names, the advertisements have amounted to $62.50, as against $74.50 for 1891, and the donations, up to December 1st, have been $4.25, while last year they were $16.27. It can therefore, very readily be seen why we are behindhand. It is most important that we should close the year without carrying over any debt to 1893, and the object of this article is to ask for donations. Will not the members of the parish contribute according to their ability, whether the sum be large or small? The deficit is not a great one, and this appeal is made with the hope that it will not pass unheeded.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Some members of the Vestry have presented the church with a very fine fire proof safe for the keeping of our valuable records, something we have very much needed. The Rev. Mr. Kittson, before leaving us, donated us some bound and unbound books to our parish library, also some devotional books. Six and a half tons of coal were donated for the poor, and several Thanksgiving dinners. Three wooden boxes for the collections, and piece of red tape and sealing wax.

CHANGE OF WARDEN. — Mr. Tingley having resigned the wardenship on account of the press of other work, Mr. Frank R. Stevenson has been elected in his stead.

PRESENTATION TO MR. KITTSON.—On the Sunday before he left, the Rev. Mr. Kittson was presented by the Superintendent and teachers of the Sunday School with a very handsome testimonial of their appreciation of his services. It consisted of a solid silver gilt pyx, a box in which to carry wafers for private Communions. To it was attached a heavy gold chain so that it could be worn over the neck. A speech was made by the Superintendent in presenting it, and Mr. Kittson returned his thanks for it.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS.—As we have said in our editorial, each member of the congregation is asked to make a special Christmas offering for the support of the church. And in making it do not put it in your numbered envelope, for if you do, it will be credited to your ordinary account. Put it on the plate in addition to your envelope for the Sunday. Or if you put it in your envelope, designate it as a Christmas offering. Donations for the Sunday School festival and the Church decorations may be put in the alms chest in the vestibule, marked for that purpose.

THE CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL will be on the evening of Holy Innocents' Day. It will take the place of the ordinary Wednesday evening service. The children will sing their carols in the church, and afterwards have their entertainment in the school-room.

TEACHERS.—We are glad to say that we have a number of new teachers, both in the Sunday and Industrial Schools. These schools were never so well provided for in this respect before. But if we can have more yet, we can have more scholars.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject of the Historical sermon on the third Sunday evening of this month will be "The Reformation."

NEW PRAYER BOOKS.—In response to an appeal for copies of the new prayer books for the Chancel, one lady has given the money to provide two for the clergy stalls, another has promised one for the Litany desk, and we have received a dollar towards the others and another dollar towards hymnals for the choir. We are sorry to say, however, that there is no prospect of the handsome editions of the new Prayer Book being ready much before Easter. The only edition that will be ready by Christmas is a very cheap one, 25 cents a copy. We should advise all the congregation, however, to get this. It will do afterwards to leave in the church for the use of strangers, when the handsomer editions can be had in its place. And there is such a demand even for this edition, that it will be wise to leave orders at Wanamaker's for them, so as to be sure to secure copies when they come out, which will be probably the week before Christmas.

CHANGES IN THE PRAYER BOOK.—Until our people can supply themselves with copies of the new Prayer Book, it is impossible for us to conform to all the changes that have been made. We sing the new versicles after the Creed in the Sunday afternoon service now, as the choir have been supplied with copies of the responses.

THE ASSISTANTSHIP.—The Rev. Mr. Kittson left us on the Monday after the Sunday next before Advent. His place has not yet been supplied. The Rector has been corresponding with several clergymen in regard to it, but it may take some time before one suitable can be found who will be willing to accept the position. In the meantime the Rector has to get on with what occasional services he can secure from clergymen and a lay reader.

CLOTHING FOR THE POOR.—Donations of clothing of any description can be sent to the church at any time, and profitably used in our charitable work. There is special need of children's clothing. A number of children in the parish cannot attend the Sunday School because they have not decent clothes to come in.

THE CHRISTMAS MUSIC.—For the past month the choir has been hard at work upon the Christmas music. Perhaps not a dozen people in the crowded church on Christmas Day will be able to realize what the musicians before them have undergone to produce such a service. The high standard of the regular Sunday services must be maintained, and, in addition, music thoroughly learned that is so difficult of execution that the scores had to be obtained from London, there being no demand for them in this country.

Upon the boys, of course, falls the burden and heat of the day. They rehearse four times a week; yet, the choirmaster says, that the absences amount to only one in every two rehearsals.

The service that will be rendered is the famous Schubert in B flat. It's great attraction lies in the fact that, while it is thoroughly scientific music, it is steadily melodious; indeed some of the most beautiful passages in sacred music are in this service. It has plenty of solo work, which will be looked after by our regular admirable soloists, assisted by Mr. Lewis Neilson, tenor, and Mr. Frank Johns, baritone. The latter shortly will become a regular member of the choir. The solo boys will be the regular ones: Horton and Shelton, sopranos, and Snyder and Gouldbourn, altos.

At Morning Prayer, the feature will be the Processional at half past ten. The length of the processional, in exact figures, will be. Crucifer, 1; Banner-bearers, 2; Servers, 3; Sopranos and Altos, 32; Tenors and Basses, 16; musicians, (brass instruments) 5; Clergy, 2; total, 60. The Te Deum will be one of the standard ones, and will be rendered with organ and string orchestra, as will the rest of the service. In the Recessional Hymn the full size of the choir will appear again, and again will the triumphal notes of the cornets and trombones assist in rendering "Angels from the Realms of Glory."

Nor will the afternoon service fall behind. Stainer's grand and beautiful Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, with the difficult and high fugues in the Glorias, will give the boys a chance to show that they were not "sung out" in the morning. The anthem is not quite certain, but it will be selected and put in rehearsal this week.

The Music Committee, the choirmaster and the choir intend to leave nothing undone to make the Christmas service this year, the most grand and impressive in the history of the Ascension, but second to no effort by any boy-choir.

The Music Committee asks that those who appreciate such music as this, and want to encourage our choir in giving it to us, will make special donations in order to provide for its expense. The musical instruments, especially, cost money, and are not counted in the regular music appropriation. But, as they add so much to the beauty of the service, we trust there are those in the congregation who will be willing to pay for them in order that we may have them.

CHOIR PRIZES. — Since May 1891, a system of prizes and of marking has been in vogue in the choir, with excellent results. The year is divided into two terms, ending on November 1st, and May 1st. The boys are marked for attendance, attention and conduct. The highest mark is 100. The marks for these three things are averaged, and boys obtaining an average above 96 in the term receive a prize of five dollars. The boy with the highest average receives ten dollars. The first boy on November 1, was Douglas H. Ross; for the third successive term he had an average of 100. The other two prize winners were, George H. Smith, average 99, and James L. Horton, average 96.66. The marks were nearly all high, as the discipline in the choir is of the best.

ENTERTAINMENT BY ST. MARY'S GUILD. — The members of St. Mary's Guild propose to give one or two entertainments during the winter, the proceeds of which will go towards the reduction of the church debt. The first will take place on the evening of January 10th. It will consist of music and recitations, and a play entitled the Ladies of Athens, most of the characters of which will be taken by the members of the Guild. Tickets may be obtained from the members of the Guild or from the Sexton.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies of the Women's Guild are making preparations for getting up our annual Missionary box. Donations of money, or clothing that may be good enough, are asked for the purpose. The money donations should be given to Mrs. Gen. Leiper, 1416 Lombard Street. The members of the congregation will understand that what is given for this purpose is in addition to the contributions through the envelopes for General Missions. Those go directly to the Board of Missions, for salaries, &c. The collections made by our ladies are for the Missionary box, which is a great addition to the salary the missionary receives.

AFTERNOON SERVICE. — Tell your friends about the beautiful musical service we have here on Sunday afternoons, and see if you cannot bring them to it.

OUR PARISH LIBRARY.—Mr. W. H. Metcalf has recently been appointed by the Rector to the charge of the parish library. He has been cataloging and arranging the new books lately presented to it, and also overhauling the old ones. He finds no less than eighty-three books missing. These have been taken out from time to time and not returned. Will not our parishioners look among their books and see if they have not some belonging to our library which should be returned?

NEW YEAR BOOK.—The Year Book of the Parish for 1891-2 is out. It was distributed to those in the Church on the first Sunday in December. Any one who did not get a copy can obtain one from the Sexton.

DEATH OF OUR CARETAKER.—Just as we go to press, we have to record the death of the Caretaker of the Church, Mrs. Fanny McCracken. For six years, ever since the new church was built and left open during the day, she has been in daily attendance there. Always faithful and reliable, genial and pleasant with every one who came in, her presence will be much missed. She passed away quietly, after an illness of only a few days.

OUR PROSPECTS.

The beginning of a new year is a good time to review the present condition and prospects of our parish.

In the first place we have a church in a central position and situated on a prominent avenue, along which thousands of people pass. At the same time the church is not as large and as conspicuous as it should be to attract strangers. This could only be remedied by the purchase of the apothecary shop on the corner, and extending the church to South Street, putting up a tower on the corner, which would be seen up and down the street. But we fear there is little prospect of this being done unless we should have the good fortune to have some one benefactor who would have the ability and the grace to do this alone.

Then in regard to our congregations, while at all the services on Sunday put together, we certainly have a good many people in attendance, still we should like the attendance at each service to be larger. We have enough persons now who consider themselves connected with our parish to give us good congregations always. But many of our people are not as regular as they should be, and many never come to church but once on a Sunday. Surely this should not be the ideal of church attendance. And we have so many services, and of such different kinds, that we should think every one might find it convenient and agreeable to come to church twice of a Sunday, and occasionally during the week.

Then another great difficulty we have to contend with, is the constant removals among our people. Looking over the last year book it will be noticed that although there were no less than sixty-seven additions to our communicant list, there were fifty losses by death and removal, making the net increase for the year only seventeen. We often look at the vacant places of those who have left us, and think how different the appearance of the church would be if we could only hold our old people as well as bring in new ones.

In regard to our finances, we are glad to note a steady increase in our weekly offerings, ever since the beginning of our present financial year. And the Christmas offering was peculiarly gratifying in the increased number of comparatively small contributions, showing that the congregation generally were doing more than they have done heretofore. And as the first of March we shall begin to receive the interest from our endowment fund, and the Vestry are shortly going to make an offort to reduce our debt, we shall hope hereafter not only to be able to meet our current expenses, but to increase our appropriations.

In regard to our different departments of work, we think our Sunday and Industrial Schools are better provided with teachers and have a larger attendance than ever before. Our Guilds, too, are in good working order. We note with peculiar pleasure the present prosperous condition of our Young Men's Guild. Still there is a great deal more work that could be done by a church situated and conducted as ours is, if we had more workers and more resources. There are a great many appliances for church work than we need, but we hesitate to apply to our people for them, as they have already so many demands made upon them. We can only hope that what we need will come in time.

On the whole then, as we survey, the present condition and prospects of our parish, we cannot but feel encouraged. Certainly as our statistics prove, we have been making steady progress for many years past, always going ahead, making improvements and getting stronger, never going backward. And perhaps this steady, though it may not be very rapid progress, is the best and most healthy that can be made.

We know that there are some of our members who are disappointed that more brilliant and startling results are not produced. But such persons should remember that only churches that are in very exceptional positions or have very special attractions or large resources can show such results. And we doubt if any church can be pointed to with no larger an income than ours, that does as much work, and has as large an attendance as ours. And we are very sure that the way in which our church is conducted, is calculated to attract a greater variety of people, and endear them more to it than any other that we know.

Let every member of our congregation do his or her full share of work, and be as liberal as they can, and no one will complain of our not making progress.

THE ASSISTANTSHIP.

We are happy to announce that the position of Assistant Minister in the parish, which was vacated so unexpectedly by Mr. Kittson, has been filled by the appointment of the Rev. G. A. M. Dyess, now Rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue, in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. He has been very highly recommended by those who have known him well, as a very faithful and good man and hard worker. We shall welcome him very warmly to the parish, and trust that he will be a great aid to the Rector in building the church up, and carrying out the purposes for which it was intended.

He will enter upon his duties on the third Sunday of this month, January the 15th.

The Rector takes this opportunity of expressing his obligations to the Rev. Mr. Meigs, the Rev. Dr. Batterson, and the other clergymen who have assisted him in the interval when he was without an Assistant, and whose services have been entirely gratuitous.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The Rector received at Christmas the gift of a very fine linen surplice embroidered, there was given a fine linen embroidered cotta for server, and the embroidery of a fair linen damask cloth for private celebrations, 19 dozen oranges were donated for the Sunday School festival, and a number of the teachers both in the Sunday and Industrial schools made private donations to their scholars.

The Choir presented the Choir Master with a silver handle whisk, and the Ladies' Bible Class gave their teacher a very fine wall clock for the Bible Class room.

A surplice satchel was given to the church, and an iron bedstead and mattress to a member of the Mothers' Meeting.

CHRISTMAS.—Though we had been having a series of beautiful Sundays before that, Christmas Day proved stormy. This undoubtedly affected our attendance, for though we had good congregations except at night, they were not as large as they otherwise would have been. There were forty-four Communicants at the 6.30 A. M. service, seventy-two at 7.30 A. M., and one hundred and two at 11.30 A. M. This is a slight increase over the previous Christmas, but much less than we had at Easter. Why is it that our people do not consider the Communion at Christmas as much of an obligation as at Easter? The Church looked very pretty as it always does in its Christmas decorations. And the choir certainly did themselves credit in the music they gave us. A very competent musical critic who was present, and who has attended many services in England as well as in this country, said that "he had seldom heard a better service, and speaking ing as a musician, he was charmed with the precision and accuracy of the rendering."

It was the largest choir we have ever had in the church, and we are glad to welcome several permanent additional voices.

Our children's festival on the evening of Holy Innocents' Day was more largely attended than before, and the singing was better. The children had their tree and a real live Kriss Kringle presented a gift to each scholar, together with a box of candies and an orange.

The members of the Mothers' Meeting had their treat, seventeen women were provided with a turkey or chicken, and vegetables for their Christmas dinner, the amount specially donated for this purpose by some members of the congregation being $27.50.

On the Friday before Christmas the children of the Kindergarten had their tree, provided by the managers, most of whom were present on the occasion. The children went through some of their exercises and were then entertained with cake, candy, etc. So altogether the Feast of Joy was well observed in our parish.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies having the missionary box in charge have collected so far over thirty dollars for the purpose, which is much less than last year. They hope additional donations will be sent. They also have received donations of an overcoat, warm underwear, &c. And as the clergyman to whom the box is intended lives in Missouri, in order that he might have the benefit of these during the cold weather, they have been sent to him at once. And now that Christmas is over, the ladies hope to be able to make up the remainder of the box.

ENTERTAINMENTS. — As announced last month, S. Mary's Guild gives an entertainment for the benefit of the Church Debt Fund, on Tuesday evening the 10th, tickets can be had from the Sexton, or from members of the Guild. As this is to take place on the regular monthly meeting night of the Guild, the business and devotional exercises which should take place on that night will be postponed until that of the 24th.

On the evening of the 17th an entertainment will be given by the children of the Sunday School, for the benefit of the school. It will consist of recitations, &c., by members of the school. Admission, 10 cents.

LETTER FROM MR. KITTSON.—The Rector received at Christmas a letter from the Rev. Mr. Kittson, conveying the congratulations of the season, and saying that though the thermometer was below zero in Montreal, he kept well and was busy in getting his new work in order. He asks to have the NEWS sent regularly to him, and promises a copy of his parish paper in exchange.

ARRANGEMENT OF SERVICES.—The Rector wants to explain that when the new Assistant comes, it will be necessary for a different division of the services to be made, as Mr. Dyess does not sing. Heretofore the Rector has always taken the early Celebration on Sundays, both because he preferred to make his own Communion at that time, and because he hoped thereby to lead his people to do the same. But now he shall be obliged to let Mr. Dyess take this and himself Celebrate in the middle of the day, as that Celebration is choral.

He makes this explanation that the members of the parish may not think that he has become lazy, or that he has changed his views as to preference of the early service as the time for Communion.

CONFIRMATION —The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 12th, to administer Confirmation in this parish. The Rector hopes that all who have not yet been confirmed, who are of sufficient age, will give him their names for presentation to the Bishop at that time. Instructions preparatory to it will be given during Lent.

HISTORICAL SERMON. — The subject of the Historical Sermon on the evening of the third Sunday this month, will be "The English Reformation."

NEW PRAYER BOOKS—Handsome (small) editions of the New Prayer Book can now be obtained at Wanamaker's, or McVey's, 39 N. 13th Street. And very good cheap editions at 25 cents a copy. We hope our people generally will provide themselves with them.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions to the NEWS have been received:

Second Annual Report of the Kindergarten.

In order to put our daily kindergarten for young children on a permanent basis, and provide for its support, the following Board of Managers and officers have been appointed.

Board of Managers.—Mrs. Francis S. Keese, Miss Maria Gilpin, Miss A. Chamberlain, Mrs. W. F. Smith, Mrs. J. E. Mason, Miss Amy D. Butler, Miss Helen Longacre, Miss E. Williamson. Officers — Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Gilpin; treasurer, Miss Pauline Neidhard. Visiting Committee—Mrs. James A. Bonsack, Miss Rosalie Grubb, Miss Clara Williamson. Teacher—Miss Alice Spear.

They make the following as their Second Annual Report.

The Kindergarten of the Church of the Ascension was started in November 1890, with the idea of bringing the many neglected children of that neighborhood into daily contact with pure and cheerful surroundings.

The results have been most satisfactory, for since that time upwards of one hundred children have been enrolled upon the books. The largest number at any one time being thirty-five, with an average daily attendance of twenty-two.

As the Public Schools are not yet adequate to supply the demands for Kindergartens in every locality, it would seem natural that the Churches should be willing to supplement this work, which means true moral and religious culture for these little ones.

As means to this end the Rector has kindly given us the daily use of the Sunday School room, but otherwise the Kindergarten has no resources apart from the help of a few voluntary subscribers.

In order to continue the work, money is needed for the teacher's salary and for new materials. The latter are mostly provided by the children themselves, who bring sometimes five or ten cents a week to help pay their way. Besides this a little more than $200 would be sufficient for the entire expense of the Kindergarten per annum, which is a comparatively small sum, when one considers the benefit and enjoyment it affords.

Any one who is willing to become an annual subscriber or to help us out this year, may send their subscription to the treasurer, Miss Pauline Neidhard, 1511 Arch Street, or to Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, 334 South Thirteenth Street.

THE CHRISTIAN SOCIAL UNION.

We hope the members of our congregation will not forget about this Association, which exists for the study of social and economical questions in the light of the Christian religion. Any churchman or churchwoman can belong to it. The annual dues are only one dollar. The Philadelphia Branch meets in our Parish Building on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 3 P. M. The subjects to be discussed this month are "Moral Education," and "Church Union," each to be opened by the Rector of the Parish, the different members of the Union taking this duty in turn. Anyone, though not a member of the Union, is welcomed to attend the meetings.

THE NEWS.

We have received the annual statement of the business manager of the NEWS. We are glad to say that in response to our appeal last month, a number of subscriptions which were overdue, were paid up, and some donations made, which have enabled us to meet all our expenses for the year, except five dollars. Our thanks are due to those who have thus responded to our appeal, but will not some one give us this five dollars that we may square up our last year's account?

We are sure that all who are interested in our parish are glad to see and read the NEWS, as it tells them so much about its affairs, they might not otherwise hear. If so, will not all help support it by subscribing to it and endeavoring to obtain advertisements for it?

Anecdote of Bishop Wilberforce.

A writer in Temple Bar relates several interesting anecdotes about the late Bishop Wilberforce. "A Hampshire lout," he says, "I do not know a better word, appeared in a country church among the candidates (for confirmation.) The Bishop felt sure that he had confirmed him before, so he leaned over and said, very softly: 'My boy, I think I have confirmed you before.' The lad opened his great, wide eyes and replied: 'You be a liar.' Wilberforce knew that this was only the ordinary way a clown knew how to deny what was not true; so he was told to kneel down and he was confirmed.

Prayer.

Eternal Godhead, Three in One,
And One in Three Divine,
May Thy loving, gracious presence
Ever on my pathway shine.

Protect, befriend and comfort me,
In all life's trials be near;
Teach me to trust without a doubt
All through the coming year.

Answer.

"Be quiet." "Fear not." "For I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

REDUCING OUR DEBT.

The Vestry of our parish has just issued an appeal to all whom they thought in any way interested in it, asking for contributions for the purpose of reducing the indebtedness on our property. This consists of a mortgage of $25,000, covering our entire lot with the improvements thereon. This was placed on the property when the church was first removed to Broad St., in order that all the money that we had could be used in building. Since then we have spent some $40,000 in erecting first the parish building on the rear of the lot, then the main body of the church, and then the chancel. In addition to which we have put in the organ, costing over $4000, and graded, paved, etc., the side and end of the lot at a cost of some $800. We have also received a number of costly memorials in the way of stained glass windows, etc.

All these improvements have been entirely paid for, but in the meanwhile we have been carrying this debt of $25,000 on which, for five years, we had to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent., and since then of 5 per cent., amounting now to $1250 a year, all this is money paid away; it takes so much money which could be otherwise used for the support of the church; it is a great drain upon us; it prevents our church being consecrated, as we cannot offer to God that which we do not entirely own ourselves; and it so far endangers the future of the church, as it makes it always that much more difficult to support.

We are sure, therefore, all our people are agreed in the desirableness of our being relieved of this incubus; and the Vestry think that the time has now come to make an effort in this direction. Each year since we removed from Lombard street, we have taken a step forward, making some needed improvement, until last year, when we gave our people a rest. Is it not time to begin again and do this most needed work of freeing our church from debt? Will not all our people do what they can for this purpose, and also try to interest any friends they may have outside of the parish, who might be willing to help in this great charity of establishing a strong free church in this central part of the city?

At the same time we want to say to all the members of the parish that they must be very careful not to let any contribution they may give to this object take away from what they are giving regularly towards the support of the church, or reduce the amount of their special Easter or Christmas offering.

While the church was on Lombard street our annual expenses averaged $3000 a year; now they are about $7000. This is a very moderate sum to sustain such a work as we are now doing and we are dependent for this income entirely upon the offerings of the people, and any additional amount we may gain from reducing our debt is imperatively needed for increase of salaries, etc. While therefore we hope that our people will aid in this effort if they can do so without decreasing the amount of their ordinary contributions, we do not desire them to do it if they cannot afford to do both.

But we do think all might aid in this project, by trying to interest friends outside the parish. If any one knows those whom they think would thus aid us, they can obtain from the warden copies of the appeal to send to them.

We append it here, as it may thus come to the eyes of those who might not otherwise see it.

Philadelphia, January 1893.

The Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of the Church of the Ascension, Broad Street below South, appeal for assistance in reducing the Mortgage of $25,000 on the Church Property.

All the buildings and improvements which have been put upon the propety are entirely paid for, and the Church has no other indebtedness, but the interest on this Mortgage is a heavy burden to be carried by a congregation, which is not a wealthy one, and a Church in which the seats are entirely free.

We have the privilege of reducing the Mortgage by payments of $500 or more at any time.

We herewith enclose contribution slips one of which you are requested to sign and return in the enclosed envelope.

Any amounts so contributed will be used solely for the purpose herein stated. If the subscriber is a parishioner, what is thus given should be in addition to all contributions towards the support of the Church.

Subscriptions may be payable in cash or extending through a term of years.

THE ASSISTANTSHIP.

In our last issue we announced that the Rev. G. A. M. Dyess, of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, had accepted the position of Assistant Minister in this parish. This was the case. He spent Sunday, December 18th, with us and before leaving told the Rector that he would accept the position and enter on his duties January 15th. A few days before that date, however, he wrote to the Rector saying that he would not be able to come, as he had twice presented his resignation to his Vestry and they had refused to accept it.

This was a great disappointment to the Rector as he had thought the place was filled, and he had waited a whole month for Mr. Dyess to come.

The Rector has, however, been very fortunate in securing another clergyman for the position, the Rev. Louis A. Lanpher, who has already entered upon his duties.

We extend to him the welcome we had intended for Mr. Dyess, and trust that he will more than fill his place.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two framed pictures of choristers for the Guild room; quantity of pamphlets and papers for the same.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS will be given during Lent on Monday afternoons, at 4 o'clock, by the Rector, in the Guild room, and on Thursday evenings, at 8 o'clock, by Assistant Minister. All looking forward to confirmation are expected to attend one or other of these series of instructions.

MISSIONARY WORK.—The material for the missionary box has now been cut out, and any members of the congregation who are willing to take pieces home and make them up can get them from the ladies in charge on Thursday mornings after prayers, or afternoons during the meeting of the Ladies' Aid. During Lent the Ladies' Aid will work for some charitable object, and ladies in the congregation are invited to join with them.

All the young ladies in the congregation are also asked to meet every Tuesday evening during Lent to sew for a missionary box. One of the ladies in our congregation who is very much interested in missionary work will meet with them and while they are sewing will talk with them about the various missions our church is carrying on and in which all our church people should be interested.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special charitable envelope, sent out with the other envelopes this quarter, is for Diocesan Missions. The congregation will understand that this is for the support of the missionary work of the church within our own Diocese, conducted under our Convocations. For this purpose our parish is expected to give $100, and it certainly looks very badly to see it reported, as it has been several years in the annual report of the Board of Missions, that this church has only contributed one-half the amount it is asked to give. Can we not give the whole amount this year? Copies of the last annual report of the Board of Missions will be distributed in the church at the beginning of this quarter, that the congregation may be able to acquaint themselves with the object for which these offerings are asked.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—That which was given by S. Mary's Guild last month was very creditable to the members of the Guild who took part in it, and to the lady who trained them Unfortunately, the night chosen for the performance proved to be the very coldest of the season, which, together with the fact that very little time had been allowed in which to sell the tickets, made the attendance very light. But those who were there were well rewarded for going out on such a night. The receipts were about $34.

The entertainment of the Sunday School was a great success in point of numbers, and it, too, was most creditable to those who took part in it. The only trouble was that it was too prolonged, making it very late for the young children to get home. This was due to the enthusiasm of the audience, which insisted on having so many pieces repeated. We would suggest that in the future the performance begins sharp on the time announced, and that the programme be strictly adhered to.

On the evening of February 4th an entertainment is to be given by some members of the congregation and their friends, at the New Century Club, Twelfth street above Walnut, for the benefit of S. John's Guild of our parish, the object being to obtain money to provide the Guild with more and better gymnastic appliances. It will consist of music and a French play given by the Berlitz School of Languages, who have kindly offered their assistance. A number of prominent ladies have consented to act as patronesses. Tickets for this entertainment can be obtained from Miss Gilpin, 1332 Pine St., or from the sexton of the church. We hope the members of the congregation will encourage these friends of S. John's Guild in their laudable efforts in its behalf.

S. Mary's Guild contemplates contemplates giving a reception on behalf of the young people of the parish, to our new Assistant. In order to do this before Lent, the ordinary business meeting will have to be postponed again to the fourth Tuesday of the month, and the second Tuesday (which happens to be Shrove Tuesday) taken for this reception.

Each member of the Guild will have the privilege of inviting one person, and the Committee on Entertainments will invite, in addition, a number of the young people of the parish who are not members of the Guild.

LENTEN SERVICES.—As usual, during Lent a portion of the choir will be present every afternoon at the 5 o'clock service, and there will be a lecture after prayers on Fridays, with a collection for special Lenten offerings. The services for Holy Week will be announced in our next issue.

We call the attention of our female members to the announcement of the Quiet Day and Conference for Church Workers we print below.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject for the Historical Sermon, to be preached on the second Sunday evening of this month, will be, "The History of the Church of England."

DEATH OF A FORMER SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER.—We are sure that all who knew her will hear with deep regret of the death of one of our former members and Sunday School teachers, Mrs. William Wilkinson, formerly Miss Mamie Morrell. She had been connected with our parish from her childhood, was confirmed in 1885, and from that date until her marriage, two years ago, was a Sunday School teacher. She was most refined and attractive in person and character. She was always faithful in the discharge of her duties and was devotedly attached to the church. After her marriage she removed to Roanoke, Va., but returned on a visit last spring, that she might have her baby baptized here. Her death is a great loss to her family and a great grief to all who knew her. The rector officiated at her funeral on January 18th. R. I. P.

A QUIET DAY AND CONFERENCE.

A Quiet Day for Women will be held on Thursday, February 23rd, at the Church of the Holy Apostles, corner Twenty-first and Christian Streets, to be conducted by the Rev. James S. Stone, D. D., Rector of Grace Church. Services from 10 A. M. to 12 P. M., and from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M.

A CONFERENCE FOR CHURCHWOMEN will be held on St. Matthias' Day, Friday, February 24th, in the Parish Building of St. James' Church, entrance on Sansom Street. Morning session from 10 A. M. to 12.30 P. M. Topics: 1st, "Dangers as well as helps that arise from the multiplication of Parochial Organizations; 2nd, "Why is there such a dearth of Sunday School teachers, and how may their ranks be recruited?"

Afternoon session from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M. Topics: 1st, "The relative importance of work among the heathen in foreign lands and in our own;" 2nd "College settlements"

The women of this congregation are invited to all these meetings.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

"More and more there is growing up a disposition among parents to permit all matters of religious observance to be with their offspring mere matters of choice or preference. Your child must learn French and German and drawing; but he shall learn his catechism and Bible lesson and a reverent observance of this holy day if he chooses, and not otherwise. A more dismal and irrational folly it is not easy to conceive of. I do not say that there may not have been folly in another and in an opposite direction. I am not unmindful that religious teaching has been sometimes made a dreary and intolerable burden. But surely we can correct one excess (not, I apprehend, very frequent or very harmful), without straightway flying to an opposite and worse one. And so I plead with you who are parents to train your children to ways of reverent familiarity with God's word, God's house and God's day. Let them understand that something higher than your taste or preference makes these things sacred and binding, and constrains you to imbue them with your spirit. And that they may do this the more effectually, give them, I entreat you, that mightiest teaching which consists in your own consistent and devout example."—Bishop H. C. Potter.

THERE is probably no theme in the whole round of Christian duty and privilege so much neglected at present as the one of our accountabilitity to God for the right use of money which He has placed in our hands.

SELFISHNESS, stinginess, covetousness, or waste and extravagance are misappropriations of the Lord's money, and are as truly contrary to a Christian life as intemperance and dishonesty.

The Circus Boy.

BY A. A. VYVYAN THOMSON.

I left the little town behind
And took the path that led
Up to the churchyard on the heath,
The city of the dead.

In letters plain I found these words
Upon a cross of wood:
"Here lies the little circus boy,
Who did the best he could."

So strange I thought this epitaph,
I asked a farmer's wife,
Who gladly told me all she knew
Of his unhappy life.

She said: "The circus came to town
A year or so ago,
And so my husband and myself,
We went to see the show.

"A hundred clever things we saw
That filled us with delight,
And when the little Dono came
We clapped with all our might.

"He climbed up to a ladder top
And stood upon his head,
He danced upon a rope so small,
You'd snap it like a thread.

"At last they brought two horses in,
And, climbing up in haste,
As fast they galloped round the track
One foot on each he placed.

"He rode amid the deafening cheers
'Till, on the second round,
His right foot slipped, and with a shriek
He fell upon the ground.

"The manager picked up the boy,
Whose limbs were sprained and sore,
He cried, 'You fell off purposely,'
And angrily he swore.

"'How now,' he said, 'do you suppose
That you can earn your food?'
The little fellow answered him,
'I did the best I could.'

"The heartless man turned round when shrieks
Were heard on every side,
'The tiger's loose—the tiger's loose,'
They horror-stricken cried.

"He looked, right in the tiger's path,
There sat his little child,
And, as the tiger crouched to spring,
Looked round in terror wild.

"'O God! O, save my child,' he cried,
When, springing to his feet,
Young Dono rushed upon the beast,
An awful death to meet.

"The child was saved, Then shots were heard,
The angry beast was dead,
They picked poor Dono up all cut
And torn from foot to head.

"'How brave,' the weeping father said,
How generous and good,—
And dying Dono answered him,
'I did the best I could.'"

OUR COMMUNICANT LIST.

At our last Diocesan Convention a canon was passed requiring the minister of every parish to send to the Registrar of the Diocese one month before the meeting of the Diocesan Convention in each year, a certified list of all confirmed persons in his parish who are registered as communicants therein.

In accordance with this requirement the Rector of this parish has prepared the list, which is published in this issue of our parish paper, in order that if there are any errors in it they may be corrected before it is sent to the Diocesan authorities.

The Rector would be glad to be informed if there are any names on the list that ought not to be there or any names omitted that ought to be there, or if any names are misspelled. He would be glad also to have the full middle name where only initials are given.

The list has been made up on the following principles. First, it contains the names of all persons who have been confirmed in this parish and subsequently became communicants and are still making their Communions in it. Secondly, of all persons who have been received by letter of transfer from other parishes and are still communicants here. Thirdly, of persons who are regular communicants of the church, but who for some reason have not been able to bring letters of transfer, but who, as far as the Rector has been able to ascertain, are not registered in any other parish. These are persons coming from England, Ireland, Canada or other churches in communion with ours where the system of letters of transfer is not used, or who have belonged to parishes which have become extinct, or who from frequent removals or long neglect have not been on any communicant list for a great while or known to any clergyman.

Names are removed from this list for these causes: first, from death; second, on transfer by letter to other parishes; third, from neglect to come to the Holy Communion.

In regard to this last cause the amount of time elapsing before the name is removed from the list is a matter of discretion with the Rector, depending upon his knowledge of the individual case. In some parishes the invariable rule is made of striking off the names of all persons who do not make at least one Communion during the year. But this seems hardly a fair test as to whether one has permanently ceased to be a communicant. It is undoubtedly the rule of the English Church that all confirmed persons should receive the Holy Communion at least three times in the year. Why then should one Communion be taken as sufficient? Moreover, it is very difficult for the Rector to know whether each one on his list has made one Communion in the year or not. And even if he or she has not made a Communion in the year, it may have been from some temporary cause and is not proof of abandonment of the Communion of the Church, or permanent giving up of religious duty.

When the Rector notices that persons in his parish fail to come to the Holy Communion, he invariably speaks to them in reference to it, and urges upon them their duty and privilege in the matter, and it is not until he finds that such remonstrances and persuasions are in vain, and the person has in his judgment become permanently negligent of his duty, that he strikes his name from the list.

On this principle names of persons confirmed in or transferred to this parish do not appear on this list owing to long persistent neglect of Communion. And on the other hand there are names of persons who have not made a Communion for a long time but whom the Rector cannot yet believe intend to give it up altogether.

There is another cause for the removal of names from this list, and that is for open and notorious evil living, in accordance with the provisions of the rubric prefixed to the order for the administration of the Holy Communion. In this case the person offending is duly notified, as well as the ecclesiastical authorities.

We make this statement of the principles on which the list is compiled in order that those interested may be able to judge whether their names should or should not be on it.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Repairing and painting closet in cellar, also putting up and taking down temporary Rood Screen in Church, new cassock for the Rector, donation of clothes for missionary box

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—The entertainment given in the New Century Club on behalf of this Guild was very successful. It was a first-class entertainment, and the hearty thanks of the members of the Guild and those interested in it are due to the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly gave their services and went to so much trouble on its behalf. The proceeds, after paying all expenses, amounted, together with some donations that were made, to nearly $200. With this it is proposed to purchase the following additional articles for the gymnasium, a movable horizontal bar, two tug-of-war belts, mattress, 5x6 ft., Rugby football, trapeze, 2 sets of Indian Club holders; also to have some repairs made to present rowing machine, etc.

In addition it is proposed to board over a portion of the cellar under the parish building and to fit it up as a dressing room, with lockers to contain the gymnasium clothes, and a shower bath, a thing very much needed by the boys after they have become heated by their athletic exercises.

MORE ROOM WANTED—We wish very much we could put an additional story on our parish building that we might have a room entirely devoted to a gymnasium, as it is very awkward to have these appliances put up in our large school room which is used for so many different purposes. We need also very much, additional rooms for our infant school, kindergarten, ladies' work room and for Bible classes. We have now from eighteen to twenty boys crowded on Sunday afternoons into the small Bible class room which is the only room that is not otherwise occupied at that hour. The expense of an additional story would not be very great.

CHURCH DEBT—The result of our appeal for the church debt so far has been that we have received enough to pay off the first $500 of the amount and have on hand some $250 towards another payment. We feel thus that a beginning at least has been made, and we hope that it will go on. We will look for responses to come in from time to time. Let each member of the congregation keep the appeal and the special envelope beside him, and when he has saved up enough to make a contribution, send it to the warden.

EASTER OFFERING.—As we said in our last issue, our members must not let contributions to the church debt take away from their Easter offering. Our special Easter offering last year amounted to $1200 and we shall need fully as much, if not more, this year to enable us to meet our current expenses up to April 30th, the end of our financial year.

NEW PULPIT.—We are happy to announce that we have the promise of a new memorial pulpit. It is to be of stone of various colors to correspond with the church. A design is now being prepared after which it will be built. It will take some time to execute it, but we hope to see it in position during the early summer.

SANCTUARY LAMP.—As the first interest on the Johnson Legacy falls due the first of this month, the Vestry have been taking steps to secure the sanctuary lamp which Mr. Johnson's will directed them to purchase. It will probably be put in place shortly after Easter. It is also proposed to erect a brass tablet in memory of Mr. Johnson. It will be placed on the south wall of the church near the vestry door.

MISSIONARY SEWING.—As announced in our last number the young women of the Parish were asked to meet every Tuesday evening during Lent to sew for a mission in the South, and also to make fancy articles for a fair to be given in aid of the Seamen's Mission in this city. The attendance at the first meeting was very good, over twenty-five being present. The second night few were present as it was very stormy.

If there are any in the congregation who cannot attend these meetings but would like to aid in the work, they can do so by making plain or fancy articles at home and sending them to the church towards the end of Lent to be added to the things made here.

THURSDAY COMMUNION.—There will be an early celebration of the Holy Communion on the remaining Thursdays during Lent at 7.30 o'clock. We hope this privilege will be appreciated.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir will sing on Easter day the service Schubert in b flat which was so effectively rendered at Christmas. We shall also have the same orchestral accompaniment. The Alleluia Chorus will be sung at the 4 P. M. service.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject of the sermon in the Rector's historical course to be delivered on the second Sunday evening of this month will be, "The History of the American Church before the Revolution."

CHRISTIAN SOCIAL UNION.—The meetings of this Society have been changed from Tuesday afternoons to the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 8 P. M., in the hope of increasing the attendance. Any persons interested in the study of social questions are invited to attend them.

EASTER.

This number of our paper appears in the midst of our Easter Festival. The Church keeps this season as the chiefest Festival in all the year, because it commemorates the great essential fact on which our religion is founded. Our Blessed Lord's Resurrection from the dead was the proof of His Divine Sonship, the attestation of the truth of our religion, and of the great fact of the final resurrection of the dead, and the life of the world to come. The whole teaching of the Christian religion is bound up with it and depends upon it. So that there is no other fact in all human experience more essential, or which should be regarded with greater joy and thankfulness.

Therefore the Church celebrates it with the most impressive services, puts on her most beautiful apparel, her choicest decorations, and uses the most elaborate and beautiful music she can command. All of which should make us realize the importance and glorious character of the truths Easter teaches. So it should be the beginning of a new life to every Christian. It is a time when we are all called upon to review the past, to look into the future, to consider the mysteries of life and death, and to repent us of the past; to put off the old man with all its sins and short comings, and to put on the new man, which is renewed after the likeness of our Blessed Lord, and henceforth walk in newness of life.

This is the meaning of the Easter Communion. It should be the beginning of a new life, a starting out afresh, with the determination so to walk in newness of life here that we may be sure of having our part in the glorious resurrection to the life to come.

We trust that all the communicant members of our parish who, for any reason, failed to make their Communions on Easter Day, will do so during this week or on Low Sunday. And we earnestly pray that those adult members of our congregations who are not yet Communicants will not let another Easter-day go by without fulfilling this bounded obligation, and enjoying this great privilege of every Christian.

THE NEWS.

Will not the parishioners take more interest in the NEWS? They can very readily do so in several ways, viz.: By getting additional subscribers and advertisements, and by renewing their subscriptions promptly when notified of the expiration of same. A short statement of how the NEWS is supported may be of use at this time; it certainly will show that there is room for more interest in its behalf: We have, at present, 136 subscribers. Of these 113 are members of the parish, and 23 are outsiders. Our last report to the diocesan convention gave us 404 communicants, and it really seems as though we might have, perhaps, 50 more subscribers out of so many communicants; especially as the latter do not by any means represent the full number of persons regularly attending the Church. If you are not subscribing to the NEWS, may we not have your name to add to the list? The cost is but 50c. per year, which can be put in an envelope with your name and address, and placed in one of the alms-basins at any service. If you do subscribe, can you not induce some friend to do so? And then, when your subscription expires, be good enough to renew it promptly. It is not pleasant work to have to remind you, four or five times, that your renewal is due, or, finally, to have to send some one to collect it. But when the latter is necessary, we ask for him a fair reception. He does not come on an unreasonable errand, but simply to collect a just debt, which should be paid without troubling him to call. You do not treat your every-day bills and expenses this way, and why should Church matters be continually put into last place, every thing else given the precedence? We again need some new advertisements: Here, again, you can help, if you will. In the past, nearly all the advertisements for the NEWS have been obtained by a very few persons. Certainly, not over six have secured all that have appeared in the past three years. We are deeply indebted for this help and assistance, but we think that much more could be given if some others would exert themselves a little. The NEWS costs about $150 per year, (not an extravagant sum), and yet it is a struggle, each year, to get this sum together. If a dozen others would take an active interest in our paper, its welfare and needs, it would not be necessary to write appeals like this; and we sincerely trust that all of our people will not read this one and immediately forget all about it, but that some response may be acknowledged in the May issue of the NEWS.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Blunt's Life of the Saviour, small cross; lot of magazines and papers; materials for missionary sewing. We also received for Easter a very handsome white silk brocade chasuble, embroidered and made by the ladies of the Altar Chapter of our Women's Guild. It was used for the first time on Easter Day. A very handsome new fair linen cloth beautifully embroidered with the five crosses and edged with lace was also donated and a very fine copy of the new edition of the Prayer Book for the Altar Service, which was received just in time for use on Easter. The members of the embroidery class are also at work on a beautiful new banner for S. John's Guild, which will be finished very soon, perhaps by the time this paper appears. Several donations of flowers were received for Easter, in addition to money given for the Easter decorations.

LENTEN SERVICES.—Our Lenten Services were unusually well attended this year. The preaching of the Cross, on Good Friday, was by the Rev. George M. Christian, formerly an Assistant in S. Mark's Church, now Rector of Grace Church, Newark, N. J. Our Rector exchanged with him, taking the same duty in his Church. He has also preached during Lent at S. Asaph's, Bala, Holy Trinity, West Chester, and S. David's, Manayunk.

DEATH OF MRS. WETHERILL.—We are sure the sympathies of the congregation have all gone out to Mr. Samuel Wetherill, who is one of our oldest Vestrymen, in the great affliction that has come to him in the loss of his wife. Mrs. Wetherill's health has been failing for some time. She has not been in Church since January. But even in her last sickness she did not forget it. For some years she has provided the palms which have been used in the procession on Palm Sunday, and from her sick bed she gave the order for them, and arranged that we should have them this year. Two of those she had intended for the Church, and part of which she probably had expected to carry herself, were laid upon her bier.

For a number of years Mrs. Wetherill represented this Parish in the Female Tract and Prayer Book Societies, of the former of which she was Treasurer. She also did most beautiful Church embroidery, of which we have some very fine specimens.

Her funeral took place from the Church on March 24; the Rector of the Parish, and the Rev. Benjamin Douglas, officiating, the latter being Rector of S. Paul's Church, Upper Providence, where the interment took place; it being near Mr. Wetherill's country-place. R. I. P.

THE KINDERGARTEN was suspended during January and February, on account of the very severe weather, which made it impossible for the small children to attend. It recommenced March 1st, and we shall be glad to see the attendance increase of children from three to six years of age.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The annual appointment and election for officers of the Guild took place at the regular business meeting, last month, being the meeting before Lady Day, the anniversary day of the Guild. Mrs. Bond, who has so long and so successfully acted as Superior of the Guild, but who for more than a year past has been unable, through failing health and the distance she now lives from the Church, to attend to its duties, has been relieved of the position by the Rector, at her earnest request. We are sure all the members of the Guild are sorry to part with her, but it is inevitable under the circumstances.

The Rector has appointed as Superior of the Guild in her place Mrs. Pollock, who has for some time been most acceptably discharging the duties of the place as Mrs. Bond's assistant. The other officers elected by the Guild are: Miss Barrington, Treasurer; Miss Matilda Harper, Secretary; Miss Shelton, Banner-bearer.

All young ladies of the parish, who are Communicants can join the Guild at any regular meeting. The meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, at 8 P. M.

RECEPTION TO THE ASSISTANT.—We omitted, in our last issue, to notice the very pleasant and successful reception which was given to our new Assistant by the members of S. Mary's Guild, on the evening of Shrove Tuesday. The thanks of the Guild, and all who were present, are especially due to Miss M. J. Jackson for the very attractive entertainment which was furnished by her, all the talent for which was supplied gratuitously.

THE SANCTUARY LAMP to be purchased under the will of Mr. Johnson has been ordered by the Vestry, and will be ready to be put in place by the fourth Sunday of this month, on which occasion the Rector proposes to preach a sermon on the symbolic use of lights in the worship of the Church. A mural memorial tablet to Mr. Johnson is also being prepared, and will be unveiled at the same time.

CORRECTION.—The amount reported in our last issue, as received for the debt, should have been $419.25, instead of $19.25, as printed.

MISSIONARY BOXES.—The Ladies' Aid have been engaged during Lent in making up a most substantial box of clothing for the Children's Hospital at Rosemont, in this diocese. And the Sewing Class, consisting of the members of S. Mary's Guild and others, which met on Tuesday evenings during Lent, have a goodly amount of clothing ready for a box for one of the Church Schools in the South, as well as a nice collection of fancy articles for the Fair for the Seamen's Mission, to be held in S. James' Parish Building, in which this Church was asked to supply a table.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Some ladies of the Congregation propose giving an entertainment in the New Century Club Rooms, for the benefit of our Church debt fund, on the evening of the 26th inst. It will consist of an English play, in which some of our members will take part, a classical play, called "Pandora," by some of our younger members and others, who belong to the Minnie M. Jones Delsarte Institute, 1708 Chestnut St., and a pantomime and tableaux. The tickets are fifty and twenty-five cents, and can be had from the sexton, or those taking part in the play.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—The members of S. John's Guild propose giving an exhibition in the Parish Building on the evening of Monday, May 8th, consisting of running, wrestling, and jumping matches; exercises with Indian clubs, etc. Tickets of admission, 10 cents. The members of the Guild are enjoying very much the additional gymnastic appliances and shower-bath provided for them last month.

NEW HYMNAL.—A very good and cheap edition of the New Hymnal is now out, and can be had at the principal bookstores, costing only twenty cents a copy. As soon as the members of the congregation will supply themselves with it, or some one will present us with a sufficient number to supply the choir and congregation, the Rector will be glad to substitute it in the services of the Church for the book now in use. It will be a great improvement.

EASTER DAY.—We were blessed this year with an ideal Easter Day, the weather was perfect, the Church was not large enough to hold the people who came to the mid-day service, and the decorations, music, etc., were all that could be desired. We had the pleasure of having with us the very popular Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho, who took one of the Easter Celebrations and preached in the middle of the day. He expressed himself as much pleased with our services.

The number of communicants for the day and especially at the early Celebrations was larger than ever before.

EASTER OFFERING.—The offerings on Easter Day amount to about $800, leaving some $400 still to be raised before the first of May in addition to our ordinary offerings. We sincerely trust this sum will be made up that we may not enter upon another financial year with a deficit.

There are also some special objects for which we need contributions. The instruments we have been having on the festivals and which are such an addition to the music are of course extra, not included in the musical appropriation by the Vestry, and have to be paid for by special subscriptions Those who appreciate having them can contribute towards them by putting something in an envelope marked "extra music" and sending it to the Warden or putting it in alms basin.

Then we have the assessment of our Diocesan Missions which is not near yet made up, and for the Sustentation fund, the two amounting to some $139. It puts our parish in a very bad light in the Diocese if these assessments are not paid. Will not all our contributors fill up and return at once the envelopes they have for Diocesan Missions?

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election for Vestrymen, held on Easter-Monday, the following gentlemen were elected to service until Easter, 1896: Thomas R. Neilson, M.D., Charles E. Bonnet, William Platt Pepper, Charles L. S. Tingley; and, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Haverstick (to serve until Easter, 1894), Mr. David Jayne Bulloch was elected.

HISTORICAL SERMON.—The subject of the historical sermon to be preached on the third Sunday evening of this month, will be, "The American Church since the Revolution."

OUR MEXICAN CORRESPONDENT. We were much pleased this last month to have a visit from our esteemed Mexican correspondent, Mr. Harry R. Carson, whose letters last winter all our readers enjoyed. He has left Mexico now and was on his way to Sewanee, Tennessee, where he proposes entering the University of the South. We trust that he will favor us with some letters from there as we are sure they would be entertaining.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

It is an extremely short-sighted, narrow, selfish and suicidal policy for any parish or congregation to exclude itself from participation in the general works of the Church on the plea that it has need of everything for itself. Such a policy is opposed to the spirit of Christ and to the true principle of Christian development. If the individual members were to follow the same course its folly would soon be seen and felt. "We are building" or "We have a debt" is not a good reason for refusing to give to missions. Forbid it that, even for a time, under any pretext whatsoever, a Christian society should cut itself off from the currents of life or cease to contribute to the general good of the body to which it belongs. The reflex benefit from such communication of blessing will be worth more than it costs and the money which is contributed will not impoverish the parish, but will stimulate its life and its ability to do for its own things. The Rev. Dr. Atwill, of Toledo, in an address before the Ohio and Michigan Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary, aptly said:

Everywhere zeal for missions goes with zeal for home work as naturally as heat with fire. If, as rector of a parish, I desire to pay a parish debt, I welcome the formation of a missionary association. If I desire to stimulate the zeal of my people in parish work, I welcome a missionary association. If my Sunday-school languishes, and needs money, I still welcome the missionary association. To my brethren of the clergy, if any of them are in the least nervous or apprehensive about this matter, I say, Do not fear the zeal of your women in the cause of missions! Help them, and they will help you; encourage them, and they will cheer you! Their fervor and activity will preach for you, will enable you to preach more effectually, and will cultivate the soil in which you fling broadcast the seed of every variety of Divine truth.

OUR SANCTUARY LAMP.

Owing to an unavoidable delay in the factory, our new sanctuary lamp was not ready for use on the 23d ultimo, as we had promised; but it was duly put in position on the Sunday following.

The lamp is an enlarged copy of an antique lamp which is hanging in the Church of the Annunciation in this city, which was brought from Italy, and which is said to have hung in S. Mark's Cathedral in Venice. Copies of it also hang in S. Paul's Church, Baltimore, having been placed there by the present Bishop of Milwaukee, the Rev. Dr. Nicholson, formerly Rector of S. Mark's Church in this city, in memory of his father. It is certainly a very beautiful and graceful design, far superior to any the Committee of the Vestry, to whom its purchase was entrusted, saw in any of the stores, either in this city or New York. It was made by George W. Shaw & Co., of this city.

Everything being in readiness, the lamp was duly presented on the altar, at the mid-day celebration, among the other "alms and devotions of the people." It was then conveyed to its place and lighted by the Rector; the light being taken from one of the altar candles.

The Rector took the occasion to preach a sermon on the symbolical use of lights. He took for his text, Lev. xxiv: 1-4. He pointed out that light was the first of created things, and that it had ever been regarded among all nations as the special symbol of the presence and character of God. God is constantly spoken of in Scripture under this symbol, as "a consuming fire," as "dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto." Under this symbol He appeared on various occasions, recorded in the Old Testament, to Abraham and to Moses. It was a figure chosen and appropriated by our Blessed Lord to Himself, as when He said: "I am the light of the world." So in the Old Testament, God commanded the setting up of the golden candlestick with its seven branches, and the lighting of the lamps thereof daily, morning and evening, as a perpetual ordinance. In addition to this, Solomon set ten lamps in front of the most Holy Place, in his temple.

This was the use to which our Lord and His apostles were accustomed in the worship of the Jewish temple, and which, like so many other things belonging to the Jewish worship, was carried over into the Christian Church.

During the first centuries of the Christian era, the ages of persecution, the Christians, of course, had not the opportunity of developing their ritual practices, but it is evident that even then, from the fact of their assemblies being held, as we read in one case in the New Testament, at night "in an upper room where there were many lights," and as we find from early records, very early in the morning and in underground places like the catacombs, they must have been accustomed to the use of lights at their services, and as soon as the Church was free to use its own worship, we find it employing this and many other symbols to which the Jews had been accustomed.

S. Jerome in the fourth century, speaks of lights being lighted in the churches when the Gospel was read "not to drive away the darkness, but to show a sign of joy."

The earliest form in which lights were used in the churches seems to have been of lamps, either set about the Holy Table or suspended by chains from the ceiling. Then came the use of candles on the altar or gradine behind the altar; first one, as is seen in some old illuminations, then two, which seems to have been the general pre-Reformation use, then finally a great multiplicity both on the altar and kept burning before pictures and images.

This engendered superstition and was abolished at the Reformation in England by the injunctions of King Edward VI, which prescribed: "shall suffer from henceforth no torches nor candles, tapers or images of wax to be set afore any image or picture, but only two lights upon the high altar * *, for the signification that Christ is the true light of the world." Accordingly these lights were retained and used throughout the reign of Queen Elizabeth upon the altars of the royal chapels and cathedrals, and in many of the chapels of the colleges and private chapels of the nobility, as well as in some of the parish churches. And in spite even of the subsequent Puritan re-action they have continued to stand upon the altars of most of the cathedrals and royal chapels ever since. This would seem to fix the distinctive Anglican use of lights on the altar as two, instead of the modern Roman use of six large ones and an indefinite number of small ones. This may be pretty, but it is scarcely as dignified and symbolical as the two. According to old English use these were to be lighted at all Celebrations of the Holy Communion and at solemn even-song. There was no distinction made in old English use, nor is there in modern Roman use, between Eucharistic and Vesper lights.

So in regard to the use of lamps. In some places it is held that a perpetual light ought to be kept burning only before an altar on which the Blessed Sacrament is reserved. But this was not the ancient or Roman use. Authorities say that a lamp should be kept perpetually burning before every altar in a church, and three before the high altar. The purpose of these lights is for the adornment of the holy place; a symbol of the church's constant watchfulness, and as a token of the special presence which God vouchsafes always in His House of Prayer.

It is for these purposes that we have lighted this light in our chancel, and we trust it will have the effect of increasing the solemnity which all will feel for this holy place, and remind all who come here of the necessity of unceasing devotion, and of the constant, abiding presence of God Himself in His Holy Temple.

PARISH NOTES.

MEMORIAL TABLET.--At the same time that our sanctuary lamp was put in place, a very handsome brass tablet, set in a slab of black marble, was placed on the wall of the church near the door into the sacristy, in memory of Mr. Johnson, who left the money for the lamp. It has an ornamental border, a floriated cross and the following inscription: "In memory of Benjamin Johnson, born July 21, 1830, entered into rest May 23, 1891. A parishioner and benefactor of this church, who by his last will left to it a sum of money, the principal thereof not to be used or expended, but to be kept invested and the income to be used first, in obtaining a suitable metal lamp, to be suspended over or in front of the altar, in which shall be kept an artificial light burning perpetually day and night.

May light perpetual shine upon him."

The inscription is chiefly in the words of Mr. Johnson's will. The prayer at the end is most appropriate. It is one of the earliest and most universal inscriptions found upon Christian tombs. It is only in such general terms that we can pray for the dead, as we know so little of their specific wants.

But we may well thus remember him who has provided for the perpetual maintenance of this beautiful symbol of God's presence in our church.

The tablet as well as the lamp is the work of Geo. W. Shaw & Co., No. 710 Chestnut Street of this city. Its execution is most satisfactory.

MEMORIAL PULPIT.—The design for the stone memorial pulpit of which we spoke in our last issue, has been furnished by the architect of our church, Mr. Chas. M. Burns, and we hope soon will be in the hands of the workmen. It will be a great ornament to the church.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector, having completed the course of historical sermons he has been preaching on one Sunday evening in the month, and which has extended over two winters, will preach a concluding sermon on the last Sunday evening of this month on "The Future of the Church."

The special annual sermon to the Guilds of the parish will be preached on the Sunday after Ascension Day in the evening by the Rev. Dr. Tidball, the new Rector of the Church of the Epiphany in this city.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—As in other years, we follow the ancient custom of keeping the name day of the church as a special Parish Festival. There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Ascension Day at 7½, and after Morning Prayers at 10½ A. M. Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and choral shortened Evening Prayer, with anniversary sermon by the Rector at 8 P. M. On Sunday evening after the Ascension there will be the annual Guild Service. The members of S. John's and S. Mary's Guilds and of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, and any members of the Men and Women's Guild who choose to join them, will assemble in the parish building and enter the church in procession, with their respective banners. The front seats in the middle aisle will be reserved for them. A special sermon will be preached to them and they will afterwards return to the parish building as they came in.

On Monday evening the 15th, we shall have our annual Parish Tea, when we hope to see all our parishioners together. It is only intended for adults, and the tickets are 25 cents, which charge is to provide the entertainment. On the following evening a special supper will be furnished for the members of the choir.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—The entertainment given at the New Century Club on April 26th was very successful; the house was full, and the actors, most of whom were members of our own parish, performed their parts remarkably well. The proceeds amounted to about $150. This, with some money we had on hand, enabled the warden to make another payment of $500 on account of our church debt.

S. John's Guild will have their Athletic Exhibition on the 8th instant. We hope the congregation will show its interest in the Guild by their attendance.

As appropriate for the month, St. Mary's Guild will give a May Festival or Dairymaid's Reception on Tuesday evening, May 30th. The entertainment is under the direction of Miss M. J. Jackson, who promises an enjoyable evening.

The tickets will be 35 cents including refreshment coupon.

PROGRAMME.

8 o'clock—Choral March of Dairymaids.
8.15—Song of Three Little Dairymaids.
8.30—The Minuet (recitation.)
8.45—Churning Song.
9—Song of the Flower Girls.
9.15—Duet—Where are You Going, my Pretty Maid?
9.30—Dairymaids' Chorus.
9.45—May-pole Exercises.

It is proposed that the proceeds of the entertainment shall go towards putting in one of the clerestory windows on the west side of the church. It will contain the figure of the Blessed Virgin and Child, and be known as S. Mary's Guild window. It is hoped also that two others may be put in at the same time.

A FAIR FOR THE SEAMEN'S MISSION in this city was held during Easter week in the Guild House of S. James' Church at 22d and Walnut Streets. Our church had been asked to take part in it and furnished a table. The members of S. Mary's Guild and some other ladies of the parish worked for it during Lent. The table was in charge of Mrs. Frederick Jordan, assisted by Mrs. Wirgman and Mrs. Burrell, and the Misses Dodson, Toler and Spear. The cash receipts of the table were $74.54. The proceeds of the whole fair amounted to over $2600.

DEAR MISS GILPIN :—I received your letter of February 22d, enclosing the bill of lading.

We have just received the second box and though it has been quite long in coming, it is none the less appreciated. I have just written to Miss Emery, to say how nicely you have supplied our wants, and now desire to thank most sincerely, not only yourself, but all the kind friends we have found in Philadelphia. We have had an exceedingly cold winter and we have often thought of your kindness in sending beforehand the clothing you thought we would need. We would have wanted them badly had they not been sent at the time they were. My wife and daughter like very much the additional clothing sent them, and these with the blankets and spreads and sheets and pillow cases and other neccesary house furniture, are very acceptable; everything sent is good and useful and will last a long time. As for me, after quite a time with Mr. W., I have a very nice suit of clerical clothing that is good for two years at the least ; this with the overcoat, undershirts, half hose and other things, quite completes my wardrobe.

A missionary box is a great assistance to the western missionary. He receives but a small stipend, and after the mouthly grocery bill and meat shop bill are paid, there is not often more than five or eight dollars left for house furniture. He buys then a few articles of clothing, but by the time he can get more the former purchase is old and worn, and so his family wears a combination of new and old continually. But the missionary box brings a great abundance, all in a lump, and it is the source, consequently, of the greatest interest and satisfaction, for everybody can come out with new garments entire, and then the goods are generally of better material than is commonly had here and the made garments are fashionably made.

Will you please kindly accept our sincere thanks for your good design in our behalf, which now so happily closes. We well know that all you have done for us has entailed upon you, not only much hard work, but worry and anxiety and responsibility, and we can only hope that as you are now relieved from it all, a real blessing may follow your disinterested work in His Name.

I am very faithfully yours,
R. C. TALBOT.

St. Anthony's Day In Mexico.

A few days before leaving Mexico, I witnessed a scene, some idea of which I would like to communicate to the readers of the ASCENSION NEWS, although it will be short.

The Roman Catholic calender is well supplied with Saint's days. It is not of their efficacy I wish to write, but only of the occurrences on one of them. January 17th is reserved for prayers to S. Anthony of Padua, the patron of bird and beast.

I was returning to the city of San Luis Potosi just before sun-down and was somewhat struck with certain adornments which almost every animal carried. They were decorated with tissue-paper of all colors, and cut in all possible shapes. Long streamers of red and green were tied to the tails ; chains of purple and brown encircling the necks ; stars and crosses appended to the ears.

Everybody and everything were going in the same direction and I followed in the current. On reaching the parish church of Tequisquiapam, as motley a crowd as was ever seen, was before me; man, child and beast were there in hundreds ; the burros, stolid and motionless wondered at it all ; the mules were there, parrots and canary birds; pigs and goats ; dogs and cats ; chickens and turkeys. In all stages of infancy, youth and age ; and their noises varying accordingly. Bleats and grunts, crowing and cackling, rose upon the evening air. Commotion reigned. Here a stampede on account of an escaped goat ; there, a mule has moved its heels to the inconvenience of the by-standers. The owners gossiped ; compared notes as to the relative value of their possessions, and wagered on the blessings that were in store for their pets. There was a long wait, but just before the ringing of the angelus, a padre (priest) appeared before the doors of the church, accompanied by acolytes carrying lighted candles. Then the pushing and crowding and jostling commenced with fresh vigor. No sooner had room been made for the passage of a mule, than the avenue was closed, all struggled to get closer to the priest in order to secure a few drops of the consecrated water, which he deftly threw to right and left. The pet puppy was carried in its proud master's arms, and alongside a venerable and aged hen was led ; the pig and goat, cat and rabbit, all were sprinkled in due time. Thanksgivings arose to S. Anthony, and blessings were poured upon his memory. Who in all that crowd doubted of the results which were sure to follow? youth to follow age ; health succeed sickness.

Not one, save perhaps, some curiosity-seeker Americano.

OUR ANNUAL REPORT.

We publish this month, as we always have in our June number, the annual report of our parish for the year ending April 30th, which is the date to which all the reports in the diocese are made up. We hope our people will study it and compare it with reports of previous years.

We would like to call the attention of our readers to some points connected with it. First, we are glad to notice a large increase in the number of baptisms and confirmations over last year. The confirmation, indeed, is the largest but one which has ever taken place in the parish. We have also a goodly increase in our Communicant list, 58; but this is largely counterbalanced, as it always is, by the losses, 42 in all. This is due to the constant changes of residence among our people, the loss by death being comparatively small, only seven.

We have to lament, as we have before, that our Sunday School is not as large as it ought to be. This is due to our not having as many faithful and competent teachers as we should. Will not our people, especially our men, consider their duty in this respect? There is no more crying need, and there is no greater charity, than that of teaching the young the principles of religion. The Sunday School should be the great nursery of the church, and the means of making the coming generations moral and religious. Dare our lay people neglect the call to work in it? A teacher having been found for the young Men's Bible Class, we are glad to note its size and regularity during the past winter. Our Industrial School too, was much more satisfactory than it has been for some years past, owing to the fidelity and regularity of the corps of teachers.

Our Guilds for young women and for boys have also been prosperous this year, a new head for the former having been found, and the numbers of the latter far exceeding anything we have had before. As to the work of the different departments of the Women's Guild, we have to note that each year the duration of the time for work seems to grow less. It is hard to get anything done before Christmas, and every one wants to stop right after Easter. We shall have to try and get things to work earlier another winter.

Turning to the financial items we notice that the total offerings were about the same as last year: $8062.00, against $8048.04 in 1892. In addition to this we received in legacies $9641.05. Most of the latter has been invested as a permanent endowment of the church, which is a great God-send. We hope others of our parishioners will remember their parish in their wills. Every church, especially a free one, should have some endowment. We are glad to say that we have paid during the year $1000 of our indebtedness, but we must remember that we have still $24,000 left, which is a great annual drain upon us and prevents our paying our Rector and other officers the salaries they should have. Can we not do more to remove it during the coming year?

We are sorry to say, too, that in spite of repeated appeals of the Rector in regard to it, we closed our year with a deficit in our current expense account of some $400, which, added to about the same amount brought over from the previous year, makes our present floating indebtedness now some $800. It is certainly very unwise to let things run on in this way. An effort ought to be made to remove this.

But, on the whole, our review of the past and our outlook for the future is encouraging. We have not only held our own, but made substantial progress in several directions, and if our people will only interest themselves in their church, and be willing to work for it and give to its support, we are sure great good could be done.

We have a good field for work, and a fairly appointed church, but if our resources, both of means and workers could be multiplied, the results obtained would be much greater than they have been as yet.

We hope our people will all work hard and give liberally during the coming year.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We are very happy to acknowledge a donation of fifty new Prayer Books from the Bishop White Prayer Book Society, of fifty more from one of our Vestrymen, and ten others from various members of the parish. These will be placed in the seats with the name of the church and "not to be taken away" labelled on them. We trust they will be taken good care of. If some one will present us with as many copies of the new Hymnal, we shall be able then to introduce its use in the service of the church.

We have also received a large number of donations for the Parish Tea, crate of strawberries, cakes, buns, tea, sugar, etc., and a quantity of clothing for the poor and missionary work of the parish.

OUR DEDICATION SERVICES.—We wish that our people took more interest in our Dedication Festival services than they do. Whether it is the season of the year at which it occurs, or the fact of its being always a week-day, we do not know, but the attendance is not what it should be, particularly at the Celebrations of the Holy Communion in the morning. The night service was better attended than last year, and we must especially compliment the two members of our Vestry who had sufficient interest in the parish of whose interests they are the custodians, to be present. The choir turned out in full force and gave us a most beautiful service, and the Rector read the annual report, pointing out what progress we had made in the past year, and what were the special present needs of the parish. We wish more could have heard what he had to say.

On the night of the Annual Guild Service the same music was repeated and we had the best turn out of the membership of the Guilds we have ever had.

Our Parish Tea was very largely attended, though it was a rainy evening, but of course the weather never affects the attendance at entertainments as it does church going. But if we complimented the two members of the Vestry who were at the Anniversary Service, how much more must the one member who represented the entire Vestry at the Tea be complimented! We cannot but think that it would be an advantage to the church if the members of our Vestry and others of our male attendants would embrace these opportunities of becoming acquainted with the different members of the congregation. We are all working together for a common end, and those who are thus working should have at least some acquaintance with each other.

The Tea passed off very pleasantly, the Rector and the Rev. Dr. Mortimer, Rector of S. Mark's Church, who honored us on the occasion, making addresses.

But let our people remember in the future that the Tea is not intended only for old women or for the young people, but as an occasion on which all the people of the parish can come together, and we are sure that every one could make some pleasant acquaintances thereby, and that such acquaintance will be for the interest of the parish.

CHANGE OF WARDEN.—At the regular meeting of the Vestry held on the first Thursday in May, Mr. Frank R. Stevenson resigned his office of Accounting Warden owing to his removal to a great distance from the church and occupation with business. In his place Mr. David Jayne Bullock was elected. We trust he will hold the position for a long time as we have had so many changes of late, which is a disadvantage to the church. The office of Accounting Warden involves a great deal of work, and our hearty thanks are due to any member of the Vestry who is willing to undertake this duty.

SUMMER SERVICES.—Our services change as usual with this month, on Sunday the 4 and 7.45 P. M. services are discontinued, and the Twilight Service, consisting of shortened choral evening prayer and a short address, being substituted for them; this will continue until October. The Children's Service on Sundays will be at 3 P. M. during June and September. The Sunday School will be closed during July and August.

The daily service and Wednesday evening services are stopped until October, but prayers are said every Wednesday and Friday and on all Holy days at 10 A. M. with Celebrations at 7.30 and 10.30 A. M. on Holy days.

Persons wanting a clergyman for any purpose can always be sure of finding one at the church at those hours.

We trust that those of our parishioners who remain in the city during the summer or part of the summer, will not fail to avail themselves of these services. They will find the early Sunday and the Twilight services particularly pleasant during the warm weather.

Having these services there is no excuse for staying away from church because it is hot. Let all remember it is as much of an obligation to go to church in the summer as in the winter, and the spiritual life of any one who neglects it will certainly suffer thereby.

CHORAL WEDDINGS.—We have had two choral weddings in the church during the past month, both of which were very pretty. It certainly added very much to the beauty of the service to have the choir present and the service sung, one hymn being sung as a processional as the bridal party enters, one between the betrothal and the marriage proper, and one as the married pair leave the church.

SUMMER OFFERINGS.—Persons going out of town for the summer should put their offerings for the number of Sundays they expect to be away on the plate some Sunday before they go, that we may have the means to meet our expenses during that time.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD SPORTS.—On Monday evening, May 8, the members of the S. John's Guild held their annual sports. There was a notable improvement in many of the atheletes over the form shown a year ago. This was most noticeable in the high jump: Shelton, one of the choir boys, showing some real ability and correct spring. Some of the wrestling was also excellent; in these events, Moneypenny, showed up remarkably well. Though small and light, he has quite a local reputation as a wrestler and gymnast, and acts as coach to the Guild. The 15 yard dash was too short to be exciting, and its only value to the contestants is to teach them a good start. The tug-of-wars were totally devoid of any team work, and the men seemed to have no staying powers. This was due, as an old University athlete remarked at the time, to too many cigarrettes. A man can't expect a heart loaded with nicotine to respond to extraordinary muscular exertion. Smoking is the bane of American physical development.

The Guild has some really good athletes, and ones which should improve with care and attention.

The sports were splendidly attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

From San Luis Potosi to the Gulf of Mexico.

I left San Luis Potosi early on the morning of January 19th, just eighteen months after my arrival there. It was scarcely five o'clock, damp and cold, the street lamps were still burning, and the soldier policeman shivered in his corner. As the train slowly drew out from the station, I gave farewell glances to all the familiar spots, knowing not when I should look upon them again. All that day I rode, first over the plains, then in the mountains; slowly we made our way over gulches and ravines; through tunnels and over trestles high in the air, winding in and out among the peaks but continually descending to the sea-level. There was scarcely a sign of human habitation to be seen, but nature rejoiced in her primeval purity.

Early in the afternoon we entered the tierrac-alienk (warm country), and its humid atmosphere was immediately felt. (It must be remembered that San Luis Potosi is at an altitude of 6500 feet, and that during that day I went to the very sea-level). Coffee was to be seen growing wild and its low red-berried bush not appearing very differently to many bushes in our own forests; parrots screeched among the trees; tall palms burnt by fires, towered like so many sentinels over a city of the dead. When a man's habitation was to be seen, it was merely a hut made of bamboo cane, and afforded simply protection from the sun's rays. The density of the forest was so great, however, that very little of surrounding country could be seen.

We reached Tampico on the Gulf of Mexico at one o'clock A. M., on the day following that on which I set out, and immediately experienced the delights(!)of a "norther." What a blizzard is to those living in the northern and western states, that is a "norther" to those living in warm countries. There need be neither snow nor ice, yet when the mercury drops from ninety to twenty-five degrees, it is decidedly unpleasant. In company with two railroad employees I made my way to Hotel Benito Juarez (named in honor of the Mexican patriot). After a loud and continuous knocking, a porter was awakened, and the somewhat non-committal answer, yo, (I) being given to his question, quien es (who is it?), an admittance was gained. I found my way to some quarters up towards the roof, but being tired and sleepy, I took no special note of the room or its contents. I passed one of the most uncomfortable nights possible, and in the morning set myself to learning the reason. It was no very difficult thing to discover. The bed consisted of four upright posts, equi-distant, and between them was stretched a piece of canvas. This canvas represented a mattress; a blanket was nowhere to be seen, but in lieu thereof, three sheets were given. One side of the room, that opening on the patio(court yard), was latticed. On any ordinary Mexican day, it would have been quite a pleasant room; as it was, I shivered all that day, all next day, and the day following. There was entirely too much ventilation.

There being an epidemic of typhus-fever in San Luis Potosi, a quarantine was established on the American border against the city. In order to escape quarantine, I had come to Tampico, expecting to go from thence by steamer to the United States. So, immediately on my arrival, I set about finding the conveyance. At first I was unsuccesful, and the only steamer I could hear of was one which would have sailed had it not been wrecked that morning in endeavoring to enter the Tampico harbor. By the merest accident I heard of a steamer that was loading with a cargo of cattle some miles from the city. I traced up its agents, and found it was the British "tramp" steamer, Violante, and that it would sail that afternoon for Yucatan, and from thence would proceed to Mobile, Alabama. I interviewed the captain, signed the ship's papers as purser (it was forbiden to carry passengers) and steamed for Yucatan. Through a number of circumstances, I went to Cuba, and from there to Galveston, Texas, experiencing in different degrees of severity, for three weeks, storm and calm, plenty and starvation, sickness and health.

A SINGING GUILD.

A change will be made in regard to our choir at the Sunday night service this year. In churches where there are two evening services, one in the afternoon and one at night, there is always a difficulty about providing the music for them both. Organists and choirmasters consider it too great a strain upon their choirs to sing at three services of a Sunday. So in some churches they have an entirely separate organist and choir for the third service. But this is very expensive.

During the two winters in which we have had these two evening services in this parish, our organist and choirmaster has provided the music by having generally a substitute organist, and only a portion of the choir present at the night service.

But he is not willing any longer to continue this, as he does not consider it well for the boys, nor is he willing to have them sing when he is not present. He has offered instead to provide an organist and to train a singing Guild of girls to sing at the night service. And the Rector and music committee of the Vestry have concluded to try the experiment.

We regret very much the necessity of doing so, as it will quite change the character of our night service. As it is not ecclesiastical nor proper that women should be vested and seated in the chancel, the members of this Guild will have to occupy the front pews. This will leave the chancel unoccupied except by the clergy and a single server, and it will place those who are to lead the music at a distance from the organ, and with their backs to the congregation.

It will, however, give the young women of the parish the opportunity of cultivating their musical abilities, and we hope that if the Guild becomes a large one, as we trust it will, it may be the means of increasing the attendance and enthusiasm at the night service. We hope also that some at least of the members of the Guild will sing at the Wednesday evening services, and that they may make themselves useful at any concerts or other entertainments that may be given in the Parish building during the winter.

Our highly efficient choir, during the winter months, sing two very exacting services. Not only the difficulty of the music itself, but the tireless precision with which it is sung is very exhausting to the singers. And our choirmaster has long been of the opinion, as we have said, that no part of the choir should be allowed to sing three times a day. In order that the music at the third service should not fall short of the high standard set at the other services, it has been decided to form the Guild mentioned.

It is hoped that this Guild will not only be most useful to the church, but that the members themselves will receive much instruction, enjoyment and profit.

Mr. Neilson, himself, will have personal supervision and control of the Guild, and with proper co-operation from the young women in the parish, we look to him to effect rapidly a staunch organization, and expect to see the Guild follow close on the heels of the choir in musical ability.

It is not possible in an undertaking of this sort to organize until the director has obtained full knowledge of the vocal abilities of those desiring to enter the Guild.

Therefore, on Thursday, Sept. 14th, at 8 P. M., Mr. Neilson will meet in the Guild room, all the young women, over 16 years of age, who care to join, at which time a private trial of voices will be given.

It is Mr. Neilson's intention to strengthen the organization with singers from outside the parish, in order that the best possible results may be obtained.

We wish him every success in his efforts, and trust he will receive the co-operation he asks.

OUR NEW PULPIT.

The new memorial pulpit, which we announced as promised, has now been completed and placed in the church. It is made of Indiana sand stone, the same as the stone trimmings of the church, and different colored American granite, a large piece of grey granite constituting the central support of the pulpit and small columns of grey and pink granite supporting the upper part. This is handsomely carved, and the space between the columns and arches which rest on them is left open, producing a very pretty effect. The pulpit is reached by three stone steps, the whole resting upon a special foundation in the cellar. Around the base of the pulpit is carved the following inscription: "To the glory of God and in loving memory of Mary Archer Neilson, who entered into life 18 Oct., 1892."

Mrs. Neilson was a warm friend of the parish and attended its services as regularly and as long as her health permitted.

The pulpit is erected to her memory by some members of her family. It is in perfect keeping with the rest of the church and is a great addition and ornament to it.

It was first used on Sunday, Aug. 13. Before entering it, the Rector said to the congregation that it was proper that so important an addition to the sacred furniture of the church should be solemnly blessed and dedicated to the purpose for which it was designed, which he proceeded to do by the use of the following prayer, taken from the Priest's Prayer Book: "O, Almighty God, who dost enlighten the minds of Thy servants with the knowledge of Thy truth, Bless, we beseech Thee, this pulpit, now set apart and dedicated to Thy service, and give unto those who stand therein the spirit of wisdom and understanding, of counsel and might, that they may speak those things which belong unto eternal life; and grant that Thy people, taught in Thy ways, may so take heed what they hear, as to fulfill all wholesome precepts delivered to them, so that by the word of truth they may at length attain unto Him who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, and who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end—Amen."

He then preached a sermon on the history and character of pulpits in the Christian Church, taking as his text Neh. viii, part of verse 4: "And Ezra the scribe stood upon a pulpit of wood which they had made for the purpose."

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—In addition to our new stone pulpit, we have received since our last issue a framed copy of Vandyke's Crucifixion for the Guild room, and our burial lot in Mount Moriah Cemetery has been sodded and put in order without any expense to the church. We have also received a quantity of garments for our poor box, of which we need a perennial supply.

OUR VESTRY.—We understand that one or two members of our Vestry took exception to what we said in our last issue about there being only two members of the Vestry present at our annual service on the evening of Ascension Day, and only one at the Annual Parish Tea. We would like to say in reference to this, first, that we made no reflections upon any individual Vestryman, as we know some who would have liked to have been present were unavoidably kept away. And secondly, we did not mean to imply that the Vestry were generally neglectful of their duties. On the contrary we appreciate very much all they have done and are doing for the church, and congratulate ourselves that we have a Vestry composed of an unusually fine set of men. We simply wanted to point to them that there were ways in which, in our judgment, they could advance the interests of the church, beside supporting it financially.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—In our notice of the Guild sports in our last number, we neglected to give the names of those who won the prizes. They were as follows:

Samuel McCracken—Wrestling Tournament, 1892.

John Hunter—Wrestling Tournament, 1893.

Harry Ellis—Sack Race.

David McCracken—Running High Jump.

Charles Manypenny—Dumb Bell Race, 15 yds. Dash.

H. Koons—Standing Broad Jump.

We regret to announce the death of one of the members of the Guild, John Hunter. Though not a member of the parish, as his family were Presbyterians, he was a regular attendant of the Guild and one of our very best athletes. His death was caused by bathing while over heated. He will be much missed. Some of the members of the Guild acted as pall bearers at his funeral which occurred August 12th.

The regular meetings of the Guild will be resumed this month.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—Two additional memorial windows for the clerestory of the church have been ordered from England. One, representing the Blessed Virgin and Child, is put in by S. Mary's Guild; the other, containing the figure of S. John the Baptist, is in memory of the late Miss Stewart. It is put in with part of the money she left to the church. These windows cost about $66 each.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL resumes its sessions with this month at 3 P. M.

We are happy to announce that our old friend and parishioner, Mr. F. E. Remont, who has at different times served the church in various capacities, has consented to undertake the position of Superintendent this winter. Mr. Remont was formerly Superintendent of the school when Bishop Hare was Rector of the parish, and has since then had charge of other schools. He has therefore the experience as well as the personal qualities needed for the work. And we have no question but that we shall have a very efficient and successful school under his care. The parish is to be congratulated on having a position which is so important and yet so difficult to fill, so well provided for. It is particularly good in Mr. Remont to undertake this duty, as being now a member of S. Peter's choir he will be obliged to sing at two services a Sunday in that church in addition to his labors here.

EXCURSIONS.—The boys of the choir were given an excursion one day in July to Florence, N. J. by the choirmaster. The day proved delightful and was enjoyed immensely. The servers, who have been very regular in their attendance at the services during the summer, will be given an outing one day this month.

WINTER SERVICES.—The full order of services for the winter, including the Sunday afternoon and night service, daily service, Wednesday night service, etc., will be resumed the first of October.

OUR OLD PULPIT, which was presented to the church some twelve years ago by S. Timothy's Church, Roxborough, where it had been in use for many years before, has now been given to the new Mission at Norwood, Delaware Co., of which Mr. Charles Lynch, one of our former choir men, is the warden.

AN ORCHESTRA.—We wish very much that we could organize a parish orchestra to assist the music at the Sunday night service and perhaps on the mornings of festivals. It would add very much to the attractiveness of the night service, and save the great expense of employing professionals on festival occasions. Are there any in the parish who are capable of performing on musical instruments and who would volunteer their services for such a purpose?

OUR DEFICIT.—Our readers will remember that our annual report to May 1st showed that we had a deficit of some $800 in our current expense account which we were very anxious should be made up. We are very happy to announce now that through the generosity of some members of our Vestry, $600 of this amount has been paid. Are there not others in the congregation who will contribute the remaining $200 that we may not have any indebtedness whatever beyond our mortgage?

Bread for the Holy Communion.

The following are five good reasons for the use of wafer or unleavened bread in the Holy Communion: First, because it has ever been the aim of the Church to do in the Holy Communion precisely what our Blessed Lord did, and there can be but little doubt that He used unleavened bread in the Holy Eucharist, because it was during the Jewish Passion, when no leaven was to be seen in their houses, that he instituted it.

Second: Because leaven or yeast produces fermentation, corruption and decay.

Third: Because for so Holy a purpose, one would naturally prefer a material specially made and used for nothing else, marked or stamped with some sign or emblem indicating its purpose, and not that which is daily used in the most common and familiar manner.

Fourth: Because it is impossible to prevent ordinary bread cut into small pieces and passed from one hand to another from crumbling and small particles of it falling to the ground.

Fifth: Because the wafer bread may be kept any length of time and thus always be at hand and ready for use. Whereas ordinary bread can only be used when it is fresh and it cannot always be had in that state just at the time that it is wanted.

To offset all these advantages the only objection that we know of that is brought against the use of wafer bread is, that the Roman Catholics use it. On which principle we ought not to use the surplice, organs or any other accessory of public worship which they use. Intelligent church people ought to be above being influenced by such an argument as that.

We hope the day is coming when the use of wafer bread will be universal in our churches.

The Consecration of Bishop Gailor.

Sewanee, July 25, 1893.

To-day in St. Augustine's Chapel, the Rev. Thomas Frank Gailor, M. A., S. T. D., Vice Chancellor of the University of the South, was consecrated Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Tennessee. The Holy Communion was celebrated at half past six o'clock, and Morning Prayer said at eight o'clock.

Promptly at half past eleven the procession entered the west door of the Chapel singing, "The Church's One Foundation." In the procession were representatives of the Standing Committee of the Diocese, officers of the University, Clergy of this and other Dioceses, the Registrar of the Consecration, the Coadjutor-Bishop-elect with attending Priests, and the Consecrators. Dr. Gailor was vested as the Rubric directs, with rochet and purple cassock.

Bishop Dudley began the Communion office, Handel's "We Trust in Thee," being the Introit. Bishops Watson and Kinsolving read the epistle and gospel appointed. The Creed was sung by Bishop Nelson. The preacher, Bishop Seymour, took as his text, I Corinth. IV; 1 verse—"Let a man so account of us as Ministers of Christ and Stewards of the Mysteries of God." The sermon occupied more than an hour and a half in its delivery, the attention of the congregation being held to the end. His manner was earnest and vehement, and although, contrary to his usual custom, the sermon was read from manuscript, it was delivered with all the vigor of an extempore sermon. His words addressed to Dr. Gailor personally, were especially touching, and the emotion of both preacher and hearer could scarce be restrained.

The examination of the Bishop-elect was then conducted by the Presiding Bishop, Dr. Quintard, all the responses being given in a strong and firm voice. The Bishop-elect kneeling, there was sung over him, "Veni Creator Spiritus," the twelve Bishops present then laid their hands upon him, saying, "Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a Bishop in the Church of God."

The Communion office was then proceeded with, the bishops and vested clergy only receiving.

The final collect was then said, and with a kiss, Bishop Quintard conducted his brother within the chancel rail.

The recessional hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," was then sung, the order of retiring being the same as the processional.

The following Bishops were present and took part in the Consecration: Bishop Quintard, Bishop Dudley, Bishop Nelson, being the commission appointed by the Presiding Bishop of the Church, Bishop Sessums and Bishop Gray, as presenters, and Bishop Seymour, Bishop Perry, Bishop Kingsolving, Bishop Johnston, Bishop Watson, Bishop Jackson and Bishop Hale. The Rev. F. A. Shoup, of Sewanee, was the master of ceremonies.

PROGRESS.

Progress is essential to life. That in nature which ceases to grow, begins to decay and to die. This is as true of spiritual things and ecclessiastical organizations. The church should be always progressing. She has the world to conquer for God. She should be always going forward, growing stronger and stronger, making further and further advances. This should be the case with every individual parish. Its members, its resourses, its power should be ever increasing. Even in country parishes where the population is often almost stationary for many years, the church should be so strengthened by the gifts and bequests of its members, as generation after generation passes away, that it will be able to extend its influence further, and do more and more good. And in our cities, where there is an almost limitless field for the exercise of beneficence, the stronger the church is made the more good it can accomplish, and if there is the right spirit in the clergy and people, constant progress will be made. None should be content with simply holding their own, ministering to the same people, and doing the same amount of good year after year. There should be always strengthening of stakes and lengthening of cords. Clergy and people alike should ever be devising new means of carrying on and extending the work of the Lord, in the particular portion of the great field of the world which is assigned to them.

So it is our ambition for this parish that it should be always growing. It occupies a field where a good and large work can be done if the means are forthcoming to do it. A point has now been reached that undoubtedly it will go on, and it has unquestionably been doing and will continue to do good. But how much progress it will make, how much its work will be extended and increased, will depend upon the interest, energy and devotion its members show in its affairs, and what they do in its behalf.

At the beginning therefore of another season of church work, we want to set before our people their responsibility in this respect, and urge them to renewed efforts on behalf of their church. Do not let them be satisfied with the degree of prosperity it has attained or content with the fact that it answers their own personal needs as it is. Let them remember the church exists not only to minister to saints but to convert sinners, not only that those who seek its offices may enjoy them, but that the careless, the indifferent, the ignorant, the straying, the vicious may be reached and won, reclaimed and taught.

Do not let any one think that his or her whole duty in regard to the Church is discharged when one makes use of its offices for one's self, but remember the obligation to extend and press those offices upon all who need them. And who does not need them?

Every member of a parish, therefore, should be, if possible, a church-worker, engaged in some way in helping to carry the church's blessings to others, or by gifts and benefactions making the church ever more able to do a larger and larger work. There is a place in the parish for every one to work, and there are many things the church still needs for its completion and for fitting it to do the work which might be done in this locality, and we want every one to feel that all they do for the church, every service they perform, every dollar they give to the church, or everything by which they add to its furnishing and advancement is a strengthening and perfecting of the church, and making it more and more capable of doing a larger work.

We append a list of some things we especially need, and by which the efficiency of the parish can be advanced.

Additional workers in all branches of parish activity; the payment of our debt; increase of our endowment; completion of the church building, tower and bells; enlargement of parish building; new altar and reredos; rood screen; remaining windows in chancel and clerestory to be filled with painted glass; tiling of aisles, etc.

Some of these things might be most appropriately given, as so many other things we have received have been, as memorials.

BAD TIMES.

We have been undoubtedly passing through a very trying period of financial depression which has affected all branches of industry. And while things are improving, there is still very general dullness in business and many persons' incomes are very seriously affected, and though we are glad to say that so far there has been no falling off, but on the contrary a slight increase in the contributions over those for the corresponding period last year, still we fear that our church will suffer during the coming winter in the amount of the offerings which will be made for its support. And at the same time we know that larger demands will be made upon it for assistance to those who are in need, many members of our congregation being now out of work.

We want, therefore, to urge upon our people the conscientious giving to the church as largely as they can. If they have to curtail their expenses, do not let it be only in their charities, but make it proportional all around; and those whose income is not curtailed, let them give more liberally to make up for the failure on the part of others, and let the special offerings for the poor fund be larger than ever. And we should be especially glad of any opportunities that might be opened to us of getting work either for grown people or children.

PARISH NOTES.

OUR SUNDAY SCHOOL is being rapidly reorganized under the efficient superintendence of Mr. Remont. We were much disappointed, however, that more of the teachers did not appear in their places last month. The scholars will not return until the teachers return, and four months is a very long time for the sessions of the Sunday School to be suspended. In many parishes the sessions are continued without intermission all the year. We trust all the old teachers will be back this month, and more new ones are wanted.

OUR BIBLE CLASSES recommence with this month, and we hope to see a very full attendance at them this winter. The young men's class was so well attended last year that the room in which it met was not large enough to hold it. This year it is proposed to divide it. Mr. Lloyd will continue with part of it in the same room he had last year, and Mrs. Lanpher, the wife of the Assistant Minister, will take the other part of it. Mrs. Lanpher has had experience with such classes, and we are sure she will make it attractive.

We regret, however, very much that we have not another room in the parish building in which her class can be held, so that it will have to meet in the rear part of the church, immediately after the children's service.

WINTER SERVICES.—The full complement of our winter services begins with this month.

COURSES OF SERMONS.—The Rector proposes this winter to follow the plan which he has adopted in other years, of preaching upon one or more Sundays of each month a course or courses of sermons.

This winter he proposes to preach on one Sunday morning of each month a course on the Christian Ministry, its various offices and their functions.

We shall probably publish an abstract of these sermons in our paper, in order to give them more permanency and reach a larger congregation than may happen to hear them.

The various subjects of these sermons will be: The Ministry, its Nature and Origin. The Bishop. The Priest. The Preacher. The Pastor. The Rector. The Deacon. The Minor Orders.

On one Sunday evening of each month, the sermon will be on some subject connected with our social life, as the Family, Marriage, the State, Business, etc.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—We want to remind all the women of the parish that the anniversary of the General Women's Guild, which includes all the departments of women's work in the parish, takes place this month on SS. Simon and Jude's day, the 28th.

It is the one day in the year when all the female communicants and workers in the parish are asked to meet together to hear the report of the last year's work and arrange the plans for the coming year. We trust the attendance will be larger than it has been on some previous occasions. If not only those who have been doing work, but all our female communicants who have time or opportunities for engaging in church work, would attend this meeting, we are sure they would become more interested in what is being done, and find out some one or more portions of the work in which they could aid. The meeting is held in the Guild room immediately after the 10 A. M. service in the church.

THE NEW HYMNAL.—As soon as some one will present the church with at least one hundred new Hymnals, the Rector will introduce its use in the services of the church. We ought to have at least that number for the use of strangers and those who cannot afford to buy them for themselves.

S. JOHN'S GUILD has recommenced its meetings with a very good attendance, forty-six members being present on a single night. It is proposed this winter to engage a regular trainer for those using the gymnasium and taking part in the sports.

The following preamble and resolution were adopted at the regular business meeting of the Guild last month, in reference to the death of one of its members.

WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father in His wisdom hath removed from us our late beloved friend and brother, John Hunter, member of S. John's Guild of the Church of the Ascension, and a good athlete of the parish, therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of the members of this Guild to convey to the family of the deceased the assurance of their heartfelt sympathy as well as their most sincere sorrow and sense of loss; to testify their appreciation of his pure, Christian character and the bright example of his faith, patience and amiability, and to express their confidence that his soul has entered into that perfect rest which God hath promised to them that love Him.

W. REYNOLDS CLARK,
E. LINCOLN GILCHRIST,
SAMUEL MCCRACKEN,
Committee.

REDUCTION OF DEBT.—We were much gratified last month by the reception of a check for one thousand dollars towards the reduction of our church debt, from the estate of Mrs. Philippa E. Brown. Mrs. Brown had formerly been a member of our parish, though at the time of her death she was attending the Church of the Holy Trinity. It is very pleasant to thus have remembrances even of those whose connection with our parish has ceased, and the gift is a very substantial help towards removing the burden of our debt.

THE SERVERS' OUTING was not a success. It was arranged that they should all go down with the Assistant Minister to Cape May, on the Steamer Republic, and have a dip in the ocean. But only one of them appeared at the appointed time, so he and Mr. Lanpher had the excursion all to themselves. The others did not reach the wharf until the boat had sailed. This should be a lesson to teach punctuality and early rising.

Acknowledgment of Gift of Pulpit.

S. Stephen's P. E. Mission.
Norwood, Pa., Sept. 12, 1893.
REV. G. WOOLSEY HODGE,

Dear Sir:—At a meeting of the governing committee, I was directed to acknowledge officially the pulpit so kindly presented to our Mission through Mr. Chas. Lynch. We will prize the gift very highly, and hope soon to have a proper building in which to place it. At present it it stored in a private house.

Please convey to the proper officers of your church our thanks for their kindness, and believe we are grateful to them and particularly to you personally.

Sincerely yours,
B. M. NEWBOLD, Clerk.

CHURCH BOOK STORE.

We are glad to call the attention of our congregation to the fact that we have once more in this city a church book store. It has been opened by Mr. Geo. W. Jacobs, at No. 103 S. 15th St. It is certainly a great convenience to have a store where you can get all sorts of Prayer Books, Hymnals, Church and Sunday School Books, Papers, etc. We trust the members of our congregation will patronize it.

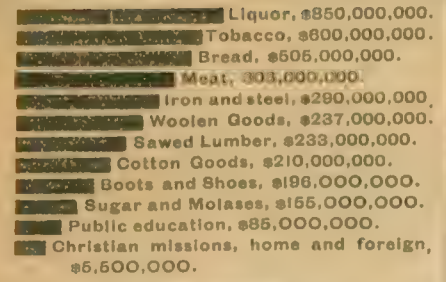
DO SOMETHING.

Each member of a Christian Church should be a worker for Christ. Our Lord has never granted a dispensation to a single one of us; would any of us desire that He should? His vows are upon us all without exception. Are we each obedient to His word: "Occupy till I come?" Are we putting out our talents to interest? If we are not doing so, we can never enter into rest. Rest implies previous labor. We are bidden by the Holy Spirit to labor to enter into the rest of God; it is the way thereto. Idlers are unrestful, fidgety, worried and worrying, fretful and fanciful, troubled and troublesome. They are happiest who are most completely consecrated to the service of God and most fully absorbed in obedience to His will.

O that all our Church members were constrained by Divine Grace to do their utmost for the Lord! There would then be no lack of laborers; no vine would be left unpruned, no wheat ungarnered. Under God we have in the Church all that is needful for her great work; it only needs bringing out and setting in order—perhaps we ought to say arousing and quickening. The world is full of stir—social, political, scientific, selfish—and shall the Saviour's household be given to slumber? Heaven can be no heaven to us if we do not labor here, by either doing or suffering the Divine Will.—The Church Advocate.

STRIKING COMPARISONS.

The following chart illustrates the comparative cost of intoxicating drinks and other items of expense in this country. There is not merely a volume but a whole library in these figures. We commend them especially to (1) those who want to know why there is so much poverty in the country in the midst of an abundance, and (2) to those who think too much is contributed to Christian missions. See what is expended for liquor and tobacco, and think what that expenditure involves. Compare with it what is contributed to missions and think what that money does.



CHURCH GROWTH.

The progress of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States is very marked. This growth is not merely in the newly settled States and Territories. In the old States like Connecticut, Maryland and Georgia, in ten years the Communicants have increased 30 per cent. In California, Colorado, Arkansas, Dakota, Florida, Minnesota, Montana and Nebraska, the Communicants were more than doubled. In Illinois and New Jersey the increase was 75 per cent; in Kentucky and Massachusetts, 60 per cent. In Alabama, Indiana, Iowa, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island and West Virginia, the increase was 50 per cent. These facts are the more significant taken with the percentage of increase in the population of the United States for ten years, which was less than 25 per cent. In forty-two States and Territories, our increase has been from 40 to more than 600 per cent.

THE KYRIE.

IN saying the Kyrie, as now directed when the Commandments are not read, at the beginning of the Communion Service, it is desirable that its ancient liturgical nine-fold form should be used thus:

Priest. Lord have mercy upon us.
People. Lord have mercy upon us.
Priest. Lord have mercy upon us.
People. Christ have mercy upon us.
Priest. Christ have mercy upon us.
People. Christ have mercy upon us.
Priest. Lord have mercy upon us.
People. Lord have mercy upon us.
Priest. Lord have mercy upon us.

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTRY

The Christian Ministry is of Divine institution. It is no human device. We do not owe it to human wisdom or ingenuity. It was directly ordained by God to provide for human necessities and bring to men benefits they could gain in no other way. Our Blessed Lord did not simply teach a doctrine or inculcate a philosophy; He came to earth to found a society, to establish a kingdom, to unite to Himself and to each other in a real and visible bond, those whom His Spirit could influence and who were capable of becoming like Him. This is evident from His not only teaching and sending others to teach, but from His institution of the Sacraments of Baptism and the Eucharist, and commanding their universal observance, things which were only of use as modes of entrance and continuance in a visible organization.

And if Christ thus founded a society, it was essential to its maintenance and propagation that it should have officers. These He provided by first choosing twelve whom He called Apostles, and afterwards other seventy also, whom He sent to discharge lesser functions in the same organization. These He endowed with the same plenitude of authority He had Himself received, "As My Father hath sent Me even so send I you. Receive ye the Holy Ghost, whosesoever sins ye remit they are remitted unto them, and whosesoever sins ye retain they are retained."

And it is evident that this was not a special endowment for one set of men, or generation, from His promise to be with His disciples to the end of the world. So the commission which they received, they could in time commit to others. And it has thus been handed on from age to age. The Church has not hesitated to use as her ordination formula, these words: "Receive the Holy Ghost," thus claiming the fulfilment of Christ's promise that His Spirit will act through the Ministry of His appointment.

This Ministry thus ordained and equipped is able to perform, and is necessary for, certain offices which are essential for man's highest welfare. It is not something thrust in between God and man to make their approach more difficult, as some imagine, but on the contrary is intended to bring God and man nearer together and make their approach easier. There are those who say they believe in no earthly priesthood, no intervention between God and the human soul. But while it is true that there can be a certain intercourse between God and the individual soul, still the distance between God and man is so great, and the difficulty of raising man to God so enormous, that it is universally acknowledged that the services of a mediator, the God man, are needed. And so under Him, and by His appointment, the services of other agents are needed to carry on His work and discharge in perpetuity His offices for men.

It would have been possible, doubtless, for God to have inspired all men with a knowledge of His Will, but He saw best to employ a few, Prophets, Apostles and Evangelists, and make them the channels for the communication of His Will in the books we call the Bible. So it has pleased Him to use the offices of a special Ministry to be perpetually the teachers, reprovers and exhorters of men, to speak and act on His behalf.

So it might be possible for each man to offer for himself the sacrifice of prayer and praise and worship which is God's due, but how few would do it, or are capable of offering even the personal sacrifice they should offer? They need some one trained and educated to do it, and when the great mass of the Christian community acts as a body, it must have some agents to represent it. So there are always these two classes of offices requiring a ministry, the acting as God's agent and representative to men and as man's representative in his approach to God.

But the Church is more than a school or a society. There is a mystical element in it. Christ says it is His Body, the outward organism in which His Spirit dwells and by which It works. So there are the special acts performed in it which we call Sacraments, through which His grace and influence is given, and which require a Ministry for their performance.

These are the great purposes of the Christian Ministry: (1) The government, continuance and extension of the Christian organization. (2) The speaking and acting on God's behalf and authority to men. (3) The acting as man's agent in discharging his service to God. (4) The performance of the acts ordained by God as the means of dispensing His grace to men.

Hence its necessity for all men, the need of every one sustaining a personal relationship to it and using its offices. The Church is not to be looked upon merely as a benevolent or asthetic society —very useful and improving, if one has the time and taste for it, but as that which is vital for the spiritual welfare of every one, without whose agency man cannot receive the benefits God is ready to bestow upon him, or discharge the obligations he owes to God. As the child needs a guide and teacher, as the sick need a physician, as the famishing need food, so do all require the offices of the Christian Ministry to gain the benefits and enjoy the blessings which our religion can alone bestow.

[Substance of a sermon preached by the Rector on the morning of the third Sunday in October. We propose to print a synopsis of the remaining sermons of this course, which will be delivered on one Sunday morning of each month, in the same way.]

FASTING AND EVENING COMMUNIONS.

A correspondent asks us to explain why, if "we want to do in the Holy Communion what our Blessed Lord did," we are opposed to Evening Communions, and advocate the reception of the Sacrament fasting, since our Lord instituted it, and administered it to His disciples in the evening, after supper.

The answer is, that the Holy Communion is not celebrated in commemoration of its own institution, of the fact that our Lord ate a last supper with his disciples, but it is itself the memorial of another event, the death of Christ upon the cross, which took place not in the evening, but on the morning of Good Friday.

That death was to be a sacrifice and propitiation for all human sin, to fulfil the purpose of the typical animal sacrifices of the old Dispensation. And those sacrifices were not celebrated at night, but in the day. They were the great acts of religious worship naturally offered at an hour which would give them the greatest prominence and importance. So the Eucharist, which took their place, commemorating what they typified, is naturally celebrated at the same time of the day. This has been the universal instinct of Christians. Everywhere, from the earliest times, the Holy Communion has been celebrated in the morning, made the chief act of religious worship of the day.

For a short time at the very first, while the Jewish sacrifices still held their ancient position of being offered in the morning, it seems to have been celebrated in the evening in connection with what the early Christians called the Agapæ or Love Feast. But this led to disorders which S. Paul so sternly reproves in 1 Cor., xi. On this account the Apostles—and they certainly had received from our Lord full authority to act in such a matter—apparently separated the Eucharist and the Love Feast, and celebrated them at different hours. Certainly there can be no question about the universal use of the Church from Apostolic times in regard to Morning Communions, and that ought to be sufficient for any loyal churchman. Moreover, practically the purposes for which the Eucharist was instituted, of being a means of grace, a help to right living and religious feeling, are far better answered by its being made to begin the day with, so that we can carry its effects with us through the day, instead being placed at the end, after which we immediately go to sleep and forget all about it.

As to receiving the Communion fasting, we have the same authority. It was the universal use of the Church for centuries. S. Augustine says: "It seemed good to the Holy Ghost that for the honor of so great a Sacrament, the Lord's Body should enter the mouth of the Christian before any other food, because for this purpose this custom is kept up throughout the world."

And it certainly is more natural and reverent and tends more to devotion that we should so receive it, than that we should come to it after we have been eating and drinking and enjoying other food.

At the same time, as this is a matter of discipline and not a moral precept, we do not "insist" upon it, as our correspondent alleges, but allow exceptions where age, sickness, infirmity or other impediments make the maintenance of a strict fast impossible.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two linen corporals, embroidered; a mahogany table with marble top; 35 books for Sunday School library; 7 books for parish library; quantity of papers and magazines for do.; 4 bags for collections; 3 small prayer books. The Rector has purchased out of some money given him nearly a year ago for that purpose, two very handsome copies of the new Prayer Book for the chancel, having waited until now to do so that he might select the best edition published. A lady has also presented a very handsome new Litany book to take the place of the one stolen some time ago from the Litany desk. The two new clere-story windows, spoken of in our September issue, have been received from England and put in position. They are very satisfactory and add to the completeness of the church. Would we could fill all our windows in the same way. Any one wanting to put up an inexpensive memorial to a loved one, might adopt this way, which thus at the same time adds to the permanent adornment of the church.

WANTS.—The superintendent of the Sunday School tells us that he has not a sufficient number of hymn books for the use of the Sunday School, and wants to know if there are not some in the congregation who would contribute some copies of the new hymual for this purpose. They cost twenty cents a piece. He would be glad also for copies of children's books to supply the places of books that have been lost or used up.

Will not our people remember these needs, and also the wants of the poorer members of the parish. At this season when wardrobes are being overhauled, articles of clothing of any description can be sent to the church and profitably disposed of.

ENTERTAINMENT. — An entertainment is to be given on the evening of the second of this month at the new Century Club, for the benefit of our church. It has been arranged by Miss Elise B. Heywood, who, though not a member of our parish, has assisted us on other occasions, and is going to give the members of S. Mary's Guild instructions in the Delsarte system this winter. She contributes her own services and secures free of expense the other talent that will appear, the church only being responsible for the rent of the hall.

We are certainly much indebted to her, and we trust a nice sum will be realized. The particular purposes to which the proceeds will be devoted is to be decided by S. Mary's Guild, under whose auspices the entertainment is gotten up.

ROBBERY.—We are sorry to say that for the third or fourth time the alms chests in the vestibule of the church have been robbed. This time the attempt was made during the celebration of Divine Service on a Sunday morning, the man being detected in the act by the watchful eye of one of our vestrymen, who was sitting in the back part of the church; who, with the assistance of the sexton, secured him and handed him over to the police, by whom he was committed to prison. We trust this example may prevent the occurrence of such a thing in the future.

RECOMMENCING WORK. — The Industrial School, Mothers' Meeting, Ladies' Aid and Embroidery Class, all recommence with this month. We need new workers in all these departments, and we trust new persons coming into the parish, as well as our old members, will volunteer to work in one or the other of these departments.

Third Annual Report of the Kindergarten.

We have begun our fourth year's work in the Kindergarten, with Miss Alice Spear as teacher, and a list of twenty-five children enrolled upon the books. Our Kindergarten was open daily last season; with the exception of six weeks in the midwinter, from October until July. The children were well behaved and always happy, and took a great interest in the beautiful work that was provided for them. At Christmas they were given a festival and were then allowed to take home their handiwork as presents for the family. A picnic was given them in May by St. Mary's Guild, and at the closing exercises in June the teachers provided refreshments and also gave each child a few wild flowers to carry home. The cost of conducting the work last season was largely decreased, by the teachers who volunteered their services through May and June, and also by our closing the school for six weeks in the winter. In this way expenses were reduced to something less than $100, which is certainly a very modest sum when one considers all the benefit and enjoyment it afforded.

In consequence of the objections made, it has been decided not to take any more colored children into the Kindergarten this season, and we hope that all those in favor of this movement will further us in the work.

We also hope that all those who have aided us in the past will continue to do so, as we depend entirely for the support of the Kindergarten upon the voluntary subscriptions. As the teacher's salary for the month of October is now due, we earnestly request our subscribers to send in their donations as soon as possible. They may be sent either to the Treasurer, Miss Pauline Neidhard, 1511 Arch Street, or to Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, 334 South Thirteenth Street.

THE BISHOP.

The Christian Ministry being a Divine institution, and existing for human benefit, what are the functions of its various Orders? First, what is a Bishop?

There are, it is true, in modern times some Christian bodies which hold that there are no different Orders of Christian ministers, but that all are equal. This is disproved by the appeal in the preface to our Ordinal, that "it is evident unto all men, diligently reading Holy Scripture and ancient authors, that from the Apostles' time there have been these Orders of Ministers in Christ's Church—Bishops, Priests and Deacons."

It is evident from the Scriptures, that there were different Orders, having different functions during the Apostles' time, and that the Apostolic office was not a temporary one is proved from the fact of the election of S. Matthias to fill the first vacancy, and the addition of SS. Paul, Barnabas, Timothy, Titus and others to the original twelve. And there can be no question of the historial fact that from the time of the Reformation back as far as authentic ecclesiastical records go, the Church always and universally was governed by Bishops. No exception can be found until at the time of the Reformation, a supposed necessity led to the invention of different forms, those of Congregationalism, Presbyterianism, etc.

As, therefore, we find the Church constituted in Scripture and universally ever afterwards, we cannot but believe that our Lord so intended it should be always. It is true that the names applied to the different offices varied at first, the term Bishop being used for a time to designate both the first and second Orders, but after the death of the original Apostles, it became confined to the first Order. But of the differences of Orders from the beginning, there can be no doubt. What then are the functions of the different Orders? The Bishop is the highest and includes all the others, he can do all they can do, but differs from them chiefly in two things. First, he alone can ordain. As Christ sent the Apostles as God had sent Him, so they in turn can send others as they were sent. S. Paul commands S. Timothy, a Bishop, to ordain Presbyters in every city. Though the Priests may have taken part in the ordinations with the Bishops, no case can be shown in Scripture or early history of any ordination without a Bishop. So it was that during the two hundred years which elapsed from the discovery of America until there was a Bishop in this country; all in America who wanted to enter the Ministry had to cross three thousands miles of water to receive ordination from the hands of a Bishop in England. The Bishops therefore alone can propagate the Church. So it belongs alone to them to administer Confirmation, which is in a sense the ordination of the laity.

Secondly, the Bishops are superior to the Clergy in jurisdiction or government. They are the rulers of the Church, the Pastors of the flock. S. Paul says, "take heed to the flock over which the Holy Ghost hath made you Bishops, to feed the Church of God."

They are the source of all authority. Priests are only their agents and representatives, authorized to act for them in the sphere, or parish, assigned them. The Bishops are their pastors as they are the more immediate pastors of the people.

So the Bishops are the lawmakers—no law can have any force in the Church unless sanctioned by them. So they are the teachers—they decide what doctrines are to be taught, and all disputes must be referred to their decision.

But these powers are not given to each Bishop separately by himself, so that each Bishop is an independent and infallible Pope, but to the whole body of Bishops collectively. So that in case of any difference or dispute it must be referred to all the Bishops meeting together in councils. Though each Bishop has his own sphere or jurisdiction, called a Diocese, in which he rules, subject to the control and discipline of his fellow Bishops, yet although all Bishops are equal in Order, for the sake of presidency and appeal, there are differences in rank, some being Primates or Archbishops, Metropolitans or Patriarchs. But none is supreme over others, universal Bishop of Bishops, as is falsely claimed by the Bishop of Rome. A Bishop distinguished among others is only primus inter pares.

So the Church is constituted; it is no democracy, in which the rulers receive their powers from the people. It is a constitutional monarchy, in which authority and grace have been handed on from age to age from our blessed Lord Himself by means of Holy Orders.

If our people were taught and understood the divine constitution of the Church, they would be saved from the danger of schism, the setting up of altar against altar, the dividing of the one body of Christians into diverse independent and antagonistic fragments, which so weakens and retards the progress of the faith. So would they be delivered from the danger of heresy, which is the teaching of the opinions of individuals as doctrines, instead of the one Catholic faith held by all Christians.

Never let any one call himself an "Episcopalian," as if he was a member of an Episcopal sect, one out of many which he happens to prefer, but look upon himself as a member of the one Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church, subject to the legitimate Bishop in whose diocese he is living, who has the rule over him, by Divine authority, whom it is a sin to separate from or disobey, to whom it has been entrusted, with his fellow-

Bishops, to teach and feed the whole Christian flock, as God led His ancient people Israel "by the hand of Moses and Aaron."

OUR FINANCES.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Vestry, after hearing a statement by the Accounting Warden, it was resolved "That the congregation be asked to contribute before January 1, 1894, the sum of $1,500 to meet the interest on the mortgage due this month, the salaries of the clergy, choir, etc., and some necessary repairs to the Church."

To fulfill this request it will be necessary that our offerings for the five Sundays in December should average $100 each, which is about what we receive at this time of the year, and that on Christmas Day $1,000.

As the offerings at Christmas for the last two years have been a little over $800, it will necessitate an extra effort to make it $1,000 this year, especially as many persons have less money this year than usual. Will not all give as largely as they can, and those who are not affected by the hard times, give more liberally than usual, to make up for those who cannot give as much.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Four books for Sunday School library. Photograph of Rev. Henry M. Stuart, a former Rector of the parish. A cotta for server embroidered. Pair of chickens, two baskets of potatoes, twelve tons of coal for the poor, fruit for Thanksgiving Day. Two of the members of St. John's Guild have made and presented to the Church, a sounding board for the punch bag in the gymnasium.

THANKSGIVING.—Each of the members of our Mother's Meeting, some eighteen in all, received at Thanksgiving, through the kindness of some members of the parish, a fowl, bag of potatoes, quart of cranberries, pound of sugar, a ton or half ton of coal. Some of the fruit from the Altar was sent to some of our sick members, and the rest distributed among the choir boys.

OUR BENEVOLENT WORK.—In view of the special distress which will probably be experienced this winter and the many applications received by the Clergy for aid, it is proposed to extend the benevolent work connected with our Mother's Meeting by giving out sewing to needy women. Plenty of such work can be obtained from the various hospitals in the city. All we should have to do will be to pay the women who do it. But to do this will require a large increase in our Poor Fund. To pay twenty women 50 cents each a week, we would need $10, which for four months would amount to $180. Are there not some in the congregation who will make special donations for this purpose?

PARISH VISITING.—Since early in October the clergy have been visiting throughout the parish. But as there are now some three hundred families regularly connected with the church, beside many others connected with the children in the schools, choir, etc., whom it is the aim of the clergy to see, and these are scattered all over the city, it is manifest that it requires considerable time for all to be seen.

The Rector finds that he cannot, with his other engagements, pay more than three visits a day, on an average, such visits as he wants to pay. And as he cannot pay any on Sunday, except in extreme cases of illness, that makes only eighteen a week, at which rate it requires four months of steady visiting every day but Sunday, to get round the parish once. So if any think that the Rector is neglecting them, let them remember what he has to do, and have patience, and he will get to see them in time.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL. — Our Christmas music this year will include Calkin's Festival Te Deum and Gounod's S. Cecilia Mass. This will be repeated on the morning of the Sunday after Christmas, and in the afternoon will be sung Tour's Festival Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. The anthem will be, "For unto us a Child is born," from "Handel's Messiah."

Special offerings to provide the usual Christmas festival for the children of our Sunday School and the decorations for the Church and school building can be placed in the alms box in the vestibule, which will be marked for that purpose.

THE YEAR BOOK for 1892-3 is now out and can be had from the Sexton.

NEW HYMNALS.—We are promised this month a donation of new Hymnals for the Church, and if the different members of the congregation would give as a Christmas present a copy of the new Hymnal to the various members of their family, we shall be able to introduce its use in the services of the Church by the beginning of the new year. All kinds of editions of the new Hymnal, or new Prayer Book and Hymnal together, can be had at any of the book stores.

SINGING GUILD.—We want to thank the young women of the parish who have joined the Singing Guild, and express our appreciation of their services in leading the music at the Sunday and Wednesday evening services. But we hope to see a great many more in the Guild. To be as effective as we want it to be, it should be a great deal larger. We are sure it will be a great opportunity for improvement in singing to any who will join it, as well as a way in which they can make themselves useful to the parish.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The third sermon by the Rector in the special course on Social Subjects, will be preached on the evening of the third Sunday of this month on "Marriage," and the third in the course on the Christian Ministry on the morning of the fourth Sunday, on "The Priest."

The Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Delaware, will preach on the morning of the third Sunday.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—The first autumnal exhibition of indoor sports of St. John's Guild was held on Monday evening, November 13. The gymnasium was well filled with friends of the guild; the referee was Mr. Edward S. Van Leer, who discharged his difficult duty with tact and good nature, which latter quality stood him in good stead among the crowd of excited and disputing contestants.

The first event was the running high jump, in which David Patchell was the victor, jumping 4 ft. 7 in., although in regard to points, it was a tie between Hindermeyer and him, on account of Hindermeyer's handicap. The next event was a junior wrestling match between Hindermeyer and McConaghy, which did not result in a fall. The 15 yds. dash was won by Frank Shelton.

The standing vault on the horizontal bar was won by David Patchell, who vaulted 6 ft.

The 15 yds. run-on-all-fours was won by Harvey Hindermeyer.

The Indian-club race and the dumb-bell race were both wildly exciting and noisy; the former, won by Reynolds Clark, and the latter, by Charles Manypenny.

The standing broad jump was won by Hindermeyer. The sports ended by a friendly wrestling match between Manypenny, the champion bantam-weight wrestler, and Patchell, resulting in a victory for Manypenny.

Three prizes were offered to the three best all-round athletes, and were awarded to Hindermeyer, first; Patchell, second; Manypenny third.

These sports showed conclusively the need of more practice and training on the part of the various contestants. The winners in each event were those who have done the most faithful work in the class exercises, under the able leadership of Mr. Hammond, the gymnasium instructor.

We hope that the members of the Guild as a whole, will take more interest in the class work, and avail themselves of its training, so that a better showing can be made in future sports.

The foot ball team of the Guild played a match on Nov. 17 with the team of the Episcopal Academy, which they won by a score of 4 to 0.

They also went on to New York on Thanksgiving Day and played with the Athletics, whom they beat 10-0.

They have won games with S. Mark's team, 28-0, and Llanwellyn, 10-8.

THE NEWS.—Our business manager informs us that we shall want about $15 to meet the expenses of this paper for the current year. Are there not some members of the congregation who read it and realize how useful it is for the parish, who are not subscribers to it, who will become so, or get us some new advertisements, or who will make a donation towards the above amount which we require?

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

On the first Sunday in September the school numbered 37. On December 1st, the total number on the rolls was 205.

Five boys, four girls, three teachers and two officers have not missed a session since the school opened in September.

The banner band of the school for punctuality is No. 55, Dept. 3, Miss Schell.

The school begins at 3 o'clock, immediately after a service in church at half-past 2. Visitors will be gladly received.

For the Christmas festival $50.00 will be needed. We ask the members of the congregation not to forget the little ones at the happy festival, and hope they will of their charity, contribute generously, that the children may have a joyous and pleasant time. Put your offerings in an envelope, marked S. S. Festival, and hand to the rector or place in the offertory.

Wants: A binding fund is badly needed for rebinding 30 or more volumes of library books, which cannot be used until repaired. Small sums are asked for—put in an envelope, marked S. S. Binding Fund, and place in offertory.

We also want new or second-hand books for the library, embracing books of travel, adventure or biography; bound volumes of Chatterbox, St. Nicholas, Harper's Young People, etc.

Dear reader, if you have any books which will entertain, improve and instruct the children, you will perform an act of charity by donating them to the children's library. Notify the Rector, Sexton or Superintendent, and they will be sent for and duly acknowledged.

Through the kindness of the Rector, Miss Holbrook and some unknown friend, more than 25 volumes have been received for the library.

We need copies of the new Hymnal and Prayer Book. Who will donate one or more copies?

The children's Christmas service will be held on the afternoon of Sunday, December 31st, at half-past 2 o'clock, when the festal choral service will be sung. The creed will be Stainer's. The chants to the psalter will be Kettle and Humphreys; the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Caleb Simper in F.; the Ascription at the offertory, "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power," Gilbert.

Five carols by the main school and one by the infant school will also be sung.

It is hoped the congregation will encourage the children by being present at this service.

THE PRIEST.

The Priesthood is the second Order in the Christian Ministry. It derives not only its power and authority from the first Order—the Bishop—through ordination, but its jurisdiction as well. That is, it can only exercise the functions conferred on it by ordination, in the particular sphere assigned to it by the Bishop, or in the sphere assigned to some other Priest on his invitation. He does not receive a roving commission, to be exercised any where at his will. He can only officiate in the parish or cure to which he has been instituted by the Bishop. And in that cure he acts as the agent and under the direction of the Bishop, though his rights are guarded and his powers defined by the canons or laws which the Bishop has set forth for the government of his Diocese.

The functions of the Priest are various; he is a preacher and instructor of his people, their pastor and councilor, and the ruler of his parish. Of these functions we shall treat separately. Now let us consider only the strictly sacerdotal functions.

What is the primary office of the Priest? He "is ordained," the Scriptures tell us, "in things pertaining to God." That is, he is to deal with men and act for them in religious matters. He has two distinct classes of duties. (1) He acts as the agent and representative of God in his dealings with men. (2) As man's representative in his approach unto God.

In the first of these capacities he administers the sacraments. He baptizes, presents candidates for confirmation, gives the communion, pronounces absolution and benediction, confers the blessing in marriage, ministers to the sick, etc. All these are divinely ordained instrumentalities by which Divine Grace and assistance is given to men, and the Priest is the agent by whom they are performed. And the efficacy of these acts depends not upon the Priest's personal character, or abilities, or virtue, but upon his commission. Just as the acts of a governor of a State, or other executive officer, depend not on his personal traits, but on his official position; so you may have an ignorant, stupid or even vicious priest, and still derive benefit from his official acts. As one of our articles teaches "the unworthiness of the Ministers hinders not the effects of the sacraments."

The second class of duties of the Priest is in acting for men towards God, presenting to Him "gifts and sacrifices" on their behalf. There is a natural debt which man owes to God. The debt of prayer and praise and substantial gifts to God's service to testify man's interest and zeal in His cause. As well might a child live in his father's house and never speak to him, as a man live on God's earth and never think of or approach Him. It is true, men can make a certain personal approach to God in private prayer and praise, but that is imperfect and insufficient. Men need a trained and cultured class to present in a fitting way this great obligation of worship, and they need the help and inspirations which comes from public worship. And in all such corporate acts, the mass must be represented by agents, duly trained and commissioned for the purpose. So the Priest acts and speaks for the great body of the faithful, his deeds and words are those of the people he represents.

Above all there is the great act of sacrifice, which is the special function of the Priest to perform. This is an innate, universal idea among men. All nations have had a priesthood. Men have always felt that sin needs to be atoned for, and that atonement can only be accomplished by the shedding of blood. This idea was sanctioned and provided for by God in the animal sacrifices of the old dispensation. So when Christ came into the world to be the great High Priest for men, "it was necessary that He also should have some what to offer." That sacrifice was His own body on the Altar of the Cross. So that this universal want might be provided for in all time, our Lord instituted the Holy Communion to be the perpetual memorial sacrifice of His one oblation. And by the universal prescription of the Church, the offering of that sacrifice has been confined to this one Order—the Priesthood.

Some deny this and say that there is no Priest, Altar or Sacrifice in the Christian Church. But they are contradicted by the fact that in every Church in Christendom from the earliest extant down to the time of the Reformation, there was an Altar, that the universal name, by which the Holy Communion was known in the early Church, was "the Sacrifice" and that they who offered it were called "Priests."

Is it conceivable that it should have been left for a small body of separatists after fifteen hundred years of Christian history, to discover for the first time what was the true conception of the Christian Ministry and Christian worship? And why should any one wish to eliminate the idea of sacrifice from Christian service? What is it but the giving of something on behalf of another, in this case, of interposing the death of Christ for us between a justly offended God and our sins.

Religion is not simply ethics. There is this element of sin in us, which must be atoned for, and our need of Divine help to overcome it. The Holy Communion is the way appointed by which the perfect sacrifice of Christ is set forth and pleaded before God, and by which its benefits are communicated to us, and the Priest is the person authorized to celebrate it.

These are the practical purposes of the Priesthood, apart from those of which we shall speak hereafter, the acting as God's agent in administering the sacraments and speaking in His name, and as man's representative in offering to God the prayers and praises, the gifts and sacrifices we owe to God. So it is an office from whose acts all may receive benefit, and whose offices all should use.

PARISH NOTES.

CHRISTMAS.—We always give an account of the way in which the great Festivals are kept in our parish, not only for the benefit of those of our readers who for any cause were prevented from being present at the services, but as a matter of record for comparison year by year.

We were favored this year by very good weather on Christmas day, though we know a great many were kept at home by the prevailing influenza. Still we had good congregations for a week day. We were especially gratified by the increased attendance at the early celebrations, being 185 against 122 last year, and of the 238 Communions made, all but 56 were at the early services.

The choir discharged their part most creditably, and we think their training appeared to greater advantage from their not being accompanied with instruments. In fact the general impression seemed to be a preference for the service without that accompaniment.

The offerings on Christmas day amounted to $630. Almost $200 less than last year. But as Christmas came then on Sunday, that included the regular Sunday's offerings. Our total offerings for current expenses for the month of December this year has been $1194.82 against $1243.73 last year. So there has not been much falling off, though from the hard times we were afraid there would be. Still we need the amount asked for by the Finance Commitee of the Vestry, $1500 for the month, and the congregation must remember that this amount must be made up sooner or later, as we can hardly cut down the expenses of the Church, on the contrary they ought to be increased with the growth of the congregation.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.—The usual festival for the Sunday School children took place on the evening of Holy Innocents' day. After the service in the Church, consisting of the singing of Christmas hymns, with some prayers and an address on the teachings of the season, the children were provided with a treat in the school building in which a live Kris Kringle presented each scholar with a box of candies, an orange and a piece of cake, and the children of the Infant School with toys. The children themselves added to the entertainment by a number of recitations.

On the evening of the Friday after Christmas the members of the Mothers' Meeting were given a special tea, and the choir boys provided with a treat of ice cream and cake.

The special Christmas Service of the children took place on the afternoon of the Sunday after Christmas at 2.30 P.M. It consisted of full Evening Prayer entirely sung by the children, including an anthem Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis. The singing was with much expression and showed the careful training of the Superintendent of the School, Mr. F. E. Remont. A special programme had been prepared embracing several Christmas Carols.

The address at the service was made by the Rev. H. C. Mayer, late of Paris, France, who also kindly assisted the Rector at the early Celebrations on Christmas day.

There was a good attendance of those interested in the School, in addition to the scholars.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Since our last issue there has been received a violet silk stole, embroidered; six new Hymnals for the Church; one do for the chancel; 8 coal orders of half ton each for distribution among the poor, and some poultry, etc., for Christmas dinners; cake for Festival; papers and magazines for Guild room. The Altar Guild donated a cassock to a church in Ocoee, Florida, where our former parishioner, Mr. Harry R. Carson, is serving temporarily as lay reader.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the diocese has notified the Rector that he has appointed the evening of April 4th to administer Confirmation in this parish. We trust that all who have not been Confirmed, will look forward to being presented at that time. The preparatory instructions will begin early in Lent.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The subjects for the special sermons this month will be on the evening of the second Sunday, the 14th, on social subjects—"Education," and on the morning of the third Sunday, the 21st, on the Christian Ministry—"The Preacher."

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The members of S. Mary's Guild are enjoying greatly their regular monthly instructions in the Delsarte system. We would like all the young women in the parish to have the benefit of it. They are looking forward to giving a public exhibition in the spring.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—As the first Monday in this month is New Year's day, the regular business meeting of the Guild will take place on the second Monday instead. The members of this Guild are very anxious to do something to make money as a contribution towards the enlargement of our Parish Building, which is so much needed. They may give some kind of an entertainment for this purpose later in the season.

PRAYERS FOR BEFORE AND AFTER SERVICE.—The Episcopal Tract Society have printed some very suitable prayers to be used before and after service, some of which we have had for distribution. They are so arranged that they can be pasted in the front or back of a Prayer Book.

The Sunday School.

The school opens immediately after the Children's Service, which begins at 2.30 P. M. We are always glad to receive visitors.

The exercises being largely musical, the parents and friends of the children, and young people in general, may find it profitable to spend a half hour with us. Come, and welcome.

On rolls Dec. 1st, 205; new members, 12; left, 4. Total on rolls Jan. 1st, 213.

The beautiful Christmas service was held on the afternoon of the Sunday after Christmas, and was finely rendered. The children sang the service and hymns with rare expression and feeling, which was directly traceable to the hard training to which they so cheerfully submitted for nearly three months, and reflects much credit on their patience and industry.

The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, which are really difficult pieces of music for Sunday School children to sing, were rendered with a precision and exactness, and with such expression and feeling as would do credit to a trained choir; while it may be questioned if any of our choirs could excel the manner in which the Psalter was chanted.

It is to be regretted that so few of the members of the congregation were present at this service.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS: 50 cts. from a gentleman for the "binding fund." Thank you, sir. Will other kind friends who may not be able to spare so much, help the fund along with dimes or nickels? Put in an envelope, mark it "binding fund" and put into the offertory.

From a lady of the congregation a box of mixtures for the "poorest child that could be found." They were given to one at 7th and Lombard Sts.

A box of things for the decoration of the Christmas tree.

Two books were sent to the library by one of the teachers.

Dear reader have you any books to spare for our library? If so, send them to the sexton or notify the Rector and they will be sent for.

We did not receive any hymnals in response to our appeal last month. Perhaps some good friend will think of us this month.

Church Training and Deaconess House.

The Rector has received the following letter from the Bishop of the Diocese:

Philadelphia, Nov. 13, 1893.

Rev. and dear Brother: May I call your attention to the opportunity afforded in the Church Training and Deaconess House of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, 708 Spruce street, for ladies who desire to qualify themselves for more efficient service in teaching in Sunday Schools, or in any kind of woman's work in the Church.

The Training House is intended to afford instruction to special students in any particular course of study, as well as to those who desire to become Deaconesses. I send you with this, the scheme of studies for the coming year. Students are received for any of these courses on the payment of $5.00 a year. I would commend especially the courses in Church History, the Prayer Book, and the study of the Bible.

It may be in your congregation there are some who would like to take one or more of these courses, and would greatly profit by them.

More particular information can be obtained from Miss Caroline H. Sanford, Deaconess in charge of the House, 708 Spruce Street.

Faithfully yours,

O. W. WHITAKER.

THE PREACHER.

In considering the characteristics of the Second Order in the Ministry, we dwelt last month only on its strictly sacerdotal functions. Let us speak now of the duty of the Priest as a Preacher. This is inherent in his office. The Third Order, the Deacon, can only preach if specially licensed thereto by the Bishop. But it is the right and the duty of the Priest to preach, because having the care of a parish, he must both be able, and it is an obligation upon him, to discharge this office for his people. Yet it is not strictly a priestly act, because others than Priests can preach. And one may be a very valuable and able Priest and Pastor, and yet not be of much use as a Preacher, because the efficiency of this office depends, not as do the sacerdotal functions, upon the office itself, but upon personal qualifications. A man must have a natural or acquired fitness and ability to be an able preacher.

But it is the duty of every parish priest to discharge this duty to his congregation, either personally or by a substitute, because one of the primary commands laid upon the ministry is to "preach the Gospel," to "reprove, rebuke, exhort." Christianity is a revelation. It must be made known to men; and the clergy are the appointed agents for its communication. And the duty is not to be discharged by one proclamation of it to individuals or a people. It is so deep and vast, so constantly and vitally affecting the life of every one, that there is need of its continual enforcement, and explication and application. To fully understand the doctrines and precepts of religion requires special education, and the clergy are taught and trained, that they in turn may teach others.

They are to see that their people are instructed in the truths of religion. They must begin with the young; teach them either personally or by agents the things which a Christian ought to know and believe, and catechise them to see that they are learning.

They must teach the adults as well, by classes, or courses of instructions or sermons upon different subjects.

Then the truth thus taught needs to be constantly applied to daily life. It is not easy to practice the teachings of our religion even when you know them. There is a law in our members contrary to them, leading us to oppose them. So all men need constantly to be exhorted, rebuked, warned against evil doing, urged, incited and inspired to do right, to persevere in the Christian course, to make progress, to cultivate the spiritual life, the finer virtues.

This is the use and power of the pulpit. The best instructed Christian needs to be ever learning. The best and holiest man has his trials and temptations, is liable to become cold and indifferent and careless. So all have need of preaching.

It is said, that while this may have been the case formerly, now that books are so plentiful and every one can read, it is no longer necessary, that the press has superceded the pulpit. But, while the press should be used and regarded as a larger and supplementary pulpit, still many men do not read regularly, nor are they apt to read just the books they need, and even if they did, there is a power in the living voice and direct address, the written page does not possess. Few books can influence and enthuse men as the fervent speaker.

Again, it is said there are so few good preachers. Many are dull and uninteresting. True, but we must remember the message itself is divine, and though it is most effective if powerfully or clearly enforced, yet there is always something to be learned from every honest attempt to proclaim it.

Then there are difficulties the preacher has to contend with. One is the lack of intimate knowledge of the people he addresses, their wants and difficulties and trials. All preaching is more or less in the dark. All the preacher can aim at is the teaching of those things which ought to be known and believed, and the exhortation to the performance of evident duty. Then there is the temptation to the preacher to seek popularity and gain a reputation as a beautiful writer or fluent speaker, and to avoid those subjects which are disagreeable and might create trouble, only to speak smooth things. But he should aim to be plain and direct, to declare the whole Council of God, teach and preach all that he believes to be right and to be needed. One of the advantages of extemporaneous preaching is in its simplicity and directness, avoiding the danger of writing only beautiful essays, which may be very finished compositions, but are not the food people need to live by.

Another difficulty in preaching, is the knowledge of the preacher that he himself needs to be preached to, the seeming arrogance of setting himself up to teach and exhort others. Preachers feel this and it makes them hesitate to say all they should, knowing they are not perfect themselves.

Many long for opportunities to hear others, instead of always preaching themselves.

But the people should remember the message and forget the man. The message is from God, the preacher is only the human agent that brings it.

So this office of the preacher, while depending largely upon human ability for its effective discharge, is still one which is always needed, which the people should gladly receive and by which they can always be profited.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Four and a half tons of coal for the poor, thirty new Hymnals, seven books for Sunday School library. Clothes for missionary box and poor.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS will be given every Monday at 4 P.M., and every Thursday evening at 8 P.M. during Lent, in the Parish building. All desiring to be confirmed are expected to attend one of these courses. The Confirmation will take place on April 4th at 8 P.M. The clergy affectionately urge all attending the Church, who have not yet been confirmed and are of sufficient age, to avail themselves of this opportunity.

LENTEN LECTURES.—A course of lectures will be delivered by the Rector after Evening Prayer on each Friday during Lent, except Good Friday, the subject being "Sin." The first will be "The Fact of Sin." Second, "Original Sin." Third, "Actual Sins of Commission." Fourth, "Of Omission." Fifth, "Habitual Sin." Sixth, "Remission of Sins." The boys of the choir will sing at the daily evening service at 5 o'clock during Lent, and there will be a special offertory on Friday afternoons to defray the expense.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The subjects of the special sermons this month will be on the evening of the second Sunday, the 11th, on social subjects—"Business," and on the morning of the third Sunday, the 18th, on the Christian Ministry —"The Pastor."

LENTEN WORK.—The members of the Ladies' Bible Class and of S. Mary's Guild will meet every Thursday evening during Lent in the Guild room to sew for a missionary purpose. The Ladies' Aid will sew for "the Sheltering Arms."

SPECIAL ENVELOPES.—We want particularly to call the attention of the congregation to the duty of returning the special envelopes for benevolent purposes, which are sent out every quarter together with the regular envelopes. The congregation must remember that in churches where the pews are rented, there are in addition, collections at least twice a month for charitable purposes—once for the poor, and once for some missionary or other object. In a free church, what one agrees to give through the envelopes takes the place of pew rents in supporting the church, and the extra envelopes are to take the place of the charitable collections. We have only four of these in the year: those for the Poor, the support of the Sunday and Industrial School, General Missions—Domestic and Foreign, and Diocesan Missions. All these envelopes should be filled up and returned at some offertory during the quarters in which they are sent out. No church can be conducted unless money is provided for its work among the poor, and for the carrying on of its schools. And no congregation is doing its duty if it does not contribute towards the general missionary work of the church, as well as for its own support.

The special envelope for this quarter is for Diocesan Missions, that is, for the carrying on of the work of the church in the poorer and newer portions of our own Diocese. For this purpose our parish is asked and expected to contribute $75. As this amount has been reduced from $100 which we have been assessed before, because we failed to give that much, we trust the full amount asked this year will be contributed. In addition to this we are assessed $34.76 for the Sustentation fund, which is a part of the same work. It puts both our own parish and the free church system in a bad light, if these amounts are not paid.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.—The congregation should understand also that in addition to the offerings through the envelopes which go to the work of the regular Boards of Missions, the women of the parish make contributions to the work of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions. Two of our ladies represent the parish on each of the four committees, and they ask the female members of the congregation to contribute towards their work. Collections for the Domestic Committee were made in January, for the Freedmen will be made in February, for the Foreign in March, and for Indian Missions in April.

NEW HYMNALS.—We have several times asked for donations of new Hymnals. We have so far received some 30 copies. We have in addition 75 copies which were purchased for the use of the Sunday School. These will pretty well supply the church. But in addition to these we should have musical copies for the choir, and the new book cannot be entirely adopted until the choir is thus supplied. It would require in the neighborhood of $50 to purchase them. Are there not members of the congregation who will make contributions for this purpose?

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—There will be an exhibition of athletics by S. John's Guild on Monday evening, February 5th, at 8 o'clock. There will be eight events, and three special exhibitions of high kicking, contortionism, and club swinging. The friends of the Guild are cordially invited to be present; a small admission fee will be charged. The business meeting will be on the 12th.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

RESIGNATION OF SUPERINTENDENT.—We regret very much to announce the resignation of our Sunday School Superintendent. Mr. F. E. Remont. This has been due to a difference of opinion between Mr. Remont and the clergy, and most of the teachers in the school, in regard to the length of time required for the session of the school and the method of conducting it. Mr. Remont felt that the hour between the close of the Children's Service and the 4 o'clock Evensong, was not long enough for the purposes of the school. He has therefore been prolonging the school considerably after the 4 o'clock service began.

This prevented the teachers, who wished to do so from attending that service, and it was in their judgment, and in that of the clergy, too long a session for the children. And as Mr. Remont felt that it was impossible for him, consistently with his plans, to reduce the length of the session, he has felt it necessary to resign. We deeply regret this, as from his character, experience and ability, Mr. Remont was admirably qualified for the position. The thanks of the parish are due to him for the labor and zeal he has expended in the work, and it is unfortunate that his connection with it should have been so brief.

The Assistant Minister will for the present act as Superintendent of the school, and its session will extend from the close of the Children's Service until five minutes of four o'clock.

LENTEN OFFERINGS.—The offerings of the school during Lent will be given as usual to Missions. In addition to the offerings in the church, each child will be provided with an alms box to take home to fill up and return by Easter Sunday.

A QUIET DAY FOR WOMEN.

A QUIET DAY FOR WOMEN, to be conducted by the Rev. W. F. Bodine, D.D., Rector of the Church of the Saviour, will be held in S. James Church, Walnut and Twenty-second Streets, on the second Thursday in Lent, February 15th; services beginning with Holy Communion at 10.30 A.M. till 1 P.M. and from 2.30 to 4.30 P.M.

THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF CHURCHWOMEN will be held in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth Street below Walnut, on Friday, February 16th, from 10.30 A.M. till 1 P.M., and from 2.30 till 4.30 P.M. Topics: Morning Session—"The Church's Opportunity in Relation to Wage Workers," "The Responsibility of the Church towards the Foreign Elements in our City." Afternoon Session—"The Ideal American Home," "The Spirit of Work."

WHAT I LIVE FOR.

I live for those who love me,
For those I know are true;
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit too;
For all human ties that bind me,
For the task my God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And the good that I can do.

I live to learn their story,
Who've suffered for my sake,
To emulate their glory,
And follow in their wake;
Bards, martyrs, patriots, sages,
The noble of all ages,
Whose deeds crown history's pages,
And time's great volume make.

I live to hail that season
By gifted minds foretold,
When men shall live by reason,
And not alone for gold.
When man to man united,
And every wrong thing righted,
The whole world shall be lighted
As Eden was of old.

I live to hold communion
With all that is divine,
To feel that there is union
'Twixt nature's heart and mine:
To profit by affliction,
Reap truth from fields of fiction
Grow wiser from conviction—
Fulfilling God's design.

I live for those that love me,
For those that know me true,
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit too;
For wrongs that need resistance,
For the cause that needs assistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.

LENT.

Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a Fast.
Joel ii; 15.

THE ORIGIN OF LENT.

Moses, giver of the Law, fasted forty days in the mount. Elijah, chief of the prophets, fasted forty days in the wilderness.

So Christ, "of whom Moses in the Law, and the prophets did write," fasted forty days.

Philo, contemporary with the Apostles, in his account of the Christians of Alexandria, refers to their keeping Lent. Irenaeus, ninety years after St. John, mentions this season. Tertullian, a short time after Irenaeus, avers that it was the general belief of the Church that Lent was of Apostolic authority. Constantine, in the year 325, speaks of it as the season "which we have kept from the first day of our Lord's Passion to the present times."

From those days the observance of Lent has been universal in all Churches of Apostolic lineage.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LENT.

1. To give much time to Prayer, Sacred Reading, and Attendance at Church.

2. To be more rigid in self-examination; to discover the besetting sin, and determine to give it up.

3. To deny self in some way: in food, in amusements, in dress, in reading, in social gratifications: so as to be strengthened in the contest with sin, and drawn nearer to Christ.

4. To attend the Holy Communion; to meditate often upon the "Way of the Cross;" and to make at least one careful Communion during this Holy Season, besides our Easter Communion.

5. To keep before us the image of Jesus crucified; to remember that He died for us, and that He says to each, as a return for such love,

MY CHILD, GIVE ME THINE HEART.

THE PASTOR.

The Pastoral Office is an intrinsic part of the function of the Priesthood. The name and the conception are taken from the common Eastern spectacle of the shepherd tending a flock of sheep. There is no animal so requiring human care for its protection and development as the sheep. So they are arranged in flocks, each of which has its shepherd, who goes before it, whose voice they know, and whom they follow, who leads them where there are good pastures, waters them, defends them from wild beasts that prey upon them, puts them in fold, watches over them by day and by night, carries the young, tends to the sick and weakly. This is the simile by which our Lord and His Apostles describe the relation which should exist between the clergy and their people.

It is not simply the duty of the Priesthood to administer the Sacraments, to celebrate the Divine Offices, or to preach the Word—they should sustain this relationship of personal leadership of the company of Christians; they are to be themselves examples, models of what true Christians should be; they are to watch over, defend, befriend, counsel, comfort and support those who have been entrusted to their care, as they may have occasion. They must begin with the young, must feed the lambs of the fold, see that children are brought to baptism and that they are taught the principles of the Christian faith. Though parents and sponsors should teach their children, still the clergy must see that they are taught, and give them that technical instruction they only are qualified to give.

So they are to prepare and present children for Confirmation and their first Communion, and then ever after follow them up to see that they are leading Christian lives and performing their religious duties; and they should reprove, rebuke and exhort those who are not doing so. They should personally minister, and carry the consolations of religion, to the sick and the dying, comfort the afflicted, support and guide those in troubles and difficulties.

In every life questions arise as to duty and what is right to do under certain circumstances, and men need the wisdom and discretion of one trained to decide such questions. So there are those who fall and wander away altogether from the right way, whom the good Pastor should go after and plead and expostulate with, that, if possible, he may reclaim them.

Such is this Office, such its necessity and value. But it is most difficult to perform, because first, it depends for its success not upon its official commission or the possession of a single aptitude, as that for preaching, but requires faithful, loving, self-sacrificing, patient, tender, wise, tactful qualities. Secondly, it necessitates personal knowledge of, and intercourse with, the members of the flock, which is difficult on account of the shyness and inaccessibility of many persons, and their absorption in worldly pursuits. It requires constant visiting which involves time and labor, and the difficulty of finding people, and at leisure. Thirdly, it is rendered difficult from the inappreciation of the value of spiritual things or the need of this Office, from people's reticence in speaking about spiritual things, and from their confidence in their own judgment and righteousness, and again from persons constantly removing from one parish to another, or neglecting all church relationship.

The ideal of the Church is that every soul in Christendom should have the advantages of this Office. All the territory of every Christian State should be divided into Dioceses over which Bishops are set as the Chief Shepherds of the flock. And each Diocese should be sub-divided into parishes, in which each Bishop is to see that there are sufficient Priests to look after every soul therein. If this could be carried out, how would it not only provide for the spiritual guidance and assistance of all, but how would it solve those social and economic questions which we find now so difficult of solution.

And why can it not be carried out? Solely on account of the divisions among Christians, all are not willing to have the same Pastor, and this so weakens the church that a sufficient number cannot be provided for all the different kinds of Christians. So multitudes go uncared for. The clergy can only regard as their parishioners those who voluntarily come to them, make themselves known and desire their Offices. Yet is it not most valuable for all to have some one to stand in this relation to them, to take an interest in them, to whom they can go in doubt or difficulty, who will be a friend to them?

The clergy are willing and bound to perform this Office, though of course imperfectly and with varying ability. It is for the laity to see to it that they avail themselves of it, that they always belong to some parish, are known to some one who regards himself as their Pastor, and that they make it at least easy for him to minister to them. Do not put the burden of approaching all on one side. Do not hesitate to apply for his Offices when you need them; and yet at the same time do not be too exacting or expect too much. Remember he has duties to others beside you, and that he is weak and fallible, he cannot know your wants and troubles by intuition. You must go to him and seek his help.

But if a Priest has any idea of his duty, and you seriously seek to benefit by the Offices he is ready to perform for you, you will find this relationship in which you can stand to your parish Priest, one of the most endearing and useful, connected, with the Christian Ministry.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Nine books for the parish library, seven books for Sunday School, magazines and papers, two pieces of flannel for benevolent work, two pieces of muslin, four cottas for servers, same embroidered. Three old cottas were presented to a mission church in Central Pennsylvania.

MISSIONARY BOX.—Our ladies completed last month a very nice missionary box valued at $140. It contained all the clergyman had asked for, including a clerical suit and some valuable books.

The following letter of acknowledgement has been received.

Pittsburg, Kansas,
Feb. 21, 1894.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

The well-stored box for the comfort of myself and family from your auxiliary came to-day.

I can hardly tell you how much we enjoyed opening it and taking the things out one after the other, and how much we thank all the ladies who have aided in making it up. The children were delighted with all that was for them personally. Mary was pleased with her doll. She says, "tell the ladies I am glad to have the games and doll."

I thank you for the books for my use. I had nothing like them and they will be very useful to me, and I am certainly grateful for the articles of clothing for me. They will all be of service to me. The suit of fine goods will last me for several years.

The box will assist in clothing my family for a long time, and for the goodly number of articles not clothing we heartily thank you.

Very sincerely yours,
Hudson Sawyer.

THE NEW HYMNAL.—Our appeal for money to provide the choir with copies of the New Hymnal having been responded to by some members of the congregation, they will now be purchased, and alone used in the church. The numbers placed on the hymn boards will be taken from this book. We are sure the congregation will find it a great improvement over the old one.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The subject of the course of sermons on the Christian Ministry to be delivered on the morning of the second Sunday of the month, the 11th, will be, "the Rector," and of that on social subjects to be delivered on the evening of the same day will be, "Amusements."

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—Our extra services for the Passion tide will be as formerly: the procession of Palms before the second Celebration on Palm Sunday, and two Celebrations each day in Holy Week except Good Friday, when there will be after Morning Prayer and Litany at 11 A. M., the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. There will be also a sermon on the Passion each night in Holy Week at 8 P. M. And on Easter Day, Celebrations at 6.30 and 7.30 A. M. as well as at mid-day, and the Children's Special Service at 2.30.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir will repeat on Easter the music so successfully given on Christmas, namely: Gounod's S. Cecilia Communion Service, entire, and Calkins' Festival B flat Te Deum.

There is no service so beautiful as the S. Cecilia, and none more suited to a perfectly organized boy choir, like ours.

On Easter afternoon the music will all be new. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis will be Tours' in B flat. This service was composed by Dr. Tours for the festival of the choirs of London in 1889, and is of unusual brilliancy and beauty. Both the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis contain solo, trio and quartette work, that is certain to show the resources of our choir to their best advantage.

The Anthem will be Arthur Sullivan's "I will Mention the Loving Kindness of the Lord;" it is oratorical in style, containing arias and recitative for the tenor, and concerted, chorus and chorale work. It is the favorite Easter Anthem in England to-day.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—The Finance Committee of the Vestry have been considering the needs of the church, and find that we shall require about $1500, in addition to the ordinary offerings, to meet our expenses up to May 1st, the end of our financial year. For this we must look to the Easter offering.

The congregation must remember that the Christmas offering was not as large as it should have been, and that we have been carrying a deficit of some $200, on from previous years. This makes the necessity of a specially large offering this Easter.

Will not each member of the congregation make an effort to give as largely as he or she can, that we may be enabled to make our ends meet by May 1st, and go on without a miserable indebtedness carried on from year to year. We are doing here the splendid work of a free church, but that it may be successful, the members of the congregation must be conscientious in giving liberally to its support. Do not take advantage of its being left to yourself to determine what amount you shall give, to make it small and niggardly, out of proportion to your means. Let each feel his responsibility of doing his share to the extent of his means.

BENEVOLENT CONTRIBUTIONS.—The Rector recently made an appeal to the congregation, to use more fully the envelope system, which has been adopted by the Vestry as the regular means for the support of the church, no matter how small the weekly contribution may be. And this includes the return of the various special envelopes for benevolent purposes which are sent out each quarter. The church must have money for its work among the poor, the carrying on of its schools, and for missions, and if every member of the congregation would make a special offering once a quarter for one of these purposes, the money would be forthcoming. We beg our people to be conscientious in this as well as in making and fulfilling their pledge for the support of the church. $36 are still needed this quarter for Diocesan Missions.

OUR WORK.—A person who comes to church but once a week of a Sunday morning and never at any other time, sees and knows but little of what is going on in the church. He does not realize what the attendance at the other services on Sunday is, the twenty to fifty people present at the early Communion, the hundred to one hundred and twenty-five children with their teachers at the Children's Service at 2.30 P. M., and the about equally good congregations we have in the afternoon and in the evening. Then there are the Sunday School and Bible Classes, occupying all the rooms in the parish building, including the choir room and extending even into the church, where one class has to meet. So much for the Sunday work.

Then there are the daily prayers every morning and evening, with second evening service on Wednesdays and an early service every Holy Day. In addition to which there is something going on every evening in the week but Saturday. On Monday a boys' Guild with an attendance of about forty exercising in the School room, or having their service in the church, and business meeting in the Guild room. On two Tuesdays in the month, the girls' Guild of about thirty members having their business meeting or Delsarte exercise, and on another Tuesday, the meeting of the Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, composed of some fifteen of the more earnest workers of the parish, consulting how they may advance its interests. On Wednesday after the Church Service, the rehearsal of the Singing Guild is held, and the parish library is open. On Thursdays during Lent, one room in the parish building is filled with some thirty members of S. Mary's Guild, and the female Bible Class sewing for the Sheltering Arms, and in another room a Confirmation Instruction is being given by the Assistant Minister to a class of twelve or fifteen. On Friday evenings the Mothers' Meeting is going on, over twenty women receiving and returning work for which they are paid, or sitting down once a month to a very bounteous tea, provided for them by the ladies having it in charge. While the general choir practice is held in the church or school room, two other practices being held on other evenings. Then on Monday afternoons is the Rector's Confirmation Instruction. On Thursday mornings the Embroidery Class meeting, and in the afternoon the Ladies' Aid. On Friday morning the ladies of the Mothers' Meeting are preparing their work for the evening, and on Saturday mornings we have the boys and girls of the Industrial School, about 150, attending the ten o'clock service and receiving an instruction from the Rector, and afterwards until a quarter of twelve, filling each of the rooms in the parish building, and the entry in addition, with their various classes in sewing, drawing, painting, wood carving, etc. This is the regular routine of work at this time of the year. Then we have extra meetings, entertainments and festivals, with the necessary rehearsals, preparations, etc.

We mention these things in order that the members of the congregation, who do not see it for themselves, may get some idea of what is being done in the parish, the way in which we try to utilize the plant we have, and that they may feel their responsibility in aiding and supporting the work.

We want them also to feel that if the plant could be enlarged, the work could be further enlarged.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—The winter exhibition of athletics was given by S. John's Guild, on the evening of Monday, February 5th. The hall was comfortably filled, and the audience was a most appreciative one.

The running high jump was won by Samuel Alcorn at 4 ft. 7 in. The 15 yds. dash by David Patchell. The race on all fours by Harvey Hindermeyer. The bar-vault by Hindermeyer. The dumb-bell race by David Patchell. The Indian-club race by Robert Stewart. The sack race, in which the prize was a huge decorated cake, donated by Miss Gilpin, was won by Harvey Hindermeyer.

During the evening, John Dotterer gave an exhibition of high kicking, and Charles Moore twisted himself into almost impossible positions, giving a wonderful exhibition of contortionism.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The meetings for sewing of the members of this Guild, and the Ladies' Bible Class on Thursday evenings during Lent, have been very well attended. The sewing is for the Sheltering Arms. One or more of the ladies in charge reads or talks while the sewing is going on, and earlier in the evening a tea is provided for those living at a distance, to save their having to go home and return.

THE RECTOR.

The Office of the Priest not only includes the celebration and administration of the Sacraments and Divine Offices, and the acting as a Pastor, but he has also the care and government of the parish. The term Rector means ruler. So the word Parson, by which he is sometimes described, comes from the Latin word persona signifying the Person, he who is the head and representative of the parish.

The Bishop is, of course, the supreme ruler and source of authority, but as he cannot look after all the details of every portion of his diocese, he divides it up into parishes, over each of which he places a priest, giving him the charge and government of it under himself. The laity, by building, endowing or supporting a church, acquire the natural right of presenting or nominating the one who is to fill the benefice—as it is called,—but the Bishop alone can institute the person thus nominated and give him the authority to execute the Office.

The Rector, therefore, under the Bishop, is the head or governor of the parish, as such he has control of the church and other buildings belonging to the parish. When he is instituted, the key of the church is presented to him, in token of this right; he can say when the church is to be opened and what services, and of what kind, are to be held in it. So he has the direction as to the furniture and ornaments of the church, especially of the chancel. He appoints the persons to officiate or assist in the services, and directs what they are to do. He appoints the persons who are to conduct the music of the Church, and prescribes what they are to sing and what shall be the character of the music. So he has the control of all the schools connected with the parish, appoints their officers and teachers, prescribes their courses and methods of study. So he has the organization and oversight of all the benevolent and charitable societies connected with the parish, decides how they are to be constituted, for what purposes and by what methods they are to work. He has to select the persons who are to have charge of all the different departments of work, and he supervises them and sees that the work is done, and well done. And as we have to depend generally upon volunteers, it is often very difficult to secure the right persons for these various positions, or even any who will undertake them. And as they are persons of widely different characters and temperaments, it is no less difficult to secure their working together amicably and harmoniously. It is to the Rector that all complaints and differences are brought, and he has to decide and adjust them, and secure things moving along smoothly and successfully. So he has to obtain the funds needed to carry on all these works and see that they are properly expended.

In this country he has indeed largely to bear the financial burden of the whole parish. In England where the Churches are generally free from debt and endowed, the Rector has the free hold, his own income is provided for, and all expenses of the parish raised by rates, etc. But here the clergy often have to collect the funds to build churches or remove debts or make improvements. It is indeed the duty of the Vestry to attend to the finances of the Church, yet the Rector knows that their success ultimately depends upon him. If he is popular, and his administration successful, the pews are rented or the offertories are large. But if he is not successful, the money does not come in and the church cannot be maintained. This constitutes a great strain upon the clergy to which they should not be subjected, and which prevents their attention to their purely spiritual work.

In addition to this government of his parish, the beneficed clergy have duties in the diocese at large; they have to assist the Bishop in his plans and instrumentalities for carrying on his work, to serve as general Diocesan Officers, and on Boards, Committees, etc., requiring often a great deal of time and labor.

Such are the duties of a parish priest in addition to his merely spiritual functions, duties which require a great deal of administrative ability and tact, as well as involving constant anxiety and work. They ought to be understood, in order that his rightful position and authority may be recognized, his hands upheld, and that he should be furnished with the means needed to carry on his work.

They who think that a clergyman's duties consist simply of conducting a couple of services, and preparing one or two sermons a week, and making a few pleasant visits, have very little conception of the constant burden that is resting upon him, of successfully managing, providing for and carrying on a parish in all its various departments, a burden which is ever increasing with the natural increase of our population, and the complications of our modern social life and the effort of the Church to meet them. The clergy have not only to be Priests and Preachers and Pastors, but business men and disciplinarians as well.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Forty copies of Hutchins' New Musical Hymnal for the choir, fair linen cloth with elaborate open work ends and hemmed stitched, several dozen Bermuda lilies and other flowers for Easter, and cakes for Festival of the Industrial School.

St. John's Guild has purchased a very fine 'Buck' for the gymnasium.

MISSIONARY WORK—The Ladies' Aid, and the members of S. Mary's Guild, and the Ladies' Bible Class, made up during Lent, a very large and substantial box of children's dresses and other clothing for the Sheltering Arms.

The Ladies' Aid also collected enough second-hand clothes, to make up a good size box for the French Mission in this city.

One of the Sunday School Classes made up 57 garments for the Italian Mission.

The Embroidery Class made and presented to the Church at Mechanicsburg, in the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, a handsome white silk super frontal for Altar with corresponding hangings for lectern and litany desk, all embroidered in colors. Also a linen corporal embroidered. The Rev. James M. Blackwell, who went into the Ministry from our parish, is in charge of this church. The Rector has received a letter from him acknowledging their receipt, in which he thanks the ladies of the Guild for taking so much interest in his Mission, and says the articles "far exceeded his expectation, made a beautiful effect, and were greatly admired by every one."

LENT AND HOLY WEEK.—The services during Lent and Holy Week were especially well attended this year. We were particularly pleased at the attendance at the early daily Celebrations during Holy Week. There was also a goodly number present at the sermons each night during that week and during the three hours on Good Friday. The Rector preached the latter, and the Rev. Mr. Halsey, of Roxborough, on the night of Good Friday. We trust they will have the effect of increasing the devotional life of those who attended them.

EASTER DAY.—The attendance on both Palm Sunday and Easter taxed the seating capacity of the church, and the services were certainly very attractive on both occasions. The music on Easter Day was very fine, it being universally admitted that the choir sang better than it did on Christmas. The number of Communicants was 366, of which only 74 were in the middle of the day, and the whole number was over forty more than last year. Nothing pleases us more than the steady increase in the number of our Communicants.

OUR MUSIC.—The choir in its entirety was used on Easter and Low Sunday, as also on Palm Sunday; there were twenty-six sopranos and altos, eight tenors and eight basses.

As is well known, our festival services are rendered without any assistance from female voices, and the even balance of the voices is invariable remarked upon by critics. This is, in a large measure, due to the excellence of the altos.

An English lady of musical prominence, attended our service on the afternoon of February 25th, and pronounced the music, the best she had heard in America. Coming from such an authority, we have every reason to be proud of this compliment.

Owing to the various drains on our parishioners this year, we did not employ orchestral instruments on Easter. Indeed, most of the congregation expressed the belief that the music was better than ever before, owing to the absence of accompaniment other than the organ. The shading and precision of the choir is certainly better brought out.

OFFERINGS.—The Easter offerings amount to about $825. This is more than we received last Easter, and over $200 more than the Christmas offering. Still it is not all we need to meet our current expenses for the financial year which ends with this month. We need seven hundred dollars more, in addition to the ordinary offerings for the month. How is this to be made up? It is ruinous to go on carrying it forward from year to year, even if we are able to borrow it. We noticed in the offerings on Easter Day that while there were a great many one dollar, five dollar and even ten dollar offerings, and one of twenty dollars, and one of twenty-five dollars, there were only four offerings over those amounts. Now are there not more than four persons in our congregation who are able to make an offering of over $25, once or twice a year to their parish church, to enable it to meet its absolutely necessary obligations? We beg every member of our congregation conscientiously to ask themselves, whether they are giving as much for the support of the church, as they would have to give if the pews were rented. Of course, those who are attending here who could not afford to rent a pew in any church, are welcome to our services freely or for whatever they can afford to give. But those who can contribute to the support of the church ought to do so. And it ought not to be necessary for us, or for the clergy, to be making constant and piteous appeals for money. There is nothing we dislike more to do, and it should not be necessary. Our people should give spontaneously and liberally. We hope the money required will be forthcoming this month. We also still need $12.20 to make up our assessment of $75, for Diocesan Mission, and $34 for the Sustentation Fund. Will not those who have not yet returned their envelopes for Diocesan Missions, do so in sums sufficient to cover the above amounts?

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the election held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were elected to serve for three years: Mr. Francis S. Keese, Mr. Thomas Robb, Mr. David Jayne Bullock, and Mr. E. W. Greenough.

We regret very much that Mr. William H. Cope declined a re-election to the Vestry this year. This was owing to his removal from the city. Mr. Cope has been connected with the parish since 1882, and has been one of the most active and useful members we have had. He has served continuously on the Vestry since that date, during the larger part of which he has been Secretary of the Vestry. He rendered most important services during the building of our new church, and has been Chairman for a number of years of the Committee on Buildings. For a long time he sang in our choir and frequently assisted the Rector as a lay reader. In addition to this, he has been the business manager of this paper since the beginning of 1889, and has so successfully conducted it, that we have been able to do, what very few parish papers can do, make our ends meet year after year. Our warmest thanks are due to Mr. Cope for all these services, and it is with the deepest regret that we part with him. Our best wishes accompany him to the parish to which he has removed, Christ Church, Media, Pa.

Mr. E. W. Greenough has been elected in Mr. Cope's place on the Vestry. Mr. Francis S. Keese takes his place as Secretary of the Vestry, and Mr. John H. Mason as the business manager of this paper. Mr. Mason's address is 611 Chestnut St., where all communications may be addressed, and subscriptions paid.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The sermon in the course on the Christian Ministry this month, will be preached by the Rector on the morning of the second Sunday, April 8th, on "The Deacon," and that in the course on social subjects on the evening of the third Sunday, April 15th, on "The State."

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—The sessions of the School closed with the annual festival on Saturday, March 31st. It consisted of the distribution of the prizes, and Easter eggs and cards in the church, and the consumption of ice cream and cake, and a fish pond in the school room. The festival was well arranged and much appreciated by the children.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—As Ascension Day occurs so early this year, the first Thursday in May, which will be before our next issue is out, we now remind our readers that we shall follow the order of previous years, viz: two Celebrations of the Holy Communion on the morning of Ascension Day, with Choral Service and Anniversary Sermon at night. The annual Guild Service on the evening of the Sunday after the Ascension with a Special Sermon, and the Parish Tea on Monday evening, May 7th.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—A "clipping party" will be held under the united auspices of S. John's and S. Mary's Guilds, in the parish building, on the evenings of April 16th and 17th. And a concert will be given on the evening of April 30th, by the members of our Glee Club, assisted by Mr. Jos. C. Williams, Miss Bernard and Miss Chyne under the direction of Mr. Edwin S. Gault. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the fund for the enlargement of the parish building. Tickets 25 and 50 cents, to be had from the Sexton.

THE BISHOP'S FUND.

The following Report of the Committee on Increase of the Bishop's Fund was read at the last Diocesan Convention:

"The Committee is unanimously of opinion that this Fund needs only to be more widely known to secure for it larger contributions, and it is clearly the duty of the Convention to make it known to the Church.

The matter cannot be better stated by us than it was stated by the Bishop himself, in his address to the Convention, in 1891, as follows:

'What the Communion Alms are to the Rector of a Parish, the Bishop's Fund is to him; and when it is considered how large is his constituency, an adequate idea may be obtained of the opportunities which come to his knowledge and appeal to his sympathies where, with a little money, he can change discouragement into hope, and loneliness into a sense of brotherhood in Christ.'"

The Convention heard from the Bishop on Tuesday that he received 2000 visits in the course of the year. While it is no doubt true that the large majority of these visits pertain to the current affairs of the Diocese, we cannot doubt but that a very considerable number of them must be on sad business. It is a well-known fact that those who most need help are generally least likely to apply for it. Every Rector knows plenty of such cases; how many more, then, must come under the notice of the Chief Pastor of the Diocese! It is the custom of many Parishes to put at the disposal of the Rector a discretionary fund, to be used by him as he sees fit. It is clearly the duty of the Diocese to put into the Bishop's hands a considerable sum of money to be used in like manner. The Committee therefore recommends the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That a copy of so much of the Bishop's Address as refers to the Bishop's Fund be sent to all the Rectors of Parishes in the Diocese, with the request that they will bring the subject to the attention of their respective congregations, in such manner as they may deem proper.

On motion, the resolution recommended by the Committee was adopted.

Work of the Clergy—Truth and Not Satire.

Some one describes the duties of the modern parish priest after the following almost comical manner: "The parson now-a-days is expected to visit the sick like a doctor and the well like an industrial insurance collector, to counsel like a lawyer, to talk like a public lecturer, to study like a professor, to pray like a Monk, to financier like a bank cashier, to play at being editor, and last but not least, attend and direct about half a dozen lodge meetings each week technically called Guilds."

THE DEACON.

The Diaconate is the third great Order in the Christian Ministry. It is a distinct Order, because its functions and powers are different from those of the others. It was instituted not by our Lord Himself, but by His Apostles, which shows the plenitude of power with which the Church had been endowed. Experience had shown its necessity. From the account of its institution, given in the Acts of the Apostles, we learn that a dispute having arisen in the Christian Community, in regard to the distribution of alms among those of different nationalities, the Apostles determined that special officers should be appointed to attend to this work, that they might not be hindered in the discharge of their more important functions as Apostles. So seven godly and well reputed men were duly elected for the purpose, and solemnly ordained by the Apostles.

It is evident from the history, that their duties were not confined to superintending the benevolent work of the Church, but that they acted as general assistants to the Apostles and Presbyters. Thus, when SS. Paul and Barnabas went on their first missionary journey, they had with them John Mark, "to their Minister" or assistant. And afterwards, when they separated, they each took with them an attendant. So they are constantly spoken of in the New Testament as a distinct Order of the Ministry, and so it has always continued in the Church.

The functions of the Deacon are, first, to assist the Priest in the celebration of the Holy Communion. He arranges everything for the celebration, and when it begins, brings the alms of the people and the sacred vessels and elements to the Priest to be consecrated, and after the consecration, he assists the Priest in the administration, communicating the laity with the chalice. Formerly both the elements were entrusted to the Deacons to carry to the sick in their homes. And in the age before books were used, the Deacons gave the various directions needed in the service, and arranged the worshippers in their places. Secondly, he assists in the other offices of the Church, which do not involve priestly functions. Thus he can say Morning and Evening Prayer, but he cannot pronounce the Absolution or Benediction. Thirdly, though it does not pertain to the office of the Deacon in itself to preach, yet he may be specially licensed thereto by the Bishop, and it is his duty to instruct and catichise the young. Fourthly, he looks after the poor and needy, and aids the Priest in the details of the general working of the parish.

Thus though he cannot have the sole charge of the parish itself, his aid is indispensable, especially if the parish be a large one, to the Priest who has the charge.

The office of a Deacon may be held for life, or after one has served in it a time, according to our Canons, at least a year, he may be advanced to the Priesthood. As this advancement, however, almost always takes place, and the period of the Diaconate is so short, it is often said that though this is theoretically an office in the Church, yet practically, we have no Deacons, and the actual number in our dioceses is very small. But it must be remembered that we have a large number of persons who, though they are in Priests' Orders, are discharging the duties of the Deacon, by acting as assistants to Rectors of parishes. One in a higher office can always discharge the duties of a lower office. Thus when one Priest assists another in the celebration of the Holy Communion he is called the Deacon of the Mass. So in large parishes it is convenient to have Priests as assistants, that there may be more frequent celebrations of the Holy Communion, and the performance of other priestly functions, but at the same time they do the work of the Deacon. And there should be at least one such in every Church, and in large parishes, a number, so that the people may be looked after, many services maintained and charitable and educational works carried on.

And a great deal of the weakness and inefficiency of our Churches is due to the fact that they are not provided with these officers. One clergyman is expected to do, single handed, the work which could only be properly done by several, working together under one head.

There is no system so perfect and effective as that of the historic Christian Ministry, if properly carried out.

An Archdeacon is one who acts as an assistant to the Bishop, as the Deacon is the assistant to the Priest, though he is always in Priests' Orders, because he has, under the Bishop, the supervision of the Priests of the Diocese, as well as the Deacons.

He is called the Bishop's eyes, he investigates abuses, holds visitations, and can superintend any particular department of work, though he cannot perform any Episcopal function.

MISSIONARY WORK.—The following letter has been received in acknowledgement of the box sent to the French Mission :

Parish Building,
22d and Delancey Place.

Dear Mrs. Nicholson.

Allow me to thank you, as well as the ladies of the Ascension, for the nice box of most useful clothing received a few days before Easter. I will take pleasure in distributing the articles among the poor people whom I know to be the most deserving, and I feel sure that many mothers and children will be made happy by those dear little dresses and the nice shoes. The man's suit we gave yesterday to an old man, who fully appreciated it. Again thanking you in the name of our little church, I am,

Faithfully yours,
Julia Percy Miel.

A card was also received acknowledging the receipt of the box sent to the Sheltering Arms.

CONFIRMATION--Our annual Confirmation took place on the evening of April 4th, twenty-eight being confirmed. It was a class in which the proportion of grown persons was unusually large. Still, there are many other grown people in the parish, to say nothing of younger ones, who should have been in it, but were not.

DEFICIT.—In spite of the frequent appeals of the Rector and our statements in this paper, we find ourselves, at the end of our financial year, with a deficit in our current expense account of some $800. This has been due to the hard times, and especially to the fact that several persons who have been contributing handsomely heretofore, have not been able to do as much this year. This sum also includes $200 brought over from the previous year. We do not know what the Vestry will do about this, but we think it ought to be made up, as it will not do to allow such deficiencies to accumulate. And we certainly cannot cut down our expenditures without crippling our work. On the contrary, they ought to be increased. If we could only get rid of our mortgage debt, we would be in a much better condition.

THE LADIES' AID has closed its meetings for the winter. It has done a good deal of work in making and repairing cassocks, etc., in executing orders, and in work for the Sheltering Arms and French Mission.

DEATH OF MR. SINNICKSON.—One of our oldest Vestrymen, Mr. Thomas Sinnickson, died very suddenly on the morning of April 23d. He had been connected with the parish since April, 1881, and though he seldom attended of late years, any service but the early Communion, he was never absent from that a single Sunday, summer or winter, unless when he was away from the city or sick. The day before his death was only the second Sunday he had missed this winter. He was also faithful in his attendance at Vestry meetings. In his earlier life he had taken an active part in church matters, singing in a church choir, etc. His funeral took place in S. John's Church, Salem, N. J., the interment being in the adjoining church yard, the Rectors of the Ascension and S. John's Church officiating, Salem having been his home for many years. He was 75 years of age. R. I. P.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The last sermon of the course on the Christian Ministry will be preached by the Rector on the morning of Sunday, May 6th, the subject being "The Minor Orders."

The annual Guild service will take place on the evening of that day, the sermon being preached by the Rev. Mr. Blanchard, Rector of S. James' Church. The members of the different parish Guilds will assemble in the parish building and enter the church in procession.

The sermon in the course on social subjects will be preached on the evening of Whit-Sunday, the 13th, the topic being "The Church and Society."

PARISH TEA.—Our annual Parish Tea will take place, not as announced in our last issue, on Monday, the 7th, but on Thursday, the 10th, being the octave of the Ascension, so as not to interfere with the regular meeting night of S. John's Guild. We hope to see all our parishioners present on that occasion, and we specially hope that those who have lately come into the parish, will give us this opportuneity of introducing them to our older members. Tickets may be had from the Sexton.

THE CLIPPING PARTY AND CONCERT given last month, by the members of S. John's Guild, both proved successes. The former extended over two nights, and realized some $40. This is to be used in fitting out the base ball team for the season. The proceeds of the concert go towards the fund we are trying to accumulate for the enlargement of the parish building. The success of the concert was largely due to the efforts of Mr. Edwin S. Gault, a member of our choir, in training and directing the singers. Our thanks are due to him, and to the talent outside of the parish, who kindly contributed their services.

THE BASE BALL CLUB of the Guild has been organized as follows: Catcher, Hazlitt; Pitchers, Picherd and Van Lear; 1st Base, Picherd and Van Lear; 2d Base, Van Lear; 3d Base, Calhoun; Short Stop, Glass; Left Field, Harris, Sylvester; Right Field, Hindermeyer and McConaghy.

They have taken part so far in the following games in each of which they were victorious: Clover A. A., 7; Ascension, 22: Sigma Chi Alpha, 2; Ascension, 5: Picked Nine, 11; Ascension, 17.

On the evening of May 21st, another exhibition of indoor sports will be given in the parish building.

THE RECORD of our offerings this month contains a number of offerings which have extended over the whole year, as those for the different departments of Missions which have been collected by the members of the Women's Auxiliary, and part of those for the poor, and for the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild. The latter amount includes the expenditure for the washing of the surplices of the clergy and choir, and the altar linen, and providing the flowers for the altar throughout the year. Many members of the congregation contribute a small sum towards this weekly.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Will not all the members of the parish aid the management of this paper by subscribing to it, or securing some additional advertisements? The following subscriptions were received last month :

Mr. Thomas Robb	Mr. D. J. Bullock
Miss Miles	Mrs. Minshall
Mrs. Diehl	Mrs. Barrett
Mr. Jno. Barton	Mrs. Brown

Mrs. Thos. S. Parvin

PRAYER BOOKS.

The Rector has received the following appeal which he brings before the congregation in this way, as we cannot have a special offering for the purpose.

To the Reverend G. W. Hodge.

Dear Sir: At a recent meeting of the Trustees of the "Prayer Book Distribution Society," held in New York, a series of resolutions was adopted urging upon the clergy and laity of the Church renewed efforts for "putting the Prayer Book into the hands of all people who are strangers to it."

To this was added the suggestion that the clergy throughout the country should, on the coming Whitsunday, "take offerings in their congregations to aid in Prayer Book distribution."

The Managers of the BISHOP WHITE PRAYER BOOK SOCIETY deem it a duty as well as a pleasure cordially to second this proposal of the new Society established by the General Convention. They have directed their Executive Committee to make the appeal which they now address to the Rectors of the Parishes of this Diocese, asking that on Whitsunday, if possible, a collection may be made in aid of the funds of the Society. If other arrangements should make this time unsuitable, it is earnestly requested that the Society may hope to have some day assigned for an annual collection in every Parish. Or, in cases where even this is impossible or very inconvenient, the Board will feel greatly obliged to Rectors who will urge their people to become Annual Subscribers to the amount of Five dollars, and thus partake themselves in the management of the Society.

During the year ending the 1st of April we have distributed more than 12,500 Prayer Books, a larger number than in any one year of our history.

We shall hope to double this number if our brethren of the Clergy heartily respond to this appeal.

Joseph D. Newlin,
James M. Aertsen,
Thos. H. Montgomery,
R. Francis Wood,
Jas. S. Biddle,
Executive Committee.

I cordially commend the foregoing appeal to the Clergy of the Diocese. In no other way can we so effectively disseminate sound Church teaching—than which there is no greater need at the present time—as by the distribution of the Prayer Book. The Bishop White Prayer Book Society is admirably managed, and will wisely use whatever is contributed to its treasury.

O. W. WHITAKER.
Philadelphia, Apr. 23, 1894.

Contributions may be sent to Mr. William B. Whitney, Treasurer, 137 South Second Street.

PRAYERS.

To be used daily in Ember-Week.

O LORD Jesus Christ, who at thy first coming didst send thy messenger to prepare thy way before thee; Grant that the ministers and stewards of thy mysteries may likewise so prepare and make ready thy way, by turning the hearts of the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, that at thy second coming to judge the world we may be found an acceptable people in thy sight, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Spirit, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

ALMIGHTY God, our heavenly Father, who hast purchased to thyself an Universal Church, by the precious blood of thy dear Son; Mercifully look upon the same, and at this time so guide and govern the minds of thy servants, the Bishops and Pastors of thy flock, that they may lay hands suddenly on no man, but faithfully and wisely make choice of fit persons, to serve in the sacred Ministry of thy Church. And, to those who shall be ordained to any holy function, give thy grace and heavenly benediction; that both by their life and doctrine they may show forth thy glory, and set forward the salvation of all men: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, by whose Spirit the whole body of the Church is governed and sanctified, Receive our supplications and prayers, which we offer before thee for all estates of men in thy holy Church, that every member of the same, in his vocation and ministry, may truly and godly serve thee; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Daily Prayer for the Parish.

Almighty and Everlasting God, Who dost govern all things in Heaven and earth: Mercifully hear our prayers, and grant to this Parish (and this Diocese) all things that are needful for its spiritual welfare; Schools in which to bring up the young in Thy Faith and fear: more Ministers to labor in this portion of Thy Vineyard: Churches perfected and maintained in the Beauty of Holiness: Endowments for all the necessary purposes of Religion: Strengthen and increase the faithful; visit and relieve the sick; comfort the afflicted; turn and soften the wicked; rouse the careless; recover the fallen; restore the penitent; remove all hindrances to the advancement of Thy Truth; and bring all to be of one heart and mind within the Fold of Thy Holy Church: to the honour and glory of Thy ever Blessed Name; through JESUS CHRIST OUR LORD. Amen.

THE MINOR ORDERS.

In addition to the three great Orders of the sacred ministry, of which we have been treating, Bishops, Priests and Deacons, to whom the government of the Church and the ministration of sacred things belongs, and whose whole lives and energies must be devoted to this service, there are other offices in the Church, which have been known as the Minor Orders, which occupy a subordinate position, and may be discharged by persons who are also more or less occupied with secular concerns.

The Scriptures speak of others beside those in the three great Orders who held offices, some permanent and some temporary, in the Church. Thus S. Paul in I. Cor. xii : 28, says : "God hath set some in the Church, first, Apostles ; secondarily, prophets ; thirdly, teachers ; after that miracles, then gifts of healing, helps, governments, diversity of tongues." And in the early Church we find these offices distinctly recognized and their duties prescribed. They were called sub-deacons, readers, singers, acolytes, exorcists, door-keepers, etc., each discharging subordinate but essential functions in the Church.

And they have always obtained since, though they have varied, in different parts of the Church, in number and the names by which they have been described. Thus in the Greek Church to-day there is nominally only one such Order, that of readers, though practically they have others. And in the Roman Church, since the twelfth century, the sub-deaconate has been reckoned as one of the Holy Orders.

In the English Church, since the Reformation, some of these offices have been exercised, though the name Minor Orders has not usually been applied to them. Thus in the Cathedral and Royal and College Chapels, there have always been the singers, who have been called "clerks," worn the clerical dress, the long coat or cassock, and surplice, and been seated in the chancel, leading the musical devotions of the people. And in both England and America, of late years, not only has this Order been largely revived and extended to parish churches, but we have had also our lay readers, who have assisted the clergy in conducting the worship of the Church, or conducted it entirely—except the essentially priestly functions—in their absence ; acolytes, who have served as attendants of the clergy at the Altar ; sacristans, who have had charge of the sacred vessels, vestments, etc. ; catechists, who have acted as teachers in our schools ; vergers, who have served as door-keepers, attended to the seating of the people, care of the church, etc. In some places those discharging these offices have been set apart with solemn services, even with a laying on of hands. Thus the present Bishop of London has in his diocese an Order of readers who are admitted to the reading of the Church service, and exhorting even, in missions and other places, by a solemn laying on of hands. This laying on of hands by the Bishop does not constitute ordination, any more than confirmation does. It was frequently used in the early Church, and a special Greek word, different from that used for ordination, was employed to describe it. As therefore we have these offices in the Church to-day, it were well if the term Minor Orders was used to describe them, and that admission to them should be by a solemn form, in order to impress upon those undertaking them, their obligations and importance, make them feel that they are actual officers in the Church.

And these Orders might be much further revived and extended among us. There has been a great deal of talk at times of our having a lay diaconate, but objections have been brought against it, that it would tend to lower the estimation in which the clergy are held. But if it was called a sub-diaconate, and not regarded as one of the Holy Orders, that objection would be obviated. So our recently instituted Brotherhood of S. Andrew is the practical setting our laymen to discharging the work of some of these offices, which might be more distinctly recognized and conferred.

The Church is God's great army for the carrying on of His work, fighting the powers of evil, strengthening and upbuilding His servants in holiness, and its organization should be made as extensive and perfect as possible. Each member of the Church should recognize his position as a member of that army and have a special duty and service assigned to him.

All the burden of the work of the Church should not be thrown upon the higher officers, but there should be these Minor Orders as well, who would be to the Church what the captains, lieutenants, sergeants, corporals, quartermasters, commissaries, paymasters, etc., are to an army, necessary to its efficiency and support.

The reason the Church is not more effective, is because its lay members are not alive as they should be to their calling and responsibility to serve it. They leave all the work to the clergy. But there is a place for each, and work for each, and all should feel the imperative duty, and high honor and privilege of serving, either in one of the Orders of the Sacred Ministry itself, or in one of these Minor Orders, which are so essential to its efficiency.

PARISH NOTES.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL was observed as usual this year. The number of Communicants at the early service on Ascension Day was good, but the attendance at the mid-day service was much interfered with by the fact that S. Mark's Church has chosen that day for a grand musical service, which we know attracted away a good many of our people. We wish very much we could afford to have a great service on that day, which should be the greatest day in the year for this parish. At the service at night, the attendance was good for a week day, and we had an unusually good attendance of Vestrymen, as the semi-annual Vestry meeting was held immediately after the service. The Rector preached his anniversary sermon, reading the annual report, which we publish in full in this issue, and commenting on it. He showed that the increase to the communicant list of the parish during the past year had been larger than that of any other except the first of his Rectorship, when large accessions were received from another parish. The receipts also have been larger than last year, in spite of the financial stringency, though we still have a deficit of $800 as we had at the beginning of the year.

The annual Guild service was only marred by the absence of the members of S. John's Guild, except the banner bearer and servers. The Rector subsequently received a letter of apology and explanation of this fact, which was due we understand, in measure at least, to misunderstanding on the part of some and lack of notice to others. We trust such a thing will not occur again as it put the Guild in a very bad light.

Our usual annual Parish Tea was a very pleasant occasion to all concerned. The ladies who prepared it were most generous in their contributions, and the provision for all present was lavish. The tables looked very prettily with their lighted candelabra and flowers. The latter were all wild flowers which had been picked and donated for the occasion by Miss Clifford Pemberton Newbold in the neighborhood of her father's house at Fox Chase. The members of S. Mary's Guild contributed to the occasion by an exhibition of the Delsarte practice they have been taking during the winter, their instructress, Miss Hayward, aiding by a recitation. The Rector made a speech welcoming those present, and urging them to united interest and work for the parish, pointing out the special principles for which it stood. Two other speakers whom he had invited were prevented from coming.

SUMMER SERVICES.—As usual with this month we change our Sunday services for the Summer by omitting the 4 and 7.45 P. M. services, and substituting the twilight service at 7.00 P. M. The daily and Wednesday evening services are also stopped, and prayers said only on Wednesdays and Fridays and Holy Days at 10 A. M. The Celebrations of the Holy Communion continue as usual on all Sundays and Holy Days. The children's service on Sunday afternoons during June and September will be at 3 P. M., followed by the Sunday School. Both it and the Sunday School will be discontinued during July and August.

THE CLERGY.—The Rector has removed with his family to Beverly, N. J., for the summer. The Assistant Minister will be in town during June and September. He expects to spend July and August in England. Either the Rector or Assistant can be found at the Church every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday, and Holy Day during the summer. In cases of emergency the Rector can be addressed as above.

OFFERINGS.—Persons expecting to be away during the summer are requested to put in the Offertory before they leave, the amount of their offerings for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, as only so can the Church meet its expenses during that period.

THE DEFICIT.—The Vestry have passed a resolution that the present deficit in our current account should be made up, and calling upon the women of the congregation to assist them in their efforts to do so. Responses from women of the congregation have been received so far amounting to $105. Are there others who will aid? And what will the men do?

THE DEATH OF MR. SINNICKSON.—At a meeting of the Vestry held May 3d, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Vestry has heard with great regret of the sudden death of Mr. Thomas Sinnickson, and places on record its appreciation of his personal worth, the purity and simplicity of his character, his devotion to the Church, and his fidelity in the discharge of his duties.

Resolved, That a copy of this minute be sent to the family of Mr. Sinnickson and published in THE ASCENSION NEWS.

Attest:
FRANCIS S. KEESE,
Secretary of the Vestry.

Mr. Stevenson Hockley Walsh, who has been attending the Church for some three years past, was elected a member of the Vestry in Mr. Sinnickson's place.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF HOSPITAL WORK.—

1604 Walnut St., May 29, '94.
My Dear Miss Mason:

I desire to thank you for the Children's Hospital, for your great kindness in having so much sewing done for the Hospital during the winter, by the women at the Church of the Ascension. It has been the greatest help to us and we are very grateful. Our store closets are fuller than they ever could have been without this help. I hope that another winter we may again co-operate.

Very truly yours,
F. F. CALDWELL.
Secretary Ladies' House Committee.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF BOX FOR THE SHELTERING ARMS.—

124 S. 19th Street.
My Dear Mrs. Carman:

I fear you merely had a formal acknowledgement of the most generous donation sent in March by the Ladies' Aid and St. Mary's Guild of the Church of the Ascension to the Sheltering Arms.

Will you thank them for me, and assure the ladies of the Aid and Guild that nothing could have been more welcome than the articles sent. Such garments for the babies are always needed, and the large number of white dresses was received with especial pleasure. We are always glad to have anyone interested in the Home visit it at any time and see to what good use their kind donations are put.

Yours truly,
R. S. INGERSOLL,
Chairman Committee on Donations.
May 4th.

OLD SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS.—In rearranging our Sunday School library this winter, 150 books were laid aside as being in too bad a condition to be used. Recently the Rector received an appeal for books or papers of any kind for a Mission Church in the South; in response we sent these books, the acknowledgement of which we publish, which shows how things can be utilized.

Hagood, S. C., June 3d, 1894.
Mr. Hodge,

Dear Sir :—I received the box of books in due time, and thank you very much for them.

They are such nice selections, and I am sure will be appreciated and enjoyed more than I can tell you, for I know from my own experience good books in a Sunday School sometimes do more for children than the text books, and there is nothing that helps more to build up a Sunday School than a good library, and you have given us such a generous beginning.

Our Church has the same name as yours, so you see how nicely the books will serve us. I must also thank you for the two church hymnals, which were so much needed. We shall always remember and appreciate your kindness.

And again thanking you, I remain, Very truly,
Ellen Ellerbe.

OUR PARISH.

The Church of the Ascension differs from most of the other Churches in our Diocese in several important particulars, and we want our people to understand and appreciate what those are:

First, it is a free Church, that is a Church in which none of the seats are sold or rented, in which any one who enters the Church at any service is at liberty, and has the right, to take any seat he chooses, that is not occupied at the time. A free Church does not mean one in which there is no need of contributing any thing to its support. Because all Churches have to be supported, and it is the duty of every one to give towards the support of the Church all he can. But it is one in which those who contribute to its support do not require as an equivalent that a special seat be reserved for them whether they are there or not, and that the best seat their money can buy. We hold that a Church ought to be free to every one whether he has much to give, or little, or nothing at all, that the Church's privileges should be given equally to all, and that persons should contribute towards the support of the Church, not in proportion to the accommodation afforded them, but in accordance with their ability to give. "He that hath much should give plenteously, and he that hath little should do his diligence gladly to give of that little."

This we consider a very important principle. We believe that one great reason so many people have become alienated from the Church, and seldom if ever attend its services, is because of the system of renting and selling pews, which has conveyed the idea that the Church is not for all men, but only for those who can afford the luxury of a pew. We believe that it has done much harm by introducing into the Church social distinctions, which have no place there, seating and grading people according to their wealth, and making Church-going a matter of fashion and display. We don't believe the Church can ever do its work of reaching and blessing all sorts and conditions of men, unless it throws its doors wide open and invites all without distinction and without price. And we are proud that our Church is one of the few, at least in the central portion of our city, that is conducted on this principle, and we want our people to be determined to make it a success.

Secondly, we go on the principle of having services at all hours to suit all people, and to enable the Church to do all the good it can. We think that it is very little use to make of a Church to have it open for services only once or twice a week.

And we know that it is not convenient for all persons to go to Church at one time. Some can go better in the early morning, some in the middle of the day, and some only in the afternoon or evening. So we have services on Sundays at all these hours, so as to give every one the opportunity of going to Church at least once every Sunday, and to reach all classes of people. This of course gives the clergy a great deal more work than if they had only the ordinary two services, but they are willing and glad to do it, if thereby they can make the Church more efficient in doing its blessed work.

Thirdly, we have services of different kinds, some are plainer and some more ornate, some musical and some with little or no music. This we do because we believe that the mode of conducting worship is largely a matter of taste and habit. Some prefer and are helped by plain services, and some like more ritualistic ones. So we have both, and each can attend the service he likes best. Ritual is not a thing to contend about, as so many people do. It is for edification, and as some are helped by more ritual and some by less, so in a large parish where there are people having different tastes, there should be different kinds of servioes to suit all.

Fourthly, we believe in this parish of carrying out the full provisions of the Prayer Book, of having all the services and affording all the privileges which that book intends. We believe it was our Lord's intention, as shown by His Words and actions, and those of His Apostles and the unvarying use of the whole Catholic Church, that the Holy Communion should be the great distinctive act of public worship with which every Lord's Day and Holy Day at the least should be hallowed. So we have Celebrations of the Holy Communion on every such day for which the Prayer Book makes a provision by appointing a special Collect, Epistle and Gospel. And we make it, as it should be, the chief service on those days, not treating ordinary morning prayer and a sermon as if they were of more importance. So too, through the greater portion of the year at least, we have the daily service, morning and evening, that the Church may teach the people the duty of daily worship, and make the fullest provision for it.

Fifthly, the Church is always left open for private prayer, that when any one is passing it he may enter and seek grace and help, and so the Church be used to the very fullest extent possible.

These are the principles which distinguish our parish, which we would like to see in all our parishes. But until they are so carried out in all, we think our people ought to feel that they have privileges here they do not generally find elsewhere, and that this ought to make them deeply attached to this parish, and resolved that they will try to profit by the advantages it gives them, that they will see that the Church has all that it needs for its support and carrying on, and that they will try and extend those characteristics to other parishes as they may have the opportunity of doing so.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two carpets, four dozen palm leaf fans, large quantity of magazines and pamphlets, a meat chopper.

SUMMER SERVICES.—We are sorry to say that our congregations during this summer have not been as large as usual. Whether this has been because we have not been advertising our services, or because it has been an unusually hot summer, we do not know. But we do know that there have been a good many of our people in the city all or most of the summer, who have not been coming to Church, or coming very seldom. How conscientious Christian people can thus neglect their religious duties for three or four months together we do not understand. And our congregation has less excuse than almost any other for staying away from Church on account of the heat, as we have two services at least every Sunday when it is always pleasant to go out, the 7.30 A.M. and 7.00 P.M. Still, in spite of the above fact, we suspect the attendance at our Church during the summer, has been better than that in most others.

SAINTS DAYS.—We are sorry also to note the neglect of the Holy Day Services. Some times during the summer there has not been a single person at the early service on Saints Days, except the sexton and caretaker. Now we should think that in all our congregation there would be some who would not only feel the duty, but value the privilege, of attending these services. As they are provided for out of the pockets of our clergy when one of them is away on his holiday, it would seem hardly worth while their doing so if they are not better appreciated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.--The Children's Service and Sunday School recommence with this month, and we hope all the children and the teachers who are in town will be in their places. The Assistant Minister will have charge of both of them as before, and continue the system which worked so well last winter.

DEATH OF A TEACHER.—We are very sorry to record the death of Miss Anna Holbrook, one of our most faithful and successful teachers, which occurred in July. She had not been in Church since Christmas Day, being sick in bed from a few days after that until her death. At one time it was thought she would recover, but she finally succumbed to her long illness, which she bore most patiently. Many of her class, which was composed of the choir boys, went constantly to her house to inquire about her, and several of them were present at her funeral. We shall miss her very much in the school. R. I. P.

OFFERTORIES.—Though our congregations have not been as large as usual this summer, our offertories have been larger. This has been due to the fact that more of our people use the envelopes than formerly, and that many paid up for the summer months before they went away.

CHURCH DEBT FUND.—We have been glad to notice among the envelopes, contributions now and then for the Church debt. Some give regularly every month a special offering for this purpose. If all would do this, a considerable amount of our indebtedness might be paid off every year. We shall speak more at length on this subject in our next issue.

WINTER SERVICES.—The full complement of our winter services begin next month, that is, the 4 P.M. and 7¾ P.M. Sunday services, and the daily and Wednesday night services. We shall depend as last winter for the music at the Sunday and Wednesday night services on the Singing Guild, and we hope all the old members will be on hand, and we shall be glad if others would join the Guild.

REMOVALS.—We have had an unusually large number of communicants leaving our parish this summer, owing to removal from this part of the city. We trust that others will be coming in to take their place. Do not our people know persons living in their neighborhood whom they could invite to come to the Church?

STAMPS.--Our accounting warden says: "I think it would be a good thing if people who write to me for information or who want receipts, would send a stamp for reply. The Church bills for postage amount to $10.00–$15.00 per annum, and the above requests alone amount to several dollars. The Church can ill afford to waste this money and I do not feel bound to spend it out of my own pocket. Some one recently sent me a postal card asking how much she would owe to Sept. 1st. It seems to me people, with even a slight education, can count the number of Sundays in July and August without danger of brain fever."

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—We are sorry to say we are behind hand in paying what we owe our printer. Will not all whose subscriptions are due make a point of paying them up?

Some Rules of Church Etiquette.

1. Never come late to church, but for a real necessity. Try to be there at least five minutes before service begins.

2. Enter quietly, and kneel for silent prayer before taking your seat. The Church is the palace of the Great King. Pay Him due reverence, as you come into His presence.

3. Do not look about, smile, or whisper, during any part of the service. The Lord is in His holy temple; keep silence before Him.

4. The members of a family should keep together as nearly as possible. Adult worshippers who have no children of their own, perform a deed of real piety and love when they take gentle charge of any little ones whose parents do not attend the Church.

5. Look out for strangers: make them welcome; give them good seats; see that they are provided with books; and, if need be, find the places for them. Brotherhood men are not to monopolize these acts of brotherly love and courtesy.

6. Respond audibly, saying or reading in distinct tones all that is apppointed for the people to say. It is Common Prayer. And sing, if you can, especially the hymns. The best service of song is congregational singing. Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord.

7. If the congregation does not fill the Church, let the vacant pews be those nearest the door. It is no compliment to the priest and preacher that the people remove far from him. Rather would the pastor see and feel his friends near and close about him.

8. Conform to all the postures—standing, kneeling, sitting — as printed in the rubrics, or practised by instructed and devout church people. It is good manners to follow the family customs where one is a guest. So high an authority in politeness and reverence as St. Paul, gives this rule of behavior in the Church: "Let all things be done decently and in order."

9. After the service, "depart in peace" and in quietness. Make the interchange of friendly greetings in few and whispered words. If more is to be said, choose the porch rather than the pew or aisle for saying it.—S. Mary's Chimes.

SHORT PRAYERS.

The following Short Prayers for daily use at Morning, Mid-day and Evening, are suggested for busy people and for children.

MORNING.

When awake, adore God saying:

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost: As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

When dressed, kneel and say:

✠ In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

AN ACT OF SELF-OBLATION.

My God, I offer thee to-day,
Whate'er I think and do and say:
Teach me, dear Lord, thy holy will,
Help me my duty to fulfill.

AN ACT OF FAITH.

O my God, I believe all the truths thy Holy Catholic Church doth teach, because thou hast revealed them and thy Word is true.

AN ACT OF HOPE.

O my God, I hope for the pardon of my sins, the help of thy grace and everlasting life, through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour.

AN ACT OF CHARITY.

O my God, I love thee above all things, with my whole heart and soul, because thou art infinitely perfect and good. And I love my neighbor as myself for the love of thee.

AN ACT OF CONTRITION.

O my God, I am heartily sorry for all my sins, because they have offended thee; and I firmly resolve, by the help of thy grace, to forsake them and to sin no more.

Our Father, etc.

✠ May the Cross of Christ defend me this day from all evil. Amen.

MID-DAY.

Remember that God was made Man for you, and say:

The Word was made Flesh and dwelt among us.

LET US PRAY.

We beseech thee, O Lord, pour thy grace into our hearts, that, as we have known the incarnation of thy Son Jesus Christ by the message of an Angel, so by his cross and passion we may be brought unto the glory of his resurrection; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

EVENING.

Before undressing, kneel and say:

✠ In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

AN ACT OF THANKSGIVING.

O my God, I thank thee for all the blessings thou hast sent me this day and through my whole life.

Make Self-Examination, asking yourself:

Have I missed my prayers to-day?
Have I stayed away from Church?
Have I disobeyed those over me?
Have I given way to any bad thoughts?
Have I said any bad words?
Have I done any bad deeds?
Have I left any duty undone?

AN ACT OF CONTRITION.

O my God, I am heartily sorry for all my sins, (especially———), because they have offended thee; and I firmly resolve by the help of thy grace, to forsake them and to sin no more.

O God, bless my father and mother, brothers and sisters (———), relations and friends (———), and thy holy Catholic Church and the Clergy; and to all the dead in Christ grant eternal rest and peace, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

OUR FATHER.

✠ Let thy holy Angels, O Lord, dwell in this house, to keep us in peace, and let thy blessing be always upon us. Amen.

Before sleeping, say:

Into thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit.

NOTE.—Let parents and others, when helping children to say their prayers, kneel and say the devotions with them.

OUR DEBT.

At the beginning of another winter we want to say a very serious word to our congregation in regard to our mortgage debt.

It now amounts to $23,000. There are only two other churches in this diocese which have a debt at all approaching this. One has a debt of $23,500, and the other one of $22,000; and in both cases their property is much more valuable than ours, and they are churches sustained by pew rents. We are suffering, therefore, under a greater burden in carrying on our church work, than any other church in the diocese. The amount we have to pay for interest every year is $1150. This has to come out of our weekly offerings, and of course diminishes by so much our ability to give to other objects. Practically it is taken from the amount which should go to the Rector and the Choir. For coal and gas, and other things needed to maintain the church, cost a certain definite amount, and have to be paid no matter what they cost. But the Rector's salary and what we expend on the music, depends on what is left over after other expenses are paid for. Now, is it fair to our Rector, thus practically to make him pay the interest on our mortgage? And if for any reason he left us, could we get the sort of man we ought to have for Rector for the sum our present Rector has been willing to receive? Can we feel that we have really built our church until it is all paid for? It cannot be consecrated until it is out of debt, for the ecclesiastical authorities rightly refuse to consider a church property as given to God while there is still danger of its being alienated through debt. And no church is in a prosperous or even safe condition which is burdened with debt. We reprint in this issue a recent editorial in The Churchman, which shows what is the opinion of the leaders of church thought on this subject.

It is all very well at the beginning of a church enterprise, as of any business operation, where there is not much capital to start with, to borrow money for a time if there is a reasonable prospect of being able to pay it off. But regular provision should be made for paying it off, and it should be accomplished as soon as possible.

Have we not reached such a position in our church life that we ought to take steps for the removal of our debt as speedily as we can? In the last two years we have paid off $2000; that is, $1000 each year. Shall we not at least keep up that ratio? Though at that rate it will take us twenty-three years to get rid of it altogether, unless some of our members who may be called to their rest within that time, should remember this object in their wills.

As we have not many in our congregation who can give large amounts we can only hope to accomplish this purpose by the accumulation of small offerings.

The management of this paper will do all they can to further this project. We propose to keep it constantly before our people and every month we will acknowledge any contributions which may be received. Our finance committee have directed that additional envelopes be printed marked for "the church debt." Numbers of these will be sent out once a year to those who use envelopes, and others will be left in a rack at the bottom of the church, so that any time if any one has an offering to make, they can be filled and placed in any offertory or in the alms box in the vestibule.

If our members will thus constantly from time to time as they may be able to do so, make a special offering for this purpose we shall soon be able to accumulate quite a sum.

We have the privilege of paying off $500 on account of the debt at any time, and we have now over $300 on hand waiting to be made up to this sum. We hope, too, that the proceeds of any entertainments that may be given this winter by our Guilds, or others, may go for this purpose. But all making offerings for this purpose must always remember that they must be in addition to their ordinary offerings for the support of the church, as the current expenses of the church are all the time going on and must be met. But while doing this let all resolve that we must get rid of our debt.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER SERVICES.—With this month we begin the full routine of winter services. The children's service on Sundays will begin at 2.30 P.M. There will be our popular choral evening song at 4 P.M., and shortened evening service and sermon at 7.45 P.M. The daily service at 10 A.M. and 5 P.M., and Wednesday service and lecture at 8 P.M. Let all resolve to avail themselves of these privileges. Every Christian in good health, and unless unavoidably prevented by pressing duties, should attend two services every Sunday: a Celebration of the Divine Mysteries in the morning and a vesper service in the evening. And if he cannot attend regularly the daily service, he ought to make it a rule to go to at least one service a week in addition to the Sunday services. What a difference in the religious life and character of our people would such a practice make.

OUR GUILDS have begun their winter sessions. S. John's Guild is for the young men of the parish, and S. Mary's for the young women. All young men or women belonging to the parish who have been confirmed can join the Guilds at any of their meetings. Others who have not been confirmed, or who do not belong to this parish, may be elected to membership after a nomination made a month before. The design of these Guilds is to bring together the young people of the parish and interest them in it and in each other, and contribute both to their spiritual and social edification. Let all our young people join them.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—The chief departments of the work of the Women's Guild do not begin until next month, viz: the Mothers' Meeting, the Industrial School, the Embroidery Class and the Ladies' Aid. But we hope all who are willing to work in these different ways will be promptly on hand and determine to do faithful and real work during the winter. It is not much that any one can do at the best, so let that little be as good and full as it can be. As the anniversary of the Guild, SS. Simon and Jude's day, occurs this year on Sunday, we hope all the members of the Guild will attend one of the Celebrations of the Holy Communion on that day with a special intention for the success of the Guild and seek personal guidance as to duty in regard to it, and grace to fulfil their duties. The business meeting of the Guild will be held on the next day, Monday, when the annual report of the Guild will be read and work for the coming year apportioned.

All the female communicants of the parish are members of this Guild.

THE DEFICIT of $800 in our current expense account which we had at the beginning of our financial year, May 1st, we are sorry to say, has only been partly made up, so that we have been much embarrassed during the summer. The Rector's salary is in arrears, and unless the offerings are very large this month we shall not have funds to meet our expenses. The only way in which the amount can be made up is for each one to contribute his share. It is not fair that it should be thrown upon one or two persons, and in fact we have no persons in the parish who are willing thus to make up deficits. But we have people in the parish whom we are convinced do not do their full share towards its support. Let these do their duty and we shall have no trouble in making our ends meet. We still ask for special subscriptions for this purpose.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—We want to call the attention of the parish to the fact that by the passage of the new tariff bill, stained glass windows from England are now admitted free of duty. This removes the large addition of 45 per cent. to the cost of our windows which formerly had to be paid. We hope, therefore, there are some in the congregation who will avail themselves of this reduction to put in one or more new windows. We are particularly anxious to see at least the two windows in the chancel to the right of the Altar filled. As this would add not only to the beauty but to the symmetry of the chancel, two on one side of the central window being now filled and not those on the other. The designs adopted by the building committee of the Vestry for these two windows can be seen at any time in the Vestry, and the Rector will be very happy to receive orders for them. There are also designs on hand for several of the smaller clerestory windows.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS.—We have lost during the summer, through death and removal, several of our Sunday School teachers. We are therefore very much in need of others. Are there not those in the parish, both men and women, who will respond to this call and make the exertion and sacrifice of devoting an hour on Sunday afternoons to this most charitable work? There are children here who will come to be taught if any one will teach them. Shall they be allowed to grow up without religious knowledge because none will take the trouble to impart it to them?

OUR BIBLE CLASSES recommence their sessions with the first Sunday of this month. Mrs. Hodge takes again the class for ladies, and Mr. W. George Read takes that for young men. Mr. Read had charge of this class some years ago, and we gladly welcome him back. He is now a student in the General Theological Seminary in New York, and therefore is most competent to instruct a Bible Class. We hope the young men of the parish will avail themselves of this opportunity for learning something on subjects in regard to which we fear they are lamentably ignorant.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to preach a course of sermons on one Sunday evening of each month during this winter, on the history of the Church of England. He has found that the courses of historical sermons that he has preached at different times, have proved useful, and he thinks there is nothing on which information is more needed than in regard to the history of our own Church, which is often so much misunderstood, and which is destined to have so large an influence on the future of the Christian Church.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Will not all in the parish subscribe to this paper, and those in arrears pay up? We owe our printer over $30.

The following have renewed subscription to the NEWS since the last list printed in the June number.

MORTGAGED CHURCHES.

It is not, perhaps, so fully realized as it should be, that the financial condition of a congregation or parish very directly and powerfully affects its spiritual life and growth. Where there is a heavy incubus of debt, Church activities are interfered with and impeded in every direction. The income—and money, in religious effort as in everything else, unquestionably constitutes the sinews of war—is in part diverted to the meeting of the inexorable interest-payments, and, when practicable, also to the reduction of the debt itself; a use of funds, of course, is not only commendable but necessary, where debt exists; but which, just so far, lessens the working efficiency of the parish, hampers its growth, and often gradually deadens its ambition. A case in point is seen in the history of some of the Brooklyn parishes. The twenty-five years just completed since the erection of the Long Island diocese, and the consecration of its able and honored Bishop, have not witnessed a growth of the Church in the city commensurate with its increase in wealth and population. For the first part of this period, especially, progress seemed at times almost to have ceased. Why? Because the most of the then existing parishes were struggling with a load of debt. Mortgages, at that time, too great for their strength, had been laid upon their churches. All their energies, all the increment of wealth and prosperity, were absorbed in meeting and in reducing these debts; until at length, with hands freed for aggressive action, the Church once more went forward, and is now yearly making greater strides.

There is a tendency, when the erection of a new church building is seen to be necessary, whether on the old site or on a new one, not only to recognize the actual growth and wealth and importance of the parish, and embody this in the new structure, but to anticipate also its future growth and wealth and importance. This is perfectly proper, and a wise business policy within limits, but it is often erroneously assumed that such growth will continue in the same or an accelerated ratio, when it may, in fact, have already reached its natural limit. Plans will be made for a costly church structure, too costly for the parish, as it is, to pay for, but to be reclaimed from debt in the future as the parish grows still more rich and prosperous. There is a natural pride, too, in the matter, which is easily to be understood. A mortgage does not show, and a handsome church does; and the result may be years of impaired efficiency in growing up to the standard of size and financial outlay thus set.

Where the burden of a large debt can possibly be avoided, even though this involve a few years more of patient waiting and slower growth in the old church homestead, a mortgage should be looked upon as a heavy, dangerous and even crushing burden; a burden which cannot be put off at will, and is therefore not inconsiderately to be put on.—Editorial The Churchman, July 30th, 1894.

Dare to be singular, when you see all around you to be wrong: say, "So did not I, because of the fear of God."

CHURCH MONEY.

This church depends upon the free-will offerings of its worshippers and friends for its maintenance. The "envelope system" has been adopted, not as a legally binding pledge, but as an excellent plan to stimulate regularity, and conscientious thoughtfulness in giving—that the offerings may not depend upon chance or feeling, but may be carefully adjusted to our means. The collection of the offerings is made a part of the worship, at each service.

Envelopes, marked with a certain number, are furnished to the members of the parish, "and to all others applying." A list of persons holding these envelopes, with their respective numbers, is kept by the Warden.

As the offerings are given under cover, absolute secrecy is obtained; and strict Christian duty may be fulfilled, without exciting comment, either in the way of praise or blame. Regularity is secured, so that the church does not suffer from the enforced absence of its members, on the account of illness or inclement weather. If every one will adopt and conscientiously carry out this system of giving, our current expenses can be met fully and promptly, without difficulty or delay.

"DO THEY WANT TO DEPRIVE ME?"

A Clergyman in England says that in one of his parishes a good man regularly gave, every Sunday, one pound for the support of the church. A poor widow was also a member of the same church, who supported herself and six children by washing. She was as regular as the rich man in making her offering of three pence per week, which was all she could spare from her scant earnings.

One day the rich man came to the minister, and said that the poor woman ought not to pay anything, and that he would pay the three pence for her every week.

The pastor called to tell her of the offer, which he did in a considerate manner. Tears came to the woman's eyes as she replied, "Do they want to take from me the comfort I experience in giving to the Lord? Think how much I owe Him. My health is good, my children kept well, and I receive so many blessings that I feel I could not live if I did not make my little offering each week." How many there are who know nothing of the privilege of regularly giving something to the Lord's work, because they have never tried it.

Small Coins.

A demand has arisen in New England for a restoration of the half cent to our national coinage. For many well-to-do persons who now have to give a cent it would fill a long felt want when the contribution plate is passed.

Why the Lower Classes do not go to Church in America.

[The following is a translation of an article which has recently appeared in The Nation's Friend, a leading Japanese monthly published in Tokio. The article was written by Professor K. Ukita, of the Doshisha College, which was founded in Kyoto by Dr. Neesima. Professor Ukita has been studying for the last two years in Yale University.]

Since I came here I have been surprised to find that the lower class of people do not attend church. This is not a phenomenon of one district only. After noticing the real condition of society, I have found that there is a proper cause for this phenomenon. That is, there is a custom in this country that the seats in the religious temple are restricted and sold to certain persons, and, even in the churches with free seats, it is generally the custom to take up collections for the maintenance of the services; and, moreover, it is the custom for ladies to wear fine dresses. Such being the custom, those who have not much money and wear coarse clothes are ashamed to enter the churches.

SUPPORT OF THE CHURCH.

We spoke in our last issue of our church debt, and we follow it in this by speaking of the support of the church, because we believe that these are the questions which are pressing upon our parish at this time.

After all that we have done in this parish, in moving out of Lombard St., where it would have been impossible to have supported the church at all for any great length of time, and building our present attractive church, accumulating the property we have, and gathering our present congregation, we are not going to give up now. We must not only maintain ourselves, but we must go on and make further progress. We have a capital situation for church work; and the position is going to improve as time goes on, but at the same time it will require effort and liberality and sacrifice even upon the part of the present members of the congregation to put our church upon a perfectly sure and solid foundation. It is evident that our income is not sufficient to meet our present rate of expenditure, as for the last two years we have had a deficit each year of about $800. And we have found each year that it has been difficult to get rid of that deficit, and if it is not gotten rid of, it will soon roll up into such a sum that we could not carry. Yet we certainly cannot maintain the church as it is now carried on at any less cost. We can hardly expect to have the entire services of two clergymen at lower salaries than we are now paying, or as good music as we have at less cost, and the other expenses of fuel, lighting, etc., must always remain the same.

What then are we to do? Give up one of our clergymen? That would mean cutting the work of the parish down one half, and changing the whole character of the church, for we could not then have so many services as we do and so could not reach so many people. Shall we cut down our choir? That would destroy the attractiveness of our services and so diminish our congregation.

The only other way we see of increasing the amount we would have to pay for our current expenses, is by getting rid of our debt, as we have to pay annually the interest on it which amounts to $1150. If that were saved we would not only have no deficit, but could increase, as we should, our expenditures. As we tried to show last week, no church is in a safe condition, or has a fair show, or can do the charitable work it should, that is burdened in this way. We have not completed the work we undertook of building a church in this locality until it is all paid for, and it is not all paid for so long as there is a debt upon it. Therefore it seems to us that we must bend all our energies to getting rid of this debt, and that this question of church support is dependent upon this. Give us a church free from any encumbrance, and we believe our congregation can, not only support itself, but that it will be able to help others also.

But to pay off our debt will require, as we have said, effort and sacrifices on the part of our members. They showed themselves willing to make such efforts and sacrifices when we were building this church. We sold our property in Lombard St. for $17,000. Now we have a property worth $80,000 less the $23,000 mortgage which is on it. And the $40,000 difference has been chiefly the gifts and donations of our own people. Now those gifts must not stop. We must not think that because we have got our church built and furnished, that therefore we need do nothing more. It is not really ours until it is all paid for, out of debt. So we must all feel the same necessity of exerting ourselves, and making and securing donations, as we did when we were building the church. We have a congregation now far better able to give than we had then, and if we raised $40,000 then, we ought to be able to raise $23,000 now.

It is to secure offerings for this purpose that the accounting warden has had printed envelopes marked especially for the church debt. These will be sent out from time to time to all the members of the congregation, and numbers of them also left in a rack at the bottom of the church. We hope they be all returned with as large contributions as possible—which must always be in addition to what is given regularly for our current expenses as they are always going on and must be met—so that we may get rid of this incubus of debt and be able to meet our expenses easily, to increase our salaries and to have money for other things.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER WORK.—All our departments of work recommence this month. The Industrial School on Saturday mornings, the Mothers' Meeting on Friday evenings, the Embroidery Class on Thursday mornings and the Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoons. And the other branches of work, the collections for missionary purposes, the making up of missionary boxes, etc., must also get under way. In all these departments we need new workers. We have lost quite a number of our old teachers and workers this year through removals, and we want new ones to come in and supply their places. Who will volunteer? In all the different kinds of work we have going on, there is place for every one. And how shall we answer for it if we have had the opportunity and the call, and we have not responded, if through indolence or indifference we refuse or neglect to do the good we might?

NEW MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—We are glad to announce, that our calling attention in our last number to the fact that stained glass windows made abroad are now admitted into this country free of duty, has resulted in our receiving orders for two more windows, one for the chancel and one for the clere-story. Of course it will be some months yet before we can get them, but we are very glad to know they are ordered.

Is there not some one who would like to give an order for the remaining one to the right of the altar which is so needed to complete the semi-circle and balance those on the other side? If ordered at the same time as the others it will be cheaper, as it will save boxing and freight, all coming together.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The members of S. Mary's Guild are thinking of having regular weekly instructions this winter in gymnastic exercises, and also an occasional tea or other entertainment. Let all the young women of the parish join them.

ENVELOPES.—In sending out the envelopes for the coming quarter, the warden will include in them not only the envelope for the debt of which we have spoken in our editorial, but also one for the Christmas offering. We have always asked from the congregation special offerings at Christmas and Easter. And it is only by the large contributions that we receive at those times that we have been able to maintain ourselves. They make up for the rainy Sundays and the summer season, when so many of our people are out of town. The object of having a special envelope for this purpose is not only to remind our people of the duty of making a special Christmas offering, but also to avoid confusion. We have found that persons are very apt to put a special offering at Christmas in their regular numbered envelope, and the warden has not known whether to credit them with the amount as part of their regular contribution or not. A special envelope for this purpose will avoid this confusion.

The warden also sends out the beginning of this month a statement of the amount due from those who are behind hand in their payments.

A number of the pledges remain unpaid, owing, probably, to the absence of parishioners from the city, and similar causes. As we stand in need of money for current expenses, it is absolutely necessary that all persons should be prompt in meeting their pledges.

ADDRESSES.—The Rector would be glad to receive the names and addresses of people who have been attending our services lately, and are still unknown to him. Often people may come to this parish, whose names it is impossible for the Rector to learn unless they will make themselves known.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—The members of this Guild are much occupied with a foot ball team they have organized. They practice almost nightly on the ground to the south of the church, by the light of the electric lamp lately placed on Kater St. Mr. Edward Van Lear has been elected captain, and Mr. Carroll Hodge has been coaching them. They have played games with the teams of Temple College, the Episcopal Academy, the Covenant Guild, etc., several of which they have won.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—As the anniversary of the Women's Guild of the parish, SS. Simon and Jude's Day, occurred this year on Sunday, the Rector preached a sermon on the morning of that day on the duty of engaging in benevolent work and the special needs of our parish. The annual business meeting was held after Morning Prayers on the following day; some thirty ladies were present. The reports of the work for the past year were read, which made a good showing. They will be published in the new year-book which will be issued the first week in Advent. Volunteers for service for the coming year were called for and the work apportioned. There is still a special need of teachers in the Sunday School. Those in charge of the missionary box will begin at once to make their collections for it, and it is hoped this year to get it off before the severe winter weather sets in, when it is most needed.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The management of the "NEWS" earnestly ask the co-operation of all the members of the congregation in making the paper self-supporting. Surely there are many who do not subscribe, but could easily afford to pay the small sum of fifty cents. The following have renewed their subscriptions:

THE DIOCESAN HOUSE.

We publish the following statement in regard to the Diocesan House, because our Rector is chairman of the committee charged with the erection of that house, and as he is asking other Rectors to bring the subject to the notice of their congregations, he does not like to fail to do in regard to his own congregation, what he is asking others to do to theirs. It is a matter in which all the people of the diocese should be interested, and if each one gave a little, the whole amount needed could be readily raised.

Statement by the Convention Committee on the Diocesan House.

The Committee on the Diocesan House has paid for the lot at the north-east corner of Twelfth and Walnut streets, and has contracted for the building as approved by the last convention (except as to plastering, inside finish, and some other special items), with provision for completing the stores by March 1, 1895.

The total cost of the building ready for occupancy will be $81,000. By omitting some decorative features and the elevator, the payment of about $3,700 of this amount may be postponed; but the omission would be unfortunate. The approximate cost reported to the last convention was $72,500, although the committee at that time had no bids at hand. After careful consideration it was deemed wise to adopt fire proof construction throughout, which entailed an additional expense of $4,000, and increases the first estimate to $76,500. This will be exceeded in actual outlay by only $4,500, or less than six per cent. After paying for the land, together with the taxes for the current year, and interest on the purchase money from May 1 to August 9, as also for the removal of the old building (amounting in all to $2,300), the funds in the hands of the committee, together with the balance of the sum borrowed on mortgage, is $55,500. The committee, therefore, needs $25,500 to complete the building.

After the adjournment of the last convention, the committee was confronted with two propositions; first, to wait until all the money needed was raised, and carry the large lot of ground at great expense to the diocese; or secondly, to proceed with the erection of the building and trust to raising the small balance needed to complete it. The committee had no hesitation in choosing the latter alternative, and for this balance it must rely upon the co-operation of the churchmen and churchwomen of the diocese. Their co-operation and aid it now invokes. While it is evident that every communicant, of whom there are forty thousand in the diocese, has or should have a common interest in the completion of this work, it is a fact that only about three hundred of them, and very few of the parishes, have up to this date contributed. It is most important that the amount required should be subscribed within the next two months, otherwise certain bids now made will not be binding, and the completion of the building must be put in abeyance, until the necessary funds are forthcoming.

All contributions should be sent to B. G. Godfrey, Esq., 1102 Walnut street, Treasurer of the Diocese.

NOTICES.

Communicants coming into the parish, or leaving it, should comply with the following canon:

"A communicant removing from one parish to another shall procure from the rector (if any) of the parish of his last residence, or if there be no rector, from one of the wardens, a certificate, stating that he or she is a communicant in good standing; and the rector of the parish or congregation to which he or she removes shall not be required to receive him or her as a communicant until such letter be produced."

Concerning baptisms, the rubric before the offices for that sacrament says:

"The minister of every parish shall often admonish the people that they defer not the baptism of their children longer than the first or second Sunday after their birth, or other Holy day falling between, unless upon a great and reasonable cause. And he shall also warn them, that without like great cause and necessity they procure not their children to be baptized at home in their houses."

Attention is called to the rubric before the office for the visitation of the sick, which reads:

"When any person is sick, notice shall be given thereof to the minister of the parish."

On due notice being given, the clergy are always ready and desirous to visit those who are in trouble, sorrow, need, sickness, or any other adversity, and to administer the Holy Communion to such as by reason of sickness or other infirmity are prevented from coming to the church.

The clergy should always be consulted before arrangements are made for baptisms, marriages or funerals at which they are expected to officiate.

The clergy can be seen after any church service, by those who desire to consult them in regard to spiritual matters or church work.

Parishioners are asked to send prompt notice of changes of residence.

Those who attend the church regularly should send their names and addresses to the clergy, or place them in the box in the vestibule of the church.

Early Communion.—Its value is thus beautifully expressed by the late Canon Liddon: "A Christian of the first or second century would not have understood a Sunday in which, whatever else might be done, the Holy Communion was omitted; and this great duty is best complied with as early in the day as possible, when the natural powers of the mind have been lately refreshed by sleep, when as yet the world has not taken off the bloom of the soul's first self-dedication to God, when thought, and feeling, and purpose are still bright and fresh and unembarrassed; then is the time, for those who would reap the full harvest of grace, to approach the altar. It is quite a different thing in the middle of the day; even when serious efforts are made to communicate reverently. Those who begin their Sunday with the Holy Communion know one of the deepest meanings of that promise, "They that seek Me early shall find Me." (Easter in S. Paul's, p. 286.)—The Church Guardian.

"Be not weary in well-doing."

Work on! and be not weary in well-doing,
E'en if the labour seems to be in vain:
Work on untiringly, nor dream of resting
Until you reach the rest that doth remain.

Work on! there are the sick, the sad, the fallen,
Waiting for you to take them by the hand,
And tell them of the One, the Great Physician,
Or whisper gently, of the far-off land.

Work on! for there are thousands all around you,
Living their lives of carelessness or sin,
As if there were no God, no hell, no heaven,
No punishment to fear, no palm to win.

Work on! lose not a moment: the evil ones
Fly on their errands dark, from hour to hour,
And souls are perishing, while you are sleeping,
Who might have rescued them from satan's power.

Work on! and when your task is quite completed,
And you have kept the faith and fought the fight,
A day will dawn which ne'er can fade in darkness,
For then—"at evening time it shall be light.',

Work on! that light shall guide you through the valley
Whose gloomy shades the Sacred Feet once trod:
And angel hands shall bear you gently onward,
Into the blessed Paradise of God.

HIGH CHURCH.

A great many persons use the expressions, High Church and Low Church, without really knowing what they mean, or have very mistaken ideas concerning them, which lead to misapprehension and injustice. Some even think that they are two distinct Churches or denominations. What do these terms stand for?

They are the names given to the two great parties or schools of thought in the Church. They are in the Church just what the Republican and Democratic parties are in the nation. High Churchmen and Low Churchmen are equally members of the one English branch of the Holy Catholic Church. They all belong to the same organization, work together and worship together, using the same prayer book. But they hold different views and opinions in regard to the Church, her constitution and her ordinances.

The High Church are those who take a high view, have a high appreciation of the Church, of her authority and importance. The Low Church make comparatively little of the Church. With them religion consists chiefly in belief and experience. And while they regard the Church and her ordinances as useful, they do not think them so necessary, and they look upon one Church as good as another, and dislike much ritual, preferring very plain services.

The High Churchman looks upon the Church as itself divine. He believes our Lord came to earth not only to preach a doctrine, but to form an organization to which He would have all who love and serve Him belong, that He Himself formed this Church, instituted its ministry and prescribed its ordinances, and so that there can be but one Church, that it is wrong to separate from that Church, or to form another, and that those sacraments which Christ ordained must be of vital importance, must confer grace, and should be used with the greatest reverence and devotion. So the High Churchman believes that a reverent and solemn ritual is in accord with the mind of Christ, is necessary to preserve reverence for the sacraments, and is best calculated to make men generally truly worship, and impress them with a sense of the importance and reality of spiritual things.

Hence the High Churchman holds to what is known as the apostolical succession; that is, the belief that our Lord Himself ordained the first apostles and gave them authority in like manner to ordain others, and so that they only who have been ordained by those who have received ordination from those thus previously ordained have a right to act as Ministers in the Church.

He thinks that it is necessary for every one to receive Baptism and Confirmation and Holy Communion; that they contain and convey a grace not found elsewhere, and that those sacraments, being of divine institution, should be treated as no merely earthly and human institutions should, and he finds that the use of ritual in divine service, of such things as vestments, music, lights, etc. help him to realize the solemnity of what he is engaged in, and make his worship more real and reverent.

Now these being the beliefs and practices of the High Church, many persons think that they are very much the same as Roman Catholics. But that does not follow at all. It is very true that the Roman Catholics also have high views of the Church, her ministry and sacraments, and make use of ritual in their worship. But then, in addition, and that which makes them Roman Catholics, are their peculiar views about the Pope; that he is the supreme governor of the Church, the vicar and infallible representative and spokesman of Christ upon earth. This the High Church members of the English Church cannot for a moment admit.

In the Roman Catholic Church there are also many things which all English Churchmen regard as corruptions, contrary to the true Catholic faith and practice, such as the adoration of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the doctrine of indulgences, the enforced celibacy of the clergy, compulsory confession, the denial of the cup to the laity, etc. These and other such things are the true differences between the Roman Catholic and other branches of the Church, and High Churchmen are just as much opposed to them as Low Churchmen, and are therefore no nearer being Roman Catholics than they are.

If any one asks, therefore, what High Church means, the answer is, it designates those members of the Church who attach a high value to the Church and all that belongs to it; who believe in it, and reverence and love it, and want to see it made just as noble, and beautiful and glorious as that which is described in Holy Scripture as the Bride of Christ should be.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Oak rack for envelopes placed near the door of the Church; pint of Communion wine; wardrobe for parish building; book for Sunday School library; half a dozen towels for the sacristy; some very valuable donations of clothing for missionary box.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—The members of this Guild now meet every Tuesday evening. The second Tuesday as formerly is for the devotional and business meeting, the other Tuesdays are occupied with athletic exercises, Mr. James Dunlap having been regularly engaged as trainer. Any young women of the parish who have been confirmed can enter this Guild at any regular meeting, and others not confirmed or who belong to other parishes can be elected members after nomination at a previous meeting. The dues, which entitle one to all the privileges of the Guild, are ten cents a month.

MISSIONARY BOX.—In response to the earnest appeal to get off our annual missionary box, which is to go to Minnesota, before the cold weather when it is so needed, we are glad to say the ladies in charge of this work have been able to send a very large and well filled box of most useful and substantial clothing. A supplemental box containing lighter wear, which will not be needed until later in the year, will follow. In addition to which we have some articles left over which can go towards other boxes.

Any persons attending the Church having any articles of clothing or household furniture to dispose of can send them to the Church at any time, or if the sexton is notified he will call for them. Almost anything can be used either in the missionary work of the Church or among the needy in our own congregation.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING has begun its sessions again for the winter. We should like very much to continue the arrangement we made last winter, whereby we obtained from some of the hospitals work already prepared and cut out, which was made up by the members of the meeting, for which each one received fifty cents a week. This is quite a help to them, during those months in which it is hardest to get along. But unfortunately, owing to some unusual drains upon our Poor Fund during the past summer, this fund is at present exhausted. Unless, therefore, we receive special donations for this purpose we shall not be able to continue this arrangement this winter. We require about five dollars a week.

YEAR BOOK.—As usual our annual reports of the various departments of parish work for the past year has been published in a year book, copies of which can be had from the sexton.

OUR DEFICIT PAID.—We have so often to make appeals for money and state our needs, that it gives us great pleasure by way of a change to tell of our debts being paid. We are most happy, therefore, to announce that through the liberality of several members of our congregation the entire indebtedness of over $800, which we had at the beginning of our financial year, May 1st, and which has been harassing us all summer, has been provided for by gifts or promises. This now puts us in the position for the first time in some years to see whether we can meet our expenses for the current year without having in addition a sum brought over from the previous year to make up. To do this and so avoid having another deficit at the end of the financial year, will require an effort and will depend upon the liberality with which our members contribute throughout the year.

A member of the Vestry has suggested that if each of our contributors would increase his offering by five cents a Sunday, the additional sum needed would be obtained. Cannot all do this? Or will not each member of the congregation make a specially large offering at Christmas and Easter, so as to insure our having a sufficiently large income to meet our expenses?

As we mentioned last month, the Warden has had special envelopes printed, marked for the Christmas offering, which have been sent to all using envelopes. Others can take them from the rack at the bottom of the Church. Let all use them.

We depend, as usual, upon the Christmas offering to meet the semi-annual interest on our mortgage, which with some other bills we have to pay, will require about $800. Christmas before last we reached this figure. Can we not make it $1,000 this Christmas to render us thoroughly comfortable?

Our hearty thanks are due to the gentlemen who have lifted the burden which has been resting on us for the past year. Now let the congregation generally see to it that we meet these expenses as they become due, and that we do not have a similar burden to bear at the end of this year.

Special offerings for the Christmas decorations and to provide the annual Christmas entertainment for the Sunday School children can be placed in the alms box in the vestibule of the Church, which will be marked for that purpose, or may be handed to any of the Sunday School teachers.

CHRISTMAS.—As usual we shall have an extra Celebration of the Holy Communion on the morning of Christmas Day at 6.30 A. M. The other services will be as on Sundays at 7.30, 10.30 and 11.30 A. M. and at 5 P. M.

The Choir will sing for the first time on Christmas Day, and again on the Sunday following, Gounod's Sacred Heart.

CHOIR VESTMENTS.—The Choir is very much in need of new vestments, especially of cassocks. If some one would present us with a piece of good material—50 yards—the members of the Ladies' Aid would cut them out and make them up.

REDUCTION OF THE DEBT.—We are glad to note among the offerings for this month $116.96, received towards the reduction of our mortgage. We have now $249.79 on hand for this purpose. When we get $250 more we can make another payment of $500 on account. Contributions of any amount even 5 or 10 cents, for this purpose, are acceptable. Let all try to do something towards it.

ANOTHER MEMORIAL WINDOW.—We are happy to announce that the remaining window in the Chancel to the right of the Altar, which we were so anxious to see filled with handsome glass, has been ordered, and will be put in place at the same time as the adjoining one, of which we spoke in our last issue. This still leaves three windows in the chancel and the remaining clerestory windows to be provided for.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Owing to the withdrawal of several of the advertisements in the NEWS, it is of great importance that every member of the congregation should be a subscriber to aid in making up the deficit in our income. Including the present issue we are in debt to the printer $33.50, and the management is entirely out of funds and most earnestly ask our members to assist in making the paper self-supporting by subscribing and trying to secure new subscriptions.

We regret to say that owing to the difficulty in obtaining the necessary funds, and that of keeping our large school room sufficiently warm during the winter months for this purpose, we have been obliged to discontinue this school.

May we not hope that some of the funds that were given to it may go towards the support of our other schools or for our work among the poor?

YOUR BOYS.

Treat your boys as if they were of some importance if you would have them manly and self-reliant.

Be careful of the little courtesies. You cannot expect your boy to be respectful, thoughtful and kind unless you first set him the example.

If you would have your boy make you his confidant, take an active interest in all he does. Don't be too critical, but ask for his views and opinions at all times.

Don't keep your boys in ignorance of things they should know. It is not the wholesome truth, but the unwholesome way in which it is acquired, that ruins many a young man.

Don't act as if you thought your boy amounted to nothing nor be continually making comparisons between him and some neighbor's son to his disadvantage; nothing will dishearten him quicker.

Don't think that anything is good enough for the boys, and that they don't care for nice things. Have their rooms fitted up as nicely as possible. Let them understand that their rooms are to be kept in order, and the result will justify your pains.

Furnish your boy with good, wholesome reading matter. Have him read to you, and with you. Discuss with him what you read, and draw out his opinions and thoughts upon the subjects. Help him to think early for himself.

Make home a pleasant place; see to it that the boys don't have to go somewhere else to secure proper freedom and congenial companionship. Take time and pains to make them feel comfortable and contented, and they will not want to spend their evenings away from home.

Pick your son's associates. See to it that he has no friends you do not know about. Take an interest in all his troubles and pleasures, and have him feel perfectly free to invite his friends to the house. Take a little pains to make him and his friends comfortable and happy. He will not be slow to appreciate it.

GOODNESS of heart should be mixed with goodness of head.

Why Stand ye all the Day Idle?

Ho! reapers of life's harvest,
Why stand with rusted blade,
Until the night draws round thee
And day begins to fade?
Why stand ye idle, waiting
For reapers more to come?
The golden morn is passing—
Why sit ye idle, dumb?

Thrust in your sharpened sickle
And gather in the grain;
The night is fast approaching,
And soon will come again.
The Master calls for reapers,
And shall he call in vain?
Shall sheaves lie there ungathered
And waste upon the plain?

Mount up the heights of wisdom,
And crush each error low;
Keep back no words of knowledge
That human hearts should know;
Be faithful to thy mission
In service of thy Lord
And then a golden chaplet
Shall be thy just reward.

WHOSOEVER recounts to you the faults of your neighbor will doubtless expose your defects to others. —Persian.

CATHOLIC.

As we said last month, there are a number of expressions, such as that of which we spoke, "High Church," which are used by many people without understanding what they mean. The word "Catholic" is another such. Many speak of Catholics and Protestants as if they constituted two great classes which include all Christians. And yet every Protestant, when he recites his creed, says "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church," not a word about the Protestant Church. Does he believe then in a Church to which he does not belong? Or if he considers that he belongs to the Catholic Church, then he ought not to speak of that communion to which he belongs as if it was not the Catholic Church.

What do we mean by the Holy Catholic Church? The word Catholic, of course, means universal. The Holy Catholic Church, therefore, is the one Church our Lord founded and which He intended should be universal; that is, embracing all His followers. Different parts of that Church may naturally be designated by the countries in which they exist, as the Church of England, the Church of France, the Church of Italy. And that is the only way the Church is ever spoken of in the New Testament, the Church that is in such a place.

So, to-day, when we speak of Roman Catholics we mean really the members of the national Church of Italy, of which Rome is the capital. And because the Bishops of Rome have laid claim to a superiority over other bishops, to rule over what was formerly the Roman Empire, which was almost a universal empire, so most of the national Churches of Europe have for centuries been known as parts of the Roman Catholic Church, and members of that Church are found in other parts of the world. But the claim that the Church of Rome is the only Catholic Church is disproved by history, for many millions of Christians have never belonged to it, nor recognized this claim of the Bishop of Rome to universal jurisdiction. All the Christians in the East, in Russia, Greece, Turkey, Asia Minor and Syria, known as the Greek Christians, have never been subject to the Pope, and for over eight hundred years have had no intercourse with the Church of Rome. So the authority of the Bishop of Rome was really recognized in England only for a comparatively short time, from the reign of King John to that of Henry VIII, a period of about three hundred years. And yet, the Church in England was just as much a part of the Catholic Church before and since that time as it was during it.

So it is a great mistake, and wrong, to speak of Roman Catholics as if they were the only Catholics, and of ourselves as if we did not belong to the Catholic Church. We should always call them, just what they call themselves, Roman Catholics, and remember that they are members of the Roman, or Italian Church because they are subject to the Bishop of Rome, just as we are members of the English Church, the national Church of England, or of some Church in communion with it among English speaking people. Our Church is part of the Catholic Church because historically it is descended from, and an intrinsic portion of, that one Church which our blessed Lord founded.

In regard to the Protestant denominations they are not in themselves parts of the Catholic Church, because they have broken away from that Church and formed new societies, founded by individual Christians or a number of Christians, and governed and conducted according to different constitutions and schemes, which have been devised from time to time. These Christians do not believe that our Lord intended to found one universal society, governed in a particular way. If they use the Creed they believe that the Catholic Church in it means the company of all true believers, and that it is a matter of indifference how those believers are associated together, or whether there is one Church or a great many different Church organizations.

But that is a misuse of language, and this idea of the Church has only arisen since the Reformation. The Church is an outward visible society, and it must always be composed of both bad and good, as Christ declared His Church should be. To say it is composed only of those who are good is to make it an invisible and indefinable thing, for no one can tell who only are good. And whether an organization is part of the Church Christ formed, or whether it is a new society formed in this century or the last, or three hundred years ago, is simply a matter to be determined by historical research.

And yet though the different bodies which cannot show that historical connection, are not parts of the Catholic Church as such, the individuals of which they are composed are members of the Catholic Church, if they have been baptized, for baptism is the means by which men are made members of the visible Church, and the Church has always recognized the validity of baptism, no matter by whom it is administered, even by laymen or heretics. So every one who is baptized is a member of the one Holy Catholic Church, though he may not claim his right of membership in any historical branch of it, and may belong to a body that is not in communion with it.

Our aim should be to try and make men understand what the Catholic Church is, and how there should be but one Church. All divisions among Christians are wrong. That is the sin of schism from which we pray to be delivered. Nothing injures and retards the cause of Christ so much as divisions among His followers.

They have all come from human pride and ambition, and should not be perpetuated. There ought not to be such things as different denominations or sects. All who are baptized should remember that they are members of the one Catholic Church, and all should dwell together in one communion and fellowship in the different national branches of that great historical body, whose continuity has never been broken. God hasten the day.

PARISH NOTES.

CHRISTMAS.—The Church was dressed as usual, except that wreaths were substituted around the capitals of the pillars for the branches we had formerly, as these were apt to catch on fire from the gas jets. The congregations were good, the number of communicants being slightly in excess of the number last year. The Rev. J. W. Robins, D. D. kindly officiated at the extra Celebration. The Choir provided a new service, Gounod's Sacred Heart.

On the Friday evening before Christmas, each of the members of the Mother's Meeting, twenty-two in all, was presented with a fowl, a bag of sweet potatoes, sugar and cranberries. Dinners were provided for four other families. Orders for twelve tons of coal were also distributed. The children were given their festival on the eve of Holy Innocents, as that day came this year on a Friday. They had a service first in Church, with an address by the Rector, and then in the Sunday School room their Christmas tree and an entertainment by a lady, who recited several Christmas stories. Each child was given a box of candy, a piece of cake and an orange, and the children of the infant class a doll or toy. Some of the teachers also gave the members of their classes gifts. A lady presented all the full members of S. John's Guild with silver badges, a shield with the name of the Guild on it.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS.—So far from receiving the thousand dollars asked for on Christmas Day, our offerings were some two hundred dollars less than last Christmas. But we must remember that we received only a few weeks ago $485, which was contributed to meet our deficit. As this was over and above the ordinary offerings it ought to be considered as part of the Christmas offering. But as we needed the thousand dollars, our not receiving it at this time will leave us, we fear, with another deficit at the end of this financial year, which we should very much regret.

ENTERTAINMENT BY S. JOHN'S GUILD.—On the day we went to press last month, a very successful entertainment was given in our parish building by the members of S. John's Guild, assisted by some of their friends. It consisted of a play, in which the young men displayed considerable dramatic ability, followed by a concert by the Glee Club, with some banjo playing by members of the staff of the Polyclinic Hospital, which was much appreciated, the players being encored again and again. The entertainment realized some $40 for the Church debt, after paying expenses. The thanks of the Church are due to those who gave their interest and hard work to get it up.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS.—We need more books for our Sunday School library. The library we have is not a large one, and the books being constantly used by children quickly wear out. We have had it replenished from time to time by gifts from members of our congregation. Are there not those who have children's books now to dispose of? They need not necessarily be religious books, as the object of the library is to supply the children with good, interesting and improving reading for the week. Look over your children's books and see if there are not some you can spare for the Church.

BAD COINS.—Our Accounting Warden wants us to call the attention of the congregation to the number of Canadian, debased and mutilated coins he receives in the offertory. The banks refuse to take these and it is almost impossible to pass them. Within a month he has received two fifty cent pieces with names stamped on them. Such coins are not only not good, but there is a heavy penalty provided by law for defacing coins, if not for attempting to pass them. If these are put into the offertory deliberately it is a profane mockery and robbery of God. If they are put in without noticing their character, it is culpable carelessness, as one should see that the offering he makes to God's service is a real one. The Warden desires to give notice that if such coins are received in the envelopes they cannot be credited to the persons giving them, as they are valueless to the Church.

MORTGAGE DEBT.—We have now on hand towards the debt $341.73, leaving $158.27 needed to enable us to make another payment of $500. We ought to get at least this and another $500 before the first of May, the end of our financial year.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies have received the following letter of acknowledgement of the missionary box sent in November.

Blue Earth City, Minn.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

We received the "box" sent from the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia. We have not examined the articles yet, only unpacked them. I do not wait, however, for that, but hasten to acknowledge the receipt of the box, which arrived in good condition. There was nothing broken or damaged, but all came in good shape, which is evidence of the care taken in packing, as there were a number of dishes which might have been broken if they had not been carefully packed,

Well it is a very serviceable "box." We have examined it enough already to know that. It is one of the best ever sent out by the Woman's Auxiliary, and we know not how to convey to you and to the Church of the Ascension how grateful we feel for this great assistance at this time. Our daughter being away at S. Mary's School, Fairbault, we have many little items of expense, as well as greater ones, that we would not have if she were at home. We have to make many personal sacrifices for her sake, which we do cheerfully. Language cannot express the thankful feeling that we have for the box, for it has helped us keep our daughter at S. Mary's. And when I say that the box you sent us helps us to keep our daughter at school, it is to be understood that we mean a good, big Thanks to you all.

Most gratefully,
R. R. Goudy.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following have been received since last issue:

RULES TO BE OBSERVED.—When you go into a pew move up to the top. Do not sit at the end and force others coming in to push by you.

When there are not many in Church sit in the front seats. Do not force the clergy to shout to you at the far end of the Church.

When you propose to make your Communions, always come forward promptly. Do not leave the clergy in doubt whether you are coming or not.

When you see a stranger in Church, make room for him where you are sitting and hand him a prayer book or hymnal.

The Offertory Calendar.

We have received an advertisement of the Offertory Calendar.

It is a unique and beautiful combination of the calendar and weekly offering envelope. It consists of three parts.

1. The back is of heavy cardboard, beautifully printed in colors from a new design by IPSEN, and is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful specimens of the designer's and lithographer's art ever issued.

The central thought of the design —the abundant harvest—is admirably portrayed in the figure of a woman standing in the foreground of a field of ripened grain, her arms full of the golden sheaves of the harvest. Beneath the picture are the words: "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." (2 Cor. 9: 6.) In the upper left-hand corner is a circular space which on the regular back is filled in with a conventional design of the Maltese cross and the familiar "I. H. S." (Jesus hominum Salvator), but which can be left blank, if desired, to be filled in with the cut of a church or pastor. At the bottom of the card is the package of envelopes with the bracket which contains them, and the calendar for the year, in parts of six months each, on either side. The remainder of the design is made up of a rich background of deep gold, upon which are traced the delicate, purple-hued blossoms of the passion flower, the emblem of self-denial. The effect of the whole is indescribably beautiful, and cannot fail to add greatly to the popularity of the Calendar, from an artistic standpoint.

2. A package of fifty-two envelopes (one for each Sunday of the year), each having upon its face an inspiring verse of Scripture, the number by which the contributor is known to the church treasurer, and a calendar for the week, ending always with Sunday, the weekly offering day.

3. The envelopes are securely held in position on the backs by a neat lacquered brass device, in such a manner that the face of the weekly envelope is always in sight.

It is admitted by all to be the most popular and successful device known for increasing and collecting benevolent contributions. It has been most happily described as "the perfected envelope system." It has no competitor in the field. No other practical invention has been offered to the churches as a help in carrying out the envelope system. The many unsolicited testimonials which have come to us must convince the most sceptical that we have discovered what pastors and churches have long been looking for—a simple, effective method of raising church funds.

There is a rapidly-growing interest in the question of systematic giving, and events are fast bringing us to the time when no church can afford to cling to the old methods of haphazard collections. The success and usefulness of any church are largely determined by the results of its financial policy. It is generally conceded that the ideal to be reached is to persuade each member of the congregation to give a proportionate part of his income each week. In proportion as this ideal is attained, the volume of the contributions is found greatly to increase.

The difficulty of gaining this end, however, is well known to every pastor. The envelope plan is a great help. But unless the contributor is naturally orderly and systematic, the envelopes are generally lost or forgotten. This difficulty the OFFERTORY CALENDAR has, to a great extent, done away with. The Calendar is so beautiful as to be highly prized as a work of art, and is therefore always to be found in some conspicuous place in which it serves as a constant and inspiring reminder.

A single Calendar will be mailed to any one requesting it, on receipt of fifteen cents in stamps. Address, The Offertory Calendar Co., 47 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.

A Year's Work of Dram-Selling.

Carefully compiled statistics show that sixty thousand lives are annually destroyed by intemperance in the United States.

One hundred thousand men and women are annually sent to prison in consequence of strong drink.

Twenty thousand children are yearly sent to the poor-house for the same reason.

Three hundred murders are another of the yearly fruits of intemperance.

Four hundred suicides follow these fearful catalogues of misery.

Two hundred thousand orphans are bequeathed each year to private and public charity.

Two hundred million dollars are yearly expended to produce this shocking amount of crime and misery, and as much more is lost from the same cause.—Young Reaper.

CATHOLIC AUTHORITY.

We spoke last month of the meaning of the word Catholic as applied to the Church. We want now to consider the way in which that Church speaks, and its authority.

If the Church, which consists of all the baptized, is divinely formed and governed, how does it speak? how is it to be known what it teaches? The answer is by the general consent of its members, what has been generally held and believed by all Christians, always and everywhere, that must be true, that has divine authority.

That is the way in which we arrive at truth about other things, matters of science or philosophy. There is much greater presumption, that what has been generally held by the students of any science or philosophy will be true, than what is held by an individual, because the general consent is the result of the thought of many minds. An individual may look at a subject only in one light, or may be prejudiced, but the general consent is the result reached after it has been looked at from all sides by all minds. So if Christianity were merely a human philosophy, the surest way of learning what it teaches would be to learn what has been generally held and taught by those who have professed it.

But there are special reasons in our religion itself why it should speak in this way and have this authority. The promises in Scripture were to the Church as a body. Our Lord said that "where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them." This implies a special presence of Christ to a number of His disciples beyond that vouchsafed to individuals. Then He said to His disciples that His Spirit should guide them "into all truth." This cannot be understood as implying that each individual disciple should know all truth. It was a promise to the body of Christians that it should be under the leadership of the Spirit until it should come to understand all truths. Again our Lord told His disciples that He would "be with them to the end of the world." Nothing but a body could last so long. So this must imply Christ's perpetual presence with His Church, which must preserve it as a body from error. Individuals may err, separate Churches or communities might err, but if the whole Church should teach or hold what was false, then Christ's promise would have failed, the gates of Hell have prevailed against it.

And we find that in the whole history of the Church this has been regarded as the way by which truth was to be ascertained. When the first dispute arose among the early Christians as to the necessity of observing the Jewish ceremonial law, it was determined by referring it to a Council of the whole Church. We are told that "the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter," and when each had given his personal opinion, a general agreement was reached which was regarded by all as settling the question, and we hear no more of the dispute. So ever afterwards, when there was difference of opinion in regard to any matter, while learned bishops or doctors might be consulted about it, nothing was considered as decided until a Council was held, and a Council representing the whole Church was the court of last appeal. Thus the great controversy in regard to the divine nature of Christ was settled by the General Council of Nice, which formulated the Nicene Creed. Every question, therefore, which has been decided by a Council representing the whole Church, or anything which can be shown to have been always held or practiced by all Christians or the great mass of Christians, is to be regarded as a necessary part of the Christian faith or system.

There is no reason for us to suppose, and there is no ground in Scripture for the belief, that Christ ever constituted any single person the supreme head and representative of His Church, who would be infallible and speak with divine authority. Nor are we left to decide each for himself what is true. But we have this authority for our guidance and on which we can surely rest, that Christ promised to be always with His Church as a body, that He is always enlightening it and guiding it, so that whatever all the members of that body agreed upon is unquestionably His teaching, and so to be received as true. If any one would know, therefore, whether any particular doctrine or order or practice is true or necessary, he has to inquire whether it is Catholic, that is, whether it has been held or received by all Christians everywhere, and nothing is to be taught or required in the Church that cannot show that authority. If this rule were followed, the Church would be delivered from all false doctrine, heresy and schism.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have received 21 volumes for the Sunday School library in response to our appeal, also a quantity of magazines and papers. The ladies in charge of our benevolent work thankfully acknowledge the receipt of 63 yds. of canton flannel from Strawbridge & Clothier, 50 yds. of muslin from John Wanamaker, and a piece of flannel from Homer & Le Boutilier.

We have also received orders for three and a half tons of coal from one of our parishioners, which are most acceptable.

We have also to acknowledge the receipt of a piece of material—over 50 yards—for choir cassocks in response to our appeal last week. This will supply a very great need, and give the Ladies' Aid plenty of work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HYMNALS.—As the Hymnals we have been using at the children's service and in the Sunday School have been gradually disappearing, we have purchased for use in their place the Children's Hymnal prepared by Rev. Chas. T. Hutchins, D. D. It contains many of the hymns in the Church Hymnal, together with others especially adapted for children.

NOTICE.—In sending out the envelopes for the coming quarter the Accounting Warden has sent with them the following notice:

Please note that the envelopes are dated.

Always use the envelope of the proper date.

If absent on one or more Sundays, always return the envelopes for the absent Sundays, as well as the one for the day, the next time you are present. In this case, however, it is not necessary to put the exact amount of your pledge in each envelope; if more convenient, the whole amount may be placed in one envelope and the others returned empty.

Subscribers giving up their pledges must return their unused envelopes promptly.

Never place mutilated or Canadian money in your envelopes, as it cannot be credited to your account.

The object of dating the envelopes is to assist the contributors in keeping their count, as sometimes mistakes have been made.

Persons who find that they have pledged themselves to give an amount which they find they cannot keep up, are urged to reduce the amount or give up their envelope altogether, as it creates confusion to retain a number which is not used or used very irregularly.

There is now due unpaid pledges, $142.85.

Our pledges now foot up as follows, which is a larger amount than we have ever before received:

Weekly . . .	$50.20—	in the year	$2,610.40
Monthly . . .	2.50—	"	30.00
Quarterly . .	17.00—	"	68.00
Semi-annually,	16.00—	"	32.00
Annually . .	50.00—	"	50.00
Paying yearly at weekly rates various am'nts	35.40—	"	35.40
	Total		$2,825.80

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.—There have been one or two changes in the representations from this parish on the different Boards of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions. Mrs. Bullock has been transferred from the Freedmen to the Domestic Committee; Mrs. Laupher has taken her place on the Freedmen Committee; Miss Williamson has resigned from the Foreign Committee, and Mrs. Walter Cox has taken her place; Miss Mary H. White also retires from the Tract Society, and Miss Schell takes her place. These ladies are authorized to make collections for the various bodies they represent.

TAKING UP THE OFFERTORY.—A slight change has been made in the manner of taking up the offerings at the Sunday morning service. Instead of keeping the plates at the back of the church, until the offertory proper occurs in the service, they are brought up to the chancel as soon as collected and placed on the credence, and then brought by one of the servers and presented on the altar at the proper time. This saves a rather awkward pause in the service and the parade of the Vestrymen bring up the plates.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS.—The three new stained glass windows, recently ordered, are expected to arrive from England and be put in place this month. They will be very great additions to the church. The Rector has received designs for the three windows still needed to complete the chancel. They represent Christ's triumphal entrance into Jerusalem, the Betrayal, and Christ before Pilate. They are in the vestry room and the Rector will be glad to show them at any time to those thinking of giving an order for a window. And now, when there is no duty on such windows, is the time to order them.

THE DAILY SERVICE.—We are sorry not to find more persons attending the daily service. Surely it is a privilege, and cannot but be profitable to those who use it. Cannot some of our people find time to go to church occasionally during the week? Are they all so engrossed with business or pleasure that they cannot find a half hour in the week for thought and prayer about higher things? And do they not need the strength and guidance, which can only come from such thought and prayer, to enable them to do their work and to bless their pleasures to them? It would be a great happiness to us to see the manifestation of a more devout spirit in this respect. Too many are coming to limit their church going to only one day in the week, and some neglect even that.

OFFERINGS.—We are thankful to record an additional Christmas offering, from a friend of the parish, of $100, received just after the new year, which was divided between our current expense account and our debt. This, with some other offerings, brings up the amount on hand, on account of the debt fund, to $417.34, leaving only $82.66 needed to make another payment of $500, on account of the mortgage. Can we not secure that amount this month?

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special envelope for a benevolent object this quarter is for Diocesan Missions, for which purpose this parish is assessed $75. In addition to which we are asked to contribute $35.86 to the sustentation fund of the diocese. For these amounts, $110.86 in all, we must look to those envelopes. Let every one in the congregation make a special offering through these, and the amount will be raised without any trouble. Remember we must not only contribute to bear the expense of our own parish, but we must bear a hand in carrying on the work of the diocese.

MISSIONARY BOXES.—In addition to the missionary box before reported, we have sent off two others, one containing a very handsome overcoat, and the other some clothes, valued together at $60. We have sent also a surplice to a clergyman in the South.

NEWS ITEMS.—We learn through the Church papers of the ordination to the Diaconate, in the Cathedral at New Orleans, La., of one of our old boys, Harry R. Carson. Mr. Carson has been studying for some time in the University of the South, at Sewanee, in preparation for this step, and now that it has been taken he has our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for his future usefulness. We are proud that our parish has given another of its sons to the sacred ministry.

We learn that our former assistant minister, the Rev. Henry Kittson, has undertaken a new church work in Montreal. He has become "Curate-in-charge" of the Church of the Advent in that city. He has begun the publication of a little parish paper the "Advent Messenger," which he sends in exchange for ours.

We are having a file of the volumes of this paper, so far issued, bound, so as to preserve them for use and reference in the vestry room. They will be a valuable historical record of the parish. Our successors will be able to trace month by month the story of our labors, the changes and vicissitudes through which we have passed, and we are happy to say, so far, the steady advances we have made.

ENTERTAINMENTS. — S. John's and S. Mary's Guild had a combined entertainment on the evening of Jan. 31st. None but the members of the two Guilds were invited, except the clergy of the parish and their wives. The time was occupied with instrumental and vocal music and recitations and other amusements, and a very substantial and bountiful repast was furnished, which reflected great credit upon the officers and committee who had the matter in charge.

S. John's Guild proposes to give another entertainment, for the benefit of the Church Debt Fund, on the evening of Feb. 21st. It will consist of a play, music and songs by the Glee Club. Admission, 10 cents, reserved seats, 25 cents. We look for a full attendance.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop has appointed the evening of the second Wednesday after Easter to administer Confirmation in this parish. The preparatory instructions will begin the first Monday and Thursday in Lent.

A Parish House.

The following is a description of a Parish House just presented by the mother of one of our Vestrymen to a church in the diocese of Central Pennsylvania. Would that we had such an one ourselves.

Mrs. W. J. Greenough has built and presented a very fine parish building to St. Matthew's Church, Sunbury (the Rev. C. Morrison, Rector). It contains a spacious hall, a large, well lighted, and well furnished parlor with an upright piano, and walls hung with fine pictures. The windows have small leaded panes and handsome curtains. In the basement is a lavatory and kitchen; just in the rear of the parlor is a gymnasium, fitted up with all the most modern appliances, and a bath room. Behind that is the smoking and game room, containing a pool table and tables for chess, checkers, etc. On the second floor front is the library, containing already 500 volumes, with magazines and newspapers. Both library and kitchen are supplied with a dumb waiter connecting them with the kitchen—an arrangement which will prove useful at sociables, suppers, and the like. The hall at this spot has an ingle-nook, with a massive fire place and red tiled flooring; old fashioned settees fill in the sides, and in the centre of the mantle is a brass plate bearing the the inscription: "In Memory of Ebenezer Greenough and William Israel Greenough, life-long members and officers of St. Matthew's Church, this Parish House was erected by Mary E. Greenough, A. D. 1894." On the second floor, over the gymnasium, is an auditorium (capable of seating 250 persons), with stage and dressing rooms. The third floor will be used for playing shuffle-board—indoor quoits. The building is heated throughout by steam, the parlor and library alone being lighted by gas, electric lights being used for the rest of the house, which is open to all the men in the parish and boys over sixteen, on the payment of $3 a year.

On the occasion of the opening of the Parish House, the company met the Rector and Vestry in the ingle-nook, where Mr. W. E. Greenough on behalf of Mrs. Greenough, after a short speech, presented the title-deeds to the Rector, who received them on behalf of the parish in the same spirit as that in which they were offered, namely, that of carrying on the work the parish house was intended to effect upon the principles of Catholic charity for the good of the community. Mr. C. M. Clement, Secretary of the Vestry, in thanking Mr. Greenough on behalf of that body, handed to her its formal resolutions, accepting the property, and pledging itself to maintain it upon the terms set out in the deed. The service of the formal benediction of the house was then performed by the Rev. C. Morrison, after which the building was declared open. In the evening the doors were thrown open to the public, and the house was visited by nearly 1,000 persons, many of whom became members.

CATHOLIC AUTHORITY.

We spoke in our last issue of Catholicity as the true test of doctrine or practice in the Church. We want now to show that this test can be applied to all the essential teachings of Christianity, and how it can be used to distinguish between what is true or necessary, and what is false or non-essential.

It is a matter of fact that all the great cardinal doctrines and important parts of the Christian system have been believed and accepted by all Christians, always and everywhere, even though divided from and holding no communion with each other.

Take the great doctrine of the Godhead known as the Trinity, and that of the Incarnation, the office and work of the Holy Ghost, and all the great facts and truths of the Christian religion as set forth in the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds, they have been held always and by all Christians with the fewest possible exceptions.

So as to the way and means of salvation. Some may in words maintain the doctrine of justification by faith only, but practically they insist upon the necessity of good works, as much as others who professedly do so. The same moral law is taught, the same sacraments used, though different theories may be held in regard to them. When you say a man is a Christian, you mean that he professes a certain definite religion, whether he be a Roman, Greek, or English Catholic, or whether he is a member of some Protestant denomination. Now when we consider how changing and inconstant all human systems and philosophies are, is not this wonderful agreement throughout so many ages proof that it has been the result of a divine guidance and superintendence? It is, as Mr. Gladstone has lately said, simply a miracle that there should be so much unity as there is among Christians, upon such vital points and for so long a time.

The matters upon which Christians differ and which separate them—wrongly—into different communions, are non-essential things, questions of Church order or ritual, not things which are necessary to salvation, or vital to the constitution of the Church. So we can apply this test to all the distinctive doctrines or characteristics of the various Christian bodies to learn whether they are true and essential. Thus try by it the Papal claim to universal jurisdiction and supremacy. If that had been recognized by all Christians from the very beginning, undoubtedly we should have to accept it as an intrinsic part of the Christian system. But when we find that as a matter of fact, it has never been recognized in the Eastern Church, and only for a comparatively short time in the Church of England, and that even where it has been accepted it was only a gradual growth, it is evident that it cannot stand this test and so is not a Catholic doctrine, or to be received as necessary to the constitution of the Church.

So apply it to the claim of another large section of Christians, to the necessity of immersion, to the validity of baptism. If each one is to study that question for himself from the statements in Scripture, there might be room for differences of opinion. But when we find that the vast majority of Christians have admitted that the pouring on of water is a valid baptism, it is evident that immersion ought not be insisted on, and that it is wrong to keep up a division among Christians on that account.

So apply it to the question of Church government. When we find that for fifteen hundred years from the establishment of Christianity, Episcopacy was the universally accepted form, and that it still remains so, except among a comparatively few Christians, is it not evident that that was the divinely intended form, rather than some other first devised in this or the last or three centuries ago?

So the truth or necessity of every doctrine or practice in vogue among Christians can be proved by this test. Nothing but what can be shown to have real Catholic authority should be taught or required as necessary to salvation, or to the integrity of the Christian Church. If that simple rule were followed, all the divisions of Christendom would be healed. For those divisions have arisen from men following their own personal opinions, and trying to force those opinions on others.

We do not have to rest on the authority of any one person, nor do we have to go each one for himself to investigate and determine what is true or false. We have simply to ask in regard to any doctrine or practice, what is the authority for it? Is it Catholic? Has it been held and followed by all Christians everywhere? If so, then it must be received as unquestionably true and essential. But if it cannot show that authority, then it is evident that it is not at least a necessary part of the Christian faith or sytem, and so is at best an open question, which one can hold to or not, as he prefers, but which may not be required as needful for membership in the Christian Church.

And it should be a matter of great satisfaction, and should give us a feeling of absolute certainty in regard to them, that all the great cardinal truths and essential features of the Church rest on this authority. And we should be charitable and liberal enough to allow individuals to follow their own preferences in regard to all matters which cannot be thus certified, never allowing differences of opinion on any subject which is not essential, to be the cause of separation of Christians into different communions. This is the sin of schism which destroys the unity and power of the Catholic Church.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The Rector has received the present of a very fine new cassock, of which he stood in need. A handsome beveled looking-glass in oak frame has been given for the sacristy, also an engraving of the Ecce Homo in an oak frame. Another coal order for the poor has been received, also some wood for the wood carving class in the Industrial School.

LENTEN SERVICES.—In addition to our ordinary daily services, the Penitential Office for Ash Wednesday will be said each Wednesday and Friday during Lent, after the Litany; and there will be a short lecture and a collection of Lenten offerings on Friday afternoons after Evening Prayer. The boys of the choir will be present and sing at the daily service at 5 P. M.

LENTEN SEWING.—The members of S. Mary's Guild and the Female Bible Class, and some of the members of the older classes in the Sunday School, will meet on every Thursday evening during Lent, to sew for the Church. It is proposed to have a small sale of useful and fancy articles thus made, some afternoon and evening after Easter, for the benefit of our church debt fund. The ladies will be thankful for any donations of material for these purposes, or if there are any in the congregation who would like to make articles as well, they will be thankfully received.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—We are very glad to announce that we have at last found some one who is willing and capable to assume the duties of Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. F. B. Falkner, a son of the Rector of Christ Church, Germantown, who has been attending our church this winter. This is a great relief to our Assistant Minister, who has had to take the position of superintendent in addition to his other labors on Sunday, simply because we had no one who could or would do it. We welcome Mr. Falkner very heartily to the parish and to the school, and we have no doubt it will be very successful under his care.

We have been glad to have been able to make an addition of some forty-four new volumes to our Sunday School library over and above those reported last month as presented.

The usual mite boxes have been distributed among the scholars for their Lenten offerings for missions. We hope they will be as well filled as they were last year. We think it would be a good idea if the members of our congregation would keep such mite boxes by them during Lent for such offerings for our church funds

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies of our Missionary Chapter of the Women's Guild have been able to send an additional package of things to the clergymen to whom we sent our box this year. His wife writes, acknowledging it, that they "were very glad to get the things as we were very much in need of pillow cases, but we had such a good box we hardly expected anything more. We have found the things of great service, as the weather has been extremely cold. For three weeks it was twenty to thirty below zero every day, and some days forty. The expense for fuel was very great. * * * Kind friend, I feel that giving is the natural result of loving, and that His love, who gave Himself for the life of the world, has put it into the hearts and minds of yourself and co-workers to do what you have for us, thereby extending His Kingdom upon earth. With deep gratitude to all the good friends every where, who have followed your leadership, I am most respectfully and gratefully Yours,

M. P. Goudy.

Blue Earth City, Minn., Feb. 12, '95.

The Ladies' Aid are going to work for S. Christopher's Hospital for Children during Lent.

MOTHERS' MEETING.—We are in need of funds to pay the women for the work they are doing for the hospitals.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—S. John's Guild gave a very successful entertainment on Feb. 21st. Our large school room was well filled with an appreciative audience, and the members of the Guild distinguished themselves in their plays, all of which were well done. We think their dramatic talent develops with practice. The entertainment was repeated by invitation on the following evening, in the parish building of S. Peter's Church, at Third and Pine Sts., and half of the proceeds given to the Guild. We understand they had a full house there and gave much satisfaction.

The lecture on Shakespeare's birth-place and grave, by the Rev. George Arbuthnot, Vicar of Stratford-on-Avon, we are sorry to say, was not a financial success, owing to the very small attendance. It was a most excellent and interesting lecture, most beautifully illustrated by stereopticon views. Those who did not come to it, missed a great treat. And the result was a great mortification to ourselves as well as a disappointment to the lecturer, who received absolutely nothing for his pains, neither, of course, did our church debt fund.

PAYMENT ON ACCOUNT OF THE MORTGAGE.—We are very thankful to say that one of the members of our Vestry generously donated $82.66, which we said last month was needed to complete the sum of $500, to make another payment on our mortgage debt. This reduces it to $22,500. Can we not pay the other $500 before May 1st, and thus make the reduction $1000 for the financial year? We have received some further contributions towards it, and through the receipts from our entertainment and sale we shall have something more. Who will help? We must get rid of this burden.

NOTICE.—The Accounting Warden desires those who use envelopes to destroy or return to the sexton any of the old envelopes they have and use only the new dated ones. He also requests all to be careful to seal their envelopes, as if they are not sealed the money is apt to fall out of them and get mixed with the loose change in the plates, and it is impossible to know how much was in them.

OUR FINANCES.—A special meeting of the Vestry was recently held to consider the present condition of our finances. The Warden reports that in spite of our effort to make up the deficit we have been carrying, it looks as if we would come out with another deficit at the end of this financial year, April 30th, of some $500 or $600. This was to be expected, as we had that deficit last year, and our making that up has only rendered it harder for us to increase our ordinary receipts this year. What we want is to get a permanent addition of about $600 to our income, or else to get rid of our debt. As we can only hope to do the latter gradually, we must try and do the former. How to do it, is the question the Vestry had to discuss. Various plans were suggested. Finally it was determined to restore to the seats in the church the reminders we formerly had in them, that they are free and that the church is supported by voluntary offerings. It was thought this might lead the strangers and those who casually worship with us to contribute more largely. Secondly, the Vestry directed the issuing of a circular to all connected with the church who do not use envelopes, urging them to do so, believing that if they did the receipts of the church would be increased.

In addition to this the Rector's Warden was requested to draw up an appeal to the congregation at large, which we print in this issue.

S. BARNABAS GUILD FOR NURSES.—The Rector of this parish has lately been appointed Chaplain of the branch of this Guild in this city, and it is to meet hereafter regularly in our parish building on the fourth Tuesday evening of each month.

It is a general Guild extending throughout the United States, the Bishop of Pittsburgh being the Chaplain General. It is designed to bind together those engaged in nursing, to help them to realize their responsibilities and afford them the spiritual helps they need. Any regular qualified nurse of good character is eligible to membership.

A Statement to the Congregation.

The Vestry of the Church of the Ascension, at a recent meeting, directed the undersigned to bring to the notice of the congregation, the following facts:

The accounts of the church show that in order to keep the services of the church as they are at present conducted, with the present salaries paid to the clergy, and expenses of maintaining the church, there must be an increase in the yearly income of about six hundred dollars. Each year since the present rate of expenditure has been established, has shown a deficit in the current receipts over the expenses, of this amount, which has hampered the Vestry, and, which if not provided for, will involve the church in debt.

In the management of the finances of a free church, it is necessary from time to time, to submit to the congregation which supplies the necessary funds, reports of the situation, and to inform it of the needs of the parish.

There are more than four hundred Communicants connected with the Church of the Ascension, and the general character of its congregation is of much more than ordinary intelligence.

It would seem that the mere statement of this condition of the affairs of the church would result in an unanimous effort on the part of the Communicants certainly, and indeed of the entire congregation, to find a remedy.

Think for a moment how much can be done by a slight effort, if only that effort can be made a general one. If five hundred persons (and there are more than this number connected with the Church of the Ascension) would add to their present contributions the sum of five cents weekly, the result would be an increase of thirteen hundred dollars annually, more than double the amount required to avoid the present annual deficit.

Can any words of mine put this in stronger language?

Can any man or woman doubt his or her duty under these circumstances?

I want to reach the individual conscience of every one connected with the church. Do not throw this down and forget it, but do your part. If you feel that you should do even more than this, do it, and make up for some poor creature who cannot even increase her (for I take it that there is no man who cannot do it) widow's mite.

Write a note to the Accounting Warden, or a postal card, and ask him to increase your present pledge by adding what you choose, five or ten cents, or more, as you desire, and then next Sunday increase your present weekly contribution that much. Do it now.

What is an additional five or ten cents a week, compared to the prosperity of your Church!

On behalf of the Vestry,

J. E. CARPENTER,
Rector's Warden.

"The Richest Church in the World."

So is styled the Church of England, which is the Church of what undoubtedly is the richest nation; but what are the facts? There are 21,000 clergy engaged in parochial work in England and Wales. What are their incomes? 400 benefices are under £50 a year. 3,600 are beneficed incomes under £150 a year. There are 7,000 curates whose average income amounts to £130 (without parsonage houses). The rest of the clergy receive incomes from their profession utterly insufficient for even a moderate maintenance of themselves and families.

CATHOLIC PRACTICES.

We have been speaking of Catholicity as the test of truth of doctrine and what is necessary in order in the Church. The same can be applied to the practices of the Church to a certain extent. We say to a certain extent, because these not being matters of doctrine or necessary order are not of so much importance, it is not so necessary that they should always be the same. In fact, we find that there has been a great diversity of practice in the Church. The Preface to our Prayer says: "It is a most invaluable part of that blessed liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, that in His worship different forms and usages may without offense, be allowed, provided the substance of the faith be kept entire." Still, if we find that among Christians generally there has been an agreement in regard to certain practices, we may surely conclude that they are wise and good, and calculated to advance the ends for which all public worship and order exist.

Thus we find that from the earliest times, and universally until the rise of some Protestant bodies at the time of the Reformation, a liturgy has been used for the conduct of public worship. We may be sure, therefore, without going into any argument on the subject, that that is wiser than a mere extemporaneous worship. And this is substantiated by the tendency now observed among bodies that have discarded the use of a liturgy to return to it. The same is true of vestments and of the other ornaments of the ministers and churches. Things which have been used as far back as our records extend, and throughout the Christian world, may certainly be looked upon as part of the Christian heritage, and natural and proper to be used in worship. It is a mistake to be singular, and wrong to create divisions and disturb the common order about personal opinions or preferences.

This we think is one of the great errors of many of the Protestant denominations, that they have set up and maintain separate organizations about trivial matters of order or ritual, even where there is full agreement on the essentials of faith.

And it is one of the advantages of the Churches of the Anglican Communion in maintaining, as it does, the use of those great elements and characteristics of public worship which have obtained in every part of the Catholic Church, that it brings it into harmony with the different branches of that Church, and helps to destroy the impression that would otherwise be conveyed that it is a modern and schismatical society. It is not simply that we like and enjoy and find these things profitable, but there is this principle involved in their use, that it shows our agreement with the great body of the Church in all ages. It is part of our Catholic heritage, that which belongs to us naturally, of right, as members of the Catholic Church. And we may be sure that those things which have been used so long and so universally are the wisest and best for their purpose.

But while this is true of the great elements involved in the order and worship of the Church, when we come to the details we find that there has always been a great variety and constant change, which has been due to different national and climatic conditions, and to changes of habits, customs and sentiments. And such changes and varieties within limits are doubtless healthy and useful. They are signs of life and adaptability on the part of the Church to the habits and temperaments of different people. Thus while the same elements of worship appear in all the branches of the Church, we find great differences for instance between the Latin and Greek Communions in regard to the shape and arrangement of their churches, altars, screens, vestments, use of pictures and images, as well as in the character and words of their services. So in the Western Church before the Reformation there was a great diversity of use not only in different national churches, but in different dioceses and even in different parishes. Thus in England there were the different rites known as the use of Sarum, Bangor, Hereford, York, etc. And one of the objects of the setting forth of the Prayer Book in the time of King Edward VI was to establish a more uniform use throughout England.

And so any one who is familiar with ecclesiastical history knows that the services, the shape and color of the vestments, the number of lights, the postures and various minor ceremonies used in the services of the Church have been constantly varying among different people and at different times. There is a fashion in the Church, as there is every where else, and while the Church is more conservative and changes less frequently, nevertheless it does change and there is no reason why it should not. There is no reason why we should look for or require absolute uniformity in the Church or imagine that Catholicity demands that all the details of the arrangement of our churches and services should be the same. It is only the great elements of worship that can claim that authority, details may and do alter from time to time and place to place.

And so it is natural and right that a great and distinct branch of the Church, such as the Anglican Communion, should have, as the Greek and Roman Churches have, its own peculiar customs. It has its own liturgy, and the special characteristics of its worship as it has been developed in the cathedrals and great churches in England and this Country is that of a rational, sober, dignified, beautiful service, without the redundancy and multiplicity of detail and movement which appears in the Roman and Greek Churches. And we think that this is the character of service we should seek to maintain. As long as the English and Roman Churches are separated, so long at least, it is well that the difference should appear in their services. Otherwise the unthinking will fail to discriminate between them. They are both parts of the Catholic Church, but there is a Roman rite and an English rite.

So in different Churches of the same general rite, if some prefer ornate services and others plainer ones, they should both be provided. And if some persons are helped and like to use certain acts or expressions of devotion, they should be at liberty to do so, and those who do not are not to be blamed. The rule to be followed is that laid down in the first English Prayer Book, "As touching, kneeling, crossing, holding up of hands, knocking upon the breast and other gestures, they may be used or left as every man's devotion serveth, without blame." There is really no Catholic law about such things.

PARISH NOTES.

HOLY WEEK.—We shall have the same services as usual during Holy Week. Celebrations daily, except Good Friday at 7.30 and 10 A. M., and a sermon at night, at 8 P. M. On Good Friday, Celebration at 7.30 A. M.; Morning Prayer and Litany, and Penitential Service at 11 A. M., followed by the singing of the Reproaches and preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M., and a sermon again at night. These services have proved very useful in the past, and we hope they will be largely attended this year.

EASTER.—On Easter Day there will be Celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, and 8.30 A. M., as well as in the middle of the day. Two clergymen who occasionally attend our church, the Rev. Dr. Robins, and the Rev. Mr. Meigs, having kindly volunteered to take two of these services. At 11.30 A. M. the choir will sing the whole of Gounod's Sacred Heart.

On Low Sunday the Easter music will be repeated, and the Preacher will be the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Pittsburgh.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—We shall need an Easter offering of at least $1000, to enable us to close our financial year without debt. We wish very much that this might be realized that we may not be afflicted with any deficit. Then we should have indeed done well this year, to have paid off a deficit of $800 from previous years, and met our current expenses for the present year in addition. Is that too much to expect? Will not each member of the congregation feel the necessity of doing their utmost, and making as large an Easter offering as they possibly can?

FLOWERS.—The ladies who have charge of providing the flowers for the altar and other festivals, as well as the washing of the surplices and altar linen, request us to say that their funds for these purposes are very low, and they look for special contributions at this time. One of the alms boxes in the vestibule will be devoted to this fund during Passiontide, or contributions may be handed to the Treasurer, Miss Parmelee, or to the Rector.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS. — The amount so far received for Diocesan Missions, is $17.83, and we are expected to contribute $75, also $35.86 to the Sustentation Fund. Will not all the members of the congregation make some offering (early this month), for these purposes through the envelopes marked Diocesan Missions which they have received, or which they will find in the rack near the door of the Church? Not only is this cause one which should call forth our offerings, the extension of the Church in the Diocese, but we should keep up the honor of our Church, and not let it appear delinquent in doing what is expected of it in the Diocese. These envelopes should be returned at once as the account is closed this month.

The following letter has been received by the Rector in regard to the Sustentation Fund:

Philadelphia, March 27th, 1895.

Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge.

Church of the Ascension.

Rev. and Dear Sir: On October 8th, 1894, you were notified that the amount apportioned by the stewards to your parish, for the Sustentation Fund of the Diocese for the Convention year of 1894-5, in accordance with the Canon, was $35.86.

The object of this Sustentation Fund, established by the Convention of 1890, was to augment the salaries of the rectors of feeble parishes throughout the Diocese, and for this account the amount of $3,000 was asked for by the last Convention.

The appropriations from the fund being only made of absolute cash on hand, as reported to the Convention, I venture, on behalf of the stewards, to call your attention to the matter, and to ask if you will not kindly send me the amount desired from your parish at an early day.

Yours very truly,

GEO. C. THOMAS, Treas.

Chestnut and Fifth Sts.

Only two dollars have been received for this purpose so far.

APPEAL.—The circular letter sent out last month by the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Vestry, appealing to all the members of the congregation to use envelopes, together with the article we published by the Rector's Warden asking all who could do so to increase their offerings, have, we are glad to say, met with some response. A number have taken envelopes who had not been using them before, several have increased the amount they had been giving, and in two cases that amount has been doubled.

The Warden desires us to say, however, that all increasing the amount of their pledge should notify him, as otherwise it will lead to confusion in his accounts.

We reprint here the letter of the Chairman of the Finance Committee, as there may be some who will see it here, into whose hands it may not have come.

CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION.

S. W. Cor. Broad and South Streets.

Philadelphia, February, 1895.

The Vestry of this Church are anxious to double the number of envelopes now used for its weekly support. One hundred and fifty are now in use, and the Communicants of our Church number 475! Will not one person at least in this family take an envelope for a sum NOT LARGE, but one which can and will be given each week WITH REGULARITY, so that it can be counted upon towards the current expenses of the Church?

Five or ten cents given WITH CERTAINTY would yield a good sum yearly, and would be felt by no one —giving up two trolley rides each week would do it,—and the sum of ten cents given EVERY SUNDAY IN THE YEAR by one hundred and fifty Communicants would produce $15 each Sunday, or a total of $780, and more than cover the deficiency which confronts us now at the close of each financial year.

The sum so given in the numbered and dated envelopes is known ONLY to the Accounting Warden, so let no one hesitate to give ten cents, for although a small sum ($5.20 a year), it will be a GREAT HELP, AND PREVENT THE RECURRENCE OF A DEFICIT IN FUTURE. Only take an envelope and give what you agree to give WITH REGULARITY, and so do your part towards the support of our Church, where all the sittings are NOT RENTED OR APPROPRIATED.

"If thou hast much, give plenteously; if thou hast little, do thy diligence gladly to give of that little."—Tobit iv.

WILLIAM PLATT PEPPER,
Chairman Finance Committee.

FAIR.—The sale of useful and fancy articles of which we spoke last month, will take place in the parish building on April 25th, from 3 until 6 P. M., and from 7.30 until 10 P. M. There will be a refreshment and candy table, grab bag, etc., with music and recitations in the evening. The admission will be 10 cents. We hope all the members of the parish will come, and bring their friends. Tickets can be had from the Sexton, or any of the members of S. Mary's Guild. The proceeds of this sale are for the church debt.

MUSICAL TEA.—In connection with the Fair it is proposed to give a Musical Tea, at the Hotel Stratford, on April 24th, from 4 to 6 P. M. It was thought that many persons outside the parish might in this way be induced to contribute towards the reduction of the church debt, who would not be attracted to a Fair in our parish building. Several prominent musicians have volunteered their services to play and sing, and there will be a table for the sale of fancy articles. Admission will be one dollar. Any members of the parish desiring tickets for themselves or friends, can procure them from Mrs. R. A. Gilpin, 1332 Pine Street.

ORDINATION.—The Rector had much pleasure last month in taking part in, and preaching the sermon at the ordination to the Priesthood of the Rev. James M. Blackwell, a former member of this parish. Mr. Blackwell became connected with the parish in 1886, and soon identified himself with the Sunday School and S. John's Guild. It was while thus engaged that he determined to study for the sacred Ministry. Under the advice of the Rector he went to S. Stephen's College, Annandale, N. Y., where he spent six years, graduating in 1892, after which he spent a year in the Philadelphia Divinity School, when he was ordained Deacon by the Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, and placed by him in charge of a Mission at Mechanicsburg. It was here that he was ordained Priest. The Rector found him most pleasantly situated with a pretty stone church, and a most tasteful Rectory where he and his wife are happily installed. We wish him all success in his future work.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—As the date of the regular monthly meeting of S. Mary's Guild falls this month in Holy Week, it will be transferred to Tuesday of the week following, the 16th.

VESTRY ELECTION.—The annual election of four Vestrymen to serve for three years, in place of those whose terms expire, will be held in the parish building on Easter Monday, the polls to be open from after Divine Service in the morning until one o'clock. All who have been registed as Communicants, and have been contributing through the envelope system for one year are entitled to vote.

GIFTS.—The Rector has received a very fine new linen surplice. And some very good articles of clothing have been sent for missionary boxes. Two such boxes have been sent, one to a student in the General Theological Seminary in New York, and one to a clergyman in the Diocese of Milwaukee.

"And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me."

Thy lifting up, the world shall draw,
O Saviour Christ, with wond'ring awe,
In answer to Thy loving law,
In Thy great peace to rest.

O SAVIOUR! crucified for me,
With outspread arms on that dread tree;
To Thy embrace, for love I flee,
In Thy great peace to rest.

Here in Thy bleeding, wounded Side,
Where mercy, truth and love abide,
The burden of my soul I hide,
In Thy great peace to rest.

Amid the gloom of earth's dark night,
My heart, oppressed with sin's foul blight,
Turns back to Thee, the source of light,
In Thy great peace to rest.

Touched by Thy pity, full and free,
A sacrifice for sin—for me;
I bring my burden, Lord, to Thee,
In Thy great peace to rest.

REDUCTION OF OUR DEBT.

We are certainly under very great obligations to the ladies of our congregation who inaugurated and carried out so successfully the Musical Tea and the Bazaar for the benefit of our church debt. Both entailed a great deal of work, which was most cheerfully performed. Every one seemed to take an interest, and many very handsome contributions, both of money and articles, were made. The tickets sold for the Tea, and some money received as donations, make the total receipts after payment of all expenses $932. The tickets sold for the Fair, and money received from sale of articles, ice cream, etc., make a total of $137.80 over expenses. Thus $1069.80 altogether was received for the reduction of our debt, as the result of the ladies' efforts. This is certainly very creditable to them, and a most substantial benefit to the church. Added to the $500 we were able to pay off in February, it makes a total of over $1500 for the financial year. We have thus in three years time been able to reduce our debt from $25,000 to $21,500, in addition to paying the current expenses of the church and carrying on our charitable and missionary work.

As gratifying as this is, however, it is still slow progress when we consider how large the debt is yet. We must hope, therefore, that there are members of our congregation who will be able, from time to time, to make substantial contributions towards this purpose. And may we not hope also that they will remember it in their wills? Every one who has any property ought to make provision for its disposition after his death. And when we remember how utterly uncertain the duration of life is, this should not be left to a possible old age or long sickness, but be done at once, while there is time and one is in the full possession of his faculties. And in disposing of one's property, where there are not immediate relatives whose wants will require it all, what better object is there to which it can be devoted than the relieving from debt or endowing a free church like ours, situated in so prominent a position in the heart of this populous city.

There are few better positions for church work than that which we possess. And yet, as we have not many persons of wealth in the congregation, and it is always possible that those few might remove, so the church is not in a safe and secure position until it is free from debt, and has at least a partial endowment. Nor can we ever pay our Rector an adequate salary until this is attained.

Will not all our people, therefore, keep this always in mind, and do all they can by gifts or bequests to put our church in this position? The Vestry propose to keep on sending out the special envelopes marked for the mortgage from time to time, and we trust they will all come back well filled.

While therefore thanking the ladies again for their efforts on this behalf and congratulating them and ourselves on their success, we trust that this will only prove an incentive to further and greater contributions to the same end.

REVERENCE IN CHURCH.

We want to say a word to the members of our congregation on this subject.

We had always thought we had a very reverent congregation. And we think so still. There is a very general observance of the attitudes of prayer and praise. The congregation rises when the clergy and choir enter the church and stands reverently until they have returned to the Vestry. They very generally remain, as they should, kneeling throughout the Communion. Few assume the indolent attitude of sitting even during the singing of anthems, as is seen in some churches. Few put on their coats and wraps during the singing of the recessional hymn. And there is a marked absence of that disposition to talk and gossip immediately at the conclusion of the service that is seen in some places. On the whole, therefore, we think our people are very reverent.

But there is one point in which we do not think they are so, and to which we want to call their attention, as we think many have fallen into the habit from carelessness, not realizing its effect, and that is, the way in which they keep coming into and going out of the church all through the service. We have puposely arranged our service in the middle of the day on Sundays and high festivals so as to divide it into two distinct services with an interval between them, so that if any find it too long to stay through both services, they can leave at the conclusion of the first, or not come until the beginning of the second. This is done in very few churches, and removes all excuse for the irreverence and interruption of the service of which we complain. Any one can come for Morning Prayer and the Litany and Sermon, or for the Holy Communion alone, or they can come for the Sermon and Holy Communion, entering during the singing of the hymn by which the sermon is preceded. But whatever service one wishes to attend, one should be in time for its beginning and remain until its close. It is certainly not a reverent or intelligent way of treating it, not to enter the church until it is half over, or to go out before it is closed. And for people to come streaming into the church during the reading of the lessons or the prayers or the sermon, or still more during the Celebration, is very distracting to and inconsiderate of those who are already there and trying to preserve their attention. If at any time any are belated, they should remain about the door or in the back of the church, at least until some singing begins and the people are standing up, and they can enter unobtrusively. It is impossible for the preacher to hold the attention of the congregation if people are going up or being shown to seats high in the church during the sermon. And it is still more irreverent during the celebration of the Holy Communion.

So, if for any cause there are those who cannot remain throughout the whole of any one service, they should leave during some singing, when all are standing, and their going will not be so noticed. We have good ground for what we are saying, for we doubt if there are many churches in which there is such constant going in and out as there is in ours, and that often in the most solemn parts of the service, as even during the very Consecration Prayer in the Celebration. Some times also we see a whole string of young people coming into the church even during the short afternoon service, and then filing out again after a brief interval. For this there can be no excuse. It is gross irreverence. There is no pious purpose in going to church in that way. We hope we shall see these things reformed.

PARISH NOTES.

THE MUSICAL TEA AND FAIR were eminently successful. The weather was delightful on both days. The rooms at the Stratford were very beautiful, owing chiefly to the kindness of Mrs. William Masters Camac, whose wedding reception was held there an hour or two before, and who left all the decorations for the benefit of the Tea, and notwithstanding several disappointments in regard to persons who had promised to sing and failed to do so at the last, there was plenty of music, and that very good. The rooms were so crowded there was no getting about, new comers could only get in as those first there came out. So considering the amount of money made, and all things connected with it, the ladies who took the trouble of getting it up, and it involved a great deal of trouble, must feel themselves amply rewarded.

As to the fair in the parish building, the large school room in which it was held was prettily decorated, and the tables were very prettily and heavily laden, a number of very nice things having been made for or contributed to it, and there was a fair attendance, especially in the evening, and a good deal sold. Being a very hot night the ice cream and lemonade tables were especially patronized. We must say, however, in regard to it, that not a fifth part of the members of the parish took enough interest in it to come to it, which was rather hard upon those who had worked so hard to get it up.

The articles which were not sold have been kept and will be offered for sale again at our Parish Tea, which will take place on the 30th of this month, when a large number of persons will be present.

We are much indebted to several firms who made donations or sold things at reduced rates for the Tea and Fair, as well as to the musicians who so kindly contributed their valuable services.

THE NEW WINDOWS for our chancel and clere-story, we have been so long expecting, reached this city from London April 1st. But owing to delay in the Custom House, it was not until the end of Holy Week that they arrived at the church, and it was with great difficulty that they were put in place in time for Easter. But it was a great gratification to all that they were ready by that time. The two put in the chancel are very satisfactory. The coloring is very rich. They are generally regarded as the finest we have now in the church, and they make the chancel look much more complete. The central window in the chancel representing the Ascension, these two represent post Ascension scenes. The first to the right of the center window represents Christ going forth conquering and to conquer on the white horse, as described in Rev. vi, the red and black horses with their riders, and death on the pale horse following after. They are represented as treading on clouds, the earth appearing beneath. It is very animated, and conveys an excellent idea of the apocalyptic vision. The next window represents Christ coming again in glory to judge the world. The figure of our Lord appears in the upper part of the window, seated, surrounded by saints and angels, and in the lower part is a large figure of the angel of justice, having the sword in one hand, and the balances in the other. It is especially rich in its coloring. The small window for the clere-story, completes the first group of three windows on the west side of the church, nearest the chancel. It represents S. Michael. It is not altogether satisfactory as it is, the background and border not corresponding with those in the other windows. Some alterations will have to be made in it.

Our hearty thanks are due to the donors of these windows, which add so much to the beauty of the church. The Rector has on hand designs for the remaining chancel, and for some of the clere-story windows, if any persons are thinking of putting any in as gifts or memorials.

EASTER.—Our services on Easter Day were very fine. The choir sang the whole of Gounod's Sacred Heart for the first time, and rendered it very well. It was assisted by an orchestra, which was supplied by the generosity of the choir master. The congregations were larger, we think, than ever before, one hundred and seventy-five chairs being brought into the church, in addition to those always there. And we were much gratified by the amount of the offerings, $912, being received, which was not far short of the $1000 asked for.

We regret to say, however, that even with this offering, we do not come out at the end of our financial year free from debt. Still the showing for the year is very good and a great advance over last year, in that we have paid all the expenses of the church for the year, and some $200 on account of the balance brought over from previous years. Can we not this year wipe that all out?

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election for Vestrymen, held on Easter Monday, Mr. Samuel Wetherill, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, Mr. Frank R. Stevenson, and Mr. Stevenson H. Walsh, were duly elected to serve for three years. At a meeting of the Vestry, held subsequently, the Rector reappointed Mr. Carpenter as Rector's Warden, and Mr. Bullock declining a re-election as Accounting Warden, after the expiration of his term on May 1st, Mr. C. L. S. Tingley was elected in his stead. As Mr. Tingley has already served one term in that capacity, he is familiar with the work. Messrs. Carpenter, Bullock and Tingley were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

CONFIRMATION. — Our annual Confirmation took place on the evening of the second Wednesday after Easter, when the clergy presented to the Bishop, a class of twenty-eight, being twelve males and sixteen females. There were also confirmed at the same time, one from the Church of the Evangelist, one from the Church of the Crucifixion, and one from St. Clement's Church. Another member of the class was afterwards confirmed in the Church of the Annunciation.

SICKNESS.—The sympathies of all the members of the congregation have gone out during the past month to the family of our Assistant Minister, in the great trial through which they have been passing in the extreme illness of Mrs. Lanpher's daughter, Miss Corson. As we go to press, she is still extremely ill.

The senior member of our Vestry, Mr. Samuel Wetherill, also has been confined to his house since last Thanksgiving Day, having had to undergo another operation on his eyes. He has also suffered from an attack of pneumonia. From this, however, we are glad to say, he is now recovering.

There have been several other cases also of severe illness in the parish.

We have also to record the sickness and death of Mrs. Wm. Penn Chandler, who, though not a member of the parish, has been one of its benefactors, having presented to it our very handsome brass lectern and brass altar rail, and made donations to it from time to time, even as late as last Christmas. R. I. P.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL. — We shall observe Ascension Day, the name day of our church, as usual, by two celebrations of the Holy Communion, the second being after Morning Prayer, which will begin at 11 A. M. Evening Prayer at 5 P.M., and Choral Shortened Evening Prayer with anniversary sermon by the Rector at 8 P. M. The annual Guild Service will take place on the evening of the Sunday after Ascension at 7.45 P. M. The members of the different Guilds of the parish will meet in the parish building and enter the Church in procession with their respective banners. There will be a sermon by a special preacher.

The annual Parish Tea will be on the evening of Thursday, the octave of the Ascension, May 30th. This is our great parish social reunion, and we hope to see all our parishioners present.

SUMMER SERVICES.—Our services remain as throughout the winter during this month. On June 1st the 7 P. M. Twilight service taking the place of the 4 and 7.45 P. M. services, and the Prayers on Wednesday and Fridays at 10 A. M. of the daily and Wednesday night services.

SUMMER OFFERINGS.—All leaving the city for the summer are urgently requested to place in the plate before they go, their offerings for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, that we may have the money to meet our expenses during that time.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been paid since the March number of the NEWS:

The "Church of the Future."

Public Opinion, a journal well-known and valued, has a pleasant word to say for our Communion:

A good showing is made by the so-called Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. Over 4000 clergy, 500,000 communicants, and nearly 2,000,000 baptisms, over 100,000 confirmed, this is a very fair result in the way of increase during the year. Besides, there are nearly 500 candidates for Holy Orders, and the records show an increase of income amounting to $2,000,000. The general growth of the Church far exceeds proportionately that of the population at large, or of any other religious section of it in particular. It looks like the "Church of the Future."

SUMMER CHURCH-GOING.

As the season is again upon us when so many go out of the city altogether or upon Sundays, and in which even those who remain at home think it too hot to go to church, we feel we must say a word to our people on this subject.

First, we should remember that attending church on Sunday is a matter of moral obligation. It is not simply a pleasant or useful thing to do, or a good custom. It is an obligation laid upon us by Almighty God. He has made it one of the Commandments of the great universal moral code. It is as obligatory as not to commit murder or to steal. To violate it is as bad as idolatry or blasphemy. Why? It seems an arbitrary thing. Why I should not steal or blaspheme I can see, but why must I keep one day in every seven holy, and keep it in this way by an act or acts of public worship? There have been those who have gone so far as to say they can see nothing moral in it and that it has no place in the moral law. If it was ever binding at all, it was only on the Jews, part of their ritual law; it does not apply to Christians. But the obligation in it is that we owe a certain proportion of our time and attention to God and to religion. We have a soul as well as a body and mind, a spiritual life to be cultivated as well as a mere natural life to live, a God to serve and adore as well as human relatives, leaders and masters. So we owe it both to God and to ourselves that we give time and thought to Him and to our spiritual interests.

And this must be done regularly, systematically, thoroughly, just as any business, education, or other earthly concern should be attended to. And to do it so, it must be in a place and with such accessories as are needful for the purpose. It can only be done very imperfectly at the best, and generally not at all, at home, by ourselves. There must be stated times for it. And the time set for it is one day in seven. This is arbitrary, if you will. But it has been prescribed by the same power that has prescribed the amount of time to be given to waking and sleeping, labor and rest, the days, months, seasons, years. It is not likely human wisdom could improve on that ordainment. And human experience has proved its truth.

The lives of those who violate this divine prescription, and give little or no time to religion, are themselves evidence of its necessity. They are not the highest and best lives, not such lives that they might be under a different regimen. They are generally far from what they ought to be, often very bad lives. And the consequence is as evident as that following from any cause, that it is generally the first step in wrong doing, in moral deterioration. A man neglects church-going and religious worship, and he becomes naturally forgetful of his duties, both to God and man; he loses the restraints and all the blessings and benefits religion alone can be to him.

If it is answered to this that there are some who go to church regularly who are no better than those who do not go, the reply is that that is no more an answer than it would be to say that going to school is of no use because there are scholars who go regularly and do not learn anything. It is the fault of their own stupidity or badness, not of the school. It is necessary for education. So is church-going necessary for the discharge of Christian duty, the cultivation and keeping alive of spiritual life.

And if this is true of one season of the year it is true of another. It is as necessary in summer as in winter. We are to keep one day in seven in this way all the year round. We are to make religion thus part of the regular routine of our life. It is as bad for one spiritually to go two, three or four months without church-going as it would be to go as many days without sleep. We should all feel the obligation of going to church every Sunday, winter or summer, wherever we are, if there is a church to which we can go, unless we are absolutely prevented by sickness or other equally insuperable obstacle. The really devout soul will want to go, will not be satisfied not to go. But even if one does not feel so, one should regard the obligation, and go as a matter of duty. The Roman Catholic is taught that he will be damned unless he hears Mass every Sunday. And that is a rough and ready way of expressing what is true. If a man neglects his religious duties he is damning himself, he is starving and stunting his spiritual nature. And it will not do to say that he will supply his religious needs by irregular draughts now and then, when he has the time and inclination. The soul needs sustenance regularly, systematically, as the body needs food. To go to church every Sunday is for the soul what three meals a day are for the body.

We trust our people will realize this. Feel that it is a moral obligation laid upon them by the Fourth Commandment of the great universal moral code, to attend church every Sunday, winter or summer, whether they are at home or abroad. Let them do it as a duty, and it will grow to be a pleasure.

PARISH NOTES.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL passed off this year very much as usual. The attendance on the morning of Ascension Day is never what it ought to be, considering how great a day it is in itself, as well as being our special parish festival. If we had the means we should make it the grandest service we have in all the year. The attendance at night was very fair for a week night, and, as usual, the Rector preached the anniversary sermon, giving the statistics for the year, which we publish in this issue, and pointing out what progress had been made and what ought to be done in the future.

The Guild service on the Sunday evening after the Ascension was very creditable. The Guilds turned out in good force and made a nice appearance. The procession reached twice the length of the church. The sermon this year was preached by the Rector.

Our Parish Tea on Monday night was not as largely attended this year as usual, though over two hundred people were present. And those who were there seemed to have a very good time. It is certainly a very valuable occasion for bringing the people of the parish together, and we only wish there were more who would be sociable and avail themselves of it. Altogether we feel that our way of keeping our Dedication Festival is very good for the parish.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN THE CHURCH has been made by altering the position of the lectern by moving it to a place corresponding to that occupied by the pulpit on the other side of the church. This is not only more symmetrical and removes an obstruction to the view of the Altar from some seats in the church, but will be very much better on another account. A good deal of complaint has been made that it was difficult to hear distinctly the reading of the lessons, and it was due to the position of the lectern, the reader having the whole depth of the chancel, some thirty feet, behind him, his voice was largely lost in it and did not go out into the church. Now standing with the wall of the church directly behind him his voice will be thrown out as by a sounding board, as it is from the pulpit.

In addition to this, two new gas fixtures have been placed directly over the lectern and the pulpit, which will afford ample light to each, it having in both places heretofore been very insufficient.

GIFTS.—We have received this month ten volumes for the Sunday School library, a number of papers and magazines, a large quantity of cakes, tea, sugar, etc. for the Parish Tea. A cut stone to be placed behind the lectern on which the reader is to stand, this is the gift of a gentleman outside of our parish.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENTS.—The usual arrangement of summer services begins with this month, and will be the same as last year except that the early Celebrations on Holy Days will be omitted, as it has been found that not more than one or two persons, and sometimes no one, came to them.

Usually in the summer the Rector has removed his family to some place not very far from the city, and has been in the habit of coming himself to town every Sunday, and while the Assistant is away on all Wednesdays and Fridays and Holy Days. This year he is going to Spring Lake, N. J., and will only come up on the Sundays of July and August, when Mr. Lanpher takes his vacation, and arrangements will be made with some other clergyman for the other services. The Assistant Minister will be in charge of the church during June and September. Persons desiring to see the Rector particularly can do so on any Sunday or Monday morning during July and August.

A SPECIAL SERVICE will be held in the church on the evening of Trinity Sunday, for the benefit of S. Barnabas Guild for nurses, of which our Rector is the chaplain. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Mortimer, Rector of S. Mark's Church.

MISSIONARY BOXES.—During Lent one of the classes in the Sunday School sent to the Italian Mission a box of clothing valued at $10.00, and also made an equal amount of clothing for a family connected with the church.

The Ladies' Aid sent a very substantial box, valued at $30.00, to St. Christopher's Hospital in this city. We subjoin the letter of thanks which was received in acknowledgement:

April 16th, 1895.

My Dear Mrs. Carman:—The Board of Lady Visitors of St. Christopher's Hospital wish me to thank you and each and every member of the Ladies' Aid of the Church of the Ascension for the barrel of such nice and most acceptable articles you were so kind as to send to the Hospital: 20 white dresses, 8 colored dresses, 12 night dresses, 2 flannel wrappers, 34 pillow slips, 28 diapers, 13 pieces of other clothing, 6 rag dolls (which have given great pleasure) and some very nice books and toys. And they arrived in perfect condition. Again thanking you most warmly for your kind thought for our little ones, as well as for your very generous contribution and assistance to our work,

I remain most sincerely,

JUDITH DALLETT BUDD,
Corresponding Secretary.

AUXILIARY CHOIR.—Our thanks are due to the ladies who have formed the choir at our Sunday night service during the past winter for the regularity of their attendance and the good music they have given us. We trust they will favor us with their services another year and that others in the congregation will join them. We are anxious to make this night service as hearty and attractive as possible, and few things could add more to it than a large, efficient chorus choir.

THE ANNUAL SPRING SPORTS of S. John's Guild, held Monday evening, May 20th, were a complete success, not only from an athletic but from a financial standpoint also. Owing to the kindness of Professor Riker, who volunteered to superintend and judge each event, every contest was fairly won. We regret exceedingly that we were unable to let forth a yell of victory, after the tug of war, as S. Stephen's proved to be the winning team. Though our boys pulled admirably, the advantage of a professional trainer showed very prominently in the pulling of the S. Stephen's Association, yet with this advantage, they only succeeded in capturing an inch of the rope. The All Fours, Indian Club and Dumb Bell races afforded amusing and exciting contests, and were roundly applauded. The winner of each of the various events received a prize from Miss Gilpin, our untiring benefactress.

GIVING.

"A penny a day—ten or twenty-five cents a week—why, you don't feel it, while it would be hard to pay as much all at one time in a year." Such is the argument often heard in favor of weekly pledges for religious purposes.

I never hear it without a sense of shame. It sounds plausible, and is an excellent plea for those who consider Christian giving as a necessary tax unwillingly paid; but it loses entire sight of the fact that God wants nothing that is not missed. He wants us to feel it. It must be a self-denial to be acceptable. While the true law of giving is weekly, as the Apostle enjoins, we should remember that it was not made easy, but systematic, proportionate, and because it accords with the fast of human life, frequent getting, which demands frequent giving. Coupled with this rule is another equally important—"to give until you feel it"—increase the weekly amount until it represents a real self-denial for love's sake. This is acceptable to God. But "the don't miss it," idea degrades our worship and puts to shame our love. Don't mention it.—Selected.

The Anglican Communion.

The Anglican Communion embraces all Christians in full connection with the Church of England, viz:

The Church of England, with its 38 Bishops and 24,090 clergymen.

The Church of Ireland, with its 13 Bishops and 1,807 clergymen.

The Episcopal Church in Scotland, with its 7 Bishops and 266 clergymen.

The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, with its 61 Bishops and 3,800 clergymen.

The Church of England in Canada, Newfoundland and West Indies, etc., with its 24 Bishops and 1,000 clergymen.

The Church of England in Asia, with its 13 Bishops and 713 clergymen.

The Church of England in Africa, with its 13 Bishops and 350 clergymen.

The Church of England in Australia, with its 21 Bishops and 713 clergymen.

Scattered, 9 Bishops and 120 clergymen.

Bishops resigned, 27.

Say in round numbers 225 Bishops, and 30,000 other clergymen.

Things to be Remembered.

Let nothing induce you to speak disparagingly of your parish. Stand up for your church as you would for your mother.

Pray for your minister. He needs it. He is but a man, with great responsibilities and many to please.

THE CHURCH SERVICES.

In our June number we spoke of the obligation of regular Sunday attendance at church. Let us now consider what are the purposes and character of the services Christian people should attend.

We must remember, first, that the great object of going to church is not simply to hear a sermon, as profitable and necessary as sermons are in their place. The first object of going to church is to worship God, to pay Him the debt of reverence and worship which is His due and derive from adoration and communion with Him the help, grace and inspiration man needs to enable him to resist sin and attain unto holiness. These have been the great purposes of worship always and among all people, as imperfectly as they have sometimes been able to fulfil them. Under the old dispensation and among Gentile nations they were fulfilled by the offering of animal sacrifices and the eating of the flesh of the animals thus sacrificed. That was the best way in which man could signify his sense of his unworthiness to approach God and his need of atonement and his dependence for help and succor upon God.

In the new dispensation we have a rite instituted by our Blessed Lord, especially to supply this want, to take the place of bloody animal sacrifices, to be the means by which the one perfect sacrifice for sin which He offered upon the cross could be perpetually kept in remembrance, its merits pleaded before God, and its benefits communicated to men. He commanded His disciples to "do" or celebrate it continually as His memorial, and by it, as S. Paul says, Christ crucified is set forth as the sinner's hope, and we are made partakers of His very body and blood, that they may be to us the means of spiritual strength and refreshment.

So this naturally should be the great, central, most important act of Christian worship, that with which every Sunday and holy day at the least should be sanctified. Being the one act of public worship Christ instituted, He must have intended to give it this prominence, and we find from the way in which it is spoken of in the New Testament that the Apostles and first disciples regarded it in this light. We are told that they "continued daily breaking bread from house to house," and that when they "came together the first day of the week," it was "to break bread." And so universally, throughout the whole Church, and always, down to the period of the Reformation, the celebration of the Holy Communion was regarded as the chief act of public worship, which should be celebrated every Sunday and Holy day at the least.

It is true, that in the course of time certain false conceptions of it arose, and by some it was regarded superstitiously and not used in accordance with its original institution. And at the Reformation, in revulsion from this extreme, there was a tendency to rush to the other and forget and lose sight of its proper purpose and character. Hence among most of the Protestant bodies which arose at that time, the Holy Communion has been relegated to a very subordinate position. It is looked upon only as a very touching memorial, or its reception simply as a test of church membership, and as such only to be infrequently celebrated.

But that is not the teaching of the New Testament or of the universal Church, or of the formularies of our own Church. In the prayer book of the English Church the Holy Communion has ever held the position it had in all Catholic liturgies. A special service is appointed for its celebration on every Sunday and Holy day in the year, and that service is the great central service of the day, which gives its tone and teaching to the other services.

So undoubtedly from the consideration of what the Holy Communion is in itself, and from the way in which it has been regarded by all branches of the Church, it certainly is the service which every Christian should want to attend each Sunday. There is none other which so sets forth the essential truths of our religion, or brings them so forcibly to bear on our hearts and minds. There is none other which so combines in itself every element of worship; none by which we can so truly and devoutly worship, and none which can be a greater means of grace to the soul.

If you say that it is too solemn a rite to be so frequently celebrated, that thereby it loses its force, we answer, that while it is true of many things, that familiarity breeds contempt, it is not so with this. It is too divine. Or that danger must be guarded against by the care and preparation with which we approach it. Certain it is that the most devout and holy of men have ever found the Holy Communion above all others that in which they have found help and strength and spiritual joy. And by far the major part of Christians to-day consider attendance upon it each Sunday a matter both of obligation and of pleasure. We believe nothing else would so tend to the cultivation of true spiritual life as the universality of that practice. Do not let us feel that we have properly kept a Sunday unless we have devoutly attended a celebration of the Holy Communion.

We will speak of the other Sunday services in our next issue.

THE NEWS.

Once again we have come to a crisis in the history of this paper, which has occurred once or twice before in the eight years of its existence, when we must find some way of meeting our expenses regularly, or its publication will have to be discontinued. We owe our printer sixty dollars. This must be paid and we must be assured of not running behindhand in the future.

We think it would be a misfortune to the parish to have the paper given up, as it affords a regular and efficient means of communication with all our members, whether they are at home or abroad. It keeps them informed of all that is going on in the parish; gives the clergy a means of communication with them, and of instruction better even in many ways than the pulpit. It affords the Vestry a way of laying before the members of the congregation any information that may be desirable, and of making appeals to them, which from time to time may be necessary; and many items of diocesan or general church news can thus be conveyed which our members might not otherwise see.

The very general use of parish papers throughout the country proves their utility, and we should be very sorry to have our parish lose the advantages thus afforded, which we have so long enjoyed.

The subscription price of fifty cents is certainly not large, and if all our members who could afford to do so, would only subscribe that amount, and pay it regularly, we would have no difficulty in making our ends meet.

We shall have to call for special subscriptions towards meeting our deficit. Are there not twelve persons in the congregation who will give $5.00 each towards it? And then will not every member subscribe, so as to keep us afloat in the future?

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—76 volumes for the Parish and Sunday School Library, six canvas bags for collections.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE PARISH BUILDING.—By the direction of the Vestry, a very much needed renovation has been given this summer to our parish building, the first entire overhauling it has had since its erection ten years ago. All the walls in the interior have been recalcimined in different warm tints, and all the wood work and floors reoiled. On the exterior, the wood work and the plaster round the main entrance have been painted. This makes the building look much more attractive, as the large school room especially, from the constant and multiform uses to which it is applied, had got very shabby, and we hope our children will take a pride in keeping it nice, and avoid defacing the walls or wood work in any way. The outside doors of the church, the iron railing along Broad street and the fence on Kater street have also been reoiled or painted.

There are a good many other renovations and improvements we should like to see made in the church, but we suppose we must not ask for them until we can get the church out of debt. We feel that all our energies must be devoted to that one object until it can be accomplished.

THE SUMMER SERVICES.—The services have continued this summer much as usual, though we do not think the congregations have been as large as in some other years. Whether this has been because more of our people go out of town than they did formerly, or because those who were in town were more careless about going to church, we cannot say, though we do know that the warmth of the weather made very perceptible differences in the size of the congregations; on a hot day we would not have nearly as many as on a cool one.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL reopens with this month, and we do hope that not only all the scholars, but all the teachers, who are in town, will make a point of attending. These long summer vacations break up our school so that it is like forming a new one over again each year in the autumn. The work ought to go on in the summer as in the winter, but how are we to get the teachers? If we must stop at all do not, at least, make the break longer than it need be.

SEAL YOUR ENVELOPES.—The Warden again asks us to call attention to those using the envelopes, always to be careful in sealing them, as otherwise their contents is liable to slip out, when they are put in the plates, and the Warden then does not know how to credit them.

ENVELOPES FOR THE POOR AND THE SCHOOLS.—The special envelopes during the summer months are for these purposes, and we trust every one receiving them will be sure to return them filled. Remember these are the only sources from which funds are derived for carrying on the work among the poor and supporting the Sunday and Industrial schools of the parish. Both these funds are now overdrawn and we need the means to carry us through the coming winter. Look upon your envelope for the support of the church, Sunday by Sunday, as the equivalent of a pew rent, and what you give through the special envelopes each quarter as taking the place of the charitable collections which are made in other churches, and give to each as liberally as your means will allow.

WINTER SERVICES.—The full order of winter services begins next month, including the Sunday afternoon and night services. We shall depend, as last year, for our music at the latter service, on the singing Guild, and we hope that a good attendance will be on hand, and that others in the congregation who have not yet joined it, will do so. We want to make this service a popular one and a good chorus choir will contribute largely towards making it so.

HISTORICAL SERMONS. — The Rector proposes to continue the practice he has followed for some years, of preaching one sermon in each month of an evening on an historical subject, and the course this year will be on the history of the American Church. We hope they will be well attended as every one ought to be familiar with the history especially of his own Church and of the conditions of religious life in this country.

The Church House.

The new Church House at 12th and Walnut streets is rapidly approaching completion, and will be ready for occupancy next month, though money is still needed to pay for it. A special fund of some $5000 is also required to furnish it. Some of the furniture has been already ordered, and must be paid for. As this House is for the accommodation and benefit of all the Diocese, every parish should take an interest in and bear a share of the burden of building it. We are very glad our parish has contributed towards its erection. Can it not do the same towards its furnishing?

The Books of the Bible With Their Contents.

The writer of the following lines was induced to write them by seeing some verses on the same subject in which the only comment on certain books of the Bible was in reference to their length, or some other trivial point. This suggested the idea of writing lines in which the chief subjects of each book should be briefly expressed. These lines were tested practically, of late, in a Church School, and it was found that the pupils learned them by heart very easily, taking three or four lines each day, and afterwards made use of them when finding passages in the Bible:

OLD TESTAMENT.

GENESIS is first in order
Of the Books that form the Bible.
Here we read about Creation,
Adam, Eve, and Cain and Abel;
Of the Deluge, Noah and Abram;
Joseph in the land of Egypt.
EXODUS is next in order,
And relates about the journey
To the promised land of Canaan,
Moses and the Ten Commandments.
LEVITICUS and NUMBERS follow,
Giving laws and sacrifices
And the wanderings in the desert.
DEUTERONOMY comes after,
And repeats all God's Commandments.
Ending with the death of Moses.
JOSHUA is next in order,
Telling us of Canaan conquered.
JUDGES then controlled the nation.
RUTH gleaned in the fields of Boaz.
SAMUEL, serving in God's Temple,
Heard his Maker's voice at midnight.
Then the SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL,
Giving warlike Saul and David.
KINGS and CHRONICLES then mention
David's greatness, Solomon's wisdom,
And the building of the Temple.
EZRA led God's people backward
From captivity in Babylon.
NEHEMIAH built the City
And the Walls amidst much trouble.
ESTHER gained the throng of Persia,
Saved the Jews from plots of Haman.
JOB was patient in affliction.
PSALMS were sacred hymns of David.
PROVERBS precepts of King Solomon
In ECCLESIASTES were the Vanities of wordly pleasures
Set forth by the royal "preacher."
The SONG OF SOLOMON then follows,
And ISAIAH, who predicted
Christ's atoning death and triumph.
JEREMIAH warned his nation
When for sin they suffered greatly,
For their fate gave LAMENTATIONS.
In EZEKIEL, consolations
Joined with warnings to the people
In captivity at Babylon.
DANIEL, saved from den of lions,
Gave predictions of Messiah.
Then HOSEAH, JOEL, AMOS,
Prophesied, with OBADIAH,
Of the punishment of sinners.
JONAH, sent to threaten Nineveh,
Fled, by sea, away from duty,
By a fish was taught obedience.
MICAH, NAHUM and HABAKKUK,
Prophets all, with ZEPHANIAH,
HAGGAI and ZECHARIAH,
Warned of sin and preached repentance.
MALACHI then ends the series
With reproofs of present evil
And predictions of the Saviour.

NEW TESTAMENT.

MATTHEW, MARK and LUKE and JOHN are
The Evangelists, who give us
Records of the Incarnation,
Teachings, Miracles, Atonement,
Death and Burial, Resurrection
And Ascension into Heaven
Of our Blessed Lord and Saviour.
Then the ACTS OF THE APOSTLES,
With heroic deeds and sufferings
Of the early Saints and Martyrs.

After this comes the Epistles
Of St. Paul, the great Apostle;
First, that to the ROMAN Christians,
Whose key-note is the great doctrine
Man may gain by Faith, Salvation.
Next, come two Epistles, written
By St. Paul to the CORINTHIANS,
Urging Apostolic mandates
And condemning false apostles,
Grandly praising "Charity" and Telling of the Resurrection.
Then to the GALATIAN converts
Counsel, and reproof for wanderings;
To the EPHESIANS, recommending
Use of all the Christian armour;
Love and counsel to PHILLIPPIANS;
Kind advice to the COLLOSSIANS,
Urging them, "If risen with Christ," to Seek those things which are in Heaven.
Then two books to THESSALONIANS,
(First, in time, of all St. Paul wrote,)
Telling of the Second Advent,
And of all the Christian graces,
Then to TIMOTHY, the Bishop,
All the duties of his office;
TITUS then, another Bishop,
Is advised about his labors;
To PHILEMON, asking favor
For a slave who fled rebellious,
But who now returned, a Christian.
HEBREW converts next are counselled
That the ancient Sacrifices,
Priesthood, and the Law of Moses,
All are but fulfilled in Jesus.
Then of JAMES, the Epistle, proving Faith without good works is worthless.
PETER, the Apostle, urges
Holiness and coming judgment.
JOHN, beloved of the Redeemer,
Sweetly writes of love and goodness.
JUDE inveighs against false teachers.
Last of all, the loved Apostle,
Banished in old age to Patmos,
Sees the Saviour and receives the Mandates for "the Seven Churches,"
Followed by grand REVELATIONS
Of the future of God's Kingdom
And the eternal joys of Heaven.

U. P. Z.

Whatever is, is Best.

I know as my life grows older
And my eyes have clearer sight,
That under each rank wrong somewhere
There lies the root of Right;
That each sorrow has its purpose,
By the sorrowing oft unguessed,
But, as sure as the sun brings morning,
Whatever is, is best.

I know that each sinful action,
As sure as the night brings shade,
Is somewhere, sometime punished,
Tho' the hour be long delayed.
I know that the soul is aided
Sometime by the heart's unrest,
And to grow means often to suffer,
But whatever is, is best.

THE CHURCH SERVICES.

We spoke in our last number of the Holy Communion as the great distinctive act of Christian worship, which every Christian will naturally wish to attend every Sunday, as being that which affords the fullest, richest opportunity for worship, and is the greatest means of grace. Let us consider now the other Church services and what is their character.

In addition to the Holy Communion we have the Daily Offices of Morning and Evening Prayer. Now mark, these are Daily Offices. They are not especially Sunday services. They were compiled at the time of the formation of the English Prayer Book, and were a condensation of the ancient offices, known as "the Hours," which were recited seven times a day. As it was only the "Religious," those living in convents and monasteries, who had the leisure to recite these offices, when the English Prayer Book was put forth for the use of the laity, they were reduced to two, one to be said in the morning and the other in the evening. They were to be the morning and evening sacrifice, with which each day was to be sanctified. There was nothing especially distinguishing of Sunday in them, except that there were special lessons appointed for Sundays as for all Holy days. They were to be said every day. According to the law of the Church of England, every clergyman is obliged to say them daily, either in Church or in private, and if in Church he is to cause a bell to be rung to give notice to his parishioners that they might join with him in saying them. And while this is not legally binding upon the clergy of the American Church, this is of course the idea with which these services were retained.

It is very strange, therefore, that in many places these services are made the only Sunday services and are never said during the week. This is not only neglecting the provision made for the religious sanctification of every day, but it is a slighting of the Sunday, performing on it only a small and less important part of the service intended for it. At the same time, even though we celebrate the Holy Communion on Sundays, we ought not to neglect these offices as well. We should say them on Sundays as on other days, adding to them the Holy Communion as the great Sunday service. The Morning Prayer serves as a most appropriate preparation for the Holy Communion, and the Evening Prayer as a thanksgiving after it.

And they are important services in themselves, especially for those who through business or other engagements cannot attend them daily. They contain long lessons from the Old and New Testaments and the Psalter, with which all Christians ought to be familiar and ought to use.

As vastly superior then, as the Holy Communion is to all other services, as superior as a divine work is to a mere human work, still these daily offices ought not to be neglected on Sundays, even though we have the privilege of attending the Holy Communion. Morning Prayer and the Holy Communion together do not make at all an unreasonably long service, especially as the former can now be abbreviated by the new rubrics. And the Evening Prayer forms only a natural and beautiful conclusion to the worship of a Holy day.

While, therefore, we do not say that attendance at these offices is of the same obligation, or is of the same benefit as at that of the Holy Communion, still we say they ought not to be neglected. To go to Church only once a week, of a Sunday morning, is a very small amount of devotion, and to bring children up to go to Church only once a Sunday is not likely to impress them very much with a sense of the importance of religion, or the benefit to be derived from it. We think, therefore, every Christian ought to go to Church twice every Sunday, once in the morning to say Matins and attend the Holy Communion, and again for Evensong. As the services are arranged in this parish no one has any excuse for not doing this, as the mid-day service consisting of Morning Prayer, the Holy Communion is of very reasonable length without any repetition in it, and we have two evening services, one at 4 P. M. for those who like best a musical service, and prefer going to Church in the afternoon, and the other at night, for those who prefer that hour and a plainer service with a sermon.

We hope our people will not let themselves fall into the bad, indolent habit of going to Church only once a Sunday, that is only once a week. Let them offer both the morning and evening sacrifice of prayer and praise, "with Thee began, with Thee shall end the day."

This is the full, natural complement of services, daily Morning and Evening Prayer, and on Sundays and other Holy days the Holy Communion added, to distinguish and sanctify them above all other days. Let us follow the mind of our Church and use the provision she has made for our worship. And we shall find the benefit in our lives in bringing them more and more in tune with God and holy things, in helping us to resist temptation, in overcoming evil, in doing good, in bearing trial, and fitting us for the entrance upon that life where worship will be the constant attitude of the heart.

PARISH NOTES.

THE BIBLE CLASSES will resume their sessions the first Sunday of this month. Mrs. Hodge will take hers as usual at 3 P. M. But we regret to say that no one has yet been found to teach that for young men, which was taught last winter by Mr. Read, who is now a clergyman and has removed from the city. We hope that some one will be found before long for this most important work.

ORDINATIONS.—On Trinity Sunday, in Calvary Church, Germantown, Mr. William George Read, our Bible Class teacher, and Mr. William Bernard Gilpin, who has long been connected with our parish, and frequently assisted the clergy as a lay reader, were ordained Deacons, the latter being presented by the Rector. Mr. Read has become Assistant to a clergyman having a Church near Boston, and Mr. Gilpin has become Assistant in S. Michael's Church, Germantown. As he is so near, and Mr. Read will occasionally still come to the city, that we shall hope often to see them both in our chancel.

It is a great gratification to the Rector when any of the young men of the parish take Holy Orders.

GUILD ANNIVERSARIES. — SS. Simon and Jude's day, Monday the 28th, is the Anniversary of the Women's Guild of the Parish, which embraces all the different departments of the women's work. The Rector always wishes all the female communicants of the parish to be present at one of the Celebrations of the Holy Communion on that day, and at the annual business meeting of the Guild, which is held immediately after the 10 A. M. service. This is the only occasion in the year when all the female workers in the parish are brought together, and it is very important that they should come together thus, that they may hear the reports of what has been done in the past, and learn what are the Rector's plans and the needs of the work for the coming year. The Rector earnestly wishes all the women of the parish to take at least this much interest in their Church to be present on this occasion.

As after several years experiment he has found it impossible to get the men of the parish together on the anniversary of their Guild, the Rector will this year, as he has been doing lately, read the report of the Guild at the meeting of S. Andrew's Brotherhood, on the first Tuesday in November. But he affectionately urges the men of the parish to be present at one of the Celebrations on All Saints' day, which is the anniversary of the Men's Guild, and solemnly ask themselves whether in the sight of God, they are doing all they might do for the advancement of His glory, and the good of His Church on earth.

S. JOHN'S GUILD got organized for the winter in September, and one department of the Guild which has formed itself into a Dramatic Club, has already begun its rehearsals, preparatory to bringing out some play later in the season, for the benefit of the Church.

ACCIDENT.—We have been sorry to note the absence from Church for a number of weeks of one of our cross bearers, Mr. Harry Ellis, which was due to a severe accident which happened to him while at work, and which at one time threatened serious consequences. We are glad to say, however, that he is now improving, and he hopes soon to be in his place again.

WINTER SERVICES.—All the winter services are now resumed, the 4 and 7¾ P. M. services on Sunday, the daily services at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M., Wednesdays at 8 P. M., and all Holy days at 7.30 A. M. Let the congregation prove their appreciation of them by good attendance at them all.

WEDNESDAY EVENING SERVICE.—The Assistant Minister who has charge of the Sunday School and officiates, at the Wednesday evening service, proposes to make the instruction at this service consist this winter of a study of the Sunday School lesson for the following Sunday. This will be a great help to the Sunday School teachers, whom he hopes will attend this service, and it will also be very instructive for the ordinary congregation. The parish library is open after this service for the distribution of books and papers.

ERROR.—We wish to apologize for the error which occurred in our three last issues in retaining the name of Mr. David J. Bullock as Accounting Warden on our first page, he having resigned that position and Mr. C. L. S. Tingley having been appointed in his place May 1st last. It was an inadvertence on our part.

THE HISTORICAL SERMON on the third Sunday evening of this month, will be on the early planting of the Church in America.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Since our June issue the following subscriptions have been received:

Miss M. E. Bloomer,	Miss Holbrook.
Miss H. L. Bloomer,	Mr. H. L. Kelly,
Miss M. M. Menah,	Mrs. J. H. Mason,
Mrs. M. A. Bloomer,	Mrs. C. H. Darlington,
Mrs. John Minshall,	Mrs. Price.

In answer to our appeal in the last issue of the "NEWS," urging the necessity of financial aid for the paper, we have only received two donations:

Rev. G. W. Hodge, $5.00.
Mrs. C. H. Darlington, 50c.

Will not all the members of our congregation make an effort to aid us as much as their means will permit?

Church Training and Deaconess House.

The Rector takes this method of laying before the congregation the following letter he has received from the Bishop of the Diocese, with the request that he would bring the subject to the notice of the women of his parish. We shall probably speak editorially in our next issue on the subject of Sisterhoods and Deaconesses.

DIOCESE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Episcopal Rooms, 1102 Walnut St.

Philadelphia, July 10, 1895.

The Bishop of the Diocese desires to call attention to the advantages now afforded in the Church Training and Deaconess House of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, for all women to qualify themselves for greater usefulness in the Church, or home, or Sunday School, or in society.

This Institution is established not only for the training of those who are to be set apart as Deaconesses, but also for the instruction of all who have a mind to work for Christ in any department of Christian activity.

The scheme of studies includes courses in Church History, Church Music, Methods of Teaching, Business Methods, Home Sanitation, the Prayer Book, the Books of the Bible, the New Testament Use of the Old Testament, English Composition, Doctrinal and Pastoral Theology.

Instruction is given in all of these departments by teachers of large experience and culture, who devote their best energies to their work.

All of these courses are free. It is only necessary to apply to the House Mother, 708 Spruce Street, who will furnish tickets admitting to the lectures which the applicant elects to attend.

From the first Wednesday in October to the last Tuesday in May, one lesson a week is given in most of the courses. A few of them do not extend through the year, and in some three or four lessons a week are given.

It would seem that there must be in this Diocese many earnest-minded Church-women, who, if they knew of the opportunity which here exists, would be glad to make use of it. There are many teachers in our Sunday Schools who would be greatly benefited by taking one or more of these courses. And there are, doubtless, many not actively engaged in teaching or any parochial or missionary work, who would find their religious life deepened, and their grasp of truth and duty made stronger, by giving a little of their time to such systematic study of some department of Christian doctrine, or history or work, as taking up one or more of these courses would require.

Following will be found the Scheme of Studies for the coming year, with the names of the Faculty and Instructors, and I earnestly invite your attention to a consideration of the benefits which may be derived from their teaching.

Faithfully yours,

O. W. WHITAKER.

Canon Liddon on Worship.

This is what the celebrated Canon Liddon has to say on the discipline of worship:

"No doubt worship is a means of grace. It puts us in possession of spiritual power otherwise unattainable, so far as we know. It has wider results when it takes the energetic forms of supplication and intercession, and asks and receives blessings, temporal and spiritual, from the source of all good. But apart from these possible effects, an act of worship is itself a training of our life beyond the grave, and for the great change which leads to it. In sincere worship we shut out the things and thoughts of sense and time, we cleanse the inner temple of the tables of the money-changers and the seats of them that sell doves; we cleanse it, if need be, by a stern effort of the will. When we enter thus in spirit, in the train of our great High Priest, within the veil, and behold the realities over which death has no power, and which have no relation to time—the everlasting throne, the unending intercession, the countless intelligences who worship and who serve; their ceaseless and consummate activity, which is a perpetual rest, we are not only insensibly affected with the light which streams from that other world, we learn how to behave ourselves in that majestic Presence. We learn the manners of another climate, the habits of a higher society before our time. Thus worship is a training for death. Each sincere act of worship involves that self-detachment from the world, which will be a necessity for the dying. Each sincere act of worship trains the soul to gaze beforehand on the sights and hear the sounds which will burst on it in all their awe and beauty as it crosses the threshold of eternity."

SISTERHOODS.

Of all the fruits of the revived life of the Church of England, following what is known as the Oxford movement, there has been none which has been more practically useful, or which is a greater proof of the true spiritual character of that movement, than the revival of the technical religious life, that is of the communal life of men and women devoted entirely to religious objects.

This was the life of the Prophets under the old Dispensation, and it is admitted on all sides that they probably exercised a greater influence on the religious life of the Jewish people than did the priesthood itself. This was the character of S. John Baptist, the great forerunner of our Lord. It was the life expressly sanctioned by our Lord in the sermon on the Mount, and when He sent forth His first disciples, and said that he who was not willing to forsake parents and wife, and children, and lands for His sake was not worthy of Him. It was the life practiced by thousands in the early Christian centuries and all through, everywhere, down to the time of the Reformation. It is the great strength of the Roman Catholic Church to-day. There is nothing connected with it so beautiful or which so conduces to its spread and influence as the multitudes of men and women in it whose whole lives are devoted unreservedly to God and to works of charity among men.

For the three hundred years following the Reformation in England this fruit was not brought forth except in a few isolated instances. But with the revival of spiritual life in the middle of this century, came again the desire of holy men and women to devote themselves entirely and exclusively to the service of God and of His Church. Under the leadership of such men as Dr. Pusey and John Mason Neale and Dr. Carter, communities of women, and later some also for men, were formed. The former have grown to large proportions, a number of Sisterhoods have been established, and hundreds of women have thus devoted themselves, and are now doing most useful work in England and the Colonies, and in this country, which could not be so fully and efficiently done in any other way. Such communities also as that of the Cowley fathers, of whose work we have been able to judge by the residence of some of its members in this city, have produced some beautiful lives and performed most valuable service.

It is a matter of regret to us, however, that these communities have not grown more rapidly in this country. We have a few American Sisterhoods and one or two Brotherhoods, but they are not many, nor their numbers large. There has also been established in England and in this country, by the authority of the General Church, an Order of Deaconesses, which differs from Sisterhoods in that the members do not live in community or under a rule. They go separately to work in different parishes, and are set apart with a laying on of hands like the clergy. There is a house for the training of Deaconesses in New York, and another in this city, the appeal in regard to which we published last week. Others not intending to become Deaconesses can avail themselves of its privileges. Our preference is for Sisterhoods rather than Deaconesses. But there is a crying demand for both. Many of our hospitals and charitable and educational institutions need such services sorely, and in a great many of our parishes they could be most usefully employed. But the supply is not equal to the demand. Twice efforts have been made to get some sisters to work in this parish, and applications were made to the various English and American Sisterhoods, but none could be spared.

How is it that there are not more women offering themselves to this beautiful and most useful, and we are sure, happy life. It is for women what the priesthood is for men. How many single women are there who are now leading useless, uncared for, and unhappy lives, who might here find their vocation, their home and their happiness? Of course, a woman must have a distinct vocation for it, as a man must have who enters the priesthood. But surely there are many who would find they had such a call if the matter was clearly put before them. Protestant prejudices and misconceptions in regard to it stand largely in the way of this. Let our women study what the life is and how much good may be done by it, good that can be done in no other way, and we are sure many would be led to embrace it. When we pray in the Litany that God would send forth laborers into his harvest, let it refer not simply to increasing the ranks of the Clergy, but let it include also the raising up of many, both men and women, to serve Him in all the various offices and stations in the Church, in a life of unreserved self devotion and consecration.

PARISH NOTES.

NEW WINDOW.—The last window that was placed in the clerestory was not satisfactory, the background and border of the figure especially not corresponding to those adjoining it. The firm by which it was made have now substituted for it another, in every way what it should be, and at the same time allows the Church to retain the first one, which it is hoped can be altered and placed in one of the other windows of the Church with very little expense.

NEW PIANO.—For a long time the piano in our school room, which was purchased and presented to the Church many years ago by S. Mary's Guild, has become so out of repair as to be almost useless. Last spring the Music Committee of the Vestry was instructed to effect, if possible, an exchange of it and the small pipe organ, formerly in use in the Church, for a new piano. This they have been enabled to do, and by the payment in addition of $50, have secured a really fine piano of excellent tone from Schomacker & Co. It will be of great use in the practicing of the choir, and in the music of the Sunday School, and for the various entertainments we have.

THE CHOIR.—At present our choir is in an excellent condition, and the Choir Master proposes to give during the coming winter a number of new Standard Communion Services and Anthems, and hopes occasionally to have the choir supported by some orchestral pieces.

THE WOMEN'S GUILD.—The Anniversary of the Women's Guild was attended this year by about thirty of the several hundred women of the parish, who should be interested and take part in our Church work. The annual report was read which will be published the first of Advent, showing what was done last year. And after apportionment of the work for the coming season, Mrs. John Mason and Mrs. Thomas Neilson spoke to the Guild in regard to the work of the Mothers' Meeting and the missionary work of the parish.

Most of the officers of the Guild will remain as last year. Mrs. Chandler Hare takes charge of the girls' department of the Industrial School. Additional teachers are much needed in this school, and in the Sunday School. And it is hoped that all who undertake work in these schools will be faithful and regular in their attendance. Workers are also needed in connection with the Mothers' Meeting and Ladies' Aid, and the Embroidery Class. These have all begun their sessions, the latter on Thursday morning at 10.30 o'clock, and 3 P. M. The Mothers' Meeting will be held this year before and after the service on Wednesday evenings, instead, as heretofore, on Fridays. This it is hoped will bring the members to the Wednesday evening service, which has lately been poorly attended.

Work on the annual missionary boxes will be shortly commenced. Donations for the carrying on of all these different departments of work are earnestly solicited.

WHITE ENVELOPES.—What piles of white envelopes some of our parishioners must be accumulating at home, for out of every ten sent out we do not believe that one is returned. Remember, the yellow envelopes are the equivalent of pew rent for the support of the Church, and the white envelopes are for the benevolent expenses connected with the Church. The work among the poor, the support of the schools, and the meeting of the obligations of the Church for missionary purposes is derived from this source. So every envelope sent out should be returned filled. A very good way to use them is to put one on the plate at a second Sunday service, or on a Holy day when there is a collection.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—We are glad to say that the teachers and scholars are gradually returning to their places in the Sunday School, and we hope it will soon be larger than ever.

The Infant School has been removed up stairs to the end of the large school room, and the Guild room, where it was formerly held, is occupied by the Young Ladies' Bible Class, taught by Mrs. Thomas Neilson. We need very much more rooms in our parish building for these various purposes.

NAMES OF PARISHIONERS.—The clergy notice the faces of a good many persons attending the Church very regularly, with whom they are not personally acquainted. It is very much to be desired that such persons should definitely connect themselves with the parish, and at least inform the Rector who they are. He would be glad to know them, even though they are only attending the Church temporarily.

RECTOR'S CLASS.—The Rector has long felt that there were many of the young people of the parish growing up without the instruction in Church principles they ought to have. And while he has always been ready to give such instruction the difficulty has been to find a time when it would be possible for those who desire to do so to attend. Some could come only in the day time, some only at night. But as we have the regular instruction on Wednesday evenings during the winter, the Rector has determined to give himself an instruction on Wednesdays at 3 P. M., in the Guild room, from the beginning of Advent until Easter. The first will be on the afternoon of December 4th. We mention it now, as that date will occur before the next issue of the NEWS. We hope there will be a good attendance. The class will not be limited to any age or sex. The course for this winter will be on the Prayer Book.

PICTURE OF THE CHURCH.—We have determined to print regularly the picture of the Church, which appeared in our last issue, on the front page of the NEWS, as we think it will add to its attractiveness, and make people more familiar with the appearance of our Church. The printer has agreed to furnish us with a better paper, which brings the print out much better.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Members of the Dramatic Club of St. John's Guild propose to give an entertainment on Thursday, November 7th, at 8 o'clock, in the Parish building, consisting of two plays and an amusing sketch by Messrs. Dooley and Perry. Tickets may be had from the Sexton or at the door. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

SPECIAL SERVICE.—The annual meeting of the Free and Open Church Association will be held in this Church on the evening of the second Sunday of this month. An address will be made by Mr. Silas McBee, of Ashville, North Carolina, a very eloquent speaker in the late General Convention, and in the meetings of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew. We hope our people will attend the service in good force, that they may be enthused on the subject of free churches.

THE HISTORICAL SERMON on the the third Sunday evening this month by the Rector, will be on "the Colonial Church."

OUR DEFICIT.—Subscriptions to pay the deficit in the fund for publishing this paper come in very slowly. We know our people value this publication and think it useful. If it is to be continued, they must give money to pay for it.

GENERAL CONVENTION.

The great General Synod of the Church, which meets once in three years, has just finished its sessions in Minneapolis, Minnesota. So far as the hospitality manifested and the effect produced in the Northwest where the Convention was held for the first time, the result was very good. But in regard to work done we do not see that very much was accomplished beyond the creation of no less that eight new Dioceses and Missionary Jurisdictions. The new Dioceses are one of Washington by the division of the present Diocese of Maryland, one of Western Kentucky, one of Southern California, and one of the present Missionary Jurisdictions of Northern Texas, and of Northern Michigan. The new Jurisdictions are one of west North Carolina, one of Northern Minnesota, and one of Alaska. These will add much to the strength and growth of the Church.

The rest of the time of the Convention was chiefly spent in considering changes in the Constitution of the Church, in order to adapt it more to the changes which have come over the Church and the country since it was first drawn up a hundred years ago. But so great is the conservatism of the General Convention, and the fear of changes and of names with which our American people have not been familiar, though they have been in use in other parts of the Church for centuries, that little progress was made; there was a great deal of very fine talking, but with little result beyond the educational effect which such discussion always has. At the end of the Convention a Pastoral letter was issued by the House of Bishops, which has to be read in every parish church in the land.

THE CHURCH HOUSE.

The new Church House at Twelfth and Walnut Streets is at last completed and will be formally opened on the twenty-fifth of this month. There will be an early Celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30 A. M., a second Celebration at 11 A. M., by the Bishop of the Diocese with a sermon by one of the neighboring Bishops. And in the evening a special service of Benediction by the Bishop with addresses by one or two clergymen and laymen.

The House will be open all day for inspection. The House has been completely furnished throughout, and a number of special donations of furniture and articles for the Chapel, etc., have been made. But the money needed to pay for the furnishing and the completion of the House itself has not yet been all contributed.

WISE CONCLUSIONS.

The Bishop of Manchester said in a recent sermon:

1. That there is no satisfactory evidence that St. Peter was ever Bishop of Rome.

2. That there is not a shred of proof that the Bishops of Rome inherited St. Peter's apostolical prerogatives.

3. That there is no reasonable presumption that the Bishops of Rome were regarded as the supreme rulers and infallible teachers of the Church by the Fathers of the first four centuries.

4. That the Roman claims grew gradually in extent and general acceptance, partly through the influence of fictions mistaken for facts, partly through the ambition of the Roman Church, and partly through the favoring circumstances of mediæval life.

If these conclusions were accepted, then it followed that the Roman claims must be regarded as tyrannical usurpations, mischievous to Christian life and truth, and fatal to Christian freedom. As such they must be manfully resisted by all who were loyal servants of Christ, and who discerned in Roman errors and arrogance one of the most formidable of the hindrances to the progress of the Gospel. They all desired as heartily as the present Pope the reunion of Christendom. They all, he believed, did most frequently pray for it. But they differed from him and from the majority of Roman Catholics in their conception of the necessary means of reunion. They could not accept error and submit to usurpation. If there was to be reunion, then the first step to it must be the abandonment by Rome of claims and doctrines which had no Scriptural foundation, and until that first step had been taken they said firmly, however sorrowfully, that a possible union between the Church of Rome and the Church of England was nothing better than a sentimental dream.

THE LIFE OF A SISTER.

We spoke last month of Sisterhoods and of their great value to the Church. Let us consider a little more, just what is the life of a Sister.

There are two great purposes which have been in view in the formation of Sisterhoods, one is that of retirement from the world, escaping from its distractions and temptations, to give one's self up entirely to contemplation and prayer. Doubtless this side of the religious life may have been abused. There have been those who have embraced it in order to escape from evident duties in the world, and to enjoy idleness and indolence, and the spiritual life has not always been cultivated by it. But nevertheless we must remember that this is a perfectly proper and legitimate object in certain cases. There are those who are called to that life and who may be helped by it, and who doubtless benefit the world by the blessings called down by their ceaseless prayers.

The other and the great practical value of the communal life is work, the giving up one's self entirely and undistractedly to works of charity and benevolence. It is impossible for those who are living in the world and have many cares and distractions, to engage in church work, as those whose whole life and interest such work becomes. And a company of persons living together and pursuing the same objects can accomplish a great deal more, and do it a great deal better than if living alone and working separately. This is the advantage of the Sisterhood life over that of the Deaconess. The latter are sent out in the world one by one and have to live where they can and work alone, whereas the Sister always has the companionship and the protection, and support and help it gives, of living with others under a rule and all having the same occupation.

Hence the necessity, too, of the three vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. One entering a Sisterhood must give up all property, that she may have no cares or distraction to take her from her work. She must engage to be a celibate for the same reason. And she must promise obedience in order that there may be system and order in the work of the society, just as obedience to officers is necessary in an army. These vows may be either for a limited time or for life. And we see no more reason why women should not take vows for life than the clergy. Though, of course, in both cases such vows should not be taken until after long and careful consideration and the serving of a novitiate.

And is not the life of a woman thus passed, given up to doing good, every minute occupied, in the society of congenial spirits, protected from the dangers and vicissitudes, and many of the sufferings and trials which come in ordinary life, with a home and care provided for old age or sickness, not only a beautiful and useful life, but one more attractive and to be desired than that which very many women lead? And think what service it can be to the Church, how effectively such institutions can carry on good works which could otherwise be only most imperfectly done, the teaching in schools, nursing in hospitals, the care of asylums and refuges, ministering to and reclaiming the unfortunate and vicious, doing or superintending the various branches of ordinary parochial work for which it is so difficult to procure efficient workers, to say nothing of all the various branches of needle work in the preparation and care of the vestments and linen for the Church. These and such like things can be done by such societies with a regularity and efficiency which cannot otherwise be attained. There is a vast sphere of work for women in the Church. And to have that work done by Sisterhoods, or by such unskilled and unreliable volunteers as can be secured, is the difference between carrying on a war with a regular army or with raw undisciplined recruits.

Considering what a good and safe and happy life it is, we cannot understand how any parents can possibly object to their daughters entering it. They should consider themselves honored by having their daughters enter it, as by having their sons enter the ministry. And they do not give them up any more than by having them marry and leave the paternal roof. And it is no lottery, as marriage is, an uncertainty as to whether it will bring happiness or misery.

And when we consider how useful a life it is, and how much need there is of it, should we not try to lead our daughters into it, and constantly pray God that He would put it into the hearts of many to embrace so beautiful and noble a vocation?

OUR FLOATING DEBT.

In addition to the mortgage on our church property which we have been trying so hard to reduce, we have been carrying a floating debt for some years. It has been the result of deficiencies at the end of financial years which have not been made up. And it has been increased during the past summer by the repairs we have had to make to our parish building and the purchase of a new piano. The amount of the debt has varied at times from six hundred to fourteen hundred dollars.

It has been not only a burden and an annoyance, but a source of considerable danger, as it might be called in at any time and the church might find it difficult to raise the amount needed on short notice. It is most desirable, therefore, that it should be got rid of. And the Vestry at its regular meeting held in November, resolved that instead of making further efforts at present to reduce the mortgage, it would be better during the present winter, to bend all our energies towards getting rid of this more pressing burden. The Warden, therefore, was directed to issue envelopes having "Floating Debt" marked on them, and to send them out to the members of the congregation, in place of those for the mortgage he has been sending out, and which are being returned from time to time.

He sends out as usual, also, envelopes for the Christmas offering that that may be kept distinct from the ordinary weekly offerings. It will be devoted as usual to the payment of the interest of the mortgage, which falls due this month.

We trust that these will all be filled and returned by those receiving them, and that each one will give as largely and liberally as he can to relieve the church of the incubus of a debt always hanging over it.

If fourteen hundred dollars could be raised in this way, it would remove from the church all indebtedness except the mortgage, and put us in a position in which we hope it would be possible for us to avoid running behind again in the future.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have thankfully to acknowledge the receipt again of orders for some 12 tons of coal, which are of such immense value to the needy members of our parish during the winter months; also provisions for Thanksgiving dinners, several large bundles of clothes for the missionary and benevolent work of the parish, and a number of volumes for the parish and Sunday School library.

OUR SCHOOLS.—The Sunday School is gradually filling up, now that the teachers are returning and new teachers have been obtained. The Industrial School opened very well and we have a staff of teachers in it this year which we trust are going to be very faithful in their attendance.

Miss Maria J. Gilpin has taken permanent charge of the Young Mens' Bible Class, as it has proved impossible to get any man who would undertake it. We know she will be very faithful in attending to it, and perhaps she will be able to secure a larger attendance than a man could.

RECTOR'S CLASS.—As announced last month, the Rector begins with this month a class on Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock, in the Guild room, for the study of the Prayer Book. It will be open to persons of all ages and both sex, but he very much hopes that the members of late confirmation classes and other of the young people of the parish who are growing up may attend this class, that they may become thoroughly grounded in the principles of the Church as embodied in the Prayer Book, and so be intelligent and conscientious churchmen and women.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW SERVICES.—Our parish chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew has resolved to try here this winter what is being done in many other parishes, that is, to have a special service on one Sunday evening in each month under the special auspices of the Brotherhood. Special preachers will be obtained, the choir will be strengthened by the addition of the young men of our parish Glee Club, and special cards of invitation will be distributed on the streets and posters placed in conspicuous positions. We trust this will have the effect of increasing the attendance and the interest in the night service. The first of these services will be held on the fourth Sunday evening of this month and the preacher will be duly announced.

THE HISTORICAL SERMON on the third Sunday evening of this month will be on "the Church and the Revolutionary War."

THE NEW YEAR BOOK of the parish was issued as usual on the first Sunday in Advent. Copies can be had from the sexton or found in the rack near the door of the church.

MISSIONARY BOX.—Our ladies are now engaged in making up our annual missionary box and will be very thankful for aid in filling it. They are very anxious to get it off before the very cold weather sets in, when it will be most needed. All contributions of money should be sent to Miss Chamberlaine, 1313 Pine St., or any of material or clothes, to the church.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—The proceeds of the entertainment from last month amounted to some thirty dollars, which are to be used in providing a trainer for the gymnasium.

S. MARY'S GUILD contemplates giving an entertainment some time in January, for the benefit of the church. For this they are being prepared by Miss Means, a member of the parish.

CHRISTMAS.—We shall have on Christmas day, as we had last Easter, Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 A. M., as well as in the middle of the day.

The service to be sung by the choir at 11.30 A. M. will be Schubert in B flat. The same service will be repeated on the Sunday after Christmas.

THE CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS, as usual, will be for the current expenses of the church and are especially needed to pay the interest on the mortgage, which falls due this month and other indebtedness. We ought to have $1000 on that day. Let every one make a special offering for this purpose, in addition to his regular weekly offering.

THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL will be held as usual on Holy Innocents Day, Saturday, the 28th. The children will meet in the parish building at 7.30 P. M., and enter the church in procession where they will sing their Christmas Carols, and afterwards have their treat in the large school room. Special contributions for the Children's Festival and for the Christmas decorations of the church may be put in the alms box in the vestibule marked for them, or given to any of the teachers.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—There is hardly a member of our congregation who could not afford to pay 50 cents for the annual subscription and it certainly is strange that the members of this parish will not at least go this far to support a paper that would be a great loss if we should be forced to discontinue its publication.

Subscribers since the November issue are:

Mr. F. L. Wilson	Mr. Thos. Nelson
Mrs. T. H. Butler	Miss Parmalee
Mrs. J. L. N. Smythe	Miss Zantzinger
Miss Vogdes	Miss Harper
Miss Schell	Miss M. G. Harper
Mrs. J. E. Carpenter	Mrs. Pollock

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Platt Pepper.

BOARDING HOUSE FOR MEN.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew has opened a house at 1934 Race St., where men can have a comfortable home at the lowest price consistent with good food and service, the rates being from $4.50 to $5.00 a week.

Several such houses have existed in this city for women, for some years past. And it is as desirable that the multitudes of young men who are obliged to live here away from their families, should have similarly comfortable places to board in, and where they can have genial companionship and be under good influences, instead of the very cheerless boarding places they have been forced to put up with.

The different rooms in this house have been furnished by different chapters of the Brotherhood, and we are proud to say that room No. 11 was furnished by the Ascension Chapter.

An Illustration of Conscientious and Systematic Giving.

To the Editor of "The Churchman":

Believing that the enclosed letter from a hitherto unknown correspondent in a distant diocese will be instructive and encouraging to others, I beg that you will print it in an early issue. * * *

LEIGHTON COLEMAN.

Bishopstead.

Dear Sir: I am a poor man, and have worked for my living all my life, or since I was old enough. Am now sixty-two years old. Up to about eight or ten years ago, I felt it was impossible for me to do anything worth mentioning for the cause of missions or the support of the parish of which I was a member. I was always glad when I could give from five to ten dollars per year, but there was never any certainity as to my doing even that much. A clergyman one day handed me a little pamphlet on systematic giving, and I resolved to try the scriptural plan of laying aside a definite sum every Sunday for Christian purposes. I fixed upon a definite sum for minister's salary; another definite sum for diocesan and general missions; and another sum as a conscience-fund for the payment of old obligations. I do not think a week has passed since I made that resolution in which I have not deposited in my mite chest the sum of money fixed upon at that time, and sometimes I have done more, as for suffering churches at Johnstown and Louisville, and others. If ever a Sunday has found me without the money it has been deposited as soon as I got the money, and never have I borrowed one penny from that chest, nor allowed any one else to. I have made change from it, but never borrowed one penny. Since I began this, I have been enabled by the grace of God to break off entirely the tobacco-habit, and for six years I have not had the taste of tobacco or tobacco smoke in my mouth. My contributoins have amounted to between $40 and $50 per year, where $10 was a large average before, and very uncertain at that. Out of the conscience-fund I have paid my arrearages on subscription to my Church paper (some $22) and other old debts. * * *

Now, my dear sir, I do not say all this in any spirit of boasting—God knows I have little enough to boast of and a multitude of sins to repent of; but I say it to show others what they can do as well as I, if they will only make the effort; of course the effort must be earnest and faithful, and will admit of no trifling. My business is that of publishing a little seven-column folio country newspaper, with no country patronage to speak of, and only such business as comes from a little village of less than 800 inhabitants, and less than 1,400 in the whole town, and our merchants are mostly old-fogyish on the subject of advertising and do but little of it—don't believe in it, etc. My only object in writing is to show that small contributions if only regularly and conscientiously made, would fill our treasuries to overflowing and take away our reproach. All can in this way more than double their contributions if they will.

I am led to write this letter by reading an extract from your convention address in my Church paper. If these facts are of any interest or use to you, do what you please with them, but don't publish my name unnecessarily. * * *

APPEALS.

The Church is always asking for money. We have in this parish a collection at all the principal services. We have special envelopes for charitable purposes. We have a large debt to pay off. We have improvements and additions we want to make. We have Schools and Guilds and Societies to carry on. We have ladies especially representing the Church in the different departments of missionary work or in certain charitable societies. For all these things there are appeals always being made for money. And people say the Church is always begging, and they say they get very tired of always being appealed to. And they show they do not like it. They are often rude and disagreeable to those who ask them. If you attempt to do it, you see at once you ars giving offense; that those you are addressing do not like to be asked for money.

Now it is well we should have an understanding about this business. Let us think a little about it.

It is true the Church is always wanting money, and she always will want it. She would not be true to her mission and she could not do her work if she did not ask for it. But the Church is not a beggar. Nor are those who ask money for her, beggars. They do not come to you asking for something which is going to benefit themselves. They are simply telling you of ways and means by which you have it in your power, if you have the money to give, by which you can bless and benefit many people, perhaps generations. Is it not an advantage for you to have that information, to be given that opportunity? Ought you to feel angry and annoyed because one gives it to you? What sort of a Christian spirit is it to resent having benevolent objects presented to you? We can understand how one can be deeply grieved and regret that one cannot contribute to all these objects as one would wish, but what cause of resentment can there be in being asked to give?

Is not the secret of that feeling the consciousness that one ought to give, and we are selfish and want to keep all we have for ourselves, and do not want our quiet enjoyment of what we have disturbed? Ought we not to remember the need there is for money for all sorts of benevolent purposes, the good that could be done by giving, the blessedness of giving, the goodness of the people who take upon themselves to ask for charitable contributions—for we do not think any can do this from pleasure—and at least treat them with courtesy and make our refusal, if it must be one, as polite and kindly as possible, showing that we at least appreciate the work they are doing?

But you say you cannot possibly give to all the demands that are made upon you. That is true. Certainly you cannot give largely to all, but is not that fact made an excuse by you for not giving at all, or what you might give? Could you not give a little to each? And would that not be far nicer in you than to growl and complain because you are asked to do so? It may be your misfortune that you cannot give, but it is only your fault if you are displeased with being asked. No one has a right to resent that, and it is the manifestation of a distinctly unchristian spirit to do so.

Every one who has any conception of what the Church and her work is, must know that it is always needing money and must always be making appeals. And as those appeals are always for doing good they should be received in a kindly spirit. And our advice to our people is always to give something when asked, if it is for a Christian and proper purpose, if you possibly can.

Those who have incomes of three or four or more thousand dollars a year, can give their dollar or two dollars to such appeals, in addition to their regular contributions to the support of the Church, and never feel it. And those who have only their dollar a day, can give their five or ten cents, and even such contributions count up. If you give something you are aiding a good cause, you are manifesting a good spirit, and you will be well thought of. If you give nothing, it is probably because you are selfish, or too proud to let it be known how little you can give, and you will be thought disagreeable. At any rate do not resent being asked. If the clergy do it, remember they ought to do so, and give them an attentive hearing, and such response as you can. Do not try to escape from an evident duty by shutting your eyes and pretending not to see it, nor be angry if attention to it is forced upon you. And we want especially to bespeak a courteous reception for those members of our parish who are good enough to undertake the task of making appeals for charitable purposes. It is good in them to do it, and you ought not to treat them as if they were making solicitations for their own benefit and annoying you by their importunities. They are rather conferring a favor upon you, than asking one from you.

PARISH NOTES.

Our Night Choir has been greatly improved the last two Sundays by the addition to it of some twelve or more men, members of our Parish Glee Club. These are surpliced and occupy one side of the choir stalls, and the ladies who formerly sat in the front pews sit on the other side, which enables them to keep time together and greatly improves the singing. Altogether it makes a very good chorus choir and adds very much to the attractiveness of our night service. We hope the members will be all regular in their attendance, and we shall be glad if others who have good voices will join it.

The Special Services inaugurated by our Parish Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, on the last Sunday evening of each month, began December 29th. Posters announcing the service had been distributed in the neighborhood and notices put in the papers, and the result was a considerably larger congregation than we had been having. The preacher was the Rev. John Dows Hills, Associate Rector of S. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia. The preacher for this month will be duly announced.

The Historical Sermon on the third Sunday evening of this month, by the Rector, will be on "the Church after the Revolutionary War."

Christmas. — We had a fine Christmas day this year, and good congregations. There were four Celebrations of the Holy Communion, the number of communicants being exactly the same as last year. The choir was supported by eight instruments and gave us a very fine service. The offerings, including those for the floating debt, amounted to some $700. The Rector asked for a thousand dollars, which were needed to pay the interest on the mortgage on our property, which was due last month, and also a temporary loan of $500, which was due the end of the year. We shall have nearly enough to pay these and meet our ordinary expenses, and we hope that contributions through the envelopes for the floating debt will come in from time to time until the whole is wiped out. We have been especially gratified this Christmas by the contributions which have been made through the alms chest and in answer to personal appeals for special objects. It shows a readiness on the part of the members of the congregation generally to take part in and carry on the work of the church, and it shows, we suppose also, that times are better and people have more money to give away.

Children's Festival.—Though Holy Innocents' day came on Saturday, not a very convenient day for the purpose, the children's Christmas festival took place upon it, as it is naturally the children's day. After singing their Christmas hymns in the church, and a short address by the Rector, they were taken to the school room, where there was a brilliant Christmas tree, and they were each given cakes and candies. They were also entertained by an exhibition of slight of hand by a professor who had been engaged for the purpose.

We are glad to say our school has increased during the last few weeks and the classes are at last well provided with teachers. If these will be only faithful and regular in their attendance, there is no reason why we should not have a large and successful school.

Mothers' Meeting.—Eighteen members of the Mothers' Meeting were furnished with Christmas dinners, consisting of chickens or turkeys, sweet and white potatoes, cranberries, hominy, sugar, tea and rice.

The "King's Daughters" of Miss Anable's School sent full dinners for two families, and white potatoes, 5 quarts of hominy, tea and rice, 4 cans of corn, 1 quart of cranberries and 2 pounds of sugar in addition; one member of the parish sent a pair of chickens, and another, 12 loaves of bread.

The ladies in charge of the meeting have sent an appeal to some members of the congregation asking for $100, to carry on the work of the meeting during the present winter, not a large sum for the purpose. They have so far received money and promises amounting to $48. Are there not others in the congregation who will contribute towards this very benevolent work of aiding those whom we know all about, and who find it hard to provide the necessaries of life for themselves and their families, and make up the sum needed? Donations can be given to Mrs. John Mason, or to any member of the Committee.

The Rector's Class on the Prayer Book on Wednesday afternoons has been interrupted by Christmas day and New Years both coming on Wednesday. But it will now be continued regularly until Easter, and we hope that Christmas being over, with its many engrossments, there are more in the congregation who will have leisure to attend it than there were during Advent.

Missionary Box.—The ladies got off some time before Christmas, a very nice missionary box, valued at $116. It contained, we believe, everything the clergyman had asked for except an overcoat, and a good many things in addition which he had not asked for. They were able also to send three small boxes or bundles to clergymen living in Minnesota, Iowa and Michigan. We shall probably have letters of acknowledgement to print next month.

ALTAR CLOTH.—The ladies of the embroidery class were very busy before Christmas in completing a large order they had received for an altar cloth, hangings, etc., for a church in Ann Arbor, Michigan. It was a very elaborate and beautiful piece of work, and by great exertions the ladies were able to get it off in time to reach its destination so as to be used on Christmas day. They will now have leisure to take up work at home, and to instruct any who want to learn the art.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—Are there not members of our parish who will themselves advertise or secure advertisements for this paper? We cannot meet the expense of publication without that aid. We know of cases where those advertising have received custom, far exceeding the cost of their advertisement, solely from the fact of their being known as members of or interested in this parish. Will not others try it?

MISSIONARY WORK IN LOUISIANA.

It gives us pleasure to print the following letter from one of the old boys of our parish, now the Rev. H. R. Carson, of New Orleans, La.:

New Orleans, Dec., 1895.

There are a great many powers which are adverse to the enlarging and the strengthening of the Church in this State. There is, first of all, the great population of French, Spanish, Italian and Negro, all clinging tenaciously to the habits of centuries, and refusing amalgamation with Anglo-American living; there are the results of that civil war which overturned so completely the family, society and commerce; there is the frequent return of adversity—storm, cold, short crops, low prices, and the like; and last of all, there is the indifferent and careless way of living which always accompanies life in Southern parts. These are real impeding forces to the extension of the Church, which many in the North do not appreciate. When they look southward they see an established diocese, and they reason, that there must necessarily be solidity and power; and then they turn their sympathy and practical charity into other channels, western and foreign.

These latter places have indeed their pressing needs, and they can all plead eloquently for your help; but harder problems confront the Bishops and clergy in these older States.

I am grateful to the Rector of the Church of the Ascension for an opportunity to write briefly of one particular work in which I am especially interested; it is, however, but one case out of many which are almost similar.

If one should examine a map of Louisiana, one would see a long stretch of land extending southward from New Orleans; the Mississippi river divides it; in some parts, there is scarcely a mile of land between the river and the Gulf of Mexico; this stretch of land is called the "Lower Coast of Louisiana." Two years ago a great cyclone swept over it and the neighboring islands that are all about it, destroying life and property. Some of the wave of sympathy which followed touched Philadelphia. There was great and terrible suffering, but perhaps it was dulled to a considerable extent by the very suddenness of it all; that black night, with its fierce winds, with the rush of overflowing waters, with its great, unutterable terrors, still lives in the memory of these people, but it is more like a dream than a once awful reality. Months of rain and sunshine have followed; other forms have taken the places of the drowned, and the night is only to be talked about as "the storm of October, '93." But last year, another calamity came upon them, and the marks of it still remain. As one passes along the road, close by the river level, and as the eyes look on the poor homesteads, there is something very pathetic. There are small, three-roomed, unpainted pine board houses; a little front garden overgrown by rank grasses, and most of all, there are the dead remains of what were once orange orchards. These dead limbs, all bare and black, are the witnesses of the second calamity—of the cold wave of last year.

Have these people no money, no lands, you ask? On every day set for the sheriff's sale, there is a long list of names published for unpaid taxes; and on every local train during the spring and summer season there are shipments of little boxes of vegetables; but it is a single barrel of cabbage by one man, a single box of cucumbers by another, and so on; the returns from such shipments are scarcely worthy of reckoning.

This is the material side of these people; but to this side, consider that they are of our own race, English and Welsh and American, and that they are loyal and faithful members of our own Church; of this side, however, I hope to write next month.

H. R. CARSON.

THE EARLY SACRIFICE.

Sweeter than picture painter ever drew,
The Altar at the dewy hour of morn.
The service set, and every avenue
Of worldly care, and every carking thorn
Of grief and mournful reminiscence drawn
As from Christ's side the bloody spear they drew;
And here with Him, a little band we meet,
The King Himself to greet.

Here seems the face of Holy Mary seen
In the red beams that through the oriels stray.
And all the saintly company between
The Chancel rails, in this the dawning day.
Oh, shall we in ignoble slumber lie
When here we feast with such a company?

Here is the Christmas of the incarnate Child,
The Easter of the Lord's own rising heim.
And e'en His death-throes in those moments wild,
All pass before me in the wondrous dream,
As I by faith upon the Altar see
His broken flesh, and blood outpoured for me!

Oh! blest reunion of the saints of earth,
And those who in the walks of Paradise,
Their earthly thorns for heavenly crowns lay down,
These too come here to glad these mysteries.

OUR COMMUNICANT LIST.

Every clergyman in charge of a parish is required by the canons of the Church to keep a list of all the communicant members of his parish. The purpose of which is that the Church may have accurate statistics as to how many members there are belonging to the several parishes, and what is the strength of the Church at large. And also that the clergyman may know who the people are of whom he is the pastor. It is, therefore, a very wise and necessary thing.

But it is by no means an easy thing for a clergyman to do. For, in the first place, there are a great many persons attending our churches who never make themselves known to the clergy. They have been confirmed in other places, they are in the city or the neighborhood for only a short time, they are uncertain about their movements, they do not know where they will eventually settle down, or they do not wish to sever their connections with other churches, or they are careless or indifferent, or procrastinating or diffident. From one or other of these causes they never let the clergymen know who they are, though they keep coming to his Church and making their Communions. This is bad for the church and bad for them, because they do not feel that they belong to it, have not the sense of responsibility and interest in it which they should. And as they are not enrolled as members, the real attendance and strength of the Church is not shown.

Then of those who are enrolled as belonging to the Church, many from time to time move away and never notify the clergyman. Our clergy often spend a great deal of time and trouble in trying to hunt up and find out what has become of some of those who have belonged to the Church. And it is a question how long their names should remain on the register. A clergyman cannot go on year after year reporting to the Bishop persons as communicants of his parish when he does not know whether they are dead or alive, or where they can be found. Many persons are thus lost to the Church annually, their names cease to appear on any register and they to belong to any parish, or even to know any clergyman, simply through their own carelessness.

Then again, there are persons who have belonged to a parish and been communicants, but who cease to make their Communions, and it is a question how long their names should be kept on the list. We have no rule in regard to such cases. In the Roman Catholic Church if a man does not communicate at least once a year he is, ipso facto, excommunicated. But that seems rather arbitrary. Moreover, it is not easy for a clergyman in charge of a large parish to bear in mind whether each individual member on his list has or has not made a communion within a year.

From these causes, therefore, it is very difficult for a clergyman to keep an accurate list of those actually attending and communicating in his Church, although it is so desirable on all accounts that he should be able to do so. The only remedy is with the people themselves. They should be more careful about their Church connections, always seeing that they are registered somewhere, and in case of removal always asking for a letter of transfer, that their names may be removed from one register and placed upon another, and not to neglect making their communions, or at least notifying the clergyman if they have determined to cease doing so.

There is another fact connected with the communicant list in this parish, to which we want to refer, in order that our people may appreciate some of the difficulties under which we labor, and that is the constant changes that are made in it. To see this, let us look at the changes which have taken place since May 1st last, the beginning of our conventional year. Since then forty-two persons have been added to our communicant list by confirmation and by transfers from other parishes. A very fair increase for that length of time in a parish of some 500 communicants in all. But during that same time we have lost exactly the same number, which leaves us precisely where we were in point of numbers. The causes of those losses were as follows: eight have died, seven have removed out of the city, ten removed to the extreme northern part of the city, five to the southern part, six have been dropped, one has entered the Church of Rome, one was made a deacon, two have left the parish, because it was "too High," and two because it was not "High" enough. This shows what we have to contend against in this parish. There is a constant movement of people from the southern part of the city to the northern or western part, and this drains our parish of communicants.

This is not the showing for the whole year, as our annual confirmation is yet to take place, by which our list will undoubtedly be increased, so that we shall this year, as we have every year, make an advance, but it will not be as large as it would be under other circumstances.

If we could only hold on to all our old members, as well as gain new ones, our church would soon be filled to overflowing.

PARISH NOTES.

DONATIONS.— We desire to acknowledge the receipt of a whole piece of canton flannel from Strawbridge & Clothier and one from John Wanamaker, obtained through two of the ladies in charge of the Mothers' Meeting, for its work; also the donations in money for the same work from some of our members, a full report of which will be made at the end of our financial year. We have again been able to obtain work from the Hospitals for the members of this meeting and this money enables us to pay them for it.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD enjoyed just after New Year a very handsome entertainment, given by Mr. Spencer Ervin, who has taken a great interest in the Guild. After some musical selections by members of the Glee Club, all sat down to a bountiful collation, served by one of our best caterers, consisting of fried oysters and chicken salad, ice cream, cake, coffee, etc. After which a speech was made by the Rector, and three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Ervin. In addition to the members of the Guild, the clergy, one of our vestrymen and the officers of St. Mary's Guild, there were present several delegations from other Guilds, whose hospitality St. John's Guild has at times accepted. It was altogether a very enjoyable occasion.

The gymnasium of the Guild has lately been improved by the addition of a very substantial ladder, which was presented by a member of the Guild.

AN ENTERTAINMENT by the members of St. Mary's Guild, for which they have been preparing for some weeks, will be given in the parish building, on Thursday evening, February 13th. The proceeds are to go towards reducing the floating debt of the Church. Tickets can be had from the sexton or from members of the Guild.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop has appointed the evening of April 15th for his annual visit to the parish to administer Confirmation. The instructions preparatory to it will begin on Thursday evening, February 20th, at 8 P. M., and Monday afternoon, February 24th, at 4 o'clock. All desiring to be confirmed are expected to attend one of these courses of instruction. And it is hoped that all adults in the parish of whatever age, who have not yet been confirmed, will avail themselves of this opportunity of being so.

DIOCESAN MISSION.— The special envelope for a benevolent object this quarter is for Diocesan Missions. For this purpose this parish is asked to contribute this year $108.22 and for the Sustentation Fund $35.16 making in all $143.38. It is hoped that this sum will be received through the envelopes and not have to be taken out of the general funds of the Church.

MRS. CARPENTER.—Our Senior Warden, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, has the profound sympathy of all the members of the parish in his great affliction, in the sudden and most unexpected death of his esteemed wife. Mrs. Carpenter has been connected with the parish and deeply interested in it since the present Rector took charge, in November, 1880. Though living at a distance from the church, she was most regular in her attendance, coming sometimes even to the week-day services. For awhile she taught in the Sunday School, and has always taken part in the Guild work, contributing to its various departments, and for years representing the parish in the Foreign Committee of the Women's Auxiliary. We shall deeply miss her presence, her interest and her aid. In addition to her work here, she also took a great interest in and did a great deal for the Church at Salisbury, Mass., where her family homestead is, and where she always spent her summers, and also last winter, and where she now lies buried. The first part of the burial office was said at Christ Church, of which her father was so long Rector, and our Assistant Minister accompanied the body to Salisbury for the final interment. May she rest in peace, and may light perpetual shine upon her.

MISSIONARY BOXES. — The following letters of acknowledgement have been received of the missionary boxes and bundles lately sent out by our ladies. They show how much they have been appreciated, and how much good they do:

Belleville, Ill., Jan. 1896.

My Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

The box has arrived in good condition on the last day of the old year, and I take this first opportunity to convey to you our united thanks for the abundance of good things it contained. Young and old alike were made happy, as article after article was unpacked, and you may rest assured that your kindness was thoroughly appreciated. If at any time you can send Herman some more stamps, he would be glad to receive them.

All unite with me in wishing you and all others who have contributed to the box, a very Happy New Year.

Very sincerely yours,
JOHANNES ROCKSTROH.

Trinity Mission,
Caro, Mich., Jan. 8, 1896.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

The box of second-hand clothing you so kindly sent, came to hand a few days ago, after being delayed in Toledo, and you don't know how delighted we were to get them. Every article will be of the greatest service to us. Most of the clothing sent will need but very little altering. The lovely coat fits me exactly, and I am in need of clothing, and this has just come in the right time.

I have to drive fifteen miles across the country to Gagetown, and it is quite necessary that one should be warmly clothed, and even then I am so cold when I arrive at my journey's end that it takes several hours before I get thoroughly warmed. Still I don't mind it, for I always feel amply paid when I find a large congregation awaiting my arrival, and, although the winter has been unusually cold, and the roads extremely bad, yet I have not disappointed the people once as yet. I only hope and pray that I may have the strength to go on in the same way.

I am sure if the Women's Auxiliary only knew what a real blessing and help these missionary boxes are, they would feel amply repaid for all their trouble. Thanking you again for the box you have sent us, and looking forward to the one you spoke of in your letter, may God bless you in your work.

Yours, very respectfully,
W. E. A. LEWIS.

Creston, Iowa, Jan. 7th, 1806.

Mrs. R. A. Gilpin:

Dear Madam—I desire to thank you for bundle of clothing received in December last.

Your letter has been mislaid, which is the reason I have not written you before.

Yours, sincerely,
ARTHUR CHARD.

THE HISTORICAL SERMON by the Rector on the third Sunday evening of this month will be on the Church during the early days of the Republic.

CONFERENCE AND QUIET DAY.

The annual Conference of Church Women will be held on the second Thursday in Lent, February 27th, 1896, at the Church House, Walnut and Twelfth streets. Morning session at 10:30. The Bishop of the diocese will open the Conference. Paper on "The Spirit of the Age," by Mrs. Zantzinger.

Afternoon session at 3 o'clock. Paper on "The Home and its Best Interests, and the Home Makers of the Future," by Mrs. D. M. Lowry. Paper, "What can Women do to Hasten the Coming of God's Kingdom?" by Mrs. Mumford.

A Quiet Day for Churchwomen will be held at St. James' Church, Walnut and Twenty-second streets, on the second Friday in Lent, February 28th, to be conducted by the Rev. W. Hay M. H. Aitken, of the C. P. M. M. S. of England. Services at 7:30, 9:30, 10:30 A. M. and 3 and 8 P. M. The evening service is for all church workers, men and women. Please note, that the Quiet Day follows instead of precedes the Conference, to suit the convenience of the distinguished missioner.

ORDINATION AT NEW ORLEANS, LA.

The ordination of Rev. Harry Roberts Carson, at Christ Church Cathedral, yesterday forenoon, was a most impressive and picturesque event, a large audience being present, and the Bishop of Louisiana officiating. Mr. Carson has been in charge of the Episcopal Church work in Pattison and along the Teche and the lower coast, and has a wide circle of acquaintanceship, both in the city and throughout the State.

Mr. Carson was born in Pennsylvania, near Norristown, in December, 1869. He was descended on his mother's side from an old Quaker family. His early education was obtained in the schools of Norristown and Philadelphia, and was supplemented by a sojourn at a military school in his native State. In 1891 he went to Mexico as an assayer in the employ of an important mining company. He resided principally at San Luis Potosi. Returning to this country in 1892, he soon afterwards entered the University of the South, at Sewanee, and underwent a course in the Theological Seminary of that institution. Leaving that institution, Mr. Carson came to this city, and after attending lectures here was admitted to deacon's orders about twelve months ago, and assigned to the charge which he has filled up to the present moment. Mr. Carson has had considerable experience as a literary worker, having at several times been associated with college and amateur papers, contributing to magazines, etc. He was a prominent member of an organization of amateur writers and publishers, the National Amateur Press Association. He has lately been publishing a small church paper, as an adjunct to his church work in Pattison.

The Cathedral was very prettily decorated yesterday with the evergreens remaining from the Christmas ceremonies. Bishop Sessums was assisted in the ordination by Dean Paradise. The latter delivered the ordination sermon, taking as his text, "The Church of the Living God," an excerpt from I Timothy, iii, 15.

The Bishop celebrated the Communion, after which the services were closed. Mr. Carson was tendered a multitude of congratulations. He will reside in town, but have charge of the field embracing Cheniere Caminada and the lower coast, Pattison and Hammond, the latter being his especial charge.

LAW OF THE CHURCH.

TITLE II., CANON 12.

Regulations Respecting the Laity.

§ 1. A communicant removing from one parish to another shall procure from the Rector (if any) of the Parish of his last residence, or if there be no Rector, from one of the Wardens, a certificate stating that he or she is a Communicant in good standing; and the Rector of the Parish or Congregation, to which he or she removes, shall not be required to receive him or her as a Communicant until such letter is produced.

OUR EASTER OFFERING.

On the morning of the first Sunday in Lent our Rector preached a sermon on the duty of conscientious giving for the support of the church. He pointed out that while in other churches this is made a matter of bargain in the sale and rental of pews, enforced by the presentation of a bill, in a free church, such as ours, it is left to the honor of those attending the church and receiving its benefits. And like all other duties, perhaps above all others, it is one in which we are apt to become careless. And as Lent is a time for self-examination and amendment, so all should use it for this purpose, among others, to see that he is giving regularly and fully as he should to the support of God's House. And as it is a time for self-denial, so we should use it for the purpose of setting aside a sum to be a special offering on Easter Day. The special object of the Easter offering this year will be the wiping out of our floating debt. We have also a mortgage debt we should get rid of, but as this is so large we can only hope to accomplish it by receiving from time to time large donations or bequests. And the Rector especially urged the members of the congregation who had property, to remember the church in their wills. Large sums are left annually to hospitals and colleges, why not to churches? To what better purpose could money be left than to endow, or relieve from debt, a free church.

But at present our energies must be given to removing our floating debt. This is the accumulation of several years deficits which were not made up at the time, and the cost of some improvements made this year. Can we not pay it all off this year, and then try and keep from having any more deficits? If our people will only be earnest and self-sacrificing in the matter, we are sure it can be done.

We subjoin a detailed statement and appeal in regard to it from the Accounting Warden. We hope that what both the Rector and Warden say, will be carefully considered and their suggestions followed and the full $1673.00 asked for be raised.

Statement by the Accounting Warden.

We wish to say a word on the financial question, and will preface it by a statement from the Warden's books. Our liabilities to April 1st, next, are about as follows:

Salaries	$786.66
Floating debt, including interest on same	1478.63
Coal, balance of bill	100.00
Care of organ, etc	70.00
Convention Fund	108.22
Sustentation Fund	35.16
Gas and incidentals	40.00
Total	$2618.67

against which we will have:

Cash in bank and interest due	$345.39
Estimated receipts for March	600.00
	$945.39

leaving a deficit of $1673.28 to be provided for on Easter, to say nothing of the interest on our mortgage which will fall due in June, and to provide for which, we have always looked to the Easter offertory. Now, how are we going to meet this? Let us make a few suggestions; we all believe in fasting as a means of spiritual grace and strength, for our dear Lord tells us that in prayer and fasting only can we find strength to combat the evil one. Now, cannot we make our fasting a means of temporal good to our parish this Lent; we have, say, 500 persons connected with this parish; if every one of those persons will deny themselves something, cut down their lunch, give up cigars or tobacco, walk, rather than ride in the cars, and in many other ways we can save money, and benefit ourselves by self-discipline. Now, if these 500 persons will only average fifteen cents a day (some can save much more, some much less) for the forty days of Lent, and put it on the plate on Easter Day, we would have $3000, or enough to meet all our obligations and carry us over the summer. Now, my dear brothers and sisters of Ascension Parish, we speak of what we do know, for our Easter offering for years has been of our self-denial; let us plead with you as you love your Parish Church, and which of you does not? Practice self-denial this Lent to your soul's health and your parish's gain; lift this load of debt which hangs like a mill stone around our neck, and so greatly hinders us in running the race that is set before us, and in so doing you will gladden the heart of your Rector and strengthen the hands of all your parish agencies. "For he that provideth not for his own, especially them of his own house, has denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel."

PARISH NOTES.

THE ENTERTAINMENT given by St. Mary's Guild on Feb. 13th, was very successful, both in point of numbers attending it, though it was an inclement night, and in the character of the entertainment itself. It consisted of "The Peake Sisters" by some members of St. Mary's Guild, a pantomime, tableaux, recitations, songs, etc. The Guild was very materially assisted by the parish glee club, and some members of St. John's Guild, and also by a company of mandolin players, who most kindly volunteered their services. The receipts amounted to over $35, which will go towards reducing the floating debt of the church.

THE LADIES' AID will sew during Lent for the Sheltering Arms institution of this city. They will be glad if any members of the congregation will join them. They meet on Thursday afternoons, from three to five o'clock, in the parish building. Ladies preferring to do so, can take pieces of work home.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—The local Council of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will hold its March meeting in our church on the evening of Monday, the 16th inst. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Sterling, Rector of the Church of the Nativity, South Bethlehem, Pa.

Arrangements have been made for the special monthly services, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of our own church, as follows: Evening of the last Sunday of this month, preacher, the Venerable Archdeacon Brady; April, the Rev. Dr. Parks, Rector of St. Peter's Church; May, the Rev. Mr. Duhring, Superintendent of the City Mission.

The special historical sermon by the Rector on the third Sunday evening of this month, will be on the history of the Church from 1811 to 1836. We hope that all desiring to familiarize themselves with the history of their own Church, will attend the sermons of this course.

In addition to his duties in his own parish, the Rector has made engagements to preach during Lent in All Hallows Church, Wyncote; S. Paul's, the Transfiguration and S. Timothy's, Philadelphia; the Holy Trinity, West Chester, and before the Berkley Society of Yale College in Trinity Church, New Haven. This will take him away from the Church over a Sunday.

HOLY WEEK.—Our services in Holy Week will be as in previous years. The Procession of Palms before the Second Celebration on Palm Sunday. Holy Communion each morning during the week at 7.30 A. M. and after Morning Prayer at 10 A. M., except Good Friday, when the Morning Prayer and Litany will be said at 11 A. M. followed by the Preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. There will also be Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and a sermon on the Passion each evening at 8 P. M. On Easter Day there will be Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 10.30 A. M.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS are given during Lent every Monday afternoon at 4 P. M., and Thursday at 8 P. M. Will not all the adults attending the church, not yet confirmed, present themselves at this time? How can they excuse themselves for not doing so?

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special benevolent envelope for this quarter is for Diocesan Missions, that is for the purpose of extending and strengthening the Church in our own diocese. Any one who notices the growth of the city, will realize the need of building and sustaining new churches in the various neighborhoods where the city is growing, and the Church ought to be on the ground, abreast of the population; to do this, missions must be planted which will develop into self-sustaining parishes in time. But they must be helped in the beginning, and our older parishes are expected to extend this aid. As yet this quarter these envelopes have been coming in slowly, but we are expected to contribute $85 for this purpose; will not all give something?

SPECIAL ENVELOPES for Diocesan Missions, for the floating debt and for the Easter offering, will be sent out by the Accounting Warden to all the attendants of the church this month, whether they use the ordinary envelopes for the support of the church or not. The object of the envelope for the Easter offering is to keep it distinct from the ordinary offering for the Sunday. It should be extra and above what is given every Sunday, a special thanksgiving on that great festival, as the result of our self-denial during Lent. Every one will attend at least two services on Easter Day; at one put in the plate the regular envelope for the Sunday, at the other the special one for Easter Day, and let the latter contain as large an offering as you can make.

MORTGAGE DEBT.—The Warden has in his hands a little over $300 towards the reduction of our mortgage. Is there not some one who will give $200 for this purpose, to make up another payment of $500, which we can do at any time we have the money? This would reduce the debt to $21,000. We should like to see this done before May 1st, and feel that we have not let a financial year go by without some reduction of this incubus.

MISSIONARY WORK IN LOUISIANA.

II.

I suppose we have all felt some degree of human sympathy with the old Covenanters of Scotland, when they would make for the open fields or for the dark glens that they might worship God. But it is infinitely more pathetic to see the efforts which are made in our day for rendering the offices of the Church. Certainly, the harsh pine-wood buildings, of the architecture of a packing box, and the harsher interior, with perhaps only the decorations which the unique estheticism of some rural mind supplies, are less inspiring than the fields and rocks of nature. And so, a little more human sympathy is needed at home.

There are many of these painful efforts at some recognition of God's service, all through our country, and, one thinks, a deeper appreciation of the meaning of the phrase, "the Communion of Saints," ought to make them less painful.

A few weeks ago I wrote of the "Lower Coast" of Louisiana, in a general way. There is one point at which I hold services once a month, visiting the place in connection with two others on the same day. There is an old school house here which is lent to us; in the summer it is used as a boarding house, while the Sicilians are having their boats made ready for their oyster fishing in the Fall. It is the plainest of plain structures, which is saying considerable. There are no other seats than of boards supported by boxes; and the only altar, pulpit, reading desk, or whatever one chooses to call it, is another box; upon it rests a white pitcher and a glass; a lamp and a Prayer Book. The pitcher of water is not so much for the preacher's use as for the quieting of the childrens' cry for a "drink." Just back of the preacher, the Mississippi rolls on to the sea.

There are about 40 Communicants and always a large congregation; there is no Sunday School. We can have practically the entire settlement if some little effort were made. No particular efforts have been made to keep them in the church, yet there they stay; they have no church building, yet they refuse to be dazzled by the splendor of frequent revivals in the only sectarian church building on the coast. They have nothing to move their affection or draw out their devotion —save the sermon of the preacher. They haven't even the smallest organ, and unless the preacher can teach them directly from his own voice, they sing doleful L. M. and C. M. hymns.

Nevertheless there is something very moving in these efforts at worship of God, and at keeping in Communion with the Church Catholic, and one feels certain that the Infinite Father must be moved too.

I might write much more, but this much is sufficient to give some idea of the needs of one place only.

H. R. Carson.

New Orleans, February, 1896.

Perhaps while you accept the principle of giving as God has prospered you, and are putting it in practice, you prefer not to have your name printed. Send it on just the same; your wishes shall be repected.

"Evil is never so deadly as when it puts on an air of respectability."

"Churches Suitable for the Poor."

It is said that the spiritual wants of the poor should be provided for by the building of cheap churches and chapels in poor localities which shall be suitable churches for the poor. Now, I hate the very words, "churches suitable for the poor." It is in the very poorest neighborhood that one should desire to have the most beautiful church that can be built. When you look at the dull monotony of the daily life of the poor, with so little that is beautiful in it, surely it is desirable that the one place in the parish to which they may have free resort and access—the house of their Common Father—should be a place that shall bring some of the beauty and grace, and something of the sense of human brotherhood, into their weary and saddened lives.

I hold that it is not well, even in the interests of the rich, to have cheap churches for the poor. It is not a wise thing nor a safe thing that wealth and rank and respectability should have one place of worship on Sunday, and that the poor should have another. One of the sorest and saddest evils of nineteenth century life is the ever-widening chasm which separates class from class and rank from rank; and those who care for the State tremble to see the ever-widening gulf in the Forum into which they may yet see more than one of their most precious things cast before it is closed. I do not say that separation of classes is only caused by the separation on Sundays of which I have been speaking, but I do say that it is enhanced and increased by it. We cannot overestimate the healing and uniting influence of a common sanctuary for rich and poor, in which they may feel, in the highest sense of it, their religious equality, and that there is at least one place on this side of the grave where rich and poor may meet together.— Bishop Magee's Speech in the House of Lords, 1886.

"The heart knoweth his own bitterness."

The world is full of aching hearts,
Each with its own unrest;
And Satan forms his poisoned darts
For every human breast.

Some cry aloud beneath the load
Of over-mastering sin;
The heart all bleeding with the goad
That conscience presseth in.

Some weep alone in bitter grief,
Sore longing for the hour
When death itself shall bring relief
From Satan's awful power.

And oh! for hearts in anguish rent
With slander's bitter tongue,
Bearing the woe in secret sent
By which the soul is wrung;

Crushed, bruised and bleeding, by the hand
That should defend and shield;
Struck by the brother, who should stand
In life's sad battle-field,

To turn aside th' envenomed dart
Of envy, malice, hate,
And nobly bear a brother's part,
And share a brother's fate.

O! pity show the aching heart!
Turn not away in scorn;
Lest mercy from thy life depart,
Which should thy life adorn.

'Tis better far with love to hide
The shame (if shame there be),
Than e'er a brother's name deride,
And lose thy charity!

CHURCH BENEFACTORS.

It has always been considered a pious and laudable thing to become a founder or benefactor of a church. In fact, most of the churches of Christendom have been built by individuals. Kings, nobles, wealthy men and women, have felt that the best use they could make of their money, was to build or endow a church. It is only persons of great wealth who can really do so. It requires all that persons of small means have, to support themselves and their families. And it takes a great deal of money to erect such a thing as a church. If it were not, therefore, for rich people, there would be very few churches, and those few would be very poor and unworthy of their purpose.

And to what better object could persons of large means devote their wealth? Is there any more beneficent institution in the world than a church? What does it stand for? What does it accomplish? It is erected first to the glory of God, as a witness or representative of God, a witness to man's faith in God. Its erection is an act of worship, an expression of devotion and love and thanks to God for all His mercies. It is a constant reminder to men of God. And the more majestic and imposing a church is, the more it towers above surrounding buildings, so much more effectively does it teach the supremacy of God, and of His claims upon man's obedience and allegiance. And it gives opportunity for constant worship of God, for the lifting up of the heart and soul of man above the transitory and lower things of earth, to the higher and glorious realities of the spiritual world. It affords place for the administration of the divine sacraments, those instrumentalities through which man can gain the grace and strength he needs amid the toil and conflict of life. It is a place where the Word of God is taught and preached.

Its purpose, and its only purpose, is the blessing and benefiting men, and that in the highest and most needed way. What institution then can be compared with it in value, in practical utility?

Men often compare with it, hospitals and asylums, which minister to the sufferings and wants of men. And there is, now-a-days, much more disposition to build or leave money to such institutions, than to the Church, as if they were of more practical use, and because hearts are more readily touched by the sight or thought of physical sufferings. But is not the soul more important than the body? Are not the diseases to which it is subject, the most awful that can afflict humanity? Are not most of the physical ills from which men suffer, the results of sin? Is it not of more importance, therefore, to minister to the souls of men, even than to their bodies? And are not churches those institutions from which all benevolent agencies spring? Is it not they that inspire men to perform deeds of mercy and kindness? Wherever churches are built, hospitals and asylums spring up around them. Is not the first and greatest object, therefore, to which men can devote their wealth, the building and endowment of churches? We include the endowment of churches because that is necessary to put them on a permanent foundation, and enable them to minister to the poor, and not only to the rich.

It has been a natural instinct, therefore, which has regarded such a gift as a great act of piety, and has led men to bless and pray for those who have been the benefactors of their churches. In old times their names were always read in certain church services, and prayers offered on their behalf.

We wish our church people who have means, would consider more than they do, the blessedness of using their wealth in this way. And it is always our hope and prayer that God would raise up some in this parish, to be its benefactors. We have had some such in the past, for whom we thank God, and whose memory we keep green. May God send us more in the time to come. We have in this parish a central and prominent position in which a church can be always useful, but we have not much wealth here. May those of our members who have means, use them generously on its behalf, and may they make provision for its work being carried on after they are gone.

ALTAR LIGHTS.

Some six years ago the Rector of this parish was offered two seven-branch candlesticks to place upon the altar for use, in addition to the two large lights. He declined them, however, thinking at that time that to use the two alone was more dignified and more in accord with Anglican precedent; at the same time he said that if another use should become general in this country, he would not hold out against it, as he would not wish to be singular. He feels now that that time has come. In every church in this diocese in which lights are in use on the altar, there are more than two, even in old St. Peter's Church. And such is the case generally throughout the country. Trinity Church, New York, which, from its great wealth, would naturally set the standard for this country, and which formerly had only two candles on its altar, has now a number. The Rector has determined, therefore, to comply with this general custom and has accepted the gift of some additional candlesticks which will be used for the first time on Easter Day.

This will also enable us to observe the rule, which has also become the general use in America, of lighting the two larger candles only at the Celebration of the Holy Communion, and using the smaller ones as Vesper lights.

The use of these additional lights will certainly add to the beauty and brilliancy of the altar.

The Rector also proposes beginning with Easter, to use the invocation of the Blessed Name before the sermon, which has become quite a general custom among all classes of churchmen. The choir and congregation will, of course, remain standing while the invocation is made.

REVERENCE.

We want to speak again to our people about the way in which some of them come in and go out of the church, even in the most solemn parts of the service. While we think it is better that people should come to church, even if it is only for a part of the service, if they cannot stay all through, than not come at all, we think they should make their coming or going as unobtrusive as possible, during the singing of a hymn, or when it will be least noticed. But we see some persons will come in or go out of church even during the Prayer of Consecration in the Celebration, or just a few minutes before the service will close. Surely this is not reverent, and it is very annoying to those who remain. Whichever service you select to attend, you should be there at the beginning and remain until the end, unless under very extraordinary circumstances. We certainly ought to make all other occupations give way to the solemn and important act of worshipping Almighty God in His sanctuary. We hope we shall notice some improvement in the conduct of the congregation in this respect. It is not treating God's worship as we should, to be careless about being there at its beginning, or hurrying away needlessly before its close.

PARISH NOTES.

Gifts to the Church.—Set of red silk book markers with metal crosses, embroidery of amice, 16 volumes for the Sunday School library, two large Bibles and a number of prayer books, pen wiper for Sacristy, piece of material for choir cottas, several pieces of material for work of Ladies' Aid, bundle of material for sewing school work, bundles of clothing, shoes, etc., for the poor.

In addition to the above, the Embroidery Committee of the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild has made and presented to the Church House of the Diocese, very handsome green and violet stoles, embroidered; the church has also given twelve old Tucker's hymnals to a mission in North Vineland, N. J., and a box of articles for a bazaar, to be held for the benefit of the church in Lewiston, Maine, and a green stole to a mission in the South.

St. Mary's Guild.—Miss Means, who so kindly prepared the members of St. Mary's Guild for the entertainment they gave in February, expecting to leave the city for the summer, the Guild has been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. McIntosh, a teacher of voice culture, in her place. She will meet with the Guild every Tuesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid have been very industrious during Lent, in working for the Sheltering Arms, and have made a goodly number of garments. We are glad to see a number of new members in the Aid, and we hope they will keep on coming after Lent is over.

The girl's class in the Sunday School too, which always makes up a missionary box during Lent, has a specially good one this year, which it is proposed to divide between the Italian Mission and the Church of the Crucifixion. Each will receive about twenty-five garments.

Good Friday.—The Rector is very fortunate this year in securing the services of the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho, as preacher at the three hour's service on Good Friday. This is not an easy thing to do, and it is difficult to vary it year after year. And as the Rector has preached it a goodly number of times, it is both a great relief to him and an advantage to the congregation to have some one else take it, especially when so popular a preacher as Bishop Talbot can be secured.

EASTER DAY.—The Celebrations will be at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M. We hope all who can do so, will make their Communions at the early Celebrations. The music at the mid-day Celebration, will be Schubert in B flat.

EASTER OFFERING. — As this number of the NEWS comes out just before Easter Day, we have time to remind our members of the amount needed in the Easter offering to wipe out our floating debt, $1673.28. This sum can be raised if all our people will give generously. It is a wretched thing for us to be behind in our current expense account, and we want to get this all paid up now, which has been hanging over us for several years, and then keep from running behind hand again in the future. Let us show that free churches can pay their way as well as pew-rented ones. But it can only be done by each member doing his duty, giving his full share.

EASTER FLOWERS. The congregation will remember that the Easter decorations and the flowers we have on the altar every Sunday, except during Lent and Advent, are provided by extra contributions for the purpose. These can be placed in the alms box in the vestibule marked for flowers, during the Easter season, or given directly to Miss Parmelee, the Treasurer, who would also be glad to secure regular weekly or monthly contributions towards this fund.

CONFIRMATION will be administered by the Bishop, on the evening of April 15th, and we are glad to say there is a goodly class in preparation for it.

THE RECTOR'S CLASS for instruction in the Prayer Book on Wednesday afternoons, will be discontinued after Easter.

QUERY.—The Accounting Warden would like to know who is using envelope 190, as envelopes of this number are being regularly returned, and he has no record whom they belong to, as they have not been used for some time.

NIGHT CHOIR. — Our music at the Sunday night service has not been so satisfactory as it is now, for a long time. We have really, a large, good chorus choir. The ladies fill all the stalls on one side of the chancel, and from ten to twelve young men fill the other side. It certainly adds to the attractiveness of the night service, and we hope will tend to increasing the attendance.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The preacher at the St. Andrew's Brotherhood service on the last Sunday evening of this month, will be the Rev. Dr. Parks, Rector of St. Peter's Church.

As the night of the third Sunday in March proved very stormy, so that very few persons were in church, the Rector postponed the historical sermon he was to have preached. On the third Sunday evenings of this and next month, he will endeavor to cover the remaining history of the American Church from 1811 to the present time.

The night of the service for the Local Chapter of the Brotherhood, also proved very stormy, only about fifty members of the Brotherhood being present. But they had a nice service, with a full choir and good sermon.

Bright Easter-Day.

Bright Easter-Day! Dear Easter-day!
Day on which our Lord arose;
Chase all the clouds of doubt away,
CHRIST has triumphed o'er our foes.
JESU CHRISTUS, ALLELUIA!

Bright Easter-Day! Dear Easter-Day!
Day of days the very best;
Lift up thine eyes poor soul to-day,
CHRIST has conquered—thou shalt rest.
JESU CHRISTUS, ALLELUIA!

Bright Easter-Day! Dear Easter-Day!
Songs of joy to-day we raise,
Glad songs to cheer our onward way,
Songs of love, and songs of praise.
JESU CHRISTUS, ALLELUIA!

Bright Easter-Day! Dear Easter-Day!
LORD, Thy day of power, this;
We praise in song, in song we pray,
May our souls partake Thy bliss.
JESU CHRISTUS, ALLELUIA!

How to Meet the Evils that Prevail Now in Society.

Christianity and puritanism give different answers to the question.

There are evils that come from appetite.

Puritanism says: Abolish alcohol; then there will be no drunkenness.

Christianity says: Make the man strong to rule himself; teach him how to use alcohol, and what it is for.

There are evils of an illicit imagination appealed to by licentious pictures, by evil novels, by a corrupt drama.

Puritanism says: Take down the pictures from the walls and destroy the statues; burn up the novels, shut the door of the theatre and drive the actors to more useful labor.

Christianity says: Hang pictures on the walls; keep the library and theatre doors open, and teach men to make art and fiction pure and learn how to discriminate between the play that makes for life and the play that impairs it.

Property is a Trust.

Whatever you have is given to you that you may use it in trust for other. Every man who has property, whether it is one dollar or millions of dollars, is a trustee, and he will have to account for it—the use he has made of his trust. The men who have known how to use their property so as to clothe the naked and feed the hungry and help the suffering are on the one side, and the men who have not are on the other. This makes the real distinction between the worthy and the unworthy—the good and the bad.—

A RETROSPECT.

At the close of our fiscal year let us pause for a moment to look back over the past and see what progress, if any, we have made. On the 22d of November, 1885, we took possession of our present parish building, holding services in the school room. For the year ending the 30th of April, 1886, just ten years ago, we received, through the offertory and subscriptions, exclusive of the Building Fund, $3666.23. This amount increased steadily until in the year ending 30th of April, 1891, it had grown to $8639.86, which was high water mark; the next four years averaging about $8000, and the year just closed about $8200. Now for the first five years we made substantial progress, for in addition to a steady increase of the offerings for the support of the Church, we raised upwards of $24,000 for the Building Fund. Of course, much of this latter came from outside the parish. The next year showed a splendid increase of about $2000, since which we have but little more than held our own. Of course, owing to the hard times of the past few years, we may say we have done well to be able to say that, but have we done as well as we can? Has every member of the parish taken the interest that he would in his own affairs? When the notice has been given through these columns and from the pulpit, that we were in debt, being dragged down and handicapped by an old debt which we did not seem able to get rid of, did every member of the parish set to thinking, "what can I do to help remove this incubus?"

Now let us make a New Year resolution, that by this time next year our floating debt will be a thing of the past. Let us work for it, scheme for it, pray for it. Our dear Church cannot do the work it should, the work it was set down here on Broad Street to do, with this hanging over us. It is not fair to our Rector to ask him to struggle along, year after year, to be met on each recurring May with this same old statement, we have about met our expenses, but the floating debt is still unpaid. No man can do continuous good work in parish or pulpit, who has to worry and scheme, year in and year out, to remove a debt, that like the rock of Sisyphus, ever rolls back upon him.

And we ought to be making advances. We ought not only to get rid of our floating debt, but of our mortgage as well, and have more money to expend on the benevolent work of the Church. In the position which our Church occupies, there are many ways in which we believe its work might be enlarged, if we were free from debt and could command greater resources.

When the King of Sparta was asked by the Ambassador where the city walls were, he pointed to the army and said, "there stands the wall of Sparta and every man is a brick." Now we are the walls of God's city, and every baptized person is a stone in that wall; it is for us to see to it that we are good, sound stones, doing our full duty, or there will be breaches in that wall to mar its beauty. Let us be good stones and fill up this breach in our walls, so that they may be strong and beautiful. Let us hold up our Rector's hands, that he may be strong to labor and carry on the good work on the foundations that have been so well laid. And then as good stewards of God's bounty, we shall hear, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two seven branch brass candlesticks for the Altar, fine linen surplice for the Rector, two cottas for servers, two for cross bearers, eighteen for the choir, eight yards of mohair for cassocks, pieces of material for work of the Ladies' Aid during Lent, bundles of clothing, papers, magazines, and flowers for Easter.

EASTER.—After a succession of disagreeable Sundays, we were blessed with a glorious Easter day. The number of Communicants, we are pleased to say, exceeded that of any previous Easter, 373 in all. The Church was packed at the midday service, many going away, being unable to get in. Why they do not come in some such numbers on other Sundays, we do not understand. The Church looked very attractive, the additional altar lights of which we spoke in our last number, making the Altar appear especially brilliant. The music was unusually good, the boys sang very well and the orchestral accompaniment furnished by the Choir-master added immensly to the effect.

The offerings, with some amounts subsequently received, were over $1100. This was certainly a very handsome sum to be received at one time, and it was especialy gratifying to note that it was largely, nearly two thirds of it, made up of sums under $25.00, showing that there was a very general response to the appeals which had been made.

We regret, however, that the whole of the amount needed, $1673, was not made up, as there will still be a deficit to carry over to another year. We must work away at this until it is paid off. If we cannot do anything else, we shall have to call upon the ladies again in the Autumn, to get up some kind of an entertainment for the Church. But we would much rather see all the money we need come in by voluntary offerings, without the necessity of resorting to such devices to raise money.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election of Vestrymen held on Easter Monday, the following whose terms expired on that day, were duly re-elected to serve for three years: Thomas R. Neilson, M. D., Charles E. Bonnet, William Platt Pepper, Charles L. S. Tingley.

At a subsequent meeting of the Vestry, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter was appointed Rector's Warden, and Mr. Charles L. S. Tingley was re-elected Accounting Warden.

Mr. Samuel Wetherill, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, Mr. Charles L. S. Tingley, were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

DEATH OF MRS. STEVENSON.—Another member of our Vestry, Mr. Frank R. Stevenson, has been called upon to mourn the loss of his wife. Mrs. Stevenson had been connected with the parish since 1889, when she was living in the lower part of the city, and she became so devotedly attached to it, that on her removal to 19th Street above Jefferson, some three years ago, she would not consent to be transferred to any other parish, but continued her attendance here. She had been very regularly in Church this winter, nearly every Sunday, until within three weeks of her death, during which time she was confined to her bed. Her husband and children have our deepest sympathy in their bereavement, and we shall greatly miss her presence and interest in the Church. R. I. P.

DEDICATION FESTIVAL. — As usual, we shall keep Ascension Day, the name day of our parish, as our Dedication Festival. We hope our parishioners will attend one, at least, of the Celebrations of the Holy Communion on that day, with the special intention of seeking a blessing on their parish. There will be a special service, with the full choir, at night, when the Rector will preach his anniversary sermon, which we trust all will want to hear. On the Sunday after Ascension Day, there will be the annual Guild service at night. All the Parish Guilds will enter the church in procession, and a special sermon will be preached to them. On Monday evening, the 18th, will be the Parish Tea, to which all the adult members of the congregation are invited. This has been a very useful institution in our parish, and we hope it will be well attended this year. Of course, every one in the parish cannot expect to become acquainted with everyone else, but it is an opportunity for making friends, especially for introducing those who have recently come into the parish, and we hope for a very general attendance. Show this much interest in your Church by coming once a year to this social love feast.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—In addition to the Guild sermon on the 17th, there will be the last of the Rector's sermons on the American Church, which will be preached on the evening of Whit Sunday, the fourth Sunday in the month, as the Guild service occurs on the third Sunday. On Trinity Sunday evening will be the last of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew sermons, the preacher being the Rev. Mr. Duhring, the Superintendent of the City Mission.

On the evening of the first Sunday in June, at the first of the twi light services, the Rector will preach a special sermon to the Philadelphia Branch of S. Barnabas Guild for Nurses, of which he is the Chaplain.

STOVE WANTED.—Has any one in the congregation a small cooking stove to give to one of our needy members? If so, inform one of the clergy, and he will send for it.

ENVELOPES for the coming six months are sent out the beginning of this quarter, as so many are out of town the first of August, it would be useless to send any out then. Accompanying those for the support of the Church, will be special benevolent ones for the Poor and the Schools. Please see that these are returned filled, and remember that the carrying on of the work among the poor, and the entire support of our Industrial School depends on these. If a sufficient sum was received through them, no personal appeals would have to be made. Those going away for the summer will please put their envelopes for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, on the plate before they go, that the Church may be in funds to meet its obligations during that time.

THE ANNUAL SPRING SPORTS OF ST. JOHN'S GUILD were held Monday evening, April 20th. The large number of appreciative spectators present stimulated the contestants to greater effort, thereby making the events more exciting and interesting.

The first event, running high jump was closely contested to the five foot mark, after which Mr. McConaghy's superior ability forced all competitors out; allowing him to win by a jump of 5 feet 7½ in. First prize, silver pencil.

The Bar Vault was started with five contestants, ending in a tie between Messrs. Perry and Hindermyer. Prizes, silver studs and pencil.

The Potato and Indian Club Races were exciting and laughable events, Mr. Patchell winning the first and Mr. Reese the second. Prizes for each race, set of silver studs.

The Guild is greatly indebted to Messrs. Toothacre, Uhler and Moore for their interesting exhibitions of jumping, club swinging and bar work. We also tender our thanks to Miss Vaughn for furnishing musical accompaniment.

Ducking for apples was one of the most amusing events, every one is familiar with this old Hallow e'en game, and can imagine the fun created. Mr. Patchell was the winner. Prize, a leather belt.

Putting sixteen-pound shot was won by Mr. McConaghy with a put of 29 feet 6 in. Prize, a set of silver studs. The running broad jump was also won by Mr. McConaghy, jump of 14 feet 11 inches. Prize, a leather belt.

The most important event of the sports was the Tug of War, St. Stephen's vs. St. John's. Both pulls were won by St. Stephen's, the first by six inches, the second by four. This would not have happened, had St Stephen's not made a serious mistake of 100 pounds, in the weight of their team, caused by inaccurate scales. The next time St. Stephen's pulls against us, we earnestly and sincerly hope that they will look to the accuracy of their scales, and not ask us to pull so much more than our own team weigh. St. Stephen's having a good pull, took the cake.

The prizes for each of the events were furnished and presented by our very good friend, Miss M. Gilpin.

NEW WINDOW.—Another clerestory window has been filled with the figure of S. Bartholomew. This window was originally intended for the opposite side of the church, but not proving satisfactory, through the liberality of one of our Vestrymen, Mr. F. R. Stevenson, it has been altered and adapted to its present position.

REPORTS.—We print this month the report of the Mother's Meeting, that those who have so kindly responded to the appeals for funds with which to carry it on, may see how much work has been accomplished. The money thus received by the members of the Meeting has been of very material assistance to them.

We print also the annual report of the Ladies' Aid Society, which met on Thursday afternoons during the winter, and of the Altar Chapter of the Womens' Guild.

We have already given account of the missionary boxes, except that to the Italian Mission, which contained 56 garments.

We shall print next month the entire report of the parish for the past conventional year.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Since our last issue we have received the following subscriptions:

Miss F. Smith	Mrs. J. H. Botwright

Annual Report of the Mothers' Meeting.

Regular weekly meetings have been held from November 13th, 1895, to April 22d, 1896, with an average attendance of seventeen, being an increase over previous years. The good attendance and interest manifested, the committee feel to have been largely due to holding the meetings on Wednesday evenings, which enabled the members to attend the services in the church first. As last year, work was obtained from the Hospitals, and the sewing has given satisfaction, and shown marked improvement. 530 garments were made for the Children's Hospital, and 414 for the Pennsylvania Hospital, making a total of 994.

A bountiful Thanksgiving Tea was provided for the members of the Meeting, and Christmas dinners for each. 19½ tons of coal were distributed or given in payment for work. 323 garments (partly worn) were sold or given away, and some pecuniary assistance given to the most needy. Three of the ladies in charge of the Meeting were very regular in their attendance, and another regularly visited the members in their homes, making 42 visits. In addition to the above three families were in charge of two ladies, who supplied them with Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter dinners, and various articles of clothing.

Report of the Ladies' Aid.

The work for the autumn and winter consisted in the making of 22 cottas and 8 cassocks for the choir and keeping of choir vestments in repair.

They also made 17 aprons which were sold at a fair profit.

During Lent they prepared a box for the Sheltering Arms, consisting of articles of clothing, valued at $35.

The receipts during the year from all sources have been $18.30, the expenditures $9.54, leaving a balance of $8.76 with which they propose buying linen for choir vestments.

The Society has received a number of donations of material for both the choir and Lenten work.

THE FUTURE OF OUR PARISH.

In our last issue we gave a retrospect of the recent history of our parish. Let us now look at the future, and see what is before us, for we must not think that our work is done, that we have now a Church completed, and well provided for, which has only to go on and fulfil its regular work. Our Church is not yet all paid for, and it still needs a great deal to make it what it ought to be, and enable it to do the work it should. And we ought all to realize that there is hard work for us yet to do, to put the Church in the condition in which it ought to be.

In the first place, there is the debt. The property does not really belong to us, the Church cannot be consecrated, until it is all paid for. And it is a great drain on our income to pay out over a $1000 each year for interest. The Church is not in a safe condition while this remains. It must be paid.

Then we ought to get possession of the corner property, and put a front to the Church on South Street, building a tower at the corner of the two streets. This would add immensely to the prominence of the Church. Now it is hidden, it is not seen above South Street. People speak of it as a little Church. It would make an immense difference in the appearance and attractiveness of the Church, if this could be done.

Then our Parish building ought to be enlarged. It does not afford accommodations for the work going on in it now. The large school room has to be used for gymnasium, choir practicing, and all social purposes. There is no Infant School room, no ladies' work room, etc. We ought to have these, and rooms for Assistant Clergy, etc. And it would be a blessed thing if we could have a house attached for Sisters, or Deaconesses to help in the work of the parish.

Then there is a great deal of ornamentation the Church needs; above all a handsome Altar and reredos. There are windows to be filled with handsome glass, the aisles tiled, etc. Then a sufficient endowment should be provided to secure the Church under all contingencies.

All these things we must keep before us. We cannot expect to get them all at once, but we must look forward to them, and work for them.

Nor can we expect them to be obtained by small contributions, no matter how many people we have contributing. They can only come through large benefactions.

Are there not those of our people whom God has given the means, that will be glad to use them in this way? And are there not those who may not be able to give largely in their life time, who will remember the Church in their wills? Every one who has any money to leave, should make their will while they have health and strength, and to what better purpose could money be left than for the freeing from debt and strengthening and extending the work of the parish Church one has attended in life? See what splendid work some Churches have been enabled to do for years through the pious gifts of those long since dead.

We pray God to raise up similar benefactors for our parish. It has a central, prominent location, where a great work can be done, if the resources for it are forthcoming, but we cannot "make bricks without straw," any more than the Israelites could in Egypt.

Let our people keep these things always before them, and by their own efforts and by exciting the interest of others, see what can be done. We hope in the autumn to see our ladies organize themselves in a serious effort to wipe out our floating debt and largely reduce our mortgage. One lady has already offered to lead such a movement with a gift of fifty dollars.

Let all take the same interest in their Church that one does in one's own home, and the ways and means to make it all it ought to be, will be forthcoming. But we want all our people to feel that there is much yet to be done, and that it will require effort, labor and sacrifice from all to do it.

Work for your Church and give what you can to it while you are alive, and leave what you can to it when you are gone.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Three dozen new palm leaf fans, 100 new Hymnals, box of candles for Vesper lights, lot of large candles, bundle of clothes for the poor. A very nice stove for a poor woman was received in response to our appeal last month. An old black silk stole was sent to a clergyman in the South.

OUR PARISH FESTIVAL this year was kept with more interest than usual. On the morning of Ascension Day, we had, what we have always wanted, a really fine service. The day which celebrates the event to which the Church is dedicated, ought to be kept as the greatest day in the year, after Easter Day. The Choir gave us a new service, they had never sung before, and it was supported by some eight instruments in addition to the organ. The whole service was admirably rendered, we only regret that owing to no notice having been given of it beforehand, except in the papers of the same day, many did not know of it, and so the congregation was not large. We had a fair congregation at night, though we wish there were more in the parish who would attend this anniversary sermon by the Rector, and hear all the points in regard to the Church's work and progress it brings out.

The Guild service on Sunday night was a success. The Guilds made a good showing, and the Rev. Mr. Gilpin gave them a good, practical sermon.

The Parish Tea was largely attended, and as both S. John's and S. Mary's Guilds contributed to the entertainment, there was no difficulty in filling up the evening. The Rector said a few words of welcome to those present, and the Accounting Warden made a telling speech, setting forth what the Church ought to do, and urging the interest and efforts of all in accomplishing it.

Altogether we are sure the annual keeping of this Festival is proving of more and more use to the parish.

OUR COMMUNICANT LIST.—We note a large addition to the list this month, chiefly through the first Communions of some of those recently confirmed, but a good many names have also been taken off the list of those who have either ceased making their Communions, or have moved away from the parish. The Rector cannot go on reporting as communicants those who no longer attend the Church or make their Communions, nor can he give letters of transfer to other parishes for persons as communicants in good standing, who have for years neglected coming to the Holy Communion. There is no positive rule how long a name may be retained on a communicant list. Some Rectors strike off all who do not communicate within a year. But no one has a right to be regarded as in good standing if he has allowed years to go by without fulfilling this evident duty. Though, of course, he can be restored at any time on true contrition and amendment. But it is sad how many persons are lost to the Church every year through backsliding.

SUMMER SERVICES.—The usual change of services occurs this month. The Sunday 4 o'clock and 7.45 P. M. services are discontinued, and in their place will be the twilight service at seven o'clock, which has been found so popular in years past. The daily and Wednesday night services are stopped, but prayers will be said every Wednesday and Friday and Holy day, with Celebrations of the Holy Communion on latter, at 10 A. M., throughout the summer.

The Children's Sunday service during June and September will be at 3 P. M.

The Rector has removed with his family, to only a short distance from the city this summer and expects to be present at one service at least, every Sunday. Either he or the Assistant can always be seen at the Church after any service, on Sundays or weekdays. Persons needing the clergy for sickness, burials, etc., should send there.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Owing to the sickness of the Superintendent at Easter the prizes which had been promised to the scholars at that time could not be given. But they were given out last month instead. Twenty-three received first prizes for not being absent or tardy a single Sunday between Advent and Easter, and fourteen second prizes who were absent or tardy only once during that time. This is a good showing, and shows that the scholars are generally faithful and attentive. Seven received handsome prayer books for reciting the entire catechism.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since last issue:

Mrs. Wm. Drayton,
Mrs. John Mason,
Mrs. John H. Mason,
Mrs. J. L. N. Smythe,
Mrs. Carman.

We hope that all of our subscribers who received a notice with the present issue of the NEWS, of the expiration of their subscription, will promptly renew it, and send the fee to either the Rector or the manager.

THE NEWS.—There will be no issue of the NEWS during July and August.

"Evil is never so deadly as when it puts on an air of respectability."

REGULAR CHURCH-GOING.

Like anything else of the same kind, church going is a great deal a matter of habit. Some of us have been brought up in the habit, and find it perfectly natural to go to church at least twice on Sunday, and to receive the Communion at least once a month. Those who have formed such a habit would find it hard to give it up.

On the other hand some of us have made it a habit to stay at home and loaf on Sundays, and to read through the Sunday newspaper. Of course, this entails a good deal of hard work, now that the Sunday newspaper has grown into a volume. But a resolute man can, if he will, break up an old bad habit, and establish a new good one.

Why not set yourself to work, till regular church-going, which you know is a habit you ought to cultivate, has become second nature to you? You will find it the best discipline you ever set for yourself, and we venture to say that, when once the habit is formed, you will wonder how men can endure such a desperately dull piece of business as a churchless Sunday.

FORGET ME NOT.

The Father gave all flowers a name,
And each one had its own;
But soon a wee one backward came,
And standing by His Throne,
With timid grace and trembling frame
The modest blue eyes fell;
And then it said, almost with shame,
"How it can be I cannot tell,
But Father dear, my name! my name!
Alas! I have forgot!"
The Father kindly said,—"No blame
My Child,—Forget-me Not."

Three Modern Movements.

There are always certain strange excrescences which attend upon an age of progress. The age of Elizabeth was not so brilliant as not to have a place for witch-hunting, for example; nor are these latter days of ours so full of intelligence, but that some such manifestations as the "A. P. A.," "the Woman's Bible," and the agitation for the name of God to appear in the national Constitution, should not appear. Whatever may be the professed aim of the movements, one can find but little sympathy with their methods of procedure. They seem to be a real turning backward to an age long since passed away.

The A. P. A.—The American Protective Association—has for its object the entire separation of the Church from the State, especially directing its energies to the withdrawing of all national appropriations in the aid of denominational schools and to withstand the "insinuating and surreptitious advances of the Roman Church in this country." This object, for they all are but one, is a good one, when it is remembered, that the principles of a foreign organization are being encouraged at the rate of a two-million dollar appropriation from the treasury of the United States every year. (It is worth recalling, too, that our own Church has declined all such State assistances for its school work). The A. P. A. says that this power can only be withstood by the exercise of the enemy's own strength, namely, secrecy. But "fair-play and above-board," have always been maxims of Anglo-Saxons. The thumb-screw of the inquisition is not a ruling principle of the race, however much it may have gained the lands of South America, although it seems to have destroyed the last shred of Spanish integrity.

The "Woman's Bible" is also a movement woefully misdirected; a little thought will give to it its proper place. The movement proceeds upon the idea that the proper place of woman is denied her by reason of some fetich worship of texts of the Scriptures. By an expurgated Bible, the authors of this work endeavor to separate the ethics and the merely attendant circumstances; as, e. g. the family idea is not to depend upon the accounts of the patriarchal age, nor does the religious instinct need any such idea as the Aaronic priesthood for its public expression. No one will deny that the home pictures of the patriarchs and the public exhibition of the priesthood were mostly settings, but such settings as are hard to do without. Were it otherwise, the result would be something like a disembodied spirit; something we do not deny and cannot imagine.

The third movement, that to put the name God in the U. S. Constitution by amendment, proceeds upon the exceedingly false principle, that legislation will make a nation righteous. One may doubt whether all the sacred titles of the present king of Spain, to use only one illustration, has made him any more susceptible to the cries from Armenia than our own, perhaps, un-Christian country. We all labor to bring the name of God to every place and condition of the people of this country, but we must object to the awful levity of trading or voting our ballots labeled "for" or "against" God. The righteousness of the individual citizens of this country will make America Christian and not the mere name engrossed in a civil statute.—Harry R. Carson.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

"He that gathereth not with me, scattereth."

We cannot stand still in our church life; we must either progress or recede, there is no middle ground. When our Mother, the Church, took us in her arms and blessed us, signing us with the sign of the cross, she enlisted us under that banner to be her good soldiers, to fight the battles of the cross until our life's end. Sunday by Sunday, we stand before her altar and renew our allegiance, swearing fealty to the great Captain of our Salvation, and then go home and forget all about it until next Sunday.

We do not intend to be sinful, in fact many of us would be very much offended if some one would bluntly call us to account for a sinful waste of time, in that we did not employ some of it in the Master's service. But just recall for one moment the parable of the last judgment, and note, that not one soul was condemned for a sin of commission. How runs the condemnation? "I was sick and ye visited me not, naked and ye clothed me not, hungry and ye gave me no meat," and "inasmuch as ye did it not to the least of these, my brethren, ye did it not to me." Sins of omission, every one of them.

O what a warning to the man who wastes the Lord's time. O the scorn and contempt we have for the able bodied man, who, in the hour of his country's peril, stays safe at home, while men sweat and toil, suffer, bleed and die, and we call him a craven and a traitor, and we, we who profess and call ourselves Christians, see our great Elder Brother sweat out great drops of blood, toil up that via dolorosa, suffer, bleed and agonize on the cross, till His great soul sinks under the load of our sins, which are laid upon Him, and He cries out in the agony of His soul, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken Me?" We sit idly by, as though it were no concern of ours, that He is crucified afresh every day of our lives; despised and rejected by men with whom we come in daily contact; scourged and spit upon in our streets, and we do not lift our little fingers to hinder it.

On Good Friday, we listen to the sad, sweet story of the world's redemption, and we say within ourselves that we would not have forsaken Him as His disciples did. "Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrits! because ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous, and say, if we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. Wherefore ye be witnesses unto yourselves, that ye are the children of them which killed the prophets."

"Thy kingdom come." O what a mockery of prayer, when we as individuals not only are not doing anything to hasten that coming, but by our neglect are actually a hindrance to its coming. It takes a manly man to follow in the steps of the Man of men. It takes more courage for a young man to carry his Christianity into his business than it does for him to shoulder his musket and go to war.

O for a Peter, the Hermit, to to preach a new crusade, to fire the hearts of our young men to rescue the Holy City, even our bodies, which are the temples of the Holy Ghost, from the infidels, from the irreligious, yes, anti-religious influences of our great cities, where money and pleasure are gods, whose creed is to get rich, honestly if you can, but get rich.

We have in this parish a Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, an organization for the spread of of Christ's Kingdom among men, a little band of men struggling to do their duty in the church as best they can, now falling, now rising again, ever keeping this one object in view; quietly, without any flourish of trumpets or parade, but how it would cheer them if some of the other men in the parish would take an interest in their work, for every baptized man should be a member of the Brotherhood. If every baptized man did his whole duty before God, there would be no need for the Brotherhood.

Are there not some men in Ascension Parish to whom this means of doing their bounden duty and service to Almighty God will commend itself as worthy of their acceptance and support?

"For the Day of the Lord is at hand, at hand,
Its clouds roll up the sky,
The world sleeps, starving on heaps of gold,
All dreamers toss and sigh,
But the night is darkest before the dawn,
When the pain is sorest the child is born,
And the Day of the Lord is at hand.

Gather ye, gather ye hounds of hell,
Famine and plague and war,
Idleness, bigotry, cant and misrule,
Gather and fall in the snare,
Hireling, mammonite, bigot and knave,
Creep to the battle-field, sneak to your grave,
In the Day of the Lord at hand.

Hasten ye, hasten ye Angels of God,
Freedom, mercy and truth,
O come, for the world has grown coward and old,
Come down and renew us our youth.
Wisdom, self-sacrifice, mercy and love,
Haste to the battle-field, stoop from above,
In the Day of the Lord at hand.

O who would sit down and sigh
For a lost age of gold,
When the Lord of all ages is here,
And brave hearts leap up at the trumpet of God,
And those who can suffer can dare,
Each old age of gold was an iron age too,
And the meekest of saints
May find stern work to do,
In the Day of the Lord at hand."

IN MEMORIAM.

The whole parish not only grieves with our Assistant Minister in his great affliction, but feels that it has itself met with a great loss, in the death of Mrs. Laupher. Though she had been out of health all winter, even her immediate family did not anticipate a fatal termination until shortly before it took place, June 18th. The burial service, including a special Celebration of the Holy Communion, was held in the church, June 20th, the body being taken afterwards to her home in Hartford, Conn., for interment.

From her first coming into the parish, Mrs. Laupher took a lively interest in its affairs. For one winter she taught, every Sunday, a young men's Bible class. For two years she has represented the parish in the Freedman's Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, and was very successful in raising money for that department of work. Being an expert needle woman, she rendered useful aid to the Embroidery Committee of the Altar Chapter of the Women's Guild of the parish. In these and other ways she has made herself most useful and will be greatly missed. Of the loss she will be to her husband and family we cannot speak, but all who knew her devout, yet happy, bright, kindly spirit, will realize what that must be.

For her we can only pray that she may rest in peace and that light perpetual may shine upon her.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—3 dozen small palm leaf fans for the choir, a fair linen chalice veil, 6 yds. of serge for cassocks, 2 books for the Sunday School Library. The Rector received in the early part of the summer, a letter from a lady with whom he was not acquainted, telling him that her sister, who had lately died, was a member of the Episcopal Church, and that as she had resided within the limits of this parish and occasionally attended the church, she was anxious to make a gift to the church as a memorial of her. Accordingly the Rector called to see her and she presented him with a check for a hundred dollars. This he has appropriated towards paying the mortgage debt, making over $400 now in hand for that purpose. Will not some one else make it up to $500, that we can make another payment of that amount?

Such gifts as this, coming from unexpected quarters, are peculiarly gratifying, showing how far the influences of the church extend.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—Every one knows that the principal entrance to the church is only temporary, as according to the architect's plan, the tower to be erected there will include a handsome doorway. But in the meantime, not only is the chief doorway to the church very rough and unfinished, but at night it is very dark and uninviting. The attention of the Vestry was called to this fact and after considering various plans it was referred to the Building Committee to make some improvement. After consulting with the architect, they determined to erect over the door a gable or hood of wrought iron, carrying a small cross, underneath which will be a gas or electric light. This will give prominence to the door both by day and by night, and we trust will serve to make the church more prominent and attractive.

DEATH OF ONE OF OUR CARETAKERS.—Many in the parish will miss hereafter the familiar form of one of our caretakers, which has been seen daily in the church for the past four years, that of Mary Jane McClure. She succeeded her sister, Mrs. Fanny McCracken, in that position in December, 1892. About the middle of July she went on to New York to visit a niece, but was sick all the time she was there, and on her return was obliged to go to the Hospital, where she died August 12th. She was buried from the church on the 14th. R. I. P.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.—We regret very much to announce the resignation of our Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Francis B. Falkner, owing to his determination to remain out of town all winter. Mr. Falkner has been connected with the school for the two years past, and has been universally liked by the teachers and scholars. We are very sorry to lose him.

The Sunday School and the Young Men's Bible Class will recommence their sessions on the first Sunday of this month, and we hope there will be a large attendance of teachers and pupils.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW.—Our parish chapter of the Brotherhood has kept up its sessions all through the summer without intermission. It has been engaged in revising its by-laws. The chief change in them will involve making one of its members the presiding officer, instead of one of the clergy as heretofore. It is a layman's organization and should be carried on by the laity. It is intended to be a help to the clergy, not to be dependent upon them for its inspiration. We trust this change will carry out this purpose. There is work in the parish for such an organization to do, and we hope that in the coming winter not only the old members will do more effective work than ever, but that there are other young men in the parish who will join the Chapter and aid in the work of extending and strengthening the church.

THE REV. HENRY R. CARSON.—We had the pleasure of having one of our old boys, now the Rev. H. R. Carson, to take part in the service and preach for us one Sunday morning in August. He is taking his first holiday since his ordination, in a visit North. He has charge of three mission stations near New Orleans, La.

Another of the young men who have gone into the ministry from our parish, the Rev. William B. Gilpin, has become assistant in S. John's Church, Highlands, near Boston, Mass.

RULES OF THE CHURCH, &c.

HOLY BAPTISM.

Baptism is not to be deferred longer than the first or second Sunday next after the child's birth.

Without great cause or necessity, children should not be baptized at their homes. If the child which is baptized in a house do afterwards live, it is to be brought to the church, that the child may be received into the church as one of the flock of true Christian people.

For every male child there shall be two Godfathers and one Godmother; and for every female, two Godmothers and one Godfather.

When any persons of riper years are to be baptized, they are to be sufficiently instructed in the Principles of the Christian Religion, and exhorted to prepare themselves with Prayer and Fasting for the receiving of this holy Sacrament.

CONFIRMATION.

So soon as children are come to a competent age, and can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and are sufficiently instructed in the other parts of the church catechisms, they shall be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed.

Every person of riper years who shall be baptized, should be confirmed by the Bishop so soon after his baptism as conveniently may be, that so he may be admitted to the Holy Communion.

HOLY COMMUNION.

Those who come to the Lord's Supper must examine themselves whether they repent them truly of their former sins, steadfastly purpose to lead a new life, have a lively faith in God's mercy through Christ, with a thankful remembrance of His death, and be in charity with all men. When a person cannot go to the Holy Communion with a quiet conscience, he should go to some discreet and learned minister of God's Word, and open his grief, that he may receive Godly counsel and advice. Every parishioner should communicate at the least, three times a year, of which Easter should be one.

When convenient he should Communicate once a month or oftener.

If a Christian man cannot communicate on every Lord's Day, the least he can do, and the least that he ought to do, is to be present at the offering of the Holy Sacrifice.

When a communicant removes from one parish to another, he should take with him a letter from the Priest of the parish he is leaving to the Rector of the parish into which he removes.

Every communicant should keep Fridays and the other appointed days of fasting.

VISITATION OF THE SICK.

When any person is sick, notice thereof should be given to the minister of the parish.

"Forasmuch as all men are subject to many sudden perils, diseases and sicknesses, and ever uncertain what time they shall depart out of this life; therefore to the intent they may be always in readiness to die, whensoever it shall please Almighty God to call them, the ministers shall diligently from time to time . . . . exhort their parishioners to the often receiving of the Holy Communion of the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ when it shall be publicly administered in the church; that in so doing, they may, in case of sudden visitation, have the less cause to be disquited for the lack of the same. But if the sick person be not able to come to the church, and yet is desirous to receive the Communion in his house; then he must give timely notice to the minister, signifying also how many there are to communicate with him, (which shall be two at the least); and all things necessary being prepared, the minister shall there celebrate the Holy Communion."

OFFERTORY.

"Be merciful after thy power. If thou hast much, give plenteously; if thou hast little, do thy diligence gladly to give of that little; for so gatherest thou thyself a good reward in the day of necessity.

Ye shall not appear before the Lord empty; every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which He hath given thee."—Deut. xvi., 16, 17.

Why We Use the Envelopes.

1. Because it is right and Scriptural that "upon the first day of the week every one should lay by him in store as God hath prospered him."

2. Because it insures regularity, being a weekly reminder of the obligation and privilege to support the Church according to the ability that God has given.

3. Because of its educational value to all, specially to the young, for the habit of thus systematically giving a fixed amount into God's treasury is not one that will lightly be given up.

4. Because it gives each one a sense of their fellowship in the Church, for by thus giving to its support they feel a closer bond between them and the Church.

5. Because such an offering is one method of the expression of Divine Worship, worship being an offering to Almighty God, a giving to Him out of the thankfulness of our hearts for what He is and what He does.

6. Because if we thus give we shall be the richer, and if we do not thus give we shall inevitably be the poorer.

7. Because, last of all, and least of all, and lowest of all, the Church needs it.—S. Mary's Chimes.

THE HOLY CATHOLIC CHURCH.

What do we mean when we say in the Creed, I believe in the Holy Catholic Church? Do we mean only the Episcopal Church? Or do we mean what the Roman Catholic means when he says it, the Church which is governed by the Pope? Or do we mean, as some teach, that those words describe an invisible body of the true believers in and followers of Christ? That the last is not the true meaning is evident from the fact that there is another article in the Creed which describes that body, viz: the Communion of Saints, that is the invisible Church of which no one but God knows who are the members. But the words Holy Catholic Church describe an outward, visible body or organization described by these terms, Holy and Catholic, and also in the Nicene Creed by the word Apostolic. What is that body? Where do we find? How do we know it?

In describing a large organization we can do so in various ways. Thus in speaking of the United States we can refer to the extent of territory it covers, or to the people who compose it, or to the government which rules it. So it is in speaking of the Catholic Church, we can refer to that society which is spread throughout the world, which is found wherever there are Christians, and if we refer to its membership we mean by it the body composed of all the baptized. Every one who is baptized is a member of the Catholic Church, for that is the mode of admission into the Church. No one, no matter how good he may be, is a member of the Church unless he is baptized. And even though a man may be a bad man, if he has been baptized he is a member of the Church, just as every one who has been born in, or has been naturalized, is a citizen of the United States, even though he may disregard its laws, or rebel against its government. So when we speak of the Catholic Church, we mean the company of all the baptized, no matter by whom, or whether they are good Christians or not, unless they have been actually excommunicated, that is cut off from the membership of the Church.

But when we speak of the Church as an organization, we refer to its government. And that is described by the term Apostolic, i. e., governed by Apostles or Bishops. Our Lord committed the government of the Church to His Apostles, and they in turn committed it to others whom they chose and commissioned, and so the Church as an organization under a regular government has been continued throughout the Christian era. From time to time individuals and companies have rebelled against that government and set up organizations of their own, calling them Churches. But that did not make them parts of the historic church, or give them the legitimacy or authority which belongs to that body. The Holy Catholic Church is a definite historic organization which was founded by Christ, and has been in the world ever since. It may be divided into different parts owing to the different nationalties among which it has been planted. But it must have sameness of organization and historic continuity to make it a legitimate part of the one Church. A society, devised and formed for the first time in this age, or three or four centuries ago, cannot be that one and the same Church which Christ founded.

So when we speak of the Church as an organization, we mean bodies which are Apostolically or Episcopally—which is the same thing—constituted and governed, the Bishops having received their commission in direct succession from the Apostles. The three principal divisions of that body are the Roman Catholic Church, the Greek Church—comprising all the Christians in Russia and the East—and the English or Anglican Communion, which embraces the Church of England, and all the Churches which have derived their ministry from it.

Unfortunately these are more or less separated from each other, but they are historically, and in their constitution, parts of the one body. Whereas the great vanity of other Christian denominations are so diverse in their forms and character, and being the work of human founders and not of our Lord Himself, they cannot be regarded as properly constituted and legitimate churches. Their members may be very good men, they are all individually members of the Catholic Church and entitled to all its privileges, but as organizations we cannot recognize them as churches. So a clergyman coming from any of those bodies must be ordained by a Bishop before he can be allowed to officiate in any of our churches. Whereas, one coming from the Roman Catholic, or Greek, or other Episcopal Churches, is received without re-ordination. It is the difference between legitimacy and illegitimacy, between unity and authority, and anarchy and individualism. It is because so many Christians have lost this idea of what the Church is, that they have become so hopelessly and uselessly divided, which has brought such discredit and weakness upon the Christian cause.

We should try to make all Christians realize that they have been baptized into one body, and so should all dwell together in one Communion and fellowship, and not be divided up into different camps, but all form the one Church of which Christ is the Head, those whom he has commissioned are the ministers, and the baptized are the members. The Church can never do its work until Christians are so united. Schism is to the Church what secession and rebellion are to the State.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER SERVICES.—Our full round of winter services recommence with this month. On Sundays, the 4 P. M. Choral Evensong and 7.45 P. M. shortened evening prayer and sermon; the daily prayers at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M.; Wednesday evening service and lecture at 8 P. M. Let us hope for good attendance at all these services during the coming winter.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Owing to the illness of our Assistant Minister, which prevented his returning to his work last month, and the resignation of our Superintendent, Mr. Falkner, it was impossible to hold the regular sessions of the school last month. But the children's service and instruction was conducted each Sunday afternoon by the Rector, with a fair attendance. With this month, however, the school will be fully organized. We hope all the teachers will be back.

THE DAILY SERVICE.—We want to say a word about the Daily Service as it recommences for another winter. We consider this a very important feature of a live church. The worship of God should be daily, not simply on Sundays. And the church should provide for, and set the example of this worship. Not only should its courts be open every day in the week, but services should be held in them, and they will be of great benefit to those who use them. We know of nothing which will so bring religion into one's daily life, and guide and strengthen and comfort one, as attendance in God's House during the week-days. Persons have told us that they have enjoyed and profited by those services more than they have by the more crowded and stately services of Sunday.

But the privilege of the Daily Service, which we have had in this church from its first occupancy, has not been appreciated and used as it should be. We know that the church is not well situated for such a service, those having the leisure to attend such a service, generally living at a distance from it. Still there are those who could attend it if they would. And if each member of the congregation would, as we have often suggested, attend one service during each week, it would be of great use to them, and it would always secure a congregation being present, as all would not be likely to select the same service to attend.

Since the alterations of the rubrics in the Prayer Book, the Rector has made use of those allowing the shortening of the Daily Service, at least in the morning, hoping that that might be an inducement for many to attend the service who might otherwise be kept away by thinking it too long. But as he finds that has not been the result, he proposes this winter to follow his own preference and set the higher standard for devotion by saying the service in full.

THE DAILY LESSONS.—In the revised Prayer Book there is a rubric which says "that upon any day for which no Proper Lessons are provided, the Lessons appointed in the Calendar for any day in the same week may be read in place of the Lessons for the day." This allows the minister a discretion, not compelling him to read year after year the same lessons on each day. And as in this Church the Rector generally says Prayers in the morning, and the Assistant Minister in the afternoon, and generally the same persons go in the morning and the same in the afternoon, it follows that if the lessons are always read just as they stand in the Calendar, those who are at Church in the morning never read or hear those used in the afternoon, and those who go in the afternoon never those used in the morning. Thus nearly half of the lessons one or the other class is not familiar with.

To obviate this, the Rector proposes during the coming winter to read in the morning of each day during the week, the lessons appointed for the afternoon, and in the afternoon those appointed for the morning. If this is done every alternate year, it will make those attending only one service a day, familiar with all the parts of Holy Scripture appointed to be read as lessons both morning and evening.

OUR BUSINESS MANAGER.—Mr. John H. Mason, having resigned his position of business manager of this paper after a faithful service of two years, for which we return him thus publicly our thanks, Mr. John D. Henderson has most kindly consented to act in his place. Mr. Henderson's office address is 212 S. 3d Street, where all communications should be forwarded to him.

GUILD ANNIVERSARY.—We trust all the women in the parish will remember that SS. Simon and Jude's Day is the Anniversary of the Women's Guild. All the female Communicants are regarded as members of this Guild, and all are asked to be present at this annual meeting, even those who may not have been able to take any active part in the work of the parish. If they will attend this meeting they will at least learn what is being done by others, and perhaps they may find some way by which they can assist, or manifest their interest, in the parish work. Surely the attitude and desire of all should be not to escape doing work, but to find out if there is any work that they can do. And at this meeting the reports of the various departments of women's work in the parish are read, and the work for the coming winter mapped out. And the Rector is especially anxious to have a large attendance at this meeting, as he wants to consult with the ladies what plan can be adopted for a systematic and united effort to reduce our indebtedness during the coming season.

Let each one think over in the meantime what can be done, and come to the meeting prepared to make suggestions.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

Mrs. J. Wilkes O'Neill	Mrs. M. E. Jackson
Mrs. T. B. Allen	Miss N. L. Bloomer
Miss Trucks	Miss M. M. Menah
Mrs. C. H. Darlington	Mr. Wm. Platt Pepper
Mrs. Calvin Bachman	Miss Anna M. Holbrook
Miss G. Kerr	Mr. Henry Kelly
Miss Martha E. Pancake

We trust all subscribers in arrears will promptly pay up, and that all in the parish who can possibly do so will become subscribers, as we still owe our printer a considerable sum, and are very anxious to close up the year free of indebtedness.

Valuable Parishioners.

Parishioners may be divided into two classes. One class is composed of the faithful people who are a help and an ornament in the church and whose praise is in the hearts and on the lips of all who know them. They are a precious comfort to the rector and the mainstay of the parish. They are always in their places during divine service unless hindered by some necessity, ready ever with aid and sympathy and appreciativeness, and invariably to be depended upon to support every noble undertaking. In them we have the valuable parishioners.

The other class consists of those who, though their names are on the roll of communicants, are of no real account to their parish. Indeed, the parish is scarcely theirs except in a most remote sense. Nothing pertaining to the church arouses their interest. At the best they are spectators, and not very inspiring ones, either. They do not know what is going on, and they do not care and nobody expects them to do anything.

When parochial schemes and possibilities are canvassed they—their purses, co-operation, and even their good wishes—are left out of the calculations, just as though the individuals themselves were not in the land of the living. They are never counted upon for any good word or work. If they were only zeros, the case would not be so distressing, but they are a dead weight upon the parish, and by their example hinder the glorious work of saving souls and blessing the world. Let us not characterize them except to say that they are not valuable parishioners.

Everybody can be a valuable parishioner if he will. It does not require that he be rich, or a person of elegant leisure. All that is necessary is for him to do what is easily within his power.

Valuable parishioners are the faithful and devoted Christians of the congregation. Their godly lives are a blessing to the parish. People who are true to Christ commend the church. They are the best and strongest sort of argument for the existence of God, the gospel of Christ and for the American Church. Adversaries may attack our arguments but they cannot controvert a noble life. Every earnest Christian is a valuable parishioner.

Church going is one instance of the helpfulness of valuable parishioners. Although they attend divine service in order to worship Almighty God, and hear His Word and receive His Grace, their devotion is blessed as a ministry to others in cheering the pastor's heart, in giving a wholesome example to others, and in aiding the church to appear worthy of herself before the community. They love the courts of the Lord's house, and the negligence and indifference of others is not countenanced by them. To attend the services is one of the first Christian duties; it is also a powerful means of helping a parish. They who can do nothing more than this are of large worth.

A valuable parishioner will not stand aloof from the parochial activities. Guilds, the Sunday-school, and perhaps other spheres offer opportunities for serving God and the church, and the people who assist in at least one of these are of great account. Everyone might undertake at least one little task for the church, though it be nothing more than to attend a guild meeting.

Parishioners who are worth having will speak of the church. It is bad manners and a lack of charity to obtrude one's convictions in the social circle, and especially should we beware of introducing matters of a religious controversy. But occasions will often arise when the most sensitive propriety will allow and even command us to stand up for the church.—Scranton Churchman.

Church Money.

The Church depends upon the free will offerings of its worshippers and friends, for its maintenance. The "envelope system" has been adopted, not as a legally binding pledge, but as an excellent plan to stimulate regularity, and conscientious thoughtfulness in giving—that the offerings may not depend upon chance or feeling, but may be carefully adjusted to our means. The collection of the offerings is made a part of the Worship, at each Sunday service.

Envelopes, marked with a certain number, are furnished to the registered members of the parish, "and to all others applying." A list of persons holding these envelopes, with their respective numbers, is kept by the Warden.

As the offerings are given under cover, absolute secrecy is obtained; and strict Christian duty may be fulfilled, without exciting comment, either in the way of praise or blame. Regularity is secured, so that the Church does not suffer from the enforced absence of its members, on the account of illness or inclement weather.

NATIONAL CHURCHES.

The only divisions that should ever exist among Christians should be the natural ones created by territorial lines. This is the only way the Church is ever designated in the New Testament, as the Church at Rome, Corinth, Ephesus, or the Church of Asia. All Christians living together in one locality and being united in one body, would naturally be described by the name of the place where they were living. And as each city in the primitive Church generally constituted a Diocese, the jurisdiction of a Bishop, that diocese was naturally called by the name of that city.

And so all the dioceses belonging to a nation, being composed of people speaking the same language, having the same manners and customs, and being under the same government and laws, naturally constituted a national Church.

And such a Church was independent of all others, in that it could propagate itself, if it had a sufficient number of Bishops, and direct its own internal concerns, such as formulating the laws for the government of its clergy and lay people, adopting or altering its liturgy, etc. But it could not act in any matter touching the faith or essential discipline of the Church, for those are unalterable, having been given by our Blessed Lord to His Church once for all. Nor could a national Church declare even what the faith of the Church is, except in the way of instruction. That is, it could not impose any articles of faith upon the Christians within its borders, which had not the sanction of the teaching of all Churches. Thus only a council composed of representatives, at least, of all national Churches could draw up a Creed, though a council of a single national Church could adopt a catechism or set forth articles for the instruction of its people on points already determined upon by all the Churches. That is the great difference in authority between the ecumenical creeds and our thirty-nine articles, for instance. The first are of faith because they have the sanction of the whole Church, for all the great branches of the Church received them, whereas the articles belong only to the English Church and are true only so far as they agree with what the whole Church teaches.

So in regard to the essential things in the discipline of the Church. No national Church could, for instance, abolish Episcopacy, for that has been from the beginning the universal form of Church government and our Lord committed the government of the Church to it. Nor could it alter the number or character of the Sacraments, for they are of divine ordainment. But all other rites and ceremonies or accessories of worship are under the control of a national Church. Originally even each Bishop set forth the forms of worship for his own diocese, but it is better and more natural that that power should be yielded to a council representing all the dioceses in a nation.

What ought to be the national Church of this country is that body which is called the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. This is a most unfortunate and misleading title. It came about through the English government never having allowed the Church to be properly constituted here in colonial times, so that no Bishop ever set his foot in America until after the Revolutionary War. So there were no dioceses, no one to propagate or govern the Church. Hence it was that all the different sects into which Protestants had become divided, grew with great rapidity, and the Church most slowly. When, therefore, the separation from England took place, it seemed a misnomer to call the small body of Church people here the Church of the United States, when it was not such in reality. So this name was devised to show that it was Protestant against the claim of the Church of Rome to be the one universal Church, but Episcopal as having the Apostolic government, received from Christ and the Apostles. But the name seems to imply that there are other bodies in this country which are just as much parts of the Church as it is, and that it is a matter of indifference whether one belongs to one of these bodies or another.

Should we not all labor and pray that the day may not be far distant when all, or the vast majority at least, of the people of this country may be so united in the communion and fellowship of the one historic Church, that it may be actually and really what it ought to be called, the Church of the United States.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER WORK.—All our departments of work go into full operation with this month. The Industrial School every Saturday at 10 A.M.; the Mothers' Meeting on Wednesday after the service at 8 P.M.; the Embroidery Class on Thursday at 10.30 A.M., and the Ladies' Aid the same day at 3 P.M. The ladies have also in hand the making up of our missionary box. We look for volunteers in all these departments of work.

Those who cannot personally take part in the work of the Church, can aid in it by contributions. For all these different departments we need donations of money and materials. Cast-off clothing of all descriptions can be utilized in connection with the Mothers' Meeting.

The Rector has been very fortunate this year in securing the services of one of the students in the Deaconess House, who will give a part of her time to work in the parish. She will teach the young ladies' Bible Class on Sunday afternoons, and have entire charge of the Industrial School on Saturdays. After doing the necessary visiting in connection with the schools and Mothers' Meeting, she will devote the rest of her time to district visiting, from house to house, which is something we have long wanted to see done.

THE ANNIVERSARY of the Women's Guild was held after morning service on SS. Simon and Jude's day, October 28th. The reports for the past year were read and work arranged for the coming season, after which quite a discussion took place as to what steps the women of the parish could take towards a systematic effort to reduce our debt. It was finally agreed that a committee of twenty ladies should be appointed to formulate and carry out a plan for the collection of systematic offerings for this purpose. Another committee was also appointed to consider the advisability of having some entertainment later in the season.

The following minute was adopted at the meeting in regard to the death of Mrs. Laupher:

"At this, the first meeting of the Women's Guild of the parish, since its grievous loss, by the death of one of its most valued and beloved members, we desire to record our deep sense of bereavement.

Mrs. Laupher came among us an entire stranger to us all, and after the few years she was with us, we all feel as if we had lost a dear, personal friend, earnest, active, zealous, generous. Her departure is sadly mourned, and our heartfelt sympathy with her afflicted husband and children is most sincere. God grant her Thine eternal rest and let light perpetual fall upon her."

Mrs. T. Leaming Smith takes Mrs. Laupher's place on the Freedmen Missionary Committee, and Mrs. George Gray Knowles the place of Miss Zantzinger, who has resigned, on the Indian Committee.

S. JOHN AND S. MARY'S GUILDS have begun their regular classes. S. John's on every Monday and Thursday evening, and S. Mary's every Tuesday, the latter will have instruction in elocution as last winter, by Mrs. McIntosh. We should like to see all the young women in the parish in this Guild.

The Guild has presented Mrs. McIntosh with a very handsome silver-plated pitcher in acknowledgement of her services.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—At the last regular business meeting of S. John's Guild, December 10th was adopted as the date on which to hold the annual Fall sports of the Guild. Judging from the hard work of the contestants in the gymnasium, we believe some records will be fractured this year, especially in the high and broad jumping events.

The Guild tug-of-war team will pull S. Michael's team of Germantown. This promises to be an exciting event, as the two teams are matched almost to a pound, making the contest very close.

The committee have worked very hard to make this year's sports better and more interesting than any previously held, and they would like to have the audience assembled in proportion. Tickets can be procured from George A. Dooley, Chairman of Committee.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW.—Our parish Chapter of the Brotherhood recently sent invitations to some thirty men in the parish to meet its members, socially, for an evening in the Guild room. Quite a number accepted the invitation, and after addresses by the Rector, Mr. Ewing L. Miller of the Local Council and Mr. Tingley of our own parish, all sat down to a repast which had been prepared with the help of some of our ladies.

All seemed to enjoy the evening and we trust it will result in the work of the Brotherhood being better known and appreciated, and in its membership being enlarged. There is work in the parish to be done, if men can be found to do it.

The Chapter is arranging for a series of services one Sunday evening each month during the winter. The first will take place the last Sunday evening of this month, when the preacher will be the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Delaware.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.—We are glad to announce that a Superintendent has at last been found for our Sunday School, Mr. William C. Mayne having accepted the position. He has been a member of our congregation for some two years past and has had experience in teaching. We bespeak for him a warm welcome and hearty support on the part of the teachers and scholars.

NEW CASSOCKS.—The choir are greatly in need of some new cassocks. If any one would donate a piece of material for this purpose, the Ladies' Aid will gladly undertake to make them up.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—We still owe a large amount to our printer. Will not all subscribers promptly pay up?

The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

Miss E. Ward	Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge
Mr. Llewellyn Barry	Mrs. G. Woolsey Hodge
Mr. Theodore Ladd	Mr. Carroll Hodge
Mrs. M. M. Dicht	Miss Alice Young
Mr. Geo. W. Welsh, Jr.	Mr. J. D. Henderson

A NEW HOME.

We have been requested to call the attention of the members of our congregation to the fact that a boarding and temporary home for colored children under the name of "The House of the Holy Child" is to be established about November 15th in this city.

This Home, it is hoped, will supply a longfelt need, as heretofore there has been no place where colored women at service could have their little children properly cared for.

In the past year practical test has been made, by individual effort, of such a home. It has been eminently successful, and in order that the work may be enlarged, the aid of the charitable public is now solicited.

A house, 1819 Fitzwater Street, has been rented, and visitors will be cordially welcome at any time. November 19th will be Donation Day.

The religious training will be that of the Episcopal Church, but the home will not be connected with any parish.

STATUARY ON THE CHURCH HOUSE.

Since the statuary is now in position on the Church House, and entirely completes it, our readers may like to know whom the various statues represent.

The scheme adopted by the committee to whom the erection of the House was entrusted was as follows: The two large statues over the entrance on Walnut street are St. Peter and St. Paul, the two greatest instruments in the founding of the Church. Those on the top of the House represent first a great Eastern saint, St. Athanasius, on the eastern end of the Walnut street front. Next is a great Western saint, St. Augustine, of Hippo. Next, as the connecting link between the Western and the English Church, St. Augustine, of Canterbury. Standing next to him, at the corner of Twelfth and Walnut streets, is an English saint, St. Alban, the Protomartyr of the British Church. Then next on the Twelfth street front is a Scottish saint, St. Columba, and last, the Irish Church is represented by St. Patrick, its founder.

These statues have been very carefully executed by competent artists under the direction of the architect, with such assistance as the committee could afford him. Attention has been given to the proper dress, symbols, etc., and we think all will acknowledge that they are not only most appropriate and suggestive, but an immense addition architecturally to the building.

There still remain two niches on the Walnut street front of the building which have been left vacant on the plan by the architects, but which could be most appropriately filled by statues of Bishops White and Seabury, the two connecting links of our Church with the English and Scottish, and one the founder of our own diocese. Perhaps some generous donor may like to add them to complete this series of ornamental and suggestive statuary.

REDUCING OUR DEBT.

Our ladies have taken in hand very energetically the work of reducing the debt on our church. The Rector called their attention to it at the anniversary of the Women's Guild on SS. Simon and Jude's day, when the matter was quite thoroughly discussed. At a meeting of the Vestry held November 5th, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, In the opinion of the Vestry it is expedient that an effort should be made by the parish to reduce the debt during the coming winter, therefore

Resolved, That the women of the parish be requested to aid the Vestry in making a special effort to this end.

This the Rector read to the congregation at the morning service on the following Sunday, and invited all the women of the parish to meet the next day in the Parish building to act in response to this call. And though the attendance at this meeting was not as large as we should have liked to have seen it, still those who were present manifested a good deal of interest in the matter and expressed their determination systematically to take hold of it.

Various plans were considered, and finally the following were adopted: First, it was agreed to try and get all the members of the parish to fill up slips containing the following pledge, which were printed some time ago when an effort of this kind was first made:

I promise to give the sum of $—— towards the extinguishment of the debt of the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, payable either quarterly, semi-annually or yearly, or extending over a term of years.

Secondly, it was determined to use the cards—of which there are a great many still on hand—which we used when building the church, each of which covers five dollars, obtainable in ten cent, twenty-five cent, fifty cent and one dollar subscriptions.

Thirdly, the Rector undertook to provide for those who preferred to use them what are known as "Gleaners." They are a sort of book containing places cut out to hold fifty ten cent pieces. The advantage of these is that almost any one will give ten cents towards a charitable object, so that the money is easily collected. And when the amount has been turned in, it can be refilled again and again if desired.

These three schemes it was determined to put before the congregation, with the belief that every one connected with the church would use at least one of them, and so, if all are thus engaged in collecting, a considerable sum will certainly be realized.

Five ladies volunteered to go round and see the members of the congregation who were not present at the meeting, urging their interest and participation in the work. So far two ladies have pledged fifty dollars each, one twenty dollars, another five dollars a quarter; over fifty of the Gleaners have been taken and quite a number of the cards. If there are any in the congregation who have not been reached by the ladies, let them apply after any service to the Rector and he will furnish them with forms of the pledges or Gleaners or cards.

Our debt now consists of $21,500 the remains of the original mortgage of $25,000 placed on the property when we took it. Against this we have something over $500 now in hand, and a payment of that amount will be made this month, which will leave $21,000 still to be provided for. We have also $900 floating indebtedness, which has been hanging over us for some years, made up by deficits in our current expense account which have been allowed to accumulate year after year. This last amount must absolutely be paid off, and we want to make as large a reduction of the mortgage debt as possible, and keep on making it until it is all paid off, and our church free from danger, and free to be consecrated, and to enlarge and strengthen its work. Eighteen months ago our ladies by their efforts raised and paid off $1500 of our debt. Let us see if they cannot do all of that and more than that this year. In addition to the above modes of collecting, the special envelope marked for "The Debt," which is sent out to those taking the envelopes, can also be used for contributions for this object.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—A filterer for the sacristy, a book for the Parish library, material for a cassock, pieces of carpet for foot stools, orders for 12 tons of coal, and several donations of clothing for missionary box.

THANKSGIVING.—Fifteen families connected with our Mothers' Meeting were supplied with most bountiful Thanksgiving dinners by the girls of Miss Anable's school; the rest we took care of ourselves. We appreciate very much this generous act of the young ladies, none of whom belong to our parish. The fruit placed on the Altar was as usual distributed, after the service, among the choir boys, to their great delight.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.—At last we have had put in place the electric light under the new hood over the main door of the church. It is a great improvement, shedding a flood of light and making the entrance brilliant and attractive, which before was dark and obscure at night.

MISSIONARY WORK.—The Rector is anxious to extend and perfect the missionary work of the parish. We have always had the parish represented on the different departments of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, but we have never have had a regularly organized parish branch. Has not the time come when we should have one? The advantages would be that, if there were stated meetings of all in the parish willing to take part in missionary work, greater interest would be excited; the delegates to the various branches could report their special needs, and ways might be found to meet them; plans could be discussed to improve methods of collection, etc. The Rector would like all the ladies in the parish who are willing to take part in this work to meet in the Guild room after morning prayers on Friday, December 4th. This being the first Friday in the month, it is the day when the Board of Missions requests the prayers of all on behalf of its missionary work. It is, therefore, a most appropriate time for a meeting for this purpose; special prayers for Missions will be said at the service. We hope there will be a large attendance.

S. JOHN'S GUILD SPORTS.—Do not forget that the 10th is the night of the annual exhibition of the athelic sports of S. John's Guild. We hope the congregation generally will patronize them, and we are sure they will be entertained.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—Mrs. Henry C. Pollock having resigned the position of superior of S. Mary's Guild, which she has held most acceptably for some years, the Rector has been fortunate in securing in her place Mrs. I. C. Clark, who has had former experience in another parish as a director of a branch of the Girls' Friendly Society, which qualifies her admirably for this position. There is some idea of bringing S. Mary's Guild into affiliation with that society.

OUR SCHOOLS.—We are glad to see both our Sunday and industrial schools rapidly filling up, under the the new superintendants, Mr. Wm. C. Mayne, and Miss Grider. They will both soon be in a flourishing condition. Preparations are already begun for a special Christmas entertainment for the Sunday School, which will take place on the evening of Monday the 28th, Holy Innocents' Day.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Bishop of Delaware having found it impossible to be present at the special Brotherhood service on the last Sunday evening in November, his place was kindly taken by the Rev. Dr. Olmsted, the new Rector of S. Asaph's Church, Bala. He preached an excellent sermon.

The preacher on the last Sunday evening of this month will be the Rev. Cyrus T. Brady, Archdeacon of the diocese.

On the remaining Sunday evenings in Advent, the Rector proposes to preach on the last four things; Death and Judgment, Heaven and Hell.

INCREASE.—We are glad to see this autum a large number of new faces in the congregation, and it will be seen by the record that a good number of new names have been added to the communicant list. The Rector would like to have the names of all attending the Church, who are personally unknown to him. He asks this not only that the Church may know who are its parishioners, but for the sake of the persons themselves, as it will be much better for them to feel that they belong definitely to some parish, rather than that they should have no spiritual home.

THE CHRISTMAS OFFERING.—As in other years, special Christmas offerings are asked from each member of the parish on Christmas Day. And the congregation will remember that we depend on this offering to meet the semi-annual interest on the mortgage on our property, which is due this month, and to make up for the small collections we have during the summer. Those especially who do not use the envelopes should remember that it is only by making special large offerings from time to time, that they can make up for the Sundays that they are away from the Church, and do not give anything. We hope also the congregation will remember to give something for the Christmas treat for the children, one of the alms boxes in the vestibule will be designated for this purpose.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.—There will be additional celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day at 6.30 and 8.30 a. m., so as to give all, the opportunity to make their communions. The music at the mid-day service will be Schubert in C, the whole of which will be sung for the first time. There will also be a new Te Deum.

YEAR BOOK.—The new Year Book of the Parish was ready for distribution on the First Sunday in Advent. Copies may be obtained from the Sexton.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Will not every one in the parish subscribe to the NEWS? It is most useful as a channel of communication with our people, but we owe our printer a large bill which must be paid.

The following subscriptions were received last month:

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH.

We begin with this number the reprint of the following history of our parish, which was written some years ago for the Church Standard, thinking it will be interesting to those of its members who have joined it in late years, and may not be familiar with its past history.

History of the Church of the Ascension.

Broad Street below South, Philadelphia.

In 1833, when there were but ten churches within the then city of Philadelphia, a number of persons, chiefly connected with St. Peter's Church, associated themselves together for the purpose of building, a new church "in the southwestern part of the city," which should be conducted on the principle of "dispensing with the selling and renting of pews, and depending wholly upon free contributions and stated subscriptions." The Rev. Robert Piggott, who died recently at an advanced age, at Sykesville, Md., was chosen rector, and the first service was held January 27th, 1833, in a school building in Ramstead Court.

On February 24th the services were removed to the saloon of the Adelphi building on Fifth Street below Walnut, where they were held regularly, Sunday morning and evening, and a congregation of some four hundred persons of all ages collected. The parish was organized under the title of All Souls', probably in reference to the free system on which it was to be conducted, a principle which was entirely novel, this being not only the first movement of the kind in Philadelphia, but perhaps in the whole of the United States, though now it is so widely accepted that more than two-thirds of our churches are conducted in this way. About $2000 was soon subscribed for the erection of a church edifice, and various sites were contemplated, chiefly a lot then vacant on Broad Street below Spruce.

But finally—doubtless through motives of economy, on which the Church is so often forced to act to the great detriment of its work—a lot about eighty feet square, on Lombard Street above Eleventh, was selected. Plans for a plain two-story brick building were adopted, and on April 10th, 1834, the corner stone was laid by the venerable Bishop White, assisted by Bishops Onderdonk and Doane. The latter preached a sermon on the occasion, entitled "The Cross and the Church," a few printed copies of which still remain, in which he strongly advocated the peculiar principles of freedom of seats and equality of worshippers which were to distinguish the new church. The walls of the structure were carried up to the top of the first story, when the parish became involved in such financial difficulties that the property was sold out by the Sheriff.

But in May, 1835, it was transferred to another congregation which had been organized under the title of The Church of the Ascension. It was composed of many of the same persons who had formed the

All Soul's congregation, but was backed by several gentlemen of means and influence who belonged to other parishes, notably Mr. John Welsh, Wm. H. Newbold, James S. Newbold, Jacob Lex, William Stavely, P. G. Hamm and others. These gentlemen purchased the property with the intention of carrying out the original purpose of its previous owners of affording additional church accommodation in that part of the city, in which there were then no churches, but they did not adhere to the principle of free seats and voluntary offerings, though they determined to maintain a "low rate," of pew rents in order to reach those who were "in limited circumstances."

The building was at once carried on to completion, and the Rev. John B. Clemson, was called to the rectorship. The first service was held in the basement on the first Sunday in January, 1836. The church itself was finished, and consecrated by Bishop Onderdonk, September 27th of the same year. The church seems rapidly to have filled up, and all the annual reports of the Rector speak of its prosperity. The number of communicants reached over 200, and from 75 to 80 baptisms were performed each year.

But within a few years other churches were erected in its immediate vicinity: S. Luke's on the north, and All Saints' on the south, both more attractive edifices, and the Ascension began to decline. The Vestry were obliged to reduce the salary of the rector, which led to his resignation in October, 1841. The Rev. N. Sayres Harris was elected rector the following month, but he remained only until the succeeding July, when he resigned to become secretary and general agent of the Domestic Committee of the Board of Missions. He returned to the city, however, shortly after and became the founder of the Church of the Nativity in the northern part of the city. Dr. Bedell, then rector of Holy Trinity Church, West Chester, afterwards Bishop of Ohio, was then called to the rectorship, but declined. In October, 1842, the Rev. Frederick Ogilby was chosen rector and soon after entered on the office.

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

"We have seen His Star in the East, and have come to worship Him."

Gleaming Star! with joyous wonder
Sages watched thy path of light:
While the Shepherds and the Angels
Saw the heavens with thee bedight.

Star of Heaven! Star of Glory!
Beauteous Star of Bethlehem!

Star of morning! Star of evening!
Star of life's most dismal day:
Star of all the stars the brightest,
Star that guides our devious way.

Star of Heaven, etc.

Like a golden scepter shining,
O how full of peace thy light!
Guide us thro' life's darkest dangers,
With thy rays of hope so bright.

Star of Heaven, etc.

Star of lambent beauty, guiding
Onward to the manger-bed:
Touch our souls with adoration,
In the Christ-Child's "House of Bread."

Star of Heaven, etc.

Fairest Star of all the ages!
Star of Love, now lead us on:
With the Shepherds and the Wise Men,
Jesus' face to gaze upon.

Star of Heaven, etc.

MISSIONARY WORK.

The Church must always do missionary work. Her commission from her Divine Master was to go into all the world and make disciples of every creature. We must never forget that command. No parish should ever exist simply for the sake of ministering only to its own people. The very lowest and most unworthy conception of the Church is, that it is simply to maintain services and administer the sacraments to those who enjoy and want to receive them, and can pay for them. We believe that every Church should be a mission, that is, should be so conducted as to be always trying to bring in those who are indifferent and careless about religion. And we believe that every parish, even the poorest, should contribute something towards the missionary work of the Church in the new and poorer parts of our own country and in foreign lands.

We try to carry out these principles in this parish. In the first place, our Church is free. Those who support it do not reserve its seats only for their own use. Its doors are wide open for any and every one who cares to enter them, and we make all the efforts we can to draw into them those who belong to, or go to, no other Church. In addition to this, we have always tried to do something for the missionary work of the Church at large. We send to the registered members of the congregation each year a special envelope marked for "Diocesan Missions," and another marked for "General Missions," that is, for the missions carried on in the poorer parts of our own Diocese, and for the Domestic and Foreign Missions of the Church. No one should neglect to return these envelopes with as large an offering as they can make, in addition to what they give for the support of the Church and its own charities.

Then we have always had representatives from the parish on the four committees of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions. These are expected to attend the monthly meetings of the committees to which they belong, which are held at the Church House, where they hear the various letters and appeals which come from the missionary field, and then they should come back and see what the parish can do in any particular instance to meet them. They collect funds, which go entirely through the Woman's Auxiliary, and make up missionary boxes. The amount which they have collected has varied with the zeal and efficiency of the delegates, but has always amounted to between one and two hundred dollars, and they have each sent out one or more missionary boxes. This is what we have been doing for years.

But it is a question whether we could not do more, whether especially the women's work might not be more systematized and enlarged. We have never had an actual Parish Chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary. The delegates, after attending the meetings, have not had any body to which they could report and whose interest they could excite. To remedy this, and consider the question of forming a parish branch of the auxiliary, the Rector requested all the women of the parish to attend the morning prayers of the Church on the first Friday in December, at which he said the special prayer for missions, this being the day on which the Board of Missions requests special prayers on behalf of its work. And after prayers, a meeting was held in the Guild room, to consider the advisability of forming a Parish Missionary Society, which should be a chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese. Some dozen ladies attended this meeting, and after an explanation by the Rector of its purpose, it was unanimously resolved that such a society be formed, which was accordingly done, and the following officers elected: Mrs. Thomas Neilson, President; Mrs. T. Leaming Smith, Treasurer, and Miss Mary Chamberlaine, Secretary.

It was resolved to meet after morning prayers on the first Friday of each month, and all the ladies of the congregation are invited to join it. There will be no membership dues. It is simply for the purpose of hearing about the work of the different departments of the missionary service, of consulting how best to raise money and answer the appeals that may be presented, and of making up missionary boxes.

We do hope that the ladies of the congregation generally will attend and take an interest in the meetings. We are sure, that if they do so, they will lead not only to our parish doing more for missions, but they will stir up more life and activity and interest in the parish itself. We all live too much for ourselves and are too absorbed in our own interests. We should think, also, on things of others, and try to see what we can do to bless and benefit those who are not as well off as we are, and extend the influence and power of the Church of God.

As the first Friday of this month was New Year's day, the meeting of this Society will be on the second, instead of the first Friday of January. We shall hope for a large attendance.

A Bequest to the Church.

Just as we are going to press we hear of a very handsome bequest which has been made to the Church by Miss Julia A. Pleasanton, one of our parishioners, who died shortly after Christmas. Miss Pleasanton and her mother became connected with the parish in 1890, and were much interested in it. Mrs. Pleasanton assisted in the Mothers' Meeting and Miss Pleasanton taught a class in the Industrial School for two winters. For the last two years they have been away at Atlantic City and in Europe. They did not, however, forget the Church, and in her will, which was drawn in November, 1895, Miss Pleasanton leaves one-half of her residuary estate to our parish. We do not know exactly what it will amount to, and it is only payable in part after the death of her mother, and part after the death of another relative. But it is a provision for the future of the parish, for which we are most devoutly grateful, and we sincerely trust that her example will be followed by others. Not until all our debt is paid off and the Church is endowed, can we feel that it is in a secure position to carry on its work as a free Church for all people.

PARISH NOTES.

Gifts to the Church.—Orders for four and a half tons of coal, box of soap for sacristy, book for parish library, five for the Sunday School library, new gown for verger, black silk girdle for the Rector; cake, oranges and bananas for Christmas festival.

Christmas.—We kept the feast much as usual. The weather was ideal, and the congregations good. We were particularly pleased that the number of communions made was nearly fifty in excess of last year. The offerings were about the same, but did not reach the sum of $1,000 needed. This will have to be made up in some way.

Children's Festival. — The children had a particularly pleasant and successful entertainment on the evening of Holy Innocents' day. This was due to the care and attention given to it by the superintendent and teachers. The Church was well filled with the children and their friends, when the carols were sung and an address made by the Rector. Afterwards in the school room, a regular programme was provided, of singing, exhibitions by "a Professor," the appearance of Santa Claus and distribution of gifts, consisting of a box of candy, a piece of cake, an orange and a banana for each child. If the congregation could have seen the appreciation of the children, some coming before five o'clock so as to be there for its beginning at half-past seven, they would feel rewarded for the contributions they made towards it.

Gleaners.—Over seventy of the five dollar "Gleaners" have now been taken by members of the congregation, to make collections for the payment of our Church debt. Four have already been returned filled, and in each case the "Gleaner" has been taken back again to be refilled. The Rector has a hundred of these, and he wants to have them all taken. Who has not got one? The Rector will give them out after any service. The hundred ought to bring in at least $500, but we want a great deal more than that.

S. Mary's Guild proposes giving a tea some evening this month, in honor of the new Superior, Mrs. I. C. Clark. The young ladies of the congregation who have not yet joined the Guild, and the members of S. John's Guild, and other young men in the congregation, will be invited.

Brotherhood Services.—The members of our Parish Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew are making vigorous efforts in connection with their monthly service, distributing posters in the neighborhood and cards on the street. Unfortunately, the special preacher for last month, Archdeacon Brady failed at the last moment to appear, owing to a severe cold, and the Rector had to take his place on short notice. The special preacher for this month will be the Rev. H. L. Duhring, Superintendent of the City Mission.

Missionary Box.—Our ladies sent off their missionary box, so that it might get to its destination before the cold weather set in, though they had not money enough to get the clerical suit needed. If sufficient funds come in this can still be sent. The following letter of acknowledgment has been received, which we print that the donors to the box may see how much their gifts are appreciated :—

Trinity Mission
Emmetsburg, Ia., Dec. 26, 1896.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin :

The box came safely and in good condition to our home before Christmas, freight charges prepaid, and I hasten to express our heartfelt thanks to yourself for your devoted sacrifice and interest; to your good and worthy Rector and his assistant ; to the ladies of the Auxiliary, and to all who have aided in giving us such a pleasant and substantial Christmas greeting.

Master Herbert is greatly pleased with his new suit, which fits him nicely, and for the very ingenious toys: Grace is very thankful for the nice box of candy. Mrs. Jackson will write a line for herself, and I am very grateful, also, for the nice dress and other garments given her.

As for myself, I want to thank you royally for your many kind gifts to me. The shirts, collars, neckties, socks and underwear will be very acceptable. The garments partly worn will all be turned to good account. One coat fits me very well, vests and trousers can be changed and made serviceable. If any can not be fitted to my use, I will see that they do service in the hands of our Ladies' Guild or Charity Committee.

And now it moves me much to know and feel that you have all done this for love of our dear Saviour and His Church. This makes your gift very precious to us. I wish I could see you all and thank you in person. I can only pray in behalf of myself and family, that the rich blessings promised to the liberal soul may be abundantly granted to you as individuals, and to the Church of the Ascension, that it may continue to be "fruitful in every good work" being strengthened with all might according to His glorious power."

I am gratefully and sincerely yours,
W. T. Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson adds :

My Dear Mrs. Gilpin :

The very nice box that your Ladies' Guild prepared for us, reached safely and furnished many pretty as well as useful Christmas presents for us.

I cannot mention each article, as all seem to be just what we need. Please accept for yourself and the other kind ladies that helped to prepare the box, our most sincere thanks. We pray that God may reward you all for your labor of love.

Hoping that your Guild may continue to make other missionaries' lives happy by your deeds of kindness, and with our kindest wishes for your health and happiness, I am most cordially yours.

S. John's Guild Sports took place on the evening of December 10th, in the presence of a large number of spectators. They proved very entertaining, and showed good training on the part of the boys. The following was the programme :

Mr. David Patchell carried off three prizes, viz.: that for the potato race, the dumb bell race and putting the shot.

Mr. Wm. Perry won the bar vault and high jump, and Mr. Brown the broad jump.

Mr. Gardiner managed by a large amount of good fortune to win the sack race.

We do not, this time, have to tell how we lost the tug-of-war. We leave that to St. Michael's. They have our sympathy. We know how they feel.

The success of the sports was mainly due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Geo. Dooley. We extend him our hearty thanks.

Subscriptions.—We have to acknowledge the following subscriptions received during December:

Mrs. N. S. Jensen Miss M. Wurts
Miss Mary McKnight Miss M. S. Hamilton
Miss Isabel Schell Miss M. H. White
Miss M. A. Pierce

We are still largely indebted to our printer. Will not all present subscribers pay up, and will not everyone in the parish give fifty cents a year to help pay for this very useful paper?

History of the Church of the Ascension.

Broad Street below South, Philadelphia.

All this time the church property was held under the original articles of association, by which the vestrymen were elected for life, with power to fill the vacancies as they occurred. It was not until 1845 that the church passed into the hands of the congregation, which was then regularly incorporated, and the vestrymen henceforth were elected in the usual way. The property was embarrassed with a debt of $8,000, which, however, by liberal contributions, chiefly from the original inaugurators of the work, was finally reduced to a mortgage of $2,000. A considerable congregation attended the church at this time and a good work was done.

By 1847, however, owing to the constant difficulty which was experienced in meeting the expenses of the Church, it was felt that something must be done to make the Church more attractive. As originally built there were two rows of square windows on the sides, hung with Venetian blinds; the staircases came directly up into the Church, without any vestibule ; in the chancel a large wooden structure in the center served for a pulpit, with a small table in front of it; the Church was lighted with lamps, and there was a small and very poor organ. Two architects, Mr. Upjohn, of New York, and Notman, of Philadelphia, both advised the sale of the edifice and the erection of a new building, rather than the attempt to improve it. Funds, however, not being forthcoming for the purpose, at the cost of some $4,000, it was remodeled by having long, narrow, rounded windows, filled with colored glass, placed in the sides ; vestibules erected ; the Church repainted ; a new organ built, and the pulpit moved from the center to one side of the chancel and an altar, covered by an altar cloth, put in its place.

These improvements do not seem to have had the desired effect, for only two years afterwards, in 1849, the consent of the Standing Committee was asked and obtained for the sale of the Church for a public school.

The sale, however, was not consummated. In 1855, after a rectorship of thirteen years, Dr. Ogilby resigned to accept the position of one of the assistant ministers in Trinity Church, New York, which position he held until his death some years ago.

DIOCESES AND PROVINCES.

A Diocese is the territorial jurisdiction of a Bishop. Wherever the Church has been established the whole of the national territory has been divided up into districts, each of which is placed in charge of a Bishop, and he becomes the spiritual ruler and pastor of all the people therein. It is his duty to see that the offices of the Church are duly and properly performed. All the clergy in that district derive their authority and right to officiate from him. He confirms the laity and ordains the clergy. He administers discipline and acts as judge and arbiter in all cases of dispute and difficulty. But he is not an absolute ruler. The Episcopate is one. Each individual Bishop is controlled by the other members of his order. He cannot teach or require as of faith what the others do not agree to, or if he does, they can discipline or depose him. And even in the government of his diocese he takes counsel at least with his clergy and laity. The ancient saying was, that as nothing should be done without the Bishop so the Bishop should do nothing without the Presbyters. Hence the Bishop holds from time to time what is known as a Diocesan Council or convention composed of the clergy of the Diocese and representatives of the laity. These consult together as to the interests of the Diocese, and with the consent of the Bishop, set forth constitutions or rules for the regulation of the churches therein.

Thus the Bishop, with the clergy and laity of his Diocese, form, as it were, a family or complete body. Each is a necessary part of it. There can be no Bishop without a Diocese, the clergy can act only from the authority and under the government of a Bishop, and the laity would have no head or pastors without the Bishop and his clergy.

So all the members of a Diocese should take an interest in the work for the Diocese, not simply for the individual congregations to which they belong. They should try to extend and strengthen the Diocese, build up and support its general institutions for educational, benevolent and missionary work. The clergy and laity of different parts of the Diocese should be brought together, and come to know each other, and feel they have common interests and a common work to do. They should all look upon the Bishop as their leader and chief pastor, and hold up his hands and further his plans and heed his instructions. There should be one chief church in each Diocese called the Cathedral, from the Greek word cathedra, a seat, because the Bishop has his seat or throne there. It is the Bishop's church, and by its size and beauty should attest the importance and glory of religion. It should be large enough for assemblies of the clergy and laity and great special congregations, and by its services, music, etc., should set the standard of worship for the other churches in the Diocese. Such a church would be a centre and bond for all the other churches in the Diocese.

But while the Diocese is thus complete in itself it is not independent. It cannot propagate or continue itself. Its Bishop cannot consecrate his own successor, nor can a single Diocese legislate upon anything that is fundamental in Doctrine, Discipline or Worship, for our Lord's promises were not to a single part of His Church but to the whole body. So Dioceses have long been associated into Provinces, that is a number of Dioceses formed together by neighborhood or common ties. It alone can pass canons or rules for the government of the Church within its boundaries. The Bishop of the chief Diocese, or sometimes, as with us, the oldest Bishop by consecration, is the President Bishop or Archbishop. That is, he does not belong to a separate order, but is first among equals. He calls the meetings of and presides at the Provincial Synod or Council. He governs any Diocese in the Province during a vacancy in the Episcopate, and consecrates the new Bishop when he is elected.

In this country the Church still consists of but one Province. But it is getting so large and unwieldy that our General Convention or National Council has long been discussing plans for cutting it up into several Provinces, and it doubtless will be done before long.

In England there two Provinces, those of Canterbury and York, and in Ireland, Armagh and Dublin, while in Canada and other parts of the British Empire there are quite a number. And the title of Archbishop has lately been given the presiding Bishops of those in Canada. It is the oldest and simplest title, though such Bishops are also called Metropolitans and Primates. It is much to be desired that the same and ancient nomenclature of the Church should be adopted everywhere.

PARISH NOTES.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW.—We omitted to announce in our last number that at the annual election for officers of our parish chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, held in December, the following were duly chosen: Director, Mr. C. L. S. Tingley; Vice-Director, Mr. Richard Gilpin; Sec'y and Treasurer, Mr. Henry Kelly.

THE LADIES' AID proposes to take as the object of their charitable work this coming Lent the Howard Hospital. This hospital is in our immediate neighborhood, and on more than one occasion members of our parish have been cared for there, and several of the staff of nurses attend our Church. It is, therefore, very appropriate that we should do something for it. The members of the Aid will be very glad if any ladies of the parish will join them. They meet in the parish building every Thursday, at 3 P. M.

MISSIONARY MEETING.—We hope our ladies will not forget to attend the monthly missionary meeting, after morning prayers, on the first Friday of each month. Only seven were present last month. Are they the only ones in the parish who have any interest in or sympathy for the brave, self-sacrificing missionaries of the Church, who are laboring in the hard places in the field? If the ladies will only come and hear about the work they cannot fail to take an interest in it. Are we not hardening our hearts and "shutting up our compassions" from those who need them, if we deliberately stay away from such occasions, when our sympathies are appealed to?

THE GLEANERS.—We hope that all who have taken the Gleaners, are making good speed in getting them filled. They should all be returned before Easter. There are still a few more to be given out. Who will take one?

S. MARY'S GUILD gave a very pleasant Tea on the evening of January 28th, in honor of their new superior, Mrs. T. C. Clark, about ninety persons were present. The evening was taken up with the performance of a short piece called "Young Doctor Divine," by the members of the Guild, under the direction of their instructress, Mrs. McIntosh, followed by some musical recitations, etc., and a repast of tea, sandwiches and cake and ice cream. Such occasions certainly tend to promote sociability among the young people of the parish.

NEW SEATS.—Owing to the increase in the attendance of the Sunday School and Bible Classes, we are in need of more chairs in the parish building. In order to provide them, the building committee of the Vestry, has availed itself of a resolution passed by the Vestry, some time ago, authorizing it to have new pews made for that part of the nave of the Church near the north end, which is now occupied by chairs. These now have been ordered, and the chairs, some thirty-six in all, whose place they take, can be used in the school rooms, and the new seats will add to the uniformity of the Church. They are being made by Mr. G. H. Botwright, one of our members, he being the lowest bidder out of three who gave estimates.

THE SPECIAL PREACHER for the Brotherhood service on the last Sunday evening of this month will be the Rev. Dr. Mortimer, Rector of S. Mark's Church.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.—We have made another change in the business management of this paper, having accepted the offer of Mr. F. W. H. Clarke, who undertakes, as a matter of business, to make it pay. We sincerely trust that he will be able to do so, as we consider this publication a very important adjunct to the work of the Parish, and yet it ought not to be a burden to it, but at least pay its own way, if not do more. Mr. Clarke has opportunities for obtaining advertisements, and as he can devote a large portion of his time to this sort of work we have no question but that he can make it a success, and relieve us of the chronic state we have been in for some years, of always being in debt to our printer.

Our hearty thanks are due to Mr. Henderson, who so kindly undertook the care of the paper in the midst of his own engrossing business. We are very glad to be able to relieve him of it.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 7th to administer Confirmation in this Parish. The clergy will be glad to receive the names of persons desiring to be presented at that time. A course of preparatory instructions will be given by the Rector, on Mondays at 4 P. M., beginning with Monday, February 22d and by the Assistant Minister a course on Thursdays at 8 P. M., beginning February 25th. The candidates are expected to attend one of these courses.

History of the Church of the Ascension.

Broad Street below South, Philadelphia.

He was succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Dalzell, of Georgia, now of Louisiana, who had married a daughter of Bishop Onderdonk. He remained until April, 1857, when the Rev. Samuel Cox, now Dean of the Cathedral of the Diocese of Long Island, became rector. He had the organ moved from the gallery to one side of the chancel, and introduced what he called "a familiar style of chanting," and had the Church open for daily prayers during the greater part of the year. At first he reported the Church as gradually filling up, but he regarded the neighborhood as becoming more and more unfavorable for it. So much so, that propositions were again made for its removal; but finding that there was no prospect of this being carried out, and the financial condition becoming more and more critical, Mr. Cox resigned, Easter, 1861, determining to undertake himself the formation of a new church in the western part of the city, to be called S. Chrysostom's. A large part of the congregation followed him, and services were for some time held in the chapel of the Episcopal Academy. The effort, however, fell through and Mr. Cox accepted a call elsewhere.

At this juncture, the vestry of the Church accepted a proposition of the Rev. Dr. Howe, then rector of St. Luke's Church, to take the property and convert it into a chapel for his parish. The legal corporation, however, was maintained, the vestrymen vacating their places, the vestrymen of St. Luke's Church being elected in their stead, Dr. Howe being elected rector. The Rev. J. A. Childs was placed in charge of the chapel as assistant minister. He was succeeded in 1862 by the Rev. C. W. Duane, afterwards rector of St. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia, and he in turn, in 1864, by the Rev. Wm. H. Hare, now Bishop of Southern Dakota. During Dr. Hare's administration the Church so improved in numbers and ability, that in a few years it was thought best to sever the connection with St. Luke's Church and for the parish to rely on its own resources. This was done in 1867.

During the period it was a chapel of St. Luke's all the indebtedness on the property was removed and the system of free seats was adopted, but when it became independent again pew rents were resorted to. In spite of the improvement which had taken place in the congregation Dr. Hare soon came to feel that it would be impossible to build up a really strong and efficient parish in the locality, and negotiations were entered into for the sale of the Church to St. Thomas' Parish and for the erection of a new building on the identical lot on Broad Street on which the new Church now stands, plans for which were drawn. The negotiations, however, fell through, and in consequence Dr. Hare resigned, to become, like his predecessor, Dr. Harris, one of the secretaries of the Board of Missions in New York. Two years later he was elevated to the Episcopate.

After an interregnum of a year the Rev. H. M. Stuart became rector. He was a well-read and worthy man and esteemed a fine preacher; but during his rectorship the process of deterioration in the neighborhood went on; many influential persons removed from the parish, and it became more and more difficult to sustain it, until finally on Mr. Stuart's resignation, in 1878, the vestry resolved to close the Church and hand the keys to the Bishop, for him to make such disposition of the property as he thought best. This would have been done had not a single member of the vestry, the late Dr. Roger Keys, offered to keep the Church open at his own risk. Services therefore were continued without intermission, various clergymen officiating for a few months at a time. At each change, however, more and more persons left the parish, until, in May, 1880, but thirty-two communicants were reported as belonging to it.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

In no part of the machinery of parish work is it so essential that the clergy should be supported by the personal aid of the laity as in the Sunday School. Here is the young life of a parish; here are to be fostered and cultivated the minds which shall later produce the active element, the people of the parish. In order that these people should be, not empty or careless, but spiritually minded, well taught in the Faith and Truths of the Church, it is vitally necessary that this teaching should begin in early youth. The Sunday School offers the best opportunity for such teaching; but it is not intended that its instruction shall entirely absolve the parents from home guidance of the youthful minds. There is first taught veneration for holy things, reverence for God and His Church, and the school develops these ideas, teaches the reason why, and so brings the child to full understanding of the Christian faith. In every parish, then, the Sunday School should express the life which is within its workings. The children should all be in the school; but not alone with the children must the responsibility rest, but with teachers as well, for theirs is the privilege, and theirs the responsibility of assisting the clergy in building not for to-day, but for future years, the strength and usefulness of every parish as a bulwark in Christ's Church.—Ex.

PARISHES.

A parish is a sub-division of a Diocese which is in charge of a Priest. Just as all the territory of a Christian country is divided up into Dioceses, so every part of each Diocese should be included in some parish, so that there will be a clergyman responsible for the work of the church therein. He is the pastor of that company of Christians, he should minister to, and look after and celebrate the Offices of the Church for them. And if there are any within its bounds who are ignorant of or neglect their religious duties, he ought to go after them and try to win and teach and lead them. Thus every portion of every Christian country would be under the oversight of a Christian Priest. He ought, if possible, to know every soul in his parish and look after his spiritual welfare. Thus the work of the Church would be thoroughly and effectually done. This is the ideal, and we believe that every part of the Catholic Church has been thus constituted except, unfortunately, our own.

We have no territorial parishes, except in the States of Virginia and Maryland, where they were constituted before the Revolutionary war, and even there the lines have not been altered to suit the growth of the population, so that the condition of things, especially in the large cities, is not different from what it is in other States. With us, we build churches where the means can be obtained for the purpose, and the persons who choose to attend them, or who can be induced to do so, form the congregation. But no particular district being assigned to the clergyman, he does not feel any responsibility for the population at large, or if he attempts to do any missionary work, he does not know where to do it. If he goes on one side, he may be intruding on the cure of another Priest, or two Priests may be going over the same district, and other large districts may have no one to look after them. The reason we have no territorial parishes in this country, except in Maryland and Virginia, is that the Church in those States only, was established before the Revolution. In the others it was barely tolerated, and in all the States after the Revolutionary war was ended, it was in such an unsettled condition that it thought only of preserving itself, and securing the privileges of the Church for its own members. Such a thing as making provision for all the population never occurred to it. It is only of late years that the Church has grown so that it is catching up at all with the increase of the population and absorbing them in such numbers as to make it possible for it to undertake to look after all. So in New York City and some other places, the system of territorial parishes has been to some extent introduced. It ought to be adopted everywhere, and until it is, the work of the Church cannot be thoroughly and systematically done.

But there are objections to its introduction on the part of many from the idea that if territorial lines were established, all would be obliged to attend and support the Church in whose parish they were living, whether they liked the clergyman or its services or not, and that no one should go to any other than their parish church. But while this would be the ideal, it would of course be impossible to enforce it. In so many places the churches are so close together, and there is such a difference in the way in which they are conducted, that it would neither be wise nor right to compel people to attend or support churches they did not like. So that in any establishment of the system the right of persons to go to any church they prefer, must be fully recognized, and also the right of the clergyman to minister to those attending their churches, even though they are living within the bounds of other parishes. But these rights being recognized it would not interfere with the great object of the system which is to provide for the thorough shepherding of all the people, having some one appointed whose duty it should be to look after every home, and search after and reach every soul. We cannot but hope that before long our Church like every other part of the Catholic Church will be thus constituted.

But even where parish lines are not established, every Christian should see that he has a Parish church. That is, a church to which he belongs, where he has his privileges and his duties, that there is some particular clergyman whom he regards as his Pastor, who personally knows him and has his name enrolled as a member of his church. Of course, one can attend and receive the sacraments in any church, but unless there is some particular church to which he belongs, he will never have the same feeling towards it, or interest in it, or discharge his duty towards it as he should.

And in removing from one place to another one should always take a letter of transfer from his Pastor to the new parish he intends to join.

Not to belong to a particular church is like not having a permanent home.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The Ladies' Aid have received a piece of alpaca for choir cassocks, and twenty-five yards of muslin from Strawbridge & Clothier. The embroidery class has made and presented to the church a violet silk maniple embroidered; twelve books were received for the parish library; an iron bed and mattress were given to a poor woman, and a hat rack for the ladies work room.

NEEDS.—The Ladies' Aid ask for donations of muslin for under wear, also muslin for sheeting and pillow cases for the Howard Hospital, for which they are working this Lent, and they will be glad if any ladies of the congregation would join with them in sewing on Thursdays at 3 P. M.

There is also need of donations of money and clothing especially for men and boys, for the benovelent work of the Parish. Any person having clothing to give away can notify the sexton and he will call for it.

LENTEN SERVICES.—As usual during Lent, the boys of the choir will be present at the daily 5 P. M. service, and there will be a short lecture after prayers on Fridays.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY.—On the last Sunday of February the Sunday School of the parish was constituted as part of the Junior Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, and the usual mite boxes for collections for Missions during Lent given out. It is hoped that the interest of the school in Missions may in this way be enhanced.

CONFIRMATION.—Instructions are given every Thursday at 8 P. M. in the Guild room. All wishing to be confirmed this year are expected to attend this course of instruction. The Confirmation will take place on the evening of April 7.

THE ASSISTANT MINISTER has had so much trouble with his throat since he returned to work in the Autumn, that at the suggestion of the Rector, he has been given a month's holiday so as to let his voice have entire rest. He has gone for a short trip to Florida. His place is being supplied by the Rev. H. Page Dyer, who last winter was in charge of the Church of the Holy Comforter.

THE SPECIAL PREACHER at the Brotherhood of St. Andrew service on the last evening of this month will be the Rev. Dr. Blanchard, Rector of St. James Church. The Rev. William P. Lewis, D. D., kindly took the place of the Rev. Dr. Mortimer who was prevented from being present at the service in February as was announced.

SPECIAL SINGERS.—We were favored one Sunday afternoon last month in having in our choir Mr. Frank Potter, of New York, a brother of the Bishop. He is a professional musician having a very fine and highly cultivated tenor voicee. He sang as an anthem, a selection from the oratorio of Elijah. Mr. Ryder, of the Drexel Institute, has also favored us with a solo on one or two occasions at the night service, and Messrs Van Lear and W. D. Miller with a duet.

THE GLEANERS.—We hope all who have taken these books or the cards to collect for our floating debt are trying to get them rapidly filled up. They should all be returned before Easter and we expect to receive at least $500 from this source.

SPECIAL ENVELOPES for Diocesan Missions were sent out for this quarter, and we trust will be returned with enough to make up the amount this parish is expected to contribute to this purpose, which is, together with the Sustentation Fund $126.35.

The Arch-deacon of the Diocese made a very forcible appeal in behalf of this Fund, on the first Sunday in February.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—We are requested to call the attention of the members of the congregation to the following meetings to which they are invited.

Quiet Day for Women.—Thursday, March 11th. at St. Luke's Church, Thirteenth street, below Spruce. Beginning with Holy Communion at 9.30 A. M. Service for men and women with address at 8 P. M.

Conference of Church Workers.—Friday, March 12th, at the Holy Trinity Guild House, Twentieth street below Walnut, 10.30 A. M.

History of the Church of the Ascension.

Broad Street below South, Philadelphia.

In November of that year the Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge became rector. Various improvements were then made. The organ, which had been set up again in the gallery, was once more brought down to the body of the Church. A handsome stained glass window representing the Ascension was put in the chancel, a surpliced choir was introduced, a weekly Eucharist and daily service established, and the system of free seats and voluntary offerings, for which the Church was originally designed, was resumed, and has ever since been maintained. Under this changed condition of things the Church improved. The communicant list rose to over two hundred, an indebtedness which had accumulated was paid off, and the expenses of the Church were readily met. Still it was felt that neither the building nor the location were adapted for a strong and permanent work among white people. Accordingly, in 1885, an offer for the purchase of the property by a colored congregation was accepted, and a lot on Broad street below South, having a frontage of 130 feet on Broad street, was secured for the erection of a new Church. A commodious brick school building was erected on the rear of the lot and the foundations of the Church were laid during the summer. The large school room on the upper floor was fitted up as a chapel and used for Church services from November, 1885, to December, 1886, when the nave and aisles of the Church were completed and taken into use, a temporary chancel being arranged at one end of the nave. During the summer of 1889, the chancel proper, together with the organ chamber and vestry, were erected. And in 1890, a fine Roosevelt organ, costing over $4,000, was put in. In 1891, the late Mr. Benjamin Johnson, left the Church $10,000, as the beginning of an endowment fund.

The Church is built of gray Leiperville stone, and is now completed with the exception of the tower. The ridge of the roof of the nave and chancel runs through at the same height, a fleche, covered with copper, rising over the chancel arch, and an iron cresting distinguishing the roof of the chancel from that of the nave. The Church is lined in the interior with colored brick, the clerestory walls resting on columns of unpolished red Scotch granite with carved capitals. The chancel, which is separated from the nave by a dwarf screen of brick and stone, has an apsidal termination; it is lighted by eight single lancet windows and, with the Church, has an open timbered roof. The windows of the aisles have been filled with handsome stained glass representing scenes from the life of our Lord, and five of those in the chancel with similar ones. It is hoped some day to erect a handsome altar and reredos.

Since the removal of the Church to Broad street it has continued to improve, the communicants at the last report numbering 504 and the yearly contributions have amounted to from $8,000 to $10,000. The total amount expended in building has been about $47,000, the cost of the lot being $25,000 in addition.

In its now prominent and central position, in its handsome and attractive edifice, with its bright, hearty services and free seats, there seems every prospect of a strong and permanent parish being built up. Services are held six times every Sunday, and twice daily from October to June, and on Wednesdays and Fridays, and on all the Holy days throughout the Summer. The church is always open for private devotion.

DRAW NEAR WITH FAITH.

"Let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of Faith—Heb. x.

Unto Thy holy altar, Lord,
Our heads and hearts bowed low,
Where Thou art most to be adored,
We come Thy Grace to know.

Wearied and wounded in our strife
With Satan and with sin,
We come to Thee, the Bread of Life,
New strength and hope to win.

We do not ask how it can be,
That Thou Thyself should'st give
Into our hands and hearts; but we Receive Thee there and live.

Oh, dwell within us when we turn
Back on our earthly way,
And may we by Thy presence learn
To love Thee more each day.

THE PARISH CHURCH.

We spoke last month of Parishes, and how important it was that every one should be definitely connected with some one church. How that connection will endear the church to us, especially if we have gone to the same church all our lives, and perhaps our parents before us. What a center of attraction is the parish church of an English village, which has stood perhaps for centuries, the most prominent and beautiful edifice in the village, its tower rising high above the tree tops, with its bells reminding the people of Sunday and Holy Day and calling them with their sweet tones to prayer. And how does the grave yard—called in old English, God's acre—surrounding the church with its quaint tombs, where generations of villagers have been laid to rest, hallow the church and the church hallow it.

And even though in this country we have not all those historical associations and the picturesqueness, still a church one has belonged to for years becomes very dear and hallowed in our eyes. Everything about it is dear to us from its associations, the lines of its architecture, the pictures in its windows, or tablets on its walls, its altar piece, its hangings—telling of the changing seasons in the church's year—its font where we were baptized, its chancel rail where we were confirmed and received our first communion and have knelt many a time since in joy to give God thanks, in sorrow to bring our woes to Him, in trial to seek His grace, that sacred spot just in front of the sanctuary, where happy couples have stood to be married, and where the dead bodies of those we loved best have rested for the last time on their way to burial, the lectern from which has been read to us all the wonderous story of the Gospel and the teachings of God's word, the pulpit from which we have heard burning words of exhortation, or instruction, which have moved, uplifted and inspired us, the organ, whose tones have soothed and melted us or filled us with religious fervor. Is there any spot or building on earth which is so intimately and tenderly associated with one's most solemn and sacred memories and feelings in the most important issues and epochs of one's life as a Parish Church? One has the same affection for it as he has for the home of his childhood, or one that has been in the family for years, a feeling one cannot possibly have for a church he attends only casually and with which he is not familiar. Just as one living in a boarding house and changing about all the time does not feel that he has a home at all.

Hence the importance of having a Parish Church, one particular church to which we belong, which is our spiritual home. And hence the importance of building churches in such a way that they will be permanent, not light, unsubstantial things which, like tents, can be taken down from time to time and moved about. A church should be built of such material and in such a way that it will last. We have in this city churches, like the old Swedes,' Christ Church, and St. Peter's, which have stood, the same buildings on the same sites, for a hundred and fifty or two hundred years with scarcely any change, and you know how attached their parishioners are to them. Why should not our Parish Church here last in the same way? We have built it of solid stone and brick, which will seldom need any repairs and no constant redecoration. We have already adorned it with a number of memorials—an unusual number, we think, for so recent a building. And we hope our parishioners will go on and add others, each making it more attractive and more sacred, and we hope that they will see that it is soon freed from all indebtedness and well endowed, and its tower completed and parish building enlarged. If all this can be done, then there is no reason why it should not stand here in its central and prominent location for years and years, doing its blessed work to thousands who might not be able to supply or support such a church for themselves.

Every one who builds or contributes towards a church should feel that he is not only providing or helping to provide what is the most necessary and valuable thing for himself and his own family, but that he is providing as well a spiritual home for the fatherless, the widow, and the stranger, and for generations to come, and that the good he may do thereby may be simply incalculable.

Let each one have, and appreciate, and love, and do all he can for, his Parish Church.

PARISH NOTES.

HOLY WEEK.—We shall have the same services in Holy Week as we have had in other years and which have proved so useful. There will be the usual procession of palms at the mid-day service on Palm Sunday, Daily celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7.30 A. M. and after morning prayers at 10 A. M., except on Good Friday, when the mid-day service begins at 11 A. M., and consists of morning prayer and Litany, followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M., Daily evening prayer at 5 P. M. and a sermon every night at 8 P. M.

On Easter Day there will be plain celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A. M., and a choral one after morning prayer at 10.30 A. M. At 2.30 P. M. the children will have their Easter service, for which they are now practicing special carols. At this time the contents of the missionary Lenten mite boxes will be presented. There will be also the usual choral evensong at 4 P. M. and evening prayers and sermon at 8 P. M.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir will sing on the morning of Easter and Low Sunday Gounod's S. Cecilia.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—As usual we ask from all our people special offerings on Easter Day, which will be entirely devoted to the floating debt. Let us see if we cannot wipe it out altogether. The amount consists of three notes, one of $600, one of $500 and one of $300, making a total of $1400.

Last year our Easter offerings amounted to something over $1100. Can we not exceed that amount this year, by the additional sum needed to clear off this indebtedness? Let each one in the congregation make an effort to give as large a special offering as possible and we are sure the sum can be raised. Put your offering in the envelope marked "Easter Offering" which you have received or you will find in the rack near the door of the Church.

Offerings for the Easter flowers may be put in the alms box, which will be marked for them, in the vestibule of the Church.

The Rector would also be glad to receive contributions to provide the annual Easter Festival for the children of the Industrial School, which will take place on the Saturday after Easter, after the 10 o'clock morning service. We should be glad to have members of the Congregation come and see the School and examine the work that has been done during the year.

CONFIRMATION.—Our annual confirmation occurs on the evening of April 7th, at 8 P. M.

MEMORIAL.—We are happy to announce that the daughters of the late Mrs. Wm. Penn Chandler, who gave us our brass lectern and our altar rail, have determined to place brass gates at the entrance of the choir as a memorial to their mother. It will be most appropriate that there should be a memorial to her in the Church so near to that of her husband and so like it. And these gates will not only be an additional ornament to the Church, but will be a protection to the Sanctuary, an important thing in a church which is always left open.

They are expected to be in position by Easter Day.

A SMOKER.—The Men's Guild of the Parish gave a smoker in the parish building on the evening of Feb. 25th. The object was to bring the older men of the parish together that they might come to know one another and be more interested in the Church. About eighty invitations were sent out, fifty-two accepted and some thirty came. Pipes and tobacco were provided, under whose genial influence a pleasant evening was passed. Some music was rendered by Mr. Ryder of the Drexel Institute, and by some members of St. John's Guild. Mr. Harry G. Davis, of St. Luke's Church, Germantown, gave a short talk. The occasion was so appreciated by those present tha it was resolved to repeat it in the near future. The men attending the same church ought to know each other and we are sure it will be for the interest of the church to bring them together.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD ENTERTAINMENT on the evening of March 1st, was a great success. The large school room was filled and the performers all distinguished themselves. We do not think professional minstrels could have surpassed them. We were particularly pleased with the punctuality and promptness with which everything went off. This was largely due, we imagine, to our Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Mayne, who kindly took the direction of things and not only worked hard over it that way, but himself appeared as one of the performers. The boys are themselves so well pleased with their success that they are thinking of repeating this or giving a similar entertainment after Easter.

AN ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL was given on the evening of Shrove Tuesday. The performers were chiefly some of the smaller children in the school, who sang and recited various pieces, followed by a presentation of "The Peak Sisters" by some of the members of St. Mary's Guild. A very fine and attractive programme of the proceedings was printed. The entertainment was free.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—Owing to the second Tuesday of the month occurring in Holy Week, the regular business meeting of the Guild will be held this month on the evening of the first Tuesday.

THE JUNIOR AUXILIARY.—On the first Sunday in Lent the Sunday School of the Parish was constituted a member of the Junior Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Diocese. For some years the school has been collecting for missions during Lent, and it was thought better to have the school made a regular member of the Auxiliary, that it might have its representatives at the meetings and take more interest in the work. The Rector made a speech setting forth the character and purposes of the Auxiliary, and he was followed by Mrs. Thomas Neilson, who gave an interesting account of what other Sunday Schools and children were doing for Missions. It is proposed to have a Mission Sunday in the School from time to time.

LENTEN SEWING.—As we have announced, the members of the Ladies' Aid are sewing this Lent for the Howard Hospital. They are assisted by the members of St. Mary's Guild, who meet each Friday evening for the same purpose. A class of young girls is also meeting weekly at the house of the Rector to sew for the Sheltering Arms, for which a very earnest appeal for baby clothes was received.

THE GLEANERS.—We again remind all who have taken Gleaners that they are all expected to be returned before Easter, and we depend largely upon them for the reduction of the floating debt we are striving so hard to get rid of this ear.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—We call the attention of our readers to the fact that, through the exertions of our new agent, we have obtained a whole additional page of advertisements, and we should be very glad if our people would notice them and patronize those advertising whenever possible.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—In addition to his work in the Parish, the Rector has taken engagements this Lent to preach in the Church of the Transfiguration, the Advocate, S. Barnabas', Kensington; S. Barnabas', Haddington; S. David's, Manayunk; twice in S. Paul's Church; and in the Holy Trinity, West Chester; and Christ Church, Riverton, N. J.

He was fortunate in securing the Rev. H. Page Dyer to assist him during the absence of the Assistant Minister.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

COMMUNICANTS.

All Christians should be communicants; that is, the Holy Communion is not intended only for a few specially choice and holy ones, but for all who profess and call themselves Christians. Our Blessed Lord, when He instituted it said, "Drink ye all of it." No one can refuse or neglect to come to the Holy Communion without disobeying Christ's command. And He commanded it because all need it. No one is good enough or strong enough to be all that he should be without aid, and the Blessed Sacrament is our greatest means of grace; the aid we need and cannot afford to be without. It is wrong, therefore, and an injury to himself for any one not to be a communicant. And all who have been confirmed may be communicants. Any one who has been confirmed may receive the Holy Communion in any Church, whenever it is celebrated, without any special permission or invitation to do so, or prior notification that he intends to do so; and no Priest can refuse to administer to any one presenting himself, unless he knows that he is living an immoral, irreligious life, and even that must be an open and notorious fact; so as to cause scandal to the community, so careful is the Church to guard the right of every one to receive what is so great a privilege and so necessary to the spiritual life. But while all who have been confirmed may receive the Holy Communion in any Church and at any time, all should be registered as communicants in some particular parish. A parish, as we showed in a late issue, is a district, or a number of people, under the pastoral care of a Priest, who should know who the people are who are under his care. Only so can he do his duty to them and they derive benefit from him. The parish is the communicant's home. If he is traveling about or staying in other places, he can always receive in any Church where he may go. Or, if he removes to another locality, he may be transferred to another parish, but his name should always be registered as a member of some one parish.

This would seem to be all very evident and necessary, and yet, strange to say, it is a most difficult thing for a parish Priest to keep a correct register of his communicants, at least in our large cities. People are so continually coming and going. There is so much removing from one place to another. So many remain so short a time in one place or are so uncertain about their movements that they do not think it worth while to connect themselves with any particular Church. Then, so many are careless and negligent; many move away from a parish without giving a clergyman notice or letting him know where they have gone. Many neglect coming to the Holy Communion at all. Now, manifestly, a clergyman cannot go on, year after year, considering and reporting such persons as communicants of his parish, when he does not so much as know whether they are alive, or where they may be found, or, when he does know, that they never come to the Holy Communion. And yet it is very difficult to say in each case just when they have ceased to be communicants.

Then, on the other hand, there are often persons attending a Church and making their Communions regularly who never make themselves known to the clergy, so that they are actually communicants, though not registered as such.

These evils can only be remedied by the laity being careful always to see that their names are given to the clergy of the parish where they reside, and on going away—even though it may be only for a short time– taking a letter of transfer to some other parish with them. But persons who have systematically neglected making their Communions for long periods cannot expect to be transferred and commended as communicants in good standing, for that they are not. If they want such a letter, they should first go to the Priest from whom they seek it, and by him be reconciled and restored to full Communion; only so he can conscientiously give them transfers to other parishes.

Let each Christian esteem it his greatest privilege and the prime necessity of his life to be a communicant in the Church of God, and both exercise and guard his right with zealous care.

OUR FLOATING DEBT.

We confess that we are greatly disappointed that, with all the efforts which have been made this winter to remove our floating indebtedness, we are still unable to do so. Our ladies deserve great credit for what they have done. There has been received from the collection cards and gleaners which they put out about $350, in addition to which some $240 were received from donations and pledges, and nearly $200 from entertainments. These amounts put together would have very nearly liquidated the indebtedness we had at the beginning of the financial year, if we had been able to meet the current expenses of the year, but not only did our Easter offering fall $400 short of last year, but there have been additional expenses we have had to incur this year in the way of improvements, etc. So that at the close of the year we find ourselves very much in the position in which we were a year ago. We have paid off all the indebtedness we have incurred during the year, but not any of that brought over from previous years. We suppose this has been due to the hard times. We know it has been a bad year with many of our people; money has been scarce and hard to get. We shall have to be satisfied with having paid our way as we have, with our increased expenses, and not run any further behind. We shall hope for better times in the future. Above all we long for the time when the Church shall not only be free from debt but endowed, so as not to suffer from these fluctuations of offerings, which must vary with the ability of the people. May God put it into the hearts of the friends of our parish to provide such an endowment.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—We have to acknowledge the reception since our last issue of the following gifts: A pair of brass gates for the entrance of the chancel, a white silk chasuble—embroidered, a fine linen surplice for the Rector, same for the Assistant Minister, Turkish rug for the pulpit, dozen glass tumblers for china closet, seven prayer books, a quantity of flowers for the Annunciation, Maunday Thursday and Easter; six book racks, and thirty pounds of candles for the altar. S. John's Guild was also the recipient of a very heavy silver cup, embossed and engraved, in memory of the late Spencer Ervin, Esq., presented by his widow. Mr. Ervin had taken much interest in the Guild, having several times made donations to it, and this cup will permanently connect his name with it. It is designed as a trophy; the victories won by the Guild to be engraved on it as they occur. Mrs. Ervin has also presented the Guild with a large photograph of her husband in a frame, and one of Cologne Cathedral, for the Guild room. She designs also erecting a memorial brass to him on the walls of the Church.

OUR EASTER.—We were favored with fine weather, both on Good Friday and Easter-day, and consequently had large congregations. We were particularly pleased with the attendance at the early celebrations on Easter; there being over three hundred communicants at those services, which, with some seventy-six in the middle of the day, made the largest number we have ever yet had on one occasion. Those at the early Communions were almost all our own people, very few being strangers.

The Church looked very well, the new brass gates at the entrance of the chancel being a great addition, and instead of the large pots of plants we have had formerly, the dwarf screen was decorated with a ledge of cut flowers and green leaves.

The music was particularly good; Gounod's St. Cecilia being admirably rendered. The choir deserves great credit for it, as it was really new to most of them; thirteen practicings being given to in eighteen days.

At the children's service in the afternoon, special Easter carols were sung, and the children's Lenten collections for Missions were presented. These amounted to $51.23.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the regular election for Vestrymen, held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were elected to serve for three years:

Mr. Francis S. Keese,
Mr. Thomas Robb,
Mr. John D. Henderson,
Mr. George Gray Knowles, Jr.

And to fill a vacancy, caused by the resignation of Mr. Frank R. Stevenson, Mr. Robert R. Corson was elected to serve for one year.

At the subsequent meeting of the Vestry, the Rector appointed Mr. J. Edward Carpenter Rector's Warden, and Mr. Charles E. Bonnet was elected Accounting Warden, Mr. Tingley declining re-election, owing to the pressure of his business engagements. Mr. George Gray Knowles, Jr., was elected Secretary of the Vestry, and Messrs. Samuel Wetherill, J. Edward Carpenter and C. L. S. Tingley, were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

MISSIONARY WORK. — During Lent the members of the Ladies' Aid, assisted by S. Mary's Guild, made up a very nice box of clothing for the Howard Hospital, valued at $25, and a private class of girls made up one for the Sheltering Arms.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL closed its sessions for the Winter with a festival on the Saturday after Easter. Nineteen first-class prizes were presented for regularity of attendance and proficiency in work, and ten second class. Every child was given a chocolate Easter egg and an Easter card, and afterwards in the school room there was ice cream and cake, and a fish pond from which each child received a gift.

ENTERTAINMENTS. — Through the kindness of Dr. T. Ridgway Barker, a play which he had written and which was performed by himself and some personal friends, was given in the New Century Drawing Room on the evening of April 28th, for the benefit of our Church Debt Fund. The house was well filled and the proceeds of the entertainment are a most welcome addition to our resources.

S. John's Guild propose repeating their athletic sports exhibition on the evening of May 10th. There will be a tug of war between members of S. John's Guild and a band from the Church of the Nativity together with other contests. We advise our members to attend. There will be a silver offering at the door for the benefit of the Guild.

S. Mary's Guild is practicing a piece to be rendered at our annual Parish Tea, May 31st.

The Men's Guild propose giving another smoker about the middle of the month.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL comes very late this year, but we hope the attendance at its various services will be none the less large. There will be the usual anniversary sermon on the evening of Ascension day, May 27th; the Guild service on Sunday evening, May 30th, and the Parish Tea, on Monday, the 31st. We want to see all our parishioners at the anniversary service and at the Parish Tea.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

Mrs. J. M. Wirgman	Mrs. J. L. N. Smyth
Mr. David Rea	Miss Revel
Miss Ann O'Hara	Mrs. E. Wood

Laid on Thine Altar, O my Lord divine!
Accept my gift this day for Jesu's sake;
I have no jewels to adorn Thy shrine,
Nor any world-famed sacrifice to make;

But here I bring within my trembling hand,
This Will of mine, a thing that seemeth small,
And only Thou, dear Lord, canst understand,
How when I yield Thee this, I yield mine all.

Hidden therein, Thy searching Eye can see,
Struggles of passion, visions of delight;
All that I have, or am, or fain would be,
Deep love, fond hopes, and longings infinite.

It has been wet with tears, and dim with sighs;
Clinched in my grasp till beauty it has none;
Now from Thy footstool, where it vanquished lies,
One prayer ascends—O Lord! Thy will be done.

Take it, O Father, ere my courage fail,
And merge it so in Thine own Will, that e'en
If in some desperate hour, my cries prevail
And Thou give back my gift, it may have been

So changed, so purified, so fair have grown,
So one with Thee, so filled with peace divine,
I may not know or feel it as my own,
But gaining back my will, may find it Thine.

A YEAR'S REVIEW.

Our Rector always preaches an anniversary sermon on the evening of Ascension Day, reading the statistics of the past year of the work of the Parish and commenting thereupon. We give our readers a short synopsis of the sermon for the benefit of those who may not have been able to be present. The number of baptisms, marriages, confirmations and burials were about the same as the previous year. Seventy-four new names have been added to the communicant list, but no less than sixty-two removed through death, changes of residence or neglect to come to Communion. The loss the year before from the same causes was sixty. So large a proportion of removals every year makes the work of the Parish very discouraging and prevents any large increase. It is due to the peculiar situation of the Church, many of its members residing in boarding houses, and, therefore, very liable to change their residence, and from the constant removals from the lower portion of the city to the North and West. It is also due to the determination of the Rector not to retain on his list the names of those who have ceased to be communicants, and whose whereabouts he cannot ascertain. We called attention in our last issue to the importance of this matter of registration of communicants, and we trust our people will always see that their names are duly registered in the Parish whose Church they attend, and that they always ask for a letter of transfer when they remove.

The losses by death during the past year have been eight, including the old caretaker of the Church, Mary J. McClure, Mrs. Laupher, Miss Julia Pleasanton and Miss Emilie G. Smith, all of whom had been useful and active workers. Miss Pleasanton remembered the Church in her will, leaving it one-half of her residuary estate. The Church has also lost during the year a friend and benefactor in the death of Mr. Spencer Ervin, who, though not actually a member of the Parish, was much interested in, and did much for S. John's Guild for Young Men. His memory is to be perpetuated in the Church by a handsome silver cup presented by his widow to the Guild, and by a brass tablet to be placed on the wall of the Church, and possibly by a still larger and more substantial memorial.

The Sunday and Industrial Schools have been maintained in about the same numbers, but with a stronger and more efficient corps of teachers than before. There has been an especially gratifying increase in both the male and female Bible Classes. The different Chapters of the Women's Guild have been actively and usefully employed, though the actual amount of collections and work done has not been as large as in some years past.

Our Parish Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew has been carried on entirely this year by the lay members, and has shown increased zeal and earnestness.

The Men's Guild also has been more active, especially in its efforts to bring together and interest the men of the Parish in its welfare and work.

In looking at the financial statistics for the year, we find that there has been a falling off in the total receipts of about $300 from the previous year. This has been owing to the hard times, and the removal from the Church of one or two persons who had been large contributors. In spite of this, however, we have met our expenses for the year, and though we have not, as we had hoped we might, paid off our floating debt, we have not added to it, as we have in previous years, and we have paid off $500 on account of the mortgage indebtedness, reducing the amount now to $21,000.

We have also to note the following improvements made to the Church: An additional clerestory window, the hood over the door with the electric light, the new permanent seats in the back of the Church and the brass gates at the entrance of the chancel. We can feel, therefore, that in spite of the difficulties against which the Church has to contend, and the financial depression of the year, that we have not only held our own, but made progress. And that we have several special causes for thanksgiving, the greatest of which is the legacy left the Church by Miss Pleasanton. Though it may be some years yet before this is realized, it is a provision for the future and relieves our minds in regard to the debt, as it will probably more than cover it. And we can only hope and pray that others may follow her example, so that the Church building may be completed and further beautified, its Parish House extended, and above all an endowment provided, which is the only security for a free Church placed as ours is, in a district where there is not as yet much wealth.

Our review of the past year is, therefore, one which can enable us to thank God and take courage for the future. May it make all our people resolve to work harder and give more for the building up of their Parish Church.

Record for May.

PARISH NOTES.

SUMMER SERVICES.—We make the usual change in the services of the Church this month. The afternoon service on Sundays is discontinued and the hour of the evening service changed to seven o'clock. The other Sunday services remain the same. The daily service and the Wednesday evening service cease, prayers being said only on Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 A. M., with celebrations on all Holy days. We hope our people who remain in town will be faithful in attendance at these services. The Rector expects to be present at one Sunday service at least, during June and September and to take all the duty during July and August when the Assistant Minister takes his holiday.

SUMMER OFFERINGS.—Persons leaving the city for the Summer are requested, as usual, to place in the plate before they go, if possible, their envelopes for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, that we may have the funds to meet our expenses during the Summer months. The special benevolent envelopes for this and the next quarter are for the poor and the support of the schools, which can be returned at any time.

A LOSS TO THE PARISH.—We have to lament the removal, this month, of Mrs. Augustus Jackson and family from the Parish, as they expect to live hereafter in Washington, D. C. As they have been connected with this Parish for many years, have always been most faithful and regular in their attendance, most liberal in their contributions and taken an active interest in various departments of the work of the Parish, their departure will be most deeply felt and deplored.

THE CLERGY.—Any one wanting the Clergy during the Summer can always find one at the church at any Sunday or week-day service, or during June and September the Assistant can be found at his house, 1310 Ritner St., and during July and August the Rector can be communicated with at any time by addressing him at Station "Z," Philadelphia.

S. JOHN'S GUILD SPORTS, held on the evening of May 10th, proved very successful. A large number of spectators were in attendance, and a very full programme was presented, too full, indeed, to be gone through with. Some young men from the Southern Branch of the Y. M. C. A. kindly added to the entertainment by giving some exhibitions of strength. We are glad to say our own boys won the contest in the tug-of-war with the band from the Church of the Nativity.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY MEETING.—Our Sunday School took part for the first time in the annual service of the Junior Auxiliary, held in Grace Church, on May 22d. There was a good representation of the School, and the total offerings presented amounted to $55.87, which was to be equally divided between Domestic and Foreign Missions, one-half of the former to go to the missions in Alaska. In addition to which a box of clothing for the Sheltering Arms was reported as made by a class of girls during Lent.

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL, although coming so late this year, was well celebrated. The music at the Festival Service was very good, though the attendance was not as large as we should have liked to have seen. At the Anniversary Service, however, we had more than usual, and the annual service of the Guilds was especially good. Two visiting Guilds were in attendance, which served to swell the procession. The Rev. Mr. Hills, of West Chester, preached a forcible sermon. The Parish Tea was more than usually successful. The attendance was very large and every one seemed to enjoy themselves. S. Mary's Guild performed a small piece called, "A Love of a Bonnet," and S. John's Guild contributed some singing. The Rector made a short address congratulating the Parish on the harmony among its members, and urging all to do everything they could to advance its interests.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL, will continue during June, the Children's Service beginning as usual at 2.30 P. M. The sessions of the School will be discontinued during July and August, recommencing with the first Sunday in September.

THE NEWS.—There will be no issue of the NEWS during July and August.

RULES OF THE CHURCH, Etc.

HOLY BAPTISM.

Baptism is not to be deferred longer than the first or second Sunday next after the child's birth.

Without great cause or necessity, children should not be baptized at their homes. If the child which is baptized in a house do afterwards live, it is to be brought to the Church, that the child may be received into the Church as one of the flock of true Christian people.

For every male child there shall two Godfathers, and one Godmother; and for every female, two Godmothers and one Godfather.

When any persons of riper years are to be baptized, they are to be sufficiently instructed in the Principles of the Christian Religion, and exhorted to prepare themselves with Prayer and Fasting for the receiving of this Holy Sacrament.

OFFERTORY.

"Be merciful after thy power. If thou hast much give plenteously; if thou hast little, do thy diligence gladly to give of that little; for so gatherest thou thyself a good reward in the day of necessity.

PARTIES IN THE CHURCH.

It is in the Church very much as it is in the State, there are always parties. Since our nation was founded there have always been at least two great political parties, sometimes more. Now one of these parties is in the ascendant, now the other, electing the President and other officers of the government, and generally directing its policy.

Though both are thoroughly loyal to the nation, agreeing in believing in the great principles of republican government, they, nevertheless, differ in the modes of applying or carrying out those principles, or on certain great lines of policy. And the members of these parties, though they work against each other and vote against each other, still are very good friends and dwell together in harmony, and each submits to and upholds the government for the time being, by whichever party it is controlled.

Now, so it has been in the Church. There have always been different schools of thought in the Church, different conceptions of the Church, different theories in regard to it and its work and teachings. And persons belonging to these different schools naturally do all they can to teach and enforce their own views. And now sometimes one and sometimes another is in the ascendency, has its views generally accepted. And though there are these differences, yet all may be equally loyal to the Church, and conscientious in trying to carry out and teach what each thinks to be the truth. And all should dwell together in love and harmony. For the differences generally are not about vital matters, that is, things which are of faith. For there are, of course, certain things about which there can be no difference. Just as a man could not be a loyal citizen of the United States unless he accepted a republican form of government. So, unless one accepts the fundamental teachings of the Christian faith, as contained, for instance, in the Creeds, he cannot call himself a Christian or belong to the Christian Church. He may be a very good man or a very learned man, but he is not a Christian.

But beyond those fundamental things, which every one must accept to be a Christian at all, there is a vast number of matters in regard to which it is perfectly legitimate to differ and hold different opinions. There are many things, for instance, connected with religion which are matters of taste; one likes a great deal of music in divine worship and an ornate service, another does not care for music and prefers a simple form of service; one puts a great stress upon Church organization and authority, another looks upon religion almost entirely as a personal affair.

Now, there are a great many questions which are speculative and mystical, and about which there have always been differences of opinion in the Church. On such points as these it is perfectly natural and lawful that there should be differences, and that the persons holding these varying views should associate themselves more or less in parties.

It is far better that they should do so than that they should separate from each other, and go out of the Church on account of them. That was what was done in this country when the doctrine of secession was taught, and it was claimed that each State, if its members did not agree with the beliefs of those in the other States, could go off and form a government by themselves. But that doctrine would have destroyed the nation. So, some Christians think that if all the members of the Church do not agree in every particular, they can separate from their fellows and form a new Church. And that doctrine has been just as injurious and destructive to the Church as it would have been in the State. It has given rise to all the various sects, or denominations of Christians, and has done more to weaken and retard the progress of the Church than anything else.

But all should recognize that there are certain great essential principles and truths which all Christians must accept, but that outside of those there is room for legitimate differences of opinion and preference, and that though differing in those matters all Christians should dwell together in one Communion and fellowship, and live in peace and harmony, just as the members of the great political parties in this country differ from each other, and yet are equally loyal citizens, and are peaceable and friendly to each other.

There is no lesson so necessary to be learned as this. And this is the great difference between the Episcopal Church and other religious bodies. While it insists upon unity in essentials, it allows liberty in non-essentials. And so, though there are different parties in the Church, its members all belong to one body and dwell together in harmony. Whereas, in other denominations they hold that unless their members agree in everything, they must separate from each other and form new sects.

Christ intended His Church to be catholic, that is to embrace all creatures. But He did not mean that there must be absolute uniformity, that all must think alike in everything or have the same tastes. And no Church can be really catholic unless it recognizes and allows these principles. So we must not look upon parties in the Church as necessarily wrong, so long as their differences are kept within legitimate limits.

PARISH NOTES.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The Children's Service and Sunday School will be resumed on the first Sunday of this month; also the Male Bible Class. We hope to see a good attendance at both.

THE SMOKER given by the Men's Guild early in June, the second occasion of the kind, was more successful than the first. Over sixty men were present. They were regaled with cigars as well as pipes, and ice cream and cake. The Rev. Mr. Thomas took the place of his brother, Mr. George C. Thomas, who had been expected to make an address. The Rev. Mr. Bunting, Assistant at the Church of the Holy Apostles, also spoke, and there was some very good singing by some members of the choir and others. We think these occasions are very useful in bringing the male members of the Parish together, and making them acquainted with each other. We hope they will be repeated.

THE MEMORIAL TABLET to the late Mr. Spencer Ervin, of which we spoke in our last issue, has been made and placed on the west wall of the Church. This consists of a brass shield, surmounted by a raised cross, on a square of black marble, with his name, date of birth and death, and a text from Holy Scripture. It is an ornament to the Church, and we would like to see such memorials multiplied. In old times, when people were buried in the Church, monuments, or at least slabs with suitable inscriptions were naturally placed over them. And though this is no longer done, still it is well to put tablets on the walls and other memorials to the dead in our Churches. They not only keep their memory more alive than a monument in a distant cemetery, which is seldom visited, but hallow the Church; they make it different from any other place, and make the worshippers think of the solemnity of death, and set before them the good examples of those who have gone before. For so new a Church building as ours, we are fortunate in possessing as many such memorials as we have, and we trust they will be multiplied in the future.

ROBBERY.—Again our Church has been the subject of a petty theft. One day last month a man came into the Church and told the caretaker that the sexton had left a bundle in the vestry, which he told him to call for, and going into the vestry wrapped up in paper a pretty Swiss clock, which the Rev. Dr. Batterson had some years ago presented to the Church, and walked off with it. The police and pawnbrokers have been notified, but so far the clock has not been recovered. We had hoped that by always having some one in the Church while it was open we had provided against the possibility of such depredations, but it is hard to foresee the devices to which bad people will resort to accomplish their purposes.

LAY READER.—The Rector was indebted to Mr. Harry J. Childs, who has lately become a member of our Parish, for assisting him as a lay reader during the absence of the Assistant Minister in July and August. He read the Lessons at the Sunday services, and took regularly one of the week-day services.

DEATH OF MRS. KEYS.—We note last month the death of the widow of the late Dr. Roger Keys, so long the faithful accounting warden of this Parish. The Rector was much distressed that owing to the failure of the prompt delivery of a telegram he was unable to officiate at the funeral.

Freewill Offerings in Free and Open Churches.

Most, if not all of the readers of this little paper probably thoroughly appreciate the advantages of a free and open Church. But it is necessary to say a word about the corresponding duties which these advantages entail. One hears a good deal just now about offertories falling below their usual level. No doubt this admits of a partial explanation. Times have been bad with many of us, but in spite of this, no one can go so far as to deny that there must be many who attend free Churches who hardly realize the obligations of freewill offerings in return for the privilege, and the duty that clearly rests on people who avail themselves of accommodations to make some return in their support. As a matter of principle, we all acknowledge the duty of giving; of not entering the courts of the Lord with empty hands; of making offerings of our substance, as a sign and token that we are desirous of making the still more important oblation of ourselves. Every one would also admit the general principles which should govern all almsgiving that is acceptable to God. It must be free: for "freely ye have received," therefore, "freely give" (St. Matt. x. 8). It must be willing: for "if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted" (2 Cor. viii. 12). It must be unostentatious: for "let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth" (St. Matt. vi. 3). It must be systematic and regular, for so the apostle commanded his converts: "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him" (1 Cor. xvi. 2). It must be offered in hearty love and charity: for "though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing" (1 Cor. xiii. 3).

It is clear that the regular weekly offertory supplies the very best way in which we may carry out these precepts of Christ and His apostles. There is no other method so fair, so regular, so unostentatious, so self-adjusting. And it has the special advantage of being exactly the system which the great Apostle recommended and prescribed.

Then, again, with regard to the objects of our charity. In most Churches a careful selection is, or at any rate should be made of the purposes for which our gifts are asked and gathered. Offertories in Church fall naturally into two great divisions—special appeals and ordinary Church purposes. The special appeals, for which set times and special envelopes may be provided, should cover such weighty and undoubted claims as the support of home and foreign missions; the support of Church schools and religious education in all its varied forms; the building of Churches, or the improvement of the fabrics of those already built; or the medical or other local charities of the place in which we dwell. The ordinary collections are usually mainly devoted to these three great ends: the support of the ministry, the help of the poor, and the provision of the countless requisites for dignified and well-ordered public worship. We are all well aware that in some cases endowments exist to help in keeping up these great objects. But in most other cases there is no such endowment fund. It is quite time, then, that we all recognized the plain duty of voluntary effort, and that the freewill offerings of the congregation are often the only fund on which we can rely. Whoso is wise will ponder these things, and recognize his bounden duty in this matter. —From the Free and Open Church Advocate.

God offers us an occasion when ever He brings us to see

"A wrong that needs resistance,
A right that needs assistance,"

He offers us an occasion whenever we may comfort the sad or cheer the lonely, or check the foolish or uphold the sinking. When desponding thoughts or faithless fears beset us He offers us an occasion to rise above them. To lie racked with pain is His occasion for patience. To draw near the entrance of the Dark Valley is His occasion for the calm assurance which says, "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him!" In short, the worthy life is simply that which in its degree rises to God's occasions as He offers, doing whatsoever its hand findeth to do—ready "to turn itself to anything."

LOW CHURCH.

We spoke in our last issue of the fact of there always being parties in the Church. Let us consider now what those parties are—what are their characteristics and principles—that we may have an intelligent idea of them, and see with which we should ourselves be affiliated?

First let us consider the Low Church party? What is meant by that? As the term implies, it designates those who take a "low" view of the church, ministry, sacraments, etc. That is, its members think that religion is essentially a matter of the heart and belief, and that every thing connected with it which is external is comparatively of little importance. So they look upon all outward organizations or forms as more or less matters of indifference. They do not think it matters whether the church is Episcopal or Presbyterian or Congregational or what not. The government of the church is only a matter of expediency or choice. So, while it uses the sacraments, it looks upon them only as signs of a faith and goodness already possessed, and not as means of grace, and so does not attach any special reverence to them. So, church-going is to them valuable only as the preacher is eloquent or the soul is devout. And it is very much opposed to all forms or ritual, believing that they tend to a formal or mechanical view of religion and teach false doctrine.

This school arose in the Church soon after the Reformation. It gained its ideas from the Protestants on the Continent of Europe, where the Reformation was carried to much greater extremes than it was in England. Instead of simply reforming the abuses which had grown up in the Church in the course of centuries, it ran to the extreme of overturning the whole character which the Church had had from the beginning. It adopted new forms of government, invented a new mode of worship, set forth new doctrines and theories which had never been heard of before. Many of the clergy and laity of the English Church having been driven to the Continent during the Marian persecution were thrown in with these Protestants, and naturally imbibed their ideas. They came to think that the Reformation had not been carried far enough in England and did all they could to carry it on to these extremes. It was this party that finally led to the great rebellion in England, in which the Church of England was for a time overthrown, its bishops and clergy banished, its churches destroyed or mutilated and the use of the Prayer Book proscribed.

And though at the restoration of the monarchy the Church was again restored, still this party was very numerous and exerted great influence, affecting largely the teaching and the practice of the Church for many years. Then followed a period of deadness and decadence, during which the Broad Church or Latitudinarian party was in the ascendant. But at the close of the last century arose what was known as the evangelical revival. This came from the influence of the Methodists who arose in the Church of England. John Wesley, their founder, lived and died a priest of the Church. And though after his death some of his followers separated from the church and formed the sect of Methodist, others stayed in the Church and on until the middle of this century they formed the predominant party in the Church. This was a revival of the Low Church in its best and highest form. And we undoubtedly owe much to it in the cultivation of real vital piety and true spiritual religion after the coldness and impurity of the Georgian period.

Of late years, however, it has been declining, in fact its influence as a party has almost entirely gone, both in England and in this country, the High Church and the Broad Church being the prevailing parties now. There are, however, many Low Church men, and many Low Church ideas are held still. This is seen in the number of churches where the service is very plain, where there is seldom any service except two of a Sunday, and the Holy Communion is only occasionally celebrated, and then as a service which only a few devout ones are expected to attend.

Low Churchism if followed to its logical consequences would lead to Quakerism, the giving up of any ministry, the disuse of all sacraments or forms. But many inconsistently do not carry it so far.

But as a school it is manifest it can never build up the Church, as it sees so little difference between one denomination and another and so little use of what the Church has to give.

We may admire its individual members for the beauty and purity of their characters and for their adherence to the great doctrines of the Gospel, but we find them generally very narrow and prejudiced, unable to see any good outside their own views and very intolerant of those who differ from them. And believing that their principles can never lead to the bringing of Christians together in one body, but rather to further separations—for it was this party that produced the Reformed Episcopal sect—we cannot regret the decline of its influence in the Church.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—The Rector has received a very handsome new cassock in remembrance of a deceased parishioner. Five books have been given to the Sunday School library and four collection bags for the offertory.

WINTER SERVICES.—As usual all our Winter services begin with this month. The Sunday 4 P. M. and 7.45 P. M. services, the daily 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. prayers, and the Wednesday evening service. We hope our people will try and attend the week-day services better than they have hitherto. They ought to be regarded as privileges of which one should gladly avail oneself of.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.—We regret to say that our Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. Mayne, having removed with his family to Bristol, Pa., finds it impossible to come into town every Sunday. He will, however, retain his position, and come in as often as possible, and Mr. Welsh will take the place of Assistant Superintendent and act in his absence.

GUILD ANNIVERSARY.—The annual meeting of the Women's Guild of the Parish occurs this month on SS. Simon and Jude's Day. All the female Communicants of the Parish are considered members of this Guild, and are asked to attend this annual meeting, when the reports of the different branches for the past year are read, and work arranged for the coming season. The Rector begs all the women of the Parish to take at least so much interest in its work as to attend this meeting, which is held immediately after the 10 A. M. service.

THE POOR AND THE SCHOOLS OF THE PARISH.—The extra envelopes sent out for six months, from May to November in each year, in this parish, are for the poor, and the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools. We trust all who have received them will be careful to make an offering for these purposes through them. And we want especialy to point out to those who do not use the envelopes for their offerings for the support of the Church, that unless they take envelopes for these and other benevolent objects from the rack near the door of the Church, or use envelopes of their own, marking on them their object, they will not be contributing at all to these purposes.

In all Churches which are supported by pew rents, there are always special collections for these objects, and almost every one contributes through them. But in a Church such as ours, where all the collections are for the support of the Church, unless one does as we have said above, or makes use of the alms boxes in the vestibule, he will not be giving anything to purposes which certainly have a claim on his charity. Will not our people remember this, and be careful to give, not only to the support of the Church, but to these things as well.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL will reopen as usual on the first Saturday in November, and we shall be wanting some new teachers for it. The Rector would especially like to know whether there is any one in the congregation who could undertake a class in wood carving, as the teacher who has had this class for some years has removed from the Parish.

THE GLEANERS.—There are still a number of "Gleaners," of which the Rector has the list, which have not been returned. If those who have them think they can still fill them, they can keep them until they do; if not, let them return them with what they have been able to collect. And the Rector has others to give out to whoever is willing to take them. We still have that debt to work off.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—Mrs. J. C. Clark has resigned her position as Superior of S. Mary's Guild, finding that she cannot give the time to the discharge of its duties. The Rector has appointed in her place Miss Barrington, who has so long been treasurer of the Guild and to a great extent assisted the Superior, and who is therefore already familiar with it as its members are with her.

THE VESTRY CLOCK, which was stolen during the Summer, has not been recovered. Is there any one in the Congregation who would like to replace it with another?

THE NEWS.—We want to press all whose subscriptions to this paper are due to pay them promptly, that we may pay for the printing and other expenses. Put the fifty cents in an envelope with your name and address. Write on it "ASCENSION NEWS," and drop it in an alms box or hand it to the sexton.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

ECCLESIASTICAL NOMENCLATURE has floored many an ambitious reporter. The other day, a Western paper, in a small town, announced that the Rector of the Episcopal Church was about to resign from the rubric, and become an honorary chasuble.—New York Tribune.

The Bicycle and Sunday Observance.

Our Rector recently sent the following letter to one of our Church papers in response to a question as to what shall be done about the bicycle and Sunday observance.

To the Editor of The Church Standard:

As both you and your correspondent, S. D. McC., ask for suggestions as to a solution of the question of the effect of the modern bicycle upon Sunday observance, will you allow me to say that it seems to me that the only possible way of meeting it is by insisting upon the inviolable moral obligations involved in the Fourth Commandment. That Commandment is an intrinsic part of the eternal moral code which can neither be enlarged nor curtailed. Its obligations are that all men should have one day in seven; first, for rest from work, not from recreation, for that may often be the very best and most needed kind of rest required; and, second, for attention to spiritual things, the cultivation of the spiritual life. If a man neglects this observance, his physical nature will suffer, as any machine would be injured by being overworked, and his moral being will become dwarfed or atrophied. If you admit these moral obligations, but say that it is arbitrary to insist upon attention to them in this proportion of one day in seven, the answer is, no more so than the hours required for rest and labor in every twenty-four. Some definite time must be appointed for them, and human experience substantiates the Divine prescription of this proportion.

This being so, it is manifest that to give all of Sunday to rest or recreation, or, on the other hand, as the Puritans did, to religious exercises, is to prevent in each case the fulfilment of the other obligation in the commandment. What the Church has to insist on is that both shall be attended to.

Now, as regards the bicycle, it is manifest that there can be no more sin in riding on a wheel on Sunday than in walking on one's feet, and that it may be a very useful, innocent, and healthy form of recreation, hence of rest, giving needed exercise and change of scene and thought. But if one rides all day, not only would these ends not be conserved, but the fulfilment of the other obligation of attending to spiritual concerns would be prevented. This latter obligation can only be efficiently fulfilled by attendance on public religious worship. Hence the moral duty of such attendance, which the Church always has and always must insist on, and which to every thinking mind is just as necessary to the life and growth of the soul as taking food is to the body. But this being performed, one is free to use all the rest of the day for recreation, and he can ride all the time if he chooses to do so and finds it healthful. Surely no one can or would want to ride all the day. Let one ride as long as he likes, and there will still be time left for one attendance, if not two, on public worship. And that no one may say that the hours set for Church services are those he needs for riding, let the Church have services at all hours, early and late. This will add greatly to the labors of the clergy, it is true. But for many classes of people, besides bicycle riders, it is impossible to attend Church at the conventional hours to which Protestant worship has so long been limited; so that, in providing more frequent services, the clergy will be doing only what is their duty, to try and reach all.

Let "bicycle rests," too, be provided, especially in country churches, and thus riders encouraged to go to Church in their bicycle clothes. This will not only make it easier for them to go to Church, but tend to break up that prevalent Protestant idea, which has kept many a soul from Church, that no one can go there except in the very finest attire.

To teach these principles and make these provisions seems to me the very best, and only way of meeting this latest problem in Church experience.

G. Woolsey Hodge.

From the Rubrics.

Office for Private Baptism.—The Minister of every Parish shall often admonish the people that they defer not the Baptism of their children longer than the first or second Sunday next after their birth or other Holy day following between, unless upon a great and reasonable cause.

And also he shall warn them, that without like great cause and necessity, they procure not their children to be baptised at home in their houses.

BROAD CHURCH.

As the term imports, this designation is applied to those who are very liberal or lax, both in their views and practice. It first appeared in the Church of England after the Restoration, and continued on till the rise of the Methodists. It was a time when there was much indifference to religion and laxness of living. It was the era of the fox-hunting parson, and when almost all persons were hard drinkers and hard swearers; when the Church was looked upon chiefly as a department of the State, whose offices were sought for the living they afforded, and of which only the absolutely required duty was performed. Such men had not very deep convictions as to religious truth, were inclined to Socinianism or Deism, and so known as Latitudinarians. It was not a period of the Church's history of which anyone need be proud. It was happily superseded by Evangelicalism, but when it, in time, began to decay, the Broad Church had a new and better revival. Its modern adherents have been men of correct lives and earnest spirit, and sincere searchers after truth, and whose aim has been the high one of trying to reach and embrace all men. But they have been men of sceptical minds, who insist upon trying to understand all things and refusing to believe in what they cannot understand. They constitute the rationalistic school, which follows only scientific methods in dealing with religious truths. They have little reverence for authority or antiquity; they consider themselves better judges than they of old time; they follow the critical method in studying Scripture, and rely on modern advancement and discovery more than on anything else. They eliminate as far as possible all belief in the supernatural; explain away, or refuse to accept altogether, the miraculous in Scripture, and attribute all phenomena, both in history and present experience, to mere naturalistic principles. Of course, such a party has very little respect for the Church as being in any real sense divine. They look upon the differences between the various religious bodies simply as questions of wisdom or expediency. And, of course, they attribute to the Sacraments nothing more than the effect produced by signs and symbols. Matters of belief and matters of religious observance are thus generally of supreme indifference, the whole stress of religion they lay upon correctness of life. A moral life is to them the essence of religion, and in insisting on it, they forget the necessity of correct belief as its source and foundation, and of outward instrumentalities and aids for its development and inspiration.

Carried to its logical conclusions it would end in agnosticism and materialism. But many stop far short of that, and the name is applied to men of every degree of belief or non-belief.

Some very distinguished men have belonged to this school of late years, and they have undoubtedly done great service in bringing Christian doctrine into more or less harmony with modern thought, making it possible for many to hold on to Christianity, who otherwise would have had to have given it up. The great principles for which they stand have undoubtedly affected all—except the most narrow—schools of thought. But their absolute disregard of all authority and reliance in all things upon mere human wisdom and power makes their teaching often most dangerous. They explain away or put the most forced constructions upon even the fundamental articles of the Creed, so that if they receive them at all, it is in a most unnatural sense. This process would soon eliminate all meaning and power from the Christian faith. Many, indeed, of this school do not profess to find Christianity essentially different from any other religion. All are to them equally the result of human development. Christ, though the highest, they regard as only a man. And the Scriptures they believe to be full of all sorts of inaccuracies and inconsistencies, absurdities and errors, so that it is very hard to distinguish what is of value from what is useless.

It is all very well to be liberal, and to use as far as we can our intellectual faculties, but there is a liberality which degenerates into licence, and man's unaided wisdom is unable to solve all the mysteries by which we are environed. And man's spirit is equally unable to walk aright without help and guidance. So humanity and experience should teach us to rely on aid outside ourselves, and we may be sure that God knowing our need of it has Himself supplied it.

But let us remember that there are Broad Churchmen and Broad Churchmen, some who are truly liberal and have really broad sympathies, but there are others whose teaching is disloyal and dangerous, the blind leading the blind.

PARISH NOTES.

Our Chairs.—Through the liberality of our Accounting Warden in supplying the varnish and the labor of our sexton in putting it on, all the chairs in the Church and Parish Building and some of our tables have been reoiled, which has greatly improved their appearance, the chairs having been in constant use for nearly twelve years without ever having had anything done to them.

Change of Days.—The Brotherhood of St. Andrew Chapter of our Parish will meet on the second and fourth Mondays of each month instead of Tuesdays as heretofore, so as not to interfere with the meetings of S. Mary's Guild, which now take place every Tuesday.

A Cooking Class has been organized of members of S. Mary's Guild, which will meet every Tuesday evening. This, we think, will prove very useful and interesting, and we trust will be largely attended. It will be taught by Mrs. Van Harlingen, one of our parishioners.

The Elocution Class will also be continued on Tuesday evenings.

S. Barnabas' Guild for nurses will meet hereafter the third Thursday of the month instead of the third Tuesday as heretofore.

These changes are to prevent so many different bodies meeting in the Parish building on the same night.

Singing Class.—Mrs. Spencer Ervin has kindly consented to teach a class in singing, composed of the members of S. John's Guild and others, on Thursday evenings this Winter.

Work Resumed.—The Industrial School, the Mothers' Meeting, the Embroidery Class and the Ladies' Aid resume their meetings with this month. Workers are needed in each of these departments.

Special Sermons.—At the request of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Rector proposes to deliver a course of sermons on the last Sunday evening of each month on some practical and social subjects. The subject of the sermon for the last Sunday evening of this month will be "Sunday and the Bicycle." This sermon was announced for the fourth Sunday evening of last month, but was postponed owing to inclemency of the weather, causing a very small attendance that evening.

The music at our Sunday night service we think will be much better this Winter. Our organist intends taking charge of it himself, and several soloists have promised their assistance.

Changes of Address.—The members of our congregation will be careful to let the clergy know of changes in their address. To show how necessary this is, the Rector and Assistant on making out their visiting lists for the coming Winter, noted no less than forty changes of residence, among persons attending the Church, since last Spring, to say nothing of those who have removed from the Parish, and doubtless there are others of which they have not heard.

Where Our People Live.—There are some sixty-eight families living south of Washington Avenue who attend our Church, some seventy between Washington Avenue and Pine Street, eighty-two between Pine and Market Streets, twenty-seven north of Market Street and seventeen in West Philadelphia. No wonder they are irregular in their attendance, and that we never get them all together on any one occasion, except Easter Day.

Monthly Missionary Meeting.—The women of the Parish having last Winter been constituted as a branch of the Women's Auxiliary Society to the Board of Missions, it was determined to hold a monthly meeting of the same on the first Friday of each month after morning prayer. The object of these meetings is to bring together those in the parish who are interested in Missions, to hear the reports of the several committees and to devise ways by which the work can be carried on.

We are sorry to say these meetings were very poorly attended. We suppose the reason of this is, first, because there is little real interest in missions. The interest many people have in their own Churches is largely a selfish one, it is from the good or the pleasure that they get out of them. It is not for the good they are doing to others. So, as there is absolutely nothing one can get for oneself out of missions, it is only the rare, unselfish ones that take interest in them.

But is this right? Is it consistent with our Christian profession? Do we belong to the Church simply for the good it may be to us, or are we enrolled in it also as members of Christ, aiming to carry on His work in the world as far as our influence can reach?

And there is another reason which keeps women away from these meetings, and that is because they are so terribly afraid of being asked for money. But one ought to consider it a favor to be told of ways in which one could profitably give one's money. It is not easy to know how to lay it out to the best advantage, and one ought to be glad to get all the information one can about the calls which are most deserving. And if one has not money to give there ought to be no shame in confessing it. It is neither a sin nor a disgrace. Frankly say so, and that is an end of it. No one will press you to give when you do not have anything to give. But if you came to these meetings and heard the appeals that are made, and the need of help that there is, perhaps you would become interested, and you would find that you could give more than you thought you could, or that in some way you could aid the great cause.

It would make a great difference in the work done by this Parish, if we could get even a goodly number of its women together at these monthly meetings. Let the women come and attend them, and we are sure they will become interested, and that they will find that they can do more than they thought they could.

THE BENEVOLENT ENVELOPE for this quarter is for Domestic Missions. It will be sent out with the Sunday envelopes to those who take them, and all others will find them in the rack near the Church door. This is the only way in which offerings are made in this Parish for Missions, except the collections made by the ladies.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE WOMAN'S GUILD.—Twenty of the some three hundred female Communicants of the Parish attended the annual meeting on SS. Simon and Jude's Day. It is simply impossible for any large benevolent and missionary work to be done by our Parish while there is so much apathy on the part of our members. And we think the few who do work and give, accomplish a great deal considering their numbers, as the forthcoming Year Book will show. After the reading of the reports and a statement of the needs of the work, several new appointments were made. Miss S. E. Gilpin takes the place of Mrs. Augustus Jackson on the Indian Committee. Miss Vogdes that of Mrs. Walter Cox on the Foreign. Miss Jordan will assist in the Mothers' Meeting, and Mrs. Van Harlingen will teach a class for S. Mary's Guild.

Woman's Auxiliary Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions will be held in Holy Trinity Church, Nineteenth and Walnut streets, on Thursday, November 18th. Holy Communion at 10.30 o'clock. Addresses will be made by Bishop Abiel Leonard, on Domestic Missions; by Archdeacon Page, of Osaka, Japan, on Foreign Missions; by Rev. Sherman Coolidge, on Missions among the Indians, and by Rev. W. V. Tunnell, on Missions among the Freedmen.

A SALE

The ladies of St. Stephen's Church will hold their Annual Sale for the benefit of gentlewomen of limited means, at the Parish House, 10th street above Chestnut, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 11th, 12th and 13th, from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.

The articles on sale will be, as heretofore, the handiwork of gentlewomen of restricted means, and will include fancy articles, needlework, preserves, jellies, etc. Any ladies who desire to do so can send articles to be disposed of. All expense is borne by the Committee, so that the full amount received is realized by the depositors.

The ladies in charge beg the hearty co-operation of the charitable in the carrying on of this good work.

HIGH CHURCH.

This term is applied to those who have a high appreciation of the Church, its ministry, sacraments and ordinances. They believe our blessed Lord came not only to preach a doctrine, but to establish an institution, which should be His body and representative, and carry on His work on earth. They think that it is necessary not only to believe, but to be baptized, become members of that Church, and seek through it the assistance men need to enable them to do God's will and carry out His designs.

So, they look upon the Church as a Divine organization, not a mere human device, and that it is of great importance to preserve its unity and purity; that it is not a matter of little importance to which Church one belongs, but that great care should be taken to belong to and preserve the identical body Christ Himself formed. And they think that everything about that Church is of importance; that Christ could not have enjoined anything unless it was necessary, and so, that the sacraments and other things which Christ ordained should be celebrated and received with the greatest care and regularity. They look upon them not as mere signs and symbols of a grace already possessed, but, as the Catechism teaches, means whereby grace is received.

And so they think that every thing connected with the celebration of the sacraments or worship of the Church should be conducted with the greatest care and solemnity. They like more or less ritual, believing it of value to preserve the right estimation and reverence for the rites of the Church, as well as appropriate and elevating.

This is the party in the Church which is most in accord with and loyal to the teachings of the Prayer Book and the principles of the Reformation, as it was conducted in England, in opposition to the more radical movement in other places, which led to the actual overthrow of the ancient Church and all things connected with it.

Its principles are most fully set forth in the first English Prayer Book of Edward VI. And though in subsequent revisions Protestant influences more or less affected it, still its great principles are unaltered and are in accord with the teachings of this school in regard to the character of the ministry, and the importance and solemnity of the sacraments and ordinances of the Church.

This school was in the ascendant at the beginning of the Reformation, and was favored by Elizabeth, James I, and Charles I, but was depressed by the great Rebellion, and by the foreign and latitudinarian influences which came in with the Restoration, and the Presbyterian William, and the Dutch Georges. And, with the short exception of the reign of Queen Anne, it was not until nearly the middle of this century that it revived through what was known as the Oxford or Tractarian movement. Since then its progress and influence in the Church has been most wonderful. In the last fifty years it has simply transformed the Church of England, and is to-day the dominant power in it. Cathedrals and churches which had been neglected and allowed to fall into ruins, have been beautifully restored at an enormous cost. New bishopries have been founded at home and abroad. The worship of the Church from being carelessly and slovenly performed, has been brought up to the standard of the Prayer Book, the Holy Eucharist restored to its rightful position as the central and most important act of worship, surpliced choirs introduced into parish churches, and the ancient vestments, lights and other accessories of Catholic worship introduced. And with all this has come increased earnestness and devotion and activity in church work, such as has not been since the Reformation.

In this country the first Bishops were Low or Broad Church, but, with the consecration of Bishop Hobart, of New York, the High Church movement began and has been increasing ever since. Although bitterly opposed and reviled by those who could not distinguish it from Roman Catholicism, it has steadily grown in power and influence until it is now the predominating party in the Church. It has affected the teaching and practice even of the other schools and of numbers of other denominations. Things, like the sign of the cross, the use of vestments, the singing of the service, which a few years ago would not have been tolerated for a moment, are now universally accepted and thought nothing of, while the multiplication of services and of all sorts of Church instrumentalities has accomplished enormous results in extending the Church and making its influence felt.

There is still, however, a great deal yet to be done in removing prejudice and misapprehensions, in enforcing Church teaching and bringing all of our parishes up to the standard the Prayer Book sets before them.

To be a Churchman should be synonymous with being a High Churchman, and every one who has had the privilege of being born in the Church or taught what it is, should appreciate and love it, and be earnest in trying to derive from it all the blessings it can give, and in trying to carry those blessings to all for whom they were intended.
